VACATION VOTED MISS UNDERWOOD

In Recognition of Service of Fifty-Five Years as Public School Teacher

Open Competition for New School House Plans

MISS JULIA E. UNDERWOOD
Who Began Teaching in Quincy, April 1855.

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening. Mr. Barker was the only absent member. John D. McKay, who was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dexter E. Wadsworth, was present and took his seat as a member of the committee. He was assigned by the chairman to the places on the sub-committees held by Mr. Wadsworth. These were on the Coddington, John Hancock, Lincoln, Washington, and Wollaston schools, and on text books, and evening schools.

SCHOOL PLANS.

After a long discussion it was voted to have open competition for school house plans, and the Superintendent was authorized to advertise for plans for an eight-room brick building with granite trimmings for Montclair, the building to be so arranged that it can be enlarged. Plans to be submitted to the committee not later than June 15.

The contract for rebinding school books was awarded to Michelson Bros.

The subject of changing the storm signals was referred to the committee on rules.

CHANGES IN TEACHERS.

The following resignations were accepted:

P. H. Landers of the High school.

Miss Alice E. Webb of the Coddington.

Miss Delia E. Burke of the Quincy.

The following transfers of teachers were made:

Miss Clara Merrill, from the Lincoln to the Quincy school.

Miss Olive V. Bicknell, from the Washington to the Lincoln school.

Miss Bertha Kinnayer, from the Quincy to the High school.

VACATION GRANTED.

In recognition of the long and faithful services of Miss Julia E. Underwood as a teacher of the Coddington school, it was voted that she be sent a letter expressing the appreciation of the School committee for her service of 55 years in the public schools of Quincy, and that she be granted a leave of absence during the coming year at half salary.

FINANCES.

The financial statement to June 1 was as follows:

GRANITE MEN AND FORESTERS

Attend Funeral of Michael Owens the ex-Councilman

The funeral of ex-Councilman Michael Owens, who was one of Quincy's well known granite manufacturers, was held this morning from his late home, 64 Willard street, and was followed by a high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. The services at the church were very largely attended, Mayor Shea and several city officials being present in addition to delegations from St. Francis court, M. C. O. F., and the Granite Manufacturers' Association. Mass was celebrated by Rev. William Duffy and the Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Mary McKay, organist. After the elevation, Mrs. J. L. Fennessey sang "Pie Jesu." The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery, the bearers being P. W. Mannix, Edward Finn, James Doyle, Michael Lyons, John McDonald and John F. Burke. There were many beautiful flowers including set pieces from St. Francis court and the Granite Manufacturers' Association.

DINNER TO GEN. BLACK.

General Thomas R. Mathews entertained a distinguished company of veterans last week at his residence, Fenno street, Wollaston. The occasion was a dinner complimentary to General John C. Black, chairman of the Civil Service commission and Past National Commander of the G. A. R., who journeys from Washington to deliver the Memorial day oration to the members of Edward W. Kingsley Post 113 at Tremont Temple. Among those present were: Hon. William M. Olin, Secretary of State, Hon. J. Stearns Cushing of the Governor's Council, General Nathaniel Wales, Major Albion P. Pease, Colonel R. H. Patterson, C. A. C., U. S. A., commanding the defenses of Boston harbor, Major Charles B. Amory, Colonel Edward Anderson.

NEW WARD IN USE.

On Monday the patients in the women's ward at the Quincy City Hospital were transferred to the new ward in the Rive pavilion also several private patients are occupying the new rooms. It is certainly a most attractive place to be ill in if one is so unfortunate as to be ill at at all. The private rooms with the restful green walls, and simple attractive furniture combined with the pleasant outlook from the windows should prove conducive to the quick convalescence of the patients. The main ward and sun room are unusually attractive. The pavilion and its equipment is far ahead of that of most hospitals and Quincy is indeed fortunate in the continued generosity of the Rice family, founders of the Hospital.

ROBERT D. MORRISON.

The funeral Tuesday afternoon from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison 97 North street of their son Robert D. aged 20 years was marked by a large attendance of relatives, friends and fellow workmen, which proved that the young man was greatly respected and loved among all.

Rev. Albert Thompson, was assisted in prayer by the Rev. M. Marshall.

The collection of flowers was large and beautiful, being as follows:

Pillow from father, mother, brothers and sister.

Cut flowers from Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Lawrencen, aunt and uncle.

Sprays of flowers from Mr. and Mrs. R. Menzie, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. A. MacIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Prouty and Mrs. Not, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Foster.

Wreaths from Mr. Coughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Dauphinie, Washington Social Club, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barry and family.

Cross from Mrs. H. Smith and sons. Pillow from Bobbie's Friends.

Pedestal from Comrades Electrical Department.

The parents of the deceased appreciate the kindness bestowed upon their dearly beloved son and also the services of the young men who bore the body to its last resting place.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered to Walter Hill of Atlantic on Saturday night, when about fifteen of his friends, including some of the members o the degree staff of the George L. Gill Rebekah lodge met at his home to help him celebrate his birthday.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed in the playing of games. Mrs. Philbrick won first prize at "Hearts," while Mrs. Woods won second prize.

Miss Bernice Clark in behalf of the degree staff of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge presented Mr. Hill with an umbrella in appreciation of his work as outside guardian of the lodge. Mr Hill responded and thanked those present for their kind remembrance of his birthday and for their presence.

Among those present were: Miss Bernice Clark, Miss Edith Spargo and Miss Hilda Francis of West Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. R. Woods of East Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Philbrick, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. James Baker of Atlantic, Mr. and Mrs. Ela of Wollaston, Mrs. S. DeForest of South Quincy, Miss Margaret Shirley of Quincy Point, Mr. and Mrs. Hill and son George, and Mrs. Hill's cousin Miss Ethel Gardner who is spending the holidays with them.

NEW TIMETABLES ON SUNDAY NEXT

Grand Shake-Up on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and the Street Railway

Anxiety About Retention of Present Express Trains

The new timetable on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. which goes into effect Sunday has made necessary a number of changes in the local street railway running time and several important changes in the street car service will go into effect Sunday morning. It is said that nearly every train both inward and outward will run at a different time from the present schedule. That Quincy trains which have been leaving Boston at 27 and 57 minutes past the hour, will leave at 15 and 45 minutes past the hour, and similar changes will be made in inward trains.

The principal changes on the street railway lines will be made on the East Weymouth, Houghs Neck, Weymouth Landing and Norfolk Downs lines.

On the East Weymouth route cars will leave the Quincy depot at 5 and 35 minutes past the hour on the arrival of trains. Returning they will leave East Weymouth at 15 and 45 minutes past the hour arriving in Quincy on the hour and half hour. This line of cars will continue to make good connections with all trains to and from Boston.

On the Houghs Neck line cars will leave Quincy at 10 and 40 minutes past the hour, and returning will leave Houghs Neck at 5 and 35 minutes past the hour.

On the Weymouth Landing line the change is an important one. This line of cars will run through to Neponset via Norfolk Downs, leaving City Square on the hour and half hour. On the return this line of cars will leave Neponset at 5 and 35 minutes past the hour, and will leave City Square for Weymouth Landing on the hour and half hour. This will give Norfolk Downs half hour service.

There will be no change on the West Quincy, East Milton and Brockton lines.

Commuters on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. are anxious to learn whether they are to retain the present express trains like those leaving for Boston at 7.29, 8.31, 9.00, 10.01 and 11.03 A. M., and 12.01, 12.59, 3.05, 4.03, 4.59 and 6.10 P. M.; and also the trains from Boston at 7.52, 8.45, 9.43 and 11.43 A. M., and 12.45, 1.43, 2.40, 3.43, 4.12 and 5.15 P. M. They are hoping also for better train service to Boston between 3 and 4 P. M. and between 7 and 7.30 P. M., also from Boston between 9 and 12 P. M. The Daily Ledger may announce the new timetable tomorrow.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

"Every day in the year ought to be a mother's day," says the Philadelphia Inquirer. It is. Ask mother.

"Is the tariff a moral issue?" asks the Baltimore Sun. We fear not—altogether, anyhow. It is toomuch alive.

How to enjoy a tour of Europe: do not go until after you have been President of the United States.

"A college education is not necessarily fatal to success," says Uncle Joe Cannon. Neither is being Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Senator Lorimer's declaration that he has no idea of resigning his seat is not surprising. When a man pays out a lot of good money for a good thing, far be it from him to give it away.

We have heard many favorable comments on the very successful observance of Memorial day by the Grand Army of this city. Each year there seems to be new features and an increasing interest in the day, and it is the Grand Army and not the base ball games which draw the crowds. As an object lesson Memorial day is of educational value, and it is very pleasing to note that recent immigrants from Italy, Sweeden, Finland and other countries are as much interested as many whose parents were native born. The parade on the afternoon of Memorial day was the best in recent years, several organizations taking part, and each making a good appearance.

Although the day was threatening, and the morning was showery, thousands assembled at Mt. Wollaston cemetery in the afternoon, but not one in ten could hear any of the addresses. About the Soldiers' Monument and other lots where services were held we noticed people trying to protect the graves of loved ones from desecration, and this emphasizes the importance of some new arrangements for exercises at the cemetery. Efforts to relocate the Soldiers Monument have been unsuccessful, but why not utilize "the green" between the Unknown Lot and the street for the principal exercises. Use the lot itself as a platform and have the speakers face Sea street, with a clear space in front of them. The Grand Army and other organizations could be arranged on both sides of the speakers but not crowded about them too closely. Such an arrangement would not be ideal but would be a great improvement over arrangements in the past, and would allow a much larger number to hear the addresses.

DRIFT OF OPINION

At this season of the year householders' thoughts turn naturally to lawns and back yards, and there is a general desire to have clean and ornamental surroundings. In South Framingham, unfortunately in many instances the desire is not strong enough to produce results. A man who beautifies his front lawn is a public benefcator. He no doubt gets some satisfaction out of his effort and expense, but every passer enjoys the result of his effort, and the whole neighborhood is benefitted. When the effort extends to the back yard the number of individuals benefited is not so great, but perhaps the enjoyment by the smaller number is more intense. No one enjoys a dirty back yard, and every person who sees one from a window forms an unfavorable opinion of the householder who permits an unsightly accumulation of misplaced matter in his environment. A clean or ornate front lawn is more common than a clean and ornate back yard, yet nothing will better repay effort than a trim back yard. It can be made to produce grass and flowers instead of tin cans, ash heaps and useless wood, and the removal of house hold debris is a sanitary precaution as well as an esthetic demonstration.—Framingham News.

QUINCY Y. M. C. A.

The Association has just finished the most remarkable year in its history, both in point of business and in point of service.

After an unusually hard year—1908-09, we started last May with uncertainty and trepidation. The work was laid out and the budget planned upon an extremely conservative basis, hoping that business would revive so as to make it possible to carry out some radical plans for some time contemplated. The policy of the year has been closely followed with a few exception and the results are far reaching and encouraging. The first and greatest achievement of the year was the organization of the "Seven Day Campaign for $25,000," which is now a matter of history. One hundred and fifty of our busiest and ablest business men, young men boys and members of the Women's Auxiliary, accomplished the task in the given time with over $2,000 to spare greatly to the surprise of many and the satisfaction of all.

This was a victory for the city in no small sense for the city as a whole rose to the occasion and contributed toward the fund in handsome fashion. 1517 different contributions were made ranging in sums from $2700 down to one cent. There were 1050 at $5.00 and under and many of these were a real sacrifice for the giver but given nevertheless with a free and willing heart. Over $3,000 was paid in at the time and a total of $15,000 has been received in all up to April 30.

The results of the campaign have been far reaching, not only will the plant be entirely free from mortgage encumbrance in a few months (when the balance of the fund is paid) and the equipment completed according to the original plans with the running track and the handsome and thoroughly modern swimming pool, but new workers were discovered, courage was revived in old ones, and the association was placed in a position of confidence and of leadership.

MEMBERSHIP

During the year 684 different men and boys have been members, 428 men and 256 boys, in addition to this number 170 boys have been worked with regularly during the winter, making the total number worked for and with 850.

Some 50 left the city during their term of membership and 12 were transfered to other city associations. 236 new members were secured and 191 failed to renew. 23 different nationalities are represented and 13 different religious denominations, which indicates the broad character and scope of the work.

About one third of the membership are of the industrial class.

Various lines of service have been rendered members, such as securing employment, board and room, letters of introduction and recommendation written visits to sick and young men coming here from foreign country have been looked up and assisted.

BOYS' WORK.

The work has been carried on in the building in Wollaston, Atlantic and South Quincy and the effort includes Juniors, students and employed boys.

There has been a continued round of activity from the very first of the association year, May 1, when a base ball league of eight teams was conducted, later a sloyd school enrolling 60 boys was conducted in cooperation with the Women's Club and a camp for two weeks was enjoyed by 18 boys

The work in the building opened in true whirlwind fashion in the early fall. Two new extension clubs were started and the one conducted last year was continued with renewed spirit. All three have been successful beyond expectation and through the Bible classes, educational talks entertainments patriotic nights, religious meetings and various other attractions the boys of these clubs have developed in an all round way. The appointment by Judge Avery of the boys work director, Mr. Clee to the position of Probation Officer of Juveniles of this district enables us to reach these young offenders and assist them in making a new start for manly, honest lives.

In the building a new feature was introduced known as College nights and proved strikingly helpful to two score and more fellows of high school age.

Educational outings and outings for pleasure alone were conducted periodically, dramatics, socials of various nature helped keep up the social side of the work and brought the total attendance in this line to 2650.

The distinctly religious work has been a strong feature, 204 boys were enrolled in weekly bible classes. Sunday afternoon meetings for older boys which helped to maintain a spirit of service throughout the department.

The Saturday morning meetings for younger boys averaged 112 weekly for five months.

One hundred and forty boys between the age of 12 and 18 years were led to make decisions to lead a Christian life. 140 boys have done definite and continued committee service.

Parents and friends have been informed through "parent's nights."

In January a Survey of the boy life of the city was conducted which resulted in revealing many facts which will help in a intelligent and all-round work for all the boys of our city.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT.

The department has been under careful supervision and has shown good results. Weekly classes for all ages of boys and men have been conducted with a total attendance of 5814.

A scientific body building work has been maintained throughout the year and interest in athletics both indoor and outdoor, basket ball and other games have been fostered. The department has been substantially reenforced by the running track and the swimming pool both of which are greatly appreciated by all.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

In the educational department 97 different men and boys have been assisted in the line of supplimentary education. 5 subjects were taught. The reading rooms are maintained with 55 regular periodicals.

SOCIAL DEPARTRMENT.

Something of the volume of the work in the social line will be seen by the large number of social events 85 in all—suppers, dinners, breakfasts, banquets etc, which were given through the year. The total attendance of all of these events has been upwards of 5000.

The domitory has been a social center and is continually making a home for many young men. 70 different men have lived in the building during the year from various parts of this country and the world, the average number during the year has been 18.

The distinctly religious work of the association as a whole has been along safe and broad lines. Bible study is the foundation of it all and classes have been held for all ages and classes.

A Sunday morning dormitory class with breakfast was held for 13 weeks touching 21 different men, and a gymnasium leader corps class with 12 men, which makes a total of 238 men and boys in regular bible classes.

While influences are hard to measure we believe that scores of young men and boys have a more perfect idea of their relation to God and to men than they had a year ago and will always be thankful for the influences and contacts of the association.

The financial committee reports the property valued at $45,750. Present mortgage $9,000 reduced from $16,000 Insurance carried $36,000.

PLANS FOR NEW YEAR.

We shall hope to maintain the good work now in progress and should lay plans for the working out of the following.

First—the collection of the balance due on the Campaign fund and the burning of the mortgage not later then the beginning of the new year January 1911.

Second—to effect a more thorough organization of our religious work both within and without the building.

Third—a work for our foreign men, by establishing classes in instruction in various parts of our city.

Fourth—to extend yet further our Bible Classes for boys in cooperation with churches.

Fifth—to make a thorough study of the employed boy conditions and endeavor to better adapt our work to his needs.

Sixth—to endeavor to extend our work among High School boys and continue to push a campaign for clean living, clean speech, and clean sports.

Seventh—to cooperate with the Quincy Civic League the Playground Committee of One Hundred, The Juvenile Court and all other agencies working for the betterment of our city in physical or moral lines.

In closing the chronicle of a years' work we gratefully thank the many who have rendered royal service, so making the achievements possible, and to all who have contributed money and in various other ways have shown their helpful and sympathetic spirit. At the same time let us express our gratitude to Almighty God who has signally guarded and blessed our work through the year.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Fritas. The Cubans prepare chicken by boiling until done, the meat is then removed from the bones and cut into pieces about half the size of the little finger. To each piece is added a little sliver of boiled chili and salt and pepper. The whole is breaded or dipped in batter and fried over a hot fire. When served each piece is a golden brown, firm and crisp on the outside and remarkably tender and jucy within.

Old Time Sponge Cake. Take half a dozen perfectly fresh eggs, their weight in sifted granulated sugar and half their weight in sifted flour. Beat the yolks and sugar until thick and lemon colored, then beat in the flour, alternating with the whites of eggs beaten to a siff white foam. When thoroughly mixed add the juice of a lemon ,stirring it in carefully; bake in rather a quick oven until cake leaves the pan.

Tutti-Frutti Ice Cream. Squeeze the juice from three oranges and three lemons; add to it three bananas, cut into bits, and half an ordinary can of apricots. Press the whole through a sieve, adding three cupfuls of cold water, a little at a time ,to assist in the straining. When all the fruits have been rubbed through add three cupfuls of sugar to the juice and pulp and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Finally add one small cup of cream, stir thoroughly and freeze after the usual method.

Drop Cookies. Cream one cupful of butter and one and a half cupfuls of sugar together. To it add four well beaten eggs. Sift four cupfuls of flour and mix through it two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add this to the cake mixture and grate half a nutmeg in it. Lastly ,stir through it four tablespoonfuls of sweet milk and a small teaspoonful of vanilla. Drop from a spoon on a buttered pan, place three or four raisins on each cookie, and bake in a quick oven.

AMONG THE CLUBS

Julia Ward Howe's message to the women of the country on her 91st birthday is full of inspiration of progress: Live in your own time; don't lag behind, but be up and doing. How differently I might have anticipated the future" could I have realized the great changes in the opportunities and environment of women! It has become a necessity for women to be able to speak in public and become active in affairs outside the home. There is great power in association. The message I would give to my children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren is, "Don't stay where you are, go on."

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution hold the least regular meeting of the season until fall on Monday afternoon at half past two at the birthplace of President John Adams.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

A meeting of the Executive Board is to be held Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the clubhouse.

The Woman's Exchange made about $20 at their sale at the Pinafore matinee on May 21 which is their contribution to the Tuberculosis camp.

At a meeting of the Home Economics committee held May 23 it was voted to give $10 towards furnishing the diet closet of the Visiting Nurse.

The club will be represented at the State Federation meeting in Lynn next week by its president Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith and Mrs. W. W. Whitcher. It is also hoped other club members will get tickets of Mrs. H. W. Tirrell, corresponding secretary and go to the meetings will be held in the First pleasure and profit by attending. The meetings will be held in the First Universalist church, Nahant street, Lynn, with sessions as follows: Monday, June 6, at 3 and 7.45 P. M., the evening session to be followed by a reception at the Lynn Women's clubhouse; Tuesday, June 7, at 10 A. M., and 1.45 P. M.

The Visiting Nurse committee is to hold a conference of Visiting Nurse Associations of neighboring towns at the clubhouse on Wednesday afternoon, June 15, at 2 o'clock. Miss Fisher of Norwood is to speak. It is expected the meeting will be mutually beneficial.

Henry Clay's Eloquence.

It was the remark of a distinguished senator that Henry Clay's eloquence was absolutely intangible to delineation, that the most labored description could not embrace it and that to be understood it must be seen and felt. He was an orator by nature. His eagle eye burned with patriotic ardor or flashed indignation and defiance upon his foes or was suffused with tears of commiseration or of pity, and it was because he felt that he made others feel. A gentleman after hearing one of his magnificent efforts in the senate thus described him: "Every muscle of the orator's face was at work. His whole body seemed agitated, as if each part was instinct with a separate life, and his small, white hand, with its blue veins apparently distended almost to bursting, moved gracefully, but with all the energy of rapid and vehement gesture. The appearance of the speaker seemed that of a pure intellect wrought up to its mightiest energies and brightly shining through the thin and transparent veil of flesh that invested it."—St. Louis Republic.

Cleanliness In Persia.

The Persian spends hours in the "hammams" (Turkish baths), which are very handsome buildings decorated with tiles and embellished with numerous exhortations as to the value of cleanliness. The smallest village in Persia has its "hammam," and bathing is almost a religious function. When the hot room and massage are finished the Persian is shaved, and the whole top of his head is likewise shaved, though the hair over the ears is left and allowed to grow down to the neck. This strange coiffure has a religious meaning, for the two locks on each side of the head are meant for the angel of death to hold when he carries the believer to paradise. All Persians dye their hair with a mixture of henna and vesmeh, and the hair dyeing is the last part of the bath, but tea and smoking are indulged in afterward, and the frequenters of the "hammams" find them very pleasant lounging places.—Chicago Journal.

A Whale's Breathing.

An eminent naturalist says concerning the breathing apparatus of the whale: "The windpipe does not communicate with the mouth. A hole is, as it were, bored right through the back of the head. Engineers would do well to copy the action of the valve of the whale's blowhole. A more perfect piece of structure it is impossible to imagine. Day and night, asleep or awake, the whale works its breathing apparatus in such a manner that not a drop of water ever gets down into the lungs. Again, the whale must of necessity stay a much longer period under water than seals. This alone might possibly drown him, as the lungs cannot have access to fresh air. We find that this difficulty has been anticipated and obviated by a peculiar reservoir in the venous system, which reservoir is situated at the back of the lungs."

Is the Universe Running Down?

It is absolutely certain that the machinery of the solar system is running down. The earth, with its mass of three thousand trillion tons, moving through space a thousand times faster than the express train goes, is being retarded by the friction of the atmosphere and tides to the extent that it loses about an hour in 16,000 years, a very slow process, it would seem, but one that will inevitably bring the earth to a standstill ultimately. And what is true of the earth is true of all the worlds and suns. Sir Isaac Newton maintained that the motions of all bodies in space suffer retardation and that their velocity is steadily becoming less and will finally cease. Solar systems, like everything else, have their time to be born and their time to die.—New York American.

How Scott Bore Adversity.

Once when I was staying with Mr. Ruskin he took delight in showing me his Scott manuscripts. He took down "Woodstock" from the shelf, and, turning the leaves over slowly and lovingly, he said: "I think this is the most precious of them all. Scott was writing this book when the news of his ruin came upon him. He was about here, where I have opened it. Do you see the beautiful handwriting? Now look as I turn over the pages toward the end. Is the writing one jot less beautiful? Are there more erasures than before? That assuredly shows how a man can and should bear adversity."—London Graphic.

Failed to Catch the Tune.

A professor in an old Pennsylvania college was conducting a review in Latin. Of a sleepy looking youth he asked the question, "What construction is that at the top of page 12?"

"I don't know," was the prompt reply.

"Why not?" thundered the professor. "I have been harping on that construction all term."

"I know you have, professor," was the soft reply, "but I haven't caught the tune yet."

Embarrassing Question.

Police Justice—Have you any way of making a living? Vagrant—I hev' y'r honor. I kin make brooms. Police Justice—You can? Where did you learn that trade? Vagrant—I decline to answer, your honor.—Home Herald.

A Gastronomic Joy.

Of all the superb victuals which, by their great variety and unique collocation, make Maryland the Eden and Arcadia of every man who loves good eating, the planked shad is probably the most powerful and poignant in its appeal to the senses. The wild duck, though it sets the palate to vibrating like an aeolian harp, has no thrill for the eye. It is a small and unlovely bird of a dull color and ungraceful outline. So, too, the diamond back terrapin. It has no more beauty in death than a plate of soup. And certain other exquisite delicatessen, for all their sweetness, do not soothe the sense of smell. Of such are the raw oyster, the boiled hard crab and the Magothy river cabbage. But the planked shad—ah, here we come to a delicacy which enchants us alike through the eyes, the palate and the nose! As it comes upon the table it has the imperial dignity of a Charlemagne. Its noble head moves one to reverence; the epicycloid curve of its tail is like the curl of a great comber upon a coral beach. And it radiates a perfume as of Araby.—Baltimore Sun.

Water Under Deserts.

Some of the most curious phenomena of the world are the underground water supplies beneath deserts. In the Rajputana deserts water is held in vast quantities in sandstone beds under the scorched surface and is drawn up from wells sunk into the strata. Bikaner raises its walls in the midst of a weary, almost rainless waste of sand and depends on these hidden cisterns for its very existence. Whence it comes, where is the outfall and what quantity runs under the baked sand remain a mystery. In one well at Bikaner it has been ascertained that the water supply is equal to 20,000 gallons an hour, which is held to point to the conclusion that there is an enormous subterranean flow and that the snow fed rivers of the Himalayas must be the source. People in Bikaner say that pieces of wood dropped into one well have come up in another. The idea of an underground river opens up a wide range of possibilities to the imagination.—Times of India.

Dashing Into Danger.

"When I was younger," a big Broadway traffic cop remarked, "I used to cuss at everybody who insisted on dashing across the street in front of a car or truck. I cuss the act still, but not the person. Fact is, I've learned that a majority of people just can't help it. An approaching vehicle about to cross their path is like a red rag to a bull. It's a sort of challenge, a dare. And the impulse to defeat its purpose can't be controlled. There isn't any plan of action. It's a case of dash first and think afterward, and sometimes, of course, the thinking is done in a hospital.

"It's a sort of disease of the nerves, I guess, because the head of a business house will do this fool thing just as quick as his errand boy will. But the cop and the driver are to blame whenever there's a miscalculation."—New York Globe.

Fenced In.

Near Harvard square, in Cambridge, stands the old elm under which Washington first took command of the American army. Around this tree is an iron picket fence inclosure perhaps a couple of rods across. One night a man who had imbibed too freely stumbled against this circular fence. Grasping one picket after another, he groped his way painfully round and round the outside of the inclosure about a dozen times. Finally he sank down in utter despair. "Oh, ain't it awful—fenced in and no gate to get out of it!" said he as a party of students rescued him and took him home.—National Monthly.

A Memory of Edwin Booth.

My season with Edwin Booth was delightful. I found him one of the kindest and pleasantest men of the profession. He also possessed what I consider a great quality—simplicity of manner. Some stars have the idea that it is necessary to be haughty and inaccessible with the members of their companies. They put on airs. They like to crush their fellow actors and pose as a kind of divinity before them. —From Mme. Modjeska's "Memoirs" in Century.

A Story of Robespierre.

The story is told of Robespierre that at one time when at the height of his power a lady called upon him, beseeching him to spare her husband's life. He scornfully refused. As she turned away she happened to tread upon the paw of his pet dog. He turned upon her and asked, "Madam, have you no humanity?"

On the Safe Side.

"May I see my father's record?" asked the new student. "He was in the class of '77."

"Certainly, my boy. What for?"

"He told me when I left home not to disgrace him, sir, and I wish to see just how far I can go."—Buffalo Express.

The Advantage.

Tenant—Look here, that house I took from you is extremely damp. House Agent (bluntly)—Well, don't you see the great advantage of that? If it gets on fire it won't burn.

Right and Wrong.

Things should not be done by halves. If it is right, do it boldly; if it is wrong, leave it undone. Every day is a little life, and our whole life is but a day repeated.

A really great man is known by three signs—generosity in the design, humanity in the execution and moderation in success.—Bismarck.

POLICE HUNT MISSING MAN

His Wife Under Arrest In Connection With Kellner Mystery

Louisville, June 1.—Charged with being an accessory to the murder of Alma Kellner, whose mutilated body was found under a parish house here after a search of months, Mrs. Lena Wendling is under arrest and a country-wide search is being made for the woman's husband, Joseph Wendling, who has been missing since Jan. 14. Wendling was formerly janitor of St. John's church.

A gold ring and a pin were found by the police in Mrs. Wendling's trunk which were identified by Alma's mother as having been worn by the dead girl on the day she disappeared. Mrs. Wendling maintained that the articles were given her by a boy who said he found them in the street.

Wendling is described as 27 years old, about five feet ten inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds, has a small black mustache and dark hair and eyes. His wife is 42 years old.

FIGHT PERMIT IS GRANTED

Rickard Sticks to Intention to Referee Johnson-Jeffries Scrap

San Francisco, June 1.—The board of supervisors has granted the July fight permit to the Broadway Athletic club, in which Rickard and Gleason are now interested, and thus the promoters of the Jeffries-Johnson fight finally have clear sailing.

Strong pressure has been brought to bear upon "Tex" Rickard to abandon the idea of acting as referee of the battle of July 4. He has been asked to step down in favor of either Smith or Graney, but Rickard announces with much positiveness that it is his intention to stick.

BRIEFS

June.

A bright clear morning.

The sun will rise at 4.07 from June 9 to 22, and then later and later.

The cool wind this morning felt as though it had come from the top of a snow bank.

June 5 will be observed as Children's Sunday at the First church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley of Coddington street entertained Mr. Ernest Chadd of London, England over the holiday.

Harry Hinkley was one of the winners at the South Boston Yacht club races on the holiday with his boat the "Guide."

Lack of quorum prevented the annual meeting of the directors of the Woodward Institute being held Tuesday as scheduled.

There will be games and a good time at the strawberry social of the Christian Endeavorers at Bethany chapel tomorrow evening.

Fulton H. Parker, Grand Protector, Knights and Ladies of Honor of Mass., has appointed Past Protector Agnes G. Fletcher of Maple lodge this city as deputy of Silby lodge.

Verification of bank books in the Quincy Savings bank will be continued through the month of June. Read notice carefully in another column and send in your book for examination.

The evening services of the Memorial Congregational church will be discontinued for the rest of the summer months. The chorus of fifteen voices will furnish music for the morning services as usua'.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Read and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Read and daughter Virginia have returned from Pembroke, Mass., where they have been holding a house party over the holiday at Oldham pond.

A special musical service will be held at Christ church on Sunday evening by the combined choirs of St. Chrysostom's, Wollaston, Emmanuel, Braintree, and Christ church Quincy of which Mr. Wrigley has charge.

The big athletic meet on the Fourth of July will be held at 9.30 A. M. at Merrymount park. At 1.30 P. M. their will be a junior meet at the Atlantic playground, and at 3.30 P. M. base ball at the park and the playgrounds in Wards Two, Three, and Four.

Kenneth Blake of Billings street is making plans to leave Atlantic the last of the week for Connecticut where he will work at Civil engineering for the next four months. Mr. Blake has been very successful with his studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this year; and though his many friends congratulate him on his opportunities he will be greatly missed.

Quite a change is being made on the house at the foot of Squantum street formerly owned by F. C. Pope, and occupied by Charles Conklin. The place has been bought by George Breasole and he is putting on additional piazzas with large roofs and bay windows etc. It is cetrainly a great improvement. The old house formerly ocupied by Mr. Breasole will be moved away.

HEARST WAS NOT ROBBED

He Pays Respects to Paris Herald In Emphatic Denial

London, June 1.—The following statement appears in the London papers from William R. Hearst:

"I have not been in Milan. I have not been in any part of Italy. I have not been out of England and France since my arrival in Europe. I have not been robbed of $25,000. I have not been robbed of 25 cents, nor of any money, nor of any pocketbook of any kind. I have not lost anything except my respect for the accuracy of the English newspapers.

"Perhaps I have not even lost that, for I believe this ridiculous story originated in the Paris Herald, which is not an English newspaper, nor an American newspaper, nor a newspaper at all. It can only be described as a small boy once described his pet cur: 'Half yellow and half dog!'

"This mongrel sheet seems to be conducted upon two fixed principles: First ,to print all the news that is false, and, second, to print none of the news that is true."

CHASE FOR STOLEN YACHT

Police Finally Capture Pirates on the Merrimack River

Newburyport, Mass., June 1.—The $3000 steam yacht Ida S., owned by George E. Whitney, stolen by pirates, who were hotly pursued from Haverhill down the Merrimack, was intercepted and boarded at the mouth of the river last night and the four occupants overpowered at the points of revolvers.

Until the steam yacht with its 15-horsepower engines ran out of range of the guns in the Haverhill police boat the pirates were under fire.

Police along the river were notified, but in every case the stolen craft had succeeded in getting by until stopped by a boat manned by Newburyport police, which waited under the lee of Deer island until the pirate shot into grappling distance.

The men gave the names of William Bartlett of Boston, A. A. Stowe, Archie Perkins and George Webster, all of Haverhill.

BOSTON RANKS AS MOST PIOUS CITY

There Are 32,936,445 Church Members In the United States

Washington, June 1.—Boston leads all the big cities of the country in the number of church attendance. More than 60 percent of its people are communicants.

The aggregate number of communicants or members of all religious denominations in continental United States for 1906 was 32,936,445, according to the United States census of religious bodies. Of this grand total the various Protestant bodies reported 20,287,742 and the Roman Catholic church 12,679,142.

Of the Protestant communicants, according to the report, 80.6 percent were outside the principal cities of the country. Of the Catholics 27.9 percent were in the cities of the first class, these having a population of more than 300,000.

In the five leading cities the proportion of communicants to population was: New York, 44.7 percent, Chicago 40.7 percent, Philadelphia 38.8 percent, Boston 62.6 percent, St. Louis 46.6 percent.

NEW U. S. A. EXISTS

Proclamation Read on Anniversary of Close of Boer War

Pretoria, June 1.—The Union of South Africa has been born. The proclamation of the single dominion constituted by the legislative union of the British colonies of Cape Colony, Orange River Colony, Natal and the Transvaal, was read at the assembly house here, where just eight years ago the leaders of the Boers signed the British terms of peace, which brought to an end the war in South Africa.

The occasion was made a holiday and celebrations were general. Following the reading of the proclamation Viscount Gladstone was sworn in as governor general of the union, and Premier Botha and the other members of the new ministry took the oath of office.

Gift of $300,000 to Hospital

Boston, June 1.—A gift of $300,000 by Mrs. Robert D. Evans, as a memorial to her husband, the late owner of the summer capital at Beverly, to the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital as an aid to the Boston University Medical school, is announced.

Fitzherbert Wins Brooklyn Handicap

Gravesend Race Track, N. Y., June 1.—The Brooklyn Handicap, its value as a stake shrunk to $6000, as compared with $19,750 two years ago, was won in easy fashion by Sam Hildreth's Fitzherbert in the presence of a thinned-out crowd.

BOLD ADVICE GIVEN BRITAIN

No Mincing of Words In an Address by Roosevelt

THE GOVERNMENT OF EGYPT

Now the Best It Has Had In Two Thousand Years, but England Has Erred In Vital Points, Says Ex-President—Timidity and Sentimentality Declared to Be Worse Than Injustice—Speech Creats a Stir

London, June 1.—Theodore Roosevelt was presented with the freedom of the city of London, and he accepted the honor with a literalism that led him into a frankness of speech that created a sensation in old Guild hall.

As the former head of a country that once paid tribute to Great Britain the American statesman gave the motherland some bold advice as to her duty toward her most troublesome dependency in Africa. Mr. Roosevelt eulogized British rule in Uganda and the Soudan. He also declared that Great Britain had given Egypt the best government that the country had had in two thousand years, but in certain vital points it had erred. Timidity and sentimentality, he said, might cause more harm than violence and injustice.

"Sentimentality," he added, "is the most broken reed upon which righteousness can lean."

Mr. Roosevelt denounced the Nationalist party of Egypt as neither desirous nor capable of guaranteeing primary justice. It was trying to bring murderous chaos upon the land. Either it was or it was not right for Great Britain to be in Egypt and establish order throughout that country. If it was not rigat to further this purpose then the British should get out. Some nation, said the former president, must govern Egypt. He hoped and believed that the English would decide that the duty was theirs.

As a whole the speech constituted the most forcible expression on foreign topics that the distinguished visitor has made during his European tour. He dealt principally with the British policy in Egypt, which is today one of the most discussed of Great Britain's colonial questions. His outspoken views sent a thrill through the auditors which is likely to be felt outside the walls of the ancient council hall.

Mr. Roosevelt was driven in state from Ambassador Reid's home to Guild hall, but the weather was not propitious and comparatively few persons witnessed the procession.

The parchment conveying to Roosevelt the freedom of the city was contained in a beautiful gold casket. The presentation was made by Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, the city chamberlain, who spoke briefly.

Following the exercises Sir John Knill, the lord mayor of London, entertained Roosevelt at a private luncheon at which many prominent personages were present. The casket presented to Roosevelt was oblong in form, the front and reverse side being divided into four panels bearing enamel painted views of Guild hall, the Mansion house, St. Paul's cathedral and the Tower bridge. The centre was occupied by the full blazon of the city arms in enamel with an ornamental shield below containing the inscription. At the four corners were enameled the arms of England, the United States and the city shield and Union Jack. The base was of solid silver, having at one end a finely modeled American bison and at the other end the British lion. The base stood upon eight bold feet with a lower pedestal of oak and velvet.

PINNED UNDER AUTOMOBILE

Lumber King and Friend Killed When Car Plunges Into Water

Nashua, N. H., June 1.—W. H. Anderson, lumber king and real estate dealer, and W. H. Kennedy, a member of the City Carriage company, both prominent in city affairs here, were instantly killed when Anderson, while driving his automobile down a steep hill on Concord road, about three miles from this city, lost control of the car.

The machine crashed through the railing of a bridge spanning a small stream. Both men were caught under the car and were unable to free themselves.

Meats Going Higher In England

London, June 1.—The National Federation of Meat Traders' association announces that, owing to the decreased supply, the butchers and retailers of meats in England will be compelled to advance prices.

Pensions For Schoolteachers

Boston, June 1.—The senate passed to be engrossed the Boston schoolteachers' pension bill. The bill has already passed the house. It gives Boston schoolteachers one-third of their salary on retirement.

Prison For Persian Prince

Lynn, Mass., June 1.—Cyrus S. Turner, who claims to be a Persian prince, was sentenced to two months in the house of correction in the local court, charged with obtaining money under false pretences.

CAPTAIN BERESFORD DEAD

Officer of Royal Engineers Killed In Runaway Clash at Aldershot

London, June 1.—Captain Charles C. Beresford, commanding the First Field troop of the Royal Engineers, was fatally injured in a serious accident at Aldershot when a driver lost control of his horse.

The captain endeavored to stop the animal, when he received the full charge of the runaway broadside, with the result that he and his horse were thrown to the ground together. The driver and his horse fell on the captain's thighs, crushing him. His skull was also fractured. He died within a few hours. Beresford was born in 1879.

HIBBARD HONORED BY BOSTON COUNCIL

Speakers Say Most Bitter Critics Will Soon Praise Him

Boston, June 1.—Called in special session by Mayor Fitzgerald, the Boston city council listened to remarks eulogistic of former Mayor Hibbard and passed resolutions submitted by the mayor. Every member of the council was present and the spectators included several heads of departments at city hall and subordinates.

The speakers expressed the belief that in time to come, when the services of the late Mayor Hibbard are fully appreciated, those who were his most bitter critics will be the first to praise him.

The resolutions express the belief that the two years of Hibbard in the mayor's chair shortened his life "that amid more peaceful surroundings might have been preserved for the rewards and honors of a happy old age." The resolutions also say that citizens should strive by tributes of esteem to repair the injustice of a period in which feeling ran high.

"NEGLECT OF DUTY"

McCarthy Will Prefer Charges Against Civil Service Commission

Boston, June 1.—Surveyor of the Port Jeremiah J. McCarthy announces his intention to prefer charges of neglect of duty against the civil service commission before the governor and his council.

The surveyor, whose appointment as fire commissioner of the city of Boston was not approved by the civil service commissioners, declares that the commissioners failed to make the careful inquiry into his education, experience and training that the law requires them to make, and in consequence he wants a public hearing of the whole matter by the governor, on whom he has already called twice in reference to it. He says he has evidence that he was unfairly treated by the board.

Merrimac's Pastor-Sailor Dead

Norfolk, June 1.—Rev. A. A. Jones, one of the few survivors of the great naval battle between the Merrimac and the Monitor in Hampton Roads, died of paralysis at his home in this city. He was 67 years old.

Improving Americans.

"Nothing is fixed but the certainty of change," said Goethe, and we know that the future American will represent a change. He may be taller or shorter or thinner or fatter than the American of today, but there is nothing in the existing state of society—and we use society in its broad sense—to indicate that he will not be better in many ways. Confidence in this is based largely on the evident determination of the American of today to leave our institutions and our ideals better than he found them. Every American, native or foreign born, wants his children to have a better education than it was possible for him to secure. He wants to have his children live in a community of higher standards and ideals than he has; he wants betterment in local, state and national conditions, and the result of the want will be improvement and a demand by his children for still greater improvement.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Tart Repartee.

Of Sir William Harcourt, Disraeli once said in his affectedly cynical way, "He has the three essential qualifications of success in politics—a fine person, a loud voice and no principles."

To this when it was repeated to him Harcourt rejoined, "Leaving out the first two qualifications, it might almost be applied to 'Dizzy' himself."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

GIRL FED HIM WHEN A TRAMP

Miser's Testament Leaves Estate to Former Servant

WILL DATED SEPT. 7, 1889

Day on Which He Was Ordered Off Premises of Man For Whom Sympathetic Girl Was Working—Immediately Made Her His Benificiary and She Now Offers Scrap of Paper to Prove Her Claims

Evansville, Ind., June 1.—Behind the crumpled and jagged piece of grocer's paper sacking, with its faint and almost illegible scrawl of words, filed before Probate Commissioner Hawkins as the only authentic will of Marshall McMurran, demented miser, lies the story of a footsore tramp, a servant girl's feeding him bread and a cup of coffee, and a reward in the inheritance of all of his $60,000 estate.

Mrs. Mattie Hannum of Vincennes, Ind., who was then Miss Matttie Drain, with her attorney, came to Evansville and appeared before the probate commissioner to enter the small scrap of paper as the only real testament that McMurran made. The will is dated Sept. 7, 1889, the date on which McMurran begged at the door of William Coogan's house at Vincennes for something to eat.

It read: "I do on this day will to Mattie Drain, poor servant girl, who gave me a good bite to eat and a hot cup of coffee when I was weak and feverish from hunger and near ready to drop, and the old man she was working for cursing her for doing it and ordered me out of his yard. I do will that all the property and all the money that I have at death shall be hers."

It was signed by McMurran and by Mrs. Emma Grant and Miss Cora Miller as witnesses. It is not sealed by a notary public. Both the witnesses are dead.

McMurran made the will immediately after he left the Coogan house. He went next door to Mrs. Grant's house and asked for a piece of paper. Mrs. Hannum tells the story now as it was told to her then by Mrs. Grant and Miss Miller.

"He asked Mrs. Grant for a piece of paper," said Mrs. Hannum. "He was angry. 'I have more money than that old man,' he muttered, as he looked toward the Coogan house. 'I'll show him that I have.' The man's earnestness impressed both Mrs. Grant and Miss Miller, and they both humored him while he was writing the will, and later when he asked them to become witnesses to it.

"Mrs. Grant called me immediately after he left the house and gave me the paper. At the time we did not know what to think of the man's conduct, but at a venture I kept it. I intend to contest it to the very end."

Mrs. Lou E. Miller, also of Vincennes, accompanied Mrs. Hannum to Evansville to vouch for the signatures of Mrs. Grant and Miss Miller. Relatives of McMurran, of whom he has a number, will contest the will.

Because of the size of McMurran's estate and the close relationship of a number of the heirs a hotly fought contest is inevitable. It is certain that McMurran had at least $60,000, and some of those who knew him best believe he had nearly $100,000.

The old man lived in a hovel on the Stringtown road, outside of Evansville, on a tract of his own, which he tried to farm. He was regarded as insane, and it was believed he was hoarding money, but until he was found in his hut, almost dead from starvation, it was not known that he had any great amount of cash.

He owned several pieces of farm land of which his relatives knew nothing, and it is believed that he had other money which has not been found. He allowed himself just 80 cents a week for food and deprived himself of all recreation. His sole reading matter was a copy of a Cincinnati weekly newspaper which he obtained on his weekly visit to a grocery store here in Evansville. Mrs. Hannum, the beneficiary, is in poor circumstances.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Boy Says He Could Not Resist Placing Ties on the Track

Stamford, Conn., June 1.—Clarence Scofield, 13 years old, has confessed to Chief of Police Brennan that he attempted to wreck a New Canaan branch passenger train of the New Haven road. The boy said he placed two ties on the tracks near the Catholic cemetery.

"I don't know why I did it," he said. "I happened to be riding on a bicycle. I saw the ties alongside the tracks and something seemed to force me to dismount and lay them across the tracks."

Pugilist's Auto Blows Up

New York, June 1.—His face and hands severely scorched, Stanley Ketchel, the pugilist, barely escaped with his life when the gasolene tank of of his big touring car exploded. The car, which was valued at $8000, was destroyed by a fire which followed the explosion.

TREAT DIES SUDDENLY

Former Treasurer of United States Is Stricken With Apoplexy

New York, June 1.—Charles H. Treat, until a few months ago treasurer of the United States, to which position he was appointed by President Roosevelt, died of apoplexy in his apartments at the Hotel Victoria. He was stricken an hour before his death, and did not regain consciousness.

Mr. Treat was born in Frankfort, Me., 68 years ago and was a descendant of an old New England family. Among his ancestors were Robert Treat Paine, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Robert Treat, a colonial governor of Connecticut.

When he resigned his post as treasurer Treat gave as his reason private business which demanded his attention. He was interested in several mining and navigation companies. He is survived by his widow and two daughters.

BATTLE ON HIGHER RATES FOR FREIGHT

President Orders Suits Against Railroads In Middle West

Washington, June 1.—President Taft has instructed Attorney General Wickersham to bring an injunction suit against twenty-five railroads in the middle west which have served notice upon the interstate commerce commission of an intention to increase freight rates, beginning today.

The suit for injunction will assert that the railroads have entered a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and that the facts indicate that the new rates are the result of a combination clearly in disregard of the provisions of the law. It is expected that there will be a big legal battle.

WOULD MAR OCEAN VIEW

Atlantic City Objects to Scheme For Electric Ads on Water

Atlantic City, N. J., June 1.—Plans, originating with a company said to have half a million dollars capital, to erect huge electric advertising signs in the sea placed on floats and anchored opposite the centre of the resort, caused a sensation among city officials and brought forth a vigorous protest from the owners of the hotels which face the beach.

Refused consideration by Mayor Stoy, the promoters went to the war department at Washington, a move that resulted in the mayor taking up the issue with the federal authorities.

Beach owners have conveyed what riparian rights they acquired from the state for the land under water along the beach to the city to hold as a public park and common, and the city will wage a vigorous fight against any project which will mar the ocean view or annoy the visitors.

STORM ON CAPE COD

Church Badly Damaged by Lightning and Other Property Suffers

Hyannis, Mass., June 1.—St. Francis Xavier church parish house, situated on South street, was badly damaged by lightning during a thunder storm. The greater part of the front of the building was torn off, the gallery and organ demolished and the walls badly cracked.

The storm was one of the worst to sweep this section of the cape in years. Thousands of dollars' worth of property was damaged and the telephone and telegraph systems were tied up for many hours.

Philadelphia Bankers Held

Philadelphia, June 1.—J. K. Crawford, vice president, and his brother, Joseph S. C. Crawford, secretary-treasurer of the American Trust company, which was ordered closed by Bank Examiner Tabor, were arrested and held in $10,000 bail each, to answer charges of misappropriating the funds of that institution.

CONFERENCE IS FRUITLESS

Farmers Decide to Continue to Withhold Supplies

MILK WAR IS DECLARED ANEW

Will Be Kept Up by Producers Until They Get Winter Rates For Ten Months In Year—Offer of One Contracting Firm of 35½ Cents For 8½-Quart Can For Nine Months Is Turned Down

Boston, June 1.—Boston's great milk war, which contractors and producers alike believed would end yesterday afternoon, now appears to be no nearer a termination than at any previous stage in the hostilities. After a long conference with two of the contracting firms, the representatives of the producers announced that no agreement had been reached and that the strike was still in force.

"We are going to continue to hold off the milk and keep up the fight," said W. A. Hunter, secretary of the Boston Co-operative Milk Producers' company, when the smoke of battle had cleared away last night.

Harry G. Dean, one of the representatives of the producers at the conference, said that, while certain concessions had been offered by the contractors, they had not been accepted and that the strike would last until favorable terms could be secured.

An interesting complication was introduced into the milk situation yesterday afternoon by Senator Tinkham, when he brought before the legislature a bill relating to milk inspection in the city of Boston. It provides that no milk or cream shall be offered for sale or delivered here without a permit from the board of health.

Minor phases of the struggle are the questions of the connection of the official milk inspector, James O. Jordan, and Chairman Durgin of the board of health with the big contractors, and of the reorganization of the system of milk transportation, which will come up before the legislature today.

The three Hood brothers, Charles H., Gilbert H. and E. J., with the directors of the company, were in conference with the representatives of the producers from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 9:30. The object of the producers is to get winter rates for ten months in the year, which amounts to 35½ cents for an 8½-quart can.

The Hood company offered the most favorable terms yet presented. The producers were given the alternative of accepting a winter rate for nine months in the year, either from August to May or from July to April, or of continuing the fight. The producers' representatives at the conference, Harry G. Dean of Grafton, William A. Stone of Exeter and Alvin Davis of Canaan, refused to consider any offer of less than ten months' winter prices.

In a Quandary.

The young lady sighed deeply and was almost affected to tears.

"Harold," she said, "declares that if I don't marry him he will end his life. And I am afraid he will."

She stifled a sob, then continued:

"And Randolph declares that if I don't marry him he will go into politics and become great and famous, and then he says I shall see what I have missed. And I am afraid he will keep his word too."

Overcome by emotion, she buried her face in her hands, not knowing whether to save a life or to spare the country another politician.—Exchange.

A Storekeeper Says:
"A lady came into my store lately and said:
"'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was smell and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost.'"
The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.
Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

Miss Miriam Marsh of this city was author of the class ode sung on Tuesday at the class day exercises of the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University.

The trustees of the Quincy, Weymouth and Hingham bridges met in the office of Mayor Shea at City Hall this morning. Routine business only was transacted.

Now the weather bureau says that last month was the dryest May in years ,and that only 1.03 inches of rain fell. Many thought it the wettest.

Lieut. D. A. Weaver was on Tuesday assigned to the command of the latest submarine launched by the Electric Boat Company at Quincy, the Salmon.

St. Margarets' Guild has accepted a challenge from Junior Auxiliary to play a match game of base ball at the picnic of Christ church Sunday school.

King's Daughters from all parts of Norfolk county will make a pilgrimage to Pondville on Saturday the annual donation day. The new Cressy Memorial chapel will be dedicated.

The State commandery Knights of Malta, will send a delegation tomorrow to the funeral of George Ruxton, a local member. The State prelate, Rev. William J. Lannin of Somerville, will conduct the service.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Ethel Fitzhenry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fitzhenry of Malden, and Dr. W. H. Blanchard of the Fore River Hospital, Quincy. The marriage will take place July 1.

Mrs. Henry Hudson Kitson visited on Tuesday the home of ex-Mayor Hibbard on Beaumont street, Dorchester, and made a death mask of the former mayor and postmaster, from which a bronze bas-relief will be made for the future adornment of the mayor's office at City Hall.

Capt. Ira Blanchard of this city was on Memorial day mustered in as a member of Hartsuff Post, 74, G. A. R., of Rockland. He was a former resident of that town, and a manufacturer of boots and shoes there. He was born in Rockland, Aug. 19, 1823, being now in his 87th year.

BRIEFS.

Miss Bessie Drew has returned from Hampton, Virginia, to spend her summer vacation with her parents.

Clifton Allen Fratus of Hancock street will spend the summer months traveling abroad. His many friends wish him a pleasant voyage and a safe return.

Miss Helen Grant Holbrook entertained at afternoon tea the senior class of the Weston school for Girls, Roxbury ,at her home on Holbrook road, Memorial day.

The Superintendent of Schools advertises today for competitive sketches with perspective without cost to the city, for an eight-room school building with granite trimmings to be located at Montclair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church held an ice cream, cake and candy sale and entertainment in the vestry o fthe church Tuesday evening. The entertainment consisted of songs and readings by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Thomas of Boston University. Among the readings by Mr. Thomas most appreciated were "How Bill Adams won the Battle of Waterloo," and "How Josh Billings went to the Opera."

The services of nearly enough autos have been offered the Boston Automobile Dealers' association for the grand outing of 800 blind and crippled children of the city to Sharon on June 8. Chester I. Campbell has the outing in charge and has received many pathetic requests from children wishing to go on the outing, most of whom have never had a ride in an auto or ever expected to.

BATHHOUSE OPENING.

Jack Starr, superintendent of the city bath house, is busy getting the bath house in Ward Two ready for the o cial opening June 17. The beach in front of the bath house has been cleared of the rocks that were so unpleasant to bathers, and men are now at work carting sand onto the beach. This will be greatly appreciated by the bathers.

CRICKET SEASON OPENED.

The opening game of the newly formed Quincy Cricket club was played on the holiday at Merrymount park, the club playing an eleven selected by Mr. Wrigley. After a very enjoyable game the picked team was defeated by 50 runs. The club has now a good list of members. Others wishing to join should write or see the Hon. Sec'y., Frank Hayward Wrigley, 24 Coddington street.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

Bill Introduced for Widening Nantasket Avenue

The House sustained on Tuesday the veto of Gov. Draper on the eight-hour bill, the vote being 84 to 73, not the necessary two-thirds.

The House voted $50,000 that the Metropolitan Park Commissioners might purchase the Brighton abattoir land.

The bill for taxation of incomes was passed to be engrossed, also the resolve to investigate control of gas, electric light and street railway companies.

The rules committee of the House have voted to admit the petition of the Hull selectmen and Rep. Nickerson, backed by Chairman de las Casas of the Metropolitan Park commission for a $10,000 appropriation for the widening of Nantasket avenue, a needed improvement.

The Senate laid over the Elevated merger bill, the resolve relative to electrification of railroads, and the plumbers' bill.

The teachers' pension bill for Boston was passed to engrossment.

The Metropolitan Affairs Committee reported a bill authorizing $2,000,000 for development of East Boston flats.

Milk bills promise to be prominent now in the Legislature.

BEGIN WORK NOW.

At a recent meeting of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, the president, John J. Martin, gave ten suggestions for the development of Boston and Massachusetts. They are these:

1. Better and modern transportation facilities.
2. Development of the water front and navigable rivers.
3. More money for our home business ventures; less money for bogus mining schemes.
4. Application of inherited fortunes to business pursuits; discouragement of the easy life on assured incomes.
5. Encourage young men to engage in business enterprises.
6. More mortgage money for real estate.
7. Development of Massachusetts industries.
8. Less bank consolidation that operates to restrain competition.
9. Work together to achieve results; stop so-called "knocking."
10. Massachusetts capital for Massachusetts industries.

The planks in this platform are well worth adopting.

BRAINTREE.

Miss Beatrice B. Strong of Dorchester and Charles H. Hickey of Braintree were united in marriage this afternoon at half past four at All Souls church, Braintree, by the Rev. Daniel Roy Freeman. Harold Bisbee of Milton was best man and Mrs. Bisbee was the maid of honor. A reception was held in the chapel immediately following the ceremony.

The Ladies of All Souls church served a June breakfast this morning.

The pianoforte pupils of Miss Helen Qualey are to give a recital Friday night at Delta hall.

Dr. D. O. S. Lowell of the Roxbury Latin school will give the address on Class day at Thayer academy.

CITY OF QUINCY, SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

The School Department of the City of Quincy asks for competitive sketches with a perspective, without cost to the city, of an eight room brick school building with granite trimmings which may conveniently be enlarged to a twelve room building. The building to be adapted to the recently purchased Holbrook lot at Montclair. The sketches should be drawn to the scale of one-eighth of an inch to the foot should be accompanied by an estimate of cost and must be in the hands of the Secretary not later than five P. M., Wednesday, June 15.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE

Semi Finals and Finals Necessary for Championship

(By Rube.)

The Grammar School Athletic league of Quincy has completed its baseball schedule with four teams tied for the top-notch position.

The league season opened April 11 and since that date 55 regular games have been played. Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, athletic instructor in Quincy public schools, started the movement and he had a hard time to interest others, as it was found impossible on other occasions to complete schedules which were started.

Dr. Smith, however, proved the man for this trying position, and soon had everyone connected with the schools ready to do their share. The result was that directors, masters and school children brushed elbows on the diamond, while rooting for their representatives, and of course this brought about better conditions all around. The Cranch team were at the top almost from the start, but of late the Gridley Bryant, Willard and Wollaston nines have got into the limelight by tieing up the standing.

Dr. Smith has arranged for the contestants to play off the tie, and all four clubs will play Thursday at lower Merrymount park at 4.15 P. M. The Gridley Bryants clash with the Willards and Cranch meet the Wollastons. The two winners will play on Monday at 4.15 P. M., when Mayor Shea will attend to present the champions the silver loving cup and the shoes offered by the Quincy Department store.

In view of the fact that the games have been attended by an average attendance of 500, it would be safe to predict 1000 or more will attend these final games. Mayor Shea also plans to attend the games Thursday and root for the Willards. His Honor once attended this school and is still interested in the pupils there. No admission will be charged, but a collection will undoubtedly be taken to help defray expenses of umpires, baseballs, etc. If you want a good time just drop down to Merrymount park Thursday afternoon and see the future diamond stars pull off sensational plays.

TROT AT WEYMOUTH.

Fourteen classes started at the interclub matinee meet of the Old Colony and Dorchester gentlemen's driving clubs at South Weymouth Monday. The contest was a keen one, and the winner was not certain until the last heat of the last race had been run. Then it was found that Dorchester had scored 49 points and the Old Colony club 47 points.

Class E, mixed, furnished the most excitement as it was this race that decided the winner. Class B trotting furnished the fastest time. In Class M, mixed, Judge, the 30 year old gelding owned and driven by Henry Baker the oldest member of the Old Colony club, won the race securing two first and two second positions out of the five heats, and both horse and driver were given an ovation.

What Happened to Bill.

Mrs. Dixon was putting Frank, aged six, and Willie, aged four, to sleep with a bedtime story when she was suddenly compelled to answer the doorbell. Hastening away with the intention of immediately returning, Mrs. Dixon was detained by a caller. The boys grew restless. Finally, running to the top of the stairs, where he knew his mother could get a perfect view of him, Frank used nearly all his small stock of diplomacy in trying to attract his mother's attention without disturbing the visitor. After several futile attempts at gesticulations he called out in a loud whisper perfectly audible to both ladies below, "Mamma, you'd better come up," then in a most awe inspiring tone adding, "'cause Bill's nose is comin' unwiped!" — Youth's Companion.

His Reason.

"Why do you always leave the house, James, when I begin to sing the old songs?" pouted Mrs. Howlit.

"Fresh air," said Howlit.—Harper's Weekly.

BOULEVARD RESOLVE

Asks for an Investigation and Report

As it appeared impossible to get a bill through the Legislature this year appropriating $225,000 to connect and complete the boulevard in Quincy, Representative Thomas introduced a resolution calling for the Metropolitan Park Commissioners to investigate the cost of completing the boulevard, and as to the advisability of its immediate construction, to report to the next General Court in January, 1911. This resolution is now before the senate. The passage of the resolution will save the other bill for an appropriation from being killed this year.

PARK APPORTIONMENT.

The commissioners on apportionment of the cost of Metropolitan reservations and parkways will hold their first hearing tomorrow at 10 A. M. at 14 Beacon street, Boston. Quincy will be represented.

—Work has been started on the great "apple way" between Spokane and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, through the Spokane valley, 30 miles, and J. A. Perry, secretary of the Spokane County Good Roads association, which is doing the building in conjunction with the Commercial club of Coeur d'Alene, says the new speedway will be completed early in September. The road will be 60 feet wide and lined on both sides with apple and other fruit trees, interspersed with English elm trees, and a fountain for man and beast at intervals of a mile. The preliminary work on the road will cost $1,500 a mile or about $300,000 when macadamized. The last named pavement will not be built until there is need for it, as the highway is a natural one and may not require artificial paving in the next 10 years. The fruit trees will be cared for by residents in the valley under the direction of a competent orchardist and the water will be furnished free of charge for irrigation and fountain purposes by companies operating in the district. The road has been designated a state highway, so it cannot be crossed on grade by railroad companies seeking entrance to the two cities mentioned.

Daily Ledger Secures Advance Schedule for Quincy

Only once before has there been such a radical change in the running time of trains between Quincy and Boston as will take place when the new timetable on the New Haven goes into effect on Sunday. Practically every train has been changed, and for the first few days people will be somewhat puzzled. The number of inward trains under the new schedule is 35, or two less then at present. On Sundays, however, Quincy will get 21 inward trains as against 16 at present. Of the outward trains there will be forty on week days the same as now. On Sundays there will be 20 outward as against 16 now.

OUTWARD TRAINS.

The scheme of the new timetable is that trains from Boston will leave at 15 and 45 minutes past the hour. The 15 minutes past the hour will be accommodation, that is they will stop at most of the stations between Quincy and Boston, although at certain hours they will stop at only part of them. these trains will arrive from 37 to 41 minutes past the hour. The trains which leave at 45 minutes past the hour, as a rule, will run express to Wollaston and will arrive in Quincy on the hour. Some of these, however, will run express to Quincy. In some cases Wollaston will get a train that does not make the Quincy stop and Quincy Adams will get a train that does not make the Quincy stop.

The late trains will leave Boston at 10.20, 11.15 and 11.25. The first two will make stops at Harrison Square and stations from there to Quincy. The 11.25 train however will run express to Wollaston and arrive at Quincy at 11.42.

INWARD TRAINS.

The changes on the inward trains are equally as complicated although the general scheme seems to be that trains leaving Quincy at 4 minutes past the hour run express from Quincy or from Wollaston, while trains leaving at 19 minutes past the hour make all of the stops. In the early morning and early evening, however, the trains are more frequent.

The idea seems to be to give Quincy half-hour service with every other train an express. As with the outward trains, there are two trains which make stops at Wollaston and not at Quincy, and one train that makes the Quincy Adams stop and not Quincy.

Practically all of the express trains going in both directions are Plymouth trains, most o fthem going via South Shore. All Brockton trains will run via of West Quincy, and in order to go from Quincy to Brockton it will be necessary to take the local train for Braintree where a wait of fourteen minutes will be necessary for the Brockton train.

The last inward train under the new timetable will leave at 11.03, or seventeen minutes earlier than at present. This train will run express from Atlantic and will arrive in Boston at 11.20.

On Sundays, Quincy will get a number of new express trains and practically all of the Nantasket junction trains going in both directions will make stops at Quincy.

NEW BRIDGE OVER NEPONSET

Is Now Opposed by the City of Boston

Boston, which a year ago seemed red hot for a new bridge between Quincy and Neponset, has cooled off somewhat ,and the city is now opposing legislation. The first bill for the bridge called for Boston to pay 30 per cent of the cost. The present bill before the legislature provides that Boston shall pay 50 per cent, Quincy 15 per cent, Norfolk county 10 per cent, street railway 10 per cent ,towns of the Metropolitan park district 15 per cent, and the State 10 per cent. The total estimated cost being $500,000.

When the bill came up before the Ways and Means committee of the legislature on Wednesday, Assistant Corporation Counsel Spring opposed any legislation at present. He stated that the only part of the bridge that was in poor condition was the Boston side, and this had recently been repaired at a cost of $15,000. It is probable that definite action therefore will be definitely postponed.

Quincy has not been desirous of a new bridge as its end of the present bridge is in good condition. The city, however, realizing that the bill was likely to become a law insisted if it was built that the cost should be apportioned so that Quincy's burden would not be large.

MEMORIAL DAY IN SCHOOLS.

Yesterday afternoon at 2.30 the pupils of the Wollaston schoo held the memorial exercises which were postponed from last Friday. There were about two hundred present. There were several songs sung by the entire school, and the following boys and girls gave recitations:—Anna Weston, Conrad Keys, George Simmons, Alfred Clough, Arthur Favreau, Elvira Cash, Doris Turner, Lincoln Crosscup, Helen Thompson, Mildred Hanson, Marion Simpson, Everett Sutermeister, Katherine Adams. The entire eighth grade recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Henry Chubbuck, of Post 88 G. A. R. addressed the school.

Wednesday afternoon Memorial day exercises were held at the Massachusetts Fields school. There were songs and recitations by the school and various grades and individual recitations. Those who recited were Clarance Carlson, Henry Mattfield, Alice Beale, Brayton Blake, Gordon Banks, Paul Brown, Russell Sears, Olive Chapman, Lucille Snow, Marion Hardy, Frances Hibberts, Florence Crowell, Gordon Tucker. The children were addressed by Henry Chubbuck of Post 88 G. A. R. and James Reed of Charlestown Post. About two hundred attended.

PERIOD OF ADOLESENCE

Subject of Paper at Mothers' Association

The Quincy Mothers' Association held its regular meeting in Bethany Congregational chapel Wednesday afternoon. A goodly number of mothers were present. The meeting was one which would have helped every mother in Quincy and those who stayed away lost much wise counsel and the opportunity for hearing explanations which would have assisted them in guiding their children through the period of adolesence.

The devotional services were led by Mrs. Richard Armstrong. Her part of the program was carried on with characteristic earnestness and enjoyed by all. Mrs. Frank Page sang delightfu'ly two songs. The speaker of the afternoon Mrs. W. H. Doble, was then introduced by the president of the association, Mrs. John D. Mackay.

Mrs. Doble's subject was "The Period of Adolescence." She said in part: "This period embraces the years between 12 or 14 to 20 or 24 years, as the change is early or late, according to the individual child. It is as" though a fairy godmother touched the child with a magic wand, so radical is the transformation in body and mind. It is the budding and blossoming time of our race. Adolescence has been called the new birth —for during these years the dependent life ceases and there emerges the independent being—ready to begin the battle of life.

The growth and change of the "human trinity" body, mind and spirit during the first years of early youth between the ages of 12 and 18 are more marked, more rapid and more marvellous than at any other period of development.

The annual rate of growth of the body in height, weight and strength, during these first years of this wondrous change is increased often doubled and even more in some children. The reason for the rapid growth:—Certain organs which have lain dormant since birth now develope and prepare to assume their important functions. The whole body awakens and quickens at their call. The bony structure lengthens and broadens and there is great increase in muscular growth. Then the brain attains its full size, the voice deepens and the features alter. Corrective gymnastics should be used to overcome defects of growth.

The mother's first duty is to keep a watchful eye on the health of her young people. Phillips Brooks said that it was as much a man's moral duty to have a good digestion, a sweet breath, a strong arm and erect body as to read the Bible—and during these years of adolescence bodily health is the first consideration. Plenty of fresh air, an abundance of nutritious

LANDLORD ASSAULTED

Wollaston Tenant Fined in Court This Morning

Frederick H. Tobbenoske, of 7 Blake street, Wollaston, was arraigned in court this morning on two complaints. One for threatening assault on Carey Keith, and the second for assault and battery. Walter S. Pinkham appeared for the defendant, and the hearing brought out some interesting facts.

It appeared by the testimony that the defendant had occupied a house of Mr. Keith's, and had been told he must purchase the house, pay more rent or move. He moved, but it was claimed that he remained three days over his month and that Wednesday evening Keith went to Tobbenoske's house to collect the rent. He found the defendant in bed and was invited to his sleeping room. After some conversation a demand was made for the rent due. Keith claimed that the defendant, using an oath, said "I'll fix you," at the same time reaching under his pillow. At that Keith ran out of the room and down stairs and when half way down heard a shot. He ran out of the house and toward Hancock street fearing hewould be shot.

Tobbenoske testified, and he was cooberated by his wife, that he had been ill and had undergone an operation Tuesday and was in bed when Keith called. He was invited up stairs where they engaged in a few minutes pleasant conversation. Then Keith said "you owe me a month's rent." Some little conversation followed during which the defendant denied that he owed any rent. At that he claimed Keith jumped on the bed and grabbed him by the throat. He then reached for the revolver and Keith ran down stairs. The revolver was an old one, and loaded with blank cartridges. He however fired one shot in the air. Mrs. Tobbenoske also testified that as Keith ran out he pushed her daughter into a corner and kicked her.

The court dismissed the complaint for threat, and found Tobbensoke guilty of a simple assault. A fine of $5 was imposed and he was orderer to give bonds in $200 to keep the peace for three months. An appeal was taken.

LINEN SHOWER.

About twenty-five young ladies, friends of Miss Isabel Joy, gave her a linen shower at 46 Spear street on Wednesday evening. The hostesses were Miss Whitcher, Miss Atwood and Miss Wilson. Miss Joy was much surprised when on entering the room she found her friends assembled, and was showered with gifts by Miss Crane before she recovered from her surprise. The reading of the poems which accompanied the gifts occupied some time and caused much merriment. Light refreshments were served during the evening through the kind assistance of Mrs. Hadyen and Mrs. Barron.

GRANITE MEN WANT ANOTHER FREIGHT YARD

Would Locate It on Granite Branch in Vicinity of Intervale and Liberty Streets

Committee Appointed at Board of Trade Meeting

At the meeting of the Board of Trade on Wednesday evening, Councilman John R. Richards, a granite manufacturer at South Quincy, brought up the subject of facilities for loading granite, saying they were now inadequate at Quincy Adams and West Quincy. That during the month of May in particular during the rush in shipping Memorial day orders there was a serious congestion, which was working injury to the granite industry of Quincy. He suggested that a new freight yard be established on the Granite branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. about half way between West Quincy and Braintree. Opportunity was offered between Centre street and the railroad for the establishment of granite yards which could easily be connected by spur tracks. There should also be a passenger depot in this vicinity.

Mr. Richards moved the appointment of a special committee of three to hold conference with railroad officials and work for these improvements.

Vice President Thompson, who was in the chair appointed John R. Richards, E. J. Sandberg and Eugene R. Atwood.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

The main topic of the evening was prices charged in Quincy for electric lighting, Superintendent Fred W. Austin being present by request to represent the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company.

Supt. Austin said he was ready to answer all questions relating to the service, but might not be able to answer financial questions.

Various questions were asked relative to rates in comparison with other cities and towns, with a desire to ascertain why there was such a variation in prices. Supt. Austin replied that conditions also varied, whether water power or steam power was used, the price of coal, cost of labor, volume of business, etc. He said Quincy was lower today to large consumers of power than the Edison Company, and all but two companies; that it was making special concessions to merchants which other companies did not, in giving them the first installation of Tungsten lamps; that it was giving new householders kitchen lamps at $1.75 which cost $4.25; that if the volume of business is increased it will be further able to reduce rates for lighting.

Some thought a discount of 25 per cent for prompt payment was excessive, and favored the large consumer.

It was brought out by the report to the State Commissioners that 17 per cent of the stock is owned by non-residents. That for the year ending June 30, 1909, the capital stock was $199,100; the number of chares, 1,991; the par value, $100; the market value, $120; the value of real estate of company, $62,703.84; the value of machinery, $326,073.34. H. M. Faxon, the manager and treasurer, owns 35 per cent of the stock.

Mr. Austin said the recent reduction in price meant a cut of $6,000 in receipts. He claimed it was the object of the company to give Quincy as good service as in any city.

A vote of thanks was extended to Supt. Austin for attending the meeting.

GAS REPORT.

The committee appointed to confer with officials of the Citizens' Gas Company, of which W. E. Piper was chairman, reported an interview with President Richards, who did not feel that company could at present reduce the price. He said the expenditures in Quincy had been very heavy in laying mains, etc. However, the company was on a paying basis now, and "would within the next year make a material reduction in the price of gas in Quincy."

A statement accompanied the report showing 2 miles of mains laid in 1906; 17 miles in 1907, 21 miles in 1908, 10 miles in 1909, and 4 miles to March 31 this year. They expended for street mains $22,291.16 in 1906. $102,283.04 in 1907, $111,042.79 in 1908, $52,025.97 in 1909, and $13,492.68 thus far in 1910. The net increase in meters in five years has been 2,566.

PROFIT FROM BANQUET.

The committee on the annual banquet reported all bills paid and a balance of $9.07. A vote of thanks was extended to the committee.

Several communications were received including two from concerns seeking locations for plants. It was reported also that George Lawley & Son, of South Boston, were considering Quincy as a site.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. F. L. Jones, E. H. Angier and H. L. Kincaide and the committee which helped to entertain Congressmen Moore and Small while in Quincy.

The committee on court house site reported that several locations were being considered.

The committee on railroads was requested to protest if necessary against the new train service, which was reported to be a step backward.

Ice cream and cake were served at intermission.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

"There is a limit to all things," says the Springfield Union. Sure! There is Harry Thaw, for instance.

"Half the seats in the Senate are bought," says ex-Senator Billy Mason, of Illinois. Heres another victim of high prices.

The Norwood Messenger has urged repeatedly the need of a hospital in that manufacturing town where accidents are liable to happen at any time. Quincy's advice would be to have one by all means for we could not possibly get along without ours. The Norwood paper expresses exactly what a hospital means to a community. "There isn't another institution of human contriving that does so much good to so many when the need is most pressing as a well-conducted hospital. There isn't another humane institution of public utility half so democratic which distributes its benefits with such uniformity amongst all classes and conditions of men as a hospital. There isn't another institution whose good offices many so urgently and unexpectedly be required by each one of us, be we rich or poor, Jew or Gentile, black or white ,as a public hospital."

In the United States House of Representatives, a measure is pending known as the Parole bill, which may release dangerous criminals who have served only one-third of the term for which they were sentenced, at least 300 a year according to the author of the bill, Representative Sterling of Illinois. A similar bill passed the U. S. Senate February 7. The bill provides that each penitentiary shall have a Board of Parole with absolute power.

One plea pressed by the promoters of the bill is that it will save the U. S. Government $40,000 in the cost of keeping prisoners ,this while letting loose bank looters who have appropriated millions from the people! The contention also that this parole system would bring the Federal laws into conformity with those of the several states, is invalid. So far as there can be said to be any system of parole in the states of the union it has to do entirely with minor offences.

It would be unfortunate for the Federal Government to set the first example for the disregard of penalty while the States themselves are endeavoring to increase public respect for sentences by the courts. The bill also violates the preventive principle of penalties which is for the protection of society and considers solely the comfort of the prisoner to whom the fulfillment of a sentence may, after all, be a distinct gain.

In the single instance of the Leavenworth penitentiary, a large number of the following convicts could be turned loose upon the public: Fifteen for assault with intent to kill, 27 for assault with deadly weapon, 17 for burglary, 2 for blackmail, 16 for carnal knowledge, 116 for counterfeiting, 13 for violating National Bank laws, 5 for embezzling National bank funds, 8 for embezzlement, 11 for forgery, 43 for housebreaking, 5 for white slave importing, 51 for manslaughter, 47 for robbery, 222 for post office crimes and many others.

Although the Judiciary Committee recommends that the bill as amended pass the Massachusetts Civic Alliance is endeavoring to awaken interest to defeat the measure.

RECREATION.

While some do not work enough to get the proper amount of physical exercise, there are others who wear themselves out by too close application to their labors. A certain amount of rest is needed by every one".

Mental labor will tire the body as well as the mind. There is manual labor that requires close mental application, while there is some that requires no appreciable mental strain.

Every one should do some work of some kind. And every one is in need of some rest of recreation other than sleep. Idleness is far from being a rest, though there are instances when perfect idleness may be required. Change of occupation brings a desired rest. If your work is manual labor, seek mental recreation, music, reading, an entertainment or a social hour. If your work is chiefly mental, take some physical exercise. Make use of a work bench, ride, walk or work in a garden.

Every one who can should cultivate a habit of walking. One gets the fresh air and a variety of things to refresh the mind. Whatever your occupation, choose that for recreation which calls into action a different set of muscles and a different field for thought.

food and sleep, judicious exercise and recreations.

Adenoid growths should be removed and deep breathing practiced to make children grow robust. Fresh air in great abundance and see to it that the child's time is properly occupied between work and play. Plain wholesome food is of the utmost importance at this period.

Suitable exercises during these same years is now receiving a great deal of attention by school authorities. Dr. Sargent advises dividing the day into eight hours play, eight hours work and eight hours sleep. An hour each might be taken from work and play added to sleep, for long hours of sleep are very necessary to these growing boys and girls.

On the discipline and training during this time largley depends the kind of a man or woman our boy or girl will become. A wise mother will recognize this birth of the individual and the right now of her child to begin to think and judge for himself. The confidence which should exist between mother and daughter between mother and son! It is important that this should continue on from childhood, for it is the surest safe guard to have this freedom of thought and exchange of confidence between the parent and child.

At this age a child is likely to grow introspective, reticent and secretive and hold himself aloof. This is where many parents fail. They are hurt by the confidence withheld and then comes the gap which does not close and which often widens unless the abounding love of the mother closes the chasm, and love and confidence makes the rift disappear. Stand by the children during this period and the reward of their love and respect will follow.

We must train the mind, the heart and the hand, and while doing these three things we train the will. If we could have but a single prayer granted for our children. It would be this: "Keep them pur in thought and deed." There is the danger from school gossip beside other sources of evil. The way to fortify our children against this is with knowledge—knowledge of the truth, given from time to time, according to development. Knowledge is a power and protection against vice. Tell the children of the many temptations they must encounter, and the consequences of wrong-doing. In a word teach them self-reverence, self-knowledge and self-control.

WOLLASTON TODAY.

A private post card of special interest to Wollaston residents was recently issued by Charles L. L. Wagner. It has a small drawing of the Metropolitan water tower and reservoir on Third hill followed by an historical poem entitled—"Prologue to the settlement of Wollaston" which is printed in full:

Where the gentle breezes blow
From the waters of the bay,
Where the moon's soft mellow glow
Can be seen at close of day;
On the hills that look afar
Over land and over sea,
There is naught that e'er can mar
Nature's sweet tranquility.

There from Wollaston's great heights
One can see the twinkling flash
Of the myriad harbor lights
Showing where the breakers dash;
Where the islands' vernal green
Looms against the ocean's blue,
Each a seeming Neptune's queen,
'Tis in truth a noble view.

Rising proudly 'gainst the skies,
Yon stone tower, lofty, grand,
Massiveness that amplifies
Beauties of a pleasant land;
Roses wild and flow'rets rare,
Noble elms and maple trees
In profusion everywhere,
Tempting man to live at ease.

Homes and school's upon the hill,
Churches with their pointed spires,
All a power to instill
Healthy thoughts and pure desires;
Such a spot I have in mind
On the shores of Quincy bay,
Nature's work by man refined,
Such is Wollaston today.

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO.

(Historical Paper No. 18)

Continuing the history of the Quincy Light Infantry from the Daily Ledger of May 10, as published in Pattee's History we come to Independence day in 1826 when ex-President John Adams died in his 91st year:

July 4, 1826. The company assembled at 7 o'clock, and proceeded to the house of the Rev. Mr. Whitney, to receive their new and elegant standard, provided for them by the ladies of the town at a cost of one hundred and fifty dollars. Miss Caroline Whitney in her presentation speech said:

"In compliance with the request of several of the ladies of this town, I now present to you this Military Standard, for the use of the Quincy Light Infantry, confiding that in the possession of so well disciplined and patriotic a company it will never be surrendered to a foreign enemy. Be pleased to accept it, Sir. Let it be an incentive to you to be always ready in times of peace, and your rallying point in the hour of trial. And should you in the course of providence be called to contend with an invading foe, you will meet the crisis with unshrinking courage, will stand by your country's rights at all hazards, and maintain that Independence, which fifty years ago this day was completed, and was secured at the expense of so much blood and treasure."

Ensign Gay, on receiving the standard, made the following reply:—

"Miss Whitney,—In behalf of the Quincy Light Infantry Company, I tender you, and through you to the ladies of Quincy, our warmest acknowledgments for this distinguished token of your confidence and liberality. Be assured that should we be called to unfurl this standard in defence of our country ,our rights, our firesides ,this, and the recollection of its fair donors, shall rouse us to a manful performance of our duty, shall fill our hearts with patriotism, and nerve our arms or war."

This standard was very appropriate in design and execution ,and purchased for one hundred and fifty dollars ,which amount was collected by the ladies of the town, and by them presented to the company on this occasion. On one side of it was the national emblem, on the reverse a figure of Minerva, with the bust of the venerable ex-President John Adams, and his distinguished son; on the background an accurate representation of the mansion of the ex-President. Over these patriotic emblems was engraved the following motto:—"Palman qui meruit ferat."

After the presentation the company escorted the clergymen of the town and Mr. George Whitney to the First church where the Declaration of Independence was read by the Hon. Thomas Greenleaf, and an eloquent oration delivered by Mr. George Whitney. The celebration of the day was closed by the usual and customary dinner at the town hall.

At the close of this exercise occurred the most thrilling episode of the day. The president of the occasion stated that he held a toast from the venerable John Adams, and by permission would present it to them. —"Independence Forever." About fifty minutes after this toast was drank by the assembly, Mr. Adams expired, and this patriotic sentiment may be considered among the last of this venerated patriot and renowned statesman, to commemorate this fiftieth anniversary of his country's birthday. It must, however, be borne in mind that this sentiment was given to Mr. John Whitney, president of the day ,on the 30th of June and not on the 4th of July, as many have supposed.

July 4, 1835. This day was celebrated by the company receiving the Washington Guards of Hingham, at the Point, and proceeding to the Stone church, where public services were held; after which, they escorted the citizens of the town to the Hancock lot, where a dinner had been provided for them under a large pavilion.

March 8, 1837. This year, for the first time, the company voted to engage three pieces of music, other than the customary drum and fife, at the coming muster.

1840. This was a busy year for the company, as public celebrations were quite numerous. The first was the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their organization, which occurred April 13, by a public dinner. Capt. Joseph Bass was chosen president of the day, and Ex-Capts. Whitney, Brigham, Glover, Hardwick, Gay and others, made speeches and offered toasts, after which, the past officers made a donation of fifteen dollars in aid of the company.

May 25, the company performed escort duty for the citizens of Quincy, who this day celebrated the two hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the town. They proceeded to the Universalist church, from whence the procession took up its line of march through Elm, Hancock, Sea and Washington streets, to the Stone Temple, accompanied by the Boston Brass Band. Prayer by Dr. Lunt; historical address by the Rev. Geo. Whitney, of Roxbury; address to the young men by the Rev. John Gregory; poem by Mr. Pearse Cranch. The Union Singing Society furnished them with excellent singing. At 2.30 they re-formed, accompanied by several hundred ladies and gentlemen, and marched to the Hancock lot, where, under a spacious pavilion, a sumptuous repast had been prepared by Mr. Daniel French. Hon. Josiah Quincy, president of the day, presided over the festivities of the occasion.

July 4, the company paraded, this day, for escort duty for the Democratic celebration on the Hancock lot, and were paid by the party twenty dollars for their services. They assembled at 9 o'clock A. M., and proceeded to the Unitarian church where the procession was formed under the direction of Col. Freeman White, as chief marshal; from thence they marched over the President's hill (now called Goffe street), accompanied by the Dorchester Brass Band, to Dr. Lunt's house, where they received the clergymen of the town ,then proceeded to the Stone Temple. The Declaration of Independence was read by the Rev. John Gregory ;oration delivered by the Hon. Increase Sumner; prayers by Dr. Lunt and the Rev. Mr. Cornell; singing of patriotic songs by the Union Singing Society. The procession re-formed at one o'clock, and marched to the Hancock lot, where a pavilion had been erected for the occasion, and a dinner provided by Daniel French & Son. About seven hundred ladies and gentlemen were present, and Mr. Bradford L. Wales of Randolph, presided at the table in his usual happy manner. Party spirit ran so high in this presidential campaign that it created a division in the infantry company, which had never been known before to have occurred in its ranks. Many of the members resigned, and from this date the dissolution of the company may be considered to have began, as it continued to dwindle away until 1846, when it expired.

Sept. 13, 1845 the company of seven members marched to Boston Common for general inspection and review, viz: Capt. George Crane, Lieut. Elisha Packard, Mr. Pope, D. Monk, William S. Glover, James T. Penniman.

Aug. 28, 1846, the company, with the Tiger Engine Company, paraded for target practice at the Point Holes (so called). William Barnard of the infantry, won the first prize of three dollars; Warren Whicher, of the Tiger, won the second of two dollars; the third of one dollar was won by Mr. John Faxon, of the Tigers.

Dec. 16, this day the property of the Quincy Light Infantry Company was sold at auction. The marquee, tables, benches, Indian and chest, which had cost about two hundred dollars, sold for fifteen. This Indian was the noted target of the company, which had for years valiantly withstood the attack of its best shots. The bass drum, which cost two dollars and sixty-three cents to repair, sold for one dollar and sixty-three cents. On the evening of the sale, the remaining members of the company met at the Hancock House and received a dividend of one dollar and twenty-five cents. They then, on the proceeds of the sale ,partook of a supper. After relating the many pleasant times they had enjoyed in the ranks of the old company, they bid it a long farewell. Thus expired the Quincy Light Infantry Company, after having been connected with the Massachusetts military for fifty-six years.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

A. W. Green, president of the National Biscuit company, says that his company has found newspaper advertising the best taken all around. Mr. Green has probably studied the art of advertising as much as any man in the country. He says that bill board advertising has to be watched all the time and magazine advertising is slow. "We have very little trouble with newspaper advertising." he adds. Bill board advertising is fast becoming unpopular with the rising tide of sentiment against defacing natural scenery. A representative of a western concern not long ago returned a big shipment of posters for bill boards, fences, rocks and trees, informing his company that the sentiment in the east was so strong against such defacement of scenery that it would do the business more harm than good.

Little girl—If I was ateacher I'd make everybody behave.

Auntie—How would you accomplish that?

Little girl—Very easy. When girls was bad I'd tell them they didn't look pretty; and when little boys were bad I'd make them sit with the girls, and when big boys was bad I wouldn't let them sit with the girls.

And she wouldn't if the kidneys were well.

Doan's Kidney Pills make well Kidneys.

Here is a Quincy woman who endorses this claim:

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, 39 Quincy avenue, Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused me considerable trouble. Any sudden movement or an attempt to stoop, sent sharp pains through my loins. My health was much run down and I had but little strength or energy. I was very much alarmed about my condition. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I had known so many people who had used them with benefit, that I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. The use of three boxes convinced me that they were the best kidney remedy to be had. I am now in good health."

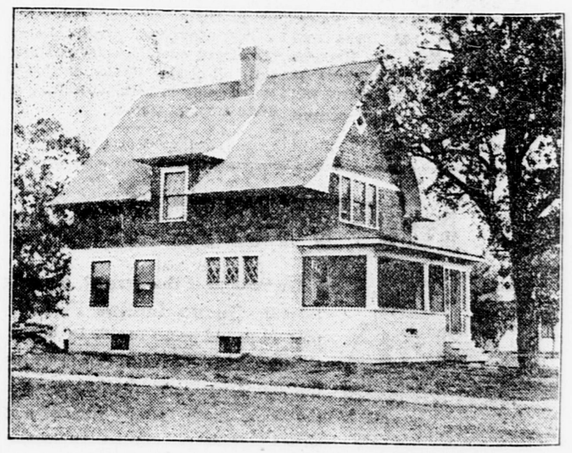
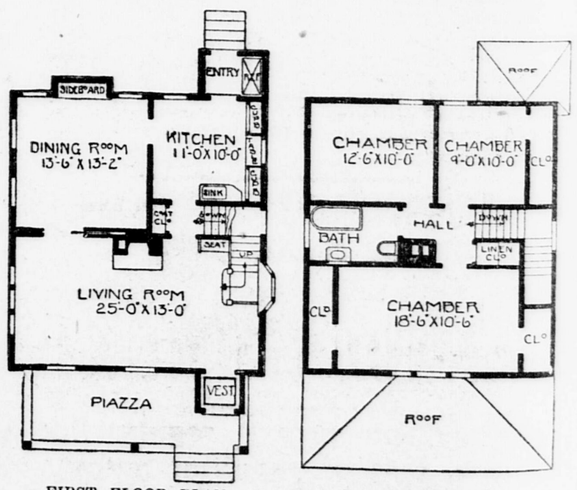
A Desirable Six Room Cottage.

Design 837A, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.



PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This little cottage has been reproduced a number of times and is especially suited to the needs of a small family. There are six rooms so arranged as to be easily taken care of. There is a large living room across the entire front. The living and dining rooms are finished in plain red oak, stained, and early English brown. The floors are of birch, finished natural. The dining room has a built in sideboard with high stained glass windows at each side. The exterior of this cottage is pleasing, sided to a belt course and shingled above. The shingles are stained brown, and siding and trimmings are white and the roof a moss green. Size 26 by 28 feet. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,200.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 837A for $15.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

The Memorial Day exercises on Friday were very appropriate for the occasion. Patriotic music was sung by the school. Headmaster James D. Howlett, Mrs. Cora Carman, President of the W. R. C., and Mrs. Agnes Fletcher spoke. Col. C. H. Porter delivered a very instructive address on "The Veteran." As a fitting tribute to the speakers and a silent tribute to the dead, the school rose. Then, under direction of Mr. Fouche, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" was sung. The singing of "America" concluded the exercises.

The Quincy High school interclass meet, planned for Friday afternoon was postponed until June 3. The meet was first postponed until May 31 but the Athletic committee finally decided upon this week Friday as the date. A good meet is to be expected. The place is Merrymout Park and the time is 2.30 P. M.

It is said that the plan s for the meet scheduled with Melrose High have fallen through, so the meet will not take place June 11 as it was expected.

Last Thursday the base ba'l nine journeyed to Groton and trimmed the team 4 to 2. This school was about the farthest distant of any the nine have visited.

Yesterday in a closely contested game the home team was defeated by the Everett nine 6 to 4. One thing which is to some extent preventing the nine from doing its best work, is the playing of the members on other teams. More than half the players are members of other baseball clubs. In some cases the result is that the man cannot make his best showing.

Today the Lynn English High will meet us at Merrymount Park at 3.15. This team is reputed to have a good deal of speed, so the game ought to be interesting.

June 6 a game is scheduled with Rockland at Rockland.

Eleven games have thus far been played. The scores give eight victories for Quincy High and three defeats. There were six consecutive victories at the commencement of the season. The next five games have been alternate victories and defeats. After today's game four more remain to be played and three away from home.

The record this season is as follows:

	Quincy	Rivals
April 19, South Boston	4	3
April 22, Rockland	13	2
April 28, Weymouth	7	3
May 2, Revere	7	3
May 6, Brockton	2	1
May 10, Abington	8	2
May 12, Melrose	0	7
May 20, Hingham	13	2
May 24, Brockton	3	4
May 26, Groton	4	2
June 1, Everett	4	6

The remainder of the schedule is:
June 3, Lynn at Quincy.
June 6, Rockland at Rockland.
June 8, Arlington at Quincy.
June 10, Hingham at Hingham.
June 15, Waltham at Waltham.

There is said to be a large collection of cups and trophies won by the school stored in some out of the way place, hidden from sight as if tokens of disgrace rather than victory. If such be the case one of the Goldenrod editors wisely suggests that these be placed on exhibition in the room kindly allotted for the use of the Goldenrod staff.

The Memorial Day exercises at the Milford High school were somewhat unique. Two features were of especial interest. Commander Pond of the Post, L. E. Heath and G. M. Green gave remarks Mr. Greene showing a blanket worn in the war by Lowell C. Cook, who was present. The blanket was wrapped around the soldier, who was shot, the ball passing through the garment, which was folded many times, and as a result 2 holes were made in it by the bullet. Mr. Cook assisted in spreading the blanket on the stage of Assembly hall in the school building, where the exercises occurred. Mr. Greene presented the school with a framed picture of Walter Wilkinson, the first Milford boy killed in the war. He was 19 years old and a pupil in the High school when he went to the front.

At Upton the members of the graduating class at the High school put in for courses in College Preparatory, Latin, Scientific and English.

"Tommy's Wife" which was presented, last year by Quincy High will be given by Medway High, June 10, for the benefit of the athletic fund and the Washington fund of the Junior class.

SERIOUS FALL.

Daniel Harrigan ,aged 35 years ,of East Boston, had a serious fall at Germantown on Wednesday, and is now at the City Hospital suffering from injuries to his back. Mr. Harrigan, who is a carpenter ,was engaged in shingling the roof of a new building at Hanley's boat yard, when he lost his balance and fell a distance of 25 feet to the ground, striking on his back. The police ambulance was called, and he was removed to the Hospital, where it was found that while no bones were broken his back was severely injured.

DAVIS BIBLE CLASS.

The first business meeting of the Davis Bible class was held Wednesday evening at the residence of Rev. R. J. Davis. The officers of the class are as follows: Teacher, Rev. R. J. Davis; president, J. E. Mundie; vice president, N. H. Savage; secretary and treasurer, C. V. Hobart. The class will meet at 11.45 A. M. Sundays in the Calvary Baptist church on Franklin street. All young men are invited. The speaker next Sunday will be the pastor and an interesting talk is assured.

TODAY'S COURT.

Harry A. Pierce was fined $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Philip Green of Quincy and Edward F. Curley of Weymouth were arraigned for drunkenness and their cases continued until Oct. 1.

Frederick H. Tobbenoske was fined $5 for assault on Carey Keith at Quincy, and put under $200 bonds to keep the peace. Appealed.

A Queer Phase of Hypnotism.

The technique of phreno-magnetism is this: When the subject is in the hypnotic sleep the operator, standing behind him, places the tips of his fingers upon the subject's head and waits Soon the subject will begin to act or sing or speak. Any one acquainted with the phrenological system of localization will recognize at once that the actions or words of the subject correspond to the "organ" on the head which has been touched by the operator. Thus if you touch combativeness the subject is very apt to square off and strike some one or speak of war or a drum. If you touch veneration he is is very apt to lift his eyes and pray. I have heard a very eloquent sermon thus inspired in a subject who was gifted with a ready tongue. Touch the organ of color and he will speak of beautiful colors. Touch tune and he will sing or whistle. Touch caution and his face will express vivid fear. I remember that one subject startled me by shouting "Look out!" and making a leap that he could scarcely have equaled in his waking state. When I touched the faculty of caution he thought he saw a snake.—Dr. George F. Laidlaw in Metropolitan Magazine.

A Clash With Caged Pythons.

Carl Hagenbeck thus described an adventure with caged pythons: "My son Heinrich had no sooner opened the door of the cage than the four reptiles, as though by prearranged plan, flew at him with wide open jaws. One of them very nearly succeeded in coiling itself round him, but he defended himself vigorously, and I and a keeper ran to his aid, but it was some minutes before we succeeded in freeing him. Then the largest of the four fixed himself firmly with his tail on a rafter at the top of the cage and made savage bites at us. When we had thrown a sack over his head we had to secure further assistance to unloosen his tail. No sooner had we with great effort got it loose than the monster twisted itself around Heinrich's right leg and began to twine itself higher up his body. It was a life and death struggle that then ensued, but by exerting all our might we at last succeeded in tearing away the reptile and forcing it into a sack."

A Hindoo Superstition.

When visits are exchanged by the friends of the Hindoo bride and groom to complete arrangements for the wedding great attention is paid to omens, which are considered especially potent then. For instance, if the groom's messengers should meet a cat, a fox or a serpent they turn back and seek a more propitious time for the errand. After the bride's father has received the offer he must delay replying until one of the ubiquitous lizards in his house has chirped.

The Landscape Near Jerusalem.

The country about Jerusalem is essentially a pale country. Indeed, I often thought it looked stricken, as if its pallor had come upon it abruptly, had been sent to it as a visitation. I was not sorry that I saw it first under grayness and swept by winds. The grayness, the winds, seemed to me to emphasize its truth, to drive home its reality. And there was something noble in its candor. Even nature can take on an aspect of trickiness at times, or at least a certain coquetry, a daintiness not wholly free from suggestions of artificiality. The landscape in the midst of which Jerusalem lies is dreary, is sad; in stormy weather is almost forbidding. Yet it has a bare frankness that renders it dignified, a large simplicity that is very striking. The frame is sober, the picture within it is amazing, and neither, once seen, can ever be forgotten.—Robert Hichens in Century.

The Joke as Persia Sees It.

The "Man of Jam" was the Joe Miller of Persia, according to Charles Johnston in Harper's Weekly. "For some reason or other the 'Man of Jam' seems to have had a deep detestation of schoolteachers," says this author. "A teacher whose son had fallen ill and was at the point of death bade them send for the washer of corpses to wash his son. 'But,' they objected, 'he is not dead yet!' 'Never mind,' said the teacher; 'he will be dead by the time they have finished washing him.'"

To Bahlul a certain vizier said: "Rejoice at these good tidings. The prince of the faithful has made thee ruler over apes and swine." "Take my orders, then," quickly retorted Bahlul, "for surely thou art of my subjects."

RACES ON SATURDAY

Ten-Mile Marathon the Big Feature

Saturday, June 1, will start the Merchants' Week athletic ball rolling, and the first event on the list will be a ten-mile handicap road race starting in Quincy square at 3 P. M. The route is from Quincy square through Washington street to Quincy Point, to North Weymouth, to Central square, East Weymouth, Broad street to Weymouth Landing, and Quincy avenue back to Quincy Square.

The route is full ten miles and has some good hills throughout its length, and will test the ability of any runner entered in the race.

The prizes are: first, a watch valued at $25; second, a $20. watch; third, a $15 watch; fourth a travelling bag; fifth and sixth, two cups. There is also a $10. cup for the time prize and a special cup for the first Quincy man finishing. The race is sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. N., and every contestant must be registered.

The Y. M. C. A., Quincy High school Fore River Apprentices, Iroquois Club, Mohawk Club, Algonquin Club, and St. Mary's club have entered teams for a relay race of one mile. Each team will have four men and each man will run one quarter of a mile. The prize is a valuable silver cup.

Eight boys from each grammar school will make up relay teams for the one-quarter mile relay for grammar schools and the winning team will receive a silver cup.

There will also be a one quarter mile relay spoon race for school boy teams with a $5. cup for the winner.

Saturday, June 11, the Quincy Fire department, including companies from Atlantic, Wollaston, West Quincy, Quincy Point and Quincy will give a grand exhibition drill and field day in Quincy square. There will be ladder raising contests, hose laying contests, tryouts for greatest length of stream, and many other events peculiar to fire-fighting apparatus. The prizes will be handsome silver trophies.

Every evening from 7.30 to 8.30 the Quincy National Band will give concerts in Quincy Square, and the streets and stores will be specially illuminated. The merchants plan to make this the biggest Merchants' Week yet and cordially invite all to share the pleasure.

BRIEFS

Charles C. Hearns drug store was the first business house to decorate for Merchant's Week.

A race for classes B C D of the Quincy Yacht club will be held Saturday off the club house, starting at 2.45.

Passengers on the steam and electric railroads will probably get confused somewhat Monday, as important changes in the running time of both lines will be made.

Hugh O'Brien an electrician and former resident of this city who has been located in the west for five years has been east on a visit to his brothers well known employees of the Old Colony Street Railway. He left Tuesday night for Seattle where he will take up a large contract for the installation of a street railway.

The official bulletins of the Quincy merchants for booming "trade in Quincy" during Merchants' Week have arrived from the Boston printers and are being distributed in the South Shore towns and the various sections of the city. Merchants' week commences Saturday, June 4, and ends Saturday, June 11, inclusive.

—Mrs. Charles E. Severance of Spokane, who is travelling in Europe, writes to relatives here that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt nonplussed all Paris by injecting a few western expressions into his notable address in the amphitheater of the Sarbonne. "And as a result," she adds, "men of state and affairs, society matrons and debutants, club men, merchants, students and laborers have contracted the 'cinch' habit. They also make frequent use of the word 'shack', employed by the former president in telling a story of the plains, which has for its climax this pregnant sentence: 'If you would steal for me, it's a cinch you will steal from me. Go to the shack and get your time!' Everywhere we heard whisperings of 'what is that "shack"?' and what is the "cinch"?' Another sentence that is likely to become as famous as a Lincoln phrase is distinctively Rooseveltian: 'Every man must pull his own weight before he meddles with the ship of state. Every man's first duty is toward his family. Every child that is brought into the world has a right to the support and protection of its father'."

Man Dies In Yonkers Hospital of Strange Malady

WIFE IS CLOSELY QUESTIONED

Coroner's Inquiry Reveals Secret Wedding of Man Fifty-Nine Years Old to Widow of Twenty-Three—Married For "Companionship" and Agreement Was Made to Live Apart Until Husband Recouped Fortune

New York, June 2.—Through the decision of Coroner Iles to hold an inquest into the death of Edward F. Hollister of Tremont, who died in St. John's hospital, this city, after a short illness, it became known that for nearly two years Hollister had been married. His wife was Mrs. Althea K. Raymond, daughter of Willis W. Knickerbocker of this city. Not even the parents of the young woman knew that she was Mrs. Hollister until her husband died. Hollister was 59 years old. Mrs. Hollister is 23 years old.

According to Mrs. Hollister, she married because she was lonely. The couple never lived together, and it was agreed, she said, at the time of the marriage, in October, 1908, that they would not live as husband and wife until Hollister could recoup the fortune he had lost during the panic of 1907. Hollister had been a friend of the Knickerbocker family for years.

Coroner Iles ordered the inquest into the death of Hollister because of the peculiar circumstances surrounding his death. An autopsy has been performed, but the physicians present report that the man's death was due to natural causes.

Mrs. Hollister has been questioned by both the police and the coroner, and is now in a state of collapse. Her husband, she said, was taken ill on Saturday, a week ago. She nursed him for a couple of days. Seeing him grow weaker she thought it best to have him taken to St. John's hospital. Hollister was too weak to talk after being taken to the hospital.

It was not until the physicians told the young wife told her husband could not live that she told her father that she had married Hollister. Mrs. Hollister was at the hospital from the time her husband was taken there until he died.

Immediately after his death, Coroner Iles and Dr. Barnes, the hospital physician, questioned Mrs. Hollister at length. Mrs. Hollister said: "The coroner asked me many questions about the drugs my husband had taken. Mr. Iles said it looked as though he had taken ground glass."

The coroner ordered an autopsy. Barnes, who performed it, said: "The autopsy shows death was due to natural causes."

Coroner Iles, however, has decided not to end his investigation until an inquest has been held and all the facts brought out.

Mrs. Hollister's first marriage occasioned surprise. She was only 19 years old at the time. On an excursion to West Point in 1906 she was married by a justice of the peace to George Raymond, a wealthy mine promoter and prospector. Raymond was killed in a mine explosion a year later. He left a large fortune to his widow.

Speaking of her marriage, Mrs. Hollister said Hollister was best man at her father's wedding, that he carried her in his arms as a baby, and that their wedding was due to the loneliness of both.

BARE LEAD AT FINISH

Lemberg Wins $32,500 Derby In an Exciting Contest

Epsom Downs, June 2.—The 131st Derby of $32,500 for three-year-olds, distance one mile and a half, the classic of the English turf, was won by Fairie's Lemberg. Seventeen horses started.

From the start the race was between four horses. Greenback settled down in the lead with the two favorites, Lemberg and Neill, second and fourth, respectively. There was little change of positions until the horses were close home, when Lemberg passed Greenback and maintained a bare lead at the finish. Two lengths separated Greenback and Charles O'Malley. Neill Gow was close up in the first flight.

Samples of French Justice

Paris, June 2.—Henri de Lorme, a Paris banker, who moved in the best society and who swindled clients to the amount of $1,000,000, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. Henri Fournier, who stole a pint of cognac, received a similar sentence.

FURTHER ADVANCES ARE TO COME LATER

Single Ticket Passenger Rates From Boston Are Raised

Boston, June 2.—It now costs more money for a good many raiload tickets out of Boston. Rates went up on the Boston and Maine's Fitchburg division and on the Boston and Albany. Increases on the other Boston and Maine divisions will come July 1. The New Haven road, which recently increased the fare to New York by a dime, is expected to put up intervening rates soon. This, it is explained, is the result of recent wage increases on these systems.

Boston and Maine travelers living within fifteen miles of Boston are not affected by the increase, nor are the season ticket or the commutation (twelve-trip) rates any higher. It is the single ticket to distances of sixteen miles from Boston or over, which are higher.

WORK OF A MANIAC

Hurls Missile at Head of German Crown Prince and Hits Policeman

Berlin, June 2.—A Polish Jew attempted to kill Crown Prince Frederick William while the latter rode at the head of the Grenadier Guards in the annual review at Tempelhof field.

The would-be assassin was subsequently identified as Abraham Fierweiss. He was captured after a struggle and doctors who examined him say that he is violently insane. That he does not belong to any organized band of conspirators was shown by the weapon that he used, a large zinc pot which had been filled with beans. He hurled the weapon with terrific force, however, and it narrowly missed the head of the crown prince.

The missile struck the head of a policeman who stood at salute nearby and cut a deep gash in his head.

The crown prince was the representative at the review of the kaiser, who was unable to attend because of the abscess on his wrist.

GOTCH STILL UNCONQUERED

Champion Wrestler Defeats Polander In Two Straight Falls

Chicago, June 2.—Frank Gotch, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, defended his title against Zbyszko, the giant Polander, winning the match in two straight falls.

The champion made a fine record in the first fall. The men had barely come together when Gotch got his hold, a bar and half Nelson, and Zbyszko's shoulders were on the mat and he was adjudged to have lost the fall in 6¼ seconds. This is the fastest time for a fall in any championship match on record.

Gotch won the second fall and match in 27.36 on a bar arm and wrist lock.

Defrauded White Star Line

Liverpool, June 2.—Septimus Tate, agent of the United States Express company, was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment for defrauding the White Star Steamship company by means of false bills of lading.

Book of Psalms to Be Revised

Philadelphia, June 2.—A revised book of psalms was adopted by the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, after a spirited discussion.

La Follette Rate Amendment Killed

Washington, June 2.—The senate defeated Senator La Follette's amendment to the rate bill providing for the physical valuation of railroads.

LOBSTER FIVE FEET LONG

Granddaddy of Crustaceans Tips the Scales at Nearly 25 Pounds

Boston, June 2.—One of the largest lobsters ever taken from the water was brought in by Captain Frank Gaspa of the schooner Matchless.

The crustacean, which weighed nearly twenty-five pounds and which was five feet in length, was taken from the bottom of the ocean off Chatham.

It is estimated that the lobster must have been in the neighborhood of 20 years old.

Six Fishermen Perish

St. Pierre, Miq., June 2.—Six fishermen lost their lives when the French brigantine Mauve struck on Point Blanche while entering St. Pierre in a thick fog.

Kaiser Decorates King Albert

Berlin, June 2.—The kaiser has conferred the Order of the Black Eagle on King Albert of Belgium, who is visiting here with the queen.

QUITE A JOLT FOR ENGLAND

Somewhat Upset by Vigorous Swish of the "Big Stick"

COMMENT OF BRITISH PRESS

Criticism Is Divided According to Party Affiliations, Unionist Newspapers Approving Roosevelt's Speech, While Liberals Say He Hit the Nail on the Head—Humiliating to Receive Rebuke of "Alien Critic"

London, June 2.—Theodore Roosevelt is the object of varying criticism by the press as the result of his speech on the occasion of receiving the freedom of the city of London, in which he bluntly lectured his hosts on the Egyptian question and told them "either to rule Egypt properly or get out."

The editorial comments upon his startling utterances concerning British rule in Egypt are influenced as a rule by partisanship. The Conservative press defends the conclusions drawn by the American statesman, while the Liberal papers oppose his deductions with equal seriousness. But outside the questions of fact set forth, the newspapers almost without exception challenge the propriety of a foreign guest of the city criticising the colonial policy of the empire.

Unionist newspapers take advantage of the incident to attack the present government, while the liberal press rebukes the American visitor for seizing the opportunity of a ceremonial occasion in compliment to himself to attack the national policy on an admittedly delicate situation.

Says The Daily News: "What would Mr. Roosevelt himself have thought if, when the Philippine question was a burning issue in America, or at the height of the agitation against the Japanese, an English statesman who had been premier of England, and might be premier again, had used the opportunity during his receiving the freedom of New York to deliver himself of a trenchant judgment and emphatic advice on these difficult questions? Mr. Roosevelt would have resented this intervention and so would have the American people, without regard to party."

The Standard says: "It is humiliating to receive this rebuke of an alien critic, even from one animated by so sincere a friendship. Yet we cannot deny that the censure is deserved. After all, Mr. Roosevelt does hit the nail on the head, if it is in a rough, sledgehammer fashion."

These two extracts are fairly representative of the comment, favorable and unfavorable, which is being made upon the frank criticism with which Roosevelt astonished all England when he was formally made a freeman of the ancient city of London at the Guild hall.

Mr. Roosevelt read the comments with interest, but neither praise nor condemnation seemed to affect his attitude. When asked his opinion of the editorials, he merely smiled.

Mr. Roosevelt yesterday turned from the profession of world politics to become a student of England's internal affairs. He was given a luncheon at the Carlton hotel by the Irish Nationalists, as the guest of John Redmond, leader of that party.

DIVORCE NOT RECOGNIZED

Priest Refuses to Marry a Couple For the Second Time

Pawtucket, R. I., June 2.—After having been divorced last March on his wife's charge of extreme cruelty, Robert Berndt, a contractor of this city, has succeeded in winning her back and the couple applied at the city hall for a license to remarry.

But when they attempted to put their plans into operation they encountered an obstacle in the form of the Catholic church, which does not recognize the divorce court.

Not only did Father Lowney refuse to perform the ceremony, but his further declared it entirely unnecessary. He said he would give them his blessing instead and they afterwards departed for the summer home of Berndt.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED, by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

THEFTS TOTAL OVER $300,000

Boston Wool Merchants Victims of Organized Looters

ONLY THE SMALL FRY CAUGHT

Leaders Show Intimate Knowledge of Wool Traffic and Employ Marvelous Methods For Keeping Out of Clutches of Police—Robberies In Most Instances Have Been of the Domestic Product, Making Detection Difficult

Boston, June 2.—The most amazing series of robberies ever perpetrated in Massachusetts, through which the wool merchants have lost a sum in wool expected to exceed $300,000, is the startling mystery that confronts the police and officials of this state.

Full bags of wool, weighing about 300 pounds each, have been dumped from caravans at convenient places along Boston's streets, where they were picked up by others of the gang; bales have been dumped in boats that have drawn up under wharves, and other methods have been employed to get the wool without detection.

The thieving members of the ring, so-called, have employed most marvelous methods of burning their bridges behind them so that those whom the police have so far succeeded in bringing to justice are but the small fry.

The wool has been stolen from storage warehouses along the water front, from cars on the different railroads running into this city and from teams used for transporting the large bags from car to storage or from there to the wool merchants' places of business.

It is now almost certain that the wool dealers of Boston will form a protective association. They are also preparing a law requiring all junk dealers to report the receipt of wool and other commodities which are purchased by them when the article is new.

The firms which have suffered greatly from the wool gang have appealed to the police for relief. So far officers have succeeded in bringing some of the teamsters to justice, but up to this time they have been unable to reach the men back of the scheme.

Although it is admitted in many places that the wool robberies will go far above the estimate of $300,000, it is impossible to learn of the exact loss suffered by the merchants dealing in this community. Boston is acknowledged the wool centre of this country, and the business from one year's end to the other goes well up into the millions. Of this the greater part is of domestic wool, which sells to the mills at an average price of from 12 to 28 cents per pound.

The robberies, in most instances, have been of domestic wools, and this in itself shows the adroitness of the ring, as the bonded wool bales are weighed by government employes, and a loss from one of the bales would be readily learned and could promptly be traced.

With their intimate knowledge of the wool traffic and the knowledge that the dealers cannot learn of a loss until the wool stolen has been shipped through many hands, and in most cases is made up into cloth, the gang have been successful to a remarkable degree in covering their trail.

BRIBED TO LEAVE TOWN

Testimony of Woman Bookkeeper In Pawtucket Graft Case

Providence, June 2.—A remarkable story was told in the superior court by Miss Olivine Bedard, formerly a bookkeeper for James Beach, a contractor, who, with Peter Casey, is charged with defrauding the city of Pawtucket by means of false vouchers in stone contracts.

Miss Bedard testified that William H. Barclay, postmaster of Pawtucket and formerly a city official, gave her $200 to leave the city and not testify in the stone contracts case. She went to Springfield, where, she alleges, Barclay followed her and told her the sheriff was looking for her. She then entered a Montreal convent.

In Montreal, the young woman claims, she was visited by a lawyer, who advised her to change her name. She finally did so and went to another convent.

GOVERNMENT ARMY IN FULL RETREAT

Madriz Forces Are Badly Beaten by the Insurgents

Bluefields, June 2.—The campaign of President De Facto Madriz against the provisional capital, Bluefields, came to a disastrous end when the government troops, under General Lara, were driven back in a rout by the insurgent forces of General Estrada, whose battle was won virtually by the American sharpshooters and gunners in his lines. Hundreds fell yesterday.

The expedition against Bluefields has met the same fate as that which was dealt out to the Estrada expedition against Managua, the de facto capital.

The final charge on Bluefields came after a series of minor victories for Estrada. The Madriz soldiers were thrown back and the Estradans charged from their trenches. A desperate hand to hand conflict followed.

BARTLETT ALONE IS HELD

Three Youths Were Simply Hired to Man Stolen Launch

Newburyport, Mass., June 2.—William Bartlett of Boston, A. A. Stowe, George Webster and Archie Perkins, all of Haverhill, pleaded not guilty in court here to a charge of the larceny of the steam launch belonging to George E. Whitney of New York city.

The launch in question was said to be stolen from Whitney's summer home at Island Pond, N. H., brought to averhill on a dray and put into the Merrimack river, where the four were captured after a hot chase by the Haverhill and local authorities.

The complaints against Stowe, Webster and Perkins were filed, and Bartlett's case continued one week, Bartlett furnishing bonds of $500.

The police were satisfied that the trio of Haverhill youths were simply hired to help man the boat and that they had no hand in any theft.

MARTIN WALSH IS NAMED

Keliher Witness Identifies Chief In the Coleman Bunco Game

Boston, June 2.—"Jack Leonard," the man of mystery who played such a prominent part in connection with "Big Bill" Keliher in swindling George W. Coleman by means of fake faro in New York, according to the sworn story of Coleman on the witness stand, was identified as Martin J. Walsh, regarded as "the brains of the faro bunco gang."

Coleman told on the stand how "Jack" induced him to begin gambling after he had quit the game by introducing him to Keliher in Boston a year ago. George H. Lowe, who knew Walsh well, identified pictures in the trial of Keliher as those of Walsh, that Coleman and Lockhart had previously declared were the pictures of "Jack."

"Jack" disappeared when the coils of the law began to close about Coleman. He had lived luxuriously on Huntington avenue. Prospective victims of the faro gang, it has been declared, were wined and dined in Walsh's establishment. Walsh's whereabouts are not known, as he fled when the expose came.

Washington, June 2.—Justice Harlan of the supreme court of the United States celebrated yesterday his 77th birthday anniversary. His year's work is finished and Saturday he will be off to Murray Bay, Canada, to play golf until next October.

Justice Harlan is the dean of the bench, having been a justice for nearly thirty-three years. If he lives two more years he will have served longer than any man who ever sat upon the bench. He has no thought of retiring.

FLAYS HIBBARD'S POLITICAL ENEMIES

Minister Says Former Mayor Was Stabbed In the Back

Boston, June 2.—In the presence of over 1000 people, among whom were numbered the highest officials of this state and city, representatives of the federal government and scores of others prominent in the social, business and political life of the entire state, Dr. John H. Holmes flayed the political enemies of the late Mayor Hibbard at the funeral exercises of the latter, in the Church of the Third Religious society (Unitarian).

Declaring that the experiences of Hibbard during the past three months were heartbreaking, he asserted that some of the wounds from which he died were stabs in the back, dealt by those whom he thought were his friends.

Pillorying those whose standards Hibbard carried and who deserted him, he said, in his hour of need, Haynes referred to the pages of tributes which were paid to Hibbard after his death, saying that many of them came from those who scandalized him when he was in life.

BANKERS SENT TO JAIL

President and Cashier of Pittsburg Institution Are Also Fined

Pittsburg, June 2.—After having pleaded no defense to charges of conspiracy and bribery in connection with the recent municipal corruption exposures, two bankers were sentenced to jail and fined.

E. H. Jennings, president of the Columbia National bank, and G. A. Greffen, cashier of the same institution, appeared before five judges, the former receiving a fine of $500 and a sentence of two months in jail, and the latter receiving a fine of $500 and a sentence of four months in jail. The two bankers were immediately taken to jail to begin their term of sentence.

Jennings and Greffen confessed to the court some time ago that they had contributed their share of a pool with which to influence legislation in city council looking towards the selection of their bank as one of five city depositaries.

A KISS

He Was Forgiven Only Because She Was Equally Culpable.

By F. TOWNSEND SMITH.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The night was dark as Erebus. It rained, the wind blew, and the streets were flooded.

There are two suburban towns—Bloomington and Rosedale—near the city in which I have an office, my residence being in one of these towns. They are five miles apart and were at the time of which I write connected by an execrable road. I live in Rosedale, but on this wild night I was in Bloomington attending a social gathering. I telephoned for a cab, but a reply came over the wire that not a conveyance was to be had.

Turning up my trousers, buttoning my coat and opening my umbrella, I sallied forth, trusting that I might pick up some conveyance to hire.

I found nothing in the way of a vehicle on the streets and, reaching the town limits, left street lamps behind me, pushing on into the darkness. I had walked or waded perhaps half a mile when, seeing something dark ahead of me close by the sidewalk, I approached it curiously. What was my surprise to find a carriage. This I knew rather by feeling than sight. I groped my way to its front, and there were two horses standing, with their heads lowered, patiently enduring the rain. I took my matchbox from my pocket and, drawing forth a match—it was the only one left—struck it. It was extinguished by the wind, but not before I had caught a glimpse of a coachman in waterproofs on the box, leaning back against the body of the carriage fast asleep.

I shouted to him, then shook him. It was some time before I aroused him and then could get nothing out of him as to how he came to be in such a singular position. Indeed, he didn't seem to know. He asked if I was the man who had been beside him awhile ago. I asked him for what point he had been headed when he had dropped off to sleep, and he said Rosedale.

"Very well," I replied, "start up your horses and we'll go there."

I thought it better for me to remain beside him till he became fully awakened, fearing he would fall off the box. I stayed by him till we had gone perhaps a mile, when he seemed in better condition, and, since I was getting drenched, I concluded to get inside the carriage. I directed him to pull up and, dismounting from my perch, found the handle of the door and in another moment was sitting on the rear seat.

There was a curious odor inside which I had smelled before, but could not remember what it was. The window was closed, and I opened it. I thought I would smoke, but remembered that I had used my last match. The jolting of the carriage was such that I braced myself in my corner. Dropping my hand beside me, it lighted on some delicate fabric like silk. I was astonished, but had cause for more astonishment when in another moment, the carriage passing over a hollow place in the road, some one was thrown up against my shoulder.

Instinctively I put out my hands for protection and encountered a woman.

I was seized with a desire to get out of the carriage despite the storm and without waiting for it to stop. I called to the driver, who drew up, and I asked him if he knew who was in his carriage. He seemed still dazed, at any rate so far as memory goes, and said that he didn't know that there was any one inside. Then he said he had started with a lady, but he didn't know whether she had left him or not.

There was silence for a moment, and I could hear the person beside me breathing. I judged that we were midway between Bloomington and Rosedale. We might as well go on as go back. There were few houses on the way, and the people in them were all abed. I told the driver to drive as fast as the road would admit. There was some one in the carriage who might need medical attention.

He whipped up his horses, and the jolting was terrible. It occurred to me that it would awaken any one with a spark of life. To facilitate matters I let down the other window so as to give plenty of air. Within ten minutes I had evidence that my companion was moving voluntarily; then a gasp.

"Where am I? What is it?"

"Don't be frightened," I said.

"Has he gone?"

"Who?"

"The man who got in beside me and held a cloth against my face."

"Oh! That's the explanation, is it?"

"My brooch—it is gone!"

"Anything else missing?"

"I had nothing else with me. But how did you come to be here?"

All this was spoken in a frightened voice, and I knew that she was drawing away from me. I told her what she wished to know. Then she enlightened me still further. She said that while passing out of Bloomington the carriage had stopped, and she heard a man talking with the driver. Then the man got up on the box. She saw the flare of a match, and she smelt tobacco smoke. There was an odor to the smoke that made her feel ill. Presently the carriage stopped, and the man who had got up beside the driver descended from the box and got into the carriage. Frightened, she ordered him out, but he forced a cloth over her mouth and nose, and that was all she remembered.

It was all plain to me now. A robber had persuaded the coachman to let him ride, had given him a drugged cigar and had then administered ether or chloroform to the lady inside and robbed her. This explained her asking if I was the man who had been beside her.

The lady on coming to herself was in a much better condition than the coachman. The drug used in his case had undoubtedly been different from that used on her.

"I think you must be a gentleman," she said, "judging from the tone of your voice."

"I return the compliment. Your voice is not only that of a lady, but is very soft and sweet."

"It seems to me that I have heard yours before," she said after a pause.

"I was going to say the same of yours."

"We may be acquainted."

"Quite possibly."

"Who are you?"

By this time it struck me that this was quite an adventure. I was not disposed to spoil it by giving up my identity too soon. I gave a fictitious name.

"I'm disappointed," she said. "I was sure I knew you, and I would have felt so relieved if you had turned out to be one of my friends."

"I assure you of my protection. But you have not given me your own name."

"That is not necessary since I have learned that we are not acquainted. I wish I could see you. Have you no way of making a light?"

"I had only one match, and I have used that. I do not need to see you to know that you are young and beautiful."

"I am young, but a fright. I am pitted with smallpox scars. I suppose I needn't ask you if you are handsome?"

"I am considered the homeliest man in my set."

She had so far recovered her equanimity to give a little laugh.

"Do you live hereabout?" she asked.

"Yes; in Rosedale. I have been to a musicale in Bloomington."

"And I have been to a dance there."

"At the Springers'?"

"Yes. Do you know them?"

"I do. I was invited to their dance, but had previously accepted an invitation at the Deerings'."

"We know the same people, then."

"And you are reassured?"

"Certainly."

"And don't feel any compunction at riding in pitch darkness with a strange gentleman?"

"None whatever, since I am sure he is a gentleman."

"You can trust me. I have recently become engaged."

"Oh, then I'm safe indeed!"

This was said in a tone that made me take notice. It did not seem to me that the lady cared especially about being so safe. I permitted my hand to fall upon hers. She allowed it to remain there.

"You are not the person you claim to be at all," she said. "I didn't recognize you at first, but I have done so since."

"Indeed!"

"And I question if you are one of the goody-goody kind."

"I don't know that I am."

"Are you really engaged?"

"I certainly am."

She leaned very close against me, and I felt her warm breath on my cheek. I was sure that, knowing me, she was intending to play some prank on me, get me to kiss her and tell my fiancee, or something like that. I steeled myself against her blandishments. I was really more interested in discovering who she was than anything else.

"Do you know my fiancee?" I asked.

"Yes, I do."

"Do you admire her?"

"Not especially."

"Will you give me five guesses?"

"Not one."

Just then we passed on a horrible scoop in the road. She was thrown against me, her cheek being pressed against mine. My will power was broken. I twisted my arm around her neck, held her fast and kissed her. She freed herself.

There was an ominous silence.

"Now I suppose you're going to blame me."

No answer.

"It is rather off color for me to take advantage of this peculiar situation to take a kiss."

Was that a sob?

Great heavens! What had I done? I must have mistaken her. My action had been black as the night. I would give five years of my life to recall that kiss.

"Forgive me," I pleaded.

"Never!"

Good gracious! Suppose she told this to my fiancee. Edith might forgive my kissing another, but my taking a kiss under the circumstances she would consider simply brutal.

"Are you going to tell on me?" I asked in a supplicating tone.

"Oh, no; I won't [illegible] you."

We had reached [illegible]. An electric light flashed into the carriage.

"Edith!" I exclaimed in amazement.

"You've kissed another girl," she moaned.

"I've kissed you, sweetheart, not another girl at all."

"I'll never forgive you."

"Then I'll never forgive you."

"Why?" she asked, starting.

"You've kissed another man."

I was even with her, so I received a free pardon.

BRIEFS

The contested election case of Galvin vs. O'Connell has not yet been decided by Congress.

The Daily Ledger will have more comments on the new train service tomorrow.

Miss Miriam N. Marsh of Irving place received her degree at the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University on Wednesday.

Postmaster Charles L. Hammond attended on Wednesday the funeral of George A. Hibbard ,ex-postmaster and ex-mayor of Boston.

The Rev. Joseph Candlin, pastor of St. Andrews church of Boston, will preach at the Hall Place M. E. church Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor.

Miss Hulda Johnson ,a daughter of Mrs. Julius Johnson ,is the new clerk of the Quincy Board of Trade in place of Miss Marden, who has moved to North Hanson.

The Christian Endeavor society of Bethany church holds a strawberry social this evening in the chapel to which they extend this invitation "Kum an hev sum phun."

Rev. Charles P. Marshall of the Quincy Point church attended on Memorial day the dedication of a soldier's monument at Westford, where he was formerly pastor. Ex-Gov. Long was the orator.

At the dog show held at Mineola, Long Island, on Wednesday and Thursday the Mayhurst kennels owned by George L. Haupt of the Fore River succeeded in winning first with their "Mayhurst Nebe" and second with "Mayhurst Chorus Lady." Cocker Spaniels was the largest entry of any breed. Also larger than any entry held at the New York or the Boston shows this winter the entries of Cocker Spaniels totaling up over 100, the Mayhursts naturally feeling gratified at making such a good winning in such good company.

Maidens Sold by Auction.

A singular custom obtains to this day in some of the towns on the lower Rhine—namely, that of "selling" maidens at public auction. For nearly four centuries on Easter Monday—auction day—the town crier or clerk of St. Goar has called all the young people together and to the highest bidder sold the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl and her only during the entire year. The fees are put into the public poor box.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

The Elevated and the New Haven Both Successful

The Elevated merger bill was ordered to a third reading in the Senate on Wednesday, and the Charlestown grade crossing resolve was passed to engrossment.

The bill to provide for auditing of municipal accounts by the director of the bureau of statistics was ordered to a third reading.

The two milk resolves were advanced.

The House on roll call passed by a vote of 137 to 72 the bill to authorize the New Haven R. R. to purchase the Berkshire street railway. By a larger vote the veto of the 8-hour bill by Gov. Draper was sustained.

ANOTHER MEN'S CLUB.

An enthusiastic body of Houghs Neck citizens met at Union chapel, Tuesday evening ,to put into operation a Men's club. The pastor was elected temporary president, and Charles E. Decker temporary secretary. Other temporary officers were elected and appointed to promote the affair. They will report at the next meeting. At the same meeting a constitution will be adopted and premanent officers elected.

The committee on constitution consists of Messrs, Benn, Webster and French.

Henry W. French spoke at some length of the Men's club of Christ church, Quincy ,and its efforts and achievements.

The next meeting will be at Union chapel, Monday, June 6, at 8 P. M., and all Houghs Neck men over 18 years of age are invited to attend and become charter members.

SPORTING NOTES.

Another at home game in the Old Colony league will be played on Saturday, when the Quincys will meet the Rocklands, who played a 11 innings 3 to 3 game with the Deweys on the holiday. The Randolphs will play at Weymouth and the Lincolns at Stoughton.

The Lynn High is scheduled to play Quincy High here tomorrow.

PRIZE BOWLING.

The regular meeting of Knights and Ladies of Honor was held in Protection hall Wednesday, after which a prize bowling contest was enjoyed sides being chosen by Captain Lizzie Furnald and E. Dexter Proyse. Miss Furnald's team won. Prizes were awarded to Edward Langley, Clarence Proyse, Horace Patmos and Mrs. Sarah C. Williams.

Why They Smiled.

It was the Sabbath day, and the elder was shaving himself prior to church time when he made a slight cut with the razor on the extreme end of his nose. Calling his wife, he asked her if she had any court plaster.

"You will find some in my sewing basket," she said.

The elder soon had the cut covered. At church in assisting with the collection he noticed every one smile as he passed the plate. Very much annoyed, he asked one of his assistants if there was anything wrong with his appearance.

"I should say there was," answered the assistant. "What is that upon your nose?"

"Court plaster."

"No," said his friend; "it is the label from a reel of cotton. It says, 'Warranted 200 yards.'"—Pearson's.

Corrected.

It is the custom of a well known minister to point his sermons with either "dearly beloved brethren" or "now, my brothers." One day a lady member of his congregation took exception to this.

"Why do you always preach to the gentlemen and never to the ladies?" she asked.

"My dear lady," said the beaming vicar, "one embraces the other."

"But not in the church!" was the instant reply.

STORIES OF THE DIAMOND.

Bill Dahlen of Brooklyn Tells of Managers' Hard Lot.

APPLAUDED WHILE WINNING.

When Club Strikes Losing Streak Fans Tender No Sympathy to the Pilot. Leader of Big League Team Has Thankless Task at All Times.

No. VI.

By BILL DAHLEN.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Very few people, except those who possess inside knowledge, are familiar with the trials of a manager of a major league ball team and with what he has to contend. Let me tell you, a manager's path is not strewn with roses; but, on the contrary, it is a position beset with tribulations, of sleepless nights and of hopes often unfulfilled, particularly when conducting the affairs of a losing club. The fans will not stand for a persistent loser, and the team which is unable to make a fairly good showing in the pennant race soon loses support and is termed "lemons," "clucks," "dubs" and "has-beens," and the leader of such a club is set down in the same class.

In the present day baseball game the manager is the man who has to stand or fall. It's up to him as far as the public goes. And yet how many of the fans who go to ball games know or even care who the manager of a team is as long as it continues to win? But if it loses—wow! Then the manager gets it, and gets it good and plenty. The fans only blame the manager. They forget there is an owner behind the manager, who may be more to blame than he.

In order to be a successful manager in the major leagues today one must possess a large amount of gray matter, up to date ideas and knowledge of the intricate points of play. Not only must he have a full understanding of the game, but he must be able to instill the knowledge into the heads of the players comprising his team. The majority of the leaders in the big leagues today have knowledge of the game through practical experience and active participation as players. In following the game day in and day out all of its scientific features are presented to them. Almost every day the plays that are pulled off are the result of deep study and mature meditation.

One of the big woes of a manager is the daily advice of patrons who by word of mouth and numerous letters insist upon telling him how the team should be run. Of course this advice is thankfully received and immediately followed—nit. If these fans had their way changes in the team would be made every day and new players would be coming in by the train load.

The hardest part of a manager's work lies in the selection of his team, weeks and months being spent in scouring the country for promising material. If out of a half dozen selections one real diamond star is discovered the manager considers himself very lucky, for the ratio of young players making good in fast company is only one in six.

In the spring, when reporting time arrives, the manager awakens to the fact that his troubles are to commence. With twenty or thirty players from which to select a regular team his work is cut out for him, and he passes days of anxiety and suspense. After many trials his choice is made. Those who have not displayed the requisite speed are returned to the minors. The manager is filled with hope and fear. If his team starts in a rut and everything breaks badly he knows that he will pass a season of discontent and become the target of abuse. His hours will be full of unrest and devoid of pleasure.

Then the fans will submit hundreds of letters telling him of the players that he should get, many of whom could not be secured for love or money. When he is recognized on the streets he is met with sour looks and coldly greeted. Then perhaps some one will hurl the questions at him: "Why don't you do this?" "Why don't you do that?" "What do you mean by letting the team go to the dogs?" "Are you trying to kill the game?"

While the manager feels like soaking the interrogator he is forced to smile a sickly smile and work his thought tank in an endeavor to pacify the irate fan. While sitting on the players' bench he may have to listen to such expressions as these: "Bum team," "They're rotten," "Punk," "Rank aggregation" and "Get a new manager." After listening to these comforting words for a couple of hours each day the pilot of the team is thankful when darkness envelops the land and he can retire in restful slumber.

A manager's berth in the major leagues is no sinecure. It may continue for one or a dozen years, according to the measure of success attained, and the incumbent is always on easy street. In that capacity one may be worthy of a medal today, the tin can tomorrow. The fans are prone to applaud the successful and heap coals of fire on the heads of the unfortunate. A baseball manager is up today and down tomorrow.

RUBE'S SPORTING CHAT

Good afternoons friends.

The Old Colony league got under way in good style.

The various prizes for the many athletic events to be held in connection with the Merchants' celebration Saturday can be viewed in the large window at the Quincy Savings bank. They look good to me.

I have received from Sporting Life Publishing Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., schedules of both the National and American leagues, and I can safely say they are by far the best thing of the kind ever published. Every one who knows baseball should secure one of these minature baseball encyclopedias, for they are indispensable to all lovers of the national game who wish to keep posted on the doings of the clubs in the major leagues.

Hats off to "Brodie" Bjorkland. This well-known swatter and manager of the Quincy Old Colony league club got back at the knockers on Memorial day by his timely hitting. "Brodie" proved easy for the would-be pitchers in the exhibition games, as they did not have the curves and speed he is used to, but he was there strong on the opening, driving in runs that counted in both of the contests. You fans, give this lad a show and whether you are from Missouri or not I predict he will "show us" something soon.

"Joe" Elcock is as busy as any man in this city arranging for the big athletic events to Saturday Elcock and E. J. Murphy have labored hard to make these events eclipse anything of the kind ever held in this section and it is the belief of many they will do it. The only man they ask anything of is the weather-man, and if he is kind enough to give them a good day we may expect big things.

Looking over the clubs in the Old Colony league I would say they are pretty evenly matched. As I predicted, those Lincoln players are a bunch of "wooders" and will bear watching. Quincy is a big favorite, as is the Dewey club. Randolph have a fast outfit and "Pop" Mahar proved to be able to use his head in good shape for Rockland. Bigney the new manager at Stoughton broke even on the holiday and will keep in the running.

"Jimmy" Michael the local star twirler has gone to Westville, Nova Scotia, to pitch for a baseball club the coming season. "Jimmy" started his career as a slab artist for Quincy High school several seasons back, and since then has pitched for Quincy and the Makarias. He is a popular boy and carries with him the best wishes of the multitude of fans in this section who hope he makes good from the start.

HOW JOHNSON TRAINS FOR MILL

Colored Champion Has Laid Out Strenuous Schedule.

BOXES TWELVE ROUNDS DAILY

Negro Encourages Rough Work From His Sparring Partners—Has Tom Flanagan Helping Him, but "Jack Johnson" Is His Trainer.

By TOMMY CLARK.

Jack Johnson's adherents are breathing easy now that the colored champion has begun earnest training for his mill with Jeffries at Ocean Beach, near San Francisco. Johnson has outlined a schedule which he intends to follow strictly from now on until a week or so before the big fight. According to the colored champion, it will be all work at his camp. Johnson has declared that he has a real respect for the routine training formalities and that he will not prepare in the haphazard fashion that bids fair to characterize Camp Jeffries at Rowardennan.

Johnson is a stickler for doing one thing at a certain hour each day. On the other hand, Jeffries, while working hard and faithfully, follows a plan that allows him to do practically what he feels like. The wisdom of the daily sameness of Johnson's plan or the wide range in Jeffries' work will not be known until Independence day.

Johnson's program provides for a daily rising time of 6 o'clock. He then dons spike shoes and runs or walks ten miles over the roads as a starter, accompanied by two trainers. Then come the rubbers, who work over the negro while the morning meal is being prepared. At 7:30 o'clock breakfast will be served.

Having enjoyed his possum and beverage, which incidentally is not served in a bucket, Johnson tests the county's automobile speed laws. A spin around San Francisco in a motorcar is calculated to aid the digestion of the day's first meal. A visit to the gymnasium is billed for 10 o'clock. Here the usual bag punching, shadow boxing, medicine ball drill and other stunts are enacted. A rest follows, and then Johnson assaults the midday efforts of his cooks.

Another rest is taken after dinner, followed by the real work of the day. At 3 o'clock Johnson begins boxing. The negro boxes twelve rounds daily. These bouts are the real article without the posing of the vaudeville stage. Rough work is encouraged. Another spin in the ever ready automobile, supper and an orchestral entertainment by the camp's talent completes the routine. At 10 o'clock Johnson is tucked away in his little crib.

Tom Flanagan, the old trainer of pedestrians, bicycle riders and fighters, is conditioning him. While Flanagan has charge of his road work, the colored champion has made it clear that "Jack Johnson" will be his trainer.

Joe Rogers, the wrestler, is helping him train. Rogers, who commonly is known as the American Apollo, is one of the biggest men in the country. He weighs close to 300 pounds and is fairly active for his weight. Besides being a good mat artist, Rogers can go a few with the gloves, and Johnson believes the big fellow will do him a lot of good.

Kid Cotton, Joe Choynski's protege, and Monte Cutler, who has been Jack's sparring partner in his theatrical work, are his other sparring partners. All of his training partners weigh over 190 pounds, and they are young, strong fellows.

Professional Coach Barred In West.

While delegates representing the colleges in the Missouri valley conference in Kansas City voted to retain football, hard and fast restraints were made as to matches. Intercollegiate Thanksgiving day games were abolished except where already contracted for. After Dec. 1, 1910, no athletic coach is to be allowed except he be a regular member of the teaching staff employed for the full academic year.

Marathon Running.

Tom Flanagan, former manager of Tom Longboat, the Indian, says: "One Marathon at top speed is the work of a lifetime. If it is in a big event you are a hero; if it is in a small affair you never amount to anything."

PARK ASSESSMENTS UPON NEW BASIS

New Special Commission Will Hear Arguments of Different Cities and Towns

For Past Five Years Has Been Largely on Valuation

Mayor Shea and City Solicitor Mcgarney were among the representatives of the several cities and towns of the Metropolitan district that were present Thursday at the hearing before the special commission appointed by the supreme court to apportion the cost of Metropolitan Parkways and the maintenance of the same for the next five years. The commission answered all questions of counsel in regard to the cost and maintenance, and announced that arguments would be taken up in order.

The commission also announced that it will alos take up the question of the Charles River basin and bridge. The City of Boston and City of Cambridge will stand the expense of the bridge, but the expense of the basin will be apportioned among the cities and towns in the Metropolitan district.

The time for filing written interrogatories was extended until next Monday, as to the Charles River basin, and they will be answered the following Thursday. On Monday, June 13, counsel from the several cities, in alphabetical order, will make their arguments and the counsel for the several towns will follow.

The chairman of, the commission announced that the commission would ignore the finding of the last commission, who based their assessment on valuation, and in the present hearings would not be bound by any of the old rulings.

BALLOU ROCHE WEDDING

West Quincy Groom Takes Neponset Bride

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Neponset Wednesday evening, when Miss Catherine G. Roche and Dr. Ambrose Roche Ballou were united in marriage at St. Anne's parochial residence by Rev. Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, formerly pastor of St. Mary's church at West Quincy. The bride, who is a popular contralto soloist, is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Roche, one of the oldest residents of Neponset. Dr. Ballou is a graduate of the Baltimore medical college and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ballou of West Quincy. Mr. Ballou, the father of the groom, being a well known granite dealer.

The bride was prettily gowned in white satin and duchess lace, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Alice M. Fitzgerald of East Boston, who wore a lavender messaline and carried white carnations.

The best man was Arthur C. Ballou, a brother of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's mother on Minot street and was attended by many of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom, from Boston, Quincy, Milton and Lowell.

Dr. and Mrs. Ballou were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents. After receiving showers of confetti, they left for a trip to Washington. On their return they will reside on Neponset avenue.

MERCHANTS' WEEK.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Merchants' Week was held Thursday evening at the rooms of the Board of Trade. The several committees reported that everything was going all right for merchants' week, which commences Saturday. It was reported that the committee had been unable to secure an advertising car from the street railway and considerable feeling was expressed.

Tomorrow is donation day at the Pond home and several from Quincy are planning to attend and take goodly donations. This home for aged people maintained by the King's Daughters and Sons of Norfolk County is doing a noble work.

KNIGHTS IN UNIFORM

Attend Funeral Services of George Ruxton

"He had a big heart and was true to his friends." This was one of the tributes paid by the Rev. Dr. Hardy to thememory of George Ruxton in his address at the funeral services on Thursday afternoon, and the large number of people who were present attested by their presence the truth of the tribute. Incidentally, the statement expressed the secret of Mr. Ruxton's popularity. He had a big heart and was true to his friends.

The funeral was held from the home of the deceased at 2.30 and was largely attended, the house being literary filled with friends that he and his family had acquired during the few years since they came to Quincy. The local commandery of the Knights of Malta sent a delegation of fourteen members in uniform. The Grand commandery sent a delegation of six including the grand chaplain, the Rev. W. H. Lannin of Somerville. Quincy lodge, L. O. L. also sent a delegation and there were present several Masonic friends and representatives of the granite business.

There were many floral offerings, including a Maltese cross and crossed swords from the Knights of Malta, pillow of pinks from Quincy lodge, and American Beauty roses from Rural lodge of Masons.

Rev. Edwin N. Hardy conducted services at the home, and the Malta burial rites were performed at the grave. Three beautiful selections were sung at the house by Mrs. Edith Carey Page and Mrs. Ernest V. Fitts. John Hall was in charge of the funeral.

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL.

At Bethany chapel Thursday night the Y. P. S. C. E. gave a strawberry social to which the members of all the societies in the Union were invited, and were largely represented, the 200 young people who attended spent the early part of the evening playing games in the chapel. After the games the gathering adjourned to the dining room below to partake of strawberries- cake and ice cream. The room was decorated in red and white, and the tables were arranged in the form of a giant "C" enclosing a smaller letter "E" for the initials of the Christian Endeavor. The social was in charge of Mabel Lovejoy, chairman of the social committee and Alden H. Blanchard, president of the society, and was a great success.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE

will Cause Changes for Quincy Commuters

The new timetable of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. which will go into effect on Sunday is causing considerable comment, because the changes are so marked. Many note improvements while others criticise it, and it remains to be seen how it will work out.

Under the existing timetable, the running time to Boston is 16 to 20 minutes and in some cases 28 minutes; the time for the new expresses will be cut to 15 minutes and the trains which stop only at Wollaston will make the run in 16 minutes. Other trains take 20 to 27 minutes.

Where one can conveniently take the expresses or the trains which leave for Boston at four minutes past the hour there will be no kicking, but the accommodation trains which make all stops will always be unpopular for through passengers.

An absence of trains to Boston between 7 and 8 A. M. has been noted, there being only three trains by the new timetable, where there were five before. The waits between 7.12 and 7.32, and between 7.39 and 8.05 will seem quite long after the excellent service of recent years.

Between 8 and 9 A. M. there will be four good trains where there are now but three. Between 9 and 10 there is but one train, and then about two per hour up to 7 P. M., and one per hour in the evening.

The new schedule ensures Quincy good express trains from Boston hourly, leaving Boston at 45 minutes past the hour and arriving on the even hour. Between these will be accommodation trains, leaving at 15 minutes past the hour and arriving at 41 minutes past, which will require no changes for passengers bound for way stations or between way stations, as now necessary either at Atlantic o Harrison Square. During the busy parts of the day there are extra trains, for example between 1 and 2 P. M., and between 5 and 7 P. M.

Considerable criticism, however, is heard concerning the late trains from Boston, and there seems a demand for more than two trains between 8.05 and 11.15. Quincy people anxious to get home would like to have trains from Boston at 8.00, 9.00, 10.00 and 10.45, as well as 11.15 and 11.25.

The improved service between Quincy and the South Shore towns will be appreciated, and should bring more people to Quincy to trade as no change will be necessary either way at Braintree. There will also be good service between Quincy and Nantasket on week days and Sundays.

The train service of Wollaston will be about the same as Quincy, but in all cases they will not have the same trains. Quincy Adams, Norfolk Downs and Atlantic will have less trains. West Quincy is pleased that her trains will make fewer stops, and also the fact that it will have through service both ways with South Braintree, Brockton and other stations to the South.

The new timetable for Quincy showing all stops and running time appears in the Ledger today.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.

The ladies and gentlemen who took part in the presentation of the opera "Chimes of Normandie" were entertained Thursday evening by Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, at Electa and Protection halls. During the evening Miss Helen Galvin, Daniel Bowen and Mr. Wilson sang a trio from the opera of Robin Hood, and the party sang selections from the opera Mikado and Chimes of Normandy. It was decided to hold an opera party next Monday evening, at which time they will hear the Mikado sung by professionals at the Boston opera house. A fine supper was served at 10 o'clock and the evening closed with dancing.

SUPPORT NOW PLEDGED

C. L. U. to Work for Success of Fourth

The Central Labor Union held a largely attended meeting Thursday evening, and voted to give the Fourth of July celebration hearty support both financially and otherwise. In the interests of harmony and success they have receded from their original stand, and desire to cooperate that Quincy may have a rousing good time.

GRAND PICNIC FOR HOLIDAY

West Quincy Making Great Plans for Seventeenth

A meeting of the West Quincy Improvement Association was held Thursday evening and was given up largely to planning for the grand picnic to be held under the auspices of the association June 17, at Elcock's grove, Braintree pond. The several committees in charge reported that all arrangements had been made, and that everything was moving along nicely, and that one grand good time was assured those who attend. The refreshment committee reported that they had made sufficient arrangements so that there would be no lack of food.

During the day there will be a series of sports and a game of base ball between the two old rivals, the Copelands and St. Mary's. This game will be played on merit, and the winner will be given a liberal purse.

A communication was received from the parade committee of the July Fourth celebration committee, asking that a delegate be sent to a general meeting of delegates from all organization of the city to be held June 3 at Union hall. President Little was appointed to represent the society at this meeting.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Is there not in some quarters a poor appreciation of the reduced rates which the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company have just put into effect? The reduction from 17 cents to 15 cents per killowat hour for light means considerable to Quincy consumers, and will cut the revenue of the company about $6,000 per year, and Supt. Austin told the Board of Trade that there would be further reductions as the volume of business increases. It is the volume of business he says which is the big favor.

Quincy should not overlook several facts. One is that the company is a Quincy company, and that practically all the stock is owned by Quincy people. That they are more interested in iving Quincy good service than a company of foreign stockholders would be. That the company today is giving excellent service, both for power and light. Large manufacturers of Quincy are getting electric power at a lower rate than in Boston and most cities of the State. The city itself is getting street lights at a very favorable figure. And the rates for private lighting also compare favorably with cities outside the Edison district.

It is very important that the company should be prosperous, and all should be glad that the Quincy company has at last got on a good footing. It has an up-to-date well equipped plant, and is paying the city a large sum annually in taxes. No one charges that the company is over capitalized, or that the service is poor. Why not give credit for effort to give the best service possible, at the lowest price possible!

DRIFT OF OPINION

Nahum J. Bachelder, former Governor of New Hampshire, who is master of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, might well have the title of patron of publicity in view of the excellent and persistent work he has done in setting forth the attractions of the Granite state. The 1910 edition of "New Hampshire Farms for Summer Homes" is just out. He is its editor, the publication being issued by the state board of agriculture. Particularly timely are the facts and figures to show that money can be made on the New Hampshire farm by dairying, market gardening, raising hay, vegetables and fruits and stock breeding. Typical cases are given where success has been won.

As in former years, the beauties of New Hampshire that appeal to the summer visitor are pictured in glowing colors. Mr. Bachelder reviews the progress of New Hampshire as a summer home state, giving estimates of money spent and invested by summer visitors, the number of those who bought farms or built bungalows, the growth of the great hotels, etc., with illustrations of handsome places. Mountains and valleys, river and lakes are described and the charms of each and all are so deftly and clearly painted that one cannot help feeling a desire to see them.

The advertising of a state is not unlike advertising a business in the newspaper—if judiciously done, the investment is bound to show satisfactory results. Persistency is a great factor, and New Hampshire appears to realize this, for year after year it keeps telling the world that New Hampshire is a delightful region to visit and equally pleasant as a place of residence. As a consequence, the tide of travel into the Granite state is annually increasing and its population is growing.—Christion Science Monitor.

Salem is to have a business and advertising agent, is it? Well, every big business concern these days has its advertising agent and its business agent. Why should not a city? A city is nothing more nor less than a consolidated business concern. The Board of Trade certainly has its face turned toward the morning—Salem News.

Edna—"Stop flattering me , or I'll put my hands over my ears."

COMMODITY RATES RAISED

Flood of New Railroad Tariffs Reaches Washington

THE EAST IS NOW AFFECTED

Average Increase Said to Be Between Ten and Fifteen Percent—Like Action Taken In Middle West—Technical Question Raised by Lawyers as to What the "Existing Rate" Really Is

Washington, June 3.—The eastern railroads have joined the western in the rate-increase movement, and the department of justice will be called upon again to institute suits to enjoin the roads from making the rates effective July 5. It is expected that schedules of increased rates will be filed by all the roads in the east.

The new rates began to pour into the office of the interstate commerce commission yesterday, regardless of the injunction proceedings already begun against the roads in the Western Trunk Line association. The increases are on commodity rates. The commission has not yet had time to figure out the percentage of increase. Unofficially, it is said to average between 10 to 15 percent, but the commission does not verify these figures.

Not only have the eastern roads started to shove up rates, but the railroads in Central Freight association territory have taken like action. All the roads operating in the territory between Chicago, Cincinnati and Louisville and reaching as far as Milwaukee, twenty-two lines in all, and the Hill steamship line, have filed schedules increasing commodity rates.

The increases in the Ohio-Indiana territory are on a wide range of commodities. The freight traffic officials of the interstate commerce commission have not made comparisons of all of them. But they range, so far as compared, from 6 percent to 31 percent.

The highest increase is on tar oil, amounting to 31 percent. The rates go into effect July 1. Like the increased schedules filed by the western roads which have been enjoined, the increased schedules of the roads in the Ohio-Indiana region have been filed in concert. That is to say, there is, according to the commission reports, prima facie evidence of a united action and of a conspiracy in restraint of trade under the Sherman law.

This means that the department of justice will undertake to enjoin the increases. If Attorney General Wickersham takes action consistent with the course he took in the case of the western roads, he will look into the circumstances of the action of the lines in the Ohio-Indiana country and will doubtless seek to obtain a preliminary injunction. Shippers in the Ohio-Indiana region are already stirred up over the reports that the roads in that territory will increase rates.

Lawyers are keenly interested to know what will be the procedure of the attorney general in the eastern road cases. The administration has been trying to get through a bill providing for notice and hearing in injunction cases, yet it is pointed out that at the first opportunity the department of justice had to apply for an injunction on its own account.

The technical question is now raised by lawyers as to what the "existing rate" actually is. Only the railroads have power under the law to make rates, and as the former rates were superseded by the new ones, it is regarded as pertinent to inquire what the "existing" rates are in the territory to which the injunctions apply.

Attorney General Wickersham himself says he has not given any thought to the question whether the government should take action looking to injunction proceedings against the eastern railroads which have filed increased tariff rates with the interstate commerce commission.

KEEPS FAREWELL PROMISE

Indiana Man Who Disappeared Will Return With a Fortune

Laporte, Ind., June 3.—"I will not return until I have made my fortune," was the farewell of H. S. Jessup of Laporte, spoken just before he disappeared five years ago. His parents, after a search for him, decided Jessup had fallen a victim to foul play. Both died broken hearted. His wife and children likewise have mourned Jessup as dead.

A letter has been received from the missing man, dated Lovelock, Nev. It announces that he has made a fortune and will soon return.

Philadelphia, June 3.—Joseph S. Harris, formerly president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, and later president of the Reading company, died suddenly here.

WARD ONE TO FRONT

Now Has More Polls Than Any Otber Ward

The returns made by the assistant assessors show that there were in Quincy on the first day of April 9,673 persons assessed a poll tax. This number shows an increase of 134 over the number found in May, 1909. The number of assessed polls by precincts, compared with 109, is shown in the table below. It will be seen by this table that but five of the twelve precincts made gains while seven show losses.

The largest gain was made in precinct two of Ward One, the gain being 150. Precinct one of Ward Six made the second largest gain with 114. The other gains were precinct one of Ward Five, 27; precinct two of Ward Five, 34; precinct one of Ward Four 9.

The greatest loss is shown in precinct two of Ward Three, the loss being 57. Precinct two of Ward Two is second in loss with 50; while precinct two of Ward Six loss 42. Other precincts to show losses were: precinct one of Ward One, 3; precinct one of Ward Two, 7; precinct one of Ward Three, 18 and precinct two of Ward Four, 30.

Taking the returns by wards it will be seen that Ward One makes a gain of 147, Ward Two a loss of 57, Ward Three a loss of 75, Ward Four a loss of 21, Ward Five a gain of 61, and Ward Six a gain of 72.

Ward One has the largest number of polls, and Ward Three is second. Then comes in turn Ward Two, Ward Four, Ward Five and Ward Six.

MANUAL OF SUMMER RESORTS.

Concise and helpful information for the man who is planning a summer vacation for himself and family is contained in the Manual of Summer Resorts just issued by the passenger department of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company. More than a thousand summering places in the most charming sections of New England are mentioned in this book. It tells the vacation seeker how to reach these places. It gives the names and locations of the best hotels and boarding cottages, together with their rates and it contains much other information that will prove helpful to the summer tourist.

The summer resorts of New England reached by the lines of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company offer manifold attractions to vacationists. It's the combination of mountains, seashore and country that makes southern New England such a charming place for a summer vacation. Here are the Connecticut shore resorts, offering endless opportunity for the enjoyment of fishing, sailing and bathing. Here are the Berkshire Hills. Stretching easterly from New London are the summer retreats of Watch Hill, Block Island, Narragansett Pier, Newport, Marthas Vineyard, Nantucket, Buzzards bay and Cape Cod.

The attractions of these places are pictured and set forth in an alluring way in the New Haven road's publications devoted to these resorts. To read one of them, makes you want to pack your grip and start forthwith to the place described. Copies of these books are sent free if you write to A. B. Emith, General Passenger Agent, Room 139, New Haven, Conn.

TO-MORROW.

(Florence Earle Coates.)

The robin chants when the thrush is dumb,
Snow smooths a bed for the clover,
Life flames anew, and days to come
Are sweet as the days that are over.

The tide that ebbs by the moon flows back,
Faith builds on the ruins of sorrow,
The halcyon flutters in winter's track,
And night makes way for the morrow.

And ever a strain, of joys the sum,
Sings on in the heart of the lover—
In death sings on—that days to come
Are sweet as the days that are over.

FAKE WIRE TAPPING OUTFIT

Also Shown to Have Conducted Pool Room and Faro Office In Boston Under Name of "John S. Marshall," Which Was Assumed by Both Men Accused of Aiding Coleman In Separating Thousands From Bank

Boston, June 3.—The dual personality of "John R. Marshall" as assumed at convenient times by "Big Bill" Keliher and Martin J. Walsh in poolroom, wire-tapping and faro games was presented by several witnesses before Judge Hale and a federal jury.

Cashier Earl of the National City bank was questioned a half hour when Attorney Pratt offered to show that Earl knew of Coleman's loose habits and had withdrawn his personal account before the closing of the bank.

William E. Hingston, handwriting expert, was called for the prosecution to show the signatures of "John R. Marshall" were written by the same hand that wrote William J. Keliher in Keliher's petition in bankruptcy.

Martin J. Walsh as a crony of William J. Keliher and in constant touch with Keliher on the 'phone during the period of Coleman's losses at faro were shown by District Attorney Garland reading a list of telephone calls between the two men.

The existence of a wireless wire-tapper layout in a room of the Postal building on State street, which was run by "John R. Marshall," was shown by the testimony of several employes of the building.

The identification of Martin Walsh as the original of the man who, under the name of John R. Marshall, rented this room on State street and the presence of William J. Keliher as an employe of the office was shown by several other witnesses.

These were some of the most important features of the trial yesterday of "Big Bill" Keliher, charged with aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the misapplication of the funds of the National City bank of Cambridge.

The government is trying to prove to the jury that Walsh and Keliher were closely associated in various bunco games, which were conducted in three different offices under the firm name of John R. Marshall & Co.

These offices, all under the same management, were the faro office proper at 6 Beacon street, the pool room office at Huntington Chambers and the fake wire tapping game conducted at 110 State street, in the Postal building.

Already "Big Bill" has been shown as a receiver of telegrams at the pool room office at Huntington Chambers, a constant visitor at the Beacon building place, and yesterday was positively identified by the janitor of the Postal building as somebody in authority at the wire-tapping office on State street.

GOLD IN CLAY PIT

Workmen Strike Quartz Rock, but Not In Paying Quantities

Hull, Mass., June 3.—John R. Wheeler had visions of a bonanza when some men working in a clay pit on land he owns on the hillside south of Fort Revere struck their picks into what appeared to be a vein of gold.

The quartz was eagerly taken out under the direction of Wheeler, and without delay he placed it in the hands of a Boston assayist, who found it actually contained gold, but not in sufficient quantity to warrant smelting.

The finding of the quartz was kept comparatively quiet until workmen employed in carting clay on the town roads from the pit struck another large piece of quartz. Then the news spread rapidly.

Wheeler has allowed people to take away pieces of the quartz as souvenirs of an actual gold find in Hull.

STEIN STUNTS STOPPED

State Liquor Law Hits Students at Stanford University

Menlo Park, Cal., June 3.—The last stein song has been sung and the last stein drained by merry-makers at Leland Stanford, Jr., university. The appellate court upheld the state law which prohibits the selling of liquor within one and one-half miles of the institution.

The opinion was handed down on an appeal in a test case brought by a Menlo Park saloon keeper to test the validity of the law.

$20,000,0000 For Chilean Railway

London, June 3.—Harry Silberberg's option for the building of a great north and south railway in Chili has been found genuine and London bankers will float a $20,000,000 company to finance and construct the line.

Death of Young Viscount

London, June 3.—Viscount Chelsea, the 7-year-old grandson and heir of the Earl of Cadogan, died after an operation for appendicitis.

MERCHANTS' WEEK BARGAINS.

Quincy merchants are offering especially attractive bargains for Merchants' week.

Johnson Bros. are making a specialty of Queen Louise Flour.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co. are offering special values in suits.

The Quincy Department Store is giving away souvenirs.

H. L. Kincaide & Co. has a real luxury to offer in new style hammocks.

Sarkin, the ladies' tailor, has big reductions on everything in their store.

The Old Colony Laundry guarantee satisfaction on all their work not only Merchants' week, but always.

And coffee fit for a king can be purchased at R. E. Foy & Co.'s, just the kind you want every morning for breakfast.

Coal is a necessity most every week in the year but now is the time to buy it. Talk it over with C. Patch & Son.

Kings evidently know good food for another grocery has an offering fit for a king, the Quincy Market has a special on lamb.

Ride about the city Merchants' week in one of S. Scammell & Sons autos or better still invest in one or two for your business.

"Peterson's suggestions" are always good but just now they are unusually good if you wish to live well and economically.

Bargains! Bargains are offered by Louis J. Smith, the Depot street shoe dealer.

The advice of J. F. Sheppard & Sons should be heeded if you wish to be warm next winter. Coal is cheaper just now.

Flowers are pleasant reminders to send to friends during Merchants' week or get some good plants to ornament your yard. Patterson the Wollaston florist will fill your order.

John Hefferan has a balm for poor tired, aching feet, which should be investigated if you wish to anvoid all foot troubles.

In warm weather it is foolish to work in a hot kitchen doing the family ironing when you can get a new gas iron at the Citizens Gas Light Co. for almost nothing.

Have you investigated those shirt waists at Wheller's? You lose if you don't. They have other specials also.

Now is a good time to subscribe for the oldest, best and largest circulated daily in the city the Quincy Daily Ledger.

"KEEP-OFF-THE-GRASS."

In Suburban Life M. Pelton White tells of his trouble in developing a parking strip in front of his house—trouble which was accentuated by the fact that passers-by persisted in walking over the grass. A vacant property across the street tempted "grown-ups" and children alike to use the strip as a cut-off, and they soon had the sod tramped into well-worn paths. On the curb side, drivers often permitted their horses to enjoy pastures green. "Finally," writes Mr. White, "we solved the difficulty. Leaving a border a foot wide on the inside of the strip, we took out the rest of the sod and filled the space with marigolds and California poppies. People who would not 'keep off the grass' had scruples concerning flower-beds, and our grass plot was saved."

One Who Came

A Memorial Day Story

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

She had been looking for him all through the warm spring, and now, late in May, she felt that he must come. Another week would bring the 30th of the month, and Memorial day, with its tender observance of all the beloved dead, would come to crush down her cherished hope of Robert's return.

Esther looked wistfully across the pasture, and tears filled her blue eyes until hillside and pointed cedars were a dark blur.

When she had wiped them away some one was coming wearily down the narrow path—some one tall and thin, dressed in dark clothing, with a gray felt hat on his drooping head.

The man did not lift his eyes from the ground, but tramped steadily on, with his gaze fixed on the winding path under his feet. When the path ceased at the fence he looked up and saw Esther gazing at him longingly, lovingly, but there was no recollection in his glance, merely undisguised wonderment.

Esther's radiant smile faded as she searched the handsome face for some sign of recognition. It was Robert Webb, paler, thinner and curiously changed in expression, and yet it was Robert. A sudden terror filled her soul.

"Robert," she cried softly, "don't you know me?"

He stared curiously at her while a slow red burned into his thin cheeks. He lifted the gray hat and showed dark hair streaked plentifully with white.

"I am afraid you have made a mistake," he said in a deep, musical voice that was like Robert's own tones. "My name is Robert, but I am sure I would have remembered you if we had met before. I came to see Mr. Lane. I was directed to take the short cut across the lots from the station. Is this his farm?"

Esther shrank back.

"Yes, this is Mr. Lane's farm. You will find him at the house or barn. Take the path through the orchard."

With a murmured word of thanks the man replaced his hat, leaped the fence and disappeared in the gathering twilight of the orchard.

When Esther went into the house her fair hair was wet with dew, but her eyes were very bright and shining.

In the sitting room they were all gathered about the evening lamp. The light fell on the red table cover and was reflected in the comfortable furnishings of the room. Mr. Lane was reading the almanac with an interest quite unabated by a long winter's persual of its closely printed pages. Helen and Agatha were embroidering.

They all glanced up as Esther entered the room, blinking at the light.

"You'll catch your death out in the dampness, child," remonstrated her mother as Esther sat down in a low rocker beside her. "We've been wishing you'd come in and give us a little music."

"You promised to practice that duet with me, Esther," complained Helen. "I don't see why you want to run away every night after supper. You can't guess what's happened since you've been gone," she added teasingly.

The color leaped into Esther's pale cheeks. She struggled for a moment with her quickening breath before her words found utterance. "What has happened, Nell?" she asked, with assumed carelessness.

"Nothing at all," interposed Mrs. Lane, smiling, "except that father's dckled to death because he's got some one to help him all summer."

"Who is it?" asked Esther.

"A man who came here tonight. The station master sent him, knowing your father was put to it for help on the farm. He's young and willing, though he's a little out of health. He's been a soldier, and he wants to have a summer farming it to get back his health again."

"And likewise fill his pocketbook," yawned Farmer Lane, stretching himself luxuriously. "I guess we'll get along as well as may be. He's a fine, pleasant spoken young chap, but he's seen a sight of trouble, I take it. His hair's as white as my own. He's coming tomorrow."

"What is his name?" asked Esther in a muffled voice.

"Robert Munson. Looks like some one I've seen before. Can't think who it is to save my life," said her father, rising and filling his pipe at the mantelshelf.

With a quick movement Esther arose and was gone from the room.

"Father Lane," exclaimed Agatha in a stage whisper, "it's just come to me who this man looks like! He looks enough like Robert Webb to be his own brother!"

They cast startled glances at one another. "I declare if he doesn't!" gasped Mrs. Lane at last. "I hope Esther won't notice it. It would upset her terribly, pa."

"That may be," returned Mr. Lane decidedly. "Esther's mourned over Rob Webb jest two years longer than he was worth. If he'd cared anything for her he'd stayed behind and made a home for her instead of running off and joining the army as if he had no responsibilities at home. Essie better get used to seeing this new chap around. She's got to get cured of this grieving business, by George!"

The large brown fist struck the table with a force that startled the three women. They watched Mr. Lane march from the room with angry strides, and when the door had closed with an echoing slam their heads bent together in whispered consultation.

* * * * * * * *

Memorial day was a holiday, and the Lanes usually spent it with relatives in an adjoining village. This day was no exception, and so it was quite early in the morning that they drove away in the comfortable surrey, leaving Robert Munson standing bareheaded by the wide white gate.

Esther had said nothing about going to the cemetery to place flowers on Robert's grave. She would wait until their return, and when the crowd had left the graveyard she would climb the hill and place her offering there, alone in the sunset.

When the long day was closing they came home again, Esther with her arms full of white blossoms gleaned from her aunt's garden. The new farm hand had taken advantage of the holiday and was nowhere to be seen, so Farmer Lane put up the horses and the others went indoors.

"I'll be back presently, mother," said Esther, tossing her hat on the table and gathering up her flowers. "I'm going to the cemetery now. Lion will come with me."

"Very well, dear," said Mrs. Lane.

Esther whistled to the dog and walked through the orchard to the pasture. Robert Munson was leaning on the fence, looking at the reflected lights on the distant hills.

"I am going up on the hill, Robert. Will you come along and carry my flowers?" asked Esther bravely.

"Certainly, Miss Esther," he said pleasantly, and so together they crossed the pasture and climbed the hill to the place where the tall white shaft made a memorial for the fallen soldier boy. All about the base beautiful flowers were strewn, and some one had placed a little flag in the green turf. Robert Munson was looking curiously at the inscription when Esther gently took the flowers from his grasp and dropped them on the ground at his feet. Then she placed her hands on his shoulders and looked into his eyes.

"Robert, Robert!" she cried tragically. "Don't you know me—won't you ever recognize me again?"

Very tenderly Robert Munson took her cold hands in his warm ones, and the firm pressure of his grasp seemed to give her wavering strength more courage.

"Miss Esther," he said gently, "whom do you take me for? Who do you think I am?"

"You are Robert Webb!" she cried eagerly. "See—this stone was erected for you. Your father died of a broken heart when you were killed, and your mother went away to live with her sister. I am here. I have not forgotten. See—I have kept your picture all these years. I have worn it always here." She drew away her hands and pulled a chain from her neck and opened a round locket. The picture therein was that of a young man, much younger than Robert Munson, and, while there was a resemblance, it might have been more in expression than in actual features.

"You have made a great mistake, Miss Esther," said Munson at last. "I am so sorry. I wish I knew what to say to you. I suppose you think the report of Webb's death was an error and that I am he, but it is not so." He stretched out a hand to support her wavering figure, but she leaned for support against the white marble. "I have seen service in the Philippines, and I did know Bob Webb for a short time, and I know he was killed. I am sorry to have to tell you this. As for myself, I wanted a season in the country at hard work to recover my health. It is sheer chance that I came to Little River and was directed to your father's farm. I have parents and brothers and sisters in Boston—in fact, I am afraid I can prove only too well that I am not Robert Webb." He looked down at her with infinite pity in his fine eyes—a pity that was so akin to something warmer that she seemed to feel it infold her like a comforting garment.

"I am so sorry I have annoyed you. What must you think of me? You see"— Esther broke down and sobbed bitterly, and Robert Munson stood beside her with a friendly hand pressing her shoulder. It was with his handkerchief that Esther wiped away her tears, while he knelt down and deftly strewed the flowers she had brought about the foot of the shaft. Then he rose to his tall height and held out his hand.

"Come, Miss Esther; let us go back home again. There are light and life beyond as well as here. We who are left behind have our work to do in the world. I'm a clumsy fellow at expressing myself, but try to look on the bright side of things."

It was a quiet walk home again across the pasture and through the orchard, and it proved to be many a long day before Esther took the same route again. There seemed to be a veil lifted after that day. Life was brighter, better, and love seemed not to be the hopeless thing she had one time believed.

When another later day came and another Robert told his love by the orchard fence the swallows dipped in the pale light, and the bats darted from the shadows, and the song that the whippoorwill sang seemed a paean of joy, and the whole world was bathed in a rosy light that was not the reflection from the sunset.

MILTON

As a result of the work of Superintendent Pond and his men, the Milton cemetery is in excellent condition. They have built new avenues and lanes and regraded many of the old ones, and have mowed and sodded so that the lawns are very fine.

A flag presente by Mrs. Josephine B. Emerson was raised in East Milton squar by G. A. R. men on Memorial Day, being one of the features of the day. The railroad time table changes take effect in East Milton Sunday, June 5. One train in the morning and one in the afternoon will be taken off the schedule. The time of trains leaving Boston for East Milton and of return trains will be about ten minutes different than formerly, and they will make fewer stops.

A huge rattlesnake was killed this week near the home of William H. Clark on Willard street. By the rattles on its tail it was calculated to be about ten years old.

"And what did her father say when you telegraphed back telling him you were married and asking him to extend his forgiveness? Your discouraged look indicates that he refused."

"No, he forgave us, all right—but he sent his forgiveness collect. So it doesn't look as if it would be any use for us to return."

BRIEFS

David Brownrigg of Garfield street has gone to Maine for a months' stay.

Dr. Robert McLennon of West Quincy has a new auto of the E. M. F. make.

Phillip Gammons of South Quincy has recovered from a serious injury occasioned by a fall from a wagon.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League will be held in the vestry of the Hall Place M. E. church Monday evening at 7.45.

The dwelling house on the northwest corner of Crescent and Cross streets is being remodeled for J. J. Pelisi who will soon open a store there.

Mrs. Mary Farquharson of Independence avenue and Mrs. Jane Robertson also of South Quincy, have sailed for Scotland where they will visit relatives.

The sixteen flaming arc lights distributed through City Square for Merchants' Week were lighted for the first time Thursday evening about 10 o'clock, and under their bright light City Square was almost as light as day. Just about that time a gang of men were busy decorating the front of City Hall.

Nearly one hundred have entered for the ten mile road race of Saturday afternoon. The course is from City Square to Thomas corner, North Weymouth, to Central square, East Weymouth; over Broad street to Weymouth Landing; over Quincy avenue to starting point. The prizes are on exhibition in the window of the Savings bank.

HE WHO GROWS WILL EAT.

As the Scripture said, "Sluggard, look to the ant," so the statistician might say to the American pondering over high prices, "Look to the German."

Germany today is making money faster than any other nation in the world. The German works and wastes nothing. Germany, with an area only four times as large as New York and a population of 64,000,000, raises nine times as many potatoes as the entire United States. Its average of bushels of wheat to the acre is twice that of ours.

United States sewage is thrown away, drained off to pollute our rivers. In Germany it is used to fertilize. Germany's forests net a profit of $60,000,000 to the Government. It costs Uncle Sam a million a year to care for his forests, robbed and pillaged, and burned as they are.

The foreign trade of Germany is $400,000,000 more than that of the United States. The Germans are happy ;the Americans in a ferment of discontent. Germany's manufactured trade is $100,000,000 more than ours. In total wealth this nation is now second to the United States. Men of large business experience are rapidly coming to realize that unless food be produced in larger quantity and at less cost business interests generally will be seriously affected. Perhaps the food famine will result in good. It will drive men back to the earth, and he who grows will eat.

PLANNING A SHAKEUP

Ballinger to Make Changes, Even If He Is to Quit Cabinet

Washington, June 3.—Secretary Ballinger is expected to make important moves before long toward a general reorganization of some of the bureaus of his department. It has long been known that Frederick H. Newell of Massachusetts, chief of the reclamation service, is slated for removal.

Opinions vary as to whether or not Ballinger will remain in the cabinet after the Nelson investigating committee has made its report. His friends say that if he is permitted to remain and work out his own ideas without hindrance, he will accomplish results which never could have been achieved had the enthusiastic but "quite impractical" Pinchot remained a power in the government.

Others not so close to Ballinger believe he will quit the government service at the earliest possible moment, but that he will make many important changes in heads of divisions before he goes.

MUST NOT INTERFERE

The Venus Will Stop American Vessels Only at Its Peril

Washington, June 3.—The decree issued by Dr. Irias, in command of the Madriz war vessel Venus, that no vessel should enter the port of Bluefields without the permission of the Madriz government and without having paid customs duties at the Bluff, will be disregarded by Captain Gilmer of the United States ship Paducah, and should Irias attempt to prevent American vessels from entering that port, prompt steps will be taken by Gilmer to prevent any interference by the Venus.

In fact should Irias attempt to prevent any American vessel from entering the harbor without having first paid duties at the Bluff he will do so as his peril. This is the announced position of the United States government.

PEACE COMMISSION FAVORED BY TAFT

Intends to Make Roosevelt Chairman of Proposed Body

Washington, June 3.—President Taft has decided to appoint Theodore Roosevelt as the head of a peace commission, the duty of which will be to work for universal peace.

This was disclosed at a meeting of the house committee on foreign affairs. Representative Bennet (N. Y.), a member of the committee, was authorized to combine his resolution providing for a peace commission with a similar measure introduced by Representative Bartholdt (Mo.).

The duty of the commission will be "to consider the expediency of utilizing existing international agencies for the purpose of limiting the armaments of the nations of the world by international agreement and of constituting the combined navies of the world an international force for the preservation of universal peace."

President Taft is in favor of the legislation, and he has already made up his mind to make Roosevelt chairman of the commission.

BALM FOR WOUNDED HEART

Girl Sues Critic of Fair Sex For Alleged Breach of Promise

New York, June 3.—Suit for $50,000 damages for alleged breach of promise of marriage has been brought in the supreme court by Miss Esther Quinn against Professor Harry T. Peck, holder of the chair in Latin at Columbia university, president of the Latin Club of America, member of many prominent literary clubs and associations, magazine writer, critic of the fair sex and essayist on perfumes as relating to morals.

The first wife of Peck obtained a divorce in Sioux Falls, S. D., in September, 1908. The grounds were desertion. On Aug. 26 of the following year he married Miss Elizabeth H. Du Bois, a teacher of classics in the Morris high school.

WIFE SLAYER SENTENCED

Conroy Will Spend the Remainder of His Life In Prison

Boston, June 3.—Edward J. Conroy was sentenced to state prison for life. He retracted his former plea of not guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree and pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. Conroy killed his wife in South Boston on Feb. 13.

Conroy weighs 200 pounds. On the night of the murder he had been drinking and quarreled with his wife. She left him soon after and went to church to attend devotions. On her return Conroy renewed his quarrel with her and literally beat her to death.

Values His Toe at $2500

Hamilton, O., June 3.—An appraisment of $2500 is put on his right great toe by William S. Ballard in a suit for damages against the Hamilton Iron and Steel company. He was a green man at the mill and was ordered to act as a switchman. He slipped and lost his toe under the wheels of a locomotive.

LOST LAURELS ARE REGAINED

English Aviator Surpasses the Feats of Frenchmen

DOUBLE FLIGHT OVER CHANNEL

Round Trip Made at Speed Which Distances Torpedo Boat Destroyers —Joy-Maddened Crowd Gives Rolls a Tremendous Ovation When Airship Settles at Completion of Last Leg of Daring Trip

Dover, Eng., June 3.—C. S. Rolls, the English aviator, last evening surpassed all other channel flights, making the trip from here to Calais, and then immediately recrossing in his biplane. The weather was perfect and his aeroplane worked faultlessly. Great crowds viewed the flights from both shores. By his great feat he regained for England the laurels that English aviators had lost to Bleriot and De Lesseps.

On both flights Rolls' machine traveled at great speed. When he left the English shore he made straight for the French side, and the crowds gathered on the cliffs could clearly follow his course for a distance of more than twenty miles or within a couple of miles of France.

The landing on the French side was just long enough to run over the machine and see that all the parts had withstood the first flight. Then with a mighty cheer from the French audience that lined the shores, he headed his craft toward England and flew in a low direct line for the Dover cliffs.

Both going and coming Rolls distanced the fleet of torpedo boat destroyers that accompanied him.

When the airship settled down at the completion of the last leg of the daring trip the aviator was given a tremendous ovation by the joy-maddened crowd that acclaimed the restoration of flying honors to England. Rolls was almost mobbed and with difficulty saved his craft from being injured by the tumultuous crowds.

The Englishman's aeroplane is a Wright machine, built in France, with an American Wright engine. The plane has two seats, giving accommodation for a passenger. Rolls will get the Rouat prize of $2500.

For two weeks or so Rolls has been preparing for a double channel flight, and the inhabitants of the French shore have been on the qui vive.

Word was received that the start might be expected Thursday afternoon and thousands lined the cliffs, waiting for a glimpse of the plane. Thousands of the 60,000 people of Calais went to the surrounding points, the fact that an Englishman was at last going to attempt the feat twice performed by Frenchmen attracting wide attention.

When he glided to earth gracefully, Rolls declared that he was elated, but would waste no time in jubilation, as he hoped to resume the flight on the return trip.

"It was a good flight," he said, "and things are just right for the second stage. The round trip is no more than my flight at Nice, when I covered fifty miles over the water all the way without a stop."

In order to accomplish his feat, Rolls had to cover forty-two miles, which is twice the distance across the channel from Dover to Calais. The entire flight was made in ninety minutes.

Throughout his flight Rolls maintained an altitude of 800 feet, whereas Bleriot had kept at a height of only 300 feet above the sea level.

Rolls is a captain in the London section of the army motor reserve. In his younger days he successfully competed in the sports of bicycling, automobiling and ballooning. On one occasion he was awarded a gold medal for his performance in the 1000 miles trial of 1900 in England. He has made no less than 160 balloon ascensions.

Rolls' feat, though often attempted, has never before been accomplished. On July 25, 1909, Louis Bleriot crossed from Calais to Dover in thirty minutes, but was forced to land at the latter place. On May 21, 1910, Count Jacques de Lesseps made the same flight in twenty-five minutes, but was also compelled to alight at Dover.

August Belmont Thrown From Horse

New York, June 3.—August Belmont was thrown from his horse while playing polo at the Meadowbrook Hunt club. At his house it is said that he was only badly shaken up, and that he will be about his business as usual in a day or so. At the Meadowbrook club it is said that he broke a wrist.

TAFT AT BRYN MAWR

Tells Girls That Home and Family Bring Highest Happiness

Philadelphia, June 3.—President Taft told the graduating class of young women at Bryn Mawr college that he favored the higher education of women, and said that he utterly dissented from the suggestion that higher education rather unfits them for the duties of a wife and mother.

The president added that he was ready to concede that marriage and motherhood are a normal status for woman, and, other things being equal, she is happier in that condition than in any other; but, Mr. Taft added, life is not a failure because a woman has not married.

One of the great advantages of the higher education for a woman, he said, is the independence that it gives her in the choice of the kind of life which she is to lead.

FLED FROM HOSPITAL IN HIS NIGHT SHIRT

Patient Leads Marathon Through Streets of Gloucester

Gloucester, Mass., June 3.—When David Langley fled down Washington and Middle streets, attired solely in his night shirt, closely pursued by two young women nurses, it is believed he attracted more attention than he has ever before been accorded.

The nurses showed remarkable sprinting abilities, but it was Officer O'Mealey who finally overtook and captured Langley.

Langley is an inmate of the Gloucester hospital, and suddenly decided that life in that institution had no attractions for him. So, without stopping to dress, he ran outdoors.

His capture occurred when O'Mealey, distancing the other pursuers, threw his strong arms about Longley, making him a prisoner.

$12,000,000 LAND DEAL

Belt In Oregon Eight Hundred Miles Long Bought by Corporation

St. Paul, June 3.—Transfers have been completed in New York by means of which a St. Paul land corporation, with $12,000,000 capital, closes the largest land deal ever made in America, obtaining title to 800,000 acres in central Oregon.

This immense tract is transferred entire and represents a belt 800 miles in length, and of varying width. Of the total, 660,000 acres is rich agricultural land, much of wihch will be improved under irrigation, and 140,000 acres is heavily timbered, containing 4,500,000,000 feet of standing pine, fir and cedar. The land transferred includes some of the richest districts in Oregon and will be developed and settled at once.

King George Receives Peary

London, June 3.—Commander Peary was presented to King George at Marlborough house. He remained a half-hour, telling the king something of his own achievements and discussing with him the prospects of Captain Scott's Antarctic expedition.

Andrew Succeeds Norton

Washington, June 3.—A. P. Andrew, the present director of the mint, has been selected as assistant secretary of the treasury to succeed Charles D. Norton, who has been made secretary to the president.

Literary "Ghosts."

According to a writer in La Revue of Paris, the rank and file of novelists in France draw on an average $100 for each book, and many of them are thankful to get half that amount. On the other hand, those at the top of the tree earn large incomes, and some of them undertake more commissions than they can fulfill. Recourse is then had to literary "ghosts," of whom there are plenty in Paris, willing to furnish a passable imitation of any writer's work. Popular novelists do not always take the trouble to read the books published under their names. Some years ago a "ghost" with a grievance against his employer interpolated in the book ordered from him two chapters of "Mme. Bovary," altering nothing but the names of the characters. The woman who signed the book in order to clear herself from the charge of plagiarism had to confess that she had farmed it out.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is a speculator?"

"Any one, my son, who goes into Wall street and loses."

"And what is a financier?"

"Any one who goes into Wall street and wins."—Washington Star.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Your Nerves

Ask your doctor if alcoholic stimulants are not often very disastrous when given to nervous people. He will tell you why. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Your nerves must be fed with pure, rich blood, or there will be trouble. Poorly fed nerves are weak nerves; and weak nerves mean nervousness, neuralgia, headaches, debility. Weak nerves need good food, fresh air, and Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking — none in outside heating.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

AT THE BOSTON THEATRES

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Loie Fuller, the most famous dancer in the world, and the originator of practically all the beautiful light and color effects used on the stage today, is bringing to Keith's next week the most novel and in many respects the most pretentious production of the kind ever shown in vaudeville or on the legitimate stage. It is called "The Dragons of Wrath," and will serve to introduce for the first time to the American public Madam Chung, one of the greatest of Chinese actresses from the Imperial theatre in Pekin, with a company of Chinese and European actors and dancers. "The Dragons of Wrath" will be nothing less than a big Chinese fete, woven into a love story and most exciting drama in which Madam Chung will have the leading part and is assisted by her own company. The fete will be of the most imposing nature, and will include Chinese music and singing; beautiful dances with myriad colored lights by European girls; a most imposing March of the Lanterns; mammoth lanterns with changing lights; the Ribbon Serpent, the Chinese hoodoo dance with the hundred veils which is bound to make the same sensation here as it did in Europe; the magic cloth which has never been seen in this country and in which the limit seems to have been reached in the invention of beautiful lights effects; all these and a long series of other novelties will be shown for the first time in this country in "The Dragons of Wrath." This production will be surrounded by a" splendid vaudeville bill.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

For the last week but one of the season of the John Craig Stock Company at the Castle Square one of the most productions of "The Rivals" ever seen in Boston will be offered. This great English comedy by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, who was equally famous in his day as a statesman, an orator ,a humorist and a playwright, has been performed many thousand times everywhere the English language is spoken, and its wit is as bright and as timely as the first day it was written. For his production of "The Rivals," Mr. Craig is preparing a scenic production of more than usual beauty, and he will leave nothing undone to make the week a memorable one in the history of the Castle Square theatre and of Boston theatricals. The cast which he will give "The Rivals" is worthy of remark. Mr. Craig has specially engaged Howell Hansel, so long favorably known as leading man of the Castle Square Stock Company, for the role of Sir Lucius O'Trigger Mr. Craig will himself appear as Captain Absolute. Kate Ryan as Mrs. Malaprop, Gertrude Binley as Lucy, and Mary Young as Lydia Languish. For the final week of his season Mr. Craig will present "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," one of the liveliest of modern farces. On Monday evening, June 20th, begins the season of summer opera at the Castle Square with the famous Gilbert and Sullivan masterpieces, "The Mikado."

CANNOT USE MONEY TO WAR ON UNIONS

Important Amendment to Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill

Washington, June 3.—An amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill adopted by the house stipulates that no part of the $100,000 provided in the bill for the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law can be used in the prosecution of labor organizations.

This amendment, proposed by Mr. Hughes (N. J.), provdes "that no part of this money shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing the wages, shortening the hours or bettering the conditions of labor, or for any act done in furtherance thereof not in itself unlawful."

The amendment was adopted by a vote of 81 to 52, indicating that 32 failed to vote. The Democrats voted solidly for the amendment and some Republican "insurgents" joined them.

MONEY STUCK TO HIS BACK

Pain Remover the Innocent Cause of Family Unpleasantness

Middletown, N. Y., June 3.—The mystery of the disappearance of a $50 bill, which has disturbed a local business man and his family for a week and which caused considerable unpleasantness, has been solved.

A week ago he planned a business trip to New York. That evening he laid numerous bank notes on the dresser of his bedroom. A $50 bill was on top. Next morning he missed it. When he went to get a plaster off his back after his return from New York he called his wife to assist. When she got the plaster off the missing bill was found fast on the inside of the plaster.

It appears that on the night before the merchant planned to go to New York he complained of a lame back and on retiring his wife heated the porus plaster at a gas jet over the dresser. It had slipped from her hand just as it was hot enough, and in falling had picked up the bill.

REMAINS IN COMMITTEE

Anti-Injunction Measure Is Abandoned For the Present Session

Washington, June 3.—There will be no anti-injunction legislation in the house at the present session. President Taft himself has consented to the abandonment of this feature of his legislative program, and no further effort at urging it will be made.

The administration bill has been reposing for several months in the judiciary committee without any attempt at action on it, and it finally has been decided to allow it to remain there.

The press of important bills towards the close of the session and particularly the time required by the postal savings bank bill are the principal causes, it is stated, for the abandonment of the anti-injunction bill.

Perseverance.

Timour, the great Asiatic conqueror, commonly known by the name of Tamerlane, had extraordinary perseverance. No difficulties ever led him to recede from what he had once undertaken, and he often persisted in his efforts under circumstances which led all around him to despair. On such occasions he used to relate to his friend an anecdote of his early life. "I once," he said, "was forced to take shelter from my enemies in a ruined building, where I sat alone many hours. Desiring to divert my mind from my hopeless condition, I fixed my eyes on an ant that was carrying a grain of corn larger than itself up a high wall. I numbered the efforts it made to accomplish this object. The grain fell sixty-nine times to the ground, but the insect persevered, and the seventieth time it reached the top. This sight gave me courage at the moment, and I never forgot the lesson."

The Author's Grievance.

The magazine editor looked up.

"I want to protest, sir," said the caller, "against the way in which one of your reckless proofreaders mangled my copy. See here. The judge in the story looks down at the detective. 'Are you Pendleton King?' he asks, and the detective, removing his beard, replies, 'I am.' Now, just see what your proofreader made him say."

The editor glanced at the line and read it aloud:

"The detective, removing his beard, replies, 'I a. m.'"

The unhappy author groaned.

"Where does that leave the readers?" he demanded.

The editor slowly smiled.

"At 1 a. m. they are naturally left in the dark," he replied. "Take an extra chapter and get them out of it."

The author suddenly laughed.

"Happy thought!" he cried. "I will."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Lesson With His Autograph.

An admirer once wrote to Lowell describing his autograph collection and concluding with the remark, "I would be much obliged for your autograph." The reply came, bearing with it a lesson on the correct use of the words "would" and "should," which deeply impressed itself on the mind of the recipient. The response read:

Pray, do not say hereafter, "I would be obliged." If you would be obliged, be obliged and have done with it. Say, "I should be obliged," and oblige yours truly,

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

The Invincible Billy

An Irrepressible Boy's Part In a Love Affair

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

They sat upon the pier together, the girl whose eyes were as blue as the sea, the little boy whose flaxen curls framed the face of a cherub and the man who looked askance at the boy and frowned. The girl caressed the child. "Dear," she asked tenderly, "are you tired?"

Billy rested the curly head against his aunt's shoulder and confidingly placed his damp boots upon the skirt of her white linen dress. "Nope," he answered concisely.

Jack Winston sighed and shook his head. "When I see the amount of affection you are wasting upon that imp," he said, "my soul is filled with wrath."

The boy scrambled to his feet suddenly and, collecting a handful of small sharp stones, began pelting them at the two occupants of a small boat which glided noiselessly along beside the pier.

"Billy," his aunt cried, horrified—"Billy, did you hit the little boy?"

"You bet I did," her nephew replied gleefully. "That was Dicky Smith. I hate Dicky Smith!"

Miss Brereton's eyes looked unutterably sad. "That was very wrong," she said reprovingly, "and you must not hate him, dear; you must love everybody."

Her nephew laughed. "Everybody!" he exclaimed derisively.

"Yes, indeed," his aunt reiterated. Billy considered.

"Do you love everybody, Aunt Beatrice?" he asked. "Do you love Mr. Winston?" A rosy flush covered his aunt's pretty face.

"Of course I do," she answered evenly.

Billy turned to seek an ally in the man. "Do you love everybody, Mr. Winston?" he persisted.

"Not by a good deal, Bill," the man responded warmly. "I have much the same feeling for Mr. Fenway, for instance, that you have for Dicky Smith."

The girl laughed and caught her small nephew by the hand. "What nonsense!" she said. "And now don't you think it is time to go back?"

The three went strolling up the sandy beach, the boy skipping along between them. The hotel guests had assembled upon the wide verandas, awaiting the sound of the gong which would summon them to the evening meal. They hailed the delinquents merrily. "Last call for dinner in the dining car," said Fenway. "Billy, come here and give an account of yourself." He caught up the boy and perched him upon his knee. Beatrice stood leaning against a white pillar, smiling down at them. Winston sat upon a lower step.

"What have you been doing, Billy boy?" Fenway questioned. The child was always very amusing, so the guests leaned forward, eagerly listening for his replies.

"Been down on the pier," Billy piped in his shrill treble, "with Aunt Beatrice and Mr. Winston." A pause. "Aunt Beatrice says she loves Mr. Winston," he repeated deliberately. For a moment there was silence, tense, deadly silence; then Jack Winston committed the unpardonable crime—he laughed. No one joined him. That made it worse, for all were fascinated in watching the girl's face, which changed so suddenly from white to crimson. She looked contemptuously at Winston for a moment because he could thus enjoy her discomfiture.

"Billy," she said desperately, "you remember, I spoke of loving everybody—not Mr. Winston in particular; he was merely included with the others."

It seemed to the man on the lower step that her eyes sought Fenway's appealingly. "Merely included with the others." He arose suddenly. "You have sufficiently cleared yourself of the imputation," he began in a low tone, but Billy was speaking again.

"Mr. Winston says," the cherub announced distinctly, "that sometimes he would like to pelt stones at Mr. Fenway." There was a general laugh at this, and Winston was conscious of an overwhelming desire to fall upon the boy and thrash him within an inch of his life.

"Thanks, awfully, Bill," Fenway observed calmly. "Forewarned is forearmed. Henceforth, whenever I see Jack Winston coming my way, I shall run."

The company dispersed in little chattering groups toward the dining room. Billy was borne thence upon Fenway's shoulder, and Beatrice followed. As Winston passed she averted her eyes, and so during the endlessly long week which followed she perversely ignored his existence and admirably succeeded in dispelling any erroneous idea which might have prevailed regarding her partiality toward him. And the injured one hid himself in faraway corners and worked resolutely upon the serial story which he was preparing for one of the current magazines. He had neglected his writing lately, and there was much to do. Occasionally Billy would seek him out, but was always curtly dismissed. In fact, the thorns were beginning to show among Billy's roses, for his champion, Fenway, had suddenly departed for town, and Aunt Beatrice had developed into a very unreasonable person. One could not tell how to please her.

When they started for a walk upon their last afternoon at the seaside Aunt Beatrice first found the wooded path too shady, then decided that the sun shone too brightly upon the pier, and later when the man in the little post-office informed them that there were "no letters today" Billy really thought she was going to cry. "P'raps," he comforted, "Mr. Fenway will write a nice letter to you bimeby, but," he added, with the strange perversity of childhood, "I like Mr. Winston best."

Aunt Beatrice very unexpectedly bent down and kissed his upturned face. "Billy boy," she said sadly, "Mr Winston does not like us any more, and it is all because of you." Billy pondered deeply upon this. If it was his fault that these two funny grown-up people refused to speak to each other then some way or other he must be the one to straighten things out He did not quite know how he was going to accomplish this purpose, but would see Mr. Winston at any rate. So it happened that Billy's chubby figure invaded the hiding place among the trees, and Winston ceased scribbling for a moment to look impatiently at the innocent face peeping out from its tangled curls. "Hello!" said Billy cheerfully.

"Don't you see that I am busy?" the man answered. "Now run along."

"All right," Billy agreed, and sat down upon a fallen tree trunk. Winston resumed his writing. As he finished one sheet he would tear it hastily from the pad and toss it from him. The ground near by seemed covered with the closely written pages.

"You write a great many letters," Billy suggested politely. There was no response. "Mr. Fenway went away yesterday," he ventured again. Still no answer. "Aunt Beatrice and I are going home tomorrow," he continued. At last Billy had gained the man's attention. "Tomorrow!" he exclaimed in consternation. "She is going away tomorrow?" Billy was pleased with the sensation he had made. "Yep," he answered coolly. "No more fun here now."

Jack Winston looked far away between the trees to where he could see a glimpse of blue sea beyond. "I suppose not, now that Fenway has gone," he said bitterly. The man continued to gaze gloomily out upon the sea. He had forgotten the story; he had forgotten even Billy until the unusual silence reminded him that his unwelcome visitor had departed. Then he slowly collected the scattered sheets, dropped the pad into a loose coat pocket and with great heaviness of heart turned to go. So she was leaving tomorrow. In all probability he would never see her again, and the happy hours of this summer which had meant everything to him would linger in her memory only as an idle seaside flirtation. The man sighed a mighty sigh, and then the twisted branches before him were parted and Beatrice herself stood there in the opening. She raised a flushed face to his; her blue eyes shone mistily. "I wanted to see you so very much," she said hesitatingly, "that I just could not wait for you to come."

He stared unbelievingly. Miss Brereton pouted. "Of course if you are not glad to see me"— she was beginning, when the glorious truth dawned full upon him.

"Glad!" he cried, and the fervor expressed in that one word seemed to quite satisfy the girl. After a long silence she laughed softly. "It was a dear little note," she said. "Do you know you have always appeared to be such a dignified, self contained person that really I have been a bit afraid of you all along—at least I never imagined that one so calm could write like that."

The last words were uttered in a tone which conveyed her entire approval of the note, which had evidently been the means of bringing her to his side. Winston realized slowly that something remained to be explained. He must be cautious.

"Have you the letter with you, dear?" he asked. She drew a crumpled paper from her belt and, smoothing it out, held it up before his eyes. The man took her hands and the note within his own.

"Dearest," he read in his own handwriting, "I can bear this silence—this separation—no longer. In pity let me see you once more." The scrawl ended abruptly, and the sheet was torn off as though in frantic haste. With a perplexed frown Winston recognized the words with which the hero of his latest serial story begins an ardent epistle to his ladylove.

Beatrice smiled. "You must admit," she said softly, "that Billy made a good messenger. I was sitting in the garden looking sorrowfully out over the hills and wondering if a certain person who considered himself mortally offended could really be so cruel as to allow me to go far away without one word of goodby when Billy, the dear, came running down the road. 'Aunt Beatrice,' he called, 'here is a letter for you from Mr. Winston!' If it had not been such a nice, anxious letter I might have properly waited for you to come to me, but as it was—well, Billy led me straight to your hiding place."

"Dearest," said Winston in the phrasing of the letter, "I humbly apologize for the many unkind remarks which I have made from time to time concerning your nephew. He is an angel, a remarkably clever child. There has never been his equal." Beatrice sighed contentedly, and Winston, happening to glance over the crown of her head at this moment, saw the aforesaid angel seated upon the tree trunk close by, apparently a very much interested spectator.

"Say," said Billy wearily, "cut it out, won't you? Supper's ready."

These include some of the best men in New England, such well known runners as Clark, Norris and Robertson ,of the Brookline club; Silva, Madden and Lillie and Wiseman of the South Boston club; also men from Worcester, Providence, Fall River and Lynn.

The start will be at 3 o'clock and as the men pass through North Weymouth, East Weymouth and Weymouth Landing the leaders at these points will be bulletined at the Daily Ledger office.

While this race is in progress the relay races for school boys will be held and also the relay races between teams of the Y. M. C. A., St. Mary's C. T. A., Fore River Apprentices, and Quincy High school. The course is from Hancock street through Maple, Washington and Temple streets to starting point. There will be four men on each team each making the circuit once.

The officials for the sports are as follows:

Hononary referee—Hon. William T. Shea.
Referee—Edward L. Hopkins.
Starter—Hugh C. McGrath.
Timekeeper—Alfred J. Dill, Jr.
Handicapper—Frank X. McGrath.
Clerk of Course—Thomas Condrick.
Manager—Joseph H. Elcock.
Inspectors—Thomas Burke, Arthur Duffy, Charles Floyd and Dick Adler.
Chairman of Races—Edward J. Murphy.

See Daily Ledger of Saturday out at 3 P. M., for list of entries and numbers assigned.

BAY STATE LEGISATURE

Tie Vote on the Income Tax Bill---16 to 16

Senator Hultman voted in favor of income tax bill on Thursday, but it was defeated on a tie vote 16 to 16. It proposed a State tax on incomes of over $2,000; and had already passed the House.

The resolve relative to the electrification of railroads in the Metropolitan district was passed to a third reading ;also the Boston and Eastern tunnel bill.

After debate the milk producers bill was postponed one day.

A bill to validate securities of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. was reported.

In the House, by a vote of 144 to 60 the Saunders bill was substituted for the milk bill of the railroad committee. It repeals the milk transportation law.

Circus In Paris Streets.

Writing of street life in Paris, Wilhelm Feldmann says in the Welt Spiegel that the unique features are the gymnastic and acrobatic performances which one sees there. Wherever traffic will permit one may expect to see the street acrobats, men, women and children, spread their carpet, erect their apparatus and, to the accompaniment of a few instruments, sometimes only a drum, give their performances. Feats of strength, balancing and pyramid building are performed, and then one of the youngsters in tights collects the coppers from the crowd which usually congregates. This done, the performers throw long cloaks over their tights and move on with their wagon to the next halting place.

WOLLASTON VS WILLARD

Grand Struggle for Championship of Grammar Schools

After two of the most exciting games of the Grammar School league season ,which were played Thursday afternoon at the lower field, Merrymount Park, the Wollaston and Willard schools, the winners of the semi-finals, are preparing for one of the greatest diamond struggles in Quincy's baseball history.

At the end of the regular league season, Cranch, Gridley Bryant, Wollaston and Willard school teams were tied for first place, so that Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, athletic instructor in the Quincy public schools and sponsor for the Grammar School league, set Thursday as the day of the play-off. An hour or more before the games were scheduled to start the field was thronged with boys and girls from all schools to the number of seven hundred ,one of the largest attendances yet recorded.

In the game between Wollaston and Cranch, the former won by a score of 10 to 2. Although Cranch has been in the lead for some time, and has been one of the leaders since the league opened, the team was somewhat ineffective against the Wollaston combination and were beaten rather easily.

The other game between Gridley Bryant and Willard has never been equaled in junior baseball circles in Quincy. Every ball thrown or batted was made to count, and each team played in top notch form. Johnson, probably the best twirler in the league, was on the slab for Willard and pitched in grand style. His delivery is very deliberate and every ball pitched counted. At the end of the regulation number of innings the score stood 5 to 5, and in the tenth, amid a continuous uproar by the rooters, Willard held Gridley Bryant and in their turn at the bat drove in the inning run. Every decision during the game was hotly disputed and so many and heated were the arguments that the game was not over until quarter of seven.

Doctor Smith, forseeing the contentions on decisions, hired two of best umpires in Boston for the games, and it was well that he did, for all most every decision caused an argument.

The final game will be played on the same field Monday afternoon at 4.15, between Wollaston and Willard, and the winners will be presented with a handsome silver loving cup, and each player will receive a pair of shoes, the presentation to be made by Mayor Shea. The feeling in the schools is most intense and rivals that of the High school, and there is no doubt that every school boy and girl in the city who can, will attend the game.

Why the Vases Were Valuable.

There's a china expert in one of the large department stores here who has an amusing little trade of his own on the side. It is nothing more or less than deciding the value of rare china or glass ware broken by careless servants or packing houses.

"It requires a lot of diplomacy, too," he said, with a laugh. "Not so very long ago I was called in to arbitrate between an irate householder and one of the big moving firms. She said with sobs that the movers had broken a pair of vases which she valued at $100. The movers, although willing to make restitution, considered the sum exorbitant. Well, I looked at the pieces and found the value about $25. I told the woman so quietly. 'I know that,' she sobbed, 'but they belonged to my mother-in-law, and my husband will think I made the men do it purposely unless I get a lot for them.'

"And it was not until the men had promised to prove they had done it accidentally that the lady was content to accept the $25."—Philadelphia Times.

Especially In the Subways.

"There ain't but one trouble with this here city air," said Uncle Rufe sniffing the atmosphere speculatively "it do need ventilatin.'"—Holland's Magazine.

LYNN ALSO DEFEATED

Quincy High Wins at Park Two to One

Quincy High school again displayed its superiority over all comers on the diamond, by defeating the fast combination of the Lynn English High school at Merrymount Park on Thursday afternoon by a score of 2 to 1. Up to the seventh inning things looked bad for Quincy, since Lynn was one run to the good, and until the sixth the locals had not been able to push a man past first.

However, in the seventh, Quincy got one over and held their opponents to none in their next two turns at the bat. In the last of the ninth with a man on second, Bob Allen, custodian of the left garden, smacked a straight one on the nose past third, a clean hit to left and the second and winning run came across, barely beating the return from left field.

The prime feature of the game was Allen's hit, which won the game, but Rice, Manning and Murphy starred in a snappy double play in the eighth, and Davis, Lynn's pitcher, worked in good style, allowing but five hits. Rice gave but three hits.

The error question was an even thing each team making three, and but for Billy Manning's unfortunate slip up in the second, Lynn would have been shut out.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Lynn	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1

Earned runs, Quincy 1, Lynn 1. Two-base hits, Bates. Sacrifice hits, Barry. Double plays, Rice, Manning Murphy. Struck out, Rice 4, Davis 7. Bases on balls, Rice 8, Davis 5. Hit by pitched ball, Bates 1. Umpires, Flynn and O'Hearn.

SPORTING NOTES.

Quincy and Rockland of the Old Colony league clash for the first time this season tomorrow afternoon at the Water street grounds. Both clubs look strong at this time of the year, and in Vargus, Manager Mahar of the Rocklands has a fine twirler. Manager Bjorkland will use the same men that put Quincy at the top after the holiday games, and promises the Quincy fans a chance to yell themselves hoarse. Simpson will undoubtedly twirl for the locals although Atwood the Tufts pitcher, looks good. No matter who toes the slab Quincy will do all in their power to stay on top.

The Fore River Apprentices meet the Adams A. A. at Atlantic tomorrow afternoon at 3.30. Both teams are going at a fast clip and are leading the Granite City league.

In the Suburban league of High schools, Everett High won the championship of the track meet on Thursday with 30 points to their credit. Medford scored 26, Malden 15 and Melrose 10.

The Boston Nationals are now at the fott of the league.

WHO IS BEST THIRD SACKER?

How the Last Stationers In Big Leagues Size Up.

DO HONORS BELONG TO LORD?

Boston Americans' Star on All Around Value Said to Outrank His Competitors—Devlin of New York Second Choice.

"Who is the best third baseman in the big leagues?" is a question that is being much debated at present, and the debate in fact has been one of extreme keenness ever since those past masters Jim Collins and Lave Cross passed out of the fast company. Bill Bradley of Cleveland, who would have been a strong candidate, has fallen away of late, especially in batting, and Tommy Leach of Pittsburg, another corker on the farther sack, is now playing in the outfield. The best man in the third base game today is hard to choose, and every candidate has partisans who back him strongly; but, taking all things into consideration, Harry Lord of the Boston Americans classes as the top liner of the present day.

Arthur Devlin is counted by many fans, especially New Yorkers, as the leader. He has been a wonder in his day and is still a star, but Lord is the stronger player as a batsman and a base runner, while there is little if anything to choose between them in fielding the position. Lord therefore outranks Devlin in net value to a team, and where outside of Devlin has he a fit competitor?

Sweeney and Herzog of the Boston Nationals cannot class anywhere near Lord. He won't get any opposition in his own town. Brooklyn, with Lennox, shows a remarkably strong player, who may take the topnotch laurels in a year or two. Lennox is a strong batsman and plays third in a style that is as perfect mechanically as any one can display.

Steinfeldt of the Chicago Cubs comes just a little short of Devlin in batting, base running and territory covered. Steiny is aging, but is still a wholly competent man and far from the has been division.

Lobert of the Reds when in proper form is a good, husky third baseman. Eddie Grant of the Quakers is steadily gaining in all departments. The champion Pirates now use Bobby Byrne on third, a midget who does his best, but is not to be considered a topnotcher. St. Louis has Barbeau and Mowrey. Of these Barbeau is even smaller than Byrne and hardly as efficient. Mowrey is an unfortunate player who is growing old in big league uniforms, yet without having a really fair chance to show whether he is a winner or a dub.

Devlin therefore may be rated as the star of the National league, with Grant a faint shade below him.

In the American league Baker of the Athletics is a tearing, murdering batsman, almost as frequent a hitter as Lord and more on the long range, clean up pattern. He is not as fast on the bases and has a good deal to learn about the fine work in fielding the position.

Tannehill of the Chicago White Sox is still a beautiful player when it comes to fielding the base—the equal of any one—but has always been a weak hitter and is growing no younger. Purtell, who bids fair to cop the job from Tanny, is a good hitter and fast fielder, but quite a way below the Lord or Devlin standard.

Bradley of Cleveland, once a wonder on the base and with the stick, is a weak batsman now. He can still field most brilliantly, but is outclassed in the batting line. Perring, his alternate, is a good second rate player, not a star.

Moriarity of the Tigers is an improving player, a good batsman, a fast runner—a man who will be up near the top within another year's gain in skill. Austin of New York is a fairly good young performer, but certainly cannot be rated as a leading star, either as a batter or a fielder.

Wallace of St. Louis is growing old and slowing up, hence can hardly be counted as a competitor. Conroy of Washington is a veteran, a fair class performer, but no longer among the headliners.

It looks like Lord for the leading honors, all right, and he is quite likely to hold them through the season.

Home Run Made on Ball In Locomotive Smokestack.

Ball games have been won now and then by "hitting it out of the lot," but seldom if ever by batting the ball down the smokestack of a moving locomotive. The game was played recently on a lot near the Lackawanna station in Harrison, N. J. The railroad track ran through the left field. The batsman raised a Texas leaguer behind third base above the railroad embankment just as the train due at Hoboken at 4:55 p. m. was pulling out. The ball dropped on the locomotive. Four runs were scored on the play. The umpire decided the ball went down the smokestack on fair grounds, and the runs counted.

CITY IS IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

City Hall and Business Houses All Decorated for Merchants' Week

Band Concert and Athletic Sport This Afternoon

Merchants' Week opened today with auspicious weather, and the business section of the city in holiday attire. "Trade in Quincy" is the shibboleth, and has always been advocated by the Daily Ledger. Quincy would grow and prosper amazingly if home trade prevailed generally.

Although it was not intended to go into any general scheme of decoration for Merchants' week, the enterprising decorating firms have been successful in inducing many business houses to decorate, so that from School street to Saville street nearly all of the business houses are decorated with National flags and bunting. Also the business houses on Granite street.

City Hall looks particularly attractive. Here American flags have been used exclusively. Two large flags have been draped about each window on the front and two over the main entrance.

Friday evening the illuminated sign of "WELCOME" was placed over the pathway leading from Temple street to the First church. This morning, however, some of the parishoners of the church were very much exercised that the church property should have been used to further "Merchants' Week." As a result of this remonstrance, the sign was removed.

In addition to the National emblems shown on the business houses, practically every store displays one or more of the Merchants' week banners.

The main event today is the sports this afternoon, of which the 10-mile Marathon is causing the greatest interest. This race will start shortly after 3 o'clock, the route being through North and East Weymouth, and Weymouth Landing, back to Quincy. The entries are given in another column. Arrangements have been made so that the leader at the three turning points will be promptly bulletined in front of the Daily Ledger office. Band concerts will be given this afternoon and evening, and also next week.

WHEELER—WHEBLE.

A pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Wheble on Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Stella A., was united in marriage to Everett E. Wheeler, by the Rev. E. N. Hardy, D. D., the double ring service being used. The ceremony was attended by relatives, friends and immediate neighbors of the young couple. The bride was becomingly attired in white messaline, with lace trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet of Bride roses. J. Arthur Wheble, a brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Margaret Gardiner of Wollaston was bridesmaid; she was gowned in white and carried pink sweet peas. The ushers, who were young lady friends of the bride, wore corsage bouquets of sweet peas. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Mr. Lewis of Lynn. The interior of the house was decorated with palms and roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler were assisted in receiving by the parents of the bride, the best man and the bridesmaid. Ices, cake and punch were served. They were well remembered with many beautiful gifts, including gold, silver, china, cut glass and so forth. They left for a short trip, and had planned to escape by a side door, but were discovered and showered with confetti. They will be at home after July 1, at 14 Mill street, Quincy.

ROLL OF HONOR.

QUESTION OF FUNDS

Pressure to be Brought on the City Council

The committee on parade for the Fourth of July celebration met last night in Union hall, to discuss plans for a large and successful parade.

The parade is outlined as follows:

First division—Military—including the naval officers and army officers stationed or residing in Quincy, especially those of the Argentine Republic. This division to be as large as possible and mounted to add weight to the parade.

Second division—Clubs and societies, from Quincy and all other towns of the South Shore.

Third division—Antiques and horribles.

Fourth division—Floats, autos and decorated vehicles of all sorts.

Fifth division—Civic societies of every kind.

Eugene R. Stone, chairman of the general committee, said that there was a general feeling that the bill to appropriate $2000 in aid of the celebration would not pass the City Council, because the committee on finance turned it down. He felt, however, no doubt of the result being favorable to the plans for celebration.

It was the sense of the meeting that the committee on finance for the celebration had been rather slow in starting work, and that they should be urged to some immediate effort since time is short.

Every effort will be made to induce every club and society of whatever nature on the South Shore to enter the parade in some form either by float or in a body.

Each member of the committee will personally see his Councilman in favor of the appropriation, and the following vote was passed:—Voted, that it is the sense of the gentlemen present from the following organizations,—Sons of Veterans, Ward Four Improvement Association, Granite Cutters, Granite City League, Adams A. A., Fore River Apprentices, Fore River Ship Building Company, Houghs Neck Association, Knights and Ladies of Honor, Ramblers club, Washington French Hose Association, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Forresters of America, Central Labor Union, Clan McGregor, Improved Order of Red Men, Spanish War Veterans,—that the Council approves the appropriation of $2,000 for the Fourth of July celebration, and that a copy of this vote be delivered to every member of the Council.

All now depends on the finances for the success of the celebration.

Mrs. F. T. Appleton of Irving place is having a closing out sale of all her stamped goods, embroidery silks, fancy braids etc.

PETERSON'S SUGGESTIONS

Here we are, on top as usual.

Merchant's Week finds us ready with some attractive prices, and and we stand back of the quality.

We cut these for this week only:

ANNIVERSARY OF PAUL REVERE POST

Four of the Charter Members Are Still Active Members of Organization

Post Was Mustered in Forty-One Years Ago

Today is the 41st anniversary of the mustering in of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., and the post is preparing to observe the passing of the interesting event this evening at Electa hall.

It was a proud day for the old veterans when the post was mustered in June 4, 1869. The war was then over, and the men who had marched shoulder to shoulder through the Southern wilderness and fought many a stubborn fight.

The charter list contained fifteen names. Of this number seven have answered to the last roll call. Of the eight remaining members four are still active members of the post. Those marked with an asterisk have passed away.

COL. CHARLES H. PORTER.
*DANIEL F. FRENCH.
*CHARLES A. FOLLETT.
*WILLIAM H. FOLLETT.
HENRY B. BROWN.
WARREN DUNBAR.
WARREN W. ADAMS.
MAJ. WILLIAM G. SHEEN.
WILLIAM H. H. RIDEOUT.
JOHN W. MOORE.
*HENRY LUNT.
*WILLIAM W. PENNIMAN.
JAMES W. PIERCE.
*WILLIAM SPELLMAN.
*ROBERT MONK.

O fthe surviving charter members, Col. Charles H. Porter, Warren Dunbar, John W. Moore and James W. Pierce are still members of the post.

Tonight's program will be in charge of James H. Webb, who will give a brief history o fthe post, together with the amounts expended for charitable purposes.

Department Commander Brownand several of the other department officers are expected to be present as well as several of the department officers of the Women's Relief corps, Mayor Shea and other city officials. There will be remarks by these gentlemen and vocal and instrumental music.

MARKET WEEK AT QUINCY.

Beginning tomorrow morning and continuing until Saturday, June 11, the Quincy Retail Merchants' Association will conduct a merchants' week, combining the features of the old-fashioned market day with the modern county fair and Old Home week. Every business organization in the city is making elaborate preparations for the occasion.—Boston Herald. June 3.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Have you read carefully the summer timetable of the New Haven road which goes into effect tomorrow? There are a number of important changes and a few minutes perusal of the folders may save one some vexatious delays.

The figures of the Assessors, showing 9,673 poll taxpayers in Quincy, offer a good opportunity to make an estimate on the population of the ctiy. Censuses of the past have shown the population to be three and one-half times as large as the number of polls. This would give Quincy a population today of 33,855.

The many kind things now being said about ex-Mayor Hibbard sound very fine but perhaps had they been expressed during his lifetime would have helped to smooth over some of the rough places in his path. It is the some old story of encouragement being withheld until too late. During his administration the critics could find no words too harsh to hurl at him and his friends stood by silently but now that he is gone they can seem to find no praise too extravagant for him.

Veteran soldiers who hold public office in this or other towns will be interested in a law which has just been enacted by the Massachusetts legislature. Under the new law, the veterans employed by the state must be given a hearing before the state board of conciliation before they can be removed, suspended, transferred, or lowered in rank. The evidence must be brought before the authorities of the city or town in which the soldier is employed and the men may employ counsel to defend them. This law gives the defenders of the flag their long needed rights in the matter. Their service for their country should be enough but in any case the law now steps in and makes it impossible to dismiss a veteran soldier for purely political reasons.

The valuation of Quincy is about 1-49th of the valuation of Boston, and the population of Quincy is about 1-21st of the population of Boston. Should Quincy be annexed to Boston, the property of the Quincy ward would pay 1-50th of the taxes of Boston. It would not be reasonable to expect Quincy ward to pay 1-22d of because it happened to have 1-22d of the population. On the population basis the Quincy ward would pay over twice as much in taxes as on the valuation basis.

Again Brookline has about four times the valuation of Quincy, and should pay four times as much toward the expenses of the Metropolitan district as Quincy, both for parks, for water, for sewers, etc. It should not pay less than Quincy just because its population is less.

Just now there is an effort on the part of Boston and Brookline to have the cost of the Metropolitan reservations and parkways assessed on population, rather than valuation as all taxes should be assessed. They have been successful in having the cost of the Metropolitan water system assessed largely on a consumption basis rather than a valuatlion basis, and thereby worked great injustice to Quincy and some other towns, that rich cities and towns might be favored. The poor cities and towns should not be hood-winked relative to reservations. We are not sure but Boston should pay the whole cost of these reservations, because they are designed wholly for the benefit of Boston, but Quincy will not strenuously object to paying on a valuation basis. It should be prepared to kick vigorously against any assessment on a population basis, and to enlist the assistance of other cities in the district whose per capita valuation is low. The appeal should be made in the name of justice and fair play. A man with five children should not be assessed any more than a man with one child, but if he has five times the wealth he should be assessed five times as much, for he is better able to pay ten times as much. Dont be hoodwinked!

A VIEW OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The fo llowing article, written expressly for the Daily Ledger, has been received from Frederick E. Moir, now at Manila, Philippine Islands. Hs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. leAxander Moir of Norfolk Downs, and a brother of Councilman Moir.

Mr. Moir will be remembered at Adams Academy as one of the sudents in whom, on account of his scholastic attainments, the late Dr. Everett took a deep interest. He is a graduate of Harvard, 07. Immediately after graduation, he was appointed an examiner of the Civil Service Commission, War Department, Philippine service.

Editor of Daily Ledger:

There are among the people of the United States many and diverse views in regard to the policy of the United States government in the Philippine Islands. That there are many worthy and eminent citizens of the United States who are of the opinion that they would be much "better off" if the Philippines were disposed of is well known, and many others are there also, who, while not so radical in their opinions in regard to the policy of the government towards the territories lying beyond the limits of the United States proper, are nevertheless exponents of the theory that the policy now in vogue in the Philippine Islands is one which should, in many respects, be altered.

One should but notice and study the trend of affairs in the continent of Europe to realize the mighty struggles that are going on in the councils of European nations and in international affairs as well—struggles which have as their particular object the acquiring of territory beyond the seas.

We have but to look back upon the the days of '98 to see how eagerly the Philippine Islands were sought by European powers. Well they knew the value of these tropical islands which for centuries had been the source of vast quantities of enriching commodities—islands which dominated by a government more progressive than that of Spain would yield returns far in excess of those already obtained.

The United States has undertaken a task which has since its inception become a solemn duty, namely, that of placing the Filipino people in such a position and condition from an educational point of view that they shall be capable of governing themselves. But before that time arrives the resources of the Philippines will have to be developed, her forests of valuable and beautiful hard woods exploited—her waterways improved and, what at the present time appears to be most urgent of all, her agriculture increased and improved. For men with capital, and no great amount of capital is needed, the commercial opportunities are great, especially for cocoanut and hemp planters.

Nor are the matters of a co mmercial nature the sole reasons why it is expedient that the United States should maintain its position in the Philippine Islands, for there are other affairs of significance and gravity which are linked with and hear directly upon our position in the southern seas. The whole world knows that the United States has come to be a powerful factor in the question of the dominance of the Pacific. She has been for years, also, the one great factor which has stood for maintaining the "open door" and preserving the integrity of the Chinese empire when European nations were hungering for its partition.

Our relations with China require our presence in these oriental waters—we need a base in this part of the world, and while foreign powers watch with critical eye our every move, our presence here stands as a guarantee of the principles of justice and fair-dealing which have ever been since the days of Caleb Cushing, the policy of the United States in her relations with the Chinese Empire.

In China as well as in the Philippines, are magnificent opportunities for Americans, for China is an awakening nation destined one day to take her place as a state among states and to assert an influence, commensurate with her size, in the settling of the far-eastern question.

The great question which, at the present time, agitates the minds of those whose eyes have been upon the awakening of China from its centuries of torpor is the clash of oriental and occidental civilizations which will some day come about. Nor can this clash" be long postponed. That the Chinese are tenacious and jealous of their social and religious systems and ideas is evident to those conversant with conditions in this vast empire.

Shall the impending clash, now so imminent, beblessed with a peaceful settlement, or is the compact of centuries of divergent civilizations, oriental and occidental, to be signalized, by the din of arms? This is the question which will soon arise if, indeed, it has not already arisen, in the minds of men and the councils of western nations.

May the spirit of the stars and stripes stand as the factor that shall encourage and control a bloodless union of these rival civilizations and it shall not be said among the men of future that our presence in the Philippines was in vain, but it shall be recorded in the annals of history as a blessing to the world and to humanity.

CASHIER EARL IS ATTACKED

Knew of Coleman's Doings Before Cambridge Bank Failed

CLAIM OF KELIHER'S COUNSEL

Says That Bookkeeper Told His Father That All the Bank Officers Knew His Faults—Surprise at Announcement That Coleman Will Be Witness For Defense—Prosecution Rests Its Case

Boston, June 4.—"Father, for the last two months every officer in that bank knew what I was doing."

George W. Coleman made this statement to his father, Walter G. Coleman, in explaining his robbery of the National City bank of Cambridge, shortly after the young man returned from Kansas City, it was declared by Lawyer Pratt in outlining the defense of "Big Bill" Keliher in the circuit court.

Keliher is on trial charged with aiding Coleman in robbing the bank. Pratt had not finished his opening when court adjourned until next Tuesday. The government finished its case and Pratt began his speech in a few minutes.

Mr. Pratt declared that unless Coleman fooled Cashier Earl in his stealing, Keliher could not be convicted, and then the lawyer went on to say that the defense would prove that Earl knew all about what Coleman was doing.

A man named Lombard will be called, Pratt said, who called the attention of Earl to the life Coleman was living, and the diamonds he was wearing, and that Earl handed Lombard an unsigned note in which he stated that he had investigated the stories and Coleman had laughed at them.

Policeman Rowe, Pratt said, told the cashier that Coleman was "running wild" and the cashier retorted that they were "satisfied with him" and they wanted no comment.

Mr. Pratt declared that what the matter was with Coleman was that he was suffering from "pure cussedness." Earl was attacked by Pratt as not having done his duty.

Coleman had told many persons, including his former counsel, Henry Winslow, that an aunt had left him $350,000, and that he was going to "spend it to the limit," the lawyer said in his speech.

The government case was opened two weeks ago last Wednesday and the defense will occupy at least a week with the examination of its witnesses, among whom will be "Big Bill" himself, according to his own statement, and George W. Coleman, who has already testified as one of the most important of the government witnesses. The announcement that Coleman would be a witness came as a surprise to everybody, but the statement was made in the address of Pratt.

CARS ARE TELESCOPED

Express Crashes Into Freight, but No Passengers Are Injured

Great Barrington, Mass., June 4.—Rounding a curve at good speed, a New York bound express train from Pittsfield crashed into the rear of an extra freight that had been stopped about three-quarters of a mile north of the Great Barrington station, and telescoped the last two cars and the caboose of the freight. None of the 100 passengers on the express was seriously injured, although all were badly shaken up.

Engineer Blake of the express and his fireman jumped and were only slightly hurt. Baggagemaster Gedney was thrown against a door of the baggage car with great force and received multiple contusions on the chest. His injuries were the worst received.

COW FINDS TEST BALLOON

Mooley Tries to Swallow It and Comes to an Untimely End

Amherst, Mass., June 4.—One of the small balloons recently sent up from Pittsfield for scientific purposes by Professor Rotch of the Blue Hills observatory has been located at Dwight Station, near here.

When found the balloon had been partly swallowed by a cow, which had choked to death in her efforts to get it down. The instruments accompanying the balloon have not been found.

Young Oarsman Drowned

Billerica, Mass., June 4.—Charles J. Corr of Cambridge, aged 18, captain of the Rindge manual training school crew, and otherwise prominently identified with the athletics of the school, was drowned in the Concord river last night while swimming.

Hungarian Aviator Killed

Budapest, June 4.—Zosily, who won a big aviation prize Wednesday, was killed while attempting another flight yesterday. His aeroplane was smashed.

HIGHER FREIGHT RATES

Paving Blocks, Crushed Stone, Etc., Are Included

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and Boston & Albany R. R. have filed a new tariff of freight rates between Boston and the West with the interstate commerce commission at Washington, and advances of 10 to 25 per cent are announced to be effective July 5 between Boston and Chicago. The rate on paving blocks is increased from $1.40 to $5.00 per ton of 2,000 pounds; and the rate on crushed stone from $3.60 to $4,00 per ton. There are similar increases on brimstone, oysters and clams, limestone, marble chips, logs, and numerous other articles. Monumental granite work is probably included.

Tribe of Pygmies Discovered

London, June 4.—The British scientific expedition to explore the Great Snow mountains in Dutch New Guinea discovered at an elevation of 2000 feet a tribe of pygmy people whose average height is about four feet three inches.

One of the pleasant affairs of the week was the fifth annual meeting on Monday of the Association of the Descendants of Daniel Faunce of Kingston held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Weston of Newport avenue. It was an all day meeting attended by forty to fifty descendants, representing four generations, the oldest being 84 years and the youngest 18 months. After dinner a business meeting was held at which Louis B. Weston was elected president. Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham is permanent historian. There were speeches, a musical and social. Owing to the weather the tents on the lawn were used mostly by the children. So pleasant was the gathering several stayed during the evening when music was an enjoyable feature. Among the Wollaston people decendants of Daniel Faunce are Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, nee Faunce, Mrs. George Weston, nee Faunce and Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham nee Faunce and their families.

KING GEORGE IS FORTY-FIVE

His Birthday Will Be Formally Celebrated Three Weeks Hence

London, June 4.—King George celebrated his first birthday as England's ruler. He is 45 years old. All the royalties in London paid formal visits to the king at Marlborough house, and the royal salute was fired in St. James park, as well as at Windsor.

The king's birthday will be formally celebrated on June 24, but hundreds of personal congratulatory messages were received. Among those paying their respects thus was Theodore Roosevelt.

FOLLOWS USUAL "RULE"

Officer Leads Young Girl Through Village Streets In Handcuffs

Sanford, Me., June 4.—Residents of this town were startled to witness a 14-year-old girl being led through the main street of the village, handcuffed to a six-foot, 200-pound policeman.

Officer Bennett arrested Winnie Kerr on complaint of the parents of the girl. They claimed their child was disobedient and that they could not keep her at home.

Bennett explained his reason for handcuffing her by saying that it was the rule. The girl was later sentenced to the industrial school at Halowell during her minority.

Anarchists Attack a Prince

Berlin, June 4.—Prince Julius of Lippe was stoned and seriously injured by a group of Italian anarchists, while he was driving with his brother, Prince Leopold, near Detmold. The anarchists were arrested.

BRIEFS

J. Harry Hooper of Beach street has returned from a business trip in the western part of the state.

The young friends of Miss Teresa Edwards are glad to see her about after her recent operation for appendicitis.

Fred Sass of Wollaston Park is in Texas in the employ of a wool concern in whose place of business in Boston he was formerly employed.

William E. Hingston of Davis street held a conspicuous place at the Kelliher trial in Boston on Thursday as a handwriting expert.

A business meeting and social of the Epworth League was held with Mr. and Mrs. Teed of Beach street Thursday evening.

The net receipts for the matinee performance of Pinafore given recently by the Music committee of the Quincy Women's club were over $300.

Mrs. Prescott Bigelow of Brookline died suddenly on Thursday ,aged 72 years. She is survived by a son, Prescott Bigelow and a daughter Mrs. James I. Howe.

The picture of the new Memorial Congregational church ,exhibited in the window of Branscheid & Marten has created considerable interest and corrected the idea that the structure is to be built of wood. Good old Quincy granite will be the material used for the edifice. It is hoped that the corner stone can be laid during the month of June.

Great indignation is being expressed in Atlantic at the new arrangement of trains to go into effect Sunday. Several residents have suggested that a mass meeting be called of the travelling public, and petition that the most needed trains be replaced. During the summer months traffic is especially heavy for in addition to the Atlantic people, the summer residents at Squantum make use of the trains.

The petitions for better train service for Wollaston recently circulated and forwarded to the New Haven railroad have apparently been very fruitful in results. Wollaston is to have on the summer timetable 36 outward trains from Boston 15 of which are express trains and 36 inward trains 11 of them express trains. This arrangement gives practically half hour service instead of hourly during the middle of the day and better service morning and evening. The committee of the Wollaston Congregational Men's club is much pleased at the result of their endeavors.

CHIMNEY TOPPLES OVER

Debris Covers Three Firemen, Two of Whom May Not Recover.

Boston, June 4.—Three firemen were injured, two probably fatally, by being caught under the falling roof and heavy chimney of a burning barn in the rear of 374 Ashmont street late last night.

The three men were handling a hose on the first floor of the barn, playing into the attic, in which baled hay was blazing after the fire in the lower part of the stable had been extinguished, when the heavy chimney crashed to the roof. With the impact of the chimney the roof collapsed, carrying down with it the floor of the attic, and pinning down under the burning debris the three firemen who had manned the hose.

The injured men are John J. Craddock, internal injuries, broken ribs and bruised back and shoulders; William Griffin, internal injuries and broken legs; William Kehoe, legs crushed and contusions of body.

CRISIS IN COAL STRIKE

Threat to Call Out Enginemen and Pumpmen In Illinois Mines

Chicago, June 4.—The Illinois Manufacturers' association has voted to stand by he coal mine operators of Illinois in the present strike. It is said they will purchase coal elsewhere than in this state until the strike is settled.

Drastic methods were adopted by the United Mine Workers of Illinois in an effort to force settlement with operators. Letters were sent out from the state offices in Springfield to all unions, calling for immediate notifications of the operators that all enginemen, pumpmen, mule feeders and others will leave their work within twelve hours after the receipt of the notification unless the wage scale is signed.

Some operators have signed the scale and 20,000 of the 72,000 strikers in the state have returned to work.

PRESIDENT RAKES THE MUCKRAKERS

He Thinks That This Sort of Journalism Is Passing

Ada, O., June 4.—President Taft, in an address to the graduating class of the Northern university here, gave a word of advice to the young men and women and discussed at length the opportunities and limits of the various professions and business pursuits.

The law, the ministry, medicine, teaching, journalism, farming and modern industrial conditions all came in for a share of treatment.

In discussing journalism the president took occasion to denounce "muckraking" and expressed the belief that that unjust phase of newspaper activity soon would be a thing of the past because the people are refusing to be influenced by it, and thus are not making the contributions to the pockets of the muckrakers which is their only motive for conducting their business.

Socialism was denounced by the president, but was referred to as one of the problems that will have to be considered during the next generation.

MEETS INSTANT DEATH

Woman Once Prominent In Vassar Athletics In Fatal Accident

New Haven, June 4.—Miss Marion Mossman, a graduate of Vassar college in the class of 1901, and daughter of Rev. W. D. Mossman, was instantly killed at Guilford last night by being thrown from a carriage.

Miss Mossman was on her way to the family summer home at Madison when the horse she was driving became frightened, throwing her out, her head striking a stone, crushing the skull.

Miss Mossman was a skilled horsewoman and had exhibited the horse she was driving at the state horse shows. At Vassar she was especially prominent in athletics. She was 29 years old.

HALL SENT TO PRISON

Prominent Worcester Man Concerned In Scrape Involving Young Girls

Worcester, Mass., June 4.—Judson W. Hall, aged 74, one of the most prominent real estate dealers in this city, was sentenced to serve from six to eight years in state prison, one day to be of solitary confinement.

Hall was one of a number of well-known Worcester men who are accused of serious offenses in connection with a sensational story involving a number of girls ranging in age from 11 to 16 years.

Two Children Accidentally Killed

Boston, June 4.—Two girls, one 2 and the other 3 years old, were killed in Boston yesterday; Lena Jordan by a street car and Annie Perrone by a fall from a window at her home.

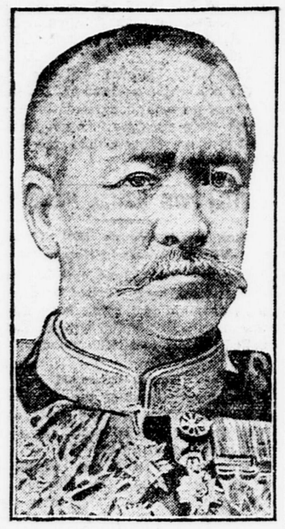
PREMIER KATSURA

He Has Aroused the Hatred of Socialists



STRONG GUARD FOR CABINET

Lives of Japanese Statesmen Sought by Socialists

MANY AGITATORS ARRESTED

Men Disguised as Laborers In Government Factory Are Charged With Manufacturing Bombs With Which to Assassinate Prime Minister and Cabinet Officers—Conspiracy Covers Many Prefectures

Tokio, June 4.—Ramifying throughout the country, a great socialistic plot, including plans for the assassination of Marquis Katsura, the prime minister, and other members of the cabinet, has been discovered here. The conspiracy is so extensive and the interests involved so enormous that the newspapers have been forbidden to publish the details.

It is known that Shusui Kotoku, an educated man and writer, formerly on the staff of The Yorodzu, has been arrested as the ringleader. He has been taken with several other notorious agitators, who were disguised as laborers in the government factory near Matsumoto, in the Nagano prefecture. Three suspects are charged with having been engaged in manufacturing the bombs with which the assasinations were to be committed.

Two women are among the prisoners and are more violent than the men themselves. All are said to be old offenders.

The hatred felt toward Marquis Katsura is due to his drastic measures against the Socialist party in contrast with Marquis Saionji, whose downfall is partly ascribed to the criticism provoked by his lenient attitude.

Guards have been placed about Marquis Katsura and the other ministers to protect them day and night. The conspiracy covers many prefectures, from Is in the west to Tokio in the east and Nagho in the north. Many more arrests are expected.

ONE HOUR IN PRISON

Merciful Sentence Given Offender Whose Wife Is Sick In Hospital

Chicago, June 4.—One hour in the county jail was the sentence imposed by United States District Judge Landis upon Nelson S. Gilpin, a government clerk who pleaded guilty of robbing the mails. Gilpin's wife is lying ill at a hospital where her baby boy was born three weeks ago. Landis, in his charge, said:

"I shall not impose a sentence which may mean the death of someone else. I shall sentence the prisoner to one hour in the county jail. And then," he added, turning to Gilpin, "I want you to go down to the hospital as soon as you can and tell your wife just what has happened."

BALDWIN FOR GOVERNOR

Ex-Chief Justice Will Be Nominated by Connecticut Democrats

New Haven, June 4.—Leading Democrats from all over the state met in conference here and decided to nominate ex-Chief Justice Simeon E. Baldwin for governor.

Chairman Comstock spoke in favor of Judge Baldwin, who retired a few months ago on account of the age limit. Henry Bishop of Bridgeport is the only other candidate.

Driven to Death by Remorse

Boston, June 4.—Ludwig H. Roseth, aged 28, dived to instant death in front of an Elevated train at the State street station of the L tunnel, believing that he had killed a fellow employe with whom he had quarrelled a few moments previous to his suicide. The man whom he assaulted was not seriously hurt.

ESCAPE IS CUT OFF

Supposed Slayer of Alma Kellner Will Surely Be Caught If Alive

Washington, June 4.—Search for J. C. Wending, accused slayer of Alma Kellner, 8 years old, who was found in a cellar in St. John's parochial school at Louisville, is about to become world wide in scope, with the United States government working to aid the searchers.

Acting upon the request of Representative Sherley of Kentucky the state department has agreed to take the matter up, and a photograph and description of the supposed slayer will be supplied to every consular officer of the United States as soon as practicable.

The United States has extradition treaties with about every civilized country in the world. As matters now stand it is believed here that every avenue of escape for the slayer is effectively cut off and that he will be brought to justice at no matter what cost.

MANSLAUGHTER IS CHARGED

Three Persons Held In Westerly Wood Alcohol "Whisky" Case

Westerly, R. I., June 4.—John Cisco, his wife, Caterine, and John di Fonti were each held for the grand jury in $3000 bail, accused of selling whisky which contained wood alcohol and causing the deaths of Michael Riley and Daniel T. Sulivan. The charge was manslaughter.

The victims, for whose deaths the accused must face the grand jury, were two of the fourteen persons who died in the vicinity of Westerly recently.

No testimony was offered by the defendants. They merely pleaded not guilty. Di Fonti produced bail.

Michael Riley died April 13. Daniel T. Sullivan died on April 25. Professor Whitney of Harvard testified that the stomachs contained wood alcohol.

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR SUGAR FRAUDS

Heike Says All His Acts Were Directed by Havemeyer

New York, June 4.—Testimony which led direct to the grave of Henry O. Havemeyer, late head of the American Sugar Refining company, was given on the witness stand by Charles R. Heike, secretary of the company, who is charged with conspiring to defraud the government on under weights of sugar.

Hitherto in the defense of Ernest W. Gerbracht and James F. Bendernagel, who are also on trial, only hints were made in Havemeyer's direction.

On taking the stand Heike put responsibility for practically all his acts upon Havemeyer. Time and again, in explaining his business dealings, he declared he acted "at the direction of Mr. Havemeyer." He denied any knowledge of the tricky scales on the docks, and said he did not even know the company had scales there, but thought they belonged to the government.

BULLET THROUGH HIS HEAD

Man Takes His Own Life After Seriously Wounding His Wife

Hyannis, Mass., June 4.—Adovardo Aleonette fired five shots from a .38-calibre revolver at his wife, two of them taking effect in her back and head, and then shot himself through the head, dying instantly.

Three hours after the shooting John Bretti, for whom the woman had been working as housekeeper, returned home and found Mrs. Aleonette unconscious on the floor. It is believed that she will live.

The shooting followed a talk of more than six hours, during which Aleonette tried in vain to induce his wife to take up once again their life together. There were no witnesses to the shooting.

Infant Left In Bureau Drawer

Boston, June 4.—A well-dressed woman, who engaged a room in Hotel Kingston a few minutes before midnight, gave birth to a healthy baby girl during the night and departed in the morning without being detected by the clerk, leaving the child wrapped in a blanket in a bureau drawer.

Milk Permit Bill Killed

Boston, June 4.—The bill to provide that no milk shall be sold in the city of Boston except with the permit of the board of health was rejected in the senate on a voice vote.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying to permanent cures.

Richard Smith, South Central avenue, Wollaston, Mass. ,says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had dull pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning, I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly dress myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and in a short time after beginning their use, I was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy, I was in good health and I have had no kidney trouble since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this change for the better and I gladly recommend them."

INSURGENTS FALL INTO LINE

Help Pass Railroad Bill by Vote of Fifty to Twelve

COMMERCE COURT RETAINED

Pooling and Merger Sections Stricken Out and Many Amendments Favorable to Shippers Adopted During Twelve Weeks' Discussion of Taft Measure In Senate—Outline of Principal Features of the Bill

Washington, June 4.—The senate passed the administration railroad bill late last night by a vote of fifty to twelve. The only votes recorded against the bill were cast by Democrats. It had been under consideration for more than twelve weeks and practically no other business except appropriation bills were considered in that long period.

The practical unanimity with which the measure was passed was due to the radical changes made in the measure from the form in which it was drafted by Attorney General Wickersham, after numerous conferences at the White House on the subject of amending interstate commerce laws.

All of the "insurgents," who opposed many features of the original bill, voted for it last night.

In the elimination of pooling and merger sections and the adoption of many amendments in the interest of shippers, the progressive Republicans claimed to have won a signal victory and most of the Democrats expressed themselves as favorable to the large portion of the measure.

Had it not been for the retention of the sections to create a court of commerce, it is likely that the vote for the bill would have been unanimous.

The new law will take effect sixty days from the date approved by the president.

The salient features of the railroad bill, as it passed the senate, may be described as follows:

The bill provides for the creation of a new "court of commerce" for the consideration, exclusively, of appeals from orders of the interstate commerce commission. The court is to consist of five judges, to sit in Washington; their powers are to be co-ordinate with the judges of the federal circuit court.

The long and short haul provision of the present interstate commerce law is amended so as to permit a greater charge for a short haul than for a long haul, only with the consent of the interstate commerce commission. Especial provision is made against a lower rate being fixed for the purpose of destroying water competition.

Railroad companies are required to furnish written statements of rates from one place to another upon the written application of a shipper, under a penalty of $250 for mis-statement or for failure to comply with such application. In addition, the shipper could bring suit for additional damages. The commission is authorized to determine the reasonableness of individual or joint rates or classification, and if such rates are found to be unreasonable, discriminatory, preferential or prejudicial, the commission is authorized to determine and prescribe a proper maximum rate.

Rates reduced to meet water competition must not be restored until after a hearing by the commission to determine whether conditions have changed otherwise than by the elimination of the water competition.

Authority is given the commission to establish through rates and joint classification or to prescribe maximum rates over the same, whenever the carriers themselves neglect to do so. This regulation also covers water lines which are connecting carriers.

Shippers are given the right to designate a through route or part of a route over which their property shall be carried. A penalty of $500 is imposed upon carriers for disclosing any information concerning shipments.

Telegraph and telephone lines are placed under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. The commission is authorized to determine the reasonableness of rates and a penalty is imposed of from $100 to $2000 against granting franks or passes for the transmission of messages. Special night and press report messages are authorized.

The only provision in the bill applicable to other than railroad corporations is one regulating injunctions by the federal courts which suspend the operation of state laws. It is provided that such action shall be taken only when presented to a justice of the supreme court or a circuit judge and heard by three judges, one of whom shall be a supreme court justice, or a circuit court judge.

Gloomy Tale by Railroad Man

Chicago, June 4.—At least $200,000,000 which American railroads had tentatively arranged to spend in replacements as a result of the increased revenue from the advance in freight rates they had expected, must now be used to stave off ruin, according to a statement made by Clason Thompson of the railroad news bureau.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Dharmananda Kosambi, India's Sagest Pundit, Can Teach Things even to Harvard Professors—Ladies Who Dearly Love Art Are Encountered in Boston Street Cars but Are Not Always Bostonians—No Back Number is Boston University—Thoughts on Thrift Teaching—Hubbite Small Boy Shakes Baby's Bank to Attend Circus.

Elderly men, out of work and sitting disconsolate in the spring sunshine, begin to perk up and prepare shamefacedly to ask "the old woman" for fifty cents and carfare; small boys are wondering just how many pennies might adroitly be shaken out of the baby's bank; wise police sergeants get ready to tell the parents of lost little lads where to look for them; peanut roasters are working overtime and the stock of five million lemons lately brought to the Hub will soon be diminished—this is circus time.

Dharmananda Kosambi of Poona, India, may his tribe but not his name increase, has arrived in Boston. "The most learned man in all India" he is here on an errand which one might suppose would be like carrying untold tons of coal to New castle; he is to teach Harvard professors. But it is Hindustani of which some of the learned pundits of Cambridge are ignorant, so that for the next two years the gentleman with the long name will be a figure of importance at the university across the Charles and Bostonians need not be surprised to meet learned groups discussing the topics of the day in unintelligible gibberish. It has been suggested that, to get still further ahead of the times, the directors of the University ought to obtain the services in some capacity of Bihkku Nyanatiloka, the Buddhist priest who has just founded the first Buddhist colony in Europe, at Lake Maggiore, Switzerland.

Ladies who just love Art are sometimes encountered in Boston street cars, but only too rarely are they Bostonians. One such, evidently a delegate to some convention was encountered on a car out of Park street. "The new Museum of Fine Arts—how does one get there? I am so anxious to see the Greek originals that have been added since I was in the Museum nearly ten years ago. How do you like the new scheme of dividing the collections into study series and exhibition? How proud Boston people must be of this great institution! Three blocks beyond Massachusetts avenue, you say. Thank you so much." And the Boston girl to whom the visitor talked was discreet enough not to admit that she, like hundreds of thousands of her fellow and sister citizens, had never yet passed the portals of the pink granite front on Huntington avenue. Last year about as many people passed the turnstiles of the Boston Museum as make up a fortnight's attendance at the New York Aquarium. Yet Boston "culchah" is still the subject of comment. It is rather expected ,however, that the home coming of MacMonnies Bacchante will prove somewhat to have swelled the figures of attendance this year.

Just how is "thrift" to be taught in school? That's a question that is agitating many a superintendent and teacher of the Bay State since the legislature amended the law to include economy and foresight among the goals toward which the young idea may be expected to shoot. The public schools committee of the women's branch of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, of which Miss Alice H. Grady of Boston is secretary, has notions on this subject which it is drafting into a letter to be transmitted to the educational committee of each woman's club of Massachusetts. Thereafter it may be expected a vigorous propaganda will be carried on to make sure that the teaching of this all important branch is made as effective as possible.

Will Captain Bob beat it southward, after all? Newspaper writers who had the pleasure of Robert A. Bartlett's acquaintance last winter when the intrepid Newfoundland navigator made Boston his headquarters were greatly disappointed when events so shaped themselves that he could not command the Roosevelt again this summer. It is a pleasure, however, to learn that in train of his northward voyage with Harry Whitney there may come an opportunity for a try at the South Pole. A Boston newspaper woman who interviewed him on the subject asked if he thought he could reach ninety degrees south and he replied: "Give me the money for the expedition and I'll come pretty near getting there or never returning to tell the tale."

Big, bad Boston has received something of a clean bill of health from so good an authority as Commander Eva Booth who on the occasion of her latest visit said that no other large city can compare with the Hub in spiritual results. The work of the Salvation Army in the Hub, as everyone knows who has followed the sober visaged men and women in their daily work, is remarkably effective. It is a relief, after some of the disclosures of special conditions in quarters of the city, to learn that trained observers like these do not regard the old Puritan capital taken as a whole as hopeless or depraved.

Washington has also confirmed this good repute, figures just issued from the national capital proving that Boston leads all the larger cities in church attendance.

Boston University seems determined to take no back seat among educational institutions of eastern Massachusetts. The Class Day exercises this year were marked by two notable announcements which gave much pleasure to the alumni and students. One of these was to the effect that Guy Potter Benton ,now president of Miami College at Oxford, O., is to be Dr. Huntington's successor as president of Boston University. This announcement gave universal satisfaction ,as Mr. Benton's remarkable record as an educator insures the University a worthy head. The second announcement was that of a gift of $300,000 by Mrs. Robert D. Evans of Beverly to the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital as an aid to the University Medical school. The gift is a memorial to her late husband, who up to time of his death was owner of the cottage occupied by President Taft during his summers on the North Shore.

Not fewer lecture courses, but more refined dances is another project of the social reformers. An agitation is under way among the leading women philanthropists of the Hub to furnish some methods of recreation and healthful enjoyment for the shop and factory girls and their families who cannot afford the ordinary amusements of city life. Boston has enough intellectuality, say more of these public spirited women. There are concerts and lectures and settlement house study courses innumerable. What is needed is something on the order of Chicago's park houses, where poor but respectable people may enjoy musicals, dances and other amusements under proper regulations. Another suggestion is for the model apartment houses like those in New York, where a girl working for low wages may rent a bedroom ,living room and cabinet kitchen for $1.50 a week ,and where a competent matron is permanently retained. It is hoped that some of the schemes now working in the heads of such women as Mary Boyle O'Reilly, Mrs. Mary Morton Kehew, Mrs. Glendower Evans and others, may bear fruit in the near future and that means may be found whereby the working girl may enjoy the pleasures of life without tumbling into the pitfalls.

HIGH COST OF LIVING HITS GERMAN RULER

His Allowance to Be Brought to About $5,000,000

Berlin, June 4.—A semi-official declaration has been issued explaining the causes of the financial stress under which the emperor finds himself and the requirement for an increase in the civil list of the King of Prussia as agreed upon by the leaders of the Prussian diet. It has been decided to introduce a bill bringing up the emperor's allowance to about $5,000,000.

The public is reminded that the Prussian crown surrendered to the state in 1820 properties yielding at that time nearly $2,000,000 annually and the value of which has been greatly augmented since. The increased cost of living renders the present allowance inadequate, the statement says.

Each year his support of the court theatres alone costs the emperor some $700,000, and in recent years he has increased the salaries of the middle and lower employes of the imperial household by a total of $250,000. He must also provide for the maintenance of the households of the married princes.

FOUND HIDDEN JEWELS

Customs Officers Detain Four Returning Women Tourists

New York, June 4.—Mrs. C. W. Allen of Kenosha, Wis., her daughter, Gertrude, Miss Ethel Sumner and Mrs. D. D. Creiger, all of the same city, will have to explain to the customs authorities why, as inspectors allege, they failed to declare $3000 worth of jewelry when they landed from the steamship Lusitania, and why the jewelry was afterwards found in a chamois bag tied to Mrs. Allen's waist underneath her skirt.

Customs inspectors say that Mrs. Allen signed the declaration for the party and that it declared nothing.

JUNIORS WIN INTER CLASS

Secured 37 of 86 Points at High School Meet

Class of 1911,	37 Points
Class of 1912,	19 Points
Class of 1909,	10 Points
Class of 1910,	10 Points
Class of 1913,	10 points
Total	86 Points

In the inter class athletic meet of Quincy High school at Merrymount Park yesterday afternoon the Class of 1911 proved itself superior to all others in three events and took 6 seconds and 4thirds for a total of 37 points, outdistancing the Class of 1912, the nearest competitor by 18 points. There were ten events in all, with a total of 86 points, thus the Juniors secured nearly half of the total number of points.

The 100 yd dash was run in three trial beats, W. Cranshaw, '11, Estes '13, Manning, '11 and E. Prount '12, qualifying for the final, which was won by Prout in 10 2-5 seconds; Manning second; and Estes third.

Marceau '09, took the mile in 5 minutes, 2 seconds. H. Sutermiester, '11, getting first however, since Marceau was not allowed to qualify in this race. Manning and R. Cranshaw both '11, took second and third.

The 220 yd. event went to E. Prout, '13, Manning, '11 and E. Prout '12 '12, 25 2-5 second; Estes '13 second and Trask, '12, third.

Marceau again led and broke the school record for the half mile, pulling the record down from 2 min. 10 sec., to 2 min., 5 2-5 seconds. Sutermeister and R. Cranshaw, '11, took second and third respectively.

After Hill had made 18 ft. 8 in. in the running broad jump, Manning 18 ft., 8 and Trask 18 ft. 61-2, they decided to jump to break the tie, and after two failures Trask leaped over 19 ft. 6 in. and took first. Manning again was second with 19ft. 5 1-4 in. while the former high man Hill '11, was third with 19ft. 5 in.

Arthur '11, took the running high jump with a 5 foot mark. He tried for a record but failed. R. Cranshaw '11, and L. White, 13, were tied with 4 ft. 11in., and on the toss up for second Cranshaw won out.

Marceau again breasted the tape first, taking the quarter mile run in 58 seconds, with E. Prout '12, second, and Knapp, '10, third.

The 16lb. shot put went to Russ Bates who won in rather easy fashion outdistancing his men in fine form. His best put was 38 ft. 6 1-2 in. Brown, '10, and Arthur '11, took second and third respectively.

H. Hill, '11, got away with the hop, step and jump with a distance of 42 ft., 1 in. Manning, '11, was second and Bates, '10, third.

The last event was the inter-class relay which was won after a hard struggle by the freshman team composed of W. Prout, L. White, Johnson and Estes.

The points were made as follows:
E. Prout ('12) 13.
Manning ('11) 12.
Marceau ('09) 10.
Sutermeister ('10) 8.
Trask ('12) 6.
Hill ('11) 6.
Arthur ('11) 6.
Bates ('10) 6.
R. Cranshaw ('11) 5.
Brown ('10) 3.
Estes ('13) 2.
Knapp ('10) 1.
White ('13) 1.

TEN-MILE MARATHON

Big Opening Event of Merchants' Week

The weather was all that could be desired for the opening of Merchants' Week, and from early afternoon until late at night City Square was black with humanity. Seldom has there been a larger crowd in the square than gathered to witness the races. While these were in progress the National band gave a concert in the square near Bethany church and the crowds began to line the streets to see the race start.

There were 66 entries for the big race and of this number 49 started. The course was over Washington street to North Weymouth, to Central Square East Weymouth, to Weymouth Landing thence over Quincy avenue to the starting point. Considering the hilly course some excellent time was made. The progress of the runners was promptly bulletined at the Daily

DOUBLE DROWNING

Finn Woman and Grandchild in Old Qurrry

When three boys, David Landbloom, of 9 Station street, Albert A. Norling, of 19 Wilson street, and Fred Kelley of 15 Kent street visited the old quarry of Charles Wilson off Centre street, Saturday afternoon, they were startled to see floating on the water the body of a woman. Horrified by what they had seen, they ran in search of officer Jeremiah Hinchon to whom they told their story. Officer Hinchon with George O'Brien of Copeland street, and John Hanaway of Hill street, hurried to the scene and drew the body out of the water. As they did so they were given a start to find a little child tied securely to the body of the woman by a scarf. The woman's face was scratched some, probably caused by her striking a rock when she jumped in.

The woman was identified as Mrs.

HOUGHS NECK TRAGEDY

Woman Shoots Man and Kills Herself

Three shots fired in quick succession in the vicinity of the Casino dance hall at Houghs Neck at 11.30 Saturday night startled the many dancers who were about to start for home. The shots were accompanied by an agonizing cry of a man who fell prostrate in the street. As he fell a woman started to run toward Centre road. Several men started to follow her, and as they came up to her more shots rang out and as they came upon the woman she lay dying in the street. She was hurried to the dance hall where Dr. W. H. Ferris found that she was dead. The woman was identified as being Ella Lawson, aged about 27 years, the daughter of a nurse, residing on Whitwell street, Quincy, although the woman has not lived at home for some time.

The man proved to be James E. Shannon of Cambridge, an annual visitor to Houghs Neck and well known. The three bullets fired at him had taken effect in his stomach. He was removed to a barber shop near by, and later removed to the City Hospital. Physicians worked over him until late, but it was reported that they were unable to find the bullets. Sunday morning however, it was said that he had a chance to live.

It was reported to the police that the two had been living at 31 1-2 Mt. Vernon street, Charlestown, as man and wife. Shannon, who is a shipping clerk in a brewery, owned a cottage on Winthrop street, Houghs Neck, and had been in the habit of coming down Saturday nights with the Lawson

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED

Young Bride Lost and Italian Shoots Himself

Lorenzo Cagnasso, aged 28 years, shot himself in the head at his boarding house, 78 Union street, Sunday afternoon. After the shooting he walked to Washington street and collapsed on the lawn in front of the residence of Senator E. C. Hultman. The police were notified and he was removed to the City Hospital in the police ambulance, where Dr. Burke and Dr. Sheahan attended him. The yfound that the bullet had entered his head near the right eye and had lodged back of the brain. While the surgeons did not succeed in extracting the bullet they said that the man has a chance to live.

On the way to the hospital in the police ambulance he was asked why he had shot himself. Cagnasso said that his wife Delia had gone to Newport News a few days ago and had not returned, and that he thought she had run away. It is thought by the police however, that his wife is at the Chardon Street Home in Boston, waiting for some one to claim her. It was learned that a young woman had been taken into custody, at Neponset late Friday night. To them the woman said her husband was an Italian and that she had left home to seek work. She said his first name was Laurence, but she could not pronounce his last name.

She further said that she was married in Holyoke three months ago, and that her husband had come to this vicinity fifteen days ago and got work in some ship yard. She could not tell however, what city it was in or where they lived. Her maiden name was

ELOPEMENT AND MARRIAGE

Quincy Young Lady and a Harvard Student

Harvard friends of Harry J. Guild, a student at the Harvard Scientific School were greatly surprised on Sunday, says the Boston Journal, when he informed them that on Saturday he and Miss Dorothy H. Morse of Quincy, had eloped to Nashua, N. H., and had been married in that city. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Guild went to the young groom's home in Bangor, Me., to inform his mother, Mrs. Ella T. Guild, of the wedding. Mrs. Guild, though, was found to be suffering from a nervous attack and Guild's cousin, Fred R. Ayer, advised them not to break the news at that time, and also not to remain in Bangor. He accompanied them to Nashua and there confirmed the marriage ,after which he returned to Bangor and told the groom's mother the news.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Morse, of Quincy. Mr. and Mrs. Morse said Sunday night that they had been apprised of the elopement, but had no comment to make.

Mr. and Mrs. Guild returned to Boston and Mr. Guild intends to continue his studies at Harvard, although he will probably go to Bangor today to see his mother.

Guild's father, Charles H. Guild, is one of the wealthiest manufacturers in Maine, but he and his wife do not live together an dtheir son has resided with his mother since the separation.

Friends of the young couple were not so surprised over the wedding as

MARCH TO CITY HALL

And Demand Your Rights Says Mayor Shea

It came out at the 41st anniversary gathering of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., on Saturday evening that the veterans are having a hard time financially to meet their current expenses; that the membership of the Post is smal, and the rent of hall is a burden; that some other cities and towns give the Grand Army a hall free of rent; that Paul Revere Post would like to have the City of Quincy purchase the present headquarters, and allow the Post to occupy it free of rent as a Memorial hall.

The anniversary was observed at Electa hall, and was largely attended by members of the Post, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Sons of Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans, and Ladies Auxiliaries. Special guests of the occassion were Department Commander Brown and department officers, Mayor Shea, Councilman Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., and Councilman John L. Richards, the editor of the Daily Ledger and others.

Among members of the Post present were: George L. Phillips, Thomas Ring, Charles L. Orne, Elisha Packard, Francis P. Loud, Warren W. Adams, Charles H. Porter Henry Chubbuck, Edward Guston, Jame W. Pierce Wyman Nightingale, John D. Williams, George Monk, Dr. H. C.

CHAIR ON FIRE.

The alarm from Box 136 at 5.33 Sunday evening was for a fire in a Morris chair in the house of Mr. Martin on Water street. The recall sounded promptly although $25 damage was done to the chair and house.

QUARREL OVER GIRL

Two Men Fined in Court for Drunkenness

There was a drunken row in the house of Gustaf Hagg on Smith street early Sunday morning, during which Anna Suffore got a cut on the top of the head with some blunt instrument which resulted in Gustaf Hagg being locked up for the assault and drunkenness, and John Matson being locked up for drunkenness.

It appears that John Matson and the girl went to Boston Saturday night returning about midnight, John bringing some liquor with him. The Suffore girl says that she desired to leave teh house on Smith street when the men got drunk, but was not allowed to. The Haggs, however, say that the trouble arose over teh girl and Matson. Officer Corbett heard a disturbance in the house at 1.20 Sunday morning, and went there and told them to keep quiet. The officer had not gone far, however, before he heard a scream ,and whne he went back he found the girl bleeding from a wound on her head.

She claimed that Hagg hit her with some blunt instrument. Officer Corbett said Mr. and Mrs. Hagg and Matson were drunk. He called the wagon and sent Hagg and Matson to the police station. He did not arrest Mrs. Hagg as she had some young children.

The Suffore girl wanted to go along with Matson. When they arrived at the police station she was found to be covered with blood and Sergt. Barry called City Physician Hallowell who arrived at the station between 2 and 3 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Hagg were arraigned in court for assault on the girl. Hagg and Matson were also arraigned for drunkenness.

The Haggs were represented by counsel and the hearing was a long one. At it sconclusion the court fined Matson and Hagg $15 each for drunkenness, and dismissed the complaints for assault.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Quincy was cetrainly on the map Saturday.

Nothing in years has brought such crowds to City square as the Merchants' Carnival opening day on Saturday. The people must have come from miles around.

The South Framingham Board of Trade has succeded in getting a Boston concern to locate in that town. A ten year's lease has been signed and the new industry which is a straw factory will open in October, starting with 400 employees. The importance of this deal, as regards the industrial prosperity of Framingham, can not be overestimated. With this new industry assured, and the announcement the Gurney Heater Company of East Boston is to erect a mammoth brick plant at a cost of $250,000 and employ 500 hands at the start, the coming year will mark an important epoch in Framingham's industrial life.

That Quincy is changing, in fact has changed greatly, in the last few years was evident Saturday even to the most casual observer. It was a cosmopolitan gathering. Years ago we were a quiet town content to go on our way. Every body knew everybody now things are quite different, new people are coming in and we are waking up. There are new faces, new ideas and changes everywhere. Some of the old conservative residents do not feel that the trend is a good one but Quincy is growing too fast to keep in a rut and the watchword must be forward. We are too large and inportant a city to stand still. Saturday which ushered in Merchants' week demonstrated this fact. We are awake to our possibiliters. Now with cooperation and all working together Quincy should be on the map to stay, not only as a good place to live and sleep in but a place to do business in, an up-to-dae progressive business.

DRIFT OF OPINION

For a whole lote of people, nothing has so increased the cost of living as the expense of domestic servants. A host of young women are growing up who are helpless in the kitchen. Untaught in cookery and other arts, these tasks seem unduly strenuous and unrewarding, and the cost of what the servant eats and wastes is far more than the cash paid to her.

Furthermore, there is such a scarcity of servants that many families that used to keep them easily enough, now have to strain and strive to pay the higher wages. In many localities the average servant gets better pay, after figuring the value of her board, than the average school teacher. And a great many girls are vainly endeavoring to distribute a thin brand of aesthetic culture in the school room, who would have better food and clothes and do more for the work of the world, by making bread and ironing clothes in some one's kitchen.

Hence comes the great benefit of domestic science in the schools, teaching the girls that housewifery is healthful and ennobling and it is up work attractive by giving the servants reasonable hours and comfortable to the home keeper to make house-conditions of living.—Beverly Times.

Some merchants who are exceedingly anxious to get the best location upon the streets of this city, are strangely inconsistent in being so careless about the location and character of their advertising. They ignore the change in temper of the buying public, which decides a large part of its purchases at home throngh the reading of the store news.

With this preconceived idea as to where they shall place their patronage, customers will go to some remote side street to see goods that are well advertised, while ignoring the old established store on a main street that tries to live only on its dead past.

There are thousands of instances in any large city, where energetic and hustling men have drawn trade far out of its normal channels into side streets, by attractive and newsy descriptions of their bargains.

Wherefore we say, that to the merchant, his location in newspaper advertising, and the way he handles that location, is a matter of as much importance as his location on the streets our city.—Albert Vittum, President Beverly Merchants' Association.

SPRING CAMPAIGN IS ON

Politics Already Beginning to Sizzle In Vermont and Maine

Montpelier, Vt., June 6.—In view of the state conventions which are to be held this month the political atmosphere in both Vermont and Maine is becoming more or less heated.

Four gubernatorial candidates in Vermont, none as yet having the official approval of the Republican state committee, are making things lively in this state, but are all more or less shadowed by the importance of the question of the United States senatorship, which will probably go to former Governor Proctor.

In Maine they are going to elect a governor and legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Hale. All admit that there will be a close contest, the Democrats claiming they will elect their candidate for governor with a possibility of two congressional districts.

GILLETT TO JEFFRIES

Governor Tells Pugilist That He Thinks Big Fight a "Frame Up"

Rowardannen, Cal., June 6.—The following telegram was received by James J. Jeffries from Governor Gillett regarding the interview recently published in which the governor gave it out that he believed the fight would be a fake:

"Statement credited to me substantially correct. I did not expect its publication at this time. It was a private conversation, but since it has been published I do not care a continental. I will stand by my remarks."

In a long interview given out in Chicago, Gillett said he was positive the coming fight between Johnson and Jeffries was a "frame up." He ended his interview by saying: "I am sick and tired of the whole business, but I cannot interfere since the law permits fights. Only fools take it seriously."

MURDER AGENCY DID THRIVING BUSINESS

Doctor Poisoned Wealthy Persons With Cholera Bacilli

St. Petersburg, June 6.—The mysterious death of a young and wealthy army officer, Count Bouturlin, has led to the discovery of an extensive murder agency. Bouturlin's brother-in-law, Count De Lassy, and his physician, Dr. Patchenko, who attended Bouturlin at De Lassy's suggestion, are both under arrest.

Dr. Patchenko has confessed to the police that he inoculated Bouturlin with cholera bacilli. He further admitted that he poisoned other wealthy persons in a similar manner, during the recent cholera epidemic, under pretence of inoculating them against the disease. For this work he was paid huge sums by relatives of the victims.

COLLISION ON A CURVE

Many Persons Injured When Regular and Special Cars Crash

Dedham, Mass., June 6.—Several people were injured and many others badly shaken up in a head-on collision last night between two semi-convertible cars of the Old Colony Street Railway company on Needham street.

Neither car was damaged greatly, although the service was tied up for more than an hour.

The cause of the collision has not yet been determined. It is believed, however, that a special car, following a regular car from West Roxbury, was not reported at a turnout, and that the regular car, coming in the opposite direction, did not know of the approach of the special. The accident happened on a sharp curve where there are many trees which aid in shutting off the view.

DEATH OF TRIPLETS

Live Nearly Four Months and Then Suddenly Pass Away

Worcester, Mass., June 6.—Triplets, two boys and a girl, children of A. K. and Mrs. Kazarian, born on the afternoon of Feb. 11, died yesterday, within an hour of each other.

The children were christened Asadoor, Sarkis and Terves, and although they were not in robust health death was not anticipated. Sarkis and Asadoor died almost simultaneously and the baby girl died nearly an hour later.

Leg and Ribs Broken by Auto

North Attleboro, Mass., June 6.—Reuben Braxton, aged 54, while walking from Attleboro to Greenville, his home, was run down by an automobile and sustained fractures of the right leg and several ribs.

WHEN HOT WEATHER MAKES APPEARANCE

Milk Contractors Must Yield, According to the Producers

Boston, June 6.—Developments in the milk situation only emphasize the fact that a settlement is as far off as ever and that the producers are now relying on hot weather to come to their aid and compel the contractors to come to terms.

Both sides claim that any change in the situation has been in their favor. The contractors say that they are satisfied with present conditions as long as the producers are, and that they expect no change to result for some time.

W. A. Hunter, secretary of the producers, says that the producers will probably not be satisfied with their original demands if the strike is not settled this week. He urges the farmers to hold out, in view of the hot wave predicted, which will aid them.

TOMB SUPPLY IS STOPPED

American Women Get No More Hair From Chinese Graves

Victoria, B. C., June 6.—Women in the United States who purchase switches of black hair will be interested to learn that a crusade has been begun by the Chinese government against Chinese who supply human hair for shipment to America, according to reports brought by the Empress of India.

It seems that a charitable institution of Canton, which buries large numbers of paupers whose relatives are unable to provide coffins, found the hair dealers exhuming corpses to recover hair, and when this action was reported to the authorities action was taken against the dealers.

Instances have been reported of the hair exporters cutting hair in crowds, and the officials are prosecuting all apprehended.

MONEY WITHOUT AN OWNER

Court Is Asked For Permission to Get Rid of It

Salem, Mass., June 6.—"We have $238 which nobody owns, but we can't spend it." That is the peculiar situation which the Essex Institute finds itself in and it has now petitioned the court for authority to spend it either for the general purposes of the Institute or for any specific purpose decided by the court.

The money is the principal and interest of $28 which was deposited in 1862, in the local savings bank. It was collected to build a memorial at North bridge to mark the first opposition to British authority in America. All the subscribers to the fund are dead and the site has been provided with a memorial from another source.

AS VIEWED BY BATES

Former Governor Says Department of Public Health Is Unconstitutional

Washington, June 6.—Declaring the creation of a department of public health would be unconstitutional and therefore without the power of congress, former Governor Bates of Massachusetts appeared before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce to oppose the bill introduced by Chairman Mann of that committee.

Mr. Bates dealt with the powers vested in congress by the constitution and quoted numerous supreme court decisions in support of his argument. He contended that inasmuch as the federal government has no general police power, it has nothing to do with regulating the internal social conditions of the states.

Its powers, he said, insofar as they are legislative, relate to the external relations of the states toward foreign countries and toward each other and to matters common to the states for which they require a common agent. Matters of ordinary internal government, Bates said, are reserved to the states, to be exercised as local conditions may require.

RAILROAD RATE RAISING

May Lead to Proceedings Against New England Companies

Washington, June 6.—Prima facie evidence that the New England railroads acted in concert in compiling their increased freight rates was indicated at the interstate commerce commission, and as a result it is not at all improbable the attorney general will be called upon to bring injunction proceedings against the railroads involved.

It had been intended to make an analysis of the figures submitted by the railroads and make them public for the information of the shippers in the east, just as the figures of the Boston and Albany railroad were made public. This work was suspended, however, upon the discovery that the rates filed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford and Boston and Maine railroads are identical with those of the Boston and Albany.

Hinds Seems to Be Gaining

Westbrook, Me., June 6.—Eleven more delegates favorable to the nomination of Asher C. Hinds for congress have been chosen. The delegates now stand: Hinds, 91; Hale, 54; Reynolds, 15.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"Caste" that famous play from the pen of T. W. Robertson, will be presented by Miss Charlotte Hunt and her Stock Company at the Majestic theatre, Boston, for one week, with daily matinees, beginning Monday afternoon, June 6. "Caste" was the first of what may be termed the modern realistic school of comedy drama. In writing the play Robertson made his characters natural, every-day people, just as one meets and knows them in life, and when the piece was first produced it made a decided sensation. So well did the playwright construct his drama and so true to nature is it that it has survived the test of all these years and stands today a play of powerful human interest which grips the heart-strings and awakens the sentiment of twentieth century audiences. No drama among the classics could afford Miss Hunt and her Company better acting parts than those to be found in "Caste." In the play Miss Hunt will appear as Esther Eccles, Mr. Buhler as Hon. George D'Alroy, Miss Temple as Polly Eccles, Mr. Bliss as Sam Gerridge, Miss Hale as the Marquise and Mr. Brooks as Old Eccles.

CAMPAIGN FOR THRIFT.

For the purpose of encouraging thrift among the boys and girls in the public schools, in accordance with a recent recommendation of the Legislature, a meeting of the women's branch of the Massachusetts Saving Insurance League was held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Glendower Evans, at 12 Otis place. It waa decided to draft a letter of suggestions to be sent to the educational committee of each woman's club of Massachusetts in the hope that these organizations will cooperate with the local school authorities in this matter. A committee was appointed to prepare a plan by which the prizes will be offered for the best essay by high school pupils on savings bank life insurance and old-age pensions.

Among those present, besides Mrs. Evans, who heads the woman's branch, were Mrs. Mary Morton Kehew, Mrs. Thomas Sherwin, Mrs. H. H. Darling, Miss Eleanor Good, Mrs. William H. Hill, Mrs. F. S. Kershaw, Mrs. Alice Parker Lesser, Miss A. P. McClure, Mrs. Mary K. O'Sullivan; Miss Anita Ward, Mrs. Willian Ward Whitcher of Atlantic and Miss Ida P. Wolvin.

If you don't own an auto the next best thing is to know where to rent one by the hour or day. C. H. Penniman has taxicabs and touring cars suitable for every occasion. Since purchasing his first auto for public service a few years ago Mr. Penniman has been constantly buying autos to keep up with the increase in his patronage, showing that the public demands and appreciates up-to-date service. Mr. Penniman has also taken the agency for the Regal touring car.

QUARRY TRAGEDY

Maria Nison, and the child her thirteen months old grandchild. Tirigril Irene Ericson. Medical Examiner Frasier of Weymouth was notified and the bodies were removed to Hall's undertaking rooms on Hancock street. Felix Ericson of 23 Buckley street the father of the little girl, was horrified when informed of the tragedy. Last year Mr. Ericson with his wife, child and mother left Quincy for a visit to Finland, owing to the physical condition of the mother. On the way over his wife became despondent and committed suicide by jumping overboard.

After remaining in Finland some months the father returned to Quincy, leaving his wife's mother and daughter on the other side. He obtained work as a stone cutter and boarded at 23 Buckley street. Friday noon he was very much surprised to see his mother-in-law and daughter appear in Quincy, as he thought them in Finland, and had no knowledge that they had come to this country. From his wife's mother he learned that she had arrived Thursday. They had some talk over the child. He told the grandmother that he wanted it, but she refused to give it up. That was the last he saw or heard from them until told of the tragedy. The police think that the grandmother brooded over the thoughts of parting with the child, and that when she left the home of her son-in-law that she walked to the quarry and threw herself in, after tying the child securely to her.

The woman's arms were clasped about the body of the child and the sight was a pathetic one, and the news of the finding of the two bodies sent crowds to the quarry, which is situated some distance from the street.

Mr. Ericson says tha t he cannot undertsand how the authorities allowed the two to enter this port. He was told, however, that some of the dead woman's friends in West Quincy had sent the money for them to return to Quincy.

You Can Have a Model Kitchen as cool and white as a dairy. No smell, no smoke, no heat, no dust. No old-fashioned contrivances. The

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME

is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

Boils, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and not heat the room. No heat, no smell, no smoke, no coal to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke; and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Floral Sunday at First Church With One Baptism

FIRST CHURCH.

The annual Floral Cunday of the Sunday School of the First church was held Sunday morning in place of the regular service. The program was an excellent one and opened with a processional during which the school marched in from the chapel and occupied the centre of the main church. Then folowed an opening anthem, verse and song and baptismal service. There was but one child to be baptized. That was Frank Edwin Remick, 2d son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Remick. The baptismal service was by Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor of the church.

Then followed scriptural reading by Rev. Charles Bulkely Ames, a song and responsive reading by the school and Superintendent Charles H. Johnson, and a service in remembrance of Miss Emeline Newcomb who died June 6, 1909 and Mr. E. Landis Snyder, who died Aug. 26, 1909.

Superintendent Johnson then read the report for the year, which showed that the total enrollment of the school was 210, and was today one of the leading Unitarian Sunday Schools in this district. He said that charity now formed one of the main feature of the Sunday Schoo lwork, and he told of what the school had done in this line during the past year. The sum of $50 had been placed in the charity fund, $25 had been given to the Day Nursery, and $25 to the City Hospital. The contributions to the Birthday bank for the year had been $12.24. This would be used in giving some boy or girl a week's outing in the country, during the coming summer.

Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools was introduced as the speaker of the day. Supt. Barbour said that the only religious instruction children got was in the Sunday schools, as the constitution did not permit it in the public schools. Every child has a religious instinct and there was great need of Sunday Schools to give children a religious training. There were three values to this training. First, because they became acquainted with Bible literature. The Bible is the finest piece of literature ever written, and had more influence on literature than any other book. What other books are there that give us such beautiful stories as the Parables? What is there that is more simple or religious than the Sermon on the Mount; or that can compare to it?

The second value was the study of the old testament which teaches of the old Jewish laws. There will be found the sanction for all of our present laws in the ten commandments of all countries.

The third value was the story of the new testament which teaches us to love. The new testament laws know no code of law but the life of Jesus Christ, and that we are to follow the golden rule. From the reading of this comes the better religion than in any other way. This education every child ought to get. He felt that the world was growing better and that we wi'l be doing our part if we bring up our children in the love of God and the fatherhood of man.

Superintendent Johnson then announced that the offering to be taken would be used in finishing the rooms in the chapel. He presented diplomas to thirty children who had a perfect record for attendance during the past year; also books to the four pupils who had a perfect record for the past four years. It was announced that the school would reopen Sept. 11.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Delia Mullen. The resemblance between this woman, and that of the missing wife of Cagnasso is such that she will be brought to Quincy today to see if she is the lost wife.

Cagnasso has been in Quincy only sixteen days, having come here from Springfield to work on the construction of the new office building being erected for the Fore River Ship Building Co. His wife who was an English speaking girl left home Friday to obtain work, and not coming back he thought she had run away, and he made up his mind to kill himself.

Sunday afternoon after writing some letters he went to his room and fired three shots, but one of which however took effect. He then walked down stairs and handed a note to Mrs. Laurino Pompio who, runs the boarding house. He then walked to Washington street where he collapsed on the lawn.

The note left with his boarding house keeper read: "When my wife comes give her this note. When you find me you'll find me dead."

that it should occur so suddenly, for the young Mr. and Mrs. Guild have known each other for some time ,and the bride is not unknown to his mother, having accompanied him to Bangor last Christmas and spent the holidays there as the guest of his mother. Young Guild has taken Harvard friends to Quincy to visit at the Morse home.

Mrs. Guild is the niece of L. N. Godfrey, a Boston lumber merchant, who has business connections in Bangor. Guild is a nephew of F. W. Ayer, one of the richest pulp and paper and lumber manufacturers in Maine. Before coming to Harvard Guild went to Phillips Exeter. Middlessex school in Concord and spent a year in Williams. He has lived quietly at Harvard.

The young people went to Nashua Saturday and procured a marriage license at the office of City Clerk Cyr, the young man giving his age as 21 and Miss Morse said she was 19. A despatch from Bangor gives the age of the groom as 18 years, 6 months.

They sought out the Rev. William Porter Niles, rector of the Episcopal church of the Good Shepherd , in Nashua, and were married by him. The young woman said they selected him because she was regular attendant at the Episcopal church in Quincy.

HOUGHS NECK SHOOTING

woman and remaining until Monday morning.

From what the police were able to learn, the woman had been told that he was paying some attention to another woman and was jealous. It is said that they left Charlestown early Saturday evening and that she followed him about Boston until he took a train at 10.40 for Quincy. Arriving in Quincy the woman boarded one car for Houghs Neck and Shannon the other.

Arriving at Houghs Neck, the Lawson woman left the car near the dance hall and stood waiting for the second car. As Shannon stepped from the car she drew a revolver from her waist and fired three shots in quick succession at him. He sank with a cry and groan to the ground. There were a number of young people about where the shooting took place, but for a while they seemed stunned. Then there was a quick scattering of the crowd and one or two of the young girls are reported to have fainted.

During the excitement the woman hurried away toward Centre road, where she completed the tragedy by shooting herself.

As Shannon lay in the barber shop waiting to be removed to the hospital he recognized Mrs. Thomas Ryan, and caling to her said: "Lillie, if I die, you know that Ella shot me; don't forget it."

At the house in Charlestown where the two lived they were supposed to be married. They did not have many friends who visited them and they were quiet and seemed to want to be by themselves. It was supposed that they had been married about three years.

Doctors Hunting, Sheahan, Welch and Sargent worked over Shannon for many hours in their efforts to extract the bullets, but were only able to get one that which had penetrated the left breast. The two remaining bullets are in the side and back. None of these reached a vital spot, and unless blood poisoning should set in there is a chance for his recovery.

Early Sunday morning Shannon's relatives in Cambridge visited him at the City Hospital, and it is reported that he told them that he was not married to the Lawson girl.

Medical Examiner Jones is in Bangor, Me., and in his absence Medical Examiner Frasier was notified of the shooting. He came to Quincy and viewed the body of the Lawson girl early Sunday morning, and ordered removal to Hall's undertaking rooms. He declared that an autopsy was not necessary. Sunday Mrs. Hannah Lawson, mother of the girl, sent a young man to the undertaker's room to arrange for its burial.

The motive for the shooting was undoubtedly jealousy. It is said that a week ago, while at a dance at Houghs Neck, the Lawson girl became jealous of Shannon's attentions to other girls, and is reported to have said in the hearing of others: "You marry me in a week and keep away from the girls at Houghs Neck or I'll kill you." Shannon is reported to have laughed at the remark, not thinking that the Lawson girl was serious.

Mrs. Hannah Lawson, the mother of the girl, is at present engaged as a nurse in a family on Revere road. She has one othe daughter, Alfreda Lawson, aged 16 years. Mrs. Lawson said Sunday that she understood that her daughter and Shannon had been married about three years ago. She had not seen any proof of the marriage, but was satisfied that it was so. About three years ago Shannon called at her house two or three times a week. Ella was then living at home. She questioned the propriety of his calls and was informed in an indirect way that they had been married. She was more convinced of the marriage when the woman who kept the Mt. Vernon street house in Charlestown had said they were. It is said that the Lawson girl took poison while suffering from illness several years ago, and had not been well or strong since that time. Mrs. Lawson could give no reason for the tragic end, unless her daughter's mind had been upset.

MANAGER LITTLE IS FIRED BY JOHNSON

Champion Says Trouble Is Due to Jealousy Over Hart

San Francisco, June 6.—Open warfare between Champion Jack Johnson and George Little, his manager, which started Saturday night, wound up Sunday afternoon, when Johnson told Little that he was discharged.

Little says that he has an ironclad contract with Johnson until May, 1911, and he threatens trouble. He says that unless the differences are settled he will stop the fight on July 4.

According to Johnson the trouble arose because Little became jealous of Sig Hart.

"Hart is one of my best friends," said Johnson. "I've taken him out automobiling with me and Little didn't like it. Then he threatened to whip Hart, and I told him that was the end. I don't want any more to do with him. He has not any contract that he can hold me to."

BRIEFS

Hundrads of Elks of Boston and vicinity will attend the Grand lodge convention in Detroit July 11-16.

Miss Gertrude Legstrum of Brockton spent the week end with Houghs Neck friends.

Mrs. Sarah Abbott of Hoboken, New Jersey, is visiting her brother, Thomas Armstrong and Mrs. Armstrong of Warren avenue for a few weeks.

Quincy members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are in Boston today participating in the annual review, election and dinner.

The historical sketch of Paul-Revere Post 88, G. A. R., read at the anniversary will appear in full in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

Club women are disappointed at the weather today for it is the opening day of the sessions of the State Federation at Lynn in which several thousand women are interested.

Miss Miriam Robertson of Hyde Park, formerly of Wollaston, whose illness of typhoid fever has given her family much anxiety, has been removed from the privrte hospital to her home on Maple street, and is convalescing as well as can be expected.

Commencement week exercises began Sunday at the Quincy Mansion school when Rev. Franklin Hamilton of Washington preached the baccalaureate sermon. Tonight will be given the school concert and tomorrow afternoon will be held the class day exedvices followed on Wednesday afternoon by the graduation.

Just before the marathon race started on Saturday the two youngest daughters of Robert T. Johnson had a very narrow escape in City Square. They were in the wagon of R. P. Coombs alone when a motor cycle frightened the horse. The children were thrown out, and Barbara was almost crushed beneath the horses feet, being rolled over and over by the animals feet. She escaped without injury, but it was a great fright to bystanders and Mr. Johnson.

THREE CARS PER HOUR.

It may be necessary for the Old Colony street railway to establish 20-minute service on the Quincy Point and East Weymouth route, as trains now arrive from Boston on the hour and 40 minutes past the hour. Trains for Boston leave Quincy practically on the hour and 20 minutes past. If cars from East Weymouth arrive at the depot at 15, 35 and 55 past the hour they will make good connections with trains for Boston; and if the cars leave Quincy depot on the hour, and 20 and 40 minutes past, they will make good connection with trains from Boston.

Short Story Writer Fails to Rally From an Operation

GAINED FAME AS "O. HENRY"

Misconceptions Concerning His Life Corrected In an Interview In Which He Stated That He Was Never Engaged In Occupations With Which He Was Credited by Gossip—Writing a Drama When Stricken

New York, June 6.—William Sydney Porter, better known to the public by his pen name, "O. Henry," recognized as one of the leading short story writers of the age, died Sunday of cirrhosis of the liver.

An operation was performed by Dr. Hancock last Friday, but the condition of the author even at that time was considered hopeless by the surgeons.

Although the name of O. Henry has been famous for several years wherever the English language is read, the public has probably known less of the history of the author than of any other contemporary writer of equal prominence. In one of the few interviews that he ever gave Porter took occasion to correct several popular misconceptions of his life which arose from gossip and speculation about his career.

"I have heard that I was a miner. I never saw a mine," declared Porter. "It has been said that I have been a rancher, a sheep herder and a cowboy; the nearest I ever came to any of these occupations was when I spent a couple of years on the ranch of Lee Hall, the ranger, as a guest. I never took a tintype picture and I never traveled as a tramp; I never rode a mile on a railroad unless it was in a Pullman car."

Mr. Porter was born in Greensboro, N. C., in 1867. It was during his boyhood that he went to the Hall ranch, but any ideas of ranching that he may have entertained at the beginning of the visit were abandoned when he saw the cattle dropping dead in a drought.

He then began to look around for an opportunity to cultivate his ambition for writing and obtained a position on the Houston Post. Within a year he was earning $25 a week, but he gave up the position to buy Brann's Iconoclast at Austin, Tex.

The paper was rechristened the Rolling Stone, but it had a short life and Porter took a trip to Central America with a friend who was interested in the fruit business.

After idling about in the tropics for a time he returned to Texas, where he clerked in a drug store for two weeks. He then went to New Orleans and began writing short stories in earnest.

After his first few successes he came to New York city, and in late years he has commanded a high price for his writings. For the last few years his average short story has brought $750.

Mr. Porter had not been in good health for some time, but he persisted in laughing at the anxiety of his family and friends, and declared that there was no cause for worry. He had about decided, however, to go to North Carolina for the winter when he was stricken. He had delayed his trip south because he was engaged in writing a drama, "The World and the Door," which was to have been produced next winter.

Mr. Porter was married twice. He leaves a widow, and daughter by his first wife, who died several years ago.

Ledger office and there was a crowd there during the afternoon. In addition to this the Daily Ledger forwarded the news to the Granite City Club and it was announced by megaphone tot he crowd in the Square. The race started at 3.10 and at 4.08.30 the first of the runners had crossed the tape in front of the Savings Bank. The officers of the race retired to the store formerly occupied by F. D. Fellows and promptly figured out the result.

These were taken to the Daily Ledger office and at 4.30 an extra edition of the Ledger was on sale in the street containing the result of the marathon race as well as the result of the school boys races.

Of the 49 runners practically all finished, although a few became tired out before they had completed the course and came home by electric cars. Therew ere eight prizes in all. These included a first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh. A prize for the first Quincy boy to finish and a time prize. The winners were as follows:—

	Time
First, A. J. Nyman, Dorchester	56m 50s 5-30
Second, Frank Bruce, Quincy	54m 38s 3-00
Third, James Henigan, Malden	54m 4 s 3-00
Fourth, Thos. Lillie, So. Boston	54m 35s 2-45
Fifth, Ira Jonah, Walpole	57m 10s 5-15
Sixth, Albert Upham, Dorcester	54m 43s 2-45
Seventh, T. B. Piggott, Dorchester	57m 05s 5-00
Time Prize, C. B. Luce, Fall River	53m 05s 0-30
Prize to Quincy boy, Frank Bruce

The school relay spoon race was won by the Cranch school boys who were Carl Bell, Paul Larkin, Carl Ahlstrom, Edward Daisell, Fred Schenkelberger, John Clark, George Jennings and Warner Skinner.

A mile relay race for teams representing the grammar schools followed the spoon relay, the course being the same as for the big relay race, and was won by the speedy boys of the Cranch school with Massachusetts Fields second and the Quincy school third.

These races were also published in the Ledger Extra.

The only other race was that for teams representing Quincy. There were four of these teams and the course was four times over the following course; Hancock, Maple, Washington, Temple and Hancock street to starting point. This race was won by the St. Marys represented by John McLaughlin, Frances and Leo Howley, and George Sullivan. The time was 3 minutes and 38 seconds. n this race the All Quincy team was second, the High school third and the Fore River Apprentices fourth.

Everything was then quiet until evening. Then many flaming arc lights were turned on, making it seem almost like daylight in City Square Thousands of people lined the sidewalks and listened to the band concert. Many of these came from out of town and the stores report having had a good trade. South Quincyw as not neglected in the evening for there was a band concert near Walsh's drug store which attracted a large crowd. The lights in City Square were kept burning until 11 o'clock.

At 9.28 an alarm was sounded from Box 26 and sent the crowd hurrying toward City Hall. Some young men seeing an opportunity for fun started to run down Chestnut street and in an instant they were followed by a crowd of several hundred. The alarm proved to be a false one, and was given to show how quick the central station department could get out.

This wound up the opening day of Merchants' week. The program this week will include band conce ts every evening and a grand parade and play out of the fire department Saturday.

The Granite City club will keep open house all the week and al' visitors will be welcome. On Wednesday evening an orchestra will be present and light refreshments will be served. On Saturday afternoon the club rooms will beopen to the ladies of members and will afford them an excellent opportunity to witness the parade and playout. Refreshments will be served.

MAY CRIME.

Probation Officer Francis A. Spear reports total number of criminal cases before the district court during the month of May to have been 165, increase an of 9 over May 1909. The average for the past nine years has been 185.

Of the May cases 76 were for drunkenness, 25 exceeding the automobile speed limit, 17 for violation of the park rules, 6 for larceny, 5 for assault and 5 for violation Lord's days. The remainder of cases were for various offenses.

Old Judge's Sudden Death

East Bridgewater, Mass., June 6.—W. H. Osborne, formerly government pension agent for New England and the present judge of the Plymouth district court, died suddenly at his home here last night. He served in the 29th Massachusetts volunteer infantry regiment during the Civil war, and received a medal from congress for bravery. He was 71 years old.

NICARAGUANS GET WARNING

Must Not Take Summary Action Against Pittman

AMERICAN IS UNDER ARREST

Charged With Laying Mines at Bluefields For Insurgents—American Consuls Instructed to Make Careful Inquiry and Insist Upon Humane Treatment For Accused Man—Irregular Action Will Mean Trouble

Washington, June 6.—The state department has taken steps to save the life of William P. Pittman, the mining engineer from Boston, who has fallen into the hands of the Madriz forces in Nicaragua. A cablegram was sent to Jose de Olivares, the United States consul at Managua, informing him of the newspaper accounts regarding Pittman and instructing him to make a careful investigation. The following is a paraphrase of messages:

"There is a newspaper report from San Juan del Sur to the effect that William P. Pittman, an American, who is alleged to have laid mines while operating with the Estrada forces, is about to be tried by court martial. It is unnecessary to point out that this government will jealously scrutinize the treatment accorded him, which must be humane and regular. You will immediately make inquiry and report to the department."

The department also directed the consul to make plain the position of this government in such cases. It is the intention that Nicaragua shall be warned against such summary action as was taken last fall in the shooting of two American citizens, Cannon and Groce, engaged in mining a Nicaraguan harbor.

Copies of the cablegrams were also sent to Consul Moffat, at Bluefields, and to Commander Gilmer of the gunboat Paducah. Moffat is to make an inquiry covering the capture of Pittman.

The state department proceeded solely on information contained in newspaper dispatches from San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, which said:

"William P. Pittman, an American who laid the mines at Bluefields for the insurgents, was captured by the government troops and will be tried by court martial. This was made known following the receipt by the government of the details of the capture of Bluefields bluff by the forces of President Madriz.

"The troops passed to the assault over five mines, only one of which was exploded. Pittman was wounded and captured. It is said he was engaged in operating the mechanism through which the hidden engines of destruction were released."

If any further evidence were needed to confirm officials here in their belief that Madriz is following closely in the footsteps of his predecessor, Zelaya, it is afforded by the case of Pittman.

In the cases of Cannon and Groce, a drumhead court martial had condemned them to death, and their execution had taken place before it was known in the United States that they were under sentence.

In the present case the government was forewarned. The intimation was clearly given the Madriz government that some one would suffer if any summary or irregular action was taken against him.

What action this government will take will depend largely upon the reports from the United States consuls at Managua and Bluefields and from Gilmer. There has been no intimation from any source that this government will take any precipitate action.

Pittman Will Not Be Shot

Cambridge, Mass., June 6.—William P. Pittman has been saved by the prompt action of Uncle Sam. After many hours of gravest anxiety Pittman's relatives were filled with joy by a telegram from Acting Secretary of State Wilson, announcing the receipt of assurances from Dr. Madriz that Pittman would be treated fairly and considerately, and that under no circumstances would he be arraigned before a court martial. Madriz has already telegraphed instructions to General Lara to extend Pittman every protection and consideration.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court to be holden at Dedham within and for the County of Norfolk:

Respectfully libels and represents Michael J. Canty of Quincy in said County that he was lawfully married to Ellen Canty then of said Quincy but whose present place of residence is to your libellant unknown at said Quincy on the 14th day of June 1903, and thereafterwards your libellant and said libelee lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth to wit, at said Quincy, that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations but the said libelee being wholly regardless of the same at said Quincy on or about the 9th day of May 1904, utterly deserted him and has continued such desertion from that day to the date hereof being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel, and your libellant further represents that there has been born of said marriage one child whose name and age is as follows, viz: Grace M. Canty, born January 23d, 1904.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Ellen Canty.

Dated this tenth day of May 1910.

MICHAEL J. CANTY.

INTERPRETERS ARE STUMPED

Ingenuity Taxed to Learn Where Immigrants Came From

TALK IN GUTTERAL GRUNTS

Four Fierce-Looking Men With Names to Match Finally Found to Be Kazaks From Vozdvijenskoe—Allowed to Land Under General Division of "All Others" In Immigration Official Files at Boston

Boston, June 6.—When the Cunarder Ivernia docked on May 5 there walked down the gang plank four men bearing the musical names of Babu Manukajeio, Geog Chodzojeio, Juselj Abijew and Ignal Chodzojeio. When Colonel Billings saw that bunch of names he had all his interpreters called forward to find out if any of them could hold converse with the visitors to our shores.

One after another gave up the job until all the known Asiatic and European languages or dialects were exhausted, but not one of the interpreters could understand the gutteral grunts of the wild, half savage, but handsome and picturesque strangers.

Colonel Billings was stumped. Finally he sent for Inspector "Bill" Hartland. Bill speaks more varieties of languages that there are pickles. He at once concluded that the men were from the Caucasus, where they speak a different language in every village, and began trying them in Slavic dialects until he got a rise out of Juselj Abijew. He could not communicate linguistically with the others, but Juselj could, and the problem was settled.

Juselj said they were Kazaks from Vozdvijenskoe. One of the interpreters said that they were Astenians, but strict search in the ethnological department of the Boston public library failed to uncover anything relating to either Kazaks or Astenians, and for statistical purposes they come under the general division of "all others" in the immigration office files.

The examination revealed that the Kazaks were going to friends in Seattle, but the half bushel of Russian copper cart wheels which they had, when changed into real money, would not take them beyond Greater Boston. Yesterday Billings received transportation money for all except Juselj, the youngest member of the party, and they left for the west.

Juselj has been offered a job on a Wollaston, Mass., chicken farm, and he will probably be allowed to land, as he is a hardy youth, albeit only about half tamed.

BAY STATE MILK FIGHT

It Is Causing Some Uneasiness Among Rhode Island Producers

Providence, June 4.—Unrest and dissatisfaction are manifest among Rhode Island milk producers, and it is practically admitted that they are watching the progress of the fight in Massachusetts closely with the view of taking action along similar lines here if the fight there should mean a victory for the farmers.

"We have the same thing here," said a prominent producer, "and we are hampered in more ways than the Massachusetts producers because of the protection which is furnished the Providence branch of the trust."

What is meant by "protection to the trust" was asked the farmer, and his answer was that milk producers and dealers generally will understand it.

TWO BIG ONES SUFFICIENT

New England Reported to Have Too Many Medical Schools

Boston, June 6.—That conditions would be better so far as the medical profession in the New England states is concerned if all medical schools except Harvard and Yale were eliminated is the gist of the report of the Carnegie Foundation issued today. Already there is one doctor for every 592 of the population.

The Foundation recommends higher standards in medicine generally throughout the country, and says this is decidedly applicable to the New England states.

PAUL REVERE POST

Hallowell, William Bird, Joseph Lapham, W. H. H. Willett, Warren Dunbar, Mark Hanson, E. J. Lennon, A. W. Gardner, Elisha Holmes, Charles Cummings, Edward Richardson, William J. Young, Thomas Dutton. Luther Parrott, Lewis Sole, Calvan Dyer and Asa Pope. Also Dr. C. M. Marston now a member of the Braintree Post, and Oliver Houghton of the Weymouth Post.

Commander Phillips welcomed those assembled, recalled the observance of the 20th anniversary, and gave the following statistics:

Total number of men furnished by the town of Quincy in Civil war of 1861-1865, 847.

Killed in battle or died of wounds, 24.

Died in Rebel prisons, 38.

Drowned, 3.

Died of Disease, 34.

Died of disease contracted in the army 11.

Total deaths, 110.

Number of men wounded, 67.

Number taken prisoners, 51.

Number of men discharged for disability, 49.

Past Commander J. D. Webb was then introduced and read the history of Paul Revere Post, written by the late William W. Penniman, which will be printed in full in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

Commander Phillips noted the omission of the gift of $400 by will of the late George L. Gill, the only bequest the Post had received. Mr. Phillips then called attention to the hard times of the Post financially, as noted above. He said there was a charity fund of $5,000, but it was proposed to keep that strictly for charity. The rent of the present hall was $275 annually, but the building is offered for sale, and the Post may be thrown into the street. The hall now seemed like a home, and the Post would like to have the city purchase it.

Mayor Shea was introduced. He said he was interested in the historical sketch and he hoped the time would never come when the Post would have to give up its charter. It would be a disgrace to Quincy. He suggested Adams Academy as headquarters. He assured the Post that the officials at City Hall would do all they could to provide for the veterans, and suggested that they march to City Hall and demand their rights.

Department Commander Brown brought the greetings of the department. Relative to the talk of surrender of charter, he said "as Department Commander I forbid you." He suggested ways and means to continue the Post, and told of the pleasure of reunions and meetings of veterans.

Col. Charles H. Porter, the first commander, recalled reminiscences. He did not think it would be possible to obtain Adams Academy because of legal complications.

Commander Phillips also called attention during the evening to the desecration of graves about the Soldiers Monument on Memorial day, saying it was a sacrilege, and that if he could prevent it no more services would be held about the monument unless it was relocated.

The addresses were interspersed by beautiful violin solos by Walter E. Loud, son of Past Commander F. P. Loud, who responded to encores, and by piano solos.

Refreshments of sandwiches, punch, ice cream and cake were served during the social hour.

Comrade James W. Pierce will observe his 75th anniversary Tuesday evening June 7, and extended the veterans an invitation to call.

ELEANOR FRANCES LETTER.

Drinks and Dainties for Convalescents. The Maximum of Nourishment in Appetizing Form.

The development of fireless cooking, insulated ovens, and other devices that reduce the labor of preparation while they increase the flavor and appetizing qualities of viands are showing people a way out of the difficulties due to poor service and high prices. Lectures given by trained experts are being eagerly attended and every possible source of practical information is sought to meet present needs.

INVALID COOKERY.

Good recipes of dishes suited to invalids and convalescents, are fertile in suggestions for easily digested lunches that contain the maximum of nourishment in an attractive form. The child rushing home from school for a hasty meal, or the man or woman pausing in their work for a brief repast should be provided with just such dishes. Though they may be far from any suggestion of invalidism, the conditions under which hasty lunches of heavy foods are taken are too apt to induce that condition. Malted milk containing the greatest possible amount of nutriment in a partially peptonized form, makes an excellent and nourishing drink either hot or cold. Added to other ingredients it forms some of the best-so-called convalescent dishes.

TEMPERANCE EGG-NOGG.

Beat in a bowl the yolk of one egg and a teaspoonful of sugar. Pour in slowly, beating all the time, a glass of cold malted milk prepared according to formula in Borden's Malted milk receipe book. Next slip in the white of an egg, beaten separately, and flavor with vanilla, chocolate, strawberry, pineapple or with apple juice and adash of grated nutmeg.

MALTED CLAM BOUILLON.

To a cup of hot Malted milk, prepared with three heaping teaspoonfuls of the powder to a cup of hot water, add two teaspoonful of cream and two or more teaspoonfuls of clam bouillon, or clam juice. Season with salt to taste. Snow flake crackers lightly buttered, peppered and salted, asd then crisped in the oven are nice with this delicious and nourishing broth.

NOVEL TOMATO BISQUE.

To one half pound of sliced tomatoes, add half a cup or hot water, and salt to taste. Boil fifteen to twenty minutes, strain and let it come to a boil, then thicken with one teaspoonful of corn-starch disolved in cold water. Add a cup of hot Malted milk, a very little powdered mace, and serve with squares of thin toasted whole wheat or malted bread.

A MEAT SUBSTITUTE.

A perfect substitute for meat that is many times more nutritious and digestible, yet so like a meat loaf as to deceive almost anyone, is made as follows: To one pint of English walnut meats run through a meat chopper, add one cup of bread crumbs, or toasted corn flakes moistened with two teaspoonfuls of melted butter. Season with pepper, salt and a little thyme, add a cupful of the Borden's hot malted milk, prepared with three heaping tablespoonfuls of the powder to the half pint of water. Form into a loaf and bake in a moderate oven for one hour, basting with melted butter and water. Serve cold or with a hot tomato sauce made as follows: To a tablespoonful of minced onion, cooked in a tablespoonful of butter without browning, add one and one-half cups of tomato pulp. Thicken with two teaspoonfuls of corn-starch wet with a tablespconful if milk. Heat to boiling point and serve.

ACID FRUIT DRINKS.

Stir one tablespoonful of acid fruit jelly or syrup into a glass half full of shaved ice, add water and serve. If an ice shaver is not at hand a pin or needle will divide the ice into small fragments. Lemon, currant, blackberry, raspberry or strawberry jelly can be used, and make most refreshing drinks for hot weather or for fever patients.

BARLEY GRUEL.

Boil one ounce of pearl barley a few minutes to cleanse it. Pour off the water, add one quart cold water and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Boil until reduced one-half, about one hour, strain, sweeten to taste, add a little lemon juice and dust nutmeg over top. Very goo d for fevers or gastric troubles.

NORFOLK CONFERENCE.

The summer session of the Norfolk conference of Unitarian churcheswill be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church on Wednesday.

The meeting will be opened at 10.30 by George Kuhn Clarke of Needham, president of the conference and will be followed by an address on "the present uses of the church" by Rev. A. W. Littlefield of Brookline.

A discussion will then be opened by S. Herbert Howe of Marlboro, followed by a devotional service in charge of Rev. Charles W. Casson of Dorchester. At noon a box luncheon will be enjoyed.

In the afternoon following a praise service by Rev. Ellery C. Butler of Quincy, addresses will be delivered on "Theodore Parker" by Rev. E. S. Meredith of West Roxbury and "Why our churches ought to work for temperance," by Rev. Charles F. Dole, D. D., of Jamaica Plain.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

"All aboard for Camp Quincy" is the cry of the Y. M. C. A. boys just now. The camp is to be conducted from July 2 to July 16, at Oldam pond, South Hanover. Boating, fishing, baseball, swimming and over night camps are all included in this two weeks' outing. The equipment is first class and a better location for a two weeks' camp is not obtainable. Any boy in Quincy who has consent of his parents may go. The cost of camp is only $8 for the two weeks. A great time is planned for Fourth of July aquatic sports, athletic events, base ball, camp fire and fireworks. This is indeed a rare treat and boys in Quincy should jump at the chance The number is limited and first come first served. For further information call or write Lester H. Clee, Y. M. C. A., 61 Washington street.

BRIEFS

Monday Leighton, superintedent of the Metropolitan park police at Nantasket beach, died of apoplexy, while waiting for a train in the South station on Saturday. He was a member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

Members o fthe "Pinafore" cast and on the Music committee of the Quincy Women's club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. William H. Doble on Saturday afternoon. It was a happy reunion for those who had worked together so long and so faithfully. The beauty and fragrance of flowers greeted the guests ot every turn, the decorations being particularly attractive in the dining room where dainty refreshments were served, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur and Mrs. Clarence Burgin presiding at the table. A pleasant walk about the grounds was the closing feature of an afternoon long to be happily remembered by those present.

The commencement sermon at Quincy Mansion school on Sunday by Rev. Franklin Hamilton, chancellor of American University at Washington, D. C., was both able and interesting. His text was from Jeremiah 25:28—Take the cup at thine hand to drink." Rev. William J. Heath assisted in the service, readings from the Scriptures and offering prayer.

Ernest William, professor at Arcadia college, Wolfville, N. S., arrived at the home of his parents on Barry street this week for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Clara Mitchell wife of Mr. Thomas F. Mitchell, passed away at her home 84 Brook street, Wollaston, after a long illness aged 67 years. She leaves a husband who is a well known City Square business man, and among the Odd Fellows.

Saturday's Ledger was a big one, two editions being necessary to supply the demand. Ledger advertisers had the benefit of the large circulation.

MARRIAGES.

RAMBLERS WIN.

At Savin Hill on Saturday the Ramblers of Wollaston won from Dorchester Centre team their tenth straight game, by the score of 3 to 1. Rice's hitting and pitching and the fast fielding of O'Brien marked the game. The Ramblers scored all their runs in the fifth and sixth, and Dorchester scored the lone run in the fifth.

NORFOLK COUNTY LEAGUE.

Norwood Press defeated Quincy in the Norfolk county league at Berwick Park Saturday afternoon by a score of 15 to 3. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Norwood	2	5	0	4	1	2	0	3	x	—15
Quincy	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	—3

Batteries Quann and O'Brien; Williams, Cavanan and Duggan.

TODAY'S COURT.

Joseph Murphy was arraigned for reckless driving at Quincy, and for assault on Officer Phillips. Cases continued until Thursday.

John Sargent was fined $10, and Abraham B. Caswell $15, for drunkenness at Quincy.

James McGuinnis was arraigned for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor at Quincy. Case placed on file on payment of $50 on account of costs.

Gustaff Hagg and Ida Hagg were arraigned for assault on Anna Suffore at Quincy. Gustaf Hagg was arraigned for drunkenness. The complaints for assault were dismissed and Hagg fined $15 for drunkenness. John Matson, who was also in the mixup was fined $15 for drunkenness.

Q. Y. C. RACE.

Classes D and C and of the Quincy Yacht club sailed a race on Saturday in varying breezes. The order on elapsed and corrected time was the same, the winners being the Iris and the Novice:

Class D—Iris, Dolly III, Mudjekeewis, Dartwell, Josephine and Emeline. The Bucy Bee was disabled.

Class C—Novice and Thordis.

QUARRY ACCIDENT.

Emil Jakela of 6 Kent street received a bad cut on the leg at the Blue Hill quarry on Saturday afternoon. The accident was caused by a rock falling onto him. The police ambulance was called and he was removed to the City Hospital.

CITY COUNCIL TONIGHT.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. It is the first meeting since May 16 ,three weeks ago. Several committees have met in the meantime and various committee reports coupled with two hearings will doubtless mean another midnight session. One of the matters of general interest will be the order appropriating $2,000 for the July Fourth celebration. It is currently reported that the Finance committee wil lreport adversely on the question.

—Quincy is but eight miles from Boston and is a thriving prosperous city. Waltham is no greater distance and is a go ahead, wide-awake community. Natick is seventeen miles and has equally as bright a future. Talk Natick and work for Natick and the result will be beneficial to all.—Natick Bulletin.

☞Did you get one of the Daily Ledger extras Saturday afternoon with full returns of the races? An edition of 1,000 was sent out just after the finish of the races and was in great demand. "Sell like hot cakes" said the boys as they kept coming back for more.

Alpha Hall—cool and well ventilated. Special low rental prices for summer season.

ROCKLAND 7, QUINCY 2.

While the Marathon runners were legging it over a ten mile course, Saturday afternoon, Rockland and Quincy clubs in the Old Colony league were battling for the head in game of baseball.

Harry Moore, of New England league fame, was on the mound for "Pop" Mahar's outfit, and "he was caught by Smith the local backstop who started his career with the Makarias. For Bjorkland's outfit Atwood was again the man on the slab, the remainder of the team being the same that took a double header on the holiday. Both teams got a run over in the starter and there was nothing doing until the fifth when Rockland served the game up aided by some bonehead playing. Rockland is credited with three hits in this session, but in justice to Atwood it is well to say they were of the lucky variety. Atwood had them in the palm of his hand until Lonergan and others commenced to fozzle the ball. Lonergan had four misplays on third, and was away off. Briggs for Quincy and Thornhill for Rockland played sensational ball and plays they pulled off were roundly applauded.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Rockland	1	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	2	—7

Batteries, Moore and Smith; Atwood and Murray. Two-base hits, Thornhill, Lynch. Three-base hits, Lonergan. Double plays, Hamilton, Wilder and Butman; Atwood and Lynch; Duggan and Murray. Struck out Moore 5, Atwood 4. Bases on balls, Moore 3, Atwood 2. Passed balls, Smith. Stolen bases, Rockland 2, Quincy 5. Hit by pitched ball, Wilder, Hart. Umpire, Cody. Time 1h 57m.

NEW TIMETABLE.

The new train schedule on the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. went into effect throughout its entire system on Sunday. At Quincy the change was not noticeable Sunday, but today with the time of every inbound train changed the confusion was very evident especially between the hours of 7.30 and 9 A. M. At this time the greater number of commuters take trains to Boston and at all times the station was filled with an uncertain crowd. The trains ran in bunches and were all somewhat late. There is no doubt but the new schedule will be as efficient as the old and to the majority as convenient.

MAKARIA WIN.

In a very interesting game played Saturday at Merrymount Park, between Makaria and Northwesterns of Somerville, the local boys added one more victory to their list by defeating the opposing team 6 to 2. Stan Bates, Makaria's pitcher, twirled a fine game, holding the other team to one hit, and getting 10 strike outs. Eggleton's timely two bagger brought in the runs which put his team in the lead. Rup. Ganzel and S. Bates also secured two baggers at the right moment.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Makaria	0	0	3	0	0	0	0	3	6	—8

SPORTING NOTES.

The Wollaston Tennis club won five of the seven events on Saturday with Boston Y. M. C. A. At singles,—Bates, Barker, Hillman and Davenport won and Parker lost. At doubles,—Niles and Davenport won, while Albee and Eames lost.

Entries close with R. R. Freeman on Thursday for the Massachusetts amateur golf championship at Brae-Burn, June 15-18.

The Ellen owned by Charles P. Curtis will be the defender of the Quincy cup for the Boston yacht club against the challengers from the Beverly, Corinthian, Eastern, Hingham, Manchester, Quincy and Sippican yacht clubs.

George W. Wightman's new sonder class racer, building at Hodgdon Bros. East Boothbay, Me., from designs of George Owen, probably will be finished this week. The Bonivel, as the boat is named, will be the challenger for the Quincy cup from the Hingham Y. C.

At base ball on Saturday the Forbes A. A. of Wollaston defeated the team from the Baptist Sunday school 21 to 8.

Ten events were run by the Old Colony gentlemen's driving club at Weymouth Saturday. A large attendance, including many women, marked the meet. In Class E three heats were required to decide a winner and the fastest time, 1:11, was made by Budweisren in Class B.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John T. McNeil of Quincy in the County of Norfolk to Horace B. Spear dated March 6, 1884, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk book 554, page 549, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the premises, on THURSDAY, the seventh day of July 1910, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely.—A certain lot of land with all the buildings thereon situated in the Westerly part of said Quincy and bounded and described as follows, viz: Northerly on land of the heirs of James Usher 2nd. Ten (10) rods; Easterly on land of the heirs of Samuel Babcock, or by whom owned; Southerly on land now or late of Asaph Churchill, Westerly on Willard Street Six (6) rods. The measurements above named being more or less as the stonewall or other bounds now stand, the premises hereby conveyed containing Sixty (60) square rods more or less. Being the same premises conveyed to me by Catherine McNeil and others, by their deed of even date and to be recorded herewith.

This property will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles and assessments if any.

$300.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale. Balance cash in ten days from said sale on delivery of deed.

KRAUSE IN GOOD FORM.

Athletics' Star Southpaw Winning Majority of His Games.

Harry Krause, the Philadelphia Americans' sensational southpaw, is not being worked as much as he was last year, with the result that he is showing even better form this season than he did last, when he won over ten consecutive games. Krause is of frail physique and for this reason cannot be forced, but by using him about once a week he is sure to win a large majority of his games.

Krause, like many other pitchers, has the reputation among opposing batters of having nothing and being only lucky. That, of course, is absurd, for his work has shown him to be a great pitcher. It is perhaps that he has a delivery which looks easy enough, but baffles nevertheless, the deception not being recognized by the batter, that makes him successful. Whenever a pitcher is charged with being only lucky it's a safe bet that he has ability, for luck alone won't carry a pitcher very far.

INTERNATIONAL SHOOT.

Team Match With Canada For Spencer Trophy.

An interesting event of the shooting season of the New Jersey range at Sea Girt will be the first international rifle match with Canada, which will be shot about Sept. 10 if the challenge issued to the Canadians by the Americans is accepted, as it is expected it will be. The challenge comes from the Association of American International Riflemen, which is limited to those who have represented America in international contests, such as the Palma trophy and the Olympic games, and includes a number of the foremost military shots of the country.

According to the terms of the challenge, the match is to be shot alternately first at Sea Girt and then at Ottawa between Sept. 1 and Nov. 1 each year. The teams are limited to six principals and two alternates, all members to be citizens of the country they represent.

Evers Says He Will Never Dispute Umpire Decisions Again.

Second Baseman Johnny Evers of the Chicago National league baseball team has arrived at the conclusion that it is the best policy not to dispute any decision rendered by an umpire. And he has made up his mind not to protest vociferously on any verdict given against him this summer. In the past Evers has been known as an inveterate kicker on close decisions at the plate and at other places on the diamond. At times he resented the judgment of the indicator handler so strongly that he was ejected from the contest, suspended by the president of the league and, in addition, fined. All this looms up as a piece of foolishness to the second sacker, and he declares it is a thing of the past with him. His reputation as a kicker will drift into oblivion, and he expects soon to be known as "Peaceful Evers."

Big Financial Orders Prominent in City Council

PERMANENT SIDEWALKS — All Wards Included in the $18,700 Order Report

$20,000 REPORTED — For Continuation of Paving on Hancock Street

SURFACE DRAINAGE — Sum of $14,000 Reported for Eighteen Streets

$10,000 WANTED — For Extension of the Sewer System of the City

WOLLASTON SCHOOL LOT — New Site Favored at Cost of Nearly Ten Thousand

PLAYGROUND ORDERS — New One in Ward Four, and Another to be Supervised

NO MONEY FOR FOURTH — Decisive Vote Against the $2,000 Order

Although Monday night's session of the City Council came to an end shortly after 10 o'clock a very large amount of business was transacted. New orders calling for appropriation of $50,000 were reported for street improvements. These included $20,000 for paving Hancock street, $18,700 for permanent sidewalks and $14,000 for surface drainage.

There was a short but sharp tilt between President Hobbs and City Solicitor McAnarney which ended by both gentlemen offering apologies if they had offended. A tilt between Councilman Bryant and McDevitt, in which the latter referred to the former as "a tool" and later when passed by Councilman Bryant offered an apology.

Another matter of interest was the refusal of the Council to order to a second reading the order for $2,000 for a July Fourth celebration thus killing the order. oCuncilman Cantfill was the only absent member.

SEWER EXTENSIONS.

A communication was received from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for an appropriation of $10,000 for sewer extensions. Referred to committee on Sewers and Drains.

SIDEWALK ASSESSMENTS.

A communication was received from the Commissioner of Public Works, giving the cost of building permanent sidewalks on Copeland street, Newbury avenue, Botolph street, School street, Franklin street, Kemper street, Elm avenue, Coddington street, Washington street, Maple street Grand View avenue and Hunt street. The total cost of these sidewalks was $5,321.31 one half of which was assessed upon abutters. Refered to Finance ommiCttee.

CONDUIT WANTED.

Acommunication was received from the Mayor forwarding a petition of the Gas Co. to open 75 feet of Adams street from Robertson street to extend its main gas line; also from the Metropolitan Park Commission to lay an underground conduit on Adams street for its police wires. The former was referred to Committee on Streets and the latter to the Executive.

CITY THANKED.

Acommunication was received from the Mayor forwarding a letter from the Spanish War Veterans thanking the city for the gift of a lot at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. Placed on file.

NO FUNDS.

A communication was received from the Mayor stating that the Council had referred to the Executive, a petition for the oiling of certain portions of Quincy street, but provided no funds to do the work with. Placed on file.

HALF HOLIDAYS.

A comunication was received from the Mayor returning the order passed in April, requesting the Mayor to grant half holidays during the summer months to certain laborers o the city. The Mayor in his communication says, that all arrangements for carrying the half holiday into effect have been made, and that he now awaits further action of the Council. On motion of Councilman Smith the communication was laid on the table.

PETITIONS.

The Electric Light Co., petitioned for a location for poles on Jackson, Winter and West Squantum streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Petitions were received form the Telephone Co., for attachments on Park and Edison streets and for a location for poles on Fenno street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Petitions were received from the Gas Light Co., to lay mains on Adams street and Newcomb place. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received that land surrounded by Rawson road, Hampden circle and Willett street be purchased for a public playground. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Councilman Smith presented a petition asking the Council to appropriate $50 a year for the use of the tower on the West Quincy M. E. church for the use of the fire alarm bell. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

Councilman Ericson presented a petition for a gravel sidewalk on Cranch street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Many petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

Councilman Bryant presented a petition and order for an arc light on Shannon street, Houghs Neck. Referred to the Executive.

An application was received from J. J. Bizzozero for a permit to transport liquor. The Council refused to suspend the rules to admit the application.

The Auctionee 's bond of John Evans as an auctioneer was approved.

Councilman Nowland presented a petition for improving Merrymount road between Hancock and Putman street, and for a sidewalk. Referred to committee on Streets.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

A public hearing was held on the petition of the Telephone Co. to keep gasoline. There was no oppositions and the order was recommitted.

A public hearing was held on petition of the Electric Light Co., for a location of poles. Considerable opposition was expressed to the locations desired on Kemper street. After the hearing closed the petitioners were given leave to withdraw the Kemper street petition. The balance of the order was recommitted.

A public hearing was held on the petition for a school building in the Bigelow Park district. T. J. Collins and Peter M. Sullivan spoke of the needs of a school building in that district.

SURFACE DRAINAGE.

The Commitee on Streets reported an order appropriating $14,000 for providing surface drainage on the following streets:—Glendale road, Deldorf street, Cranch street, Arnold street, Washington street, Union street, Stewart street, Phipps street, Brooks avenue, Larry place, Miller street, North Central avenue, Norfolk street, Prospect street, Billings road, Wayland street, Atlantic street, and Old Colony street. Read to Finance Committee.

MINOR LICENSES.

The committee on Licenses reported orders granting six pool table licenses three junk collectors, 35 common victuallers, 48 to sell fruit on the Lord's day, and five to sell fireworks. Adopted.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on the petition to remove junk shop of Louis Grossman.

The same committee reported ought not to pass on the order establishing an ordinance regulating the sale of newspapers. Accepted.

The same committee reported ought not to pass on the order amending the Auditor's ordinance. Accepted.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL LOT.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order appropriating $9,400 for the purchase of a lot bounded by Beale and Taylor streets and Highland avenue containing 88,096 square feet for a school lot at Wollaston. Read to Finance Committee.

The Committee on Streets reported orders granting the Telephone Co. attachments and permission to make underground connections. Ordered to a second reading.

BUTLERS POND.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported leave to withdraw on the petition to take Butlers pond as a public pond. Accepted.

CODDINGTON ENLARGEMENT.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported no legislation necessary on the communication from Zenas Arnold in relation to the sale of his lot on Coddington street for an addition to the Coddington school lot.

HALL PLACE CLOCK.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported reference to the Executive on the petition relative to the city taking care of the clock on the Hall Place church.

WARD FOUR PLAYGROUND.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order appropriating $1,500 to take the plot of land bounded by Copeland, Common and West streets as a public playground. Read to Finance Committee.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

The Committee on Streets reported the following street improvement orders:—

Appropriating $1,000 for rebuilding Furnace avenue. Referred to Finance Committee.

Appropriating $1,400 for a gravel sidewalk and edgestones under the betterment act on Whitwell street. Referred to Finance Committee.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Nicaragua is once more having the time of its life.

Alaska is a vast territory that once belonged to the United States.

New Orleans seems to have the courage of its Panama celebration convictions.

Fortunately, if the price of dining tables rises, we can get along with a smaller one for the little we have to put on one these days.

Mr. Edison may go ahead with his scheme for a "clerkless store" but let him begin to try to invent something to make a stenographerless office and his blood will be shed.

DRIFT OF OPINION

A hard-headed country editor from Minnesota makes the comment that "the idea of teaching every girl to thump the piano and every boy to be a bookkeeper, will make potatoes worth eight dollars a barrel in an-20 years." While it may be far fetched, there is more truth than poetry in this prediction. What the girls and boys need to get into their heads is that the fact that playing a piano and keeping books is—one a past-time and the other a dreary work—is not the sum total of real progress. The man who raises potatoes is doing more for his fellows than the unfortunate one who lives all his life in making figures from books.—Haverhill Gazette.

ARTILLERYMEN IN DASH FOR LIBERTY

Almost Half a Battery Objects to Journey to Manila

Washington, June 7.—A sensational dash for shore liberty, in which, it is said, eighty men of Battery C, Second field artillery, outward bound from San Francisco to Manila on the transport Logan, participated, is being investigated by Captain Griffin, commanding the battery. Thirteen of the men, two having been taken from the city prison, have been placed in the transport's brig.

According to an official report almost half the battery, just at dusk, slipped from the ship without orders, carrying arms and wearing cartridge belts, scaled a high fence around the dock and scattered along the harbor front. Some who were unable to elude the dock guard dropped overboard and swam ashore. After several hours' search the last of the truants were rounded up.

JONES GETS THE HOOK

Bounced by Ballinger While Resignation Is In the Mails

Portland, Ore., June 7.—While his resignation from the place of special agent for the general land office was in the mails on the way to Washington Horace L. Jones was "indefinitely suspended" from service at the order of Secretary Ballinger.

Jones was a witness against Ballinger, in support of the charges made by Louis R. Glavis in connection with the Cunningham claims in Alaska, in the investigation of which he assisted. Jones entered the government service in 1903, after having been admitted to the bar in 1901.

Old Jailbird In Custody

Boston, June 7.—Edward Whalen, who was arrested on Franklin street, charged with the larceny of a diamond stickpin, was recognized last night at headquarters as a person who had spent half his life in jail. Whalen is 50 years old and is wanted for several counts.

Coal Land Bill Passes

Washington, June 7.—The house bill authorizing the disposal of the surface of coal lands for agricultural purposes was passed by the senate. The measure now requires only the signature of the president to make it a law.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT TO MEET AT BEVERLY

Country's Eyes Will Be Focussed Upon Them on June 23

Beverly, Mass., June 7.—President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt will both arrive here on June 23 and as the natural order of things hold a conference. There is no record of a president and ex-president meeting in conference in the history of our country.

It will be the first occasion for a conference between the two men who loom higher in national affairs than any other two men in the country since the day when Colonel Roosevelt left Washington to make the final preparations for his African tour more than a year ago.

Many things have happened in the meantime, events which have caused the adherents of both to proclaim widely divergent views.

Consequently the first occasion for the former president to talk with the man whom he insisted must succeed him in office is bound to be an event upon which will be focussed the eyes of the whole country.

TWO FIREMEN KILLED

Ten Caught by Back Draught In Big Fire In New York

New York, June 7.—Two firemen were killed and twenty-two were overcome by stifling fumes in fighting a stubborn warehouse fire. Ten of the firemen overcome were caught in a back draught on the fourth floor of the building.

Fireman Cotter died on the sidewalk after having been carried from an upper floor, where he had lain unconscious for more than an hour in a pool of water.

Fireman Healy was taken out of the building dead. Three of the injured firemen are still in a serious condition.

The fire was in the five-story building occupied by the Free Storage bonded warehouse. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

$5000 SHORTAGE CHARGED

New Hampshire Postmaster Is In Custody of Deputy Sheriff

North Conway, N. H., June 7.—Charged with a shortage of $5000 in his official accounts, Postmaster Arthur Charles of North Conway will be arraigned before the United States commissioner at Portsmouth.

Charles, who is now in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Seavey, is said to have followed the stock market quotations closely for a year or so.

He is 28 years old and unmarried and has been the local postmaster for five years. He is a Mason of high degree and has been prominent in church work. Postoffice Inspector Stone is at work upon the case.

Charles Taft to Build Big Hotel

New York, June 7.—Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, brother of the president, is reported to be interested in the syndicate which will erect a mammoth new hotel in the theatre district here. The hotel will be thirty-two stories high and is to cost $10,000,000.

"MOTHER" STREIGHT" DEAD

Nurse at Front and Known to Thousands of War Veterans

Indianapolis, June 7.—Mrs. Levina Streight, known to thousands of Civil war veterans as "Mother" Streight, died in her home in this city in her 80th year. She was born in New York and came to Indiana with her husband in the early forties.

During the Civil war she was a nurse at the front and was attached to the Fifty-first Indiana regiment, of which her husband was colonel. Carrying messages from General Buell to General Bryle, in Tennessee, she was captured by the enemy. She escaped by forcing a teamster at the muzzle of a revolver to take her in his wagon out of the lines.

General Streight, who died several years ago, was one of the Union soldiers who escaped from Libby prison through a tunnel.

MILK WAR NEAR END

One Big Firm Agrees to Pay Winter Rates For Ten Months

Boston, June 7.—The milk war came nearer to an end when H. P. Hood & Sons agreed to pay winter prices for ten months, which was agreed to by the farmers.

H. P. Hood & Sons sent out a statement last night that they would agree to the terms of the producers, namely, the winter price for ten months, including the time between July 1, 1910, and May 1, 1911.

The producers look for the other contractors to agree in a very short time.

Growth of Christian Science Church

Boston, June 7.—A new Christian Science church was established every three and a half days during the year, according to a report made at the annual meeting of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, the mother of the denomination.

HISTORY OF POST 88

Many Events of Forty-One Years Recalled

At the anniversary of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., on Saturday evening, the ollowing historical sketch written by the late William W. Penniman was read by Past Commander James H. Webb:

In the spring of 1869, a call was issued through the Quincy Patriot, for the soldiers of the late war to assemble at the Lyceum room, for the purpose of forming a Post of the Grand Army of the Republic. At that time but little was known of the object and purposes of the G. A. R. Quite a large number were present and 15 of those signed their names, and petitioned for a charter, and on the 4th day, June, 1869, a charter was granted and signed by the Department Officers, creating Paul J. Revere, Post No. 88, Department of Massachusetts, Grand Army of the Republic.

The charter members were: Wm. G. Sheen, W. H. H. Rideout, John W. Moore, Henry Lunt, William W. Penniman, James W. Pierce, Willam Spellman, Robert Monk, Warren W. Adams, Warren Dunbar, Henry B. Brown, William H. Follett, Charles Follett, Daniel F. French and Charles H. Porter. Eight of these are now living.

CHARITY FUND.

In the fall of 1870 ,the Post held their first grand fair in the Town hall, for the purpose of creating a "Charity Fund" to assist the comrades in sickness and distress, and the citizens of Quincy responded with that feeling of Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty, that gave us a Charity Fund of over $1,200.00.

In April, 1871, the lady friends of the Post surprised the comrades of the Post at their meeting and presented them with a beautiful silk banner, the first one ever owned by the Post.

We continued to prosper and new members were initiated at nearly every meeting, until 1873, when the famous "Bazaar" was held in Revere hall, which was the Post room, and later the court room. That occasion came near being the death of the Post From that time we began to lose our membership until 1874, when it became almost impossible to get members enough to hold a meeting and a committee was appointed to talk the matter over and see if it would not be best to give up the charter. The committee consisting of com ades W. G. Sheen, W. W. Penniman, and Thomas G. Emerson, held a meeting and after considerable discussion it was decided to recommend that the charter be retained ,and that the members endeavor by all means to build up the Post.

At that time we were occupying Revere hall at an expense of $300.00 per year. A small hall at the corner of Granite street was procured ,and the members took hold with a will and soon the Post was on its feet again and continued to increase in membership.

EARLY EVENTS.

In the first few years, on Memorial day, the ladies and friends furnished flowers to decorate the graves of our fallen comrades. In November, 1875, our first camp fire was held in the Town hall and was a grand success. In 1876 an old fashioned clam bake was held at "Quincy woods." The Department officers were present, and it was pronounced a success.

In September, 1877, the Post attended and took part in the G. A. R. parade in Boston, at the laying of the corner stone of the Soldiers Monument. In the same year the Post moved its quarters to Franklin street in Franklin hall, and in 1878 leased the hall which they now occupy.

RELIEF CORPS.

In the fall of 1878, Paul J. Revere Ladies Relief Corps, No 103, was formed, and in Feb. 1879 surprised the members of the Post at their meeting and presented them with a full set of dishes, which were gratefully accepted.

In Jan. 1880, another camp fire was held in the Town hall, and in May the Ladies Relief Corps invited the members to a supper which was accepted. In 1882 a "Levee" was held in the Town hall inthe interest of the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea, and the sum of $177.43 was made, and paid to Hon. William Gaston, the treasurer of the home.

In 1885 a Camp of the Sons of Veterans was formed, but gave up their charter in a short time. In the same year in August the Post attended the National Encampment at Portland, Me., and also attended memorial service which was held in Mechanics hall, Boston.

In 1888, Paul J. Revere Women's Relief Corps was instituted, and is in a prosperous condition. They have been of great assistance to the Post, always ready, early and late to work for the old veterans.

June 4, 1889, we celebrated our at Faxon hall, by an entertainment and banquet. The Mayor, City Council, Department officers and Relief Corps were present, and it was an enjoyable occasion.

In August 1890, we attended the National Encampment at Boston, which was pronounced by all to be the grandest Encampment ever held. R. G. Shaw Post, No 112, of Staten Island, New York, were the guests of Post 88, during Encampment week, and right royally were they entertained. They were received Monday, Aug. 11, by the Post, with a band of music, and escorted by the Sons of Veterans, which organization was formed early in 1890. We marched through some of the principal streets to Hancock hall, where the visitors were formally received and welcomed to this city by the Mayor, City Council and citizens. During the week they were entertained in a very satisfactory manner. The ladies of the Relief Corps and the members of the Sons of Veterans were always busy for the entertainment of the visitors, and the noble work performed by the Relief Corps during the week entitles them to the highest praise.

In November the annual fair was held which netted nearly $1,000.00. A delegation from R. G. Shaw Post was present and presented Post 88 with a magnificent set of resolutions which now adorn Grand Army hall. Many fairs and entertainments have been held since the organization of the Post for the benefit of the "Charity Fund," an the citizens of Quincy have always responded nobly to the cal' for assistance. During the first ten years the calls for charity were not what they are now.

OUR CHARITIES.

From 1869 to 1910 the Post has expended from the Charity fund over $12,000.00 to assist the Boys in Blue, and widows and orphans of our late comrades.

There have been 325 soldiers admitted to this Post. Of that number many have been dropped from the rolls. Some have been transfered to other Posts, and some have gone to distant parts of the country, while 126 have joined the Grand Army above.

THE POST OF TODAY.

We have at the present time 74 comrades in the Post. We have $5000.00 in our relief fund. We have a splendid Relief Corps, also a new camp of Sons of Veterans, we have taken the name of Abner B. Packard Camp, No. 95; they are a fine lot of young men, and the prospects are that they will have the best Camp in the State. The auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans are doing fine work for the "old boys."

JOHNSON'S NEW MANAGER

Billy Nolan, Former Handler of Nelson, Takes the Job

San Francisco, June 7.—Following the discharge of George Littlte as his manager, "Jack" Johnson announced that "Billy" Nolan would handle his affairs hereafter. Nolan confirmed this statement.

Nolan has been connected with pugilism for twenty years. He is best known through his handling of "Battling" Nelson. It was while under Nolan's management that Nelson won the lightweight championship of the world.

Since retiring from the fighting business three years ago, Nolan has lived on his ranch in California.

WILLARDS CHAMPION

Win Deciding Game In Grammar School League

(By Rube.)

There is a group of school children in Ward Four today who are not paying any too strict attention to their studies, for their joy cannot be bottled up enough to allow them to think of anything but that game of baseball that was played at Merrymount park Monday afternoon.

There is also another group of scholars residing in Ward Five who are "trying so hard to forget" what happened that they will probably surprise their teachers.

All of these things happened at the final game of the grammar school athletic league, Monday afternoon, when the Willard school nine faced the Wollaston ball tossers for the big honors. It was long before starting time that scholars from all parts of the city, prominent business men, Mayor Shea, other city officials and parents of the players arrived at the grounds.

The game itself by far exceeded the fondest hopes of everyone connected with the league, and it will go down in baseball annuls as a gem, neither side landing a safe hit and baserunners being as scarce as mosquitoes in December. The work of Johnson, the perfectly built slab artist of the Willard nine, was a revelation to the multitude present and on more than one occasion he retired the opposing batsmen on strikes when in danger. During the afternoon this young favorite fanned twelve of the eighteen possible put-outs being backed up in faultless style by his backstop, Bonafini, who very much resembled a peanut when the big Wollaston batters came to the plate. His catch of a foul fly in the second was worth going miles to see, and drew forth applause from all present.

The opposing twirler, Murphy, was inclined to be a little wild and this resulted in his undoing, for the solitary run of the game resulted from a base on balls. The work of both umpires, Currier and Bates, was of the gilt edge variety.

The Willard scholars were on hand in large numbers, and Mayor Shea rooted hard for them, he being a graduate of this school. The Wollaston rooters were composed mostly of the fair sex, but despite this fact they held their own in cheering their favorites on.

The game started as follows: Arnold, the Wollaston catcher walked and stole second; Page fanned, but Franklin's infield out put Arnold on third base. Johnson was as cool as a cucumber and fanned Murphy for the third out, and the Willard enthusiasts went wild.

In Willard's half, Bonafini was hit by a pitched ball. Johnson was cheered as he came up but his best was a roller to Thompson who played the ball to third, retiring Bonafini on a fine play. Johnson promptly stole second but was easily out at third when he attempted to duplicate. Rogers walked but was caught asleep off first by Thompson, who is a dandy player.

Both sides went out in order in second, but in the third the Willards scored the only run of the game. DiBona walked; Gosselin also drew a pass; McKenna fanned; both runners moved up on a short passed ball. Bonafini walked, filling the cushion. Johnson was looked upon as the man to break up the game, but he was a victim on strikes. It looked bad for Willard with two out, but as Rogers faced Murphy the latter uncorked a wild pitch and DiBona came over the plate. Rogers ended it by fanning.

In the fourth the Wollastons tried hard to score. With one gone, Murphy reached first on an error; Johnson's balk sent him to second. He stole third only to see Johnson fan the next two batters. After this the Wollastons were never in danger.

After the game Mayor Shea on behalf of the league, presented Capt. Johnson the silver loving cup, and each member of the winning nine a pair of shoes offered by the Quincy Department store. After three cheers for every player, for Mayor Shea, Frank Terhune, the Department store shoe manager, and others, the royal rooters broke up and started homeward.

IS FINED $5000 ON SMUGGLING CHARGE

Boston Woman to Appeal From Federal Court Decision

Trenton, June 7.—Convicted of attempting to smuggle personal property—Parisian gowns and lingerie—into the United States by means of a trunk with a false bottom, Mrs. Matilda M. Chesbrough, wife of a wealthy Boston shipowner, was fined $5000 in the United States court here.

Counsel for Mrs. Chesbrough announced that an appeal would be taken to the United States circuit court of appeals.

At her trial Mrs. Chesbrough claimed that the false bottom found in her trunk was used by her while traveling as an ironing board. Her explanation, however, was not satisfactory to the court.

CITY COUNCIL

street, Newbury avenue, Order read referred to Finance Committee.

The joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings reported two substitute orders for the order appropriating $1500 to equip playgrounds.

The first appropriated $500 to equip playgrounds, and the second appropriated $340 to maintain playgrounds. Ordered to a second reading.

FIRE ALARM BOXES.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $1,725 for fire alarm boxes. Order took its second reading.

CITY CLAIMS.

The Finance Committee reported an order appropriating $2,500 for the settlement of claims against the city. Ordered to a second reading.

FOURTH OF JULY.

The Finance Committee reported ought not to pass on the orde r appropriating $2,000 for the Fourth of July celebration.

Coucilmen Richards, McDevitt and Bryant spoke in favor of the passage of the order. Councilman Gardner opposed.

The Council refused to accept the report of the Committee.

The question was then on ordering to a second reading. By a rising vote of 8 yes and 12 no the council refused to order to a second reading thus killing the order.

TRAIN SERVICE.

Councilman Moir offered an order that the Mayor, City Solicitor and President of the Council he requested to interview the proper officials of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and demand a return of service equally as good as heretofore rendered to all stations in Quincy, and if refused to petition the Railroad Commissioners requesting a return of the former service.

Councilman Bryant moved to lay on the table.

Councilman Moir opposed. There was a great demand for a return of the old service. The present timetable had no happy medium. The trains either ran too early or too late. Councilman Cherrington did not like cattle trains to ride in.

Councilman Ericson argued for a change. There were many who worked in Brockton who were inconvenienced.

Councilman Bryant argued that the Council should wait until the new timetable had been given a trial.

Councilman Branch was called to the chair, and President Habbs taking the floor argued for the order. At Atlantic 15 trains had been lost and where that section formerly had eight express trains it now had one. People who work in South Boston were now obliged to go to their work by electrics. It is now that we want relief not two weeks from now.

Councilman Smith believed the order should lay on the table, West Quincy had been used all right.

Councilman Richards said at South Quincy, in order to get into Boston to ork at 7 o'clock it was necessary to leave as early as 5.12.

Councilman McDevitt said that West Quincy service had been improved but we should work for all wards.

Councilman Smith moved to amend by adding the words "on the main line, so called."

Councilman Hobbs said it was no time to play dog in the manger, although he had no objection to the amendment.

Councilman Smith denied playing dog in the manger, but believed the timetable should be tried out.

The amendment was then accepted. The motion to lay on the table was lost and the order wasadopted.

GAS ON MARSH STREET.

Councilman McDevitt arose to a question of personal privilege. He said that at the last meeting he had made a statement in regrd to the opening of Marsh street by the Gas company, without authority of the City Council. He had now got the evidence. He then read a communication signed by abutters on the street to the effect that they had not petitioned to have the gas mains laid there.

Later Councilman Bryant arose to a question of personal privilege. He read from the records of the Council of 1909 the order in which the Gas Company were granted permission to lay mains in Marsh street.

A motion to adjourn was lost.

Councilman McDevitt retorted angrily alluding to Councilman Bryant as "a tool."

Councilman Bryant asked him to retract.

Councilman McDevitt replied, I will not.

Sometime later Councilman Bryant arose to a question of personal privilege. He said that earlier in the evening the Councilman from Ward Four had referred to him as "a tool." He now demanded that the gentleman retract tha"t statement and apologixe. If not, he would move that the gentleman be debarred from further privileges of the council.

Councilman McDevitt after a few words of introduction offered his apology which was accepted.

FIREMEN'S SALARIES.

Councilman Cherrington offered an amendment to the Fire Department ordinance. The amendment changed the salaries so as to read: Captain, $1,100 per year; Lieutenant $1,050 per year; Permanent men $2.50 per day for the first two years, and $2.75 per day thereafter. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

Councilman Loud offered an order for electric lights on Norfolk street. Referred to Executive.

GAS AND ELECTRICITY.

Councilman Gardner offered a resolve that in the opinion of the Council a substantial reduction should be made in the price of gas and electricity, and resolved that the Mayor be requested to petition the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners for a substantial reduction in the present rates and that the City Solicitor and a special committee of five be appointed to act in conjunction with him in such a way as he may desire. Adopted.

INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.

Councilman Smith offered an order that the special committee appointed to investigate the financial condition of the city should report not later than the second meeting in September. Order rejected, 8 voting yes and 9 no.

The president at this time appointed the committee authorized by the order to investigate the financial condition of the city. The committee are President Hobbs, Councilmen Nowland, Branch, Gardner and Boyd.

NELSON STREET.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order requesting the Commissioner of Public Works to furnish the Council with the estimate of the cost of extending Nelson street from Arthur street to Copeland street. Adopted.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for lights on Curtis avenue, Hanna street, and Newcomb avenue. Referred to the Executive.

MEMORIAL HALL.

Councilman Richards offered an order appropriating $5,500 for the purchase of a building and land now occupied by Paul Revere Post 88, for a memorial to the soldiers and sailors who served in the war of the rebellion, and that the Grand Army be given the free use of the building. Order referred to Finance Committee.

A motion to adjourn was lost.

HALF HOLIDAYS.

Councilman Smith offered an order granting all employees of the city, whose labor could be dispensed with, a half holiday without loss of pay from June 15 to Sept. 1. He moved the adoption of the order.

The President asked if the order involved an appropriation of more than $300, if so the order would require two readings.

Councilman Smith replied there was no definite way to know.

Order referred to Finance Committee.

On motion of Councilman Smith the reference was withdrawn. The City Solicitor was asked if two readings were necessary.

City Solicitor McAnarney said that under the charter an order involving an appropriation of over $300 required two readings. The only question was if this order exceeded that amount.

The President asked if he would put that in writing.

City Solicitor McAnarney replied sharply that he did not thank the gentleman for asking it put in writing. He was not in the habit of giving opinions he could not stand by. There is a question book if the gentleman desires answe'rs in writing.

President Hobbs said that he did not intend any discourtesy. He had a right to know if the order was legal. If he had been discourteous he hoped the City Solicitor would accept his apology.

City Solicitor then in accepting the apology in turn offered his apology for anything he had said. Continuing he said that whether the order would exceed or not $300 was not a question of law, but a question of fact. If it involves more than $300 it will require two readings.

Councilman Smith then withdrew his motion and the order was referred to the Finance Committee.

A motion of Councilman Smith requiring the committee to report at the next meeting was defeated after debate.

AMUSEMENT PLACES.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order requesting the Chief of Police to enforce the ordinance regarding police protection at the various amusement places in the city. Adopted.

OAK STREET.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for $400 to rebuild Oak street. Referred to Street Committee.

Adjourned at 10.42 until June 20.

TAFT WINS ON RATE INCREASE

Succeeds In Getting Western Railroads to Withdraw

SUIT WILL NOW BE STOPPED

Presidents of Western Corporations Claim Right to Raise Freight Rates and Declare That They Are Not Law Breakers—Bitter Feeling Against Wickersham Because of His Method of Procedure In Suit

Washington, June 7.—Peace settled over the railroad situation last evening, but it was peace dictated by President Taft.

Twenty-four railroads centering in Chicago unconditionally surrendered on the question of raising the rates before they had been examined and approved by the interstate commerce commission.

The president then made a truce with them by consenting to withdrawal of the suit against the western trunk line committee, as he had accomplished his purpose.

Railroad presidents who conferred with President Taft have very definite opinions as to the merits of the situation which has arisen through the action of the department of justice in seeking to enjoin twenty-five western roads from making increases in freight rates.

The specific purpose of their visit to Washington was to assure President Taft that, in their own opinion, they are not law-breakers. They outlined to him the procedure whereby the roads acted in concert in filing new schedules and tried to convince him, as a lawyer, that although the schedules were filed simultaneously, no agreement to maintain the rates existed and that such information as was exchanged among the roads prior to the establishment of the new rate did not constitute a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

It can be said upon the highest authority that the railroad counsel are unanimous in the opinion that the injunction will be vacated by the highest court. The railroad attorneys advised their clients before the rates were made that in their opinion the action proposed was not contrary to the law. They hold now that it was not and they believe that can show to the president that it was not.

The four railroad presidents in town are E. P. Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; F. A. Delano of the Wabash; S. M. Felton of the Chicago and Great Western and Marvin Hughitt of the Chicago and Northwestern.

These leaders present the claim that the railroads cannot meet the demands of their employes, pay other increasing expenses and have anything left for dividends to stockholders, unless rates are raised, whether it be in combination or individually. In other words, the railroad men declare it is a life and death struggle and that the prices of all things except railroad rates have been increased.

The chief claim of the railroad men is that they are entitled to greater income from freight rates because they are paying $120,000,000 more a year in wages than before the panic of 1907.

Upon their prosperity, they say, rests the development of the sparsely filled far west, whose fertility is a strong factor in the preservation of prosperity. Besides the status of the workers directly employed by the railroads, which magnates claim to be involved in the dispute, there are affected the 15,000,000 employes of the members of the railway business association and the manufacturers of railroad supplies. Without higher rates the railroad men claim they will be unable to purchase supplies.

It can be said that the roads feel exceedingly bitter toward Attorney General Wickersham, not so much because the suits were brought as over the secretive method of the department of justice in instituting them. The companies were given no opportunity whatever to present evidence to the court to show why the injunctions should not be granted.

SUNDAY SERVICES

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

"Ye were bought with a price," from the sixth chapter of I Corinthians, 20th verse, was the text of the sermon preached by the Rev. Carl G. Horst to his morning congregation at the Wollaston Unitarian church. "We should not forget," he said our great indebtedness to those who lived in the long ages that lie behind us. The structure of our modern and present civilization is built on the foundation laid by the stability of generations preceeding. To the earliest inventors, artists, musicians, thinkers and artizans we owe a lasting debt of gratitude. We reap where we have not sown, and the rich inheritance which we enjoy implies an obligation which should not be forgotten. To the frugality, prudence, courage and fidelity of past generations we owe our vigor, and in turn must add our contribution of consecration to the duties of the day.

Sunday, June 19, will be observed as Children's Sunday, and as usual a number of children will be christened.

Wednesday, June 8, the Norfolk Conference of Unitarian churches will hold its summer meeting in this church. There will be morning and afternoon sessions, at 10.30 and 1.30, respectively. The public is invited to attend.

The various committees in charge of the third annual June festival on Saturday, June 11, at the summit of Winthrop avenue, are hard at work completing arangements to make this the most enjoyable affair of the season. There will be the usual attractions, such as out door sports, automobile rides, Japanese roller, shooting gallery, ringing the canes, gypsy camp, ice cream, candy, lemonade, pop corn, salmagundi, lunch counter, colored electric lights, searchlights, etc. You can spend the afternoon and evening on the grounds as luncheon will be served. The public is cordially invited. Do not fail to attend the social event of the season.

This church will be closed during July and August.

The American Unitarian Pilgrims to the World Congress of Free Christianity and Religious Progress will sail from Boston Wednesday, July 13.

HALL PLACE CHURCH.

The Rev. Joseph Candlin, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Boston, occupied the pulpit of the Hall Place M. E. church, on Sunday, in exchange with the pastor. He took his text from Luke 4—18 and 19 verses.

A meeting of the Cabinet in preparation of the regular meeting of the Epworth League to be held Monday evening was held at the close of the evening service.

On Wednesday evening the Ladies' Aid will hold a strawberry festival in the vestry of the church.

Next Sunday will be observed as Children's day. The Sunday school will render a concert at 7 P. M.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther preached on Sunday. The morning subject was "The Limitations of Human Knowledge"—1st Cor. 13-9,12. Mr. Walther said that humility was a character of a great mind. Edison says that electricity is as much a mystery as ever. "God unfolds His greatness to us every hour. Sometimes we condemn when we should approve. God's spirit is calling us to service. If we knew the future we would not have the joy of walking with God by faith. We cannot drift beyond His love and care. Be patient with each other and there will be less condemnation. Let us learn all we can of God and men, and evil also, not to enjoy it and yield to it, but to stamp it out and lift men and Glorify God.

The evening subject, "New things which God Promies"—Isa 43:19. God cautions us against a new Gospel. If any man preach any other Gospel let him be accursed. Men are worshiping new Gods; gods of pleasure, money, etc., and are sacrificing character and principle because they are afraid of men. God promises a new name for those who accept Him. One man was called "O. B. D." meaning "old born drunk Sam Hadly, "The beat, the bum" But they are converted and get a new name.

Harris and Mabel Christopher, members of the Junior Endeavor Society, sang a duet in a pleasing manner at the Christian Endeavor meeting.

Mrs. James Porter will lead the cottage prayer meeting at Montclair on Tuesday evening.

The Nearer and Farther Lights Society well meet at the home of Mrs. Wilson, Elmwood avenue, Thursday evening. Mrs. Wilson is worthy of great praise for the good work she is doing among the young women of Wollaston.

QUINCY POST OFFICE.

ESCAPE AFTER MANY ATTEMPTS

Woman and Children Get Away From Holy Ghosters

KEPT PRISONERS ON YACHT

Deputy Sheriff Locates "Prophet" Sandford's Yacht Kingdom and Serves Writ of Habeas Corpus Which Had Been Secured by a Clergyman—Mrs. Whittaker Says That She Was Persecuted

Portland, Me., June 7.—"Elijah" Sandford's yacht Kingdom was boarded by a deputy sheriff, who rescued from it Mrs. Florence Whittaker, her 16-year-old daughter, Edna, and three other children, who, it is claimed, had been held prisoners.

For nearly two years the woman has been appealing to relatives to assist her to escape from the control of the "prophet," Frank W. Sandford, showering her friends and relatives with letters pitifully recounting her story of suffering.

She also asked aid to rescue her oldest daughter and her other children from the influence of the colonists.

Several attempts have been made by her relatives to effect her removal without stir. Her letters have been interdicted; massage money sent her has been withheld, and until Rev. Nathan H. Harriman of Cambridge, Mass., secured a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Savage of Auburn, Me., and had her forcibly removed from the yacht, she despaired of ever escaping.

High Sheriff Trefethen located the barkentine Kingdom at Great Chebeague island, Casco bay, and went after it in a motor boat.

An attempt was made to conceal the woman and her children as soon as the sheriff made known his object in boarding the yacht, but Mrs. Whittaker, on the lookout for any chance for escape, refused to be stowed away in a cabin below decks. When the leaders on board attempted to restrain her by force, the sheriff interfered and assisted her over the side to the motor boat, threatening to shoot if resistance to their departure was offered.

The Kingdom arrived in this country May 8. Since that time the woman has been making every effort to escape. She was kept a strict prisoner, she claims, and forced to undergo continual persecution from Sandford and the other leaders of the society who were aboard the yacht in which she was quartered.

She claims that she was forcibly taken on the long cruise to Jerusalem, and that several times when she escaped from the yacht and was trying to get into communication with friends in this country, she was handicapped by lack of funds, overtaken and brought back aboard the prophet's yacht.

The leaders of the association emphatically deny that it is customary to detain anyone unwillingly. "We do not keep prisoners at Shiloh," said Rev. Charles E. Holland, head of the Durham colony where A. A. Whittaker, her husband, is located. "I do not know what they have done aboard the yacht, and I do not know how much her husband has done to prevent her from leaving the yacht."

Mrs. Whittaker, herself, overjoyed at her escape from the yacht, declared last night as she was on her way to Auburn to appear before Judge Savage to insure her liberty in the future, that her only grief to temper her exultation was the thought that her husband was still under the control of the society.

COLLEAGUES MUST SETTLE

Treasurer of Democratic State Committee Wins Suit For Debt

Boston, June 7.—Thomas E. Dwyer, treasurer of the executive committee of the 1904 Democratic state committee, prevailed in his suit against nine associate members of the committee, to compel them to contribute their share of a $550 judgment, which was obtained against Dwyer for rent of Boston Theatre, which had been used for the state convention of that year. Dwyer had to pay the judgment himself, as there was not sufficient money in the treasury.

The defense offered was that Dwyer had paid the bills of the 1903 committee out of contributions received in 1904, and that if he had not done this he would have had money enough to pay the rent of the theatre.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

CURED TO STAY CURED

How Quincy Citizens Can Find Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—
From urinary disorders—
From any disease of the kidneys,
Be cured to stay cured.
Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.
Grateful people testify.
Here's one case of it:

C. H. Foster, 189 Thatcher street, Milton Mass., says: "The symptoms of kidney trouble in my case were not serious at first and I paid little attention to them. The result was that before long I found myself firmly in the grasp of this complaint. I became so weak that I could hardly attend to my work and I also suffered from sharp pains in various parts of my body. I lost twenty pounds in weight and could not sleep well. I was very nervous, had no energy and was in such poor health that the doctor told me that I should take to my bed. I did not do this, however, being unwilling to give up. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised. I procured a supply and had only taken part of the contents of one box before I began to feel better. From that time on I improved steadily until I was well." (Statement given May 1905.)

A Permanent Effect.

On June 24, 1908, Mr. Foster added: "My former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. I have been free from kidney complaint during the years that have passed since I first took the remedy."

BATTLE UNTIL ELECTION DAY

Prophets Cannot Foretell Results In November

WAR IN REPUBLICAN RANKS

Differences Cannot Be Settled Until Quarrel Between Regulars and Insurgents Is Ended—Eleven States Will Be In Throes of Contests Which May Mean Ultimate Success of Democrats—The Present Outlook

Washington, June 7.—Beginning with the fight in the senate over the admission of New Mexico and Arizona to statehood, it is expected that the smouldering antagonism between the factions of the Republican party will burst into flames and that war to the knife in the ranks of the organization throughout the country will be under way, not to be quelled until the November elections are over. What the result will be then, no political prophet ventures to say.

A great many Republicans have about abandoned hope of success at the approaching congressional elections. Even if Mr. Roosevelt, on his return to America, gets behind the administration, they say, there must be a settlement of differences, and those cannot be settled until the quarrel between the insurgents and regulars is ended. As illustrating the situation this hurried glance over conditions is given:

In Wisconsin Senator La Follette has the greatest fight of his career on his hands. Handicapped by the fact that he deliberately sought a quarrel with the president, he will be opposed by a conclave of "stalwart" Republicans at Milwaukee, where plans will be made to prevent his return to the senate. Vice President Sherman will represent the congressional committee at this convention and encourage the regulars.

In Indiana the outlook is that the regulars will oppose the return of Senator Beveridge, in spite of the fact that he controls the entire organization of his state.

Iowa faces a most bitter contest between the regulars and insurgents. It has even come to be an issue whether the administration of President Taft or the course of Senators Dolliver and Cummings shall be endorsed.

The regular Republican members from Ohio are reading out of the party the Republican newspapers that have advised their defeat, and the "Back from Elba" club (Ohio branch), headed by James R. Garfield, is waiting to defeat any candidate for governor that the regulars may name.

In Illinois and New York recent revelations have brought the leaders of the organization to the verge of demoralization and the outlook is regarded as hopeless.

An insurgent candidate for governor will run in New Hampshire if the present plans are to be carried out.

Vermont leaders are meeting behind doors to decide whether they shall indorse the state administration when the state convention meets on June 30.

In Massachusetts, even at this early date, there is a question whether Senator Lodge can be re-elected.

The party in Rhode Island, since the announcement of Senator Aldrich's retirement, is like a ship without a pilot in a storm.

In New Jersey there is a bitter fight and the organization is said to be split wide open.

HEALTH MUCH IMPROVED

Gardner a Candidate For a Fourth Term In Congress

Washington, June 7.—Representative Augustus P. Gardner of the Sixth Massachusetts district will be a candidate for election for a fourth term. Gardner has reached this definite decision since his return to Washington from Massachusetts, where he went a few weeks ago to recuperate from the strain attending the contest against the house rules.

At that time it appeared as if the Essex congressman might be unable to resume his duties this session and possibly would retire from congress. His condition has steadily improved, however, and since returning to Washington he has been able to attend to business as usual, although exercising great care not to overdo.

AT POINT OF BRIAR PIPE

Three Burglars Marched to Jail by a Keen-Witted Clerk

New York, June 7.—Three burglars with pockets bulging with loot were held up at the point of a briarwood pipe in Brooklyn, in the back room of a saloon, by a clerk of the hardware merchant whom they had robbed, and marched tamely to jail.

They were an angry set of men when they realized that their captor's courage had been keener than their own wits.

Washington, June 7.—Charles D. Norton, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, yesterday assumed his new duties as secretary to the president. He received many congratulations during the day and found on his desk an immense vase of American Beauty roses, which was sent by some of his Chicago friends.

A large number of senators and representatives called to see the president, and stopped in to shake hands with Norton and wish him success.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Veal Stew. The ends of the ribs, the neck, and the knuckle may be utilized in a stew. Cut the meat—two pounds—in small pieces, and remove all the fine bones. Cover the meat with boiling water; skim as it begins to boil; put in two small onions, two teaspoons of salt, and one saltspoon of pepper. Simmer until thoroughly tender. Cut four potatoes in halves; soak in cold water, and parboil them five minutes; add them to the stew. Add one tablespoonful of flour wet in cold water, and more seasoning if desired; and, just before serving, stir in one cup of cream, or, if milk be used, add one tablespoonful of butter. Remove the bones before serving.

Soft Gingerbread with Sour Milk. Put into a pan one cup molasses, one cup sour milk, one-half cup softened butter, one heaping teaspoonful soda, a tablespoonful ginger and flour to mix very soft.

Iced Chocolate. Make the chocolate in this way: Put into a granite or porcelain kettle four ounces powdered unsweetened chocolate, six ounces granulated sugar and one cup boiling water. Cook to a smooth, shiny paste, letting it boil hard. Watch carefully, that it does not scorch. Add three cups hot water and allow it to boil until the consistency of thin syrup. Take from the fire and stir frequently while cooling. When cold flavor with vanilla and a little cinnamon. If to be used right away add a cup of cream and whip with an egg beater or cream whip, until very light. Serve in tall glasses partially filled with chipped ice. This syrup without the cream can be bottled and kept in the refrigator for a long time. When serving, a tablespoonful of whipped cream can be put on top of each glass.

Sand Tarts. Stir to a cream one cup butter and a cup and a half sugar. Add three eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, one tablespoonful water, and ahalf teaspoonful baking powder sifted with enough flour to make stiff enough to roll. Roll thin, on a floured board, cut in squares, sprinkle sugar and cinnamon on top and bake.

IN VERY FEW WORDS

Noted British Admiral Tells a Whole Lot About Himself

New York, June 7.—Admiral Sir Archie Douglas of the British navy, retired, on his way to Toronto, where he is to receive an honorary degree from McGill university, arrived here on the Baltic, and erect, with bullet furrowed forehead, was characteristically reticent. After much arguing, however, the admiral talked briefly:

"If you must know something about me," he said," do you remember the way the Japanese destroyed the Russian navy in the Sea of Japan?"

Being assured of the recollection, Sir Archie made his one statement:

"Most of the officers of the Japanese fleet were my pupils," he said.

For his services in training Japanese naval officers and promoting a high state of naval efficiency the Japanese government bestowed on the veteran British officer the highest of its honors—the Order of the Rising Sun. He retired from active service in 1907.

Is it a Matter of Cost?

If you think it is, you are wrong from the start.

THE EXPENSE OF A TELEPHONE IS NOT FIGURED BY WHAT IT COSTS FOR A WHOLE YEAR, BUT BY HOW MUCH IT SAVES EACH TIME IT IS USED.

CONSIDER THIS:

How many nickels do you leave at the "Pay Station" during the year?

How much time do you lose making the trip to the Pay Station?

How much money do you spend in twelve months for car fare, in shopping or delivering messages that you could send by telephone if you had one?

How much time and nerve force do you so lose?

A few cents a day pays for a telephone and saves all this.

Ask our Local Manager to send an Agent to talk the matter over with you.

BRIEFS

The weather of Yesterday andtoday is rather discouraging for Merchants' Week.

The class in domestic science at the Woodward Institute gave a lunch at the school room this afternoon.

The grammar school graduation exercises will be held next week Thursday, and the High school exercises the following Wednesday.

Miss Annie Blair of Hancock street goes to a Boston hospit l on McLean street June 15th to take a special six months' course in nursing.

Mrs. Alexander McCormick, nee Susan McRitchie of Milford, N. H., was the guest on Monday of Mrs. John Michael of South Quincy.

Miss Fannie Fraser of Beach street recently underwent an operation at the Quincy hospital. Although Miss Fraser's condition has been serious her friends will be glad to know she is resting as comfortably as can be expected.

Miss Margaret O'Brien of Gay street sailed this week for Ireland, where she will visit for the next three months.

Miss Amanda Bailey of Gloucester who has been much with her sister Mrs. Arthur Stanley of Elm avenue was operated on for appendicitis last week at a private hospital in Roxbury and is convalescing favorably.

The Ladies' Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church are to hold a strawberry festival Wednesday evening.

A reception is to be given by Bethany church tomorrow evening for Madame Morey, organist and the choir of the church. The reception will be from eight until ten o'clock and held in the chapel of the church.

Tomorrow brings commencement week at the Quincy Mansion school to a close, the graduating exercises being held in the afternoon at quarter past two and the day closing with class reunions and receptions.

The Monday evening band concert of Merchants' Week was given between the First church and the fountain. It attracted a large number although the weather was inclement.

The funeral of Ella Lawson one of the victims of the shooting affair at Houghs Neck Saturday night will be held tomorrow from the home of her mother on Granite street. It will be strictly private.

Among the teachers of the Boston schools to be retired this month is Edward Southworth of Quincy, who has been a teacher in the Boston schools for 44 years and 6 months.

Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra of the Emmanuel church, Manville, R. I., has accepted the call to St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston, and will enter upon his duties as rector July first.

UNCERTAINTY ABOUT FOURTH

No Funds Now in Sight for The Celebration

The executive and finance committees for the Fourth of July celebration met last night in the Board of Trade rooms, but suspended business in order to learn what disposition was to be made of the order in the City Council to appropriate $2,000 in aid of the celebration. Several of the members went to the Council chamber and were disappointed at the defeat of the order.

It was decided to organize the various finance committees in the wards and send out collectors not later than Wednesday evening, they to report to the executive committee Saturday night. All collections will carry letters signed by Eugene R. Stone to prevent imposters from collecting.

The balloon ascension has been eliminated and the money appropriated for this purpose will be used to entertain the children. In place of W. W. Whitcher, who cannot act, Delcevare King was elected chairman of the Children's committee.

An invitation to spend the day in Quincy will be extended by the reception committee to James Duncan, first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor.

In case the money which the committee will raise is not sufficient to carry out the full extent of present plans an effort will be made to have the parade and fireworks, these being deemed very essential

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

At the final meeting of the Men's club of Christ church on Monday evening the work of the club for the year was reviewed and discussed, and it was the unanimous opinion that no greater success could have been expected . During the season, which opened in October, there have been frequent meetings both for pleasure and business, debates and socials. The debates have been very interesting and of great value educationally, as well as socially, and have brought about a good feeling in the club. The play that was given is considered an unqualified success.

The club works on very broad lines and is not confined to members of Christ church alone, and it is the intention of the members to increase good fellowship throughout the city.

For the next year the same broad policy will be adopted in the endeavor to benefit "the other fellow," mentally and morally. Too much good cannot be said of the efforts of the Men's club.

The officers for the ensuing year are Merton A. Turner, president; Walter E. Burke, vice president; E. J. Townsend, secretary; and George M. Hanson, treasurer.

WILL NOT RESIGN.

Monday evening was probably the last meeting which Councilman Fred R. Snow of Ward Five will attend for some time, as he leaves today for Toronto, Canada, where he has accepted a position as manager of the Linen Thread Co. Councilman Snow will not resign as a Councilman, so that there will be no vacancy in the Council.

TODAY'S COURT.

Simon and Emily Feard were arraigned for violation of the liquor law. Cases continued until June 15.

Arthur W. Curtis was arraigned for reckless driving of an automobile at Randolph. Case continued until June 28.

John Flaniro was fined $25 for carrying a loaded revolver at Quincy.

GRANITE EXHIBIT

Quincy to Make Big Display at National Convention

The Granite Manufacturers' Association of Quincy met last night and after the regular business of the association had been disposed of it was voted to appropriate $1,500 to place on exhibit at the National Convention of Retail Granite Dealers of Ame ica to be held at Rochester, N. Y., in the latter part of August this year, specimens of Quincy granite and workmanship. J. H. Trott, chairman of the National Convention, attended the meeting, and was pleased at the resolution of the Quincy manufacturers.

The pieces which will be placed on exhibit have not been selected, but there will be a meeting of the association in the near future at which the designs will be given out for manufacture. All of the pieces will be small and not elaborate, but of fine workmanship and material. There will be one piece from every granite yard in the city if possible, and the product of every quarry will be used. All of the pieces will be salable and it is not expected to bring them back to Quincy. The intention is to place Quincy granite before the public.

Delegates from every section of the country will attend the convention, one delegate being allowed for each ten members. The delegation from Quincy has not been appointed, but will probably be headed by John H. Murray, president of the local association.

RECITAL AT WOLLASTON.

A pianoforte recital was given Monday evening by the pupils of Mrs. Belle Marks Curran in the Wollaston Congregational church witnessed by a large and enthusiastic audience. The several numbers were performed in a finished and artistic manner and reflect great credit on their painstaking teacher. Special mention should be made of the playing of Miss Elizabeth Margaret Welsford and Master William Couch of Wollaston (both about seven years of age) who have taken lessons a very short time.

Miss Helen Parkhurst of the N. E. Conservatory played brilliantly on the violin, and won the hearts of her audience. Mr. Charles B. Blount also displayed a rich baritone voice, and encores were in order in both cases. Others to take part were: Mrs. Ethel Lord Forbes, Miss Louise Allison Ross, and Mrs. Curran. The recital was a great success in every way, and Mrs. Curran should feel flattered at the result of her indefatigable efforts.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Makaria base ball team will travel to Norwell on Saturday, and on the Seventeenth o June will meet the Quincys of the Old Colony league.

The Ramblers of Wollaston have a game scheduled for Saturday with the Harbor View team of East Boston at Merrymount park, lower field.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church was held in the vestry of the church, Monday evening. Favorable reports were received.

After the business session a social hour was enjoyed in charge of Miss Beryl A. Hannant and Miss Catherine Hodgkinson. A short entertainment was given, consisting of duets by Miss Florence Manhire and Miss Maud Nichols ,and readings by Rev. C. H. Raupach. Games were then enjoyed. College ices and cake were served by the fourth vice president, Miss Maud E. Hodgkinson, after which Miss Mary Jane Williams favored the members with piano solos.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Hold Bi Monthly Meeting at South Quincy

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union was held at the United Presbyterain church Monday evening. The praise service was led by Wendall Harvey of the Braintree Baptist church, followed by the devotional services conducted by Rev. J. A. Matheson of the Water street Presbyterian church. Rev. Thompson of the home church extended a welcome to the societies in behalf of his church. During the evening two solos were given by Miss Sadie Chamberlain.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. J. A. Mitchell of the Braintree Baptist church who spoke on key words of the Christian Endeavors, and was listened to attentively.

The banner for best attendance continues with the Water Street Presbyterian society.

These officers were elected for the ensuring year:

President— Alden H. Blanchard of Bethany Congregational

Vice President — James Ross of United Presbyterian.

Recording Secretary — Miss Jessie Shirley of Water Street Presbyterian.

Corresponding Secretary— Miss Ida Thomas of Bethany Congregational.

Treasure—James Lewis of East Milton Baptist.

Councillor — Dr. E. N. Hardy of Bethany Congregational.

Chairman of Lookout Committee— Miss Winifred Chard of the Wollaston Baptist.

Delegate to State convention—Victor Lamstrom of East Milton Baptist, Auditor—W. H. Harvey of Braintree Baptist.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers.

COMMENCEMENT RECITAL.

Ther was a large gathering Monday evening in Livermore hall at the Quincy Mansion school for the commencement recital of the school. A program of pleasing variety was given from compositions of Mendelssohn, Dvorak, Schumann, Raff, Chopin, Whelpley, MacDowell and others, which brought out the excellence of training and technique of the pupils.

Piano solos were given by Misses Elsie Brown, Grace Taylor, Madeline Mears, Fentress Kerlin, Minette Switzer, Florence Arnold, Marion Browne, Katherine Covey, Edith Robinson, Genevieve Parsons, Margaret White and Harriet Loring; a violin solo by Miss Ruth Abbott, and vocal solos by Misses Bertha Scharff and Monnie Tarkington.

The young ladies carried the program through most pleasingly ,the the frequent applause indicating appreciation of its excellence. The program also brought out the fact that pupils at the Quincy Mansion school are well rounded in their education, the talents of each receiving attention, especially in music and the arts.

A pleasant feature not down on the program was the singing of a group of songs by Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child of Boston, instructor of vocal music at the school. She sang the "Scottish Cradle Song" and "Spring" by Mrs. Beach, and "The Cuckoo" by Liza Lehman. In response to an insistent encore she gave with fine interpretation that ever beautiful song "Annie Laurie."

VICTIMS MAY RECOVER.

The condition of Shannon and Cagnasso, the two victims of Saturday and Sunday's shootings, continue favorable, and it was said at the City Hospital that unless complications set in they will recover. Owing to the condition of Cagnasso ,as well as that of his wife who is at the Chardon Street home, she will not be brought to Quincy until both are better.

RAID AT QUINCY POINT.

Inspector Goodhue and Officers Milford and Cahill raided the Syrian boarding house at 3 Wendell place, Quincy Point, Monday afternoon, and seized four cases of beer. The officers found a crowd of men in the place drinking. They also arrested the proprietor Simon Feard and his wife, Emily, for violation of the liquor law. They were arraigned in court and their cases continued until June 15.

Alpha Hall—cool and well ventilated. Special low rental prices for summer season.

HIGH TEAM MAY DISBAND

Because Star Players are on The Blacklist

Owing to the fact that several of the best players on the High school baseball team have been forbidden to play on the team, having been discovered smoking, which is against the strictest rule of training, the team will probably not finish the season.

There are four more games on the schedule, and all of them are against strong teams that would put up a good strong game. Quincy has a tip top, fast team, that has played the best high school teams in the suburban district and to date has won nine and lost three games. Two of these games were lost by the closest possible margin, and the other was rather an unfortunate loss. Every player on the team is a fast man in the field, and at the bat, and prospects for a good team next year are extremely bright, since the majority of the players are of the class of 1911.

The squad of substitutes is not large and there are few others available for the team, so that with four stars missing, the team is in a bad hole. Every effort will be made by the undergraduates to cause the faculty to relent, but since it is rumored, on information purporting to be from a reliable source, that the team will disband, it is thought that the faculty will stand firm.

Quincy High was scheduled to play a game against Rockland High at Rockland Monday afternoon but the gme was cancelled. The next game is against Arlington at Quincy, and will probably be played with several subs in the lineup.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

Manager Dahlen came within an ace of sending Pitcher Cy Barger back to the minors. Boston wouldn't waive on him. Now he's one of Brooklyn's winning box men.

"Mathewson has lost some of his speed and 'stuff,'" is the verdict of the Philadelphia players. "Three Fingered" Brown is another star who seems to have "gone back."

"Against a right handed pitcher I crowd the rubber and step into a curve before it breaks," says Ty Cobb. "Against a left hander I drop back as far as possible and wait for the curve to break."

George Mullin points out that one of the recruits on the Detroit team is twenty-eight years old and that he (Mullin), having started in baseball at nineteen and having served nine years, is no older than that "youngster."

Manager Fred Clarke is quoted as saying of young Vincent Campbell: "He is one of the fastest I have seen in several years. I have been hunting a man to take my place, and Campbell looks like the boy for the job. He has me beaten now, but I am not ready to quit."

CLASS DAY AT QUINCY MANSION SCHOOL

Seniors Much Interested in Class Prophecy for Twenty Years Hence

The Original Class Song Printed in Full

Class Day exercises at the Quincy Mansion school and the annual rites dear to the heart of every Senior, took place Tuesday afternoon in Livermore hall. The first part of the program had been planned for the stadium, but the weather was too cool and uncertain for an al fresco affair. It was a great success, however, and the audience highly delighted.

At 3 o'clock in marched the pupils, and as they parted the dignified Seniors in caps and gowns marched forward and took seats on the platform. The class included—Miss Muriel Badger, Miss Katherine Covey, Miss Mildred Crowell, Miss Mary Louise Drake, Miss Gladys Jewell, Miss Harriet Loring, Miss Mary Miner, Miss Frances Minor, Miss Katherine Roby, Miss Helen Richards, Miss Monnie Tarkington and Miss Marjorie Welch.

The "Class Will" by Miss Miner was a well executed document by which the goods and chattels of the Seniors were bequeathed to the Juniors. It was bright and clever, and caused many smiles among the pupils. Miss Crowell, Miss Jewell and Miss Roby were the "Giftorians" the small chair with a hat on the seat, the rooster. the megaphone, the dolly and "don't worry" motto created amusement. The ve ses attached were written by Miss Jewell, the recipients taking the jokes goodnaturedly.

The "Class Prophecy" by Miss Minor, told how she found a huge aeroplane waiting at the station when she came to attend the 20th anniversary of her class. Kathleen who has a large establishment in New York and entertains extensively presided at the meeting. They were not surprised to hear Monnie had chosen a literary career, after her talent shown for writing Negro dialect stories. Harriet put aside her brilliant career as pianist, preferring to accompany a certain famous violinist on his travels. Mildred had written a long and complex thesis on one syllabled French words and it has entirely revoluntionized methods of teaching. Mary had become one of the most celebrated lawyers of the Chicago bar. No man dared take a case against her. Marjorie has become a trained nurse, and in her becoming cap and apron, no one wonders that every case in the Quincy hospital calls for her. Helen's remarkable mind has made a place in the world for her; she has written a chemistry book. Gladys could not come to the meeting but sent a telegram: "Am lecturing on Woman's rights before Pi Eta society; sorry not to be with you." Katherine's genius in managing social functions also caterers, has been reconized as her valuable quality. Mary Louise was a typical school ma'am, her school was a queer one in some ways, but popular because pupils were never required to be on time at breakfast. Muriel had become a composer, and Keith stars were singing her celebrated composition entitled "Girlie."

The class planted a silver spruce around which they joined hands and gave their class cheer. Very beautiful were the spacious grounds in all the luxuriance of first freshness of foliage and bloom which made a brilliant back ground for the groups of relatives and friends. The guests were served ref eshments in the "Gym" which was prettily decorated in colors of green and yellow. Just out side a hurdy gurdy was busy.

Mrs. Willard announced that the entire program was arranged by the young ladies without any help from the teachers, exceptin the assistance of Miss Lummis in the play, "Engaging Janet," which was full of fun and presented a series of ludicrous situations. All the characters, including Bridget who helps, were well played with the following cast:

Janet Clark, who is looking for a career, Katherine Covey
Miss Briggs, of the Amalgamated Charities Mary Louise Drake
Madame Maude, who sells toilet requisites Helen Richards
Miss Buttrick of Boston, a Literary Light. Harriet Loring
Miss Spike, of the Teachers' Training Trust. Monnie Tarkington
Miss Wiggins, of the Women's Employment Bureau Muriel Badger
Bridget, who helps Marjorie Welch

The singing of the Class song completed the afternoon's program; words by Gladys Jewell and music by Arthur Titson.

We must to the Juniors have our say,
Before we pass on our onward way:
Although compared to us you're slow,
We have all hopes that you may grow
Swifter, wiser, and more knowing,
In the paths that you are going.

CHORUS:

Of a'l the classes we are the best
Of course we tower o'er all the rest;
1910 will always stand,
A faithful, true and loyal band;
Quincy Mansion we'll always praise,
And 1910 ever higher raise.

At the 'Specials", too, we'll have our fling,
Of course we know they are the "thing;"
But the next time you're parading,
And as Seniors masquerading,
Just be sure and choose a tune,
Which won't bring you down to soon.

To the "weeny Preps" we leave good will,
Some day you'll Senior places fill;
To Alpha Theta loyal stand,
A mighty not a "weeny" band;
You're started well, now keep the pace,
And you'll be winner in the race.

REUNION OF OLD VETERANS.

James W. Pierce, a charter member of Post 88, G. A. R., and well known and popular locally, observed his seventy-fifth anniversary Tuesday at his home at 242 Granite street.

The members of Post 88 were invited to spend the afternoon and evening with Mr. Pierce and many accepted, the majority in the evening. One of the guests was Henry Blake, an old schoolboy friend of Mr. Pierce, a charter member of Post 88, G. A. R., and father-in-law of Senator Hultman. The two veterans have not seen each other for 55 years and were much affected at meeting.

During the evening the guests talked over old times and war times with their host. He received scores of congratulatory notes throughout the day. Mr. Pierce is in hearty good health and has the well wishes of hundreds of friends for more as pleasant anniversaries.

HOUGHS NECK VICTIM.

The funeral of Etta Lawson, the victim of Saturday night's shooting at Houghs Neck, was held this afternoon from the home of her mother on Granite street. The services, which were strictly private, were conducted by Rev. C. F. Johanson of the Dudley Street church. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

OPEN HOUSE.

The Granite City club will keep open house tonight at its rooms in the Savings Bank building in celebration of Merchants' Week. Morris' orchestra will furnish music and refreshments will be served. Saturday afternoon the club rooms will be open to ladies of the members, that they may witness the parade and trials of the Fire department. A light lunch will be served.

MASONIC TEMPLE

Among Possibilities at Wollaston at Early Date

There was an unusual large attendance of members and visitors Tuesday evening at the June communication of Wollaston Masonic lodge, the last until September. The visitors included a number of past Masters who assisted in the work. More than ever at this meeting was the need felt of larger quarters. The lodge already has a building committee, who are considering the question of building a Temple, and at this meeting it was voted to appoint a permanent board of trustees who shall have charge of the building fund. It is proposed during the coming summer months to raise funds so that active operations toward erecting a Temple may be commenced before the new year.

GAS AND ELECTRICITY

Efforts to Be Made to Secure Lower Rates

President Hobbs has appointed Councilmen Gardner, Ericson, Carey, Richards and Woodward as special committee authorized under the resolution introduced by Councilman Gardner at Monday night's meeting of the City Council, requesting the Mayor to petition the Gas and Electric Light Commission for a substantial reduction in the rates charged to the inhabitants of Quincy for gas and electricity. The resolution aside from requesting the Mayor to act requests the City Solicitor and special committee of five councilmen to act with the Mayor in any manner in which he may desire.

CRUSADE AGAINST MOTHS

Supt. Stewart Has Power Sprayer Busily at Work

The crusade against the gypsy moth and elm leaf beetle is well under way, under the direction of Superintendent Andrew Stewart. A force of men with a large portable tank of poisoning liquid and sprayers, the whole operated by a gasoline engine, are going about spraying all trees. Arsenate of lead, is used composed of one part lead and arsenic, to about one hundred parts water and is a very violent poison. All trees that have been sprayed are labelled to warn owners of live stock to keep horses, cows, and so forth away from the trees, since the ground about is pretty throughly covered with the poison.

The work of spraying the trees must be done promptly when the trees have attained their full foliage to prevent bugs from starting their inroads. The elm trees of which there are a great number in Quincy are especially well sprayed, as the elm tree beetle attacks its leaves ravenously and destroys whole trees in a very short period. The arsenate of lead is a powerful poison, and while it has no chemical effect on the tree, exterminates moths of every sorts.

COMMITTEES NOW AT WAR

Athletic Committee for Fourth of July Object to Being Bottled Up

Parade Committee Determined To Push Ahead

Feeling against the decision of the Executive committee of the Fourth of July celebration is high in the Athletic committee. At the meeting this week of the executive it was decided that in event of a shortage in money the celebration would proceed with certain features eliminated, among the latter the athletic games. The Athletic committee is very indignant that the parade should have preference over its work.

Every possible argument was introduced to show the pre-eminence of athletic sports over the parade, and Chairman Gifford will protest to the Executive committee.

Prizes for the various events in mind, should finance allow the sports to be run off, were discussed at length though none were decided upon.

At a meeting of the Parade committee there was a feeling that in the face of the obstacles to success, the parade should be made a success by energetic, enthusiastic work, to which all of the members seem disposed. An announcement describing the parade and inviting all clubs and organizations to enter was planned, and will be published in the near future for distribution along the South Shore. Should the work of this committee continue to progress the parade will be a great success.

ELKS PAY TRIBUTE

To Moody Leighton Who Died on Saturday

Funeral services of Moody Leighton, a member of the Quincy lodge of Elks and chief of the Metropolitan police at Nantasket, were held Tuesday, at 10 A. M. in the Pope Memorial chapel, West Corner, Hull, Rev. Cecil Harper pastor. After a sermon and eulogy delivered by the pastor, the Elks funeral services were performed by the officers o fthe Quincy lodge. They are W. J. Coleman ,exalted ruler; John D. Smith, chaplain; L. J. McMasters, secretary; G. A. Jordan, esteemed lecturing knight; P. B. Lamrock, esteemed loyal knight; P. H. Sullivan, esteemed leading knight; and John W. Sweeney, trustee.

Following the services several selections were sung by the Temple Quartette.

The body was then accompanied to Lynn by Messrs, Coleman, McMaster, Smith, Sullivan, Sweeney, Jordan, and McCarthy of the Quincy lodge of Elks. Services were held at 3 P. M., at the Ruggles chapel, Pine Grove cemetery, Lynn, by the Rev. Mr. Angel, followed by the Elks commitment services at the grave by the officers of the Quincy lodge of Elks.

Mr. Leighton has been well known and popular about Quincy for years, and his death caused great sorrow on all sides, as evidenced by the floral offerings at his funeral.

The pall bearers were Superintendents West, Costello, and Gilman of the Metropolitan Park Police, Messrs. John W. Sweeney, William Mc Carthy and George A. Jordan of the Elks.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Political astronomers are seeing adjournment through the small end of the telescope.

It is going to begin all over again. Harry Payne Whitney is going to Etah for Dr. Cook's records and instruments.

While we are haggling over the price of prunes, the diamond trust worked off $44,000,000 worth on us at increased prices.

Out in Milwaukee they have issued a proclamation to the people to boil their drinking water. What can be the matter with Milwaukee beer that they have got to drink water?

It would be premature, if nothing more ,to speak of the union of the Pennsylvania and New Haven roads; but perhaps it would not be so far wrong to say that their engagement is announced.

The new Sultan of Turkey is said to be suffering from sixteen distinct and separate diseases ,seven of which are incurable. The European bomb throwers will put that in their pipes and smoke it, surely.

Victor Hugo was a man of undoubted mentality, but when he said "men hate those to whom they have to lie," he uttered a deliberate slander of the blessed state of matrimony.

When the band played our National anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," as its closing selection last Saturday night, not one man or boy in the entire crowd, which filled City square, paid it the usual token of respect and raised his hat.

In our public schools the pupils are taught to respect and on occasions to salute the flag of our country, and the hymn dedicated to that flag. The stars and stripes stand for the supremacy of our nation; it is for them that thousands upon thousands of men have laid down their lives, and for them that men are still willing to make that greatest sacrifice, and every man and boy should salute the national anthem, and women and girls should pay it tribute of respectful silence; yet in Quincy the city of great patriots, not one of a representative gathering gave a moment's thought to the emblem of his country's greatness and protection of himself.

When our flag passes on the street, or "The Star Spangled Banner" is played, it is usual to see hats come off in respectful salute, and Quincy people should not allow others to excell them in patriotism.

Through the efforts of many interested citizens Quincy has come to realize the necessity of taking up the work of the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. A camp has been built and equipped for the care of day and night patients and the work starts with a most auspicious outlook to future success. To do a work of this kind money is needed to maintain and carry it along and the Mount Pleasant camp needs substantial aid. It has been decided by the Anti-Tuberculosis association to make a house to house canvass to raise funds. When the collector calls it is hoped everyone will give something if only a small amount.

The province of the physician is not so much to cure as to prevent disease, and in no way is that better exemplified than in this anti-tuberculosis crusade in which physicians and laymen are alike engaged and in which our physicians are most zealous workers. Surely such a movement as this demands and deserves the loyal support of our people. Its successful accomplishment means the preservation of the life of the head of the family for its support and comfort, the prolongation of the life of the mother to guard and direct the life of her children, the healthy growth of the generation which in a few years must take the place of the parents.

The society appeals to our people for support. Isn't it worth while to save human life? If it is the association appeals to you for assistance in its good work.

Sixteen orders were reported by committees to the City Council at its meeting this week, involving the sum of $83,765, and in addition to this the Commissioner of public Works asked for $10,000 for sewer extensions, and orders amounting to $5,900 were introduced for other improvements, a round $100,000 in all. After reporting that there were no funds available for a Fourth of July celebration, it is a wonder that any committee had the courage to report in favor of such large loans. At 4 per cent the annual interest charge on $83,765 is $3,350.60. We don't know as it is any worse to "blow in" $2,000 for fireworks than $3,350.60 more for interest. The city is now expending almost as much for interest as for maintenance of schools. If it was decided to make a big howl on the Fourth of July over the interest account, there would be no need of other "fireworks." Just "parade" these figures and there would be a "division" for each Councilman.

It is not surprising that the City Council shrunk from taking up the "calendar" this week which contained a loan order of $48,000 for water meters. But that order should be reduced to $5,000, and at the same time the Council should reduce or kill several of the orders reported this week. The city cannot afford to appropriate in one year $14,000 for drainage, $20,000 for street paving, $18,700 for sidewalks and $15,100 for other street improvements etc, etc., all at one slap.

Then note what a small percentage will be expended in the business ward of the city, which has the largest population and pays nearly a fourth of the taxes. Hancock street should have a permanent sidewalk on the easterly side from Elm street to the residence of Mrs. A. B. Packard, Washington street should have a permanent sidewalk on the westerly side from the Post Office to Elm street, the sidewalk on Coddington street should be extended to Mt. Wollaston cemetery, and sidewalks are needed on Adams street, Upland road, Revere road and Elm street, all of which are thoroughfares. The only Ward One sidewalks included in the order are parts of Granite street, Whitwell street, Glendale road and Cottage avenue. The only surface drainige for Ward One is on Glendale road, Deldorf street and Cranch street. A little of the Hancock street paving may be done in Ward One, but really very little of the $83,765 reported is for improvements in Ward One. Yet people judge the city of Quincy by the appearance of City Square and vicinity.

TAKE EFFECT IMMEDIATELY

How President Would Have Railroad Rate Control

Washington, June 8.—President Taft sent a special message to congress in which he recommended that the clause in the new railroad bill which gives the interstate commerce commission power to investigate and suspend increased rates filed by the railroads be modified so as to take effect immediately upon the signing of the act.

As it stands in the bill, the provision would not take effect for sixty days. The president bases his request upon the agreement he reached with the railroads whereby they agreed to withdraw all increased rates until the new law is signed. The message is as follows:

"A recent effort by a large number of railroad companies to increase rates for interstate transportation of persons and property caused me to direct the attorney general to bring a suit and secure from the United States court in Missouri an injunction restraining the operation of such increased rates during the pendency of the proceeding.

"This action led to a conference with the representatives of the railroad companies so enjoined and the agreement by each of them to withdraw the proposed increases of rates effective on and after June 1, and not to file any further attempted increases until after the enactment into law of the pending bill to amend the interstate commerce act, or the adjournment of the congress; with the further understanding that upon the enactment of such law each would submit to the determination of the interstate commerce commission the question of the reasonableness of all increases that each might thereafter propose.

"It is now hoped that all of the other railroad companies will take like action. In order, however, that each may have the benefit of a speedy determination of the question whether or not its proposed increases in rates are justifiable, provision should be made by congress to vest the interstate commerce commission with jurisdiction over such questions as soon as possible.

"In the senate amendment to section 15 of the act to regulate commerce contained in H. R. 17,536, the interstate commerce commission is empowered, immediately upon the filing of a proposed increase in rates, of its own motion, or upon complaint, to enter upon an investigation and determination of the justice and reasonableness of such increases, and, in case it deems it expedient, to suspend the operation thereof for a period specified in the section to enable it to complete such investigation.

That bill, however, provides that the act shall take effect and be in force only from and after the expiration of sixty days after its passage. This provision, if allowed to remain in the bill, would enable carriers between the time of the enactment of the bill and the time of its taking effect, to file increases in rates which would become effective at the expiration of thirty days and remain in effect and be collected from the public during the pendency of proceedings to review them, whereas if the bill be made to take effect immediately such investigation will have to be made before the public is called upon to pay the increased rate.

"I therefore recommend that this latter provision be modified, by providing that at least section 9 of the senate amendment to the bill, which is the section authorizing the commission to suspend the going into effect of increases in rates until after due investigation, shall take effect immediately upon the passage of the act."

AMPUTATION NECESSARY

Ex-Councilman Loses Foot Because of Accident

The many friends of ex-Councilman James M. Flaherty will be very sorry to learn that as a result of an accident April 4, it was necessary to remove his foot at the ankle at the Carney Hospital on Saturday.

On the day of the accident, Mr. Flaherty was driving a grain team of E. H. Doble & Co. When near the Willard school his horses became frightened at a passing car and jumped one side, striking a fence. This threw Mr. Flaherty out, and he landed in such a way as to break his leg. He was attended by a local physician and then removed to the Carney hospital.

Complications set in and the only hopes of saving his life was by amputation of his foot which was performed on Saturday. He is now reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected and his many friends hope to see him out again soon.

¶ Women are more interested in store news, than news of the world. Seventy percent of the retail buying is done by women, and the balance is largely influenced by women. The advertising columns of the big Sunday papers are eagerly read by the housewife, by the daughter, and by women in all walks of life. The merchants in the large cities realize this and take liberal space in the papers to put their goods before the public. Their "ads" are well written, nicely planned, properly balanced and attractively arranged, and the more they advertise the larger their store grows. Attract the attention of women by your advertising and the men will soon follow suit.

What about YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

Do you turn your stock over as often as you would like?

The very stock that you carry on your shelves until it becomes shopworn, is being brought into Quincy every day by Quincy people who watch the Boston "ads."

When the manufacturer's salesmen put a new line of goods on your shelves, and the manufacturer begins a bill-board and magazine advertising campaign, why don't you, Mr. Merchant, let the people know that you have those goods to sell.

It takes time and money to introduce new goods and the manufacturer of today spends his money liberally to tell the people the good points of his wares and create a demand.

Now About YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

With the manufacturer spending money to help you, what are you doing to help yourself?

Do you let the people know that you carry the goods that are so well advertised by the manufacturer?

¶ Any business must grow under the influence of advertising. An occasional "ad" will bring some results, but think what a well written "ad" and continuous publicity will do.

"I---y S--p—It floats" you know what those few letters mean. Advertising did it, and will continue to do it.

¶ We know you are desirous of increasing your business, and The Ledger would be pleased to help you get the business.

¶ Quincy merchants carry a good quality of goods, and The Ledger goes into the homes of the people that buy these good goods.

¶ Help Quincy grow; keep Quincy money in Quincy; and bring more money into Quincy by patronizing the advertising columns of The Ledger today, tomorrow and every day.

The man who wrote this "ad." will write yours,

ADAMS CHAPTER, D. R.

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution held the last meeting until fall on Monday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams. The attendance was not as large as usual owing to the stormy weather but a pleasant meeting was held.

Following the routine business a letter was read from Mrs. William Porter who is spending a few weeks in Washington. Besides words of greeting to the chapter the letter gave interesting descriptions of people and buildings.

Mrs. Frank Granger told of the annual meeting of the National society D. R., held in May at Atlantic City and her echoes of the meetings were most entertaining as were also the souvenirs which she brought with her.

The speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Rufus B. Tobey of Wollaston, who divided his talk speaking first of patriotism of today; the duty to the immigrant, to assimulate and make him an American. By request Mr. Tobey spoke at length on the work of the Boston Floating Hospital, which he founded in which members of Adams chapter are interested.

A social hour brought the meeting to a close during which delicious fruit punch, sandwiches and cake were served by the hostesses Mrs. Walter E. Piper and Miss Harriet B. Pierce.

VISITING NURSE CONFERENCE

A Visiting Nurse conference is to be held at the Quincy Women's club house on Wednesday afternoon. There wil be several well known speakers and the conference promises to be interesting and helpful. Mrs. Emily Curtis Fisher will speak on the practical application of Visiting Nursing in Norwood; Dr. Middleton of Quincy Point will speak of the Visiting Nurse; Miss Robinson the Quincy Nurse will speak upon the work from a Nurse's standpoint and there will be other speakers not yet announced. The conference is called for two o'clock June 15 at the club house.

STATE FEDERATION MEETING.

Nothwithstanding the bad weather there was a large gathering at Lynn on Monday and Tuesday for the annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs. Women's Work and the Service of Humanity" was the broad subject of the meeting. The meeting opened at three o'clock on Monday with address of welcome, reports of officers, special and standing committees. The evening was given up to reports of the biennial at Cincinnati followed by a reception at nine o'clock at the Lynn Woman's club house. Meetings were resumed Tuesday considerable business being transacted the day closing at four o'clock.

The following officers were elected:

President, Miss Georgie A. Bacon, Worcester; first vice-president, Mrs. Marion A. Crocker, Fitchburg; second vice-president, Mrs. Florence L. Breed Lynn; third vice-president, Mrs. Maria D. Whitcher, Dorchester; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Jennie B. Wadleigh, Boston; clerk, Mrs. Effie S. Nowers, Winthrop; assistant clerk, Mrs. Lizzie L. Bullock, Worcester; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grace V. Hibbard, Milton; treasurer, Mrs. Lena R. Wellington, Winchester; directors, term expiring 1913, Mrs. Stella H. Graves, Boston, Mrs. Claire H. Gurney, Quincy; Mrs. Annie N. Houghton, Hudson; Mrs. F. Inez Moody, Newburyport; Mrs. Mabel J. Smith; nominating committee, chairman, Mrs. Cora P. Little, Bridgewater; Mrs. Fannie B. Blair, Boston; Mrs. Annabel P. Bonney, Cambridge; Mrs. Margaret J. Conant. Shirley; Mrs. Barbara Galpin, Somerville. Directors for one year, Mrs. Cora P. Little, Bridgewater; Mrs. Minna R. Mulligan, Natick; Mrs. Nellie H. Patrick, Milford; Mrs. Jeanette M. Taylor, Abington; Mrs. May Alden Ward, Boston. Directors for two years, Mrs. Caroline Dennett, Arlington; Mrs. Therese Goulston, Boston; Mrs. Mary E. Howe, Waltham; Mrs. Harriette MacDonald, Chelsea; Mrs. Retta W. Weatherby, Newton.

Space forbids a full report of the many excellent papers given but we give a few for the benefit of our club women who were unable to attend the meetings.

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs has completed seventeen years of organization, and today holds its eighteenth annual meeting. There have been two meetings the past year, one in Brockton and one in Boston, and two conferences, the first in October as guests of the Dorchester Woman's club in their club house, to which members of standing committees that corresponded with the Federation committees were invited ,together with the presidents. The subject for discussion was "How can we adapt the work of the Federation to Local Needs." The second conference was held in March in Arlington by invitation of the Arlington Woman's club. The subject for this conference was "Club methods."

In February the officers and chairmen of standing committees of teh State Federations of the New England States were invited to a conference in Boston. There were 27 from other states than Massachusetts present. Four subjects were discussed: Forestry, Pure and Clean Milk, Health and Child Labor. At the close of the conference a plan for co-operation work in the" New England States was adopted.

Of the 246 questions sent out relative to the Departments of Work of the Federation, one hundred and fifty were returned answered, and about twenty-five unanswered, but with a letter of explanation or with no comment. This is a gain in numbers, but a greater gain in the detail in which the questions were answered. Civics leads as formerly, followed by Household Economics, Literature, Legislative and Art.

The answers show a very hopeful spirit of co-operation with local town or city officials and with organizations doing a specific work, such as Anti-Tuberculosis Societies, Village Improvement Associations, Home and School or Parents Associations, and the initiatory introduction of stamp savings and industrial training in the schools, and then putting them into the school committees hands to continue.

The keynote of the year has been conference. These have been presidents, departments, small groups and districts. To this method of seeking expert advice and the discussion that follows may we attribute, in a great measure, the very intelligent and satisfactory work the clubs have done this year. The year has been one of great promise and helpfulness, and the Federation hsa every reason to anticipate that the following year will bring very definite results.—Effie S. Nowers.

EDUCATION COMMITTEE

The department of Education held a successful conference at the New England Woman's Club rooms on December 2d. The object of this meeting was to promote closer relations between home and school and for the betterment of moral training in the public schools. Seventy clubs were represented and it was urged that parents' associations be formed.

Thirty clubs have reported the formation of parents associations and fifty clubs have done nothing along educational lines. Fourteen clubs are maintaining scholarships. Six of these are for Southern schools in which the Massachusetts Federation is so much interested.

Returns from one hundred and twenty-five clubs show a decided interest in these associations, in school gardens, in the maintenance of scholarships, industrial and moral training and teacher's pensions.

The continued growth of trade schools is encouraging. Moral train-

BRIEFS

There are three day and night patients at Camp Mt. Pleasant.

Mrs. Sylvester Brown of Willow street is spending the week with friends out of town.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., will give a whist party Thursday evening in the A. O. H. hall on Franklin street.

An open meeting of the electrical workers will be held under the auspices of Local 189, Thursday evening, in Johnson building.

Mary L. Brown of this city is treasurer and one of the directors of the Massachusetts Textile Co., of Wales, incorporated May 23, 1910.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Scouler, Jr., (Victoria Carter) of Madison avenue are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a little daughter at their home on Tuesday morning, May 31st.

Manager Connor of the Walnut A. A. has arranged games with the Braintree Red Sox, Back Bays of Quincy and other teams. These boys will show class at these games. They challenge any 13-14 year old teams in the city.

The change of schedule by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad caused not a little confusion in the South Terminal. The gatemen had their hands full and no doubt wished that people would use their heads and timetables to better advantage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Williams of Newton announce the engagement of their daughter Lois Elmer Williams to Wallace C. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bennett of Arlington street, Wollaston. Miss Williams will be remembered as a former Quincy girl.

NEW WAGE SCALE.

The Brick Layers, Stone Masons and Plasterers' Union at a meeting on Monday evening adopted a new scale of wages to go into effect Sept. 1. At present all these trades work eight hours, but the stone masons do not have a Saturday half holiday. Under the new scale all will have the half holiday, and the scale of wages will be: Stone masons, 50 cents per hour; brick-layers, 60 cents per hour; plasters, 60 cents per hour. The new wages are quite an advance, but as the stone masons have not had any scale the percentage cannot be given.

THE CLAN AND OTHERS

Attend Funeral Services of James S. Dunstan, Jr.

The funeral services of Mr. James Spargo Dunstan, Jr., were held at the home of his parents on Jackson's lane, Tuesday afternoon the Rev. Mr. Armstrong of Christ church officiating.

Mr. Dunstan was the only son of James Spargo Dunstan of Mabe, England, and Agnes (Kain) Dunstan of Creeton, Scotland, his father coming to this country in 1870, while his mother came to America in 1873. He was born in Quincy, September, 1881, and was educated in the public schools of Quincy.

Mr. Dunstan had been in poor health for some time, but it was not until five weeks ago that he yielded to the illness, and then it was with the anticipation that he would soon recover. He grew steadily worse, however, and two weeks ago he was taken to the Quincy City hospital. On Saturday, June 4, he was operated upon at the hospital, but all attempts to save his life were futile. He never regained consciousness and passed away between 1 and 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

A large number of friends and relative were present at the funeral. The visiting relatives from other places were Mrs. Spargo and Mrs. Grant, two sisters of Mr. James Dunstan, Sr., Miss Tresidder, Miss Mary Phillips and Mr. William Phillips, cousins of the deceased all of Concord, N. H., and two nephews of Mr. Dunstan, the Mr. Mudge's of Westerly, R. I.

At the cemetery Clan McGregor, of which the deceased was a member, held their services by the open grave. Burial was at Mount Wollaston cemetery. The bearers were George Booth, Gilbert Booth and Alexander Cowe, of Clan McGregor, William H. Dunstan, Henry Davy and William Kain, Jr., friends of the family.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, among them being:

Pillow from father and mother.
Cross from Clan McGregor.

Wreaths and sprays from Mrs. and Miss Wetherspoon, aunts and cousins from Concord, N. H., and Westerly relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William Kain, Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, Mr. William Kain, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Booth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson and family, Mrs. William and W. G. Spargo, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Prout, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prout, Mr. and Mrs. William Prout, Mrs. E. Lark, Mr. H. A. Lark, Mr. Charles Coye, Mr and Mrs. Alex Cowe Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cowe Jr., Mrs. M. A. Prout, Miss E Williams, Mrs. Fred L. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Beer, Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunstan have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement.

MILK WAR IS ENDED

Producers Win After a Long Fight With Boston Contractors

Boston, June 8.—The so-called milk war that has threatened famine to Boston consumers for several months back, fought persistently by the producers and contractors, and which has been the subject of legislative investigation, was last evening officially declared at an end by W. A. Hunter, president of the Consolidated Milk Producers' company.

On Monday the H. P. Hood company capitulated and agreed to pay the producers the winter prices during the remainder of the summer and until May 1, 1911. Yesterday afternoon the three Whiting companies agreed to the demands of the producers. The Boston Dairy company is expected to do the same today.

All producers will resume their shipments as soon as they can secure cans and conveniently do so. No discriminations are to be made because of having withheld milk. Producers are to have the summer and winter rating.

Nothing For Brokers' Creditors

CHOOSES ITALY AS ITS TARGET

Misfortune Comes In Form of Earthquakes and Cyclone

AVELLINO PROVINCE IS SHAKEN

Exact Number of Dead Not Yet Known, but Many Have Been Buried Alive In Ruins—Panic Prevails In Fifty-Mile Area—King, Queen and Government Act Promptly In Aiding Sufferers

Avellino, Italy, June 8.—Tuesday's earthquake, one severe shock and several minor shocks, wrought great havoc throughout the province of Avellino. The entire region, extending for a radius of fifty miles, was thrown into a panic.

While the city of Avellino practically escaped damage, the town of Calitri, thirty-five miles distant, suffered severely. Reports received here indicate that half the buildings in Calitri have been wrecked.

Many were killed in that place, while scores have been badly injured, and scores of others are said to be buried alive in the ruins.

From many other towns and villages come stories of fallen homes, death and suffering.

The convicts at the prison at Benevento became panic stricken and tried to force their way past the guards, but they were overpowered by the troops.

The people of Avellino, although somewhat reassured by the fact that the shocks did not recur, are remaining in the open. Crowds are gathered in the squares and the fields around the town, where are gathered pitiful groups who fear to return to their homes.

This region has suffered much in the past from earthquakes, and in 1851, 800 persons were killed.

The number of casualties resulting from the earthquake yesterday has not yet been definitely ascertained, some of the reports estimating the dead at fifty and the injured at several hundred.

It is feared there are many buried in the ruins of the houses which were thrown down in Calitri, while great damage was done at other places with doubtless a considerable loss of life.

The government has taken hold of the situation with promptitude and the military and civil authorities are hard at work, rendering aid to the injured, preparing places of shelter for the homeless and bending their energies to the re-establishment of order.

Premier Luzzatti received word of the disaster less than two hours after the occurrence of the quake, and he at once communicated the news to the king.

The latter left immediately for the district. He intended to go alone, but Queen Helena insisted on joining him. The king thought that this was not necessary, as the situation at Avellino was not to be compared with that at Messina, where the king and queen spent several days in alleviating the distress of the people.

In reply to the king's protests, Queen Helena retorted: "As my presence is necessary at all festivities it must not lack where the people die and weep. In the south, Italians suffer; therefore I must go. It is my place as a woman and a mother."

Misfortune seems to have chosen Italy as a target. While the south has been afflicted by an earthquake, the vast region of Sardinia, the largest island in the Mediterranean after Sicily, was ravaged yesterday by a violent cyclone. The districts of Lanusei, Tortoli, Ilbono, Elini and Jerzu have been devastated and the crops, vineyards and cattle destroyed.

It is believed many shepherds have followed the fate of their flocks. The damage in Sardinia is estimated at $2,000,000.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FORCED TO CURTAIL HIS OXFORD SPEECH

Roosevelt Reiterates His Race Suicide Doctrine

London, June 8.—Attacked by his old throat trouble, Theodore Roosevelt was compelled to leave part of his Romanes lecture unspoken when he faced the students and scholars of historic Oxford after receiving the degree of doctor of civil law. The lecture, "Biological Analogies in History," was to have been delivered May 18, but King Edward's death prevented.

In his address Colonel Roosevelt demanded the maintenance of "the fighting edge"— the constant preparedness for war and readiness to use the "big stick." Reiterating his race suicide doctrine, the former president again gave his views on the attitude of the white man toward his subject lands.

"The Englishman and the American," he said, "are brought into contact with utterly alien peoples, some with a civilization more ancient than their own, others still in, or having recently arisen from, barbarism. The problems that arise are of well-nigh inconceivable difficulty. They cannot be solved by the foolish sentimentality of stay-at-home people with little patent recipes and those cut-and-dried theories of the political nursery which have such limited applicability amid the crash of elemental forces."

MARGARETTA DREXEL
Becomes the Bride of British Nobleman

BECOMES BRIDE OF NOBLEMAN

Miss Drexel Weds Viscount Maidstone, Who Is Penniless

LONDON SOCIETY TURNS OUT

Every Detail, Even to Name of Church, Arranged to Introduce Flower Name of Bride, Who Wears Golden Train—Ten Bridesmaids Linked by Chain of Real Daisies—Heads Bound With Myrtle Leaves

London, June 8.—London society and English nobility forgot for the moment today the nation's bereavement, for they gathered at St. Margaret's church, Westminster, to witness the wedding of Miss Margaretta Drexel, only daughter of Anthony J. Drexel and wife of London and Philadelphia, and Viscount Maidstone.

Like many international marriages, the groom is a popular but penniless member of England's nobility. The bride, with her brother, Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., who recently married Miss Marjorie Gould in New York, is heir to the Drexel fortune of $60,000,000.

VISCOUNT MAIDSTONE

High British religious and political officialdom graced the nuptials with their presence. The bishop of London, assisted by Canon Benson, rector of St. Margaret's church, performed the ceremony, which was that of the English church.

Not only was the ceremony held in a church bearing Miss Drexel's name, but every detail of the affair was arranged to introduce her flower name.

Her trousseau dresses, made in Paris, were decorated with marguerites. Satin corsets wrought in daisies came from great Paris corsetieres. The Irish lace trimmings, the lingerie and linen was of applique marguerites or crocheted to the same design.

The ten bridesmaids, clad in "angel robes" of white crepe, long and straight, with draped train caught to the sides with daisies, walked hand in hand, linked by a chain of real daisies. They represented Botticelli's equisite allegory of "Spring." Their heads were bound with fillets of fresh green myrtle leaves, crossing their brows and ending over the ears in huge round balls of wild daisies. From the floral bandeaux gauze veils floated to the hems of their satin garments and their footgear of silver leather covered stockings of silver thread especially woven.

The birdesmaids, all tall, of elegant figure, exceedingly handsome, and most of them brunettes like Miss Drexel, made a remarkable following. They were Nellie Post, Mildred Carter, Miss Wayne of Philadelphia, Miss Upton, Lady Gladys Finch-Hatton, the bridegroom's elder sister; Vere Gunning, one of his cousins; Sibly Fellows, Miss C. Combe, Rhoda Astley and Lady Violet Manners, a daughter of the Duke of Rutland.

The bride's dress was a classic robe made to mould Miss Drexel's graceful figure. Soft satin was the material, woven like chifon, ten yards of which might be compressed into a space which would be filled by three-quarters of a yard of the conventional bride's satin. Great simplicity was the keynote of the dress itself, but an artist of note drew the drapery and indicated the main lines of the dress.

Lord Maidstone, an artist himself, helped to choose his bride's wedding attire.

It was, however, the suggestion of Margaretta's sister-in-law Mrs. Anthony Drexel, Jr., that she should have a gold train, so from the shoulders of Miss Drexel's robe swept a manteau de cours of the most magnificent gold cloth, patterned with marguerites, woven especially for her.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

ing is receiving attention everywhere and of course it should be remembered that such training must begin in the home.—Lillian M. Hellen.

LIBRARY EXTENSION.

The Committee have urged that much thought be given this year to every phase of work in the Library of the respective towns of the State. A number of clubs have made suggestions of lists of desirable books to be placed in the Library. A number have contributed subscriptions to magazines. Others have made gifts to their local libraries.

The State Committee have received books from three clubs. The Whitman Club has contributed a regular Traveling Library which was sent to Florida. The Ladies Physiological Institute sent a Traveling Library of many books to a station in North Carolina from which a request had come.

The Brockton Club which has sent two libraries out of the State in past years, at the suggestion of the State Committee this year, have started the nucleus of a library in a settlement of one of the Cape towns where no library was easily available.

The State Committee have sent books to one town in the State where the library has been burned, and to several stations outside the State. The Ex Club of Boston has given a very valuable library of new and modern books which is not yet placed. The committee would again call the attention of clubs to the valuable State Federation Reference Library.

The Settlement work in Tennessee began in Happy Valley early in June, lasting for three months. Our workers report slow but steady improvement. Last summer the Dorchester Woman's Club gave a scholarship which at the request of Miss Henry was given to one of our workers, who, otherwise, would have to give up her plans for an education. This year, the Monday Club of Weymouth, the Woburn Woman's Club and the Pilgrim Women's Literary Club have given scholarships for our Happy Valley children. The Weymouth Club are educating a fine girl, the Woburn Club a most promising boy, and the Pilgrim Women's Literary C'ub a dear little mountain girl, so that now we have quite a colony of children at school at Maryville.—Sara T. S. Leighton.

CIVICS COMMITTEE.

The Civics Committee comprises six departments:—Health, Juvenile Court and Probation Work, Town and Village Improvement, A Saner and Safer Fourth and International Peace, Stamp Savings or School Savings Bank, Junior Civic Leagues.

The "Health Department" includes cure and prevention of tuberculosis with all the branch activities for the prevention of disease. Mrs. Folger, the chairman, strongly recommends segregation of tubercular children—sun and fresh air rooms-day camps the sanitary drinking fountain and the promoting of sex morality and hygiene. The "Traveling Health Library" has visited 13 towns and four other clubs report that these books have been added to the public libraries of their towns. Public sentiment has been aroused to the danger of further ignoring the sex hygiene problem. The Massachusetts women strongly favor a department to promote sex morality and hygiene. The Juvenile Court Work moves slowly. Lack of co-operation in the small towns of the entire court district and not enforcing juvenile delinquent laws in the cities are responsible. Many of the Town and Village Improvement activities have been transferred to public authorities or other organizations. This we consider the highest tribute and the desired result for club pioneer and experimental reforms.

No department of civics ever received more enthusiastic approval than the appeal for A Saner and Safer Fourth and International Peace. 41 clubs report interest in these movements.

Active as the above department has been it has not interfered with the progress of the Stamp and School Bank Savings. 56 clubs conduct this work though many report it transferred to school authorities or to settlements. In answer to the question, "How much money has been deposited since its inauguration?" 32 clubs aggregate $190,796.99.

The Junior Civic League promises to be of much value in securing the co-operation of our boys and girls and particularly in teaching, at an early age, civic duties and responsibilities.

The woman's club has proved itself a wonderful influence in the moral and physical development of the nation, as is now generally recognized and Massachusetts women have contributed their share—lessening disease through intelligent preventive methods, decreasing crime by guarding the child, teaching thrift and promoting true patriotism, through loyalty to civic duties and opportunities.—Esther M. Andrews.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

What is the principle upon which a good business man carries forward to success the large interests that come under his control? Does he send his office boy across seas to buy goods? Does he call a farmer from the country to take charge of his steam heating plant? Does he choose a professor of Greek and Hebrew to inspect, decide upon, and install the machinery for his new mill? No. He simply places the right man in the right man in the right place, and keeps him there—promoting when his ability and experience are needed higher up. He can make a success of his business in no other way, and it is no criticism of the boy, the farmer or the professor that he was not chosen—their abilities all lie in entirely different lines of work. And yet, in administering the government of city, state and nation we repeatedly see men placed in responsible positions who have had absolutely no training or experience in the kind of work they are called to do. Civil Service Reform aims to have the affairs of government conducted upon just the same business principle of putting the right man in the right place.

All advocates of this reform claim that very much money is saved to the taxpayer, that very much better service is rendered, and that extravagance and corruption are in large measure stopped, when the best are thus called to serve the State. As a united band of women, anxious to help this old world to better things we can exert great influence, and your committee has tried the past year to arouse in our clubs a more active interest in this vital subject. In our work during the year we have cause for much encouragement, even though some disappointments have met us along the way.

Peter Cooper used to say "Be sure you're right and then go ahead." We are sure that the Merit System furnishes the only just and right basis upon which to administer the affairs of government, so let us follow his advice and "go ahead," lending our aid whenever and wherever we can. Given a righteous cause, and earnest women back of it, and in the bright lexicon o fthose earnest women, "there's no such word as fail."—Louise Munroe Wood.

Think of Last Summer--
You can remember days when the heat inside your kitchen was so great you could hardly bear it. With the right stove you would have made a better hostess. Save your health. Don't put up with the drudgery of a coal range. You can have a clean, cool, pleasant kitchen. The
New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove

does away with all drudgery of cooking. Why should you be a slave to a coal range when you can have an Oil Cook-Stove that is cheaper than coal, cleaner than coal, doesn't "smell," doesn't smoke, lights instantly, can be put out instantly, leaves no ashes, and doesn't heat the kitchen. With one of these stoves you can boil, bake or roast the most elaborate dinner. You can change from a slow to a quick fire, or the other way about, by simply turning a wick. Apply a match, and instantly the heat from an intense blue flame shoots upward through the turquoise-blue enamel chimneys to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven—but nowhere else. The stove has every convenience that can be thought of: Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping food and dishes hot, drop shelves to hold coffee or teapots, towel rack; in fact every convenience possible.
Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."
The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive.
Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

BRIEFS

It was a delightful morning.

Reception tonight at Bethany church.

Annual meeting of Quincy Historical Society on Saturday at 4.30 P. M.

Mrs. Steven N. Swain of South Quincy is confined to her home by sickness.

A large crowd was out for the band concert in City Square last night. A good program was presented by the National band.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Starr, of Curtis street are receiving the congratulations on the birth of a son, June 7, 1910.

A party of Adams school boys under the leadership of Principal Brooks are today visiting the State House and the Navy Yard at Boston.

The Plumbers and Steam Fitters' union met Tuesday evening in the Johnson building, and listened to a talk by James F. Quinn of New York the international organizer. The meeting was very largely attended.

It has remarked by several that Quincy people do not seem to reverence the flag. At the band concerts which have closed each evening with the playing of "Star Spangled Banner," hardly a hat was seen to come off.

Several members of St. Stephens chapter R. A. M., attended the reception at the Masonic Temple, Boston, on Tuesday evening to Most Excellent Nathan Kingsley, general grand high priest of the general grand R. A. chapter.

Among those receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science in mechanical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on Tuesday afternoon, was Carl F. Doble of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Doble of South street.

Delcevare King ,the chairman of the Quincy Playground Committee of One Hundred, leaves tonight for Rochester, N. Y., where he will attend the annual convention of the Playground Association of America. Thomas Curley, vice president of the Massachusetts League, will accompany Mr. King. The convention continues through this week, and has such eminent speakers as Dr. Luther Gulick and Jacob Riis of New York on the programme.

CARD.

Mrs. Luther M. Bradbury and family of Kent street wish to extend their thanks to their many friends for the kind sympathy received by them in their late bereavement.

Quincy, June 1910. 1t

☞The unique souvenirs being circulated by Sandberg Bros., jewelers in City square, are proving a fine ad. for this well known firm. The souvenir itself is a dial of an Elgin watch. On the back is a pin to fasten them with and in place of the second hand are printed ribbons bearing the firm name. Hundreds have been given away as a glance at passers-by reveals.

BIRTHS.

STARR—In Quincy, June 7, a son to Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Starr of Curtis street.

DEATHS.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

Expense of New Bridge Over Neponset Cut Out

Ought not to pass was the report of the ways and means committee of the House on Tuesday on the bill for rebuilding the bridge over the Neponset river between Quincy and Boston.

The bill to allow inspection of safe deposit boxes of deceased persons was killed 72 to 122. The House, however ,refused to reject the bill for taxation of deposits by a vote of 61 to 122.

The Saunders bill to regulate the transportation and sale of milk was passed to be engrossed.

The Senate favored reference of the Elevated merger bill to the commissions on transit and railroads.

Gov. Draper, has signed the resolve for a commission to determine a plan for the compensation of employees for injuries received in the course of their employment, which was rushed through the senate and house.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Charlotte Morrow is entertaining her sister, Mrs. James W. Brown of Brockton.

Second International Vice President, William P. Doherty of Buffalo, N. Y., of the Blacksmiths' union, addressed th local union at Wilson's hall Tuesday evening.

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas F. Mitchell was held Tuesday afternoon from her late residence 84 Brook street. Services were conducted by Rev. Carl G. Horst. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

SPRISE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Loud of Hollis avenue, Braintree, were very pleasantly surprised, Tuesday evening, by a gathering of about twenty-five relatives from Quincy, Wollaston, and Weymouth ,the occasion being their tenth weddin ganniversary. During the evening Mr. Francis P. Loud of Quincy, recalling the familiar song from Pinafore, "And so do his sisters an dhis cousins and his aunts" presented the couple in behalf of those present and others, a beautiful china dinner set. A few appropriate gifts of tinware, were also made, reminding the geusts of that time honored custom which is gradually disappearing. Mr. W. E. Loud who is well known as a most accomplished violin soloist and teacher, entertained the company with several exquisite numbers. Refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed.

PUBLIC RECORDS.

The appropriation of $3,000, to provide for facilities to properly protect the public records of the city, doubtless saved the City Council from being proceeded against criminally by the State Commissioner of Public Records, as is the case now with the city government of Cambridge. In Cambridge, attention was called to the lack of proper facilities several times without anything being done, as as result the entire board of government has been summoned into court on a crimminal complaint. In Quincy it was necessary for the Commissioner of Public Records to write several times, but nothing was done until the receipt of a communication in which the commissioner said he would proceed against the city unless something was done.

TODAY'S COURT.

Gerardo Capo Bianchi was fined $ 0 for assault at Quincy on Luigi Mazzoli.

AUTO DEALERS AS HOSTS

Unfortunate Little Ones of Boston Are Given Pleasant Outing

Boston, June 8.—The Automobile Dealers' association today gave their annual outing to the blind, crippled and destitute children of Boston.

Over 1000 of the little ones were made happy by a motor car ride to Sharon, where they were given a picnic and a good time in general on the grounds of the Shoreholm Home. Track games and a baseball match by the chauffeurs helped to entertain the children.

Over 400 automobiles were donated by the dealers and private owners of Boston and vicinity, and the start was made from Copley square at 9 o'clock.

—Charles W. Endicott of East Weymouth is reported by his wife as missing since May 26.

EPISCOPALIAN CHOIR FESTIVAL

Sanctuary Choirs Introduced About Sixty Years Ago

On Sunday evening, at Christ church was held an exceedingly devout and up-lifting musical service. Evening prayers chanted by the rector, Reverend Richard E. Armstrong, and responses by the united vested choirs of Braintree, Wollaston and Quincy, under the direction of Prof. Frank Wrigley, organist of Christ church.

The offertory, Te Deum and Anthem were especially well rendered, and the Processional inspiring. Mr. Wrigley, who had given much time in the training of the different choirs and preparation of the music, was heartily congratulated at the close at the harmony and enthusiasm of the choristers. A repetition of this service will be held Sunday afternoon, June 12, at 4 o'clock, in the Congregational church, Braintree, kindly offered to Emmanuel church for the occasion.

In England santuary choirs have been in use for centuries. It is generally supposed, however, they were first introduced into this country at Trinity church, New York city, on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' visit in 1859. But the writer when a small boy, was a member of the Church of the Advent choir, Boston, at least three years previous to that date.

During the Rev. William P. Lunt's pastorate of the Unitarian church in Quincy, he with his son-in-law, Mr. Frothingham, was very desirous of enriching the services of the Adams Temple by the introduction of a surpliced choir and a ritual similar to Kings chapel, even training at his own expense a very efficient number of boys and men for that purpose. The sudden death of Mr. Lunt in the Holy Land in 1857 caused the project to be abandoned.

It was not until ten years later that Christ church's choir was formed. It was first viewed with suspicion as there were but four others in the country; there are now four thousand. It will soon become universal when a liturgy is in use, but not otherwise for obvious reasons.

Elisha Packard.

President Fellows Resigns

Bangor, Me., June 8.—President Fellows has presented his resignation to the trustees of the University of Maine. He will preside at the commencement exercises this week and will perform the usual duties of his office until the resignation has been acted upon.

—Rev. Edward Anderson of Quincy is one of the most interesting Civil war veterans in this vicinity. He gave a talk at West Bridgewater on Memorial day and he has requently spoken in this city. He was colonel of an Indiana regiment during the war and has a fund of stories and statistics that make him much in demand as a speaker and lecturer. He knew Lincoln personally before the latter Brown. The latter told Col. Anderver thought of being president of the United States and he also knew John son once that slavery would be wiped out by the blood of the country's patriotic citizens and the tears of those who would weep for the slain.—Brockton Enterprise.

ECHOES FROM BIG GAME

When Willards Won Championship from Wollastons

Johnson owns West Quincy.

The Wollastons looked much larger than their opponents.

Mayor Shea "got his" when fully 500 healthy lads got around him before he presented Capt. Johnson that loving cup.

The blue coats were as helpless in trying to keep the boys back as ice on a summer day before the sun.

It was indeed amusing to notice the Wollaston players, teachers and scholars going towards home under full steam as the Willardites were receiving their rewards.

Too much credit cannot be given Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, athletic instructor of Quincy public schools, upon the grand success of the Grammar school athletic league. The successful season was in no small measure due to his untiring efforts.

Frank N. Terhune, manager of the shoe department in the Quincy Department store, is very much in the limelight. His idea of presenting the winners with shoes proved a popular move, and he had occasion to wear a broad smile when "Young America" swooped down upon him as he entered the field with the coveted shoes. It is hoped that other merchants will interest themselves another season.

Johnson ,the star pitcher and captain of the pennant winners, has a brilliant future before him. This popular lad was as cool as a cucumber, under fire, and his ability to down opponents, now a matter of history. With good care and coaching he will develop rapidly and in years to come many may have occasion to remark, "I remember Johnson when he first started to pitch for the Willard school at Quincy."

* * *

Among those present were noticed Mayor Shea, City Treasurer Curtis, Captain Egan of the Copelands, President Michael Shea of the Quincy Old Colony league club, Superintendent of Schools Barbour, Councilman John Smith, Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock and others.

Bonafini as a back stop stands out as strong as any youngster who ever donned a mask and was a valuable asset to the winning outfit. The vanquished nine have a fine first baseman in Thompson. This youngster on one occasion came in fast, scooped a grounder and threw to third where a man was caught going into the bag. It was a fine play well executed, showing he had baseball brains.

* * *

Many of the players' parents were present to see their sons on the diamond for the first time. If any of the fathers of the Willard boys who attended, find a shortage in the pay envelope Saturday night, it is safe to say they will not kick. They had the pleasure of seeing a good game of baseball and the honor of having a son with the victors.

GRADUATION DAY AT QUINCY MANSION

Seven States Represented Among the Young Ladies of Class of 1910

Essays of Interest and Music a Feature of Program

Mrs. Willard is heartily congratulated on this, the fourteenth annual commencement, of the Quincy Mansion school. The graduation exercises were held Wednesday afternoon in Livermore hall, which was filled with the pupils, alumnae teachers, parents and friends of the students. Soon after 2 o'clock, lavender and green cords were drawn done the aisles, and the processional, "The Angel of Peace" was taken up by distant voices accompanied by piano and violin. It drew nearer and nearer until the juniors and pupils were within the hall. They continued to the front, where they faced the audience as the seniors in handsome white gowns made their entrance.

Mrs. Willard spoke briefly of her regret at seeing the young ladies leave, saying, it rested with them to decide their life work. She expected much. She liked the old-fashioned graduation, and nothing could make them change from Dr. Willard's way.

The program was:

Processional—Angel of Peace.
Anthem—"O come, let us sing unto the Lord."
Prayer. Rev. William J. Heath, D. D.
Salutatory, Miss Roby, Miss Crowell
To Granville Miss Jewell
The Girl Graduate Miss Welch
Historic Quincy Miss Badger
Piano Solo—Rondo in E flat—Hummel
Miss Loring
The development of the Professional Nurse Miss Covey
The Consumers' League Miss Miner
Chorus—"The Swallow's Return."
"O, Golden Days of Summer"
Class History Miss Richards
My Negro Mammy Miss Tarkington
Valedictory Miss Minor
Presentation of Diplomas
Presentation of Class Picture
Miss Drake
Unveiling of Picture Miss Roby
Song Bertha Cushing Child
Benediction

On account of her health, Miss Roby was excused and Miss Crowell delivered the salutatory address. Instead of her paper "The Grand Canyon," Miss Jewell gave an interesting account of the little hamlet of Granville up among the New Hampshire hills.

"The Girl graduate," by Miss Welch, told of many things a girl of moderate means may do. It depends on ambition. She considered good housekeeping necessary, and telling of the many talents of a married woman she knew, proved that a college education is not useless for good home-making.

Miss Badger said we should all be proud of Quincy's historic past. Merymount illustrated the romantic side, and she told of the Dorothy Q. and Adams houses, John Hancock's birthplace, the first railway, etc.

A delightful variation in the program was the piano solo by Miss Loring, which was admirably rendered, and showed not only careful training but her natural ability.

Miss Covey's paper on the "Development of the professional nurse, began with the Eastern wars, and told how it had grown from a simple beginning centuries ago, to the present. She paid high tribute to Florence Nightingale and our Clara Barton.

Miss Miner showed her thorough knowledge of the work of the Consumer's League, started by women in New oryk, which has proved a power. She said the unsanitary conditions of many work shops was appalling; that the label guaranteed garments made under healthy conditions, and she asked all highminded women and girls to do the little the leagues asks of them.

Miss Richard's class history told of the many good times during the past year, and of the enjoyment when Mrs. Ward, Dr. Richard Burton, Rev. Father Van Allen, Dr. Heath and Rev. Mr. Clattenburg were their guests. She said Mr. Clattenburg, who left at Easte was missed a great deal by his friends at Quincy Mansion school.

Miss Tarkington gave a glimpse of her home in telling of her own Negro Mammy. She pictured Mammy, the old time Southern darkey, sitting under an oak tree in June, with a Kentucky cardinal singing over head; of the instinctive trust, and sweet forgetfulness when rocked by Mammy, while she sings "The moon am shinin' bright." Of Mammy's pride in her child way off in Yankee land. In closing Miss Tarkington sang with all the sweetness and warm touch of nature of the south land, one of mammy's negro melodies that left a longing for more.

Miss Minor, valedictorian, spoke of the school days over, and said no one could understand the feeling. All felt the inspiration of the founder of the school, Dr. Willard; of Mrs. Willard's help and high ideals; and she hoped the class motto "Vincit qui se

NORFOLK CONFERENCE

Interesting Addresses and Discussions at Wollaston

The summer session of the Norfolk Conference of Unitarian churches opened in the Wollaston Unitarian church on Wednesday morning, about 200 being present. George Kuhn Clarke of Needham, president of the conference, delivered a short but hearty address of welcome.

Rev. A. W. Littlefield of Brookline, in the address of the morning upon "The present uses of the church," declared reverence the thing to be most sought for.

The discussion was opened by S. Herbert Howe, who has been a shoe manufacturer in Marlboro for over 50 years. His parish has been the shoeshop, said Mr. Howe, and his congregation the help. For 50 years he and his help had been endeavoring to put on the market the best shoe possible.

The devotional service was led by Rev. Charles W. Casson of Dorchester, after which the morning session adjourned.

At noon those present enjoyed a box lunch, the invited guests, ministers and their wives being served a luncheon by the following committee composed of ladies of the church: Mrs. E. J. Cummings, Mrs. F. A. Page, Mrs. Charles S. Adams, Mrs. Nathan S. Robinson, Mrs. Walter J. Wellington, Mrs. Newell O. Parker, Mrs. Rufus F. Leach, Mrs. David T. Whiton, Mrs. Charles S. Comins and Mrs. Roy C. Baker.

Rev. Ellery C. Butler of Quincy opened the afternoon session with a praise service. An address on Theodore Parker followed by his successor, Rev. E. S. Meredith of West Roxbury. This is the centennial of Parker's birth and when the audience were asked how many had heard him, nine stood up.

In an address, "Why our churches ought to be interested in temperance" Rev. Charles F. Doble, D. D., of Jamaica Plain, said that was much, as the church is interested in civilization it ought to be interested in temperance, for where intemperance is, civilization will not succeed.

During the afternoon a most pleasing vocal solo by Mrs. R. L. Turner of Wollaston was enjoyed.

At the Chestnut Hill dog show under the auspices of the Ladies' Kennel club, Mrs. H. H. Kitson's fine St. Bernard "William the Survivor" won the championship medal, winning the first prize among the winners after winning the first limit and first open prize. As the dog is but two years old this is a most unusual record, as he has not yet reached full developement.

RECEPTION TO MME. MOREY

And Members of Choir of Bethany Church

The popularity of Madame Ellen Beale Morey or organist and musical director at Bethany church was shown Wednesday evening when a large number of the church people attended a reception in the chapel, given under the auspices of the music committee to the director and soloists, and the regular choir and the boys' choir.

The receiving line in the ladies' parlor was a long one, including Mme. Morey and the members of the regular choir, at times nearly twenty. The members of the music committee and others acted as ushers, viz: Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw, W. F. Sidelinger, Mrs. George Badger, Mrs. E. V Fitts, Mrs Kate L. Keast and members of the choir.

Flowers were everywhere adding their beauty and fragrance to the occasion.

After the reception, the pastor Rev. D. Hardy, spoke words of appreciation of the director, the soloist and both choirs. An enjoyable program followed including an English glee, by the regular choir; a duett, "When the wind bloweth in from the sea," by Mrs. Moore and Albert L. Hayden; a selection by the boy's choir, a group of songs by Miss Moore, a sketch of Chopin by Mme. Morey, who gave one of his preludes and a waltz on the piano.

Deacon R. D. Chase was introduced to give a vocal selection, but spoke at length, recalling musical events of years ago, and in appreciation of the music at Bethany church, and in conclusion presented Mme. Morey a purse of $25 in gold, and a box of confectionery. She also received a prettily frosted cake.

Mme. Morey spoke at length in acceptance of the gifts, and expressing appreciation of courtesies extended during the five years.

After the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by all, the committee served punch and cake.

The regular choir today includes: Mrs. Emma S. Moore, Miss Winifred White, Miss Laura Hayward, Mrs. Charles England, Miss Ida Mattson, Mrs. Harry W. Titus, Miss Nellie Souter Miss Mary Murray, Mrs. Walter Emery, Miss Rachel Munroe, Miss Helen West Mrs. John Keast, and Messrs Albert J. Hayden, Richard Bishop Bishop, John C. Pierce, Clarence E. Fuller, R. C. McNairn, Carl R. Hayward, Walter P. Emery, B. B. Tourtellot, Harry Bates, Eddie Hayden and E. I. Beal.

QUINCY MAN CHAIRMAN.

Governor Draper sent to the council on Wednesday appointments to a number of commissions. Of these Col. Charles H. Porter of this city is named as the chairman of the Petersburg Memorial Commission with James Anderson of Springfield and Gustave Magnitsky of Boston. The members of the other commissions are:

Valley Forge memorial: Brig.-Gen. Philip Reade, Samuel Crowell and Charles I. Thayer of Boston.

Myles Garrison Commission: Henry E. Lovering of Taunton, chairman; Louis F. Sturtevant of Swansea, and Joseph Grafton Minot of Boston.

—An open race will be sailed on Saturday under the auspices of the Dorchester and Savin Hill Yacht clubs, in connection with the Dorchester day celebration.

ANOTHER GALA DAY ON SATURDAY

Parade of Quincy Fire Department and Several Contests for Silver Cups

Last Day of the Merchants' Week Carnival

An opportunity to see some handsome and well groomed horses looking at their best will be offered on Saturday, when the parade of the entire Fire department of the city takes place. The Fire department horses always look well, as they are given good care. The firemen are giving them an extra touch up this week, however, in anticipation of the parade, as the drivers hope to carry off the silver cups offered by the Merchants' association for the best looking teams. Five silver cups are offered. One for the best three-horse hitch, one for the best two-horse hitch, and one for the best single horse hitch.

In addition to this, cups wil l be given to the company which makes the best time. In this contest, the several Hose companies will run a certain distance, lay a length of hose, make fast to a hydrant, and get water through the line.

After the Hose companies have completed their trial, the Hook and Ladder companies will give an exhibition. The ywill take a ladder from the carriage raise it and place a man on top of the ladder. The company which makes the best time gets a cup.

In addition to this, the new Steamer will show what she can do in the way of throwing water through single and double lines of hose, and in throwing water through the Hart gun attached to Combination No. 1, and through the water tower that has recently been attached to combination Hook & Ladder No. 1.

The trial of the apparatus will take place shortly after 3 o'clock. At about that hour the several pieces of apparatus will enter City Square from the different avenues and from into lines for a short parade through the streets adjacant to City Square. The trials will then take place in City Square.

E. J. Murphy and Nathan Ames, the committee in charge, have not selected the judges, but are in hopes of getting some of the Chief Engineers in adjoining towns to officiate. This is the last day of Merchants' Week and another big gala day is anticipated. Band concerts will be given afternoon and evening.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Nicaraguan armies are marching around each other in victorious style.

The world is progressing toward universal peace. The Senate appropriated $12,000,000 for big battleships.

It is said that 100 persons drop dead every day in the United States. This record will be greatly swelled on the day that Billy Lorimer resigns from the Senate.

The strawberry-as-big-as-a-hen's egg report is just as reliable as the hailstone story and much more cheerful.

Why shouldn't Mr. Cannon deliver a lecture upon fuss and fury? If a man doesn't know his own specialty, what does he know?

The fact is just beginning to dawn on the American people, that we no longe govern ourselves; we really live under an imperial overnment, and the Federal Courts constitute the Emperor, for the Federal Judges are appointed by the great corporations, and these judges almost invariably uphold the rapacity and oppression which we suffer at the hands of the corporations. The laws that Congress pass, do not amount to any more than the laws of the Russian Douma, where they are aimed at corporate abuses, and yet we ridicule the Douma.

It would not usually be sound advice for a Mayor to tell any organization to storm City Hall and demand its rights. It savors considerable of mob rule. Yet Mayor Shea was safe when he told the Grand Army veterans that they should thus make known their needs if they were ignored. All honor to the Grand Army and the veterans of the Civil war. It is not asking too much of the city to provide a home for its local G. A. R. post when their ranks are so thinned that annual dues will not meet current expenses. Whether the city purchase or rent a hall may be a question, but in either case the Post and its auxiliaries should have the sole use of it, that they may fit it up as a museum or memorial hall. The purchase of the present headquarters has been suggested, but is there not some more desirable building; some old homestead which has been well preserved, which has a large reception room? The estate of the late Dr. Everett on Miller Stile road would be almost ideal for a memorial building, but the estate as a whole would be too expensive. If the house and a limited amount of land could be secured we would heartily recommend it.

But there must be other houses centrally located that could be utilized with some remodelling. Perhaps the real estate men could suggest several, which are in the market. Possibly the "Curtis" house, on the corner of School and Gay streets; the "Daniel Baxter" estate, on School street near the bridge; or the "Amos Churchill" house, near the present headquarters. Of course the estate of the late Col. Packard is not in the market, but the house for its associations would make an ideal Memorial hall for the veterans of the Civil war; for it was Col. Packard who led the first regiment to the front. Suggestions of other estates are invited.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The Rev. A. A. Berle of Boston says that "culturally the Boston schools have steadily declined in the past 15 or 20 years and today they have probably lost whatever distinction they once had in the public schools education of the country. The State Board of education has taken on fresh life, but in many respects Massachusetts is 15 years behind some of the newer states."

Can this be true? Have the schools of this State and of Boston lost their leadership? Is it no longer "cultured" Boston? Is the Bay State no longer in the lead in educating the people? For years the people of this State have taken to themselves the sweet satisfaction of feeling that when it came to the matter of education they led the way. A lot of people in other parts of the country have felt the same way. They have taken Massachusetts and incidentally Boston as models in many places, and have patterned after this part of the nation. If the State or its cities have "gone back," as Mr. Berle says, it is time that some action was taken to remedy such a state of affairs. In education and in shoes Massachusetts must not be allowed to take second place.—Brockton Enterprise.

All is not yet known of what is under the crust of our globe. The chief wonders of the Yellowstone regions are the boiling springs, and the intermittent geysers. One theory is that subterranean waters coming into contact with chemical agents generate heat and steam at intervals which find vent in the form of boiling hot geysers. But now comes a new geyser which once in every 24 hours throws a stream of ice-cold water to an immense height. The temperature o fthe earth rises as the surface is left, and the lower teh depth the higher the heat. This harmonizes with the geyser theory, but where does the ice-cold water come from?—Lynn Item.

Mrs. Hathaway's gift to the city of New Bedford of a tract of land on Union and Court streets for a play ground for young children is a fine display of generosity and public spirit. The conditions which she suggests are entirely reasonable, and should commend themselves to the favor of the city council, as no doubt they will to the people of this city. To Mrs. Hathaway's happy foresight, the dwellers in a large section likely to be devoted exclusively to modest homes will owe thankfulness for many years to come.—New Bedford Standard.

The amount of the lawyer's fees in the long will contest over the Russell estate in Boston has reduced its value from $750,000 to $160,000. In the old frugal days great lawyers were more modest, Rufus Choate was accustomed to taking cases for a fee of fifty dollars, and Aaron Burr, a most successful practitioner, did not come to infamy because he charged less, Daniel Webster, in the greatest period of his career, never earned more than $20,000 a year. But, of course, living is more expensive than it was in those days. And lawyers must live too.—Haverhill Gazette.

TOWER FAMILY REUNION.

The second annual reunion of the descendants of John Tower (I), will be held at the old homestead in Hingham, June 17, 18, 19. At the first reunion last year this family established the record of the greatest attendance of the descendants of one man at any reunion ever held in America; 427 registered and the estimated attendance in excess of 500. The Tower Geneological Society was formed as a result of the first reunion, and it smembers over 220 in number, will hold their second annual meeting at Wilder Memorial hall South Hingham, on the second day of the reunion. An address by one of the most prominent members of the family will be a feature of the meeting. There will be other addresses by prominent speakers. A musical program will be carried out during the reunion and the gathering already promises to surpass the great record of last year.

"PARAGON PARK."

Manager George A. Dodge has prepared an elborate program for the gala opening of the sixth successful season of "Paragon Park" and the Palm Garden at Nantasket beach, Saturday, June 11. As usual, festivity will be the watchword. All is bright, and new nad cheerful for another season at this ideal seaside park.

One of the most distinctive new features will be a new statuary fountain which rises majestically from the centre of the lagoon. It will be seen to special advantage at night when the countless founts of water mount high in the air in ever changing colors. The Martland Military band, conducted by Mace Gay will play in the band stand on the lagoon from 2.30 to 5.30 and 7 to 10 daily.

Manager Dodge will surpass all his previous efforts in the way of a firework's display on the opening night. Halley's Comet will be realistically reproduced. A unique Italian pyrotechnic program will paint the heavens with spectacular fire in every form and color. The array of free circus acts is more imposing than ever.

THE LORIMER ELECTION CASE

Resume of the Charges Made Against the United States Senator From Illinois.

Counter Accusations of the "Blond Boss"---How the Sensational Exposures Were Begun.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE Lorimer case is the big link in a chain of bribery charges that has wound itself about various American states and cities. Perhaps it is not the last link. That is a matter which only the future can disclose. At least it is the link now most prominent in the public view. Two separate investigations are under way in relation to the Lorimer charges, one by Illinois grand juries, the other by the United States senate. Prior to these came another investigation by a Chicago newspaper, culminating in the publication of the famous White confession.

Lorimer has been in the senate scarcely a year. Elected by a bipartisan combination consisting of fifty-five Republicans and fifty-three Democrats, his victory could scarcely have been more dramatic if it had been planned for its stage effects alone. For one thing, the extra session was still struggling with the tariff bill, and his vote was needed. For another, he was chosen on the ninety-fifth ballot after the longest senatorial deadlock in the history of Illinois and one of the longest ever seen in the nation. For a third, the two party alliance by which he won success was unusual. For a fourth, his candidacy was scarcely whispered until the very day and almost the very hour of his triumph. William Lorimer, former newsboy, bootblack, packing house employee and street car conductor, certainly entered the United States senate in a sensational manner. It is just possible that his exit from the body will be still more sensational.

LEE O'NEIL BROWNE AND SENATOR WILLIAM LORIMER.

The "Blond Boss."

Lorimer was born in Manchester, England, in 1861 and is said never to have gone to a regular school a day in his life. He was a breadwinner from the time he was ten years old. He does not drink, smoke, chew or swear, is a member of the Y. M. C. A., is devoted to his wife and eight children and a model family man, never goes back on a friend, standing by him even after he has gone to jail, though relentless in punishing treachery; has become wealthy and recently organized a bank, served in the house for sixteen years before entering the senate, is called the father of the deep waterway ship canal scheme, is also called the "blond boss," is a very silent man, who looks benevolent and innocent, and has long been charged with representing certain undesirable elements and "interests" in Chicago.

The present exposure began with the publication in the Chicago Tribune of a confession from Representative Charles A. White that he had received $1,000 for his vote for Lorimer and $900 from the legislative "jack pot." He said that the man who had paid him the money was Lee O'Neil Browne, the Democratic leader of the house. Grand jury investigations were at once started, and several indictments were returned, including one against Browne. To escape prosecution Representatives Beckmeyer and Link also confessed that they had received money for Lorimer votes. State Attorney John E. W. Wayman of Cook county and State Attorney Edmund Burke of Sangamon county both became very busy, and the grand juries of Chicago and Springfield continued uncovering the facts. The sons unknown. He showed that he could be eulogistic as well as denunciatory. The chief subject of his praises was Lee O'Neil Browne, the Democratic house leader, then under indictment for having bribed White to vote for Lorimer. Browne was painted in alluring colors, almost as charming as those with which the senator's own rise in politics was bedecked. It was a vehement speech, even though typewritten, and drew a full house. Unfortunately the news of it was blanketed by another of those pesky confessions. Grand juries are unsympathetic bodies, lacking in true regard for rhetorical flourishes and dramatic effects. At the very hour when Lorimer was making his impassioned utterance at Washington the grand jury at Springfield was extracting from State Senator Holstlaw an admission that he was paid $2,500 to vote for the "blond boss." It seems that state senators come higher than the common or garden variety of legislators. Holstlaw had been a banker, Sunday school teacher, charity worker and respectable citizen generally, and his confession carried weight. Moreover, John Broderick, another state senator whom Holstlaw charged with having handled the money, rather confirmed the statement by hiding out and eluding arrest for two or three days. Further corroboration was discovered in a $2,500 deposit slip from Holstlaw dated the very day he had previously sworn that Broderick handed him the amount. This was the most damaging testimony yet, and when the Lorimer speech bumped into it in the next morning's papers there was a collision that could be heard across the continent.

Lorimer Demands an Investigation.

At the end of his typewritten oration Lorimer introduced a resolution to investigate the charges against him. This the senate decided to do, even going the senator from Illinois one better and making the inquiry broader and more thorough than he had designed. It is the first case of the sort that has been before the body since that of William A. Clark, the copper king. In many respects the two are startlingly alike. Clark was elected as a Democrat, but by the aid of Republican votes. Marcus Daly, Clark's personal, political and financial enemy, thereupon charged fraud, and the case was taken up by the committee on privileges and elections. In the hearings that followed it seemed that all the political dirty linen of Montana was run through the senate washer and hung out to dry in Uncle Sam's front yard. In the end Clark resigned before there was time to expel him, but was reappointed by the governor.

Another case similar to that of Clark and Lorimer was that of Henry B. Payne of Ohio. It was alleged that there was Standard Oil money behind Payne. The report in that case held that a member's seat cannot be saved by his personal exculpation and vindication. The integrity of the election, not of the member, is in question.

One would have to delve into ancient senate history to find other parallels. Through all the same rule has been observed—viz, that demonstrated bribery and fraud in an election cannot be overlooked by the United States senate. It requires a two-thirds vote to expel, but accused members frequently have resigned before actual expulsion was reached. The report of the senate committee on privileges and elections of a quarter of a century ago speaks forcibly on the matter:

"Your committee is aware of the transcendent importance of throwing around the senate of the United States the highest safeguards against seating or allowing any man to occupy a seat in that body whose title thereto was procured by bribery, fraud or corruption. The indiscriminate and frequently the corrupt use of money by political parties without exception and their candidates has become one of the most powerful and dangerous instrumentalities in elections."

May Go Over to Short Session.

It is the same committee that is investigating Lorimer, and as precedent is powerful in the body these former cases give a clear line on the probable action on his own. It is hardly to be expected that any conclusion can be reached during the present session. Several members of the committee on privileges and elections are candidates in this year's campaign, so that the probable course is the appointment of a subcommittee composed of holdover senators who will sit during the recess either in Washington or in Illinois and report their findings to the full committee at the meeting in December.

One effect of the Lorimer exposures has been a revival of the argument for popular election of senators. The fact that former Senator Hopkins had received a plurality in the Republican state primaries has lent force to the contention. It is not without interest—and encouragement—that seventy members of the majority party in the legislature felt themselves bound by this popular mandate and stuck by Hopkins to the end.

There were stormy scenes on the floor during that final vote. Charges of bribery were uttered even then, and Lee O'Neil Browne, the storm center of the present cyclone, was denounced by at least one irate member. But Lorimer was as bland and benevolent as ever and had good feelings for everybody, including Hopkins. The fresh flower in his coat lapel looked not more innocent than he. Benignant he was, almost fatherly, as he thanked his supporters in both parties and smiled indulgently on his foes. It was a long battle that he had fought and one in which his enemies had more than once proclaimed the downfall of the "blond boss." Have they got him at last?

Has Been a Warwick.

Lorimer claims to have made Hopkins senator, as aforetime he made Yates governor. Then when he wanted to use Yates to beat Deneen in the 1908 primaries he charged Hopkins with having deserted him. When Deneen and Hopkins succeeded in the primaries Lorimer's enemies charged him with having supported Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for governor. Certain it is that Stevenson ran something like 100,000 votes ahead of his ticket. In the succeeding legislature a faction of the Republicans and the Democrats united and elected the speaker, and Lorimer was also held responsible for this. Then the senatorial deadlock ensued, out of which emerged the smiling face of the one time English lad who had sold papers and blacked boots to keep a widowed mother, had become the political boss of the second city in the Union and had finally been one of two men to represent a proud state in the foremost legislative body on earth.

In Chicago they used to call him Billy, and he looks the name. Of late they refer to him as "senator" in quotation marks. Whatever the outcome of the present scandal, there have been at least three occasions when he played a striking part. One was when he joined a bolt for Blaine in the Minneapolis convention, another when he defied Speaker Reed and led a revolt in favor of declaring war against Spain, and the third was at the time when the Yates cause seemed lost in the state convention Lorimer mounted the platform and waved a Yates banner until he stampeded the convention and nominated his man.

In Illinois the senatorship to which he succeeded has been held but one term by any one man since the days of John A. Logan. It is therefore dubbed the "hoodoo senatorship." Is it to prove a "hoodoo" to Billy Lorimer, the "blond boss?"

¶ Women are more interested in store news, than news of the world. Seventy percent of the retail buying is done by women, and the balance is largely influenced by women. The advertising columns of the big Sunday papers are eagerly read by the housewife, by the daughter, and by women in all walks of life. The merchants in the large cities realize this and take liberal space in the papers to put their goods before the public. Their "ads" are well written, nicely planned, properly balanced and attractively arranged, and the more they advertise the larger their store grows. Attract the attention of women by your advertising and the men will soon follow suit.

What about YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

Do you turn your stock over as often as you would like?

The very stock that you carry on your shelves until it becomes shopworn, is being brought into Quincy every day by Quincy people who watch the Boston "ads."

When the manufacturer's salesmen put a new line of goods on your shelves, and the manufacturer begins a bill-board and magazine advertising campaign, why don't you, Mr. Merchant, let the people know that you have those goods to sell.

It takes time and money to introduce new goods and the manufacturer of today spends his money liberally to tell the people the good points of his wares and create a demand.

Now About YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

With the manufacturer spending money to help you, what are you doing to help yourself?

Do you let the people know that you carry the goods that are so well advertised by the manufacturer?

¶ Any business must grow under the influence of advertising. An occasional "ad" will bring some results, but think what a well written "ad" and continuous publicity will do.

"I---y S--p—It floats" you know what those few letters mean. Advertising did it, and will continue to do it.

¶ We know you are desirous of increasing your business, and The Ledger would be pleased to help you get the business.

¶ Quincy merchants carry a good quality of goods, and The Ledger goes into the homes of the people that buy these good goods.

¶ Help Quincy grow; keep Quincy money in Quincy; and bring more money into Quincy by patronizing the advertising columns of The Ledger today, tomorrow and every day.

The man who wrote this "ad." will write yours,

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

One of the French classes is planning to present the play "Le Voyage de monsier Perridron" before school closes.

There is now less than a week more of school.

Under the careful care of Mr. Hart the school lawns are now in excellent condition.

The Holliston High School plans to give a prize speaking drill. The school quartet will furnish the music. A speaking drill next year would be very beneficial to the Quincy High school. It is now necessary to omit speaking almost entirely.

The debarring of three players from the baseball nine, because they had broken training rules by smoking, has put a damper on the spirits of the whole team. The offence was discovered on the return from the Brockton game. Recently a meeting of the players was called by the Athletic Committee and the players who had committed the breach of training were told their fate. This action has neccessitated quite radical changes in the line up. In the Abington game, yesterday, Barry was put in first, a position which he showed was well suited for him; O'Connor covered shot stop; Harold Miller '10 was sent into centre field, while Manager Veale went to right field. Considering everything the team showed up well in the new formation. Only two more games are scheduled to be played: June 10, Hingham at Hingham; and June 15 with the fast Waltham nine at Waltham. Some of the school wish these games to be cancelled under the conditions which have arisen, and declare the hope that the Abington game be the last this season. Others, however, wish the nine to continue and show the school has resources and is indaunted by the loss of a third of the nine.

Quincy High was represented by a relay team at the Merchants' Week races on Saturday conposed of Robert Cranshaw, Everett Prout, Chas. H. Kendall and Franz Marceau.

Because of the changes in the baseball nine the game with Rockland for June 6 was cancelled.

• • •

Yesterday the nine suffered defeat when Abington High scored six runs to Quincy's five.

If the schedule is followed a return game with Hingham High School will be played June 10, and a game with Waltham High June 15 both away from home.

At present, of the thirteen games played, nine have been victories, many of them decisive, and only four defeats.

Recently a committee of six was elected by the Junio class to bring in nominations for the Goldenrod editors for next year. The committee was composed of three of the English teachers, Miss Marion Chadbourne, Miss Marie Bass, and Miss Mary Brown; also from the class, Artemus Dingwell, Annie Allen and Dorothy Darling. The election on Tuesday resulted as follows:

Editor-in-Chief—Dorothy Darling.
Literary editor—Sidney Crane.
Exchange Editor—Doris Straw.
Local Editor—Philip Rice.
Athletic Editor—Milard Chapman.
Business Manager—Paul Blackmur.
Artist—Clara Bushnell.

Let us hope that next year's "Goldenrod" will surpass even this year's with such an editorial staff. It will be noted that for next year a new office has been added, namely that of Artist.

It is expected that the next issue of the "Goldenrod" will be out June 11, so as to ready for distriblution Monday. Many novel features have been added in the effort to better the production. The size will be enlarged. The editors have worked hard that this edition may "cap the climax" in quality.

There was considerable interest in the inter-class athletic meet at Merrymount park last Friday, and some of the school records were broken. The events were reported at length in the Daily Ledger of Saturday. The class of 1911 won with 37 points.

That Boston faces a most serious problem in providing for its high school pupils was made plainly evident by facts brought out at Monday evening's meeting of the school committee, says the Transcript, when the committee passed over the mayor's veto the appropriation of $300,000 for the new High School of Commerce building. Chairman R. Clipston Sturgis of the Schoolhouse Commission was present and, after referring to the increase in the high school population, which had almost doubled in six years, declared that the cost per pupil in the High schools is between $400 and $600 as compared with $135 for the elementary grades.

The Swiss of the middle class have a unique and inexpensive method of extending education. It consists in an exchange of school children between the cantons that speak different languages. For instance ,a family in a German-speaking canton sends a high school pupil to a family of about the same social standing in a French or Italian-speaking canton, which family in turn sends a pupil of about the same age and grade to the former family. Each takes the place of the absent one in the home.

The object is primarily to have these pupils get practical experience in the respective languages, which they have learned theoretically in school; but many other benefits accrue from this new association. changed scene, and consequently enlarged mental horizon.

In this country, where only one language is spoken, the primary object of such exchanges does not exist. But would not our children gain a broader outlook through such a change of association and of scene?

It has been suggested that lower grade pupils spend their vacations away from home and school and familiar scenes ,that they may return fully refreshed to their lessons. Might not such a system of mutual exchange carried out during vacation period come as a great boon to parents unable otherwise to give their children this needed change?—Journal of Education.

School sports cost money and the funds do not come any easier in Brockton than some other places. The Enterprise of Tuesday tells how the Brockton High committee raised $200 to cancel a debt.

Realizing the danger of school athletics, at Brockton, if the present baseball team should close its season with a debt, the student body, at a mass meeting this morning pladged nearly $200 for the deficit in the athletic treasury.

"The members of the baseball team aroused to the fact that the team coash might be dropped and the remaining games on the schedule cancelled, planned a varied attack on the student body. At the conclusion of opening exercises Head Master C. T. C. Whitcomb called up Capt. William A. Roland to say a few words about the present season. He told of the $200 debt which has been incurred. and also of the very dangerous position of school athletics.

"Harry Johnson, president of the senior class, said that it was no wonder that the Brockton High school could not put a championship team on the field with the kind of support that the school gave them.

"Miss Inez Packard, one of the most prominent young ladies of the senior class, made an appeal to the girls of the school to support the boys and show them that they had school spirit.

"President Leslie C. Chamberlain of the junior class said: "It would be a disgrace if the news should spread over the State that the athletics in the Brockton High school were dropped because the student body could not or rather would not support them."

"Miss Lelia C. Weston, vice president of the junior class spoke further to the girls. "The school ought to have a track team ,and a basketball team besides football and baseball team," she said, "and are we girls going to stay asleep or are we going to wake up?"

"George W. Washburn of the senior class told of the necessities of a coach. "How much would you learn," he said, "without an instructor in French, Latin, Greek or geometry? It is exactly the same in baseball."

"James Collins, a prominent member of the graduating class, and a follower of athletics in the school, spoke of the inside baseball taught by the coach and urged the school to hold the team up. "The team has not been defeated on its home grounds this year and has only tasted defeat three times," he said. "That is a record to be proud of. Let's show the team we are proud of it."

"Then came the testing of school spirit in the student body. Capt. Roland asked those who did not want to see the baseball season suffer disgrace pledge a small sum. The members of the team then distributed printed slips throughout the school, and the result netted the necessary $200 for the athletic treasury."

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

NAMES FOR SCHOOLHOUSE

"Montclair" not Accepted by The Majority

Editors of Daily Ledger:

There is considerable controversy as to the name of the new Ward Six schoolhouse. A small faction desire the name "Montclair School" but as the school is not situated in Montclair but in Belleview Park, this would be misleading. Again, but very small portion of the children who will attend the school will be from Montclair. It would seem as though a name with a broader significance than either of these would be more appropriate.

Quincy has just lost a man who has been most active educationally, and a most honorable upright business man in the former member of the School Committee, Mr. Dexter E. Wadsworth. Would it not be a graceful and fitting tribute to give the name of Wadsworth to the new school?

Another man of great intellectual weight, of whom Quincy mourns the loss is the late William Everett, formerly principal of Adams Academy A school house would be a most suitable monument to this greatly loved man.

Almost all the other Quincy schools have the names of prominent men. We should dislike to see this beautiful new school house have a name bearing no local significance.

CONDITIONS IN LYMAN SCHOOL

Legislature Asked to Conduct Probe of Sweeping Nature

TREATMENT ACCORDED BOYS

Alleged to Be So Intolerable as to Drive a Fourteen-Year-Old Inmate to Suicide—Order Asks That Committee Place Responsibility For the Act and Find Out Whether Punishment Is Unduly Severe

Boston, June 9.—The house of representatives is to be asked to start an investigation of conditions in the Lyman industrial school at Westboro as the result of the suicide of John Newman, 14 years old, at that institution.

The order providing for the investigation was introduced by Representative Mellen of Worcester. It is one of the most comprehensive orders submitted to the present legislature, providing as it does for an investigation of the entire system of corporal punishment in use in the institution.

The demand for an investigation is the outcome of the revelations of two years ago, when it was found that boys in the institution had been punished with the end of rubber hose. The order is as follows:

"That it is the sense of the house of representatives that conditions tending to drive a 14-year-old boy to suicide as a means of finding relief from conditions at the Lyman school are too intolerable to be countenanced by the commonwealth.

"That a committee of five members of the house, to be chosen by the speaker, shall be appointed to investigate the suicide of John Newman of Cambridge at the Lyman school for boys on the evening of June 7. Said committee shall ascertain the treatment acacorded to boys committed to said institution, whether or not it is unduly severe, the extent to which corporal punishment is resorted to, whether or not other methods of punishment are made use of by the authorities there, and for what cause punishment of any kind is meted out to the inmates of the school.

"Full information shall be secured as to what constitutes an infraction of the rules, the extent to which the superintendent controls the situation, and the power given to his subordinates.

"The report shall include a description of the implements used in inflicting punishment upon the inmates, and the number of blows allowed by the rules for each particular implement.

"The committee shall be allowed to incur expenses of $500 in the investigation, and to summon witnesses. The report is to be made by the committee as soon as possible, recommending what action is necessary, in the case of the suicide of John Newman, fixing the responsibility for that act, and also shall recommend what action, if any, is necessary to remove any suspicion of barbarity that may exist in the methods of punishment in vogue at the Lyman school."

MR. BUSINESS MAN!

Would you deliberately expose your wife or child to sickness by sending either of them out to deliver a message on a raw, stormy night?

Would you care to go yourself?

THINK A MINUTE!

Your wife, or some member of your family, is obliged to do this very thing,—perhaps go way in town on some domestic errand nearly every day,—unless there is a telephone in the house to do it for them.

If you have not a telephone, don't you think you owe one to your wife and family as a safeguard to their health?

The cost is but a few cents a day.

BRIEFS

The band concerts in City Square each evening are very popular, and attract great crowds of people.

Clifton Allen Fratue of Hancock street sailed today for Europe where he will spend a few months travelling.

The musical service by the Wollaston, Braintree and Quincy choirs will be held at Emmanuel Church, Braintree on Sunday, and not in the Congregational church as announced. The service will be at 4 o'clock.

The Granite City club kept open house Wednesday evening and entertained a number of visitors as well as members. Morris orchestra was present and gave a pleasing concert and after the stores had closed ice cream and cake was served.

"GOOD AND AMPLE CAUSE"

Wheeler Makes No Denial of Having Deserted His Wife

New York, June 9.—Light was thrown upon the suit for separation brought by Claudia C. Wheeler against Albert G. Wheeler, Jr., when the papers in the suit were filed in the county clerk's office.

Mrs. Wheeler charges that her wealthy husband deserted her. He does not deny it, "but feels his duty to state that he had a good and ample cause therefor." Neither reveals that cause.

Mrs. Wheeler says that to get the furniture in their apartment Wheeler began a replevin action and the sheriff took away all the furniture and furnishings, "leaving her without even a bed upon which to sleep."

ADJOURNMENT IN SIGHT

Pressing Campaigns at Home Make Congressmen Restless

Washington, June 9.—Senate and house leaders, with the co-operation of the president, have begun a vigorous campaign for an early adjournment of congress.

Looking toward this end, the president hopes that the senate will accept the postal savings bank bill as it will be passed, in all probability, by the house tonight.

The conferees on the railroad bill went to work yesterday afternoon on that measure. Before beginning the first conference Senator Aldrich expressed the belief that by working early and late it would be possible to agree upon the new rate law within a comparatively few days.

According to the plans being formulated among the house and senate leaders adjournment by July 1 seems quite probable. House members on both sides of the chamber are becoming restless, owing to pressing campaigns at home, and are evincing a desire to bring the session to a close as soon as possible.

CONVICTED IN TEST CASE

Dancing Teachers Exhibited Children Without Permit From Aldermen

Gloucester, Mass., June 9.—Mrs. Lilla V. Wyman, a dancing teacher of Boston, and Harry Barber, a dancing teacher of Gloucester, were found guilty in court here of exhibiting children in an entertainment without first getting a permit from the Gloucester board of aldermen. Their failure to get the permit was looked upon by Judge York as a technical illegality and the cases were placed on file.

They were found not guilty of employing children contrary to law, and the court said that the section of the statute in regard to exhibiting children after 7 p. m. was not applicable to the case. The case was a test one.

COUPLE CHARGED WITH KIDNAPPING

New England Police Hunting For Man, Woman and Child

Boston, June 9.—Kidnapping is the charge placed against George and Mrs. Lovell, who on Tuesday evening disappeared from their recent home at 118 West Concord street, taking 3-year-old Irene Dowling with them.

For two years they had cared for this child, and when called upon to give up the girl to her new guardian and parent, Mrs. Jane McDevitt, who in December of last year lawfully adopted the child, they were unable to part with her for more than two days. She was with Mrs. McDevitt Sunday night, Monday and Monday night and then the couple contrived to get her away and fled with her, leaving all of their clothing and valuables in their apartment.

The police of all New England have been warned to watch for them, but no clue has been found.

PEARY SUED BY COOK

Action to Recover $10,000 Claimed Due For Polar Products

Berlin, June 9.—According to the Lokal Anzieger, Frederick A. Cook has instituted suit in the Berlin courts against Robert E. Peary. The paper says Cook seeks to recover $10,000 which he alleges to be due him in payment for bear skins and other polar products.

It is believed here that Gook sought retirement in the environs of Berlin when the cry of fraud was first raised against his claim that he was the discoverer of the Pole. He lived in a sanitarium under an assumed name, but was in close touch with the news of the great controversy through the newspapers. His discovery by a German reporter sent him fleeing from the country.

PRIEST TEARS DOWN ALTAR

He Thus Saves Destruction of His Church by Fire

North Adams, Mass., June 9.—Fire last night in the Church of St. Anthony of Padua caused damage to the amount of $3000.

Rev. William Lattanzi fought the fire side by side with the firemen and with his own hands tore down the altar that the source of the flames might be reached.

Weeping, the pastor watched the flames destroy the altar cloths and statues. The fire was discovered about 9:50 o'clock by Lattanzi. The church was dedicated about five years ago, and was the first Italian church to be built in this city.

REMARKABLE SURGICAL JOB

Expected to Result in Restorings Blind Man's Eyesight

PART OF EYE TRANSPLANTED

Cornea From Optic Which Was So Badly injured That It Had to Be Removed Is Shifted to Eye of Another Patient Whose Cornea Was So Opaque That He Could Not Distinguish Night From Day

New York, June 9.—Transplantation of a part of the eye of one man to that of another who is blind is expected by the physicians in the Flower hospital to restore the sight completely of a Chinese who for years has been unable to distinguish between night and day. The physicians declare there is every reason to believe that the man's sight will be restored. The medical world is awaiting with a strong degree of anxiety an announcement of results.

The remarkable operation which surgeons believe to be the first of its kind was performed in the hospital by Dr. Copeland, dean of the institution and professor of ophthalmology. A section of the cornea of the human eye was the part transplanted.

When Dr. Copeland first examined the eyes of the patient he found the cornea, or transplanted coat, of each eyeball so opaque that the patient could not distinguish night from day. Among the other patients in the hospital was one whose left eye had been injured so badly that it was necessary to remove it. The cornea of this eye, however, was normal and it was decided to operate on both patients at the same time and use the cornea of the enucleated eye to remedy the defect in one of the eyes of the other patient.

Both patients were anaestheticized at the same time and placed on operating tables. Copeland stood between the two tables, while several assistants attended the two patients.

First a circular section of the opaque cornea of the eye of the Chinese was removed with a delicate revolving knife of the special Von Hippel instrument. Four of the five layers of the cornea were cut through. The fifth was left intact, so that the aqueous humor of the eye might not escape.

The surgeon then turned to the other patient and with the delicate instrument removed from the normal cornea of the injured eye a section similar in size and shape to that removed from the opaque cornea. This healthy section was placed in the orifice which had been made in the eye of the Chinese and the eye was then bandaged. This patient was then removed to his room and the surgeon completed the enucleation of the injured eye of the other patient.

The case was considered practically hopeless by surgeons who made examinations before the operation was decided upon, but those who witnessed the operation declare that there is every reason to believe that the transplanted section of cornea will unite evenly.

MILK COMPANY FINED

Product Showed Millions of Bacteria to the Cubic Metre

Boston, June 9.—The C. Brigham company, milk dealers, were arraigned in the South Boston court, charged with having an excessive amount of bacteria in their milk. The company was fined $50, introducing no evidence in defense. It is charged that the samples of their milk which was tested showed from 500,000 to 3,000,000 bacteria to the cubic metre.

Attorney Cusick read from a long prepared document statements to the effect that in his mind the court had no jurisdiction in the matter, that the defendant did not wish to appear and asking that the complaint be quashed for several reasons. The court, however, refused to quash.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

INDIANS PLANNED TO DISPOSE OF "WITCH"

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Is Rescued by Government Agent

San Bernandino, Cal., June 9.—Driven by fear of death at the hands of her tribe, whose members believe her to be a witch, Mamie Holmes, an Indian girl, 16 years old, has walked for more than 100 miles, the distance from the Coachilla reservation to Santa Manuel reservation. The girl was taken in charge by Indian Agent Royce, who says that he learned of preparations to torture and kill her. She will be sent to the government school at Phoenix.

Sufficient proof to the Indians that the girl is a witch were the facts that several on the reservation were made ill, a pumpkin withered after the girl"s shadow had fallen on it and a big dog chained up in front of her parents' shack howled all night.

She was shunned, and one evening when she saw the aged braves gather on a hill at sundown and indulge in strange rites, she slipped away and was four days reaching the Santa Manuel reservation.

She was found by officials of the reservation as she was about to redeem herself from "witchhood" in accordance with one of the superstitions of the Indans by bathing in the waters of the Arrowhead.

NINE CENTS A QUART

Price Which Will Be Paid by Boston Consumers of Milk

Boston, June 9.—Beginning July 1, Bostonians, and those living in Greater Boston, will be compelled to pay 9 cent a quart for milk. At a meeting of both the producers and the contractors, it was decided to raise the price of this fluid from 8 to 9 cents a quart.

The price of milk for the month of June will remain as it has been for the past several weeks, 8 cents a quart.

MAKES RAPID HEADWAY

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

Kidney disease advances so rapidly and many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headaches, dizzy spells, or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the urine is dark, foul-smelling, irregular and attended with pain, procure a good kidney remedy at once.

Your townspeople recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement of this Quincy citizen.

P. J. Garrity, 367 Granite street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Some time ago I suffered so severely from kidney disease that I could hardly get about. I was restless at night and could not find any position that was comfortable. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and contained a heavy sediment at times. I was rapidly growing worse and was at a loss to know what to do, as the many remedies I tried failed to help me. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. After I had taken the contents of four boxes I was in good health. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

Peary-Cook Controversy Centred About Hunter

NOT AFTER COOK RECORDS

Whitney's Expedition to the North Is For Hunting Only

St. John, June 9.—Harry Whitney of New Haven and Paul J. Rainey of Cleveland, bound on an Arctic hunting trip, passed through this city en route to Sydney. Whitney said that he was not going to the Arctic with any intention of recovering Cook's instruments or records reported to have been left near Etah. This trip, Whitney said, was for hunting and fishing only.

Whitney and his companion will join the whaling steamer Beothic, which has been chartered for the expedition, and which will be commanded by Captain Bartlettt of Peary's successful expedition.

FEAR THAT WATER MAY BE POISONED

Dead Fish In Reservoir Alarm Citizens of Wakefield

Wakefield, Mass., June 9.—Much alarm was felt by the residents of this town when it was learned that the fish in Crystal lake, from which the town draws its water supply, are dying in large numbers.

Many of the citizens here feel that the water has been poisoned. Yesterday several boys were seen gathering up the dead fish, which include perch, bass, yellow perch, and pickerel, presumably for eating purposes. Later, however, the water commissioners caused notices placed warning people not to eat the dead fish. A patrol was also placed along the lake's edge to keep people away from the water.

Crystal lake is about a mile long and half a mile wide. About thirty years ago the waters of the lake were well stocked with fish by private individuals.

OUTRAGE BY NEGRO SOLDIER

Leads to Request For Transfer of an Entire Regiment

Washington, June 9.—Senator Jones of Washington presented to the president a telegram from F. S. Steiner, chairman of a mass meeting held near Fort Lawton, Wash., stating that a negro soldier had committed an outrage and demanding the immediate transfer of the Twenty-fifth infantry regiment.

The president said that the request could not be complied with; that if any soldier had violated the law he should be apprehended and until there is a thorough investigation of the charges no transfer of the troops would be made. The secretary of war sent an order to the commanding officer directing an investigation.

CARTER HOLDS THE FORT

Chief of Staff of the Army Until the Return of Wood

Washington, June 9.—Major General Carter, lately in command of the Philippine division, has assumed the duties of acting chief of staff of the army, relieving General Bliss, who, after a short vacation, will assume command of the department of the Pacific at San Francisco.

General Carter will act as chief of staff until the return to Washington of Major General Wood, chief of staff, when he will become assistant chief. Wood is expected here about the middle of July.

Finnish Bill Will Pass

St. Petersburg, June 9.—The opponents of the Finnish bill giving the douma legisiative authority over Finland abandoned the fight and retired from the chamber. This action ensures the adoption of the measure as a whole.

Turner In Field Again

Boston, June 9.—State Auditor Henry E. Turner of Malden announces that he is a candidate for renomination on the Republican state ticket this fall.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Strawberry Fruit Syrup. Cook several quarts of strawberies in porcelain line kettle until the juice flows freely. Mash, strain the juice through cheese cloth, or cotton batting, then measure. Allow a pound of sugar to each pint of juice, boil together five minutes, then bottle. When ready for use, add a few spoonfuls to a glass of cold water, or in more liberal quantity to the contents of the punch bowl.

Orange Sponge Cake. Three eggs, beat five minutes ;one cup sugar beat three minutes; grated rind of an orange juice of one orange in a cup then add cold water until the cup is half full ,one cup flour, one cup pastry flour. Bake in sheets.

Chocolate Custard. One pint milk, one pint cream, two table spoonfuls grated chocolate, four eggs, one teacupful sugar, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Put the milk and chocolate in a double boiler. Beat the eggs and sugar together until light, and add to the milk and stir one minute. Remove from the fire ,add the cream, and flavoring extract, and when cold, freeze.

Veal Loaf. Two pounds veal chopped fine, one tablespoonful salt and pepper, mixed, sage to taste, a little butter, water; bake about an hour; slice thin.

Mock Mince Pies. One cup of bread crumbs, one cup of water, two-thirds cup of vinegar(not too strong.) Soak crumbs in water and vinegar. One and one-half cups of brown sugar, lump of butter, salt, one cup of raisins, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves.

Chocolate Ice Cream. Grate two squares of chocolate into two quarts of new milk, placing over water to boil. To six eggs and three teacupfuls of sugar, add two tablespoonfuls of flour or cornstarch; beat ten or fifteen minutes and strain through a sieve; add to the scalding milk and chocolate and carefully stir. When thickened, place in the freezer, adding a pint of milk.

KAISER'S FAMILY TOO BIG

Complaint of Social Democrat In the Prussian Diet

Berlin, June 9.—The lower house of the Prussian diet has referred to the budget committee the bill increasing the kaiser's civil list $500,000. The Social Democrats alone opposed the proposal.

Their spokesman, Herr Hoffmann, was frequently called to order by the chair. He drew the rebuke of "high treason" from the president by the suggestion that the kaiser should be elected by the people.

Among other things Herr Hoffmann complained that "the crown had too many children."

COLEMAN AGAIN ON THE STAND

He Appears This Time as a Witness For Keliher

MANIPULATION OF BANK BOOK

Carried on While Government Examiner Was In Same Room With Him —Cashier Did Not Suspect Thefts, Though Funds Steadily Dwindled—Points Brought Out by Witnesses For the Defense

Boston, June 9.—The directors of the National City bank of Cambridge knew that the books were not right several weeks before the closing of the bank last February, George W. Coleman told his father, Walter G. Coleman, according to the testimony of the father in the "Big Bill" Keliher trial in the federal court.

Keliher is on trial charged with aiding and abetting Coleman in wrecking the bank. The elder Coleman, who has stood loyally by his son through the ordeal of the startling bank defalcation, told Herbert E. Lombard what George had said. Witnesses called by the defense testified:

That Coleman said he was going to marry Mamie Hightower because she had money stowed away in the bank.

That he said that his grandmother had died and left him a "pile" of money.

That he said he had $50,000 in a Cuban enterprise and expected big returns.

That he said he had given Mrs. Taylor a certified check for $500 last Christmas.

That he bought $4000 worth of jewelry from Frank A. Andrews within three or four years.

That he represented himself as a secret service agent with an expense account of from $5000 to $10,000.

That upon his advice Andrews put $10,000, which his wife inherited, in the bank shortly before it closed. (Coleman, when a government witness, testified that Andrews drew out $2000 of this.)

Mr. Lombard was called to the stand and Lawyer Pratt tried to get admitted his testimony as to how he had warned Cashier Earl, last winter, about Coleman's expensive ways, but it was ruled out. Two witnesses testified that Coleman had told them that an aunt had bequeathed him between $50,000 and $60,000.

Wellington L. Hallett of the Kissel Kar Kompany testified that Coleman was to invest $9500 in the company. Mr. Hallet had no idea where Coleman was to get the money.

Walter E. Knight, proprietor of the Berwick house, Boston, said that Coleman told him on March 15:

"'Bill (Keliher) didn't have anything to do with the brace faro game. He didn't know where I was getting the money. I had handed him the coin that a rich relative of mine had died and left me a bunch of money.' Later I met Coleman at Keliher's. He sail: 'I'm reconciled to do my bit for this, but French wants to get somebody else.'"

Frank L. Earl, formerly cashier of the National City bank, testified that he saw the funds of the bank gradually melt away last fall and winter until they had dwindled from $400,000 to $109,000, and yet he never suspected that any one was stealing the bank's money.

Earl followed George W. Coleman on the stand. Coleman was the first witness called in the defense of Keliher, who is charged with aiding Coleman in looting the bank. Coleman, who will shortly begin to serve a fifteen years' sentence in the Greenfield jail for his share in the bank robbery, frankly admitted his stealings on the stand. He told how, with a single stroke of the pen, he wiped out deposits, lowered them or "doctored" them to suit his will.

The names of Mrs. Marguerite L. Taylor and Miss Mamie Hightower were brought into the case while Coleman was on the stand. He said that he used to give Mrs. Taylor $25 at a time. After he met Miss Hightower last October he gave Mrs. Taylor $15 a week. He gave Mrs. Taylor money for two years, he said.

The convicted bank clerk testified that on Dec. 1, while National Bank Examiner Pepper was in the same room with him in the bank, he (Coleman) manipulated the figures in the deposit of President Dresser to cover a theft of $20,000 from his account.

"Examiner Pepper was right there in the banking room," testified Coleman, "and while he was busy on another book I simply took this book and dropped the president's account $20,000. He had a credit of $39,168.31. I changed the first '3' to a '1'".

There was no softening of words by Lawyer Pratt in the questioning of Coleman. The lawyer used the word "steal" almost every time he referred to Coleman's taking bank money, and Coleman came back frequently acknowledging that he "stole" the money. There was nothing of the spirit of bravado about the convicted bank clerk. He spoke in a low tone and seemed depressed. He had lost the jaunty air that characterized him when the trial first began.

BRIEFS

The ladies of Gertrude A. Boyd Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans hold a pie social at Grand Army hall Friday evening.

Delegates of the Quincy Women's club to the Federation meeting at Lynn this week report a very hospitable reception. Auto rides were among the pleasures, about 100 cars being at the disposal of the ladies.

The automobile of Charles C. Hearn was one of those used Wednesday to give children a ride at the annual outing of crippled and blind children of Boston. Nearly 1,000 children were given rides in automobiles furnished by the Automobile League Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon B. Furnald are today receiving numerous congratulations and happy reminders from friends calling informally, it being the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding day. These years have all been spent in Quincy and during them there has been no break in the family. Few indeed there are with such a record.

NOISY POWER BOATS.

Editor Daily Ledger:

On coming out here to pass a few weeks this summer, as I did last year, I find that my old friends the noisy power boats are here also, disfiguring the beautiful Quincy bay with their blantant noise. The smaller the boat the louder the bang. It does seem a pity that this grand sheet of water, with its adjacent Quincy Shore reservation, should be obliged to harbor a few people who care nothing for the picturesque scenery. If the Quincy authorities will not, then I hope that the Metropolitan Park Commission will, take the matter in hand and compel those noisy little fellows to use silencers. There are several good makes on the market, and it would not be a hardship to compel these boat owenrs to equip their engines with them. The power boat owner, who is not willing to give his fellow creatures a good night's sleep or a peaceful day's rest at the seashore, is a first cousin of that four legged animal known as a hog.

PRETTY JUNE WEDDING

Miss Augusta Wilbur the Bride of Howard S. Falconer

Wollaston was the scene of a pretty June wedding on Wednesday evening, when Miss Augusta Lucinda Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren James Wilbur of Taylor street, became the bride of Howard Sinclair Falconer.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wesley Wiggin, pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church in the parlor of the Wilbur home, and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends from Wollaston and neighboring towns.

The pair entered to the music of a bridal march played by Miss Ada Stone. The bride was most fetchingly gowned in princess en train of lace and pearl white taffeta and had a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a cluster of bridal roses. She was attended by her sister Miss Bessie Wilbur as maid of honor. The latter's gown was of rose pink silk and lace and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and forget-me-notes. The best man was Edward Geddes of Quincy, a cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony a short reception was held after which the happy pair left, amid a shower of confetti and good wishes, for a honey moon in the White Mountains.

Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Leigh of Watertown, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Geddes of Quincy, the Misses Kate and Jeanette Falconer of Boston, Miss Olive McKeenan of Roxbury and Miss Julia Hemphill of Roxbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Falconer, after, their return, will reside at 100 Brook street, Wollaston, where they will be at home to their friends after August 1.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

Give Neponset Bridge Bill a New Lease of Life

The bill for a new bridge on the Neponset river between Quincy and Neponset came up again Wednesday when Representative Mildram moved to reconsider the rejection of the bill. Representative Thomas and Langelier supported the motion, and it was carried. After a long debate the house by a rising vote of 43 yes and 45 no, refused to accept the report of the committee, and the bill is therefore in the calendar.

The House voted $122,000 for the Agricultural college at Amherst

The Senate adopted a new resolve sending the Elevated holding bill to next Legislature.

The Boston and Eastern Railroad bill was passed; also the bill to prohibit the mixing of milk and cream with other substances.

TODAY'S COURT.

Arthur Campbell was fined $25 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

P. Sears paid $10 on account of costs for driving an automobile on prohibited street in Milton.

The continued case of Joseph Murphy for over speeding at Houghs Neck, and for assault on Officer Phillips, was heard. He was fined $10 on the first complaint and $9 on the second.

Evolution.

At what time of life may a man be said to belong to the vegetable kingdom? When experience has made him sage.

We find many men who are great and some men who are good, but very few men who are both great and good. —Colton.

CHALLENGE FROM WOLLASTON

Desire to Meet Willards in a Nine Inning Game

The smoke of Monday's grammar schoo l championship game has cleared away ,and the Wollaston school nine are still out for the flag. The Wollaston team has scored more runs during the season than any other team in the league. For five innings in the first game they held Willard to a 9 to 2 score, and then defeated them 9 to 6. The Wollaston contention is that six innings is not a full game, and is not a fair test of two teams, especially when contending for a championship.

Wollaston challenges Willard to a full nine-inning game next Monday or Tuesday, to decide the superiority of the teams, the game to be at Merrymount Park.

Of course the championship is definitely settled, and the prizes awarded, but if the two teams care to get together in this way for their own satisfaction it will certainly be a good chance for the public to get another line on the boys. The Wollaston boys are hot after the game, and will work to win should the game be played.

THE SEASON BACKWARD

But Few Summer Residents Arrived at Houghs Neck

With the accession of fair weather the Houghs Neck summer colony will undoubtedly reach its usual proportions, but the weather has discouraged all except the most enthusiastic. Some have come down to superintend repairs to cottages or place them in readiness for the summer, only a few to stay through the season.

The winter residents of the resort are brightening up their houses and cottages, vying with the summer people in this respect ,and have imparted an air of newness to the whole place.

The fruit stands, candy, stands, shore dinner rooms, and dance halls, are opening slowly, only a few considering it profitable to stay open during the spell of bad weather. As yet trade has not been vigorous.

The cottages are still stirred up by the tragedy ,of last Saturday evening. It is a common thing to see the place of the shooting pointed out, and it is discussed on all sides.

On the causeway a short distance past the Post Island stop on the car line, the high tides have crossed the road, which is low at this point, and entirely filled, the hollow between it and the sewer embankment. The cellars of a number of cottages are filled with water, while others seem to float on the water.

Charles Bleiler's "Veterans' Cot" is in fine condition for the summer and its flag flies every day.

Now that fine weather has set in there is no doubt that the whole Houghs Neck district will fill up.

Good progress is being made on the improvements at the clubhouse of the Quincy Yacht club. A large addition is being built on the shore side, and is nearly completed.

A MIX-UP AT WOLLASTON

Young Mens Class Entertain The Young Ladies

The Young Men's class of the Wollaston Baptist church held their first social Tuesday evening. As each gentleman was expected to bring a lady friend, the social was called a "Mixup." Fourteen couple were present and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

The vestry was very prettily decorated with green and an abundance of sofa pillows added the brighter colors. About the room were five tables with white coverings and chafing dishes upon them. The class motto, "The Other Fellow" was displayed in the front of the room.

First on the program was a business meeting. The president C. Roy Given, presided and made a short speech of welcome to the "fair sex." For about an hour following, games kept the young people in good humor.

When the games were over the committee separated the gathering into five groups, at different tables where welsh rarebit was served. The tables were presided over by members of the social committee and his attending lady. The social committee consists of the following: W. E. Bullock, C. H. Sayward, M. O. Pink-Franz Marceau and C. R. Given.

The following enjoyed the mixup: Mr. and Mrs. John H. ENTRIES FOR PARADE

The Big Feature for Fourth of July Celebration

The July Fourth celebration has begun to assume shape. Many organizations in Quincy and in the surrounding towns have signified their intentions of having a float or some kind of a feature in the parade. A partial list of those who have already entered includes:

Spanish War Vets, 200 men.
Sons of Veterans, 200 men.
Foresters of America, 700 men.
Red Men, 200 men.
Granite City League, 200 men.
Washington M. French Hose Association.
Houghs Neck Associates.
Ramblers Club.
Ward Four Improvement Association, big feature.
W. B. White & Son, float.
Red Men, float.
Knights and Ladies of Honor, feature.
Sandford Davies, feature.

Every owner of an automobile is invited to enter his auto either decorated or not. Every one who owns a saddle horse is invited to enter the parade mounted. A general invitation is extended to all schools to have children enter the parade in some feature.

A meeting of the parade committee will be held tomorrow evening in Union hall, to which everyone is invited.

MODEL FRUIT GARDEN

Dr. Kendall Gets Special Mention for His Success

In the annual report of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society just received, we notice the following reference to a Quincy estate, which may be of interest to those acquainted with Dr. W. G. Kendall and his efforts.

"Dr. W. G. Kendall's fruit garden at Atlantic is well deserving of mention in this report, as it shows the possibilities of fruit culture on a small scale. The whole area of his place, including the ground the house stands on, is a little more than an acre, and besides ornamental trees which are planted along the sides of the lot, there are many full-sized apple trees on the lawn; pear, peach, and plum trees in the rear of the house; with grape vines covering all of the available fence space. Small fruits are planted wherever space affords, while flowers and vegetables are not forgotten.

"Dr. Kendall believes thoroughly in pruning, thinning, and spraying, and his garden is a fine illustration of these arts, showing to what a high state of perfection fruit can be brought when thorough knowledge and care are given to the subject. The trees, vines, etc., here remind one of those in the French and English gardens where pruning is carried to the highest state of perfection. Absolutely no surplus wood is allowed to remain and to the average person the trees look as if too much wood had been removed; but results tell and when the ripened fruit is shown one realizes that in order to get such fine specimens it is necessary to use the highest skill possible.

"One of the most striking and novel ideas in the garden is the system of training the grapes; for here where space is valuable the vines cannot be allowed to grow as in vineyard culture, so the vines are trained high on trellises and wires, in many cases running from 20 to 25 feet from the base of the vine, and at a height varying from 6 to 8 feet in order to catch all the sun and light possible. Dr. Kendall also practices girdling on many of the late grapes; and such varieties as Catawba and Isabella are ripened to perfection in a slimate that is very uncertain.

"There should be more of these gardens about Boston so that our exhibitions drawing from these could show the great possibilities in fruit culture not only for the amateur but for the commercial man."

MAYOR SHEA WILL PULL BOX 26

For Opening of the Exhibition of the Quincy Fire Department

Apparatus Will Make Dash into City Square

There will be ten pieces of fire fighting apparatus in City Square tomorrow afternoon to try and wind up Merchants' week in a blaze of glory.

All of the companies have received instructions and the time set for their appearance at the assigned location is 2.30 P. M. The following is the program:

Atlantic Combination, Houghs Neck Combination and Hose 4 of Quincy Point will meet at the High school.

Wollaston Combination truck and Wollaston Hose 2 will meet at Presidents bridge.

Hose 3 West Quincy and Ladder 3 will meet at Central Fire station, as will the steamer, Combination Hose and Combination Ladder truck.

At 3 o'clock sharp, Mayor Shea will pull Box 26, and all of the apparatus will respond as though answering an alarm of fire. Each piece is to start 50 feet apart and maintain that position until they reach the box.

Upon arrival at City Square all will be sent back to Adams Academy, where a line will be formed for a short march. Headed by the band and followed by the Steamer, Combination Hose 1, Combination Ladder 1, Hose 3, Hose 4, Truck 3, Combination 2, Hose 5, Hose 2, and Combination 3, in the order named, a short line of march will be the program: From the Academy to City Square, to Cottage avenue, to Foster street, to Washington street, back to City Square, where they have the exhibition.

Houghs Neck is to be taken care of by a relief hose wagon; Atlantic, West Quincy and Quincy Point by a relief hose wagon; a piece of apparatus will be stationed at Presidents bridge to take care of Wollaston, and the apparatus in City Square will take care of the balance of the city.

Wollaston, West Quincy, Houghs Neck and Quincy Point will each lay one line of hose against time.

The Combination at Central fire station and the Atlantic Combination will each lay two lines of hose. Each Ladder Truck wil lthrow ladder twice, and the Steamer will play through one and two lines of hose and then play into the Hart gun.

The Hose company will play from the fourway hydrant in front of the cemetery; each company making a flying run. Time will be taken from the time the gun is fired.

It is hoped the public will be kind enough to give the fire laddies plenty of room to work in, thereby giving all an equal chance to enjoy the unique events, and also avoid all danger.

The committee, composed of E. J. Murphy, George Nightingale, Nathan Ames, Gerald Sullivan and William Corcoran, with the help of Chief of the Fire department, P. J. Williams, have been untiring in their efforts to make these events interesting and with the aid of the weather man, promise to fill City Square as it was never filled before.

The committee have secured a competent corps of judges, they being Herbert T. Drake, Daniel Desmond, Joseph L. Whitten, Jr., George Cushing of Hingham, George Choate of Milton and John Kelly and Frank O. Whitmarsh of Braintree.

O'CONNELL A CANDIDATE.

Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell of the Tenth district, which includes Quincy, has announced that he will be a candidate for renomination next fall.

PRETTY DOUBLE WEDDING

Clifford and Olive Sutermeister Both Married

A double wedding took place June 1 in Westwood at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Sutermeiste , formerly of Beale street Wollaston, of their younger son, Clifford Foster, to Margaret W. Chamberlain, of Westwood; and of their daughter, Olive Cecilia, to Thomas H. Richardson, of Detroit, Mich. The first couple were attended by Henry L. Sutermeister and Miss Foster, and the other couple by the bride's elder brother and two sisters.

The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. C. E. Sawtelle of Needham. The roses carried by the brides, and the flowers which prettily decorated the house, were from the greenhouse of Mrs. E. Sutermeister of Milton, aunt of Mr. C. Sutermeister, and Mrs. Richardson. A reception followed which was largely attended by friends of both couples.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Sutermeister will be at home to their friends in thejr home recently purchased on Westfield street, Westwood, July 1. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will be at home to their friends in Waltham, Mass, August 1.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

So far the new King hasn't done anything to the Poet Laureate.

These Southeastern ocean storms are the things that keep the Weather Bureau guessing.

Few people know enough about astronomy to contradict any statement you may make about the comet.

"If you must kiss somebody, kiss your mother-in-law," advises a Boston minister. These Bostonians certainly do revel in trouble.

"Mr. Roosevelt always throws sixes," says the Rev. Dr. Newall Dwight Hillis. Now, where in a bunch of Sundays, did the good doctor pick up this knowledge of the value of throwing of sixes.

There appears to be one article of food that is cheap; as farmers of Maine are unable to find a market for their potato crop of 1909. Quincy is indebted to Arthur Dunn for bringing several carloads to this city, which he sells promptly at a low price. It is to be regretted that he did not ship more through the winter. Probably it is the same with other products, bothof the farm and the manufacturer, if they could be landed in the cities they would be appreciated, and mikht help to reduce the cost of living. It is said Maine farmers will be forced to bury or burn thousands of bushels of potatoes.

Considerable surprise has been expressed in many quarters that the Commissioner should ask for $10,000 more for sewer extensions. Earlier in the season the City Council appropriated the sum of $40,000 for sewer extensions and but a small part of this has been expended at the present time.

The Legislature, by an act passed in 1905, authorized the city to borrow $200,000 outside of the limit of indebtedness fixed by law, for the extension of its sewerage system. Money has been borrowed against this amount every year, and when the Council appropriated $40,000 earlier in the present year it only left a balance of $6,000. It would therefore be impossible to borrow the $10,000 desired under this act. The question arises however why not wait until the $40,000 is exhausted before asking for more.

The kicking over the new train schedule becomes more and more pronounced ever yday. This is not confined alone to the schedule but to trains running late and to the lack of cars as well. On many of the morning inward and late afternoon outward trains it is impossible to get a seat, and many have to stand. One or two more cars would remedy this.

This will be one of the matters taken up with the railroad by the Mayor. During the past few days the Mayor has been getting evidence as to the lack of accommodations, and an officer has been detailed to ride back and forth on the morning and afternoon trains to see just how many have to stand for lack of cars. After the inward train leaves Wollaston he walks through the train taking count of the number standing, and on leaving Boston on the express trains makes a similar count. The facts thus obtained will probably be used to good advantage by the Mayor when he has his heart-to-heart talk with the railroad officials.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The boating seas on is on again and the usual warning to young men and women, who indulge in the pastime is in order. Boys and men take members of the other sex boating confident in their powers as swimmers and are often thoughtless of the obligation that rests upon them to observe every precaution against accidents. They "cut up" and the boat goes over, with the result that the women or girls, as the case may be, are sent to their doom, while some of the confident swimmers often find a like fate, although too frequently it happens that the men who cause the misfortune to those in their care ignominiously desert them when struggling and drowning and seek their own safety. No young woman should go beoating with men in whose judgment and sanity she has not absolute confidence. No man who is worthy the name should invite a girl or young woman to go boating with him and fail to take every precaution for her security. The boat-rockers are the bane of those seeking pleasure upon the waters. They cause the greatest number of boating accidents.—Fall River Globe.

Politicians who regard socialism as an unimportant and negligible phenomenon are blinder than bats. President Taft, as his Michigan speech shows, has his eyes open to what it is and threatens. He knows—everybody who is at all observant knows that the organized socialist party contains only a small part of the modern world's socialism. Often not yet self-conscious, often in a rudimentary stage a development, socialism is spreading and diffusing itself among mankind, and some of the richest men on earth—as far as money makes riches— are its most efficient propagators. The organized socialist party grows, too— here as in Europe. In the presidentia' election of 1892, as the New York World reminds us, it; polled 21,164 votes year before last it polled 420,283.—Hartford Courant.

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

Mount Wollaston Cemetery Well Planned in 1854

(Historical Paper No. 19.)

It was 55 years ago this year that Mount Wollaston cemetery was consecrated. Pattee's History says that for several years previous to 1854 it had been found that the old cemetery on Hancock street had become too small and crowded, and that it was a public necessity that some other place should be provided by the town for a burial-ground.

At the annual town meeting, held in March, 1854 ,the following committee was chosen to select a proper site for a cemtery, and report to the town at the adjourned meeting, viz:—William S. Pattee, Israel W. Munroe, Washington M. French, George White and Wyman Abercrombie.

This committee ,after due consideration, caem to the conclusion to take a new departure in selecting a site for a depository of the dead. Insead of procuring some narrow, contracted barren waste, where neither tree, shrub ,nor flower would grow, they desired to obtain a tract which would combine all the essentials; capaciousness, natural beauty, and other requisites for a rural or garden cemetery; which would be more congenial, and in harmony with the natural affections for their kindred and friends.

The committee after having visited several tracts of land within the limits of the town, to select a site possessing all the desirable requisitions for a cemetery of the character proposed, finally decided that a portion of the Town's farm lying on Sea street, given to the Town by the generous and beneficent William Coddington, possessed more of the natural advantages for this purpose than any other that had some to their view.

At the adjourned April meeting, the committee reported that they had selected as a site for a cemetery that portion of the Town's farm lying on the westerly side of Sea street, containing 25 acres, 1 quarter, 15 rods. This report was accepted and adopted. An appropriation was made which enabled the new committee, chosen at this meeting to prepare about one-half of the land accepted, immediate interments.

Mr. Brims, superintendent of Forest Hill Cemetery, kindly volunteered his services to lay out the principal avenues. No man possessed to a greater degree the practical good taste for laying out and embellishing rural grounds than he.

The committee visited Mount Auburn, Forest Hill and other modern cemeteries, and concluded to lay this out on the same principle and plan, by subdividing the land into avenues, paths and lots. Luther Briggs of Dorchester was engaged to survey and stake out the lots and paths. The lots were to contain, 300 superficial square feet, (the same as in Mount Auburn;) avenues for carriages, 16 feet; paths, 5 feet, and a border of five feet on all the paths, avenues and between the lots. This gave a proper and convenient space to adorn and suitably embellish the paths and lots.

The committee after inclosing the ground, laying out the lots, and constructing the main avenues and paths, found that their appropriation was inadequate to purchase trees, shrubs and flowers to adorn the cemetery, concluded rather than exceed the appropriation, to let it pass over for another year.

The granite gateway was designed by Mr. Briggs, subject to the approval of the committee, who selected the Gothic in preference to the Egyptian, considering it more appropriate, as it presented a more cheerful and brighter aspect than the Egyptian, with its dark, sombre and uncheerful look.

"It is very doubtful says the North American Review, whetcher the Egyptian style is most appropriate to a Christian burial-place. It certainly has no connection with our religion. In its characteristics it is anterior to civilization, and therefore is not beautiful in itself.

"No one will deny the superiority of the Grecian in mere point of beauty. But more than this, Egyptian architecture reminds us of the religion which called it into being,—the most degraded and revolting paganism which ever existed. It is the architecture of embalmed cats and deified crocodiles; solid, stupendous, and time-defying we allow; but associated in our minds with all that is disgusting and absurd in superstition.

"Now there is certainly no place, not even the church itself, where it is more desirable that our religion should be present to the hind, than the cemetery, which must be regarded either as the end of all things,—the last, melancholy, hopeless resort of perishing humanity,—the sad and fearful portion of man, which is to involve body and soul alike in endless night; or, on the other hand, as a gateway to a glorious immortality,—the passage to a brighter world, whose splendors beam even upon the dark chambers of the tomb. It is from the very brink of the grave where rest in eternal sleep the mortal remains of those whom we have best loved, that Christianity speaks to us, in its most triumphant, soul-exalting words, of victory over death, and a life to come. Surely, then, all that man places over the tomb should, in a measure, speak the same language.

"The monuments of the burial-ground should remind us that this is not our final abode; they should, as far as possible, recall to us the consolations and promises of our religion."

The gate was constructed by Charles R. Mitchell, at a cost of $1,-867.00. The wall on the Sea street front by Luke Rideout for $1,109.66. The original fence cost $528.49.

The total cost of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, up to 1866, was $4,200.74. The ground then comprised 577 lots. The price of the lots originally to the residents of the town was $5. The next historical paper will tell of the consecration ceremonies.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Resolutions on the death of George Ruxton were passed by the Knights of Malta at their convocation Thursday evening. The grand deputy of the commandery, J. A. Bamford, was present and spoke feelingly on the loyalty of the deceased to the order, and the esteem in which he was held by all his friends. Oscar A. Barron was elected to succeed Mr. Ruxton as treasurer and was inducted into office. A rehearsal of the work in the black degree was had after the meeting.

NEW ROAD ROLLER HERE.

The new steam road roller purchased by the city arrived Thursday and is now at the City stables. The new roller weighs fifteen tons and replaced the small roller for which $800 was allowed. The large steam roller which the city has had for many years is still retained. This roller weighs twelve tons. It will be seen therefore that the new roller is three tons heavier than the old machine.

"KINGDOM" IN BOSTON HARBOR

"Holy Ghost" Vessel Leaves Portland Unexpectedly

OUTSIDERS ARE KEPT AWAY

Impression That "Prophet" Sandford Is Endeavoring to Escape Service of Habeas Corpus Writs For Some of the Fifty Persons Said to Be Aboard of Barkentine—Mrs. Whittaker Is Discharged From Restraint

Boston, June 10.—The "Holy Ghost and Us" vessel, the barkentine Kingdom, owned by "Prophet" Frank W. Sandford of Shiloh, Me., slipped quietly into Boston harbor and anchored abreast of Governor's island.

From the inconspicuous manner in which the Kingdom came into the harbor and went to her anchorage, with no one seen aboard except a few sailors, the impression spread along the waterfront that the vessel fled here from Maine to avoid habeas corpus writs for "Elijah" Sandford and other people aboard of her, such as figured in the sensational Whittaker case.

The Kingdom was last in Portland harbor. There Mrs. F. A. Whittaker and her four children escaped from the vessel and from the Sandford influence. It was reported in Portland that the authorities were seeking others among Sandford's flock.

The Kingdom came up from the lower harbor without a tug. Having gone as far up the inner harbor as she could safely under her own sail, she anchored. No boat was put out from her. No gangway was lowered.

It is thought that an effort will be made to file a writ of attachment upon the Kingdom, which is the property of Sandford.

Mrs. Florence Whittaker, in her action to recover damages in the sum of $100,000 from Sandford, will move at once to attach what property of Sandford's she can that in the event of a judgment favorable to her she may have something tangible upon which to levy for payment.

It may be necessary to bring a new action under the laws and in the courts of Massachusetts in order to obtain a writ of attachment which can be served upon Sandford in Boston barbor.

Sandford has been apprised of this, and it is thought will keep moving into waters of other states, thus avoiding the service of any papers which might force him to appear in court.

Captain Perry of the Kingdom told reporters that there were twenty women, twenty-five men and five children aboard the vessel. They say they do not know where they will go from here or why they are here. Perry would let no one board the vessel, and said that Sandford was not aboard.

Mrs. Whittaker Liberated

Auburn, Me., June 10.—Mrs. Florence A. Whittaker, the Holy Ghost and Us disciple, who was taken off the Sandford yacht Kingdom at Portland Monday by a deputy sheriff on a writ of habeas corpus, was ordered discharged from the restraint placed upon her by her husband, Rev. A. A. Whittaker, and the care and custody of their minor children was given to her by Judge Savage.

Mrs. Whittaker was the only witness. She told of being induced to board the Kingdo mat Jaffa by promises of Rev. F. W. Sandford, though she had money which was sent her by relatives to pay her fare home by steamer. Since her arrival in Portland thirty-one days ago she was kept a prisoner on the Kingdom and Sandford flatly refused to keep his promise to let her go, but said she must do as her husband wished.

Interests of Pittman Are Safeguarded by Americans In Nicaragua

Washington, June 10.—William P. Pittman, the Cambridge, Mass., engineer, who was captured some days ago by the Madraz forces in Nicaragua while operating mines under the direction of Estrada, is reported as well, and being treated with consideration.

Consul Moffat, in a telegram to the state department from Bluefields, says that he himself is paying particular attention to Pittman and the officers from the United States warships in the harbor visit Pittman every few days at the Bluff. They are of the opinion that there is nothing to complain of in his treatment.

Homestead Bill Shelved

Boston, June 10.—The homestead bill, which provides that the state shall expend $100,000 for the purchase of land for homes for workingmen in the manufacturing cities of the commonwealth, was referred to the next general court in the senate by a vote of 19 to 12.

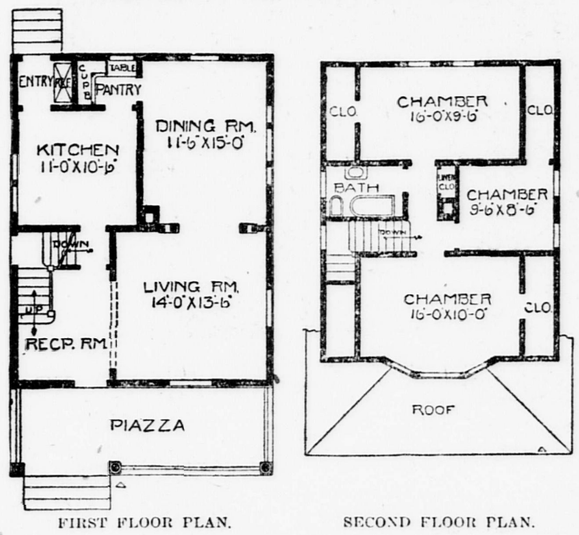
Commodious Small Cottage.

Design 835, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

There is no waste space in this design of a small house. First story contains four rooms, one of the features being the combination stairway with grade door. In the second story are three good sized chambers, with large bathroom. In case one desires another room the large room across the rear of the second story could be divided in the center, thus making four chambers. Size 24 by 30 feet. Basement under entire house. First story nine feet, second story eight feet. Birch floors throughout. First story finished in Washington fir or birch, second in pine to paint. Cost to build, exclusive of plumbing and heating, $2,050.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 835 for $15.

SCHOOL MA'AMS COMING

Will Include Quincy as Well as Boston in Itinerary

Boston, June 10, 1910.—New England's chance to see all America in Boston will come July 2 when the great educational convention will alight from the trains at the South and North stations for a week filled with meetings, conferences, lectures and sightseeing excursions to Quincy Plymouth, Concord and Cambridge. The National Educational Association will bring probably the largest single gathering of the summer, though the convention of the New England shoe and leather interests, opening July 14, is also expected to be a big affair. Both these gatherings will see their attendance records swollen by an influx of visitors from the nearby towns and cities whom such occasions always attract to Boston.

The enthusiasm of the members of the National Educational Association is likely to stir up even the people of the metropolitan district many of whom rarely or never go to see the historic places in their midst, but who are naturally pleased to note a party of pretty school teachers from Kansas or California doing the sights.

On the only other recent occasion when this association met in Boston —in 1903— the teachers almost literally owned the streets, the trolley cars, the subway and the hotel corridors. They were invited to receptions on great estates of the suburbs. They went canoeing in the Charles. They had their pictures taken and published with interviews in the local papers. They enjoyed a week of festivities that have not been forgotten.

All that, of course, was incidental to the main purpose of their being in Boston. All members of the organization have the dignity of a great tradition to uphold.

Because the National Educational Association itself is the most serious and important of its kind in the world —an evidence of America's leadership in democratic education. It was founded in 1857 with the interest and cooperation of distinguished educational reformers such as Horace Mann and Henry Barnard. It has prospered financially. Its permanent fund of more than $200,000 has been accumulated by the excess of receipts from the membership dues of two dollars each over the expenditures.

The most comprehensive pedagogical work annually issued anywhere is the fat volume of N. E. A. proceedings, filled with authoritative statements of thought and fact. To be invited to a place on the program of one of the general or departmental meetings is an honor which few educators care to decline. No other association is so well able to insist that every address be carefully prepared in advance.

The general sessions of the National Educational Association deal with national and international problems, many of which concern others than professional educators. There are also eighteen departments in which specific technical subjects, such as music, manual training, kindergarten methods and secondary school questions are discussed.

New England hotel and boarding house keepers, traction companies and steamship lines are fortunate in having the National Educational Association again so shortly after the great affair of seven years ago. Throughout the South and West there has long been a very keen competition every year to secure the association meeting.

That the name "national" is well applied to the association was proved at the convention of 1903 when among the 35,000 educators visiting Boston every American state, territory and Canadian province was represented. Illinois, situated a thousand miles from Boston, sent 4,000 sons and daughters. Four other states contributed each more than 2,000; eleven more than 1,000, and only five states east of the Rocky Mountains sent fewer than 100.

The attractions of salt water, of the numerous historic pilgrimages in eastern Massachusetts, help greatly to swell the attendance at all conventions which meet at the Hub, and teachers, with a two months' vacation ahead of them, are especially influenced by these considerations. "Show us Bunker Hill; that's the first thing in Boston we want to look at," was a Missouri maiden's exclamation as she set foot in Boston seven years ago. Transportation men still recall the lively times of that meeting. No visitors before or since have ever so filled up the sight seeing trolleys or made so many excursions to the sacred spots which are covered by the leaflets which the Boston Elevated Railway Company distributes and the standard guide books.

In 1903 several made excursions to the historic places of Quincy, and Quincy young men acted as escorts both in Boston and Quincy. Many teachers will want to see where the "Quincy system" florished under Col. Parker, the birthplaces of two Presidents, and their burial places, the Dorothy Q house, the great Fore River shipyard, the Quincy granite quarries, and the seashore resorts of Quincy.

The animated scenes of 1903 will be repeated the first week in July. Many of the teachers will stay beyond the convention period, hundreds of them for the sake of combining work at the Harvard summer school with week end excursions, and thousands of others to give their whole time to the delights of trolley tripping among the historic shrines. A considerable group will wait over for a special sailing to Antwerp whence they will proceed to the big international educational convention to be held in Belgium in August.

MILTON

The Knights of King Arthur, a boys society of the Episcopal church, gave a two act play entitled "A Tender Attachment," at Ellsworth hall, Thursday evening. The play was extremely farcical. Besides this, two very interesting amateur specialty acts were introduced. The money raised will be used for the benefit of the camping fund.

For some unknown cause the school board recently asked E. D. Varney, principal of the Milton High school, to resign which he did. Certain of the townspeople desired his reinstatement, however, and circulated a petition, which was signed by nearly five hundred people and was presented to the School board. The board has taken no action on the petition.

George Clemens has commenced work on his new house.

Mrs. S. E. Robers of Edge Hill road died quite suddenly last week.

The program for the Fourth of July celebration in Milton is practically decided on, the Selectmen at their last meeting making the final arrangements for the baseball game between the Miltons and Cunningham gym at Cunningham field. There will be a track meet after the ball game. Teel's band will give a concert in the afternoon at Town Hall. Fireworks will be displayed in the evening at Hutchinsons field.

Superintendent of Streets McCue has started repairs on Eliot street and Randolph avenue. The stone he is using comes from the Mt. Hope quarry.

The Sewer Commissioners have awarded a large contract to William Cashman of Quincy.

The Milton Fireman's Relief Association has raised the death benefit from $100 to $200.

William Cates of Waldeck street was seriously injured by a falling tree while at work in Mattapan a few days ago.

Patrolman Patterson is on his vacation, and Patrolman Travers covers his beat.

The annual Sunday School picnic of the Third Religious Society is to be held Saturday June 11, at Glen Echo Grove.

Mrs. Robert A. Mitchell and son, of Horton place, are now in New Hampshire where they will remain until July.

Miss Wenonah Wetmore of Milton was one of the bridesmaids on Wednesday at the wedding in New York of Marshall Orme Wilson, Jr., and Miss Alice Borland.

At New York on Thursday Alexander Forbes of Milton and Miss Charlotte I. Grindell of New York city were united in marriage. Waldo Forbes, a brother of the groom was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Forbes will reside in Milton.

OUR GREAT COUNTRY.

S. Walter Nichols of Botolph street who was one of the committee of public spirited citizens of our city to make the celebration of the Nation's natal day last year at Atlantic in keeping with its previous reputation for patriotism and proper observance, is at present nearing the Pacific slope in travel for The Leviathan Belting Company, being one of the seven of its Chicago branch. Being at so remote a distance, and with further business in hand at Los Angelos, Cal. it is not likely that Mr. Nichols will be in Quincy this year to give his personal help to the cause, yet his communications teem with the spirit of appreciation of his country and its great privileges, and echo the sentiments of Mr. Emerson Hough in the Saturday Evening Post in "The Tenderfoot Tourist," disparaging the European continent and Great Britain in comparison with the beauty and grandeur of the United States of America. Mr. Nichols writes daily, to his mother at home here in Quincy, and post cards of the marvels in his places of travel, depict the wonders of nature in creation which he visits and explores, manifestly stirring his nature as our young men and youths are always impressed, with loyal reverence for our great country. He has traversed Kansas, Colorado and Arizona, and across the Rio Grande to City of Mexico, and is thankful for being an American.

INQUEST ON CHILD'S DEATH

Medicine Thought to Have Been Fatal

An inquest was held before Judge Avery this morning on the death of Ruth Kelley, the two and one half months old daughter of Charles T. Kelley of 53 Billings road, who died May 16. It appears that the attending physician wrote a prescription for the child which among other things called for sugar of milk. Bessie Kelley, another child, was sent to a drug store to have the prescription compounded and returned with it. The medicine was given the child as directed and the next day it died.

The case was reported to Medical Examiner Jones who sent the powder to Prof. Whitney of Harvard for analysis. The analysis showed that instead of sugar of milk that boracic acid was used. The administering of this acid to the child is said to have caused its death.

The inquest this morning was to determine if the druggist had made a mistake in compounding the prescription.

The mother of the child is reported to be in a precarious condition on account of the death of the child.

GRANITE AND SCHOOLS

Reciprocity Proposed Between Quincy and Rochester

Joseph H. Trott of Rochester, N. Y., president of the New York State Retail Granite Dealers, and chairman of the National convention of granite and marble men to be held in his city August 24-27, is in Quincy this week, to awaken an interest among the Quincy granite manufacturers and dealers. He has secured favorable action on the part of the local association to make an exhibit at the convention, but he wants a large number of Quincy people to attend the convention, ladies as well as gentlemen, and says the "Convention city" will entertain them royally. It is proposed also to issue a souvenir program, and Mr. Trott has been successful in securing several Quincy advertisements. He argues that the Quincy exhibit and Quincy advertising will be a good thing for the "City of Presidents."

The Daily Ledger would suggest that we get ahead of Rochester, and extend an invitation to the Rochester teachers (headed by Charles F. Harper) to make their headquarters at Quincy, when they come to the National convention in Boston. We should be able to take into our homes all who come.

CLAMBAKE AND BASE BALL

Attraction for West Quincys Big Picnic

A largely attended meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association was held Thursday evening at which plans were completed for the grand outing of the association at Elcock's grove, Braintree pond, June 17.

The committee in charge of the outing reported that all arrangements were completed, and that a grand good time was assured. Up to the present time over $50 of groceries, etc., for the outing had been donated, and the committee has placed the order for upwards of twenty bushels of clams for the grand clam bake that will be served at 2 o'clock.

On the morning of the Seventeenth the members of the association and friends will meet at Brewers corner where the band will give a short concert after which a march will be taken to the West Quincy depot. Special cars will be in waiting to take the picnickers to the nearest point to the grove in Braintree. This point is within ten minutes walk of the grove. Barges will be in waiting to take the women and young children to the grove.

During the morning there will be a series of sports which will include trap shooting, a mile run, and several half mile runs, potato race, etc., as well as races for girls. The dinner will be served at 2 o'clock, after which the great game of ball between the Copelands and West Quincys will be played, which will be the wind-up of the day. All that is now necessary to make the day a success is good weather.

Aside from discussing plans for the outing, the association took up the telephone question as recently reported by the Highway Commission. The association placed itself on record as approving the report of the commission as to doing away with the four party lines and reducing the toll to Boston to five cents. During the argument it was brought out that the railroad would carry a person to Boston for nine or ten cents yet the telephone company charged ten cents to carry the voice to Boston.

Another meeting of the association will be held next Thursday evening to make final arrangements for the outing on the following day.

MAN AND THE RAT.

The Long Battle Between These Two Conquering Forces.

The dominion of man over the beasts of the field does not yet include the rodents. Aurochs, cave bear and mammoth we put down with stone headed arrows. We have wiped out the buffalo. The lion and the elephant will soon be gone. But still the rabbit of Australia cost the colonies millions a year. Traps, ferrets and poison still fail to make headway against the rats, mice and gophers of the United States. While our animal enemies have become smaller in size, they have grown more numerous. It is as if nature after trying vainly to chastise her insurgent son with a catapult had gone after him with a shotgun.

The fact is that of all warm blooded creatures there are just two that are really dominant, successful, increasing in numbers and range and able to maintain themselves anywhere in the world against all rivals. These two are man and the rats. The genus homo and genus mus go everywhere and eat everything. They are the two creatures that dwell in houses and travel in ships. Each drives its other rivals to the wall, but neither except locally and for brief periods has ever come near to exterminating the other. Civilized man has fought the common rat for 200 years, and the battle is still drawn.—McClure's Magazine.

A KING'S DOWNFALL.

Louis Philippe's Lack of Nerve When the Crisis Came.

Baroness Bonde wrote in her diary the following account of the abdication of Louis Philippe of France on the day of that remarkable occurrence:

"An aid-de-camp of the minister of war who was in the king's cabinet when he abdicated gave me a detailed account of this most signal piece of cowardice. He had reviewed the troops in the carrousel on horseback, highly rouged, when a cry was raised, 'Voici les Faubourgs!' No one had any orders; no one gave any. The mob rushed forward, shouting, 'Vive la garde nationales—vivent les troupes!' and shook hands with the outposts. The king retreated precipitately with his sons, and a sublieutenant of the national guard rushed into the palace asking to see him. He was admitted and in the greatest agitation said, 'Your majesty must abdicate.' 'Very well,' says the king. 'In favor of my grandson.' 'No, unconditionally,' says the young and self elected mouthpiece of public opinion.

"Would you believe it? Of all who were congregated round the royal person Piscatory alone said: 'Go down and head your troops. Fight for your crown and your dynasty.' He was overruled, and they all marched out of the palace except the Duchesse d'Orleans, her children and the Duc de Nemours."

¶ Women are more interested in store news, than news of the world. Seventy percent of the retail buying is done by women, and the balance is largely influenced by women. The advertising columns of the big Sunday papers are eagerly read by the housewife, by the daughter, and by women in all walks of life. The merchants in the large cities realize this and take liberal space in the papers to put their goods before the public. Their "ads" are well written, nicely planned, properly balanced and attractively arranged, and the more they advertise the larger their store grows. Attract the attention of women by your advertising and the men will soon follow suit.

What about YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

Do you turn your stock over as often as you would like?

The very stock that you carry on your shelves until it becomes shopworn, is being brought into Quincy every day by Quincy people who watch the Boston "ads."

When the manufacturer's salesmen put a new line of goods on your shelves, and the manufacturer begins a bill-board and magazine advertising campaign, why don't you, Mr. Merchant, let the people know that you have those goods to sell.

It takes time and money to introduce new goods and the manufacturer of today spends his money liberally to tell the people the good points of his wares and create a demand.

Now About YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

With the manufacturer spending money to help you, what are you doing to help yourself?

Do you let the people know that you carry the goods that are so well advertised by the manufacturer?

¶ Any business must grow under the influence of advertising. An occasional "ad" will bring some results, but think what a well written "ad" and continuous publicity will do.

"I---y S--p—It floats" you know what those few letters mean. Advertising did it, and will continue to do it.

¶ We know you are desirous of increasing your business, and The Ledger would be pleased to help you get the business.

¶ Quincy merchants carry a good quality of goods, and The Ledger goes into the homes of the people that buy these good goods.

¶ Help Quincy grow; keep Quincy money in Quincy; and bring more money into Quincy by patronizing the advertising columns of The Ledger today, tomorrow and every day.

The man who wrote this "ad." will write yours,

BRIEFS

The City Council committee on Finance met Thursday evening.

The class of 1911 at the Woodward Institute give a reception tonight to the class of 1910.

A concrete sign post has been erected at the junction of Hancock and Temple streets.

Paragon Park at Nantasket opens for the season Saturday evening with an attractive program.

July Fourth is so near, why not let the decorations in City Square remain until after the National holiday

The band concert Thursday evening was given in front of the Bethany church. It was pleasing to note that hats were lifted when "America" was played.

Commissioner Bainbridge caused a new hydrant to be set up in City Square on Thursday. It is located in front of the Adams building on Temple street, and was put in for the use of the Fire department for its trial Saturday afternoon.

ON THE VERMONT.

The practice cruise for the naval reserves will occur this year during the week from July 23 to 30. By orders issued by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop, the Massachusetts naval militia has been assigned to the battleship Vermont built at Quincy, one of the fleet which made the famous trip around the world.

A GOOD MODEL.

James Duncan of Quincy, first vice president of the A. F. of L., was the guest and speaker at Wednesday afternoon's session of the ladies' garment workers' union international convention in Boston. He brought the greetings of Pres. Gompers and definite promises of further assistance from the A. F. of L. in the general organizing and label agitation work of the ladies' garment workers. The Globe says: Vice President Duncan impressed upon the delegates the advantages of high dues and good permanent benefits systems and an ample fund for every emergency. He cited the case of his own union, the granite cutters' national union, of which he is the general secretary, as a good model of a vigorous protective organization.

ON TRIP AROUND GLOBE

Prince Fushimi and His Wife to Visit Boston For Few Days

Boston, June 10.—Prince and Princess Fushimi of Japan, the first members of the royal family to visit Boston, will arrive here on Sunday.

They are to "do" Boston for a few days, visiting the Fore River shipyards and the various places of historic interest and museums about the city. They are at present in New York. From here they go to Niagara Falls, Washington and the west. The return to Japan will be made from San Francisco, June 21. This will complete their journey around the world.

The prince is the cousin of the mikado and was his special envoy at King Edward's funeral.

SENDS INVITATION TO AN "INSURGENT"

Roosevelt to Hear All Sides of the Political Situation

Washington, June 10.—That Theodore Roosevelt intends to hear both sides before reaching any decision as to the attitude he will assume with regard to the administration and the insurgent situation was further evidenced when it became known that Representative Madison of Kansas, an insurgent, has received a letter from the former president in which Madison is invited to a conference in New York immediately after Roosevelt's return.

The invitation to Madison has inspired fresh hope in the insurgent ones that the former executive will line up with them after his careful review of the situation. Roosevelt already has agreed to speak in Kansas, the state from which Madison hails, upon the invitation of Governor Stubbs.

When the house got word of the Roosevelt-Madison letter it increased speculation as to Roosevelt's probable course and caused some uneasiness among the regulars.

THREE MORE TURNED DOWN

Hub Mayor's Appointments Not Satisfactory to the Commission

Boston, June 10.—Three more of Mayor Fitzgerald's appointees were added to the civil service commission's "rejected list" yesterday, when the "time limit" expired on the appointments of Matthew Cummings, national president of the A. O. H., as superintendent of public buildings; Joseph P. Lyons, as penal commissioner, and Morris L. Morrison as a member of the board of assessors.

The appointment of Mrs. Daniel V. McIsaac as music commissioner expires today. While the commission may send notice of the approval of her appointment to the city clerk before night, this is considered as doubtful at city hall.

STORK NEGLECTS FRANCE

Far Outstripped by Germany In the Matter of Population

Paris, June 10.—Vital statistics show a decrease in the birth rate in France. The births during 1909 were 770,000, against 792,000 in the preceding year.

Since 1851 the population of the republic has been increased by 3,000,000 only, while the population of Germany in the same period has been increased by 30,000,000.

Washington, June 10.—The conference report on the river and harbor bill was adopted in the senate by a vote of 45 to 12.

IS BOUND FOR HOME SHORES

Roosevelt's Travels Abroad Have Come to an End

QUIETLY SLIPS FROM LONDON

Takes Long Jaunt Through Typical English Countryside and Motors to Southampton, Where He Boards Steamer—Ex-President Achieved Remarkable Popularity During His Visit to England

London, June 10.—Theodore Roosevelt's brief visit to England ended this morning, when he sailed from Southampton for New York.

Though unfortunately coinciding with the period of national mourning, and for that reason shorn of much of the splendor which would have accompanied it under happier circumstances, it was nevertheless one of the most noteworthy foreign visits paid to Great Britain's shores in recent years.

No foreign ruler or man of eminence could have aroused more universal attention, received a warmer welcome or achieved a greater popularity among every class of society.

It is true that his strictures on Egyptian affairs occasioned political resentment in some quarters, but he left no rancor behind, because he was regarded as a privileged guest in whom no unworthy or unfriendly motive could be suspected, and the frankness of his utterances is taken as a measure of the strength of the friendship binding the two nations.

The death of King Edward compelled the curtailment of public demonstrations and entertainments projected in his honor. Even at that, he was unable to accept half the invitations showered upon him. In characteristic fashion Roosevelt deprived Londoners of the opportunity of giving him a sendoff. Before the people were aware of his intention he had quietly left the city, not half a dozen persons knowing the time or the manner of his departure.

It appears that Roosevelt complained that he had not had time to see a hundredth part of the country. He particularly wanted to walk through a typical English countryside. Accordingly Sir Edward Gray, the foreign secretary, gave him a friendly challenge to tramp through New Forest, a picturesque and romanatic spot, near Southampton, full of geological and antiquarian interest. Roosevelt accepted the challenge.

Sir Edward is a keen angler and deeply interested in ornithology, and the two started yesterday on a long tramp through the woods. They spent the night at an inn, motoring into Southampton this morning, where Roosevelt met his wife and family, who went from London to Southampton in a special car.

The party occupied the royal saloon on the special train, which proceeded to the docks, where a special tender chartered by the line conveyed them to the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, anchored in the Solent.

The ex-president had to decline the invitation of the mayor of Southampton to a public luncheon in his honor. He also expressed regret at his inability to lay the cornerstone of the memorial to be erected on the spot where the Pilgrim fathers sailed for America.

SENT MONEY TO COLEMAN

Witness Says That Cash Was Furnished "Marshall" by Keliher

Boston, June 10.—John R. Marshall, the mysterious "real estate dealer," telegraphed $200 to George W. Coleman when the fleeing bank clerk was in Kansas City, according to the sworn testimony of John A. Cunniff in the trial of "Big Bill" Keliher.

The cash was furnished by Keliher, however, Cunniff testified. Cunniff said he saw Keliher hand the money to Marshall on Feb. 21, and that he accompanied Marshall to the Western Union telegraph office and saw him pay the money to a woman cashier.

This is in flat contradiction of the testimony of Miss Kilday, employed by the telegraph company, who swore positively on the witness stand that Keliher had sent the money in person.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

CONTRACTORS APPEAL

Fined $50 Each For Having Milk Which Would Not Stand Test

Boston, June 10.—Two milk contractors were found guilty by Judge Wentworth of the municipal court on the charge of having in their possession milk which contained more than half a million bacteria. George Whiting, who was the first defendant to be called, pleaded not guilty and was fined $50. Inspector Jordan, who appeared for the board of health, stated that a sample of milk was found to contain, he claimed, 1,600,000 bacteria per cubic centimetre. The defendant did not offer any defense, but appealed the case.

In the case against H. P. Hood & Sons, Inc., Charles W. Bond appeared for the corporation and pleaded not guilty. Jordan said that a sample which was taken from one of the Hood company's wagons contained 2,500,000 bacteria per cubic centimetre. The defendant was found guilty and fined $50. He appealed.

INVESTIGATION IS VOTED

Legislature Will Look Into Suicide of Boy In Lyman School

Boston, June 10.—The suicide of John Newman, the 14-year-old Cambridge boy who hanged himself at the Lyman school, is to be officially investigated by the Massachusetts house of representatives. This action was decided upon by the house when the order calling for investigation of the events leading up to the lad's death was adopted by a rising vote of 65 to 48.

For an hour and a half debate waxed hot on the measure under discussion, certain members contending that the lad had been given a brutal beating at the institution, while others went to the defense of the school, its trustees and officials.

Representative Reed of Cambridge asserted that he had viewed the body of the youth, and that appearances indicated that he had been shamefully abused.

JEWISH CITIZENS VISIT WHITE HOUSE

Congressman Who Calls With Them Gets a Freeze-Out

Washington, June 10.—Representative Harrison of New York was refused an audience at the White House when he called with a number of Jewish delegates who had appeared a short time before at a hearing by a house committee on Harrison's resolution to have congress protest against the Russian massacres. After some parleying, however, the Jewish delegates accompanying Harrison were admitted to see Mr. Taft, although the New York representative himself waited outside.

Mr. Taft based his refusal to see Harrison on statements attributed by newspapers to the representative concerning his resolution in the house calling upon Attorney General Wickersham for full information as to the connection of his office with the Ballinger-Pinchot episode.

Mr. Harrison, according to the White House version of the matter, charged the president and Wickersham with having wilfully misled congress in the back dating of the attorney general's summary of the Glavis charges against Ballinger.

DEATH OF DICKINSON

Casualty Company Says It Was Not Due to Natural Causes

New York, June 10.—C. C. Dickinson, the millionaire head of the Carnegie Trust company, whose death came soon after a recent visit to a laboratory in Scranton, Pa., to witness the artificial manufacture of silver, did not die from natural causes, according to a statement issued by the Casualty Company of America over the statement of President DeLeon.

Physicians employed by the company performed an autopsy. The company does not state what caused death.

AT THE BOSTON THEATRES

KEITH'S THEATRE.

There has been no body on the stage in recent years who has attracted more attention and caused more widespread comment than Madam Chung, the little Chinese actress who is appearing at Keith's in Loie Fuller's remarkable production, "The Dragons of Wrath." It is extraordinary to see a theatre crowded to the doors at every performance at this season of the year, but that is what is happening at Keith's and the hit that this little Chinese actress has made, and the popularity she has won in a strange land, is shown by the applause that greets her at every appearance. Madam Chung has certainly a remarkable personality. She is petite ,typically Chinese, and with all the dignity of a princess, the part which she takes in this big spectacle. Of course it is something intended entirely for Americans, and for this reason Madam Chung has not had as much opportunity as she would in a Chinese play. But she has several dramatic scenes that show she is a born actress and if she remains in this country and decides to go into strictly dramatic work ,will undoubtedly create an immense sensation. "The Dragons of Wrath" is the most pretentious feature ever offered in vaudeville ,and has no less than 18 different features, or numbers, including gthe beautiful European dancers; the wonderful light effects including the Magic Veil, which has never before been seen in this country; Chinese women with small feet, and a host of other novelties.

CASTLE SQUARE.

The season of the John Craig Stock Company will end next week with a special double entertainment. Openfarce in three acts, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram." It is a sprightly play in ing the program will come the merry which there is an abundance of fun without any taint of impropriety or any element of offence. Mr. Craig will play the leading male role, Miss Young the heroine, and there will be a good part for everybody. As a wind-up to the program, the double bill will have for its second part, Sheridan's farce, "The Critic," in which Mr. Craig made a hit some seasons ago during his management of another Boston theatre. This play will give the actors a chance for the liveliest and most novel of fun-making, and it will certainly be a pleasure to the audience to hear Mr. Craig, Miss Young, Miss Binley, Mr. Meek, Mr. Hassell addressed by their own names and in their own persons behind the footlights. The plot represents a rehearsal as taking place on the stage, and much merriment is extracted from a series of amusing situations. A week from Monday, June 20th, the summer opera season opens at the Castle Square, with "The Mikado" as the opening piece.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Monday evening at the Majestic theatre, Miss Charlotte Hunt will make the first Shakespearan production of her season appearing with the support of her comapny in that immortal love story "Romeo and Juliet." In making this production the actress manager is anxious that it should compare favorably with those efforts constructed to do duty for a full season rather than for the single week during which the play will be seen at the Majestic. No expense is being spared either with reference to the scenery, costumes or cast to make the performance a satisfactory one, and it will be staged with due respect for all the Shakespearean traditions. Miss Hunt wil lof course appear in the part of Juliet. It is not a new one for her as she appeared in it at the age of sixteen and has repeated her performance from time to time since then. With her youth and grace Miss Hunt should make an ideal actress to interpret this part. Since beginning her season at the Majestic theatre Miss Hunt has demonstrated that the plays she selects are staged with a care and intelligence far above the ordinary stock company and the praise she has received from press and public alike, speak of all her productions as equaling in every way the plays when performed by tha original companies. Considering that such plays as "The Blue Mouse" and "The Great Divide" have so recently been seen in Boston as to be keenly remembered in their original productions this praise is of the highest order.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The third week of the Aborn Comic Oepra Company's run at the Boston Opera House, beginning Monday night will bring the first revival of later comic opera successes, "Mlle. Modiste" being the offering for the usual eight performances. This famous comic opera by Victor Herbert and Henry M. Blossom, written for Mme. Fritzi-Scheff, and in which she starred for two seasons with great success, will be presented by the Aborn company for the first time at popular prices. The fact that this piece is to be performed with a part of the original cast, under the direction of the Frank Beresford, who has been especially engaged for this purpose, and with the entire original production, which Messrs. Aborn recently purchased intact, will make it a most notable offering. The title part of Mlle. Fifi, the little French millinery sales girl who becomes a prima donna, will be assumed by Ada Meade, one of the latest and most important recruits to the Aborn aggregation, who has met with decided success in this role before. Messrs. Aborn recently revived "Mlle Modiste" in other cities where their Comic Opera organizations are appearing, and this entire cast were accorded general and individual praise from the critics;' hence their transference to the Boston Opera House in keeping with the Aborn policy of exchanging artists between their various companies.

BOSTON'S NEW "AIRDOME."

Boston is to have one of the biggest outdoor vaudeville and hippodrone entertainments in the country beginning Monday evening, June 13, when the American League baseball grounds, Huntington avenue, the home of the famous "Red Sox" team, will be converted into the "Airdome." For the opening week of the Airdome the management promises a bill of sensational interest. The program will be marked by variety and "class" and will include acts of daring and acts that will amuse; graceful acts and grotesque acts, in fact, the fifteen big numbers in the ring and on the open air stage will run the entire gamut of clean, bright outdoor entertainment. One of the special features already announced will be the Airdome Girls, a double quartet of the cleverest and prettiest dancers ever seen together in one act. These young women have been carefully selected from among the host of terpsichorean artists in this country and England and have been quietly rehearsing together for many weeks some absolutely novel dance numbers. Another feature of the big Airdome entertainment will be Thompson's High School horses, the most intelligent equine actors ever seen in the ring. These handsome animals may properly be described as "able to do everything but talk." Principal among the comedy features on the program will be Rice, Sully and Scott in their side-splitting grotesque trampoline bar act. Teel's famous band will contribute the musical part of the entertainment every week day evening and Saturday matinee while a special concert by this organization will be given on Sunday evenings together with the very latest of moving pictures. There will be a special matinee June 17, Bunker Hill day.

Lovell and His Wife Return Child to Her Foster Mother

Boston, June 10.—After all the police in New England had been on a three-day search for 3-year-old Irene Dowling, she was returned to her foster mother, Mrs. Jane McDevitt, by George Lovell and his wife.

"Little Irene was taken to Salem, according to the story of Mrs. Lovell, who called here and gave her to me," said Mrs. McDevitt.

Mrs. McDevitt would not say what would now be done about the kidnapping charge. She appeared satisfied with the return of the little girl, whom she legally adopted.

Up to last Sunday night the Lovells had the child and when Mrs. McDevitt demanded the child they fled. Mrs. McDevitt notified the police and every town and city in New England was told to be on guard.

Swallowed Handful of Pins

South Norwalk, Conn., June 10.—The death of Mrs. F. B. Malkit puzzled the doctors until an autopsy was performed. It was discovered that she had swallowed a handful of pins, it is believed while insane.

SAY INCREASES ARE JUSTIFIBLE

Contention of Eastern Railroads In Regard to Rates

WILL INSIST ON RECOGNITION

New Changes Will Merely Be Suspended Until After Railroad Bill Shall Have Become Law—Passenger Rates Declared Not Affected by Verbal Agreement Between Railroad Men and President Taft

Washington, June 10.—The eastern railroads, including the New York entral, Erie, Delaware and Lackawanna, have decided not to withdraw the increased rates which were recently filed with the interstate commerce commission and which were the subject of a White House conference on Tuesday. Instead, they will submit supplemental notices, postponing the date of the enforcement of these higher tariffs until after the railroad bill shall have become a law.

Arrangements to the foregoing effect were made at the commission, when representatives of the eastern roads conferred with the commissioners regarding the best way of carrying out the White House agreement. This means that the railroads have not backed down in their contention that the increases are justifiable. Also, that they intend to insist on the recognition of the higher rates, and that they will support them formally before the commission after the new law becomes effective.

Whether or not the increases are to stand will be determined on full hearing by the commissioners.

Increases in commutation passenger fares made recently by the railway lines operating out of New York city will not be affected by the verbal agreement reached by the railway officials and President Taft. This announcement was made at the offices of the interstate commerce commission. In the judgment of the officers of the commission, the rates discussed by the president and the railroad officials were freight rates. These are the only rates that generally have been increased.

Advances have been made in the commutation rates out of New York city by all of the lines doing a commutation business. They will become effective on or about July 1. In some instances the increases amount to 30 percent, or even more, but generally the advances aggregate between 5 and 10 percent.

It is held, however, that the commission is bound to recognize the tariffs making the increases, so they were filed in the regular way provided by the statute, the railroads being entirely within their rights in making the increases. Whether the interstate commutation rates fixed by the new tariff are reasonable or not is a question for future determination.

Of course the volume of commutation traffic must be considered in the making of such a rate, and also in the determination of its reasonableness. Sooner or later it is expected that the interstate commutation rates made by the New York lines will come before the interstate commerce commission, but they apparently were not covered by the agreement entered into regarding "rates" by the railroad officials and President Taft.

STRUCK BY AN ENGINE

Four Occupants of Funeral Coach Killed and One Dying

Haverstraw, N. Y., June 10.—Three mourners, their pastor and their driver, sat in a funeral coach here and watched certain death come rushing down on them at fifty miles an hour.

With a screech of grinding brakes, a heavy freight engine, hurrying south to pick up a train at Weehawken, dashed into the coach, scattering its occupants along the right of way.

All the occupants were either killed outright or fatally injured. The dead are Rev. A. Romath, E. V. Seifred, Mrs. E. V. Seifred and William Beebe.

Mrs. Perry Kessler's skull was fractured and she will die.

PRESENCE OF MIND SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE

Machinery Stopped When She Was Caught In Cog Wheels

Gloucester, Mass., June 10.—Annie Paige, aged 26, narrowly escaped death last night by being drawn into the mechanism of a moving carrier belt at the fish loft of Sylvanus Smith & Co., where she is employed.

Her right leg, which was caught in the machinery of the belt used to carry fish from one floor to the one above, was crushed from the ankle to the hip.

The woman was engaged in piling bundles of fish on the lower platform of the carrier belt. In some way either her skirt caught or she took a misstep and jammed her foot into the cog wheels. The right foot was engaged in the cog wheels, which drew in the leg, and would have ground her to death but for the stopping of the machinery.

The foreman of the floor happened to be standing by the lever that controls all of the machinery. Without waiting to find out the cause of the screams he shut down, just in time to save Miss Paige.

FOR FEAR OF FEUD

Immigration Officials Cause Newly Arrived Italian to Be Deported

Boston, June 10.—When the White Star liner Canopic left here this noon for the Mediterranean she had on board Stefano Rappo, who arrived on the same steamer last Monday.

According to the port officials, Rappo is alleged to have killed a man in Avellino, Italy, his native town, and as the four sons of the murdered man live here, it was feared that Rappo's presence here would renew the old feud.

Rappo claims he was incarcerated in prison for twenty months, awaiting trial, which resulted in his acquittal. As he had no proof of this he was detained.

The Sunday school of the Hall Place M. E. church will give a concert appropriate to Children's Day on Sunday, at 7 P. M. in the church.

Congressman O'Connell of this district was one of the 24 Democrats who voted for the postal savings bank bill which was passed by the National House on Thursday 195 to 101.

No school signals have not been very frequent this term, but the children got an unexpected half holiday this afternoon ,the signal being given at 12.30.

City Square contained a number of fakers Thursday night, drawn by the band concert crowd. One of the fakers was a Brockton sheet music concern who had a vocalist and piano to entertain the crowd.

Again today it is cold and stormy. For the second time in June the noon temperature is below 60. In June 1909 and 1908 there were no days with noon temperature below 60, but in 1907 it touched 46 and was below 60 on three different days.

George W. Gragg of Quincy Point was on Thursday elected for the tenth time to represent the Maine division at the National encampment, Sons of Veterans. He was formerly located at Bath, Maine, where he was commander of T. W. Hyde camp. He is serving as a special aid on the staff of Commander in Chief George W. Pollitt of Paterson, N. J.

A very pleasing entertainment and strawberry social was given by the Ladies Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church in the vestry, Wednesday evening. The entertainment consisted of vocal solos, piano selections and readings, and was in charge of Mrs. Blaisdell. After the entertainment, strawberries and cream and college ices were served by the members of the society to a large number.

Fellow Employes and Eagles At Funeral of J. F. Duggan

Funeral services for John F. Duggan, late of 46 North Payne street, South Quincy, were held this morning.

After the services at the late home the body was taken to St. John's church where the Gregorian mass was sung by the Rev. Patrick Scannell. The responses were by the regular choir; John Mahan, organist. After the elevation Mary Burns sang the Pie Jesu. There was an unusual display of flowers.

Following the service the body was taken to the railroad station to be conveyed to Warren, Mass., where it was met by many friends of the deceased who lived there for many years. The interment will be in St. Paul's cemetery in Warren.

Mr. Duggan was employed by R. E. Foy whose store was closed during the services, and the employees with Mr. Foy escorted the body from the home to the church and station. A deputation from John Adams Aerie, 1180, F. O. E., also accompanied the body. Those from the Eagles were: John Bowden and Frank W. Lynch; while B. R. McQueen, L. A. Hurley, C. Johnson and Charles Day represented the employes of Foy's store, of whom sixteen attended the services.

The pall bearers wer Charles J. Forrant, Frank W. Lynch, John Bowden, Carl Johnson, Leo Hurley and Russell McQueen.

Mr. Duggan has lived in Quincy for some years and leaves a widow, and three children and a host of friends.

"Those girls do me great credit, I think," declared a lady in the audience.

"You are one of their teachers, I presume?"

"No; I'm a dressmaker."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

RUBE'S SPORTING CHAT

Good afternoon, friends.

Bruce made them all sit up and take notice.

• • •

In answer to numerous requests from baseball fans all over the city, the Copeland-Hyde Park game of the Norfolk county league will start at 4 P. M. at Old Colony league grounds tomorrow. This is so the fans can take in the game after viewing the fire apparatus in City Square.

The Quincy Old Colony league club visit Stoughton tomorrow in their efforts to stay on top. Hall of Tufts will be in the box for the locals, and the same line-up will be seen. The Deweys entertain the Lincoln sluggers, and many from this city plan to take in the game and view Blodgett's fast outfit.

Jimmy Michael writes that the Nova Scotia league opens tomorrow, and he is in pink of condition to hold the opposing batsmen at his mercy.

The Warren Stars after a fresh victory over the Rover Red Sox inform me they are desirous of meeting any 9-10 year old team in this section. For games write K. Lunquist, Ryden street, Quincy.

The batting averages of the Quincy Old Colony league players caused no little surprise to the many readers of the Daily Ledger last evening. The writer plans to keep the readers of this paper posted on everything of importance in the sporting line, and asks any club, society or individual to bring any thing they may have any time to this office that it may be published.

• • •

The challenge from the Wollastons to the Willards, which appeared in the columns of this paper last evening, is the object of much conversation throughout the city. Personally I fail to see why Wollaston should ask for another contest. They were defeated in the final game when baseball nerve counted, and it to be hoped they will not give us the impression they are hard losers by taking the stand they have.

BRIEFS

Judge and Mrs. James H. Flint will occupy the Taylor house on Great Hill, Houghs Neck, the coming summer.

Next Friday, the Seventeenth of June, the Makaria will meet the Quincys of the Old Colony League on the Water street grounds.

Mrs. Stephen Penniman and Miss Lois Penniman who passed the winter at White Plains, N. Y., returned to Quincy this week for the summer.

Saturday, June 4, was observed as Donation day at the Pondville home. About 300 were present, 17 coming from Quincy. The new stone chapel was dedicated with appropriate exercises. There are now 12 aged people in the home. During its existence 20 old people have been cared for six coming from Quincy. Donations are always welcome and should be sent to the treasurer Mrs. Abbie F. Fenno, 538 Hancock street, Wollaston.

After the business meeting of St. Margaret's guild Friday evening, June 3, a delightful party was enjoyed by fifty-three of the Guild members. The program had been planned with much care by the committee in charge ,and everything was a success. Some of the surprises were, a Shadow Dance, an illustrated song, an da new variety of charades; and music was given by Mrs. Moore and Miss Carruthers. The evening ended with dancing. The refreshments were strawberries and ice cream, with delicious home made cake.

Reptiles That Walk Erect.

Lizards of several sorts can walk and run easily on their hind legs. The Australian water lizard, which is three or four feet in length, keeps quite erect when traversing long distances on land. It is found in the neighborhood of river banks and passes much of its time in shallow water.

The frilled lizard of Queensland also travels on its hind legs on level ground, keeping the frill folded when running. When attacked it expands this fold of skin, which stands out like a ruff at right angles round the neck, giving it a most formidable aspect, so that dogs that attack and kill larger lizards will often retreat before a frilled lizard at bay.

There is also a tree lizard in Australia that moves in a similar way. All these species walk on all fours when merely moving about or going short distances.

PRESIDENT TAFT OR ROOSEVELT

Will Be Invited to Review Quincy Parade on the Fourth of July

Parade to be the Big Feature of the Day

It was unanimously voted, at a meeting of the Parade Committee in Union Hall last night, that Col. Henry L. Kincaide, as a committee of one, interview such persons as he deems advisable with a view to having either President William H. Taft or ex-president Theodore Roosevelt in Quincy, for sufficient time on the morning of July 4th to review the parade as it passes before the judges stand in City Square. The committee heard the motion with the greatest enthusiasm and it was passed instantly.

Col. Kincaide will immediately begin his work by calling on Senator Eugene C. Hultman, to request that he assist the project as far as it lies in his power, since the President is in great demand, and it is felt that the President will willingly come to Quincy if he has no previous engagement for the hour that his presence is requested here.

Mr. Taft will be at Beverly Farms late in June to greet ex-President Roosevelt on his return from his European tour, and on the Fourth will be in Boston and Somerville therefore there is no reason to doubt that he will come, since he will be required to stay only long enough to review the parade as it passes through City Square for the award of prizes, and probably to say a few words.

If the President will consent to come to Quincy there is no doubt but that the city will have within its limits the greatest crowd ever collected on the South Shore.

With regard to the parade itself the committee has been very earnest and energetic, and have made very complete arrangements for a successful event. Ward committees are, however, being nominated to arouse public interest to the highest point, for Col Kincaide says that while with the material in hand at present he could present as fine a parade as has ever been seen in Quincy, he feels that still more may be done, and he wants to do it—to have nothing undone which could possibly better the parade.

At present owing to Merchants' Week, the other committee are held back, not knowing how the committee on finance intends to proceed, but after today things will be taken up and rushed to a successful finish.

WOODWARD RECEPTION

Pantomine Presented and Class Parts Given

The closing reception of the class of 1911 to the class of 1910 of the Woodward Institute was held last evening, and although the weather was stormy and disagreeable it did not prevent a large attendance of the two classes. The students had no cause for regret braving the elements, for the evening proved to be one of much enjoyment for all.

During the first part of the evening the two classes and faculty assembled in the hall, where the class of 1911 with Miss Ruth Hilderbrand, as the reader, presented the pantomine, "The House that Jack built." The characters in the pantomine were impersonated by Miss Caroline Sprague, Miss Sybil Marsh, Miss Ella Melville, Miss Rachel Hardwick, Miss Frances Curtin and Miss Elizabeth Deane. The pantomine was finely rendered and the applause given was as well deserved as it was freely given.

An adjournment was then made to the Music room, which was beautifully decorated in red and white the class and school colors. There the senior class had the principal part. Miss Doris Cummings, president of the class of 1911, made an address of Welcome, which was responded to by Miss Gertrude Baker, president of the Senior class. Misses Baker, Bean and Smith delivered the senior class prophecy, and Miss Gertrude Shaw the class history.

Following these exercises ices and cake were served. Then came the cutting and distribution of the class cake by President Baker. Hidden within the cake were a thimble, ring and coins, and the cutting of the cake was anxiously watched, to see who would be fortunate enough to secure the much coverted articles. The thimble fell to Miss Drummond, the ring to Miss Dorlay and the coins to Miss Vendret and Miss Cook.

Miss Cummings, president of the class of 1911 then appeared, dressed as a Gypsy Queen, and as each of the Seniors passed before her, she told their fortunes. The Queen had much that was good in store for the seniors, and it only remains to be seen how true a prophet the Queen was.

The evening closed with dancing until 10.30, with the unanimous sentiment that not only had the evening's program been well managed, but that it had been one of the most delightful evenings of the many that had fallen to the class of 1910, many of whom will conclude their school day life at the close of the graduation exercises next Wednesday evening.

TO START CAMPAIGN

To Raise $6,000 to Remodel First Presbyterian Church

The water Street Presbyterian Church will start a campaign Monday morning, under the direction of the Rev. James A. Matheson, the pastor, to raise $6000 in one week to defray the expenses of an extensive remodeling of the church. The Christian Endeavor, Ladies Aid, Ladies Missionary societies and other organizations will get out in full strength to work for the money. The sum of $2400 has already been subscribed though the campaign is not yet opened.

The entire church will be remodeled along very handsome lines, which have been contemplated for some time. The congregation is very enthusiastic and will put forth every effort to raise the required amount, but it expected to exceed $6000 by a large margin.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Commissioner Bainbridge has awarded the contract for the heating and ventilating system for the John Hancock school building to Stone & Underhill, the lowest bidders. The bid was $4,998. The order for the heating and ventilating of the school appropriated $6,000. The balance between the bid and the amount appropriated will be necessary to prepare the foundation, etc.

PARADE POSTPONED

Will Probably be Held Next Saturday

The parade and trials of fire department scheduled for this afternoon, as a grand wind up for Merchants' Week, has been called off on account of stormy weather. Chief Williams said this morning that even should the weather clear by noon he would not want to call out the department, as the oiled streets would be so slippery it would be dangerous for the department to run at high speed.

Just when the parade will be held will not be determined until this afternoon, when a meeting of the committee will be held. It was thought this morning however that next Saturday would be the date selected. What ever date is selected the full program as arranged for today will be carried out.

VISITING NURSE CONFERENCE.

It is expected that Mrs. Rufus P. Williams of Cambridge, chairman of the Health department of the general federation of Women's clubs, will be one of the speakers at the Visiting Nurse conference to be held at the Quincy Women's club house next Wednesday afternoon. Other speakers will be Mrs. Emily Curtis Fisher, on the practical application of the Visiting Nurse in Norwood; Dr. W. J. Middleton of Quincy, who will speak of the Visiting Nurse. Miss Robinson, Quincy's visiting nurse, will also speak on the work from a nurse's standpoint. The conference is called for 2 o'clock.

The Venerable Samuel G. Babcock, Archdeacon of Massachusetts will deliver the address at the services in the Old North church, Salem street, Boston on Sunday afternoon, June 12 at four o'clock.

NAVY YARDS WIN OVER THE FORE RIVER

National House Favors Construction of Battleship at Brooklyn Navy Yard

Congressmen Roberts and Weeks Take Opposite Views

Another blow at shipbuilding for the government by private concerns, was dealt in the National House yesterday.

After a lengthy discussion says a Washington dispatch to the Globe, the House agreed to the senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill providing that one of the two new battleships authorized in the bill shall be constructed in the Brooklyn navy yard.

The amendment was opposed by Representative Weeks and given a qualified indorsement by Representative Roberts. The latter said he favored the construction of ships by the government in navy yards if the cost of such vessels was not more than 10 percent greater than the cost of ships built under private contract.

Representative Weeks made a strong speech against the senate amendment, but was outvoted by a large majority, Mr. Weeks said in part:

"Navy yards should be equipped to do work, so that the government shall not be imposed upon when it is letting contracts. They should be in condition, at least some one navy yard, to build battleships and build other vessels which the navy may require, but in my judgment for no other reason, because in every case where careful and unprejudiced ex-

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Statistics are not at hand, but Quincy does not appear to be having the usual number of June weddings.

The Supreme Court of the United States has re-decketed the income tax case on corporations. This tax will aggregate about $25,000,000 of revenue annually for the Government, which urgently needs increased revenues. The case now goes over until October. This little delay is the initial disappointment in this matter, which is to pave the way for the great disappointment yet to come, when that august cou t decides the tax unconstitutional ,as is most likely. Congress can levy all the taxes it wants on poor people, by taxing their needs, such as hosiery, gloves, dress goods, etc., but let Congress lay its gentle hands, however lightly, on the great corporations, and the federal courts snaps the law into shreds, as if it were a cobweb.

Commissioner Bainbridge explains the need of extra appropriation for sewer extension as follows. Since his request for $40,000 in the spring, the Board of Health has ordered that what is known as the"Dublin"shallbe sewered. The $40,000 will look after Houghs Neck and some other work, but will not be sufficient for Dublin. He claims that while there is a leeway of but $6,000 under the act of 1905, that there is a small balance under the original act for a sewer system.

It is probably a fact, however ,that the Board of Health has no authority to order the city to construct a sewer in any street of the city. Where sewers exist ,the board may have authority to order abutters to make connections, but that is another question. At the present time there are altogether too many houses on streets with sewers which have not been connected, and it would be a lon gtime before the houses of Dublin were connected if sewers were built. Quincy must check its appropriations, especially where loans must be made.

In 1903, when the last National convention of the teachers was held in Boston, the Quincy Historical Society took a prominent part in encouraging teachers from a distance to visit the "City of Presidents," and in entertaining them while here. Young men of the city acted as escorts to show them about the city, whether it was the historical places, the industries or the seashore that appealed to them. We want them to come again next month, when we will show them the birthplaces of two Presidents of the United States; also their burial places. Then there is old Merrymount where Morton revelled, the site where John Hancock was born, the home of "Dorothy Q." the Quincy granite quarries, the Fore River shipyard where battleships are being constructed, and the seashore at Houghs Neck, Wollaston Park and Squantum. Nothing would please some of the teachers from inland states better than a sail in a yacht. We hope a large number of teachers will visit "Historic Quincy."

In going about Quincy it is most difficult to determine in which direction to proceed to reach a given destination owing to the paucity of sign-boards at the intersections of streets. At very few of our street crossings are the streets properly denoted, and in many places such indications as there are, are now nearly obliterated by the action of weather. It is extremely annoying to be unable to determine one's whereabouts, causing as it does loss of time, and in some cases maybe, money.

There are districts where numerous new streets have been made, in which it is practically impossible to discover the names of the streets, and even in the heart of the city this condition obtains to a certain degree.

Quincy is being filled with strangers from day to day, who, without the aid of the friendly sign-board, become lost and confused, not to mention residents who are unfamiliar with the streets and the need of proper indicators of this sort is a crying one. The proper authorities should see that the defect be remedied without unnecessary delay for it is extremely inconvenient beside being a reflection on our up-to-dateness.

DRIET OF OPINION

The women's clubs of Kansas have come to the aid of the health authorities. A semi-annual clean-up under the auspices of the clubs will be a feature of the campaigns against the fly. This is to be accomplished by the city or town being divided into districts of proper size ,each district to be in charge of a committee of women, who will undertake to visit every home in the district ,advising them that on a certain date there will be a general city house-cleaning. The fly has been publicly indicted as a murderer of the human race, and the efforts to rid the world of him are not because he is a common nuisance—which should be enough—but because the fly is the greatest disease breeder and the carrier of more disease germs than all other animal life put together. The health authorities of New York estimate that about one-half of the deaths from typhoid in the city are attributable to the distribution of germs by the flies. They also declare that about three-fourths o fthe young children who die from bowel complaints, which flies are chiefly instrumental in spreading, would never have been taken against flies. Kansas is setting the other states a good example.—Haverhill Gazette.

Pedestrians are slowly but steadily learning the lesson that before they step off the curb they must "stop, look and listen," in accordance with the old fundamental doctrine, of law governing the responsibility of individuals when approaching a potential source of danger such as a railroad crossing. It should not be necessary for the motorist to sound a horn to let anybody know of his presence in the neighborhood. Of course occasionally conditions develop when such a warning is required, such as when a car suddenly comes out from behind a screen of other vehicles, and which it is overtaking, or at some congested crossings. Yet with everybody tooting at once the value of the warning of each horn is diminished.

Unless some check is put upon the volume or character of the sound produced by the auto horns pandemonium will quickly ensue. There is now a large premium awaiting the man who can invent some new form of shocker, screecher, howler or other arrester of attention, and at the present rate of progress our streets will soon be a bedlam of hideous sounds, with pedestrians more confused and in greater danger than ever unless they rely strictly upon their eyes and place no faith whatever in their ears for their protection.—Washington Star.

Colonel Roosevelt wins a lot of respect by his declaration that he will accept no favors at the New York custom house when he reaches this country, and that he expects to pass through the customs the same as any private citizen retu ning from abroad. He proposes to pay duty on every article on which anybody would have to pay duty. This is the right spirit and the right course. Perhaps the colonel will be able to make it fashionable for other returning Americans of wealth and distinction to tell the truth about their importations.—New Bedford Standard.

G. A. R. CONVENTION.

The 26th quarterly meeting of the Norfolk County Association of the G. A. R. and W. R. C., will be held in Dedham June 17. The veterans of the Civil war and the ladies of the corps will be entertained by Charles W. Carrill Post 144. The vets will meet in Odd Fellows' hall and the ladies in Ames School hall. Dinner will be served in Memorial hall. SHERIFF VISITS THE KINGDOM

Woman Is Taken Off on Writ of Habeas Corpus

LATER RETURNS TO THE SHIP

Expressed Desire to Remain With Holy Ghosters and Judge Therefore Orders Her Release—Raiding Party Sees Bones Showing Through Emaciated Hands of Sandford's Followers—Sheriffs After "Prophet"

Boston, June 11.—Sarah Josephs, the Syrian woman who was taken off the barkentine Kingdom yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus, slept there again last night, going back to the ship of her own free will.

Te raid was inspired by stories told by Mrs. Florence A. Whittaker. Judge Sheldon of the supreme court, who had granted the writ, ordered the girl released when she expressed a desire to stay with the Sandford colony.

To Rev. N. H. Harriman, himself an ex-Holy Ghoster, Mrs. Whittaker, who, with her four children, was rescued from the Kingdom in Casco bay, had said that the Syrian girl was anxious to get free of the ship in order to return to her brother in Cincinnati. Harriman, on learning this, immediately secured a writ of habeas corpus and made a descent on the Kingdom, which has been at anchor in lower Boston harbor.

He insists that the girl is hypnotized, that she replied to Judge Sherman's questions as she was forced to by the influence exerted over her by the leaders on the boat.

The raiding party went down the harbor on the tug Pallas about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They steamed to the Kingdom, made fast to the side of the barkentine and boarded her. No resistance was offered.

On deck they were met by Captain Perry. Their errand was explained to him. "Don't go below," he said to Sheriff Silsby. "I will produce the girl."

Perry went below, carefully closing the companionway behind him. Then ensued a wait of at least a half an hour. Meanwhile the crew of the Pallas, which was tied alongside, tried to steal a view of the between decks of the ship through the portholes.

Thin hands, the bones showing through the emaciated flesh, pulled curtains over these ports, shutting off even these chance glimpses of the interior of the ship. Finally Perry appeared on deck with Miss Josephs.

The Kingdom carries a crew of ten seamen, besides the captain. They are all converts to the religion of the "prophet," but are capable seamen, picked up in the seaport towns of New England.

Miss Josephs is 23 years old, very atttractive. Miles away from all relatives, in a ship off a foreign coast, she is completely under the influence of the sect she joined when only 17 years old, according to Mrs. Whittaker.

On the trail of the Coronet, aboard which "Elijah" Sandford is supposed to be, is a posse of sheriffs armed with writs of attachment in two $50,000 suits, brought by Mrs. Whittaker against the "Prophet."

Yesterday a heavy fog made the chase ineffective. The motor boat in which the posse are seeking the Coronet was unable to thoroughly cover even Portland harbor and Casco bay, which alone offer a thousand hiding places for the yacht.

Mrs. Whittaker is also seeking rescue for Edith McIntyre, the daughter of a Massachusetts merchant, who is at Shiloh, according to Mrs. Whittaker, under duress.

"The history of Sandfordism," said Mrs. Whittaker, "is one of unhappiness, and its path is strewn with the wreckage of families which were happy until they came into contact with Sandford.

"Shiloh is a colony of wrecks. A colony of emaciated, half starved, half sick men and women. They pass that condition along to their next generation. The babies born in Shiloh are weak and undersized from their very birth. Think of it! They are born famished!"

SHOES SENT BY MAIL

Cheaper Than Those by Freight From This Country to Mexico

Washington, June 11.—It is cheaper to transport and deliver shoes by United States mail from this country to Mexico than it is by freight, according to a report to the state department from United States Consul Letcher at Acapulco.

On shoes sent from St. Louis to Acapulco merchants there can save 2.74 cents on every pair if they are sent by mail instead of freight.

More Evidence of Bribery

Springfield, Ills., June 11.—State Attorney Burke received a confidential communication from a state senator, who volunteered to testify, if his name be suppressed, that he was offered $2500 if he would vote for William Lorimer for United States senator. The letter also gave names of others who would give testimony.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

Provides for Estimates on Cost on Quincy Parkway

Gov. Draper has signed the resolves:

For a report by the metropolitan park commission as to the advisability and cost of completing the metropolitan boulevard in Quincy.

For a report as to the advisability of authorizing the Old Colony R. R. Co., to construct a connection of its railroad between Mattapan and Clarendon Hills.

To reimburse cities and towns for loss of taxes on land occupied by public institutions.

For a study by the railroad companies in the metropolitan district of the question of electrification of all standard gauge, passenger lines now operated by steam, a report to be made to the railroad commissioners. This exempts the narrow gauge and freight lines.

For an investigation and report on the question of the establishment of a system of agricultural schools by the board of education.

Also the Berkshire merger bill.

Representatives Langelier and Thomas both voted on Friday for the bill to give the Boston Railroad Holding Company the right to issue preferred stock, which went to a third reading 128 to 64.

The towns to the North of Boston continue to be favored by the Legislature. The Senate passed to a third reading the bill to authorize the Metropolitan Park Commissioners to rebuild the Charles river bridges, and also passed to engrossment the bill appropriating $125,000 for a State highway from Revere to the Point of Pines.

The Senate engrossed the Saunders milk bill, and the Tufts College bill.

The Social Realm

A happy gathering was held at the home of Mrs. Martha A. Loud, 68 Peirce street, East Milton, on Monday evening, June 6. It was the 85th birthday of Mrs. Loud, and members of her family assembled from different towns to celebrate the occasion. Music, song and social chat occupied the hour until refreshments were served. Many tokens of love were given her and the large and beautiful birthday cake passed through the hands of four generations. The parties left at an early hour with sincere wishes for yet many returns of the birthday to her.

NAVY YARDS WIN

amination has been made it has been shown that work is done more cheaply by contracts than at the navy yards."

Representative Fitzgerald quoted Admiral Evans as saying that government-built ships are 25 per cent better than contract built ships.

"I will guarantee," said Mr. Weeks in reply, "that I can bring 25 naval officers before the committee who will testify that they cannot see any difference between the navy yard ship and the ship built by contract.

"The whole gist of the matter is, that this is a proposition to compel the government to expend more money for work than may be absolutely necessary. If it is better for the government to build ships in a navy yard, the government should have the privilege of doing it and should have the facilities for doing it, but you should not compel the government to do this work at yards when it costs more than elsewhere. Such a policy is unwise, and unsound."

Representative Roberts called attention to the fact that the only navy yard on the Atlantic coast equipped to build battleships is the Brooklyn yard.

Representative Goldfogle of New York said that the plant of the Brooklyn yard is worth $29,000,000 and that it would be unwise to scatter the force of workmen now employed there.

Representative Fitzgerald asked whether Mr. Week's district is not near the Fore Rive shipbuilding company's yard. "I do not believe I need answer that kind of a statement," replied Mr. Weeks. "I do not necessarily advocate a thing because men at the yard in my district are interested or affected by the action that will be taken. My district is nearly as near the Charlestown navy yard as the Fore River shipbuilding company and I desire to say here that no one connected with Fore River shipbuilding company ever spoke to me on this subject."

"I have not stated that," Mr. Fitzgerald hastened to say. "I asked the gentleman a simple question."

"No," said Mr. Weeks, "but an insinuation was made by the gentleman."

WEYMOUTH.

Flag day will be observed in all the schools next Tuesday. In the evening a patriotic entertainment will be held at the Town Hall under the auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps.

The High school graduation will take place Thursday afternoon, June 23, with Dr. W. H. Rider of Gloucester as the speaker.

The firemen will observe memorial day on Sunday. Graves of firemen will be decorated in the cemeteries. At 9 A. M. the veterans will march to Fairmount cemetery and later attend services at the Methodist church, where Rev. G. G. Scrivener will deliver the address.

The divisions of the A. O. H. observed memorial day last Sunday.

Wallace Drake, a High school senior is at the Quincy hospital with appendicitis. His class have sent flowers.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a regular convocation of John Adams Commandery, No. 355, A. & I. O. K. of M., held on the evening of June 9, 1910, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it has pleased the Sovereign Ruler of the Universe in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our beloved companion, Sir George Ruxton, P. C., and whereas in his death we have suffered the loss of a companion of strict integrity and irreproachable character, a true Knight of Malta both in his fraternal relations and in his home life, be it

Resolved—That we extend to the family of our said companion an expression of our sincere sympathy and our trust that they will find in the great Disposer of events a friend who will console them in their bereavement, and be it further.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our records and a copy sent to the family o f the deceased; and that our charter be draped for a period of six months.

FIREMEN'S MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Tomorrow will be observed by all firemen of the state as a memorial day for their departed members and the fire laddies of Braintree have arranged quite an elaborate program for the day. It will be remembered that the town at the March meeting appropriated a sum of money for this worthy purpose.

In the forencon, details from the different fire companies will visit the several cemeteries and leave floral tributes on the graves of their dead comrades. Each grave is designated by an iron maltese cross, bearing in raised letters the name of the fireman and ornamented with appropriate emblems of the service such as fire buckets, ladders, and hose.

There are one hundred and thirty members of the local department who have answered the last roll call and their graves whether near or far will all be decorated. Most of them rest in the cemeteries of our own town but there are members buried in Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph, Kingston, Chelsea and Middleboro.

In the afternoon at 3.30 P. M. there will be held in the Town hall a memorial service to which the public is invited. There will be an address by Rev. D. Roy Freeman, pastor of All Souls' church, solos by Miss Lydia Schrader and Charles Kohler and William C. Cuff will preside at the piano.

The clergymen of the town will have a part in the program and there will be singing by the congregation. Al lthe proceedings of the day are under the auspices of the Braintree Firemen's Relief Association represented by the following committee: E. F. Watkins, Elmer Vinton, H. W. Woodworth, D. J. Gallivan, H. A. Thayer, Walter A. Skinner, George Woodworth, Frank Whitmarsh, John Ryan and Joseph E. Hayden.

GOVERNOR MARSHALL

He Displaces Taggart, by Whom He Was "Discovered"

MARSHALL IN THE LEAD

Other Big Democrats In the Hoosier State Are Sidetracked

Indianapolis, June 11.—Governor Marshall is to be the leading figure in the coming Democratic campaign of Indiana. All of the other lights of the Democratic party, including Senator Shively, John W. Kern and Thomas Taggart, will be compelled to play second fiddle.

It is largely the governor's personal popularity that places him at the head of the party. Three years ago he was a country lawyer in a small country town. He was nominated when in the convention the Taggart element went to him, not because he was their choice, but because they had to do it to prevent the nomination of a candidate who was highly objectionable. And so it is that Taggart is now pushed out of first place in the political arena by a man who might still be a country lawyer had it not been for Taggart's strength in the state convention two years ago.

UNCLE SAM CANNOT HELP HAMMERSTEIN

Opera Manager Must Abandon Proposed Russian Trip

Washington, June 11.—Refusal of the Russian minister of the interior to accept Oscar Hammerstein's passport and permit him to carry out his proposed Russian trip has been communicated to the state department. The American embassy at St. Petersburg has cabled a brief summary of the case and has asked for instructions.

The state department regrets the incident, as there has been a consistent plan for some time looking to more favorable treatment for American Hebrews in Russia and in countries where there is discrimination against them.

But the difficulty of the problem is that the discrimination in this and similar cases is against the individuals because of their Hebraic origin and not because of their American citizenship. The department will take no action in Hammerstein's case.

RECORD IN GUNNERY

Target at Distance of 10,700 Yards Is Battered by Artillery

Washington, June 11.—What is believed to be a record at target practice with 10-inch disappearing rifles was made at Fort Rosecrans, Cal., when the gun crews of the One Hundred and Fifteenth company of Coast Artillery secured one hit out of four shots at a range of 10,700 yards on a target, 60 by 30 feet, towed at the rate of six miles an hour.

The time of firing the four shots, 2 minutes and 36 seconds, was considered exceptionally good. Although there was only a single hit, the efficiency is technically placed at 95 percent, because of the fact that the range was so long.

ON FREIGHTER FOR HEALTH

Wife of President Taft Takes a Trip on Lake Erie

Ashtabula, O., June 11.—Mrs. William H. Taft, wife of the president, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. James Laughlin, and another woman whose identity is not known, came quietly into Ashtabula and boarded the big freighter James Laughlin, for a trip to Duluth and return.

The trip is taken in the hope that it will do Mrs. Taft much good, as her health has not been of the best lately. A great effort was made to keep the matter a secret.

Not Guilty of Slaying

Boston, June 11.—Henry J. Leavey, who was indicted on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Daniel F. J. Donovan, a police officer, was found not guilty by the jury which heard the evidence.

Solons' Labors Nearly Ended

Boston, June 11.—Speaker Walker announced to the house that after consultation with President Treadway of the senate it had been decided that the legislature would adjourn June 15.

FINLAND GETS SEVERE BLOW

Douma Deprives Her of Many Constitutional Rights

MUCH BITTERNESS AROUSED

Duchy Becomes Part of Russian Empire by Passage of Bill Giving Douma Authority Over Diet, Thus Destroying Its Independence—Has Charge of "Local" Affairs, but Russia Will Decide What These Are

St. Petersburg, June 11.—The douma passed the Finnish bill, giving that body authority over the Finnish diet. The vote on the third reading was 164 to 23. As the victory of the government measure which has aroused intense bitterness in the duchy was announced, the Nationalists applauded vigorously. Then Valdimir Purishkevich, the president of the Reactionary "League of the Archangel Michael," sprang to his feet and triumphantly shouted: "Finis Finlandiae!"

How very far-reaching this measure is will be seen from the list of subjects enumerated in the bill as being under the jurisdiction of the Russian parliament. The latter will be authorized to fix the participation of Finland in the expenditure of the empire and to impose taxes for this purpose, thus depriving the Finnish people of one of the primary rights of a constitutionally governed country, the right to tax itself.

It will be empowered to determine the rights of Russian subjects in Finland, a provision clearly aiming at the introduction of Russian officialdom, in conflict with one of the fundamental principles of the Finnish constitution, that the country shall be governed by native authorities only.

It will be able to "constitute, in the interests of the empire, exceptions to the Finnish criminal law and law of procedure," and thus to interfere with the administration of justice.

It will be entitled to legislate on popular education, on the right of holding public meetings and of forming associations (a right expressly guaranteed by a fundametal law of so late a date as 1906), on the press (freedom of the press was also guaranteed in 1906), on the importation of foreign literature, on the customs relations between the two countries, on trade marks and copyrights, on the monetary system, on means of communication, on navigation and on the rights of aliens in Finland.

It is difficult to understand what questions will be left for the Finnish diet to deal with. Moreover, the bill contains a saving clause to the effect that amendments to the bill shall be made by the Russian legislature alone.

It is further provided that the Russion "ruling senate" shall interpret the laws thus enacted and decide "in accordance with general principles" (i. e., principles prevailing in Russia) doubts arising in regard to them. All laws passed "by means of general legislation" shall repeal without further notice all the provisions ofthe Finnish laws which are not in accord with them, and be absolutely binding, "independently of all conflicting provisions of the local laws."

INDIA'S NEXT VICEROY

Hardinge Is Named as Successor to Earl of Minto

London, June 11.—The appointment of Sir Charles Hardinge, permanent under secretary of state for foreign affairs, as viceroy of India, in succession to the Earl of Minto, is officially announced.

Mr. Hardinge has long been connected with the diplomatic service of England. He was born in 1858. In 1880 he entered the diplomatic service and rose steadily until he became secretary to the embassy at St. Petersburg in 1898. Here he remained until called to London as assistant secretary of the foreign office in 1903. He returned as ambassador to Russia the following year, and stayed until called back as permanent under secretary of the foreign office, the post he now holds.

"ETERNAL BEAUTY" WEDS

Liane De Pougy, Who Is Immensely Rich, Becomes Princess Ghicka

Paris, June 11.—The "Eternal Beauty," Liane de Pougy, was married yesterday to Prince Georges Ghicka.

Liane, in spite of her 47 years, is considered one of the handsomest women in the world today. She is one of the richest women of Europe. Her jewels, presented to her by kings, queens and admiring financiers, are worth a small fortune.

A quarter of a century ago she was the wife of Lieutenant Pourcher of the French navy, who secured a divorce, after firing a revolver at her and wounding her in the leg.

DEATH CHAIR FOR RIVET

Murderer of Gailloux Receives Sentence With a Smile

Cambridge, Mass., June 11.—Napoleon J. Rivet of Lowell, who was convicted of murder in the first degree, was sentenced by Judge Harris to death by electricity at the Charlestown state prison some time in the week beginning July 24, for the murder of Joseph J. Gailloux. Rivet smiled as he heard the sentence read to him in the courtroom.

The crime for which Rivet was sentenced to die was committed at Lowell. Gailloux, whose life had been insured for the benefit of Rivet, was probably killed by being struck over the head with a piece of gas pipe. The murderer then poured muriatic acid down the throat of his victim and left the gas cocks open in the room in which the murder was committed.

GREELEY FORTY YEARS OLD

Celebration of Town Founded on the "Go West" Suggestion

Greeley, Col., June 11.—Greeley, the concrete result of Horace Greeley's advice, "Go west, young man, go west," is celebrating the fortieth anniversary of its founding.

The town, now a prosperous city of 15,000 population, sprang from the desire of Horace Greeley and N. C. Meeker of New York and others to found a temperance community in the west, which resulted in the organization of Union Colony in New York in December, 1868. Two hundred of the pioneers of 1870 are still residents of Greeley.

White House Closed to Those Who Criticize Administration

HARRISON INCIDENT IS ENDED

No Further Action Planned by Congressman, as Matter Cannot Come Before House Under the Circumstances—Says That President "Cannot Stand Truth"—White House Action Deemed Tactless

Washington, June 11.—Representative Francis B. Harrison of New York, who was refused permission tc see the president when he called with a delegation of constituents, has decided that he will not attempt tc bring the presidential slight to the attention of the house by rising to a question of personal privilege upon the floor.

According to Harrison, who issued a statement concerning the White House affair, the incident is now closed so far as he is concerned. At first Harrison and some of his colleagues favored the plan of bringing the White House episode to the attention of the house, if such a procedure were possible under the rules. After a careful perusal of the rules, however, some of the Democratic parliamentarians of the house decided that such a course would be inconsistent.

The principal reason for this is that although Harrison's resolution of inquiry concerning the Lawler memoranda in the Ballinger-Pinchot case is a matter of house record, the Harrison interview, which also offended the president, is not.

Inasmuch as Harrison did not make upon the floor of the house the statement in which he charged the president and the attorney general with attempting to mislead congress as to the date of this now famous memoranda, it is not seen how the house can take cognizance of the president's displeasure. Some of those familiar with the house rules say that there is no possible way in which Harrison can inject the matter of personal privilege, under the circumstances. The question at first raised by Harrison was that the president had no right to decline to receive him as a representative, no matter what the president's personal feelings might be.

On the other hand, Harrison and his friends have come to the conclusion that the statement issued by Harrison pretty well disposes of the matter, and that it is now not Harrison's move. For that reason Harrison has resolved to let the matter drop.

Representative Harrison made this statement:

"It is unfortunate for the president that he cannot stand criticism; it is unfortunate for the country that he cannot stand the truth. My newspaper statement at which he takes offense was merely an exposition of the scandalous fact that the president had sent to the senate of the United States an official document in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy of which the date had been wilfully falsified by being pre-dated. My resolution of inquiry drew out this information in a written confession by the attorney general.

"It is of no concern to me that I am not welcome at the White House, but it is of concern to every American citizen that a statement of the truth about the president may render it impossible for a representative to discharge his duties. I went to the White House, not as a matter of pleasure, but in the execution of a public duty. I went by appointment made with the presidential office on May 31.

"After a delay of forty minutes at the very door of the president's office I was told that the president would not receive me. It is not surprising that he did not care to meet face to face any one who was instrumental in bringing to light the desperate attempt to bolster the administration case in the Ballinger-Pinchot matter by manipulating public documents. If every one who is justly criticising the Taft administration is to be barred from the White House it will become a lonely place."

The Harrison-White House incident is regarded here as being rather unfortunate so far as its effect relates to the administration. The action of the president is thought to have been impulsive, and the manner in which the affair was handled at the White House is deemed tactless, to say the least.

Representative Harrison feels especial resentment that the president did not notify him in advance that he was persona non grata, thus avoiding humiliation in the presence of his delegation.

War Declared Impossible

Lima, Peru, June 11.—The government is disbanding the volunteers in the infantry, cavalry and artillery. One of the mediating ministers states that war between Peru and Ecuador is impossible.

Pittsburg, June 11.—The official count of the uncontested precincts in the Thirtieth congressional district cuts Congressman John Dalzell's plurality down to 207.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Three Governors, Though Not from the Carolinas, Marched with the Hub's Ancients between Drinks—Dear Old Aunt Polly, Aged 105 Years, Is Back in Boston—Peeks at Rhododendrons on New England's Prettiest Estate—Gotham's Martha Washington to Have a Puritan Sister in Hotel Mary Washington—Safe and Sane Fourth Will be a Crackerjack.

Boston, June 10—Dear old Aunt "Polly." She is always turning up and confessing to a few more years. One hundred and five summers she now claims. Having business on the harbor front the Boston girl encountered her the other day, in process of having her clothes taken off, and in full public view. But, of course, Polly is, only a schooner. She is in charge of Capt. J .H. Weldon and Mate John Steenkamp, but she never carries a crew. The "Polly" distinguished herself in the Wa· of 1812 by capturing half a dozen British privateers; she has since distinguished herself by being written up in the newspapers every six months. Though she is the oldest vessel flying the flag of the United States, and the oldest in active service, having been built in Amesbury in 1905, she looks good for many years yet, barring accident. When Polly enters Boston harbor she is hailed with respect and admiration by her sister craft, for she was weather worn and sea-toughened when they were still in their cradles at the ship yard.

The physician will yet be the high priest of the social order. Canada, one notes, is in line for medical inspection in the public schools, and here's to the success of her undertaking. Boston in 1894 became the pioneer in introducing medical inspection, and has recently gone a step forward and installed medical supervision, which is quite a different thing. The children in the schools of the Hub are now under surveillance of trained specialists in the medical world, and a corps of nurses regularly endeavors to inculcate the same principles of health in the homes of the pupils as are taught in the schools. That's something more practical than just calling in the doctor when a child looks to the teacher to be ailing. The system is very successful and deserves to be generally copied.

Three governors, though none of them represented the Carolinas, marching side and side through the streets on June 6, Boston enjoyed seeing when the embottled hosts of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company celebrated their 272d anniversary. Many a stenographer dropped her work to drop an admiring glance at the vast expanse of plumes and gold braid. This oldest military organization in the United States was honored by the presence in its festivities of Governors Draper of Massachusetts, Pothier of Rhode Island and Quimby of New Hampshire ,all of whom spoke in complimentary terms at the banquet in Faneuil hall, the headquarters of the company since its foundation. An additional honor was accorded the Massachusetts company this year in the presence of the Veteran Corps of Artillery of New York which paraded to the church services in Copley Square and the time-honored drumhead election on the Common. The Ancients are always seen with pleasure in Boston streets and at Boston hotels.

Paeons of joyfulness from happy suffragists are heard across Copley Square ,now that the local organizations working conjointly in the suffrage cause are at last brought together on one floor under one roof. Miss Catherine Wilde, long associated with the journalistic fortunes of the late Henry B. Blackwell, his daughter, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, and the Woman's Journal which they ably edited from the down town aerie, writes pleasantly of the delightfulness of being more closely in touch wit hthe active state league and the inspiration of constant association with Mrs. Page, of the Massachusetts Association and Mrs. FitzGerald of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government.

"Also," she says, "it recalls old times pleasantly to be once more in the same house with the New England Women's club, although many voices that made the glory of those days are forever still. We look out on the vine-wreathed beauty of stately Trinity on one side ,and the noble facade of the Public Library on the other. Truly, 'Our lines are cast in pleasant places.'" One of Miss Wilde's first visitors in the new quarters was Mrs. Cheney of Natick, one of the earnest workers in a country town of only moderate size in which not fewer than 1,125 women were registered as voters last year. One of the latest visitors at the old office was from Cincinnati, bringing reports of the success of a woman designer in that city, Miss Lillian Noble Herschede, who took the prize for the design of a poster at the late Cincinnati exposition. As more and more New England women become aware of the cordial welcome that always awaits them at 585 Boylston street the record of interesting visits will grow apace.

Boston's safe and sane Fourth is to be none the less a crackerjack. President Taft, first and foremost, is to be the special guest o fthe day ,and will review a spectacular parade composed of military companies, bands, cadet corps, floats and 4,000 or more school boys from all over the city. An interesting feature of the parade will be the stop before the Old State House when a boy orator will step forth to read a certain antiquated and half forgotten document called the Declaration of Independence. Plans are now afoot all over the city for fireworks ,antiques and horribles and athletic sports. It may yet be possible to have a glorious Fourth without blowing the children's fingers off, blinding them for life, or allowing them to scatter their arms and legs in the train of cannon crackers and pistols as of yore.

Raw as the June days have been the usual rare vistas of rhododendrons and azaleas have been outspread for the benefit of Bostonians and many other visitors who enjoyed the annual pilgrimage to view the beauties of Holm Lea, Professor Charles Sprague Sargent's magnificent Brookline estate. Mr. Sargent, for many years the director of Harvard's living tree museum, the Arnold Arboretum ,is probably the most successful floriculturist in this part o fthe country, and the privilege of an annual entrance at the gates of his estate is highly prized locally.

Martha Washington of New York will have a rival in Mary Washington of Boston. Working girls of the Hub are at last to have a hotel all their own, according to plans which are now well underway. Its name will be as just indicated. Girls who are earning small wages may obtain a little suite with kitchenette for $1.50 a week, or two girls may take a suite together. There will be one, two and three-room suites, all including heat, light and janitor's service. In addition there will be a cafe in the basement where meals will be served for fifteen and twenty cents, and a delicatessen store for those who prefer to cook in their own rooms. An industrial exchange will be established for those working women and girls who depend upon embroidery, sewing and similar pursuits for their living. The hotel is to be non-sectarian and will have no hampering restrictions. Large reception rooms and small parlors will furnish accommodations for entertaining. This institution will, it is believed, go far toward doing away with the present hundreds of garret rooms which are occupied with girls who cook over oil stoves nad dry their handkerchiefs on the window pane in the struggle to live and remain respectable on six dollars a week and the hope of a raise. The idea was originated by Mrs. Charlotte Smith ,a woman prominent in social welfare work, and has the backing of such reputable citizens on its board of directors as ex-Mayor Thomas N. Hart, W. A. Gaston, president of the National Shawmut Bank, Alexander McGregor, John B. Schoffel of the Tremont theatre, A. Shuman, Rev. W. P. McQuaid, James H. Vahey, Joseph O'Neil of the Federal Trust Company, S. W. Sinclair of Clipston & Sturgis ,architects, James J. Phelan of Hornblower & Weeks and James M. Morrison. The scheme should be a noticable step in stamping out the social evil by helping the girls to help themselves.

ACTION AGAINST THE OWLS

Said to Be Doing Business In Bay State Without Permission

Boston, June 11.—Attorney Genera Malone, the the request of Insurance Commissioner Hardison, has brought suit in the supreme court against the Order of Owls, whose home nest is in South Ben , Ind., and which has local nests in Massachusetts, for an injunction to restrain them from transacting business in this commonwealth.

The order is claimed to be doing business here without the permission of the insurance commissioner. Judge Sherman issued an order returnable June 21.

TROLLEY BILL SIGNED

New Haven Road Gets Control of Western Massachusetts Lines

Boston, June 11.—Governor Draper signed the Berkshire trolley bill, which practically gives the corporation the control of the electric railway transportation system in the western part of the state. This bill provides that the New Haven will spend $2,000,000 on the development of the trolley system.

The signing of the Berkshire bill by Governor Draper marks the end of a fight which has lasted for three years.

Canada Wants a Treaty

Washington, June 11.—The Canadian government has indicated to the secretary of state its desire to take up as early as possible the subject of the negotiation of a trade treaty with the United States.

FACE SEVERE SENTENCES

Heike and Gerbracht Convicted In the Sugar Trust Trial

New York, June 11.—Charles R. Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, was convicted last night on one count of an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the government of customs dues on sugar.

Ernest W. Gerbracht, former superintendent of the Williamsburg (Brooklyn) refinery, was convicted on all six counts.

For James F. Bendernagel, former cashier of the refinery, the jury stood 7 to 5 for acquittal. He will be tried again.

Heike is the highest official of the company upon which blame has been fixed and he now faces a possible sentence of two years in the federal prison and a fine of $10,000. He is 65 years of age.

Gerbracht can be sentenced to twelve years in prison with a maximum fine of $40,000. He is 63 years old.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Quincy, and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?
No reason why any Quincy reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. George L. Nott, 99 North Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for holding a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled a great deal by headaches and dizzy spells which were so seaere at times that I had to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My sight was also affected, spots often appearing before me and my back ached intensely. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, I was cured. Other members of my family have used this remedy with equally good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SOUR STOMACH

"I used Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could find no relief only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach and to keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."

BRIEFS

Miss Margaret O'Brien of Gay street will spend the summer in Ireland, sailing this week.

The special committee of the City Council appointed to investigate the financial affairs of the city will meet Monday evening.

The band concert was to have been given last evening in the vicinity of Alpha hall, but it was omitted because of the very stormy weather.

A whist party in aid of the Boston college building fund will be held in Protection hall on Monday evening. Souvenirs will be awarded to the highest scorers and refreshments will be served after the play.

Quincy lawyers, police officers and others having business at the county seat, now find it necessary to leave Quincy earlier as the train from Boston is earlier. They must leave Quincy at 8.31 and Boston at 9.05.

On Wednesday evening Miss Mildred L. Whitmarsh of East Braintree and Mr. Ray O. Martin of Weymouth were united in marriage by Rev. R. L. Roberts. They were attended by Mr. Everett Gardner and Miss Laura Rockwood of South Weymouth. The reception at the home of the bride's parents, Captain and Mrs. S. Everett Whitmarsh, was largely attended.

PIE SOCIAL.

The pie social Friday evening at Grand Army hall brought out a good attendance, although the weather was stormy. Many of the ladies brought pies that looked very appetizing as they proved to be. The pies were disposed of in an unique way, which brought quite a sum into the treasury. A line of marchers was formed each contributing the sum of five cents. They then marched about the hall every fifth person being given a pie. Several marches were necessary before the last pie was disposed of. The possessor of the pie had the privilege of taking it home, or of eating it on the spot with friends. Most of those who got a pie took it home.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry R. Kirby of Holbrook was arraigned for threatening to assault Ernest M. Harris. Case continued until Sept. 1.

Stephen M. O'Meara, a 17-year-old boy, was summoned into court this morning for operating an automobile in Milton at the rate of 40 miles an hour. His case was continued until June 28.

Electric vacuum house cleaners, special June prices $2. per day. Kincaide & Co.

MARRIAGES.

MARTIN—WHITMARSH—In Braintree, June 8, by Rev. R. L. Roberts Mr. Ray O. Martin of Weymouth to Miss Mildred Q. Whitmarsh of East Braintree.

THRALL—ROBINSON--By the Rev. Thomas Simms, at Reading, Mass., June 8, Raymond Dwight Thrall to Miss Helen Livingston Robinson.

DEATHS.

ROGERS—In Milton, June 5, Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth, widow of Capt. Thomas Nichols Rogers, aged 61 years.

DAWES—In Duxbury, June 9, Capt Josephus Dawes, in his 91st year.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Hull station of the Boston Yacht club was put into commission today.

Miss F. C. Osgood of the Brookline club is leading at Philadelphia for the womens golf championship; Mrs. E. C. Wheeler, Jr., of the Wollaston club being nine points behind this morning.

Several members of the Wollaston Golf club are entered in the class of 84 for the amateur golf championship of Massachusetts.

There were sixty entries for the open race of the Dorchester Yacht club today.

NORTH WEYMOUTH.

Ladies' night will be observed by the Brotherhood of Pilgrim church on Wednesday evening, June 15. A banquet will be served, and ex-Congressman Samuel Powers will be the speaker.

A rally of Y. P. C. U. was held Sunday evening at the Universalist church. The speakers were Rev. R. H. Dix, Rev. C. L. Paddock of Quincy and Rev. Mr. Lewis of Hingham.

Children's day will be observed on Sunday at the Universalist church at 2.30, and at the Pilgrim church at 5 P. M.

BODY IN A TRUNK IN ITALIAN LAKE

Russian Suspected of Murder of an American Woman

Como, Italy, June 11.—The badly mutilated body of a woman, believed to have been Mrs. H. N. Castle, who was Mary Crittenden Scott of San Jose, Cal., and New York, was found in a trunk submerged in a lake near the vilage of Moltrasio.

The police are of the belief that the woman was murdered, and have taken into custody a Russian named Constantine Ispolatoff, 50 years old.

New York, June 11.—Mary Scott Castle startled New York on Aug. 2 last, by shooting William B. Craig as he stood on "Peacock alley" at the Waldorf-Astoria. But her revolver was pathetically small, the bullet was deflected by a fountain pen in Craig's pocket and he was uninjured.

The case never came to trial, and Mrs. Castle was discharged in September last after Craig declined to press the charge.

Thereafter Mrs. Castle dropped from public view until dispatches from the west told of the granting of a decree of divorce at Nome, Alaska, to her husband, Neville H. Castle, a San Francisco lawyer.

Mrs. Castle was a pretty woman and a brief stage career in New York was an incident in her life of excitement. This was after her marriage to Castle. She was 37 years old.

Suspense.

"There isn't any suspense about your play," said the technical critic.

"That shows how you jump at conclusions," replied the author. "You just ought to see me waiting for royalties."—Exchange.

WEDDING BELLS SILENT

Minister Refuses to Marry Young Woman to Brodie L. Duke

Washington, June 11.—Brodie L. Duke, one of the tobacco maghates of the country, came quietly to Washington to negotiate his fourth marriage, but after carefully laid plans for the ceremony he ran foul of a Presbyterian clergyman's aversion to divorce.

Duke had planned to be married yesterday afternoon to Miss Wylanta Roschelle of Durham, N. C., where are situated his tobacco interests and his magnificent estate. Rev. Donald C. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, had agreed to perform the ceremony, but later declined to do so.

When Duke procured the license he gave his residence and that of Miss Roschelle as Durham, N. C., his age as 62 years and hers as 28.

WALKED THE STREETS IN HIS UNDERWEAR

Sleepwalker Unconscious of Surroundings or Scanty Attire

New York, June 11.—While in a state of somnambulism and attired only in a suit of underwear, William Horn, 32 years old, walked a mile in a driving rain before he was intercepted by a policeman.

Horn was heading for Twenty-third street in Fourth avenue when Policeman King held him up. At that time Horn was seemingly oblivious of his surroundings or his scanty attire. King took off his police coat and, after putting it around the man, called Dr. Fitzgerald from Bellevue hospital. Horn was removed there.

Under treatment administered by Fitzgerald, Horn was aroused from his somnambulistic state. He said he had no recollection of what had occurred. He had no idea that he was out of bed.

From an investigation made it is believed that while Horn was insensible to his actions he walked from his home. Horn suffered from exposure, but was well enough last night to return home.

MISS LOVERING GETS $7500

It Represents a Year's Salary of the Late Congressman

Washington, June 11.—The general deficiency bill reported to the house by the appropriations committee carries the sum of $7500 payable to Miss Alice Lovering of Boston, daughter of the late Representative William C. Lovering. This represents a year's salary of the deceased member, which it is customary to pay to the nearest of kin upon the death of a representative.

The bill carries $5,735,573, a reduction of $2,198,558 from the estimates submitted by the various departments to meet deficiencies for the current year. The largest individual amounts covered in the bill are $1,030,601 for the naval establishment; $841,534 for the military estsablishment; $982,667 for the postal service, and $683,655 to pay judgments awarded by the court of claims.

Easy.

ANOTHER BATTLESHIP FOR FORE RIVER

Expects Contract for a Third One Which Will Be Built in Quincy

The Good News Comes Through Washington

The Boston Globe prints the following Washington dispatch which probably means increased activity at the Quincy shipyard:

"Although the State department was largely instrumental in securing for the Fore River Shipbuilding company the lucrative contract from the Argentine government for the construction of two great dreadnoughts, it apparently has just learned quite incidentally of an interesting and important provision in the contract.

"This grants the Argentine government the option to have a third battleship built within a stated term, for the same price as those now under construction. This fact transpired in the course of a speech made on May 5 by the president of the Argentine Republic to the Congress of that country.

"Another important feature of the contract, which still remains veiled in mystery, is the period of time allowed for the construction of the two ships already under way. Much curiosity has been shown by foreign governments on this point, but so far the contractors refuse to give any information concerning it.

"It is suspected that they intend to try to establish a record in the matter of battleship construction, if not for the world, then at least for America."

SOUTH BOSTON RACE.

Most of the Quincy cat boat fleet participated in the open and inter club race Saturday off South Boston under the auspices of the Mosquito Yacht club. This class had a hot start so much, so that there were several mixups. The Iris was the first to get away, but the Dolly III which was on her weather quarter pulled up on the windward leg and took the lead, which she held all the way around. As the wind flattened toward the finish the Iris came up, and but three seconds separated them at the finish. The Busy Bee the fourth to finish got first place on corrected time. After the race the Hustler protested the Dartwell for fouling at the start. The Iris is given the sixth position in the summary as she had not been measured, but when measured she may take first position.

The Wawenock won in class S from the Zoe, Maritza and I X L. First places in other classes were taken by the Marie, Annie C., Thralfi, Dorchen II, Snap Shot, May S. and Teaser.

CAMPAIGN IS NOW ON

Plans for Improvement of the First Presbyterian Church

Plans for remodeling the First Presbyterian church of Quincy are now completed, and in the hands of the building committee. These plans have been approved and adopted by the congregation. The Sabbath school room is to be enlarged and fitted with class rooms, giving workers in the Sunday school much needed room and conveniences for teaching. The auditorium will be enlarged by removing the choir loft and pastor's room. The choir will be placed behind the pulpit. Here a new pipe organ is to be built. Stained glass windows will replace the present widows in the auditorium.

The tower and front of the building are to be changed. When finished the building will have a very pleasant and attractive appearance. The estimated cost is about $6,000.

A large finance committee has been appointed. It is an enthusiastic committee and will begin today a quick canvass of the congregation and friends for subscriptions. Reports of progress will be made in the lecture room on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights at 8.30. They hope to receive the entire amount this week. A good start was made on Friday evening when a few of the committee pledged several hundred dollars.

This church is doing fine work in Quincy. With its remodeling, these earnest workers will make this influence felt still more. The work on the church is to be pushed and completed this summer.

ODD FELLOWS MEMORIAL DAY

Services Held at Park and Downs Church

The annual memorial services of John Hancock lodge, 224, I. O. O. F., were held Sunday afternoon at the Park and Downs church, and were attended not only by members of John Hancock lodge, but by members of Mt. Wollaston lodge, Manet encampment and George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, Neponset lodge and Reliance Rebekah lodge.

John Hancock lodge has lost but brother by death during the past year, Winfield A. Andrews, who died April 22, 1910.

The service opened with an organ prelude and doxology, responsive reading and enthem, "Onward Christian Soldiers" by a quartet. This was followed by scripture reading. An anthem "Still, still with thee" by the quartet, prayer by the pastor Rev. W. B. Ayers, and solo by Acting Past Grand T. C. Hay.

The necrologic address was by Brother John D. Leland, who referred feelingly to the death of Bro. Andrews.

The address was by Rev. Mr. Ayers ,the pastor, whose subject was "The Covenant of Jonathan and David." The address was a most interesting one.

The service closed with congregational singing, and the benediction.

Sam—"What's d' matter with you and Chloe?"

Susan—"Matter 'nough. She insulted my friend, Mr. Jackson, what called on me las' night.

Sam—"Insulted Mr. Jackson, did she?"

Susan—"Dat's what she done. She asked me who dat 'ere nocturnal visitor was!"

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Holds Its Annual Meeting and Is Entertained at Tea

The annual meeting of the Quincy Historical Society was one of the events that was not postponed on Saturday because of the storm, and there was an attendance of about 30 at the cottage of John and Abigail Adams. Benjamin King, the custodian, had made it cheerful by building fires in the old fireplaces and also hung out flags.

Brooks Adams, Esq., presided at the meeting. Emery L. Crane, the secretary, made a lengthy report, reviewing the six open meetings which had been held in 1909 and 1910. He reported the death of three members, Hon. William B. Rice, Dr. William Everett, and W. G. A. Pattee, Esq. The membership of the society was reported at 145.

James L. Edwards, the treasurer reported receipts of $459.09 which included $130.09 in the treasury Jan. 1, 1908. During the two years $63 were received for admissions to the cottage. The total expenditures were $379.44, leaving a balance of $79.65 on deposit in the bank. The sum of $228.60 was paid to the custodian of the cottages during the two years.

The election resulted in the choice of the following:

President—Brooks Adams.
Vice President—Fred B. Rice.
Treasurer—James L. Edwards.
Secretary—Emery L. Crane.
Curators, with above—Rev. Dr. E. N. Hardy, George W. Morton, Harry L. Rice and H. W. Pinkham.
House Committee—Mrs. George W. Morton, Mrs. Brooks Adams, Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee, Mrs. Elizabeth Alden and Mr. James L. Edwards.
Custodian—Benjamin King.

Four new members were elected. A vote of thanks was extended to President Adams for entertainment of the members of the society at various times.

Charles H. Hardwick, Dr. E. N. Hardy and Emery L. Crane were appointed a committee on resolutions on the deaths of Messrs. Rice, Everett and Pattee.

President Adams, assisted by Mrs. Adams, then entertained the members at tea. A Boston caterer served tea, strawberries, ices and cake.

TODAY'S COURT.

Clarence H. Miller of Weymouth, Henry A. Orcutt of Weymouth, Michael Hurley of Milton were arraigned for drunkenness and their placed on probation until Oct. 1.

Joseph M. Cadrian was fined $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Peter Monti was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy. Case continued until Aug. 2.

CARD.

We wish to thank our kind neighbors and friends for their help and sympathy in our recent bereavement, and also the nurses at the Quincy Hospital for the kind care of our son during his illness.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR FOURTH

Over One Hundred Dollars Are Now Pledged

At a meeting of the Executive committee on the great Fourth of July celebration preparations were made for the collection of a fund to carry out the celebration. Cards, giving authority to their holders to take subscriptions for this purpose, were issued and will be signed by Eugene R. Stone, president, and James F. Burke, vice president, of the general committee. The public is warned that only those who hold these cards are credited collectors.

It was reported by Eugene R. Stone, that he, acting by order of the committee, had started a subscription list, and that he met with universal success. The names of the contributors follow:

Eugene R. Stone	$25.00
Fore River Shipbuilding Co.,	15.00
William R. Thomas	10.00
Eugene C. Hultman	10.00
Charles M. Bryant	10.00
George Brown	10.00
George F. Elcock	5.00
J. J. McAnarney	5.00
D. King	5.00
J. M. Nowland,	2.00

The following contributed one dollar each: Mrs. G. F Elcock, F. J. Elcock, A. G. W. Elcock, Helen B. Elcock, Theresa J. Elcock, and A. B. Elcock.

Ward Committees have been nominated to attend to the collections and will start work immediately.

The various committees will be notified of the mass meeting to be held in Union hall Tuesday. evening, where the details of the work of the committees will be discussed.

The Decoration committee plans to dress every entrance to the city and will make a house-to-house canvas through the city to interest the householders in decorating and through an arrangement made with a mill is able to offer bunting, uags, etc. at cost.

Owing to business pressure, D. King was unable to accept the chairmanship of the childrens' entertainment committee, and Charles H. Johnson was nominated.

The cards giving collectors authority may be had at the office of James F. Burke in the Quincy Savings Bank building.

The meeting was characterized by a feeling of utmost confidence and harmony and it is assured that no feature of the celebration as outlined will be in any way cast aside. The officers of all committees have reported favorably and express the opinion that the celebration will be a pronounced success.

An important meeting of the Brith Abraham I. O. B. A. was held Sunday evening, when it was voted to appropriate $100 toward the July 4 celebration. The society will have a float representing the Goddess of Liberty in the parade and also a band. Lewis Berman is chairman of the committee having the matter in charge.

Invitations have been sent to the different lodges, clubs and societies requesting them to send delegates to a meeting to be held at Union hall Tuesday evening to arrange for the parade on July 4 and to take steps toward raising money.

Miss Laurice Penniman, who arrived home last week from New York, where she had been spending the winter months ,entertained a number of her young friends at her home on Revere road Saturday afternoon.

SPORTING NOTES.

Nine boats started Sunday in the first race of the season under the auspices of the Squantum Yacht club. Of this number five were in the first class ,two in the second class and two in the power boat class. There was a light easterly breeze at the start which flattened out shortly after, almost becalming the fleet. The Waweenock of Sargent Geawar of the first class was the only boat to finish.

Charles Francis Adams, 2d is having a new sonder boat built which has not been named. Without doubt when the boat receives its appellation, it will be found to contain a double o, for Mr. Adams' yachts all show a partiality for this vowel sound, as indicated by the Harpoon, the Baboon, the Rooster, etc.—Globe.

Gala Day of Firemen Will Lose None of Its Attractions

The grand parade and trials of skill to have been held Saturday as the closing event of Merchants' Week, but which was called off on account of the storm, will be held next Saturday. This was decided upon at a meeting of the committee held Saturday afternoon. As several of the band concerts scheduled for last week were also omitted on account of the weather, the committee will try and arrange to have one of the concerts given this evening.

The committee also decided that arrangements be made to have the flaming arc lights burn tonight and possibly some other evenings during the coming week.

Although the weather the past week was against a successful week, the sentiment at the meeting Saturday afternoon was that as a whole the week had been a success, but not such a one as it would have been had the merchants been fortunate enough to have had fair weather.

All the features of Firemen's day will be carried out on Saturday, and a gala day is promised.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

DRIFT OF OPINION

The state of Maine ought to find some way to break up that miserable establishment in Durham run by Sanford and his crowd called the temple of the Holy Ghost and Us society. It is a disgrace to the state to tolerate such an institution under the guise of religion. Several times the aid of the courts has been invoked to secure release of pe'sons held as prisone s in this place. What a shameful state of affairs was that this week where Mrs. Whittaker could secure release for herself and children only on an order of court served by a deupty sheriff. She got out of the prison by writing to friends outside that she and her children were being held against their wills, and the friend invoked the aid of the courts. How much longer will the state permit this establishment to flourish? Better turn it into an insane asylum. It is a scandal to Maine and to New England. The tale of brutality and suffering told to the court by Mrs. Whittaker makes one's blood boil.—Salem News.

BIRD NEIGHBORS.

The robins and I are good neighbors you see,
Where my window abuts on their side of the tree;
They call me at dawn and invite me to share
Their joy of the dewy and delicate air.

Next door are the martins, fine, purple-plied folk,
Who laugh so politely at life's little joke,
And fill me with cheer when I'm burdened with gloom,
Till all the world laughs in blue ripples of bloom.

The larks and the finches are field friends of mine
In their little brown tenements under the vine,
And the skyscaper maple beside the green door
Is peopled this season as never before.

Ah, love thou thy neighbor! I do when they're birds,
For we never fall out and we never have words,
And they call me from slumber and bid me good night
With always the same tender chord of delight!

At dusk the brown hermit thrush down by the stream
Pours out her pure soul in the music of dream,
And then through the dewy calm twilight and still,
O, hark, that lost spirit—the lone whip-poorwill!

Dear neighbors, fond brothers—bird brothers, you see—
God's peace to your lives in your homes 'mid the trees,
And would the world's heart could pour out to you, dears,
As mine pours tonight through its song and its tears!

DUKE TAKES FOURTH WIFE

Bride of Tobacco Magnate Is Many Years His Junior

Washington, June 13.—Frustrated here in his attempt to take unto himself a fourth wife by unexpected and unwelcome publicity and by the antipathy of a Presbyterian minister, Brodie L. Duke, the tobacco magnate of Durham, N. C., and his protege and would-be bride, Miss Wylanta Roschelle, quietly went to Camden, N. J., where the marriage ceremony was performed.

Duke is 62 years old and his bride 28. Miss Roschelle is a daughter of a Durham merchant and was a student at a private school here.

DEMOCRATS HAVE HOPES

May Nominate Mayor Shea for Senate Against Hultman

"Practical Politics" is responsible for the following bit of political gossip:

Rep. Tom Riley's legislative campaign committee has picked the 1st Norfolk senatorial district as one which is to contribute an extra seat to the democrats in the upper branch next year and are counting on Mayor William T. Shea of Quincy as the man to win it for the democracy. While ordinarily the district gives a large republican majority the democrats believe that with conditions as they are this year they have an excellent chance with the right kind of a candidate to capture it. Heretofore the district has been allowed to go, practically, by default to the republican candidate but the Draper-Vahey vote in the district last November would indicate that it would not be an altogether hopeless task to try and elect such a candidate as the three times democratic mayor of Quincy.

The vote of the district for governor in 1909, was:

	Draper	Vahey
Braintree	677	395
Canton	323	341
Holbrook	243	149
Hyde Park	1077	952
Milton	603	301
Quincy	2005	1913
Randolph	218	350
Weymouth	1142	975
Total	6288	5376

Draper's plurality 912.

That some of the republicans in the district do not view with equanimity the prospect of Mayor Shea's entrance into the fight is evidenced by the fact that ex-Rep. George L. Barnes of Weymouth is being urged by some of his friends not to oppose Sen. Hultman's ambition for a third term. The way they view it is that a defeat next fall, provided George should be able to capture the nomination, would forever blast his political prospects. Sen. Hultman could better afford to be defeated they say, because he has had the usual two terms anyway and a defeat for a third term wouldn't hurt him.

Rep. Charles C. Mellen of Braintree and Fred M. French of Randolph, who have been thinking some of opposing Sen. Hultman for the nomination are apt to take the view of it that is taken by Mr. Barnes' friends and decide to wait a year longer before shying their castors into the ring.

It isn't a particularly good year for republican candidates in doubtful districts and with Mayor Shea as a candidate for senator the 1st Norfolk district will be more than doubtful. Mayor Shea's majority for a third term as mayor of the republican city of Quincy was 914 and whoever the republican candidate may be Quincy is likely to give a substantial majority to its mayor if he is a candidate on the democratic ticket.

QUEER LAWS.

A handsome New York society girl, burned by flaming gasoline when her automoble was run down by a street car, has been awarded $20,000 damages by a New York court because her neck is scarred so that she can not wear low-necked gowns at social functions.

A few days ago a Jersey judge, receiving a verdist of $8,500 awarded by a jury to a little girl whose leg had been cut off by a car, said the amount was too much, taking into consideration the great improvements in cork legs.

One girl is rich; the other poor. One is a belle of society; the other a workingman's baby. One girl is surrounded by luxury, and lives an idle existence; the other is in a humble home, and must help with housework, and earn her support.

Yet the rich girl, whose soft hands will never make a bed or wash the dishes, is given $20,000 for a few scars on her shapely neck. While the poor girl, crippled for life, hampered in the struggle for existence, is told by a judge that $8,500 is more than she should receive for losing a leg.

Queer laws, and queer courts, aren't they, for a land where freedom and equality are established by the constitution?

Intense Interest of Aviators In Cross Country Aerial Races

MAP OF THE NEW YORK-CHICAGO-ST. LOUIS FLIGHTS—VIEW OF CURTISS ON HIS ALBANY TO NEW YORK AEROPLANE TRIP.

THE announcement made in New York the other morning of a $25,000 prize offered by the New York Times and the Chicago Evening Post for an aeroplane race between Chicago and New York, as well as the offer of the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch for a purse of $30,000 for a similar flight between New York city and St. Louis, aroused every aviator and balloonist, as well as hundreds of persons interested in flying as a sport, to a discussion of the possibilities suggested by the proposed contests.

Before nightfall two prominent aviators had announced their intention of competing in the Times-Post event, a third wired an entry from Joplin, Mo., and Glenn H. Curtiss announced that he would be represented in each event, although he would not say that he would operate a machine personally.

Besides Curtiss, such men as Wilbur and Orville Wright, Charles K. Hamilton, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, Clifford B. Harmon, vice president of the Aero Club of America, and Charles Heitman, secretary of that organization, talked of the proposed flights and agreed that the time now was ripe for flights between points as far distant as Chicago and St. Louis from New York, and each predicted that before the summer is over such flights will have become history.

Charles K. Hamilton, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, J. C. Mars and Charles F. Willard are among those who plan to take part in the event.

Orville and Wilbur Wright, the famous aviators, announced at Dayton, O., recently that they would enter all the long distance aeroplane contests which have been announced if the conditions are favorable.

Tremendous interest has been aroused not only throughout the United States, but also in Canada and in English aviation circles.

The prevailing opinion the other day among aviators in New York as to route was that from Chicago to New York their course would lie over the following cities: Chicago, Hammond, Ind.; South Bend, Ind.; Fremont, O.; Sandusky, Cleveland, Ashtabula, Erie, Pa.; Rochester, Syracuse, Albany and New York. This is along the lines of the New York Central railroad.

The St. Louis-New York contest caused a diversity of opinion as to the best route to follow. Several thought that the southern course, over the Ohio valley, afforded the best conditions between the Mississippi river and Pittsburg, with a short flight of some fifty odd miles over the 5,000 foot high Alleghanies, thence eastward through the Lancaster valley to Philadelphia, northward over the Delaware to Trenton and from there along the Pennsylvania railroad to New York.

Glenn H. Curtiss when asked his opinion as to the best routes to follow said:

"After examining very carefully a contour map published by the United States geological survey, I think the best route to follow from Chicago to New York will be a few miles south of the lakes as far as Erie, Pa., following after that city is reached the line of the Erie railroad. This will require that I cross the Catskills at an altitude of something over 1,500 feet, but that would be the highest point encountered in the journey. Flying from St. Louis, I should make juncture at Cleveland with the route spoken of above and continue along that to New York.

"In my opinion these contests cannot be started too soon. We need the spur the offers of these prizes have given us."

CHAMP CLARK TO QUIT AT 75.

Age Limit Set by Missouri Statesman on His Public Life.

Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, minority leader of the house, has set for himself an approximate age limit in public life of about seventy-five years.

"The people may set my time of retirement a little earlier than that," he admitted the other day. "So far as I know the only public man who set an age limit on his service and lived up to it was Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina, speaker and senator. When in his prime he set the exact age at which he would retire. When that day arrived he was in the middle of a senatorial term, but kept his word and resigned. He was one of the greatest men of that era."

Rules to Keep Trains Clean.

A call is soon to be issued for a meeting of the chief surgeons of all the railways of the United States, the chief health officers of all the states and United States health officers. The meeting is to devise sanitary rules for all passenger trains and railroad stations in the country that the spread of tuberculosis and the hookworm disease may be checked. The meeting is the idea of Dr. W. A. Applegate, chief surgeon of the Southern railway. Surgeon General Wyman of the United States public health and marine hospital service will issue the summons for the conference.

Need of Harvest Hands In Kansas.

Kansas will need 20,000 harvest hands this year, according to a statement made recently by Charles Harris, director of the Kansas state free employment bureau. This is about 2,000 more than were needed last year.

CAREER OF ROLLS.

British Aviator Who Flew Across the English Channel and Back.

Captain the Hon. Charles Stuart Rolls, the English aviator who established a notable record the other evening by flying in a Wright biplane across the English channel from Dover to Sangatte, near Calais, and returning to Dover without alighting, a continuous flight of fifty miles, has successively followed the sports of bicycling, automobiling, ballooning and aeroplaning. He is the third son of the first Baron Llangattock and was born on Aug. 27, 1877. At Cambridge university he was the captain of the bicycle team. Later he competed successfully in numerous automobile competitions and was awarded the gold medal for his performance in the 1,000 mile trial of 1900 in England. He drove as the representative of Great Britain in the Gordon Bennett race of 1905. Several times he broke the world's record for speed.

Captain Rolls has made more than 160 balloon ascensions and owns three balloons. In 1906 he won the French Aero club's medal for the longest balloon journey, traveling from Paris to a point in Norfolk. He is the founder of the Aero Club of the United Kingdom. Taking up the sport of heavier than air machines, he made a flight with Wilbur Wright at Le Mans in October, 1908. On May 27 last he started to make the cross channel flight, but he had gone only a few yards when his engine failed him, and the attempt was abandoned.

BURROUGHS ON SPARROWS.

Duty of Every City's Police to Destroy Their Nests, Says Naturalist.

C. W. Edgar of Middletown, N. Y., wrote to John Burroughs, the eminent naturalist and bird lover, asking him what the attitude of the people should be toward the English sparrow. In reply Mr. Burroughs, writing from his place in Ulster county, N. Y., said:

"The sparrows are a nuisance and should be kept in check as much as possible. My son shoots them when they turn up at our place. The best way to keep them in check in town is to destroy their nests. It should be the duty of the police of every city to look up and destroy the sparrows' nests. I like to see them about in the winter. They can do no mischief then. But from April to December they are a pest."

Long Ride For a Woman.

A young Cossack woman of the name of Kudasheff recently started to ride from Harbin, Manchuria, to St. Petersburg on a Mongolian pony, accompanied only by a St. Bernard dog and armed with a knife and revolver. The distance she will have to travel is 5,420 miles.

WOMAN AND HEALTH.

The most forward step in medicine is the lack of it. This is not an Irish bull, but a truism.

In other days medicine was given for every known ailment, real and imaginary. A finger ache, a moment of depression, a slight cold, a night of indigestion, produced the spoon and the bottle.

Sometimes the doctor was consulted, often not. There was a cure for every ill in the family medicine chest, and the stomach had to digest as many opposing medicines as foods. It was the clearing house for every ill.

Patent medicines were as freely taken as those from private prescription. What a neighbor recommended was cheerfully swallowed without a thought of the adage that what is flesh to one is poison to another.

Considering the centuries of this abuse of medicine the drastic change is as startling as an airship and a wireless message. These things are together in the marvelous achievements of the century.

The classes, and some of the masses, are as afraid of medicine as of disease. Doctors do not hesitate to omit it altogether in certain cases. The expensive and widespread fight against too much belief in patent medicines has put the Nation on its guard.

Women, and they are the chief offenders, have been severely taught to leave a neighbor's medicine alone as they would her chickens and flowers. The doctrine of one prescription for one person has been preached into every intelligence.

It has also been beaten into the human brain that it is not always wise to be one's own doctor; that the prescription of two years ago is not the medicine for today.

The laity has been unpleasantly assured that the chemicals that would cure one person might kill another.

Schools and doctors have taught woman so much about her body, her tissues, her nerves, the intricacies of her stomach, that she has an abiding fear and respect for herself. She has learned the body's power and she is afraid to tamper with it.

And so today there is a joyful revolution in every enlightened woman's attitude toward health. She has learned a great lesson, which may preserve her and bequeath to posterity a finer bodily equipment to fight the battle for life.

She has been taught to use nature's remedies instead of those of the druggist, and her instructors are doctors. She has learned that indigestion means rest for the stomach; that headache means rest and sleep for the body; that nervousness and irritation mean an enforced period of quiet life; that bad temper is the outcome of overworked nerves and that she wants to give herself less to do.

She has learned that depression and melancholy are cured by fresh air and exercise; that too much self-depreciation, self-criticism, mean that she is too much involved in her own affairs and that she needs contact with others' woes and joys.

She has learned the importance of food, the necessity of air, the recuperative powers of sleep, and the invaluable tonic of keeping a few hours for herself instead of giving them all to the public.—N. Y. Times.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Children's Day Observed by Sunday Schools

HALL PLACE M. E.

The subject of the morning service at the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday was "The starting point in child religion," the text being "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." During the service, Doris Anna Victoria Blaisdell, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Blaisdell was baptized.

The session of the Sunday school was held at the close of the morning service. The Junior and Epworth League services were omitted.

At 7 P. M. a concert appropriate to Children's day was rendered by the Sunday school, the program including recitations by Herbert Farnham, Reta Hunter, Myrtle Clark, Henry Nichols, Mabel Hayden, Sadie Clark, Leslie McCormick, Joseph Conway, Emily Polli, Grace Thorne, Hannah Roberts, Herbert Fuge, Ralph Newcomb, Lillian Williams, Paul Raupach, Robert McCormick, John Roberts, Elva Bent, William Conway, Alice McCormick, Milton Campbell and Jenette McCormick; also exercises and songs.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Children's day was observed at Bethany church Sunday morning when a service by the Bible school took the place of the regular church service. An interesting program of exercises, songs and recitations was given. The processional by the boys choir and primary department was a pretty feature, and the boys' choir contributed several songs.

Recitations were given by Marion Horton, Dorothy Fitts, Frances Fitts, Christine Hardy, Walter Sargent, Dorothy Miller, Olive Prout, Dorothy Clark, Helen White, Viola MacInnis, John Wentworth, George Shores, Arthur Shores, Alden Clark, Edgar Horton, Doris Prout, Dorothy Green, Dorothy Russell, Edith Shores, Gladys Irwin, Frances Horton, Gertrude Beal, Gertrude Fitts, Phillip Weixler, Evelyn Ernst, Doris Sampson, Jennie Morrison, Eleanor Sargent, Annie Acker, Grace Laing, Alice Miller, Lillian Blake, Corinne Cantley and Ralph Hayden.

The pastor was assisted in the baptism service by Miss Amelia L. Bumpus ,one of the deaconesses and the following children were christened: John Scribner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Sampson; Elizabeth Charlotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel C. Sargent; Franklin Porter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Horton; Beatrice May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Charlesworth; Charles Jeffrey and Leslie Macleod, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Edmonston; Adelaide ,daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor; and Louis Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sweet.

SWEDISH CONGREGATIONAL.

Services preliminary to the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Swedish Congregational church were held Saturday, and included holy communion by Rev. C. F. Bjornhan of Chicago, and reception to new members by Rev. G. E. Palmgren, the pastor.

Sunday morning the Sunday school held a service at 10.30, at which an address was made by Rev. Emil Holmbald of Malden. At the regular morning service at 11 o'clock the sermon was preached by Rev. G. E. Pihl of New Britian, Conn.

The anniversary service was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy of the Bethany church preached the sermon in English. The historical sketch of the church was read by the pastor. There was also speaking by Rev . Mr. Holmbald. In the eevning Rev. F. E. Emrich, D. D., of Boston gave an address.

The clergymen of the Boston district will be the guests at the church this evening, and addresses will be delivered by Rev. G. E. Johnson of Lynn and Rev. K. E. Olsen of Cambridge. The closing service will be held Tuesday evening at which time the mortgage of $1500 on the church will be burned.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

Children's day was observed at the Wollaston Methodist church on Sunday with an appropriate sermon by the pastor at the morning service, on "The Child Jesus." The choir sang appropriate music for Children's Sunday. Mrs. Mabel H. Schraeder of East Orange, N. J., sang a contralto solo with great acceptance.

The Sunday school was well attended with a large increase over a year ago.

The Children's concert at 6 o'clock was in charge of J. A. Sedgwick the Superintendent, and was largely attended. The committee on program were Nettie Crittenden, Ada Stone, Sadie Teed, Mrs. Orville Estes, Florence Waite. The committee on decorations were Miss Sadie Teed and her Sunday school class. The parts on the program were well taken and reflect great credit to the committee and those taking part. The decorations were tastefully arranged and were in keeping with the day and occasion.

The program included processional by primary class, choruses and songs, and recitations by Gladys Schahrer, Francina Crothers, Ethel Brown, Margaret Hagermon, Doris Winters, Elvira Cash, Helen Kay, Gordon Ewertz, Wilfred Sands, Sadie Winters, Charles Palmer, Ralph Bliss, Robert Bliss, George Winters, Harold Ewertz, Leonard Blades, Ida Hoyt, Stuart Dimmick, Roy Ewertz, and Marjorie Fownes.

The graduating exercises under the direction of Mrs. George Crothers superintendent of the Primary department, was an interesting feature of the program. Eleven were graduated from the Primary department and given diplomas. Four others were passed to a higher class. Remarks were made by pastor and superintendent.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The parable of the wise and foolish virgins teaches that thoughtlessness may wreck a life as well as sin. Rev. Carl G. Horst, announcing his text from Matt. 25-10, urged that constant watchfulness and preparation are essential to the best success in life, and that although opportunity does not create ability, it gives it a chance to reveal itself. Life is a series of opportunities which we scarcely recognize as such unless we have met with receptive hearts the many open ways which have presented themselves to our maturing faculties. The neglect of youth is often the cause of poverty in manhood, and how men meet crises in life depends wholly upon what they were before the crises. Just as the foolish virgins could not borrow oil in their sudden and extreme need, so we can never summon to our assistance character, truth, goodness, faith. They must be acquired and made our own day by day as we are meeting life's many requirements, and when we have laid up for ourselves these lasting treasures of accumulated strength and wisdom we shall find that we are prepared to meet the emergencies, duties and trials of life. And so while the multitude fail to be ready for large opportunities, the few who are educated to recognize the difference between luck and opportunity are also prepared to go in at the open door of progress.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst are at home to receive callers Monday evening, residence 67 Winthrop avenue.

Sunday June 19, will be observed as usual as Children's Sunday. The rite of baptism will be administered to the children of the parish, born during the past year.

Any of our readers wishing to help the Calgary general hospital in which the Rev. and Mrs. Frank W. Pratt are interested are asked to send a handkerchief of any sort or description to them at 1602 Fourteenth street, West Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Our annual work for the Mutual Helpers' flower work, Boston, will begin Tuesday, June 28. The vestry will be open from 7 to 8 P. M. Tuesdays, during the summer months, and volunteers are needed to take charge of this beautiful and helpful work. Let us share our blessings with those less fortunate than ourselves and make this summer's work better than that of any preceeding year.

The Church-Helpers will meet with Mrs. C. G. Horst, Thursday, June 16, at 2 P. M.

The last service of worship of the season will be held Sunday, June 26. The church will be closed during July and August.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will sail for Europe July 13.

All children that have been christened in our church and have attained the age of twelve years will please communicate with the minister.

The chorus choir under the efficient leadership of Chorister Clark rendered several fine selections Sunday morning, and the selection by the male quartet, Messrs. Lynch, Brown, Hall and Weston was greatly enjoyed by the congregation.

The union church picnic will be held Saturday, June 25.

The postponed June Festival will be held Friday June 17.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Rev. Joseph Walther preached Sunday morning; subject "Lessons from the Ships"—Psalms 104-26. Children's day was observed, and the sermon was especially for the children. Several interesting lessons were drawn from a ship. A small ship was presented to illustrate the sermon. It was made to move and God moves and we should move for Him. Some ships go faster than others and some men do more because of more talents. The speed of the Great Eastern was found to be getting less, and on examination it was found that there were tons and tons of barnacles on the bottom and side of the ship that hindered its speed. Laziness, bashfulness, lieing and agraid to try, were mentioned as barnacles on the human lives of men to hinder their speed in the service of the Master. The ship needs a pilot, so we need Christ. He really wants to be the pilot of our lives. The Bible was recommended as a chart and compass for our lives. The anchor of faith and hope. It is good to see a ship start out for service and return with her cargo. Just so with the young life; to go away and return with a life full of usefulness and lay our fruit down at the feet of the Master. Mr. Walther closed with these words: "May God give you all a safe passage to your heavenly home."

The sermon was equally interesting and helpful to the older folk.

The Sunday school held its Children's day and anniversary service at 4 o'clock and in spite of the rain, a large number were present. A very interesting and attractive program was carried out. One class graduated from the Primary department and diplomas were presented to the children.

Mr. Green of the Park and Downs Christian Endeavor society led the young people's meeting at 6 o'clock.

George A. Brown will lead the cottage prayer meeting at Montclair on Tuesday evening.

The monthly church social will be held Thursday evening at 7.45. All the new members especially are invited to attend. Let the older members be present and give the new members a hearty welcome.

Why the Wind Waits.

In his book on "The Picturesque St. Lawrence" Clifton Johnson tells of the curious superstition of Montreal which explains why the wind is always blowing at the point where St. Sulpice and Notre Dame streets meet, close by the towering cathedral.

It seems that one day, while the church was in process of building, the Wind and the Devil were walking down Notre Dame street, and the Devil after regarding with a frown of disapproval the graceful outlines of the new edifice rising before him exclaimed:

"What is this? I never saw it before."

"Very likely not," responded the Wind, "and I dare you to go in there."

"You dare me to do that, do you?" tried the Devil, with a sneer. "Well, I will go in if you will promise to wait here until I come out."

"Agreed," said the Wind.

So his satanic majesty went in. But he has not come out yet, and the Wind is still waiting for him at the corner.

The Simple Diet.

There is a certain banker and broker doing business not a hundred miles from the bank, says a London weekly, whose health for some time has not been all that he could desire. Not long ago he was complaining to his brother, when the latter after a careful survey of his brother's countenance said:

"What you need, old man, is plain country food. Come to my place in the country and we'll soon set you up. This rich food is proving too much for you. Take breakfast, for instance. All I have is two cups of coffee, a bit of steak with a baked potato, some light muffins or a stack of buttered toast, together with a bit of watercress or lettuce. What do you have?"

For a moment the city banker gazed in hearty admiration at his brother.

"A cup of hot water and two slices of dry toast," he replied soberly. "But, Jim, if you think a simple diet like yours will 'set me up,' why, I'm perfectly willing to try it."

The Story of "Hard Hit."

"Mr. Orchardson, if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like yours I would stab you to the heart." Such was the remark made by Pellegrini, the famous caricaturist, to the Royal academician, Sir William Orchardson, when at a private view he first saw "Hard Hit," the picture of the ruined gambler. "It was," said the artist, "the greatest compliment I could have had." Curiously enough, the model who sat for the ruined gamester was rather fond of cards himself. One day the artist noticed that he looked somewhat depressed. "What is the matter?" he asked. "I was awfully hard hit last night," he answered. "By Jove," replied the artist, jumping up with delight, "I've got it at last! 'Hard Hit,' of course." And that is how the picture got its name.

Mistake of a Comma.

This instance of what a mistake of a comma can produce has been noticed:

"Lord Palmerston then entered upon his head, a white hat upon his feet, large but well polished boots upon his brow, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking stick in his eye, a dark menacing glare saying nothing."—Circle Magazine.

HOW IS THIS SLATE?

Three Candidates Named at Open-Air Meeting

A large crowd was entertained in City Square, on Saturday evening by Archie Thayer, who appealed to the workingmen for support. He said it would be impossible to resurrect the Republican party in Quincy, and presented the following slate for the fall elections:

For Congressman—William T. Shea.
For Mayor—John W. McAnarney.
For Representative—Archie Thayer.

He presented the claims of each, and was very sure they would be nominated by the democrats and citizens.

BARTLETT—CLAY.

A very pleasant event took place Wednesday, June 1, at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherared Clay of 22 Lloyd street Winchester, it being the marriage of their neice Ethel Maude Clay to Dr. Fred A. Bartlett of Norfolk Downs.

The ceremony was performed in a very pleasing manner by Rev. John R. Chaffee. The double ring service being used. The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her uncle who gave her in marriage. Relatives and a few friends of the happy pair were present. The bride was gowned in a travelling suit of gold cloth and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

After the wedding breakfast the bride and groom left for New York where the honeymoon was spent. Upon their return they will be glad to receive their many friends at their new home 62 Billings road, Norfolk Downs.

Since coming to the Downs Dr. Bartlett has made many friends and has become one of the most popular physicians in this section of the city.

FALCONER—WILBUR.

Wollaston was the scene of a pretty June wedding on Wednesday evening, when Miss Augusta Lucinda Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren James Wilbur of Taylor street, became the bride of Howard Sinclair Falconer.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wesley Wiggin, pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church in the parlor of the Wilbur home, and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends from Wollaston and neighboring towns.

The pair entered to the music of a bridal march played by Miss Ada Stone. The bride was most fetchingly gowned in princess en train of lace and pearl white taffeta and had a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a cluster of bridal roses. She was attended by her sister Miss Bessie Wilbur as maid of honor. The latter's gown was of rose pink silk and lace and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and forget-me-nots. The best man was Edward Geddes of Quincy, a cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony a short reception was held after which the happy pair left, amid a shower of confetti and good wishes, for a honey moon in the White Mountains.

Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Leigh of Watertown, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Geddes of Quincy, the Misses Kate and Jeanette Falconer of Boston, Miss Olive McKeenan of Roxbury and Miss Julia Hemphill of Roxbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Falconer, after, their return, will reside at 100 Brook street, Wollaston, where they will be at home to their friends after August 1.

Hairs Upon Horses' Lips.

The fine hairs about the mouth of the horse are organs of touch of extreme delicacy. They serve to a certain extent the same purpose as our finger ends, the whiskers of the cat or the trunk of the elephant. Sensitiveness is due to specially developed endings of nerves in the skin, which are continually sending messages to the brain. The lip hairs of the horse first receive the stimulus, which is communicated to the end organs and so passes on to the brain. They come into play when the horse samples a new article of food. He first smells it and, having so far satisfied himself, touches it delicately with those sensitive hairs. The upper lip moves softly in quick sympathy and confirms the opinion suggested by the hairs. The tongue judges finally as to the fitness of the food. When the horse wishes to drink these hairs assure him that the water is free from foreign matter on the surface, for he drinks from the surface only. They detect the smallest particle of dirt and guide him to the purest place.

WOMAN HELD AS SLAYER

Says She Was Defending Herself Against Man Who Insulted Her

Boston, June 13.—Mrs. Julia Benby, 50 years of age, a negress, living at 11 Emerald street, South End, was arrested at her home on a charge of murder. According to the police the woman pushed Thomas F. McMahon of Randolph from the front steps of her house. He fell, striking his head. His skull was crushed.

Mrs. Benby declares that McMahon met her on the street and as she was hurrying home. She says he insulted her and followed her up the steps and that she pushed him away. She says that he was unsteady from drink and fell.

CHARLTON MYSTERY IS STILL UNSOLVED

Many Hold Theory That Double Murder Was Committed

Como, Italy, June 13.—The police seem no nearer a solution of the mystery of the murder of Mrs. Porter Charlton of New York than they were on the day the body was found huddled up in a trunk at the bottom of Lake Como.

Searching parties have assiduously dragged the lake, in the expectation that perhaps the body of the woman's husband might be recovered, or at least something having connection with the crime, but so far the searchers have labored in vain. The authorities, so far as they have disclosed, have no information about the missing Charlton, and whether he is dead or alive is only a matter of conjecture.

The opinion is gathering strength that a double murder has been committed. This is the view held by the American consul at Milan, Charles M. Caughy, who is investigating the case.

The police have in their possession a letter written by Mrs. Charlton to her former husband, Neville Castle, which had not been mailed, asking him to return her letters and photographs, because she wished to show them to Charlton to relieve his mind concerning that distant love episode. They have construed this letter as an evidence that Charlton was jealous.

Soldier Drinks Acid at Bar

New London, Conn., June 14.—Private Daniel Kerr of the United States coast artillery walked into a cafe and after inviting everyone in the place to have a drink, raised a bottle of carbolic acid to his lips and drank its contents. Kerr's chance of recovery is slim.

Death of Pittsfield Priest

Pittsfield, Mass., June 13.—Rev. Clevis Beaudoin, aged 65, for ten years past pastor of Notre Dame church in Pittsfield, died last night.

The Bride's Troubles.

It was the servant's day out, and the young bride was doing her best to hurry along the dinner she was trying to cook. The husband, tired of waiting, bustled into the kitchen and said impatiently:

"You know, we'll be late for the theater if you don't hurry dinner."

"Well," sighed the bride, "I can't tell what's the matter, but these coffee grains simply won't boil soft, and as for the eggs, they've been boiling at least two hours, and they're still as hard as ever."

But the dinner was concluded at last, and then the young husband declared he couldn't find his silk hat.

"Oh," exclaimed his wife, "you said it needed ironing, you know, so I sent it this morning to the laundry with the wash."

Too Much For Her.

"The newest laws of hygiene," said a medical man, "can't be inculcated save among those who thoroughly understand them. Take the case of Dash.

"Dash, a rich country scientist, decided to encourage cremation among the villagers. So when the old ash man died Dash urged his widow to have the corpse cremated.

"'No, sir,' said the old woman, 'I'll not cremate him. I'll put him under the sod.'

"'But the cremation won't cost you a cent,' said Dash. 'I'll pay all the expenses if you'll let me have him cremated.'

"'Well, I agree,' said the old woman in a hesitating voice. 'I'm too poor not to agree, sir.' Then she gave Dash a puzzled look, half of pity, half of contempt.

"'But why do you do it, sir?' she said. 'Is it a hobby like golf or stamp collectin'?'"—Washington Star.

¶ Women are more interested in store news, than news of the world. Seventy percent of the retail buying is done by women, and the balance is largely influenced by women. The advertising columns of the big Sunday papers are eagerly read by the housewife, by the daughter, and by women in all walks of life. The merchants in the large cities realize this and take liberal space in the papers to put their goods before the public. Their "ads" are well written, nicely planned, properly balanced and attractively arranged, and the more they advertise the larger their store grows. Attract the attention of women by your advertising and the men will soon follow suit.

What about YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

Do you turn your stock over as often as you would like?

The very stock that you carry on your shelves until it becomes shopworn, is being brought into Quincy every day by Quincy people who watch the Boston "ads."

When the manufacturer's salesmen put a new line of goods on your shelves, and the manufacturer begins a bill-board and magazine advertising campaign, why don't you, Mr. Merchant, let the people know that you have those goods to sell.

It takes time and money to introduce new goods and the manufacturer of today spends his money liberally to tell the people the good points of his wares and create a demand.

Now About YOUR Business Mr. Merchant?

With the manufacturer spending money to help you, what are you doing to help yourself?

Do you let the people know that you carry the goods that are so well advertised by the manufacturer?

¶ Any business must grow under the influence of advertising. An occasional "ad" will bring some results, but think what a well written "ad" and continuous publicity will do.

"I---y S--p—It floats" you know what those few letters mean. Advertising did it, and will continue to do it.

¶ We know you are desirous of increasing your business, and The Ledger would be pleased to help you get the business.

¶ Quincy merchants carry a good quality of goods, and The Ledger goes into the homes of the people that buy these good goods.

¶ Help Quincy grow; keep Quincy money in Quincy; and bring more money into Quincy by patronizing the advertising columns of The Ledger today, tomorrow and every day.

The man who wrote this "ad." will write yours,

BRIEFS

This is the week of graduations and then the long summer vacation.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday were certainly stormy, and the sunshine today was welcomed.

Miss Lillian Purdom of Newport avenue is visiting her aunt Mrs. William Walker of Lowell for three weeks.

Mrs. Daniel Bills of this city mourns the loss of her grandmother, Mrs. James Ahern, who died recently in Weymouth.

Mrs. Frank P. Larkin of Berlin street returned last week from New York where she has been visiting friends for two weeks.

Mrs. P. J. Geddes and daughter Ruth who have been spending a few days with relatives in Quincy, returned to Newark, N. J., on Friday.

Dedham has just dedicated a new $60,000 Quincy school. It is located in East Dedham at the corner of Quincy and Greenhood streets.

There is no meeting of the City Council tonight. At the next meeting June 20, public hearings will be held on the acceptance of eighteen streets.

Harry Taber, who has been a conductor on the Quincy-East Weymouth line for fifteen years has been transferred to the Nantasket-Green Hill line for the summer.

Paul Revere W. R. C. will hold its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon, to be followed in the evening by an entertainment and sale of ice cream, cake and strawberries.

WANTS SHARE OF FORTUNE

Mrs. Cutler Says She Is an Heir to Vast Wyman Estate

Norwood, Mass., June 13.—Mrs. Mary N. Cutler of this town, who is to fight the will of the late Isaac F. Wyman of Salem, which leaves more than $20,000,000 to Princeton university, the amount representing the bulk of his estate, declares: "I am no impostor. I am a half niece of the late Mr. Wyman and although the executors of the will, not yet empowered to act by the probate court, say they have not received the marriage proofs of my father and mother for which they have asked, these proofs are in my possession and will be forthcoming at the proper time.

"I shall fight for my share of the estate and will break the will if it can possibly be accomplished."

Queer Orders to Soldiers

London, June 13.—It is reported from Aldershot that the commander of the York and Lancaster regiment has ordered that no married couples keep cats in their quarters without special permission. He also laid down the rule that in future no non-commissioned officer or man may wax his mustache.

GOING AFTER ARCTIC GAME

Whitney Plans to Bring Back Large Number of Specimens

ETAH FIRST STOPPING PLACE

Millionaire Sportsman and His Fellow Travelers Have Nothing to Say Regarding Cook's Records, but Leave Impression That They Will Bring Them Back If They Are Found—Steamer Taking on Stores

Boston, June 13.—On the first lap of a trip to the Arctic, where they will hunt big game and perhaps bring back the long-delayed records of Dr. Cook, Harry Whitney, millionaire and Arctic sportsman, and Paul J. Rainey and Hugh M. Inman arrived in Boston harbor aboard the big Arctic sealing steamer Beothic. A year's Arctic stores will be taken on here, and, following the arrival of Captain Bartlett, skipper of the Peary ship Roosevelt, who will command the vessel and who is now returning from Europe with Peary, the expedition will sail frim this port direct for the far north a week from today.

The trio of big game hunters went aboard the Beothic at Sydney, C. B., and made the run down in fifty hours. Rainey and Whitney talked interestingly of the plans they have framed for bringing back live animals from the frozen north.

"Don't say anything about Dr. Cook," said Whitney, "or about his records." It was very noticeable, however, later, when the matter of bringing back the much-talked-of records was again mentioned in a laughing way by some of the interviewers, that all three Arctic travelers laughed, but said never a word.

There is said to be little doubt that the Cook instruments and records that were left at Etah will be recovered by Whitney and brought back to civilization, though the party wished to have nothing said about it. In fact, some of them declared that Cook did not enter into the trip at all.

"We are going to Etah first," said Whitney. Cook's records are at Etah —or are supposed to be.

"We will sail from Boston June 20," said Rainey, "and we expect to get to Etah by the last part of August, if we have good luck. It is our plan to take on board in Boston enough provisions, including canned goods of every sort and other things, to last a year. This is for our protection in case we get caught in the ice and are unable to get away so as to reach civilization in the late fall.

"From Etah we shall go down on the Baffin's bay side into Ellsmere Land, hunting and fishing. We have on board a lot of crates and tanks in which we intend to bring back animals that we expect to secure in the north, such as musk-oxen, Arctic foxes and other specimens of animal life and fauna of the north."

In addition to Whitney and his two friends, one other man will join the expedition here—Dr. M. J. Johnson of Lexington, Ky. Inman will not make the entire trip with the rest, as he will stop in Labrador.

Within a few days the last of the guns that will be taken by the party will arrive here and be stored away on the Beothic. Captain Bartlett will be here next Saturday to take command of the ship.

HAMILTON'S TRIAL SPIN

Fine Performance With Aeroplane Despite a Broken Guy Wire

New York, June 13.—Such a little thing as a broken guy wire could not keep Charles K. Hamilton on the ground. Bareheaded, in the pouring rain, with his baggy trousers flapping behind him like a flag in a gale, Hamilton left the ground last evening, and for ten minutes circled the lower end of Governor's island and hovered over the harbor.

In making his preliminary run over the sandy surface of the lower end of the island he bumped a surveyor's stake and smashed a guy wire. He knew it himself, but nobody else did until he alighted after a beautiful flight, and his mechanics began to wind up the loose ends.

Poor Woman's Good Investment

London, June 13.—Mrs. Fordham, a poor woman of Hadstock, purchased at a jumble sale a second-hand pair of corsets for 4 cents. After wearing the corsets for more than a year, she picked them to pieces, and was astonished to find ten sovereigns sewn up in the interior of the corsets.

Shot In Row Over a Woman

Watertown, Mass., June 13.—A quarrel about a young woman resulted in Dominic Bancordi, 33, being dangerously shot in the neck by Antonio Beccatori, 34, who made his escape, the shooting taking place at 93 Arsenal street last evening.

SUED FOR $10,000

Belva Lockwood Accused of "Malicious Abuse of Criminal Process"

Washington, June 13.—Belva A. B. Lockwood, the only woman in this country to ever run for the presidency, has been sued for $10,000 by James R. Brackett, on the grounds of "malicious abuse of criminal process."

Belva Lockwood is also the first woman ever admitted to practice law before the United States supreme court, as the result of a bill which she caused to be passed before congress in 1879.

She was one of the attorneys who secured a judgment against the United States for the Eastern Cherokees in 1906 and this suit for $10,000 grows out of the payment of this money to the descendants of the Indians. She at one time had Brackett arrested on a charge of larceny after trust.

Brackett, after receiving $1600 from the government in behalf of his family, refused to pay the commission claimed by her. She is now in her 80th year.

DISCARDS HER CRUTCHES

Boston Cripple Declares She Was Cured at Canadian Shrine

Boston, June 13.—Miss Frances Little of Dorchester, who has been a cripple for the last six years, and within that time was never known to have taken a step without her crutches, astonished the members of her family Saturday night by walking into the house as though she had always had the unimpaired use of her limbs.

On June 5, the crippled girl left Boston for Quebec to visit the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, the Lourdes of America.

After having performed the devotional exercises there with great fervor up to June 9 she suddenly felt a warm glow pass through her diseased limb, and rising, she walked back to her hotel.

Miss Little has left her crutches at the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre as testimony to her cure. Her case has aroused considerable attention in medical circles.

LOST STOLEN MONEY IN STOCK MARKET

Young Bookkeeper Thought That He Understood Gambling

Lynn, Mass., June 13.—"It's the old story, stock gambling," said James D. Motherway in his cell at the Lynn police station.

"He wanted to get rich quick. He spent the money to buy stocks, not to buy diamonds," said Mrs. Motherway, a bride of eight months. That is how the theft of $7500 from Swift & Co's. Lynn office is explained by the young bookkeeper.

Motherway is 24 years old, has been working for the Swifts for three years and earned $25 a week. The Swift office did a business of $2000 a day, and Motherway had access to this money.

The bookkeeper was arrested on warrants charging him with the theft of $2480, but he confessed that his defalcations amounting to $7500.

Motherway began stealing six weeks ago. He had worked in a broker's office in Boston and thought he knew something about the stock market.

FIVE THOUSAND OUT

Heavy Curtailment About to Begin In Fall River Mills

Fall River, Mass., June 13.—The heaviest curtailment in years will, it is expected, follow the order of M. C. D. Borden to close all the mills of his Fall River Iron Works company plant.

Five thousand employes of the Iron Works are thrown out of employment, the wage loss being between $35,000 and $40,000. The other manufacturers, who have feared to curtail extensively lest they lose operatives in the mills which are running on full time, will be able to curtail as much as they please, with the 5000 Iron Works operatives to draw on.

The reason for the curtailment is said to be the failure of the recent reduction of prices to bring buyers in. The further production of goods, all agree, would mean a heavy loss.

Quite So.

"There seems to be a strange affinity between a darky and a chicken."

"Naturally. One is descended from Ham and the other from eggs."—Housekeeper.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

BADLY BEATEN BEFORE DEATH

Newman's Parents Blame School Officials For Loss of Their Son

THEY WANT BODY EXHUMED

Claim That Medical Examination Will Show That Boy Did Not Commit Suicide—Lyman School Strongly Arraigned by Former Teacher—Former Inmate Tells of Being Beaten With Hose Soaked In Vinegar and Salt

Boston, June 13.—The father and mother of John Newman, the 13-year-old Cambridge boy who met death in the Lyman state school at Westboro, declared before the legislative committee that is investigating the matter that they believed the boy was beaten to death.

The father, William F. Newman, a Cambridge fireman, asked that the body of the boy be exhumed and a medical examination of the body be made so that justice might be done. He also demanded the the officers of the Lyman school be summoned before the committee so that they might be questioned about the boy's death in public. The officers of the school say that the boy committed suicide by hanging.

Mrs. Newman, in an outburst that thrilled the occupants of the room, cried:

"I believe that a dreadful crime has been committed. I only want to know the man who did it. The boy never did it. I believe that the man who drove the blow on the boy's temple also tied him up with the sheets to cover up the crime."

"Nobody can tell me that he committed suicide," asserted the father. "There was a mark on his forehead, his right eye was discolored, there was a mark on the point of his right jaw, and another one on the point of his left jaw. I could swear from the appearance of the bruises that he was struck."

A number of persons appeared before the investigating committee who had seen young Newman as he lay in the casket at his father's home in Cambridge. Each of them declared emphatically that the boy's face bore the marks of blows, one of them, Representative John J. Reed, declaring that a bruised and blackened eye was very evident, while several of them testified to a mark, as if with a clenched fist, showed on the right temple.

Paul Senden, formerly a teacher at the school, arraigned the institution in the strongest terms. He testified that he had seen boys kicked, struck with the fist, whipped when their ties were not on straight, left in detention rooms four and five hours with no one calling on them, stood facing the wall for an hour and a half and whipped if they moved their heads, and stood in the dining room where they watched others eat, while they themselves were denied food.

Senden declared that he had seen a man weiging 250 pounds whip a boy who weighed only ninety-five pounds, half to death on the bare back with a garden hose. He interfered before the man would quit.

William F. McCann of Chelsea, who was in the school eleven years ago, testified before the committee that he had received in the school thirty strokes from a rubber hose that had been soaked in vinegar and salt. He said that it took the wounds three weeks to heal and that he could not sit down during that time. He also declared that he had been forced to stand for two hours in the dead of winter before an open window in his night clothing.

A discussion of the new situation was held by the members of the committee, after which they announced that the hearing would be continued today.

MAN HUNT IS ON IN EARNEST

Slayer of Massachusetts Sheriff Is Hiding In Mountain

IS KNOWN AS A "BAD MAN"

Stabbed Man by Whom He Was Employed and Shot Down Officer When He Attempted to Make Arrest—Is Well Supplied With Firearms, Ammunition and Food, and Will Doubtless Put Up a Stiff Fight

Monroe Bridge, Mass., June 13.—Silas Phelps, heavily armed and knowing that his life is at stake for the murder of Sheriff Emmett F. Haskins Sunday morning, is hiding on Monroe mountain, while hundreds of armed men, on both sides of the Massachusetts and Vermont boundary line, are slowly closing in on his hiding place, risking their lives, but determined to capture Phelps dead or alive and put an end to the career of the "bad man of Franklin county."

Phelps has earned his nickname through years of crime, which culminated when he stabbed Superintendent Penman of the Ramage Paper works, where Phelps had been employed, and then shot dead Haskins when he was called upon to surrender at his home. Penman's wound was so deep that it is doubtful if he will live.

After the murder, Phelps, armed with a shotgun, a rifle and two revolvers, made his way out a back door in his house and escaped through the dense forests to Monroe mountain, a favorite haunt where he has before taken refuge when he knew that he was wanted by the law. A posse which accompanied Haskins was overawed by Phelps.

Everywhere the death of Haskins has aroused the feelngs of a quiet countryside so that the man chase is grim and intense. Every posse that started out from Monroe Bridge was given strict orders not to be ambushed and to fire at once if Phelps did not throw up his hands at the instant when he was discovered.

The desperado has been the terror of the neighborhood for more than a decade. He is known to have 100 rounds of ammunition for his shotgun and as many shots in his rifle and revolvers.

Even those who have seen in Phelps' whole career of bloodshed and bullying a streak of cowardice admit that this vanishes when he has a gun in his hands.

The fact that he knows that his life is the stake for which hundreds of grim men are seeking, it is generally foreboded, means that the capture may cost other lives.

Phelps' wife, who appears to sympathize with her husband despite the fact that he has horsewhipped her in the yard of their home, has warned the posses to quit the chase, as her husband had told her that Haskins' death would be followed by at least two more, as he had two men in mind whom he had determined to kill and even off old scores, now that he knew his own life was forfeit.

Besides his firearms, Phelps took enough provisions for several days from his home with him.

LACKS BUT SEVEN VOTES

Hinds Will Easily Secure Them In Maine Congressional Contest

Portland, Me., June 13.—Republican caucuses held in both York and Cumberland counties, indicate that Fred Hale of this city, a son of Senator Hale, will be defeated at the district convention June 29 in his attempt to secure the congressional nomination to succeed Amos L. Allen of Alfred.

Asher C. Hinds of Portland, who has been Hale's chief opponent, now controls 148 delegates of those already chosen, while Hale can rely on but 72 and Edward C. Reynolds of South Portland claims but 27.

There are 308 delegates eligible to seats in the convention, so that Hinds now lacks but seven of the 155 necessary for a choice. It is conceded Hinds will have at least half of the 61 delegates yet to be chosen.

TO RENOUNCE TREATY

Japan Wants to Bring Agreement With America Up to Date

Washington, June 13.—The Japanese government, according to the present program, will on Friday renounce the existing treaty with the United States.

The act of the Japanese government is no mark of hostility, but is only part of an effort by that government to revise and bring up to date its whole fabric of treaties with the outside world.

Shooter Dies of Poisoning

Boston, June 13.—Mary Cardwell, the negro girl who fired three shots at Charles Christianson, also a negro, a porter at City square elevated station, died from poison which she swallowed immediately after trying to kill the porter. None of the three shots hit Christianson. Miss Cardwell, who was 21 years of age, claimed that she had married Christianson. He denied it.

YOUNG BRONCHO BUSTERS

Abernathy Brothers Rode 2000 Miles to Help Greet Roosevelt

LONG BRONCHO RIDE ENDED

Abernathy Kiddies Warmly Greeted by People of New York

New York, June 13.—Between cheering files Louis and Temple Abernathy rode up Broadway on the last stage of their 2000-mile journey from Oklahoma.

As the two tired bronchos halted in front of the hotel Breslin fully 1000 persons massed about them and joined in the final cheer.

Smiles as broad as their sombreros lighted up the youngsters' faces as they bared their heads in salute. Then they slipped from their ponies and hurried into the hotel with "Jack" Abernathy, United States marshal of Oklahoma and proud father of the lads.

The purpose of the boys' long ride was to be in New York to join in the welcome to Theodore Roosevelt on his return next Saturday. Louis, the elder of the lads, is 9 years old, while Temple is only 6. They began their long trip on April 16.

SANDFORD'S VESSEL SLIPS AWAY TO SEA

Kingdom Leaves Boston as Mysteriously as She Arrived

Boston, June 13.—Towed by a tug, because there was not wind enough to fill her idly flapping sails, the bark Kingdom and her passengers left Boston harbor last night as mysteriously as she came.

Whether "Elijah II," Rev. F. W. Sandford, was in direct command of the vessel is not known, for up to the time that the tow line was cast off in the heavy mists of the lower harbor, Captain Perry would not admit that the head of the Holy Ghost and Us society was on board.

When the bark had made good clearance and sufficient breeze had sprung up to liven her sails the tow line was cast off and the Kingdom slipped quietly out of sight in the darkness and fog.

GRAND TRUNK ROAD BALKED

Kept Out of Pawtucket by Move of New Haven Road

Woonsocket, R. I., June 13.—It now appears that the Grand Trunk road has been balked in its efforts to enter this city through its tributary, the Southern New England road, by a strategic move on the part of the New Haven road.

The New Haven announces that work on a new freight yard and increased terminal facilities, to be carried through at a cost of $300,000, will be begun at once on the land recently acquired by the road in the northern part of the city.

This land, sixteen acres, is situated between one shore of a pond of considerable size and a thickly populated tenement district. This was the natural entrance into Woonsocket that the Grand Trunk road would have used.

The only way the Grand Trunk can get into Woonsocket now is by making a wide detour, and it is doubtful if this would be practicable.

BOY PLAYED WITH GUN

Wadding and Powder Enter Chum's Neck, Causing His Death

Ware, Mass., June 13.—Playing with an old shotgun found in a barn, Clifford Brodner, 8 years old, was instantly killed.

The gun was in the hands, it is said, of Valmore Collette, 10 years old, who, however, is held entirely blameless. The gun was loaded with only a blank cartridge, the wadding and powder entering the child's neck, so close was the weapon.

Carefully Prepared For Death

Holliston, Mass., June 13.—Arraying herself in her best gown, and leaving directions as to what undertaker she desired to have, Mrs. Maria Morse, wife of a farmer, hanged herself at her home at Morse's Corners. Her husband for several weeks has been visiting in Woburn. Mrs. Morse had been despondent.

IN FASHION'S REALM

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

FASHIONS IN NEW YORK.

Summer Suits and Graduation Frocks —Dainty Shoes and Hose—Ruffled Skirts and Panniers that Hang Limp—Persian Printings for Boarders, Belts, Parasols, Hats and Handkerchiefs—Popularity of Foulard.

"When in doubt, choose foulard!" a well known authority says, and surely no gown gives more satisfactory service, or goes appropriately for so many occasions as a pretty light, uncrushable silk like foulard or checked or striped taffeta. How such frocks are made depends altogether upon the wear designed. Many are made in styles as simple as if the material were printed cotton, and these are not by any means at the foot of procession as regards smartness of effect.

THE DRESS WITH COAT LINES.

Dresses that suggest coats, in their long straight lines are winning rivals of the ever useful coat and skirt models. Biscuit color is a great favorite for such toilets either in silk, linen or serge and surah weaves in silk, are especially smart made in these skimpy straight models.

GRADUATION FROCKS.

At the commencement exercises of a very fashionable New York School held at Sherry's, the gowns worn by everyone connected with the school, teachers as well as girls, were of the lingerie order, and white was the only tint employed ,though the many flowers sent by friends made gorgeous rifts of color. Few such assemblages are so conservative however and colored slips and accessories are quite permissable if desired. The wide flouncings of nice embroidery with matching bands and insertions make easily constructed dresses that can be made at home. Such dresses are easily freshened and can be used for many other occasions.

PRETTY FIXINGS.

Shops that cater to the best class of trade are constantly on the alert to present attractive novelties. Lord and Taylor is showing some very fetching things that appeal both for beauty and practical use. Especially suitable for graduate or bridal gifts are toilet sets of the fashionable Ivortone that looks exactly like ivory. These can be bought in separate pieces as well as in full sets and are engraved to order with beautifully designed monograms done in black, blue, gold or silver.

INEXPENSIVE SILK AND COTTON MATERIALS.

So lovely are the inexpensive silk and cotton materials shown at all counters, that they are being made up for all sorts of dainty wear. Those with Persian palm leaf printings are newer than the more dainty floral designs. A very effective gown can be made with no other trimming than printed border and one can have two frocks for the cost of one, or can put the extra money saved in dainty footwear and gloves and hose, for accessories are all important in the finish of a toilet.

A NOVEL FLOWER HOLDER.

One of the latest novelties is a little flower holder of filagree metal with a pin for attaching to the waist. These are intended to hold a single rose or other flower. Garlands of roses, usually of the button size; made up in chiffon or soft satin are extensively used for trimming lingerie hats and gowns, and make most acceptable graduation gifts. What are known as "Posy Mixtures"—long wreaths of artificial flowers of many varieties are much liked. Sashes are apt to be placed below the knee and many are veiled.

NECK AND SLEEVES.

Dutch necks, contrary to predictions, are worn with various lengths of sleeve from half to those going well over the wrist, and gloves vary in accordance. Chamois gloves are reckoned smartest for ordinary street wear, and kid or silk for more dressy occassions. Shoes must match the hem of the frock to be correct and stockings go by the same rule. Bright colored hose contrasting with the dress is worn considerably with black patent leather shoes, and the patent leather belt in black, white or red is much in evidence.

IN THE PALM ROOM.

A smart suit of biscuit colored serge of fine French weave has a plain skirt finished with a wide band of stitching. The Russian coat has revers of white cloth worked with gold and black. The hat is of nut brown straw trimmed with black wings touched with ibis color. Another smart suit seen at a recent Chantecler entertainment in the Palm Room of the Casino, was of changeable black and blue taffeta. The hat of transparent horsehair trimmed with shaded black and blue willow plumes. Blue meusseline over black with lingerie collar made most of the waist of this dress, the silk used only for bibs and strappings. A coat of black moire lined with rose color to match the rose color frock worn with it. The deep revers, reaching to the waist were of rose satin. A girlish gown was of foulard in blue and white the coat of fine blue wool serge with white buttons and braidings of self color.

RIBBON TRIMMINGS.

Cotton voile dresses are being smartly trimmed with ribbon for hems and bodice garnitures. Skirts ruffled to the waist and those with panniers are made of limp hanging materials so that the long lines are not broken by any bouffancy of the material.

Cool Kitchen—Perfect Cooking

The housewife with years of experience—the woman who knows how to cook—finds, after practical tests and hard trials, the New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is her idea of what a good cook-stove really ought to be.

She finds it requires less attention, costs less to operate, and cooks all food better than any other stove she has ever tried.

She finds the New Perfection oven bakes and roasts perfectly. The

New Perfection

BRIEFS

A holiday on Friday.

Tomorrow wil lbe Flag day, the anniversary of "Old Glory."

Dorchester day was postponed from Saturday to June 17.

Miss Isabelle M. Barnes and Charles H. Damon, Jr., were quietly married on Saturday by Rev. Edward Norton.

John L. Hodson of 129 Glendale road underwent an operation for appendicitis at a private hospital in Weymouth on Saturday.

Walter E. Blanchard ,of Blanchard King & Co., haber-dashers of Boston, filed a petition in bankruptcy on Satday; liabilities, $27,434; assets, $12,-933.

BODY WASHED ASHORE.

A badly decomposed trunk of the body of a man was washed ashore between Squantum beach and Moon Island about three o'clock Saturday afternoon. Around the waist was a leather belt, about an inch wide, and the remnants of what appeared to be a balbriggan shirt and overhall. Medical Examiner Jones, who viewed the body, said it had probably been in the water several months. Undertaken Hall was notified, and the body was placed in the receiving tomb at Mt. Wollaston cemtery. The body was found on the Boston side of the causeway and it is thought that it may have come from the schooner Palmer which was wrecked near Broad sound in the December storm. There was nothing about the body to establish its identity.

The Spirit of Liberty.

It was in the town that modern democracy had its rise. Despite all the efforts of the kings and barons to prevent it, the spirit of liberty began to assert itself in the larger towns in the shape of the charters which guarantee to the people certain commercial and political rights—rights which, once obtained, were never to be surrendered. Before the middle of the eleventh century there were many of these "chartered" towns which possessed the right of electing their own magistrates, sheriffs and judges and regulating their own taxes. The wretched serfs from the country were welcomed by the townspeople and aided to larger freedom. These free towns were first known in Spain, from which country they slowly spread over Europe. The burgesses naturally offered protection and freedom to all who would flee to them from the feudal estates, and thus slowly, but surely, the good work went on until the ancient despotisms were destroyed.—Arena.

To Take No Chances.

Ham'ar—Why in the dickens have you got that string tied around your tooth?

Absente—To remind me that I must have the tooth removed.

Hamlar—But, goodness gracious, why don't you do as ordinary people and have the string tied around your finger?

Absente (stiffly)—Because, sir, I don't care to have my finger removed.—Chicago News.

NO DOUBT AT MONTCLAIR

Petition Ten Feet Long to Go to School Committee

Editors of Daily Ledger:

In the issue of the Quincy Ledger of June 9, there appeared an article under the heading of "Names for School-houses" and signed by "A. B. C." The writer has since found out that the article was greatly in error regards his statement ,and herewith wishes to apologize to the Montclair people and the people at large for the hasty remarks. The people of Montclair have circulated a petition to honestly get the sense of the people of Montclair, and the entire school-house jurisdiction, with the result of a petition ove rten feet long and containing over two hundred names, which comprises about every citizen interested in the naming of the school-house. This leaves the question of the sense of the people without a doubt. A .B .C.

TOLD IN A DREAM.

The Message a Dying Girl Conveyed to Her Brother.

This is an absolutely true dream story: A certain young lady, whom we will call Mary A., was recovering from illness. The doctor had declared her to be out of danger, and her friends and relatives were rejoicing in the fact. Nevertheless Miss A., receiving a visit one day from a sister, gravely assured her that she was going to die. The sister poohpoohed the idea and treated it as an invalid's fancy. Miss A., however, with the utmost calmness, repeated her statement. She was certain that she would die that night and begged her sister to fetch her parents and other relatives to say goodby. Thinking to humor her, the sister complied. One person was absent from this strange family gathering—a brother, who was at sea and was expected home in a week or two. "But it does not matter," Miss A. quietly observed. "I saw him last night in a dream and said goodby to him in his cabin." Before the sun rose again Miss A.'s prediction had come true; she was dead. That, however, is not the strangest part of this weird story. When in due time the sailor brother reached port he was met by his other sister, who began to tell him the sad news. "Ah," he interrupted, "you need not tell me! Mary is dead. I knew it, for she came to me one night in my dreams and told me she was going to die and wanted to say goodby." On comparing dates it was found that the dreams were dreamed on the selfsame night.—London News.

A MUSICAL PRODIGY.

Richard Strauss Composed Dance Music at the Age of Six.

Richard Strauss was a musical prodigy. His first effort at writing music was made at a Christmas celebration, says the Designer. Some children were dancing around the tree and singing a three part song. "I can compose music like that," said the six year-old Richard to his mother. Thereupon he sat down and did so. But his mother was obliged to write in the words, because, although he could write music legibly, his pot hooks were too large. Strauss himself not only vouched for the truth of this story, but said that while he was still six years old he composed a polka and a schottische.

Richard was only fifteen when a symphony composed by him was brought out by Herman Levi, court conductor at Munich and conductor of the first performance of "Parsifal" at Bayreuth. When Richard came out to bow his acknowledgment of the applause which followed the symphony a man in the audience turned to his neighbors and asked, "What has that boy got to do with it?"

"Nothing," was the reply, "except that he's the composer."

Settling the Barber.

"Hair's a bit thin on the top, sir," remarked the barber. "Won't you try a bottle of our hair restorer?"

The victim squirmed. "You made the same observation last week," he said, "and I expressed my desire to see you try the stuff on the doormat."

"Sorry; I didn't know you had been here before, sir," replied the barber as he went on shaving. "I didn't recognize your face."

"No," was the growling reply; "my face has healed since then."—London News.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF GUNPOWDER

Playground Association's Plan For New York's Fourth.

A REAL CHILDREN'S DAY.

Parades and Athletic Cames Suggested, With Only Quarter of an Hour Devoted to Noise—Would Have City Provide Fireworks at Night.

There should be at least fifteen minutes of noise on the Fourth of July in New York city, in the opinion of the Playground Association of America, which has drawn up a plan for the celebration of the national holiday along new lines. The association, of which Dr. Luther H. Gulick is president, has mapped out a complete program, showing how New York may spend the day celebrating without firecrackers, torpedoes, bombs, blank cartridges and other dangerous noise making devices.

It should be a day of parades, speechmaking and athletic games, according to the association, with a quarter hour interval at noon, when the whole city might make as much racket as it pleased. Promptly at 12, it is suggested, the signal should be given by the firing of salutes from the big guns of the harbor fortifications. Then for fifteen precious minutes every small boy in the city might be free to fire off his stock of Fourth of July explosives.

The association suggests also that "a striking spectacular feature might be furnished by each child releasing a toy balloon with a small American flag attached exactly on the stroke of 12, when the guns at the forts are fired." The association also recommends that the day should be given over primarily to children, its chief features being a celebration in each of the forty-six school districts of the city. In New York city this should mean approximately 15,000 children in each district celebration.

School Parade Suggested.

A parade of school boys and girls in each district is recommended as the best way to start the day. This would keep the children busy until noon. Each borough, the association believes, should also have its own parade, in which the national guard, police and fire departments and various civic and patriotic organizations might take part. The district parades could be timed so that as the borough parade passed through each school district the children could fall in line and march with the big parade to the next district, where they would give place to the next group of children, or if this is not expedient the children could be lined up along the route of the borough parade.

This is the way the afternoon and evening might be spent, according to the suggested program:

"Following the parade and the demonstration there would be opportunity for lunch before the local celebrations, which should take place at 2 p. m. A place for each district celebration should be provided either by assigning a section in a public park accessible to the district, by setting aside park playgrounds and by closing certain streets, particularly those on the water front of the lower part of Manhattan, and by allowing the use of recreation piers.

"These local celebrations could well consist of athletic games, folk dances, Independence day addresses, patriotic music, recitations, tableaux, drills and flag salutes. This plan would make it possible for practically all the children to participate and would bring the celebrations home to the children and their parents.

"A display of fireworks should be provided by the city in the evening. This might well take place from floats in the river and bay and from the bridges between Manhattan and Brooklyn."

Suggest Series of Tableaux.

Although the celebration would carry out the spirit of the Fourth of July, the association contends that all nationalities should be allowed to share in commemorating the establishment of liberty and independence in their own land. Here are some of the subjects for tableaux the association suggests:

"Signing of the Declaration of Independence," "The Spirit of '76," "Signing the Treaty," "The Surrender of Cornwallis," "Washington's Farewell to His Officers," "The Boston Tea Party," "William Tell and Gessler," "The Fall of the Bastille," "The Victory of Bannockburn," "Garibaldi and His Followers."

General arrangements for such a celebration should be in the hands of a central committee appointed by the mayor, the association believes, and there should also be a subcommittee in each borough and in each of the forty-six school districts. The association suggests that each committee might solicit contributions among the residents of its district, while general contributions might be solicited by the central committee to help pay for the fireworks display in the evening.

Matador's $40,000 Contract.

Antonio Fuentes, the greatest bullfighter in Spain, has signed a contract to give four performances in the City of Mexico next September. He is to receive $10,000 for each performance, which is the highest price ever paid a matador.

GIBSON PREMIER CATCHER.

Baseball Experts Give Pittsburger Coveted Title of Best Backstop.

World's greatest catcher—this is the nifty title that has been bestowed on George Gibson, the Pirates' great backstop, by the Pittsburg critics.

Well, there are lots of baseball experts who say that the popular Mooney is deserving of it. They claim there is no wind paddist in the game today who is Gibby's peer in all around work.

The big Canadian has made a great start this year, and it will surprise no one if he equals or even surpasses his great record of 1909 for consecutive games caught.

Gibson is so big, so ideally built, so muscular and so strong that he can work twice as hard as the ordinary man without feeling any ill effects. Toil agrees with "Hack." He thrives under it and never loses his happy spirit or his effervescent smile.

"Deacon" Phillippe is credited with being as good a judge of ball players as any man in the business. He has had wide experience and has excellent judgment in estimating the worth of an athlete. The veteran twirler is authority for the statement that when it comes to smooth, graceful work behind the bat no one has anything on Gibson.

"Gibson makes a hard job easy," said the "Deacon." "He does so because he catches in such a naturally free and easy style that he runs little risk of personal injury. You never hear of his missing a game through being hurt. And yet there are catchers with good reputations who are always getting into the way of the ball. They fight the sphere as it comes to them and are often laid off with split or bunged fingers. That's not the case with Gibson. He is surely a wonderful backstop."

AFTER DIAMOND SCULLS.

Three Canadian Oarsmen Preparing For English Henley Regatta.

There is a possibility that three Canadian oarsmen will compete for the Diamond sculls, which is one of the feature events of this year's Henley regatta in England, July 3 to 6. Lou Scholes and James Cosgrave are already in training for the event, and now comes the announcement that O'Neil, the Halifax oarsman, may also compete. O'Neil won the American amateur sculling championship at Detroit last year.

If O'Neil decides to enter the Diamond sculls Canada certainly will be well represented. Before the three leave for England Canadian rowing enthusiasts plan to arrange a match between them. Whether this plan will go through, however, is a matter still to be decided.

Sculler Greer After Durnan.

Former Amateur Sculling Champion Frank B. Greer of Boston is talking of rowing a match race with Eddie Durnan of Toronto. Richard Arnst, the Australian champion, is reported anxious to meet Durnan at Toronto after his world's championship race with Ernest Barry of England in South Africa next August.

DIAMOND CHIRPS.

George Mullin, the Tigers' leading twirler, is twenty-eight. He began to pitch for Detroit at nineteen.

Vincent Campbell, the big and fast St. Louis player, has made a hit in Pittsburg as substitute for Outfielder Wilson.

Johnny Evers, like Eddie Plank, has never played on but one big league club. Eddie started in 1901 with Connie Mack, while Evers played his first game with the Cubs in 1902.

Clarke Griffith says: "A manager should permit a player like Ty Cobb to use his best judgment at the bat. Such men are competent to act on their own initiative."

Looks like ever'thing in the world comes right if we les' wait long enough. —Mrs. Wiggs.

STORIES OF THE DIAMOND.

Silk O'Loughlin Talks About the Duties of Umpires.

HOW GAME SHOULD BE RUN.

Arbitrator Should Keep Players Hustling (if He Can) and Get Close to Every Play—Umps Must Be Up to All Kinds of Schemes.

No. VII.

By SILK O'LOUGHLIN, American League Umpire.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Umpiring is a business, and it has been mine for fourteen years, during which time naturally I have had some queer experiences. If I have attained any success as an arbitrator it is because I have put my mind down to my work and given it just as much of my time and thought as have been given in other lines and professions.

I believe that the umpire is every bit as much of a feature at a ball game as are the ball tossers. More depends upon him, and he should realize this fact when he steps upon the field. It has always been my idea to let the public and the players know that the umpire is the real thing. He should create this impression when he walks on the field and impress it on everybody's mind as the game progresses.

I have made a study to give the public all that is coming to them from the umpire. The people in the seats are entitled to know what decisions I render, and I try to make this plain both by signals of the hands and arms and also by the peculiar manner of announcing strikes and balls.

I draw out strikes as long as possible, so that they can be easily distinguished from the balls. I never say "two" because that is sometimes misunderstood, while "tuh" is never mistaken for anything else.

One of the most important things that I do is to get as near to every play as possible. The umpire should move about, and the players should do the same. The umpire should put lots of action into his work, and the players will follow suit. There is nothing more tiresome than a draggy game of ball, and the umpire can make it draggy if he is so disposed. I always make the players hustle, and I have never yet found a player who did not want to get through a game as quickly as possible.

Umpires sometimes make trouble for themselves by allowing the game to get out of his hands. The umpire should always hold the players in check, and they would never have any trouble with the ball tossers. I started to umpire when I was but twenty years old, and I have been at it ever since. Umpiring is not always pleasant, but I like my work.

In order to be a successful arbitrator one must possess a cool head and be a good judge of the players, for the majority of them are up to all kinds of tricks. For instance, here is a scheme that Frank Isbell of the Chicago White Sox tried to work on me some years ago. Isbell wanted to get out of the game. It was bitter cold, and he did not feel like playing. But he did not feel like going to the manager of the team and saying that he didn't want to play. So he hit upon the scheme of being put out of the game.

In one of the early innings he tried to steal second, and I declared him out. "I wasn't out, and anybody who says I was out doesn't know what he is talking about," said Frank. He was hoping that I would put him out of the game, but I was on to his trick. The next time he got on first he started for second again. Once more I had to call him out. "I'm not out!" howled Isbell. "Nobody but a crooked umpire would call me out." The third time up he singled and once more started to steal second. This time he was out by two feet. "I wasn't out!" he yelled and handed out a line of talk that was calculated to get him put out of the game. As the day was cold and raw he would rather be sitting on the bench in the clubhouse than on the bench of the playing field. Frank saw that I was on to his game and for the rest of the game remained very quiet.

Extra Inning Games a Hoodoo.

Are extra inning games a hoodoo for the Detroit Tigers?

Judging by the results in 5 overtime games this season this looks to be a fact. Up to date the champs have participated in four such games. Two went ten innings, one eleven innings, and another strung along fifteen innings. And the Tigers have lost every one of these extra inning struggles.

Challenge For Four-in-hand Teams.

Paul A. Sorg of New York is willing to match one of his four-in-hand teams in a road race of ten miles on a trot pulling a loaded coach for any part of $20,000. The four he pins his hopes on lately trotted twelve miles in 45 minutes.

Fred Clarke Invents New Cap.

Manager Clarke has invented a cap with an aluminium brim, to which is attached a pair of colored glasses on hinges, which can be pulled down over the eyes.

VERY PROMPT TO ACT

Railroad Officials Improve the Train Service

Mayor Shea, City Solicitor McAnarney and the special committee of the City Council held a conference with the officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad on Monday in relation to improving the train service, especially at the Atlantic, Norfolk Downs and Quincy Adams stations.

The committee were received pleasantly and the Mayor and committee went into the train service in detail. It was pointed out that the morning trains as now scheduled did not accommodate the people as they should, particularly those whose place of employment was between Quincy and Boston or at South Braintree and Brockton. It is now impossible for people to get to their work on time except by using the street cars which consume too much time. The inconvenience because of lack of sufficient cars on the morning and early evening trains was touched upon.

Before night the railroad officials posted a bulletin in the South Terminal station announcing these changes:

The train leaving Boston at 6.40 A. M. will stop at Norfolk Downs at 6.51, running express to that station. This train also stops at Wollaston, Braintree and South Braintree.

The train leaving Boston at 7.50 A. M., will stop at Quincy Adams at 8.05, being the only stop between Boston and South Braintree.

The train leaving Boston at 8.35 A. M. will stop at Quincy at 8.52, omitting Quincy Adams. This is the train that now makes stops at Atlantic, Norfolk Downs, Braintree and South Braintree.

The train leaving Boston at 3.35 P. M. will stop at Atlantic at 3.45, being the only stop between Boston and Braintree.

On Saturdays only, the train leaving Boston at 12.35 P. M. will stop at Montclair at 12.48.

The train leaving Braintree at 5 P. M. for Boston will stop at Norfolk Downs at 5.08.

Other changes will probably be made.

THE PARK ASSESSMENT

Boston Has Best Facilities Reaching All Reservations

City Solicitor McAnarney is attending the hearing before the special commission to determine the basis of apportionment for the Metropolitan reservations and parkways, and is alive to the move on the pa t of Boston to shift the assessments from a valuation basis to a population basis.

The counsel for Boston advanced these arguments on Monday. The reasons for the city's anxiety are based on the fact that Boston, which has less than two miles of Metropolitan boulevards and 493.47 acres of park under the Metropolitan system, paid by the 1900 aportionment 50 per cent, and in 1905 62 per cent of the park money.

There are in the entire system 31,687 miles of boulevards and 10,001.28 acres of parks. The present apportionment is based on valuation. There are 39 towns and cities having a population in 1905 of 1,265,152 within the Metropolitan area. The valuation is given as $1,737,116,334 for real estate and $691,275,314 for personal property, or a total valuation of $2,338,391,648 for the district It is hoped that the commission will be able to use the census figures for this year, as well as up to date valuations, in deciding on the apportionment for the ensuing five years, it being the law to fix the periods thus.

James F. Jackson represented Brookline. He was on the last committee of apportionment, and after much investigation he and others on that commission had come to the conclusion that valuation was the only proper basis. He said:

"The Metropolitan reservations make for better citizenship and benefit all of the district. The idea of the legislature seems to have been for the state to take and improve these places for the benefit of Greater Boston."

City Solicitor Kaan of Somerville brought out, through questions, that Mr. Jackson believed that Boston, possesses the best facilities for reaching all parts of the Metropolitan area of any of the 39 cities and towns within the district.

Several hearings will be held that all cities may be heard.

CHIEF WILLIAMS DESIGNATED

As Official to grant Permits For Sale of Fireworks

Chief Engineer Williams received notice this morning that he had been designated by J. H. Whitney, chief of the District Police, as the official to grant permits for the keeping, storage, sale and use of fireworks and firecrackers in Quincy, in accordance with rules and regulations from time to time established by the Detective and Fire Inspection Department of the District Police.

The appointment of Chief Williams is made by authority given under section 4, of Chapter 565, of the Acts of 1910, known as the "Saner Fourth of July bill."

Under the previous law licenses to keep and sell fireworks were granted by the City Council with the approval of the Mayor. The fee for the same as fixed by the City Ordinance was $2. The new law provides, however, that the fee for a permit provided for under Section 4, is fifty cents.

The question that has arisen in the minds of many is whether new law takes away the right of the City Council to grant licenses to keep and sell fireworks, as provided in the city ordinances.

It would appear from reading the rules and regulations established by the chief of the District Police, that the power to grant such licenses has been taken from the City Council.

Section 3of the rules reads:—

"A permit is the authority given by the chief of the District Police or by the official designated by him to grant permits to any one to keep, store, manufacture, sell or use any fireworks or firecrackers allowed by these regulations."

Section 8, among other things, provides that "No person shall, store, sell or keep for sale fireworks or firecrackers without a permit in writing from the chief of the District Police or some person designated by him.

The new law went into effect June 10, and the regulations in relations to the same June 13.

The City Council has granted several licenses to put and sell fireworks, and the Council calendar shows a number pending.

RESIGNATION OF MASTER

Harry Brooks Accepts a Position in Boston

After two years of successful and satisfying work, as master of the Adams and Cranch schools of this city, Harry Brooks, has announced his intention of resigning to accept a position as sub-master at the Bishop Chevenes school in Boston. Mr. Brooks has chosen the above mentioned offer as most advantageous of a number submitted for his consideration. His resignation will be received with regret as he is an efficient and popular master with pupils as well as teachers and parents.

McNARY MAY BE CANDIDATE.

Ex-Congressman McNary says he is seriously considering the idea of running for congress himself. He says he is afraid that Councilman Curley will not stick in the fight and he wants some one who can lick O'Connell to stay in the fight. He does not think that James B. Connolly is enough of a politician to be able to beat O'Connell.—Boston Advertiser.

HOUGHS NECK CLUBS MUST GO

Pastor Says Solution of Problem Lies with the People

Now that a minister of the gospel has made open charges in his pulpit against conditions at Houghs Neck, it is up to the Mayor and Chief of Police to bring about a reform. Rev. C. R. McMeekin, in his sermon on Sunday at the Union chapel deplored the fact that boys and girls were allowed to roam about late at night; alluded to some of the dance halls as places of peril; drew a lesson from the recent tragedy in the illegal life of summer residents; said that the club houses were traps to despoil young life and criticised landlords. He also deplored rioting and rowdyism on Sunday and called for a proper observance of the day.

Rev. Mr. McMeekin in concluding his sermon, said:

"The solution of these problems lie with the people. They must take the initiative steps. Our city administration is to be commended. The chief executive stands ready to cooperate with us for a cleaner and better place. Fortunate are we, that he is not forgetful of us and our welfare. We cannot expect him to thrust upon us a situation not desired by the residents. We should rise as a body to utter protest against these existing evils. Let us covert for our city a good name; let us strive to protect her from an invasion of criminals and law breakers. In the spirit of true citizenship and of righteousness let us work for better conditions

"The psychological moment has arrived when we should decide that the clubs must go. Let us clear ourselves of reproach and make it impossible for anyone to say we have blinded our eyes to the situation. The time calls for action. The law is holy. There is a better life; a life which does not lead to ruin and disgrace; a life in which higher and nobler purposes and ideals and which obtains the approval of Almighty God. Let us cherish the thought of Christian homes; a pure childhood and untainted youth; a nobler manhood and a more exhalted womanhood. Then we may stand in the dignity of true man, men created in God's image, before Him who came to save the world from sin, and have within us a consciousness that He has lived in our hearts and we have a place in His kingdom."

WHIST PARTY.

The Quincy table in aid of the Boston college extension fund gave a whist party Monday evening in Electa hall, the proceeds of which will be turned over to trustees of the fund. The extensions to the Boston college which are rapidly nearing completion are exceptionally fine and conceded to be the finest in the country. Rev. William J. Devlin, S. J., an instructor at the college was present an dspoke a few words of thanks and a greeting from Fr. Gasson, who is in charge of the college. The whist was very interesting about 35 tables being filled. The prizes were donated and were awarded to Miss Josephine Daly, Mrs. Frank Mackie, George Bolston, Timothy O'Connell, Miss Alice M. Igo, Miss Julia F. Duffy, Miss Mary H. Brennan, Edward Sweeney, Daniel Donovan, Miss Mary Dunn. Refreshments were served after the game.

The National Finnish band presented a varied and interesting program at the band concert Monday evening near Alpha ball. A large crowd assembled and Hancock street was crowded from Granite stree to Music hall. Many enjoyed the music from carriages and autos on Cottage avenue.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

State Tax Will Be Million Dollars Larger

Senator Hultman voted against the bill in the Senate on Monday to authorize additional work on State highways in time of industrial distress, and the bill was rejected 18 to 12.

The county pension bill was postponed by a decisive vote.

The bill to improve the East Boston flats was ordered to a third reading.

In the House a State tax bill of $5,500,000 was reported. This is an increase of a million dollars and will increase Quincy's State tax about one-fifth. It was $35,235 in 1909.

Attorney General Malone reported that the Massachusetts Agricultural college was not a State institution. A communication was also received from the trustees.

The bill was engrossed to tax deposits in the savings departments of trust companies.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

The Seventeenth of June will be generally observed as a holiday in Metropolitan Boston, and the office of the Daily Ledger will be closed all day Friday. No paper will be issued.

Because Quincy has about 2,562 acres in the Metropolitan reservation Boston argues before the commission that Quincy should pay about one-fourth of the total State assessment, there being 10,236 acres in all in Metropolitan reservations. Boston also argues that "population" should be the basis instead of "valuation" because it would cut Boston's assessment one-half, and more than double that of Quincy. Our city must be awake as it has suffered unjustly in Metropolitan assessments for water.

Officers of the Spokane Ministerial Alliance and the Young Men's Christian association of Spokane are sending invitations to churches and allied organizations in towns and cities all over the United States to pay tribute to the head of the house on Fathers' day, Sunday, June 19, the rose being suggested as a suitable flower to wear on the occasion.

Mrs. J. B. Dodd of 610 Sharp avenue, Spokane, who is the originator of the idea, thus explained the plan for a national movement in a petition to the ministers of that city:

"The beautiful custom of Mothers' Day suggests the question: Why not a Fathers' Day? This is further emphasized by the celebration of Children's day by our Sunday schools.

"Fathers' day would call attention to such constructive teachings from the pulpit as would naturally point out:

"The fathers' place in the home.

"The training of children.

"The safeguarding of the marrigae tie.

"The protection of womanhood and childhood."

The meaning of this ,whether in the light of religion or of patriotism, is so apparent as to need no argument in behalf of such a day, to be celebrated all over the country.

An interesting and valuable study of the special needs of the children of newly arrived immigrants in our public schools appears in "New Boston" for June, in a report made to the Civic Conference Group. There is a vivid description of the so-called "ungraded class," composed of those who are unable to follow the regular courses, but require individual instruction from a specially patient and skilled teacher. The report emphasizes the fact that this "alien child" enters school late and leaves it early, and invariably drops out to become a wage earner; the average age in these ungraded classes being eleven years. It is urged that a special supervisor be put in charge of this instruction, with special normal training fo the teachers; that manual training, now too often limited to more advanced pupils, be freely provided; and that some system of social visitors be instituted, so as to fully explain to the parents who are wholly new to our ways just what is being attempted for their children. This report has been referred to a special committee from the Civic and Educational Groups of Boston-1915, and much interest is felt in the further steps to be taken.

Shall we have a movement for protecting and increasing the birds about our homes? Dr. C. F. Hodge of Worcester, increased the native bird population of a city block 300 per cent. in two years time. Cannot people do as well in the country? Roosevelt established 57 national bird refuges or reservations. Let us have many in this state. European foresters are suing thousands of nesting boxes in government forests. Our waste boxes would do good if prepared for the birds and put up in our woods. There is more practical advantage ,education, and joy in life connected with study and work with birds than in any other nature study. Children do not need urging to study and protect birds, but only suggestions. The study has been known to make th old young again and to cure the sick. Bird study furnishes motive for healthful out-door living, and adds interest to every walk and drive. Two of the commonest ways of attracting birds to nest near the house are to scatter crumbs and grains in garden walks and bare places, to supply them with shallow pans of water for drinking, out of reach of cats, and to hang nesting material on branches or fences.

LYMAN SCHOOL HEAD ON STAND

Declares That Young Newman Was Not Beaten to Death

ADMITS MARKS ON HIS FACE

Says Boy Hanged Himself, Though Knees Almost Touched Floor—Boys' Backs Striped Like Flags as Result of Whippings—Ridged Hose, That Cut the Flesh, Was Used—Startling Testimony Is Submitted

Boston, June 14.—Stories of cruelty at the Lyman state school at Westboro were told before the legislative committee at state house. The committee is investigating the institution as a result of the death of John Newman, the 13-year-old Cambridge boy who, his parents believe, was beaten to death.

Edgar L. Coffeen, superintendent of the school, was called to the witness stand. He declared that Newman committed suicide and that he was not beaten to death.

Coffeen testified that he had made an investigation of the treatment Newman received when he was found last Monday night, after having run away, and found that no violence had been offered him. He described how the boy appeared as he hung from the neck in the detention room and explained that there were sheets in the room at the time because it had been used by another boy who was ill. He admitted that there were marks on the boy's face and that he got from fifteen to fifty letters a week complaining of the treatment the boys received.

Coffeen admitted also that the body of the boy hung in such a manner that his feet could easily reach the floor, his knees being only about an inch above the floor. He was asked if he did not think this was an extraordinary position for the boy to be in and he said it was.

Thomas McNulty, a night watchman, testified that the boys' backs were striped like flags as a result of the whippings they received. He caught sight of the bare bodies of the victims when they were in bathing.

Thomas Costello told about a boy named Haggerty who was taken out and whipped one night in his night clothing and when he returned the gown was covered with blood. The boy went insane inside of a week, the witness said.

Costello said that he was whipped once a week on an average. A large, ridged hose was used, he said, that cut into the flesh. Once he was taken before Superintendent Chapin with his eyes blacked by one of the attendants and he said Chapin ordered him to be taken out again and whipped.

Joseph Gaffney, aged 17, told about a whipping he received in the school, he leaning over a desk while it was delivered. He said he got twenty-five lashes and then, because he raised up before it was over, he got thirty-five more. It took two or three weeks for the wounds to heal, he said. Gaffney testified that he saw Mr. Mason hit a boy over the back several times with a shovel and he saw officials hit boys with their fists.

Ralph L. Hill, who had been in the school, was asked if he had ever seen a sheet in the detention room, and Hill said he had not. Newman was said to have hanged himself with a sheet while he was in the detention room.

Miss Alice G. Sweeney testified:

"I had a brother at the Lyman school and he has been gone since last August from that institution. They have never located him yet and the authorities of the school did not notify us of his disappearance until about six months after he disappeared from the institution."

DYNAMITE IS SET OFF

Convicts Are Foiled In a Desperate Attempt to Escape

Plattsburg, N. Y., June 14.—A desperate but unsuccessful attempt to blow up the Clinton state prison at Dannemora was made by convicts.

The dynamite was smuggled into the cell of Edward Brogan and touched off, but the explosion did little damage. Guards who rushed to the spot found Brogan armed with a revolver, but overpowered and disarmed him.

Another revolver was found in the cell of Fred Schultz, a life convict. Brogan and Schultz, it is supposed, hoped to escape in the wreck they expected the dynamite to cause.

Woman Held For Shooting

Salem, N. J., June 14.—Mrs. Eliza Bobinson, 27 years old, was brought to the county jail here, charged with killing Walter Harvey, 22 years old, at her home in Pennsville. Mrs. Robinson says she thought the revolver was empty and that she only wanted to scare him.

Oklahoma City Declared Capital

Oklahoma City, June 14.—Following a consultation with leading lawyers and the attorney general, Governor Haskell issued a public letter declaring Oklahoma City to be the permanent and immediate seat of government.

Killed by Touching Live Wire

Lynn, Mass., June 14.—While at work at the top of a 45-foot pole on the Nahant road, Frank McGonnell, 25 years old, a lineman, was electrocuted when he accidentally touched a wire carrying 2300 volts of electricity.

TOO COLD FOR GREEKS

Farming Colony Scheme Proves a Failure In Alberta Province

Kansas City, June 14.—Nothing but disappointment came of the attempt to found a Greek farming colony in Alberta, Canada, according to Archbishop Timotheus, of the Greek Catholic church in the United States.

The archbishop is visiting here on his way from Chicago to El Paso, Tex., near where a tract of 268,000 acres of land has been offered to him for colonizing purposes. Alberta is too cold for his people, the archbishop says, and if the Texas land is not suitable he will look over a tract of 96,000 acres near Torreon, Mex.

DOES NOT LIVE ON THE PAST

But Quincy Is Rich in Historical Distinction

It is of interest to note how Quincy is regarded by outsiders and the following article is from the Boston Common, the new illustrated weekly:

A community that can boast of containing the birthplace and the graves of two Presidents of the United States would seem to have enough of distinction. But honors are piled high on the name and fame of the Massachusetts city of Quincy. Not only does it contain the early homes and the ashes of John Adams and John Quincy Adams but it is also notable as the native place of John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, and as having within its borders the first railroad built in America. A hundred minor distinctions, any one of which would make a town famous, cluster around the community's early history, both before her separation from the old town of Braintree and since becoming a separate community.

The curtain, as of a comic drama, rises upon an opening scene of local history—the revels of Morton and his merry company on Mt. Wollaston. The place, the hill called Merrymount, the time, May Day, 1627; the actors, Thomas Morton, a frivolous London lawyer, and his gay fellows. But Myles Standish and his eight Plymouth soldiers come upon the scene, disperse the revellers whose actions are so out of character with the sombre life of the Puritans, and then the real history of this remarkable community begins.

The house in which John Adams was born still stands on the Braintree road, and close beside it the house to which he took his wife Abigail, when they were married, and where their son John Quincy Adams was born. Two plain, unadorned New England farm houses, types of hundreds of the early Pilgrim and Puritan dwellings.

The stone church, built of native granite, quarried on land given the First Parish by the second President, is a dignified adornment of the central square of the town. Here the ashes of the two Presidents, father and son, rest under the portico, and tablets to their memories adorn the interior, one on either side of the pulpit.

Quincy granite had early been used to build King's Chapel in Boston. When the project of building a monument on Bunker Hill was begun, proprietors of the Quincy quarries built a railroad from their hills down to the Neponset river. The cars, drawn by horses, were first run Oct. 7, 1826. John Adams had died July 4th of that year, on the 50th anniversary of Independence. The ship building industry begun as early as 1696. A century later the largest vessel of the day, the Massachusetts, was launched in the Fore river. Later, a bark was built from timber cut on land of President John Adams.

So much for the bare outlines of salient incidents in Quincy history. What of Quincy today? She is a city of 35,000 people and contains, by way of activities, the two original industries greatly amplified. Her granite business is handled by 140 concerns which employ about 3,000 men. The quarries number 25 or 30. Polishing and cutting are done in 40 plants and 10 do polishing alone. A steam railway connects the quarries with the main line and the finishing sheds where the manufacturing o fthe stone is done. The industry represents the investment of several million dollars.

The ship building, carried on by the Fore River Company, is of nation-wide interest, for here battleships for the United States Navy are built, as well as freighters, passenger steamers, torpedo boats, schooners, barges and other craft. The great battleships North Dakota, Vermont, New Jersey and Rhode Island were built here. The list of other naval craft reads like Homer's catalog of ships. There are the scout cruisers Birmingham and Salem; the protected cruiser Des Moines; the torpedo destroyers Lawrence and McDonough; the submarines Octopus, Viper, Tarantula, Tarpon, Cuttlefish, Narwhal, Grayling, Snapper, Bonita and Stingray completed, the Salmon, not yet turned over to the government but soon to be tested, and the Sturgeon and Skipjack now on the ways.

Besides these there are now under construction the torpedo destroyers Perkins, Steritt and Walke. The Fore River Company built the seven masted schooners Lawson and Douglas, five steamers for the Brunswick trade, three freighters in the Boston coal trade and the Providence and Boston of the Fall River Line. Since beginning business in Quincy in 1900 the company has turned out 185 craft of all descriptions.

Just now the "big job" on hand is the new 30,000-ton battleship for the Argentine Republic. The keel was laid May 25. The ship will be ready for delivery in about 20 months.

Everything about a ship is made at the works—hulls, engines, wood and steel works. About 2,800 men are now employed.

Quincy is one example of a town that has a great past, but does not live in or upon it.

Set Apart to Honor Old Glory and What It Represents

One hundred and thirty-three years ago the continental congress passed a resolution "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

Spread the immortal Stars and Stripes to the June air and as we do so we shall doubtless be filled with a new resolve never to permit them to be desecrated or dishonored.

KILLED HIMSELF IN TERROR

Judge's Friends Say He Was Threatened by "Night Riders"

Tiptonville, Tenn., June 14.—Despite the judgment of the coroner that the sudden death of Judge Harris, who was drowned here, was brought on by heart trouble, there are many who declare he committed suicide, that he was driven to end his life by the numerous letters he had received from "Night Riders" and their friends, threatening him for the part he played in the "Night Rider" cases.

Physicians employed by the Harris family deny that Harris ever had any heart trouble, and declare that his body gives no evidence that his death was due to that cause.

The federal authorities, it is believed here, know the sources of three of the threatening letters received by Harris, and it is expected there will be several arrests for violations of the United States postal laws.

BROUGHT ABOUT BY ROOSEVELT SPEECH

Reply on Egypt Forced From the British Government

London, June 14.—Replying to an interpellation by Sir Henry J. Dalzell in the house of commons, Sir Edward Grey declared that Eldon Gorst, the British agent and consul general in Egypt, had the complete confidence of the government. Sir Henry thereupon requested the foreign secretary to send a copy of his reply to Mr. Roosevelt. Sir Edward answered that he could see no reason for doing anything of the kind.

The exchanges between the foreign secretary and the Liberal member came as a sequel to Roosevelt's speech at Guildhall, in the course of which he criticized the British administration in Egypt as being rather more lenient towards the Nationalists than was justified by the conditions there.

Since the delivery of the speech it has been considered inevitable that the Conservatives would take advantage of the opportunity to attack the government's policy in its African dependency. Sir Henry is a Liberal of advanced political views and he desired to bring the matter to an issue.

London, June 14.—Lord Kitchener has resigned his Mediterranean command, to which he was appointed recently. The Mediterranean station embraces the command of the troops in Egypt.

The resignation is attracting more than usual interest because of Theodore Roosevelt's Guildhall speech. War Minister Haldane announced the resignation in the commons.

CANDIDATE GALVIN

Loses His Contested Election Case Against O'Connell

The contested election case of J. Mitchell Galvin vs. Joseph F. O'Connell for the latter's seat in Congress as a representative from the Tenth Massachusetts district was settled Monday, when by a unanimous vote the house committee (number 1) on elections decided that Congressman O'Connell was entitled to his seat, and that the claims of Mr. Galvin were not sustained.

The contest has been pending since the fall of 1908. At the election that year the vote was very close, and a recount was asked. This recount gave Mr. O'Connell the election by four votes, the vote being O'Connell 16,553 and Galvin 16,549. There were a few votes cast in Quincy over which there was a dispute which Mr. Galvin contended should have been credited to him. Had they been he would have been elected.

The outcome of the case has been expected for some time and the finding occasioned no surprise among those who have followed the case. The case will probably come up for final action by the National house of representatives this week and there is but little doubt but what Mr. O'Connell will be seated.

The committee in its finding does not sustain the contention of Mr. O'Connell that the evidence in support of Mr. Galvin's case should be thrown out because it was not filed within the time limit fixed by law. The committee says the law is discretionary and that nobody's rights were injured by the delay.

The report says that the evidence "is characterized by marked absence of proof that ballots were wrongfully counted." Only six ballots were identified as disputed ,the report says, five of these having been counted for Mr. Galvin nad one for Mr. O'Connell.

A recount of these could not have changed the result. The alleged indistinct marking and counting of ballots is referred to in the report, but the committee holds that this allegation is not sufficiently definite to warrant a recount.

Going Round the World.

In sailing around the world eastward the days are each a little less than twenty-four hours, according to the speed of the ship, as the sun is met a little earlier every morning. These little differences added together will amount to twenty-four hours. This gives the sailors an extra day—not in imagination, but as an actual fact. They will have done an extra day's work, eaten an extra day's ration of food and imbibed an extra day's allowance of grog.

On the other hand, in sailing westward the sun is overtaken a little each day, and so each day is rather longer than twenty-four hours, and clocks and watches are found to be too fast. This also will amount in sailing around the world to the point of departure to one whole day by which the reckoning has fallen in arrears. The eastern bound ship, then, has gained a day, and the western bound ship has lost one. This strange fact, clearly worked out, leads to the apparent paradox that the first named ship has a gain of two whole days over the latter. If we suppose them to have departed from port and returned together.—Philadelphia Record.

BRIEFS

Did you put out a flag today for Flag day ?

The decorations on the business houses in City Square that were put up for Merchants' Week, have been removed.

The U. S. torpedo boat destroyer Lawrence, built by the Fore River Company, arrived at Mare Island this week.

Mrs. T. F. Burns of 18 Blake street, wife of the well known blacksmith, is spending the summer months in Wellesley and Jackson, N. H., leaving this week.

The Payson Mitchell Co. of Quincy was incorporated June 3, with J. L. Payson, president, Robert W. Mitchell of Brattleboro, Vt., as treasurer and S. B. Carkin on the board of directors. The capital is $10,000.

The J. A. Keating Co., household furnishings, was incorporated this week, with T. V. Keating as president, Joseph A. Keating as treasurer and E. G. Keating on the board of directors; capital $20,000.

John Quincy Adams chapter, junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, will meet on Saturday with Mrs. Alice M. Granger at Randolph. Mrs. Abby Proctor, the State director, will be the guest of honor.

It was decreed by the dancing masters at New York this week that 55 measures to the minute was the proper thing. There are to be no more fast German waltzes, nor slow, dreamy French ones. A happy mean is to be struck between the two.

MAKARIA VS. QUINCY.

Are the fans of Quincy going baseball mad. Everybody is waiting for the holiday, June 17 ,to see the base ball game between the Quincys of the Old Colony league and Charlie Ganzel's Makarias (conquerors of the champion Deweys) whose aggregation of base ball kids this year are a revelation in the game of baseball. It is worth going miles to see the mighty catcher, Troupe, perform, and Stan Bates, the wizard South-paw as cool as an iceberg, fool the batsmen compelling them to believe there is a hole in their bats. Wes. Ganzel ,a chip of the old block ,has no equal as a first sacker, George McKenzie the nifty second baseman and slugger, a "genuine Lajoie." Rus Bates, captain of Quincy High, steady as a clock, holds down third base like a professional, and is classed as a home run hitter. Mattie Nichols, the cracker-jack short stop, a "veritable wagner," is better than the best. "Honey" Curtis left fielder; "Nuf Sed" for he is at the head and the way he steals bases is a marvel. Ginger Eggleton the fleet-footed centre-fielder, gathers everything near and far and plays the game without a mar until the last man is out. Rup Ganzel, right-fielder and pinch hitter, is another chip of the old block, and knows the game from A to Z. Big Rus Tupper and little Artis play their positions to perfection. Will the Water street grounds hold the crowd on that day is a question?

Robbers Get Away With $4000

A Mean Comparison.

"Confound these railway time tables!" snapped Mr. Stubb as the long folder refused to remain closed long enough for him to place it in his pocket. "They remind me of a woman."

"The idea!" replied his wife in surprise. "What is the comparison?"

"Why, they are hard to understand, and you can't get them to shut up."

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICAN STATES

How Cecil Rhodes' Dream of Empire Was Realized.

GREAT NEW ERA OPENED UP.

Whole United Country Expected to Be a Wonderfully Strong Amalgamation. Business of Its Provinces Will Be Immense—Administrative Offices of the Government In Power.

Cecil Rhodes lies buried these eight years on one of the Matopo hills that he loved and left a fund to preserve and beautify, and yet so clear was his vision of the future that in his will he left his estate and house, De Groote Schuur, "for a residence for the prime minister of the federal government of the States of South Africa when constituted." The Union of South Africa has now been formed, and where Rhodes foresaw an inevitable federation a closer tie has bound the erstwhile colonies of the Transvaal, Natal, Orange Free State and Cape Colony, reducing them to provinces and raising them, welded as one, to a state of high dominion.

The fourth South African customs and railways conference met at Pretoria on May 4, 1908, for the purpose of drawing up a new customs agreement and settling some intercolonial disputes over railway rates, but the delegates turned at once to the far greater issue which lay behind these and on May 5 passed the resolution to form a draft constitution.

This national body met at Durban on Oct. 12, 1908, and the delegates included such men as Generals Botha, Smuts, Hertzog and De Wet and Dr. Jameson, Dr. Smartt and J. W. Sauer.

Constitution Carefully Revised.

In a secret session they agreed to unite, and the convention was adjourned Nov. 5 to reconvene at Cape Town on the 23d of November. There this closer union convention in February brought its deliberations to a close, having successfully elaborated a draft constitution, which was submitted in March to the parliaments of the different colonies sitting simultaneously.

The chief difficulty was in reconciling the interests of the coastal and inland states, but finally the thing was settled to the satisfaction of each separate parliament, and July 1, 1909, saw nineteen delegates, including the four prime ministers, from the colonies in London to watch the passage of the bill through the imperial parliament.

Only minor changes were made in it, and it received the royal assent on Nov. 20. It provided that a royal proclamation might be made within a year of the passing of the act to the effect that the four colonies should be united in one government under the name of the Union of South Africa, and provision was made for other territories joining the union later.

The administrative offices were to be a governor general appointed by the king at a salary of $50,000 a year and an executive council, which would be a cabinet of advisers; the legislative branch, a senate composed of eight members from each province and eight appointed by the governor, and a house of assembly with fifty-one members from Cape Colony, thirty-six from the Transvaal, seventeen from Natal and seventeen from the Orange Free State.

Great Business Outlook.

The membership in both houses is limited to persons of European descent.

The new union will have an area of almost 500,000 square miles, taking in the southern end of Africa and extending from the Atlantic to the Indian ocean. It will have a population of about 5,500,000, one-fifth of whom are whites.

The combined business of its provinces will be immense. In 1907 the imports of Cape Colony amounted to over $246,000,000 and the exports to over $222,000,000. Natal in 1907 had imports amounting to $33,000,000 and exports to $48,000,000. The Orange Free State in the same year figured its imports and exports both in the neighborhood of $18,000,000.

The Transvaal, founded in 1831 by Boers from Cape Colony, values its imports at over $78,000,000 and its exports at more than $156,000,000.

CANADA HAS NATIONAL PARK.

Almost Entire Eastern Slope of Rockies Now Conserved.

The entire eastern slope of the Rocky mountains from the international boundary northward to just above the fifty-fourth parallel is now reserved by the Canadian government. It will be administered with a view to the proper utilization and reproduction of the forest, the protection of the water supply of the prairie provinces and other related objects.

The area of the district is about 14,300 square miles, of which 4,850 square miles have just been put under reserve for the first time.

Fasting Now Social Fad.

Some of the wealthiest men and women in Canton, O., have formed a fasting society, and many are making records. P. D. Hardy has been without food twenty-three days and Mrs. George Fulberson for twenty days.

BAD GOVERNMENT NOT THE PEOPLE'S FAULT.

Woodrow Wilson Says Duties of Citizenship Are Too Complex—Heads New "Short Ballot" Movement.

"I believe the short ballot is the key to the whole question of the restoration of government by the people," says Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university. He has accepted the leadership of The Short Ballot Organization, which has the support of many other notable reformers, such as Governor Hughes, Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, Governor Fort of New Jersey, Winston Churchill, Norman Hapgood, Ben B. Lindsey and Clinton Rogers Woodruff. This new association will undertake to explain the short ballot principle to the American people, and Mr. Wilson has already made several notable speeches on the subject.

"In the little borough of Princeton, where I live," says Mr. Wilson, "I vote a ticket of some thirty names, I suppose. I never counted them, but there must be quite that number. Now, I am a slightly busy person, and I have never known anything about half the men I was voting for on the tickets that I voted. I attend diligently, so far as I have light, to my political duties in the borough of Princeton, and yet I have no personal knowledge of one-half of the persons I am voting for. I couldn't tell you even what business they are engaged in, and to say in such circumstances that I am taking part in the government of the borough of Princeton is an absurdity. I am not taking a part in it at all. I am going through the motions that I am expected to go through by the persons who think that attending primaries and voting at the polls is performing your whole political duty. I don't count for any more in the government of the borough of Princeton that the veriest loafer in the borough, and I do not know very much more about the men I am voting for than he does.

COPYRIGHT BY J.E. PURDY, BOSTON

"Now, there are certain known ways and means of getting the government in the hands of the people to which it belongs. You know that at present government in the United States is not in the hands of the people. You can go in one direction or the other. You can multiply machinery or simplify it. You have been creating machinery for the past century, and you have been getting farther and farther away from the people.

"Simplification, simplification, simplification, is the task that awaits us—to reduce the number of persons voted for to the absolute workable minimum, knowing whom you have selected, knowing whom you have trusted and having so few persons to watch that you can watch them. That is the way we are going to get popular control back in this country, and that is the only way."

Definition of the Short Ballot.

The short ballot principle has been defined in the platform of The Short Ballot Organization as follows:

"The dangerously great power of politicians in our country is not due to any peculiar civic indifference of the people, but rests on the fact that we are living under a form of democracy that is so unworkable as to constitute in practice a pseudo democracy. It is unworkable because

"First.—It submits to popular election offices which are too unimportant to attract (or deserve) public attention; and,

"Second.—It submits to popular election so many offices at one time that many of them are inevitably crowded out from proper public attention.

"Many officials, therefore, are elected without adequate public scrutiny and owe their selection not to the people, but to the makers of the party ticket, who thus acquire an influence that is capable of great abuse.

"The short ballot principle is:

"First.—That only those offices should be elective which are important enough to attract (and deserve) public examination.

"Second.—That very few offices should be filled by election at one time, so as to permit adequate and unconfused public examination of the candidates for every elective office.

"Obedience to these fundamental principles explains the comparative success of democratic government in the cities of Great Britain and other foreign democracies, as well as in Galveston, Des Moines and other American cities that are governed by 'commissions.'

"The application of these principles should be extended to all cities, counties and states."

BRIEFS

Fair and warmer.

No Daily Ledger on Friday.

The mercury was above 70 degrees at 8 A. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Clark (nee Tillie Dunston) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son which arrived Sunday, June 12. Mrs. Clark and baby are doing nicely.

The U. S. scout cruiser Salem, built at Quincy, is expected at the Boston navy yard today, in order that the sailors and marines may participate in the Bunker Hill day parade.

Forty-five petty officers of the Argentine navy left Buenos Ayres this week on the steamer Verdi for the United States under orders of the Argentine naval commission to study and work in the steel plants at Bethlehem, Pa., on material destined to be used in Argentine warships under the contract of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company.

THE FIELDS OF JUNE.

Mary Bassett-Rouke.

How matchless are the fields of June,
O'er brimming with repleteness
With swaying ranks of daisies white,
And clover's red-topped sweetness.
Where fragrant brier, upon the air,
A subtle incense pouring,
Bids wondering feet here pause and rest,
Old sense of joy restoring.

Gay buttercups lift golden heads
Among the tall grass growing;
Above the fields of tossing grain
The airs of June are blowing!
Along each hedge ,beside the brook,
In every stone-wall's angle
Kind nature, from her vasty store,
Spreads out a cool, green tangle.

From yonder beach the vireo calls,
The thrush flutes from the meadow;
Soft, fleecy clouds, now bending low,
Cast many a blue-gray shadow.
Across the dells we used to roam,
The wild rose odors drifting,
Bring back the scenes of long ago,
Like mirage veils, slow lifting;

Then time and place are lost to sight,
As memory, backward turning,
Recalls to us our childhood days,
When we, with restless yearning,
Tramped through the woods and fields of June,
Free-booting lads and lasses,
A-thrill with breathless joy of life
No later joy surpasses.

Gardens In the Ice.

A glacier when it dislodges itself and sails away over the Arctic ocean never travels alone. In the wake of every large one floats a line of similar companions. The Eskimos call this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and any one who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name. Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains. When a glacier is at rest moss attaches itself to it, protecting the ice beneath, just as sawdust does. After a time the moss decays and forms a soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions, brought by the wind, take root and flourish. Those who have traveled much in arctic lands say the poppy does not bloom during the brief northern summer.

DOLLIVER ATTACKS TAFT

Iowa Insurgent Freely Expresses His Mind In Senate Chamber

Washington, June 14.—Behind the thin buffer of the tariff bill, Senator Dolliver made an attack upon President Taft which took the senate back to the time when Grover Cleveland was attacked by the late Senator Gorman.

It was the first open warfare upon the president by the insurgents in the senate. No Democrat has been moved by the differences of party principles to the kind of criticism employed by Dolliver, nor has it been often heard in the senate. Insurgents smiled encouragement during the three hour speech of the Iowa senator, already in the midst of a contest for the confidence of his constituency.

"Near insurgents" winked guardedly, and gave encouragement upon one side, while seeking to be grave upon the other. Regular Republicans cursed under their breath, and speculated upon the openness of the warfare which would follow. Even the good nature of a president like William H. Taft will hardly brook the freedom of criticism of the Iowan.

SHORT HAUL PROVISION

New England Interests Want It Modified In Railroad Bill

Washington, June 14.—D. O. Ives, representing the Boston chamber of commerce, accompanied by John S. Lawrence, representing New England textile interests, was in conference with Senators Lodge and Crane to urge the importance of modifying the short haul provision of the railroad bill.

At that time the conferees were in session at the White House, where it was understood that this matter and that relating to the period during which the interstate commerce commission might suspend the operation of a rate were the chief points of difference between the two houses. The senate provisions are preferred to those of the house.

The chamber is keenly interested also in the uniform bill of lading bill, which has passed the house. It is understood that a majority of the senate will favor the measure.

QUARRELED OVER A TRIVIAL MATTER

New Bedford Man Dead and Four Companions Under Arrest

Plainfield, Conn., June 14.—Four men are under arrest as a result of the murder of John Fielding of New Bedford, Mass. Fielding and his companions quarrelled afer visiting a state-line "blind pig."

The victim was a weaver and has a family. With his companions, according to information secured by the police, he had been visiting various resorts. All are said to have been intoxicated at the time of the tragedy. Over a trivial matter a dispute arose and two of the party grappled. Then George Berger, according to his story, stepped between the combatants, in spite of the interference of others of the quartet and tried to force them apart.

Suddenly Fielding staggered and fell. As Berger tried to catch him the others ran off. Berger and the other men present were arrested.

MILL STRIKE SPREADS

Greek Workers In Lowell Demand a Ten Percent Increase In Wages

Lowell, Mass., June 14.—About 400 employes of the Massachusetts mills, mostly Greeks, went on strike here for a 10 percent increase in wages. This is in line with the Greeks in the spinning, warping, filling and doffing departments of the Merrimack mills, who struck about ten days ago and who are still out of work.

The Greeks in the Appleton mills here struck ten days ago, but are now back at work, having received their 10 percent increase.

The strikers claim that the high prices of all commodities have caused them to ask for more money.

HIGHEST IN TWENTY YEARS

Retailers of Beef Meet With Another Boost In Prices

Boston, June 14.—Beef prices broke all records for twenty years yesterday, according to a well-known local dealer, when from 12 to 12½ cents a pound was paid by the retailers for their supplies of that commodity.

Good cuts of beef are quoted from 12 cents to 12½ cents a pound wholesale, which means that the retailer has to get considerably more in order to make any profit after paying necessary expenses.

More Shocks In Italy

LIVES LOST IN MONTREAL FIRE

Flames Follow Crash Through Newspaper Building

WATER TANK IS RESPONSIBLE

Its Supports Give Way and It Goes Through Centre of Structure, Causing Fire as Coals From Stereotyping Furnaces Pass From Floor to Floor —First Notice of Impending Disaster Passes Almost Unnoticed

Montreal, June 14.—Between twenty and thirty people lost their lives when the supports of the sprinkler system tank on the roof of The Herald building gave way and the great mass of metal and water, weighing thirty-five tons, went crashing downward to the basement.

Fire broke out immediately, and many of those wounded or pinned down by the wreckage were burned to death. The firemen displayed great heroism in rescuing scores of people from perilous positions in the jagged and tottering walls.

All of those who escaped agree that the first warning of the impending disaster passed almost unnoticed. There was a slight creaking; then a little more, somewhat more pronounced, but it was not until the ceiling plaster began to fall that a rush for the stairway began. Before anyone reached it there occurred a final deafening crash and then chaos.

Many survivors described their falling one and two floors before the awful crash died away, and they found themselves able to crawl through the dense dust to a place of safety. The majority sought safety by rushing to the front of the building facing on Victoria square.

Fortunately all the floors held for about thirty feet back from the front wall, and to this is due the fact that the death list does not run into the hundreds, for there were nearly 300 people in the building at the time.

Every member of the editorial staff escaped unharmed, their quarters being in the front of the building.

The fire started from the stereotyping department, the coals from the furnaces evidently being distributed on the different floors through which the pots passed on their way to the basement. Later it broke out in the front of the building, presumably from the ignition of the gas supply of the linotype machines, which went through the floors.

The cause of the disaster was the breaking of the supports of the tank of the sprinkler system. This tank was situated about the centre of the building and a little to the rear. The building has a frontage of about sixty feet and was an old structure, remodelled for the purposes of the newspaper and its job department.

A heavy stone wall ran through the centre from front to rear. From this dividing wall to the sidewalk steel girders had been planted, and upon these the tank rested. As the tank was found on the other side of the wall from that on which it was placed, the supposition is that this centre wall gave way.

The building was valued at $150,000 and was owned by The Herald company, while the vaaluation of the plant is placed at $300,000.

The Herald appeared last evening as an eight-page paper, arrangements having been made with The Gazette to continue its publication until new quarters can be secured. This is the sixth time in the last thirty-two years in which The Herald has been burned out.

MINISTER'S SON JAILED

Has Acquired Reputation of Being a Slick Shoplifter

Providence, June 14.—John Tregaskis, 29 years old, son of Rev. Mr. Tregaskis, a Methodist minister, was sentenced to six months in Cranston jail on a larceny charge. He was also fined $40 and costs in three additional cases of larceny and $40 and costs on two other charges.

Tregaskis is one of the slickest shoplifters ever caught here. There are really more than forty cases against him. He has pawned goods stolen from the leading stores of Providence in a number of Massachusetts towns.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

STOPPED THE DUEL.

But Not Until Maynard Was Nearly Dead From Terror.

Regnier, the French satirist of the reign of Louis XIII., forced a quarrel upon the poet Maynard, who was almost Quakerish in his love of peace. Maynard could not well avoid the appearance of taking up the quarrel, but immediately after the preliminaries sought out his patron, Comte de Clermont-Lodeve, and begged him to "surprise" the party at the dueling ground and break up the affair. The count promised, and Maynard went away with a lighter heart. But his patron, wanting some amusement, hastened to the field and concealed himself in the shrubbery before the party arrived. Maynard went through the first stages of preparation very well, but grew more and more nervous as time passed and the count did not appear. Then he began to play for delay. First he was sure that his sword was shorter than his adversary's, necessitating a slow and technical measurement. Next his boots hurt him, and he had a long, hard struggle to get them off his feet. At last, after the cold perspiration had begun to drip from his brow and he was more dead than alive, his protector emerged suddenly from the bushes and interfered. A peace was soon patched up. Maynard declaring that if he had said anything disagreeable about Regnier he had not intended to do so and Regnier accepting this as balm for his wounded feelings. As Maynard threw down his sword at the close of the parley and reached for his hat he was heard to murmur, "Another time I shall trust to my own wits to pull me out of a scrape, for if I had depended on the count I might have been made into mincemeat a half hour ago!"—New York Post.

COUNTING A SCORE.

It Represents the Whole Man, Ten Fingers and Ten Toes.

Twenty is called a score because it represents the whole man, ten fingers and ten toes. Etymologically it means a cut or mark. In very early times, when men could not count beyond twenty, or "one man," it was usual to cut a notch in a stick and begin again, and so it went on, one man, two men, and so on. This is why sheep are still counted by the score. Now, a tally (French taille, cut or nicked) means an account kept by means of a notched stick, and until the end of the eighteenth century such sticks were given as exchequer receipts, accompanied by a written document. This was also the usual way of keeping accounts in the inns of the middle ages. The number of drinks or meals a customer had were scored against him on what was called a tally stick, and when it reached twenty, or a "whole man," he was expected to pay. In some English country inns scores are still kept on a slate, four chalk marks and one across—five—and four of these make twenty, or a score.—Westminster Gazette.

Escapes In War.

Until war ceases, which will be the greatest miracle of all, it will always be the exhibition ground of miracles. How can a bullet puncture a man's coat behind and before or pierce his boot and sock and be gravely shaken out of both without wounding him? And what mysterious channel does this human body contain which leads a bullet dexterously around the heart, a hair's breadth from the seat of life, yet never rending it—a phenomenon vouched for by more than one army surgeon? Shells have burst thunderously between the very legs of soldiers and left them still soldiers. Pompom shells of two inches diameter have passed through legs and arms without shattering the bone or bursting at the impact, though there appears to be literally no room for such a merciful performance. In fact, a history of the escapes in war would be wild reading even after a course of Munchausen.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Quincy Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Quincy citizen says:

James P. Daugherty, Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let other sufferers know what they have done for me. I was bothered a great deal by back ache and had but litt'e strength or energy to do my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures, but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at the Cox Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way in which they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to induce anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have so much confidence in them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

IS COMPELLED TO DESCEND

Hamilton's Motor Goes Wrong While Crossing New Jersey

MAKES A WONDERFUL FLIGHT

Travels From New York to Philadelphia on Schedule Time and Almost Completes Return Trip When Spark Plugs Cause Explosions to Miss—Greatest Feat Ever Performed by an American Aviator

New York, June 14.—The first air line express to Philadelphia by the upper route went through on schedule time to a minute, but on his return trip Hamilton seemed to lose his way, or at least to mistake his direction, and turned southeast at Metuchen toward Prince's bay. The special train that was following him lost sight of him a few minutes later at Menlo Park and there was no further news of him until the telegraph wires brought the brief news—"Hamilton stuck in the swamps at Perth Amboy."

He had flown approximately seventy miles of his return journey when the motor's condition drove him to descend. The propeller was broken in landing, but, after repairs had been made, Hamilton resumed his flight at 6:20, and landed at Governor's island at 6:39.

Thus the return trip was made in 1 hour and 36 minutes, at an estimated average speed of 54.96 miles an hour, which breaks the record made by Curtiss' flight from Albany to New York.

The fact is that Hamilton had made his journey from Governor's island to Philadelphia with but seven cylinders working. His eighth cylinder went out of commission when he was at a height of 1500 feet above the harbor. Nevertheless, the first leg of the trip was in every way a most remarkable success.

Hamilton traveled over the eighty-six miles from Governor's island to the aviation field at North Penn Junction in 1 hour 53 minutes. At Philadelphia he stopped two hours and seven minutes for gasolene and oil and rising again, hurried ahead of the special train which had become tangled in the railway yards.

For thirty-five miles the train chased him at a speed sometimes reaching seventy-five miles an hour before it caught up with him just after passing Lawrence and finally came abreast of him two miles beyond Princeton Junction, forty miles out. It was noticed that his engine was coughing irregularly and when he turned off from the tracks at Metuchen, sailing low over the treetops, it was feared that he might have thought it necessary to seek a landing place.

Hamilton was soon surrounded by a crowd of interested spectators when he landed on the south shore of the Raritan river half way between Sayreville and South Amboy. He said as he was flying over Metuchen his engine began to miss explosions badly. Realizing that something was wrong with his spark plugs and thinking to make New York before the engine gave out completely, he started down the Raritan river to make a short cut across Perth Amboy. Hamilton's motor missed explosions so frequently, however, that he decided it was wiser to descend. Noting a big stretch of meadow on the south shore he made for it and dropped easily. The ground was softer than it looked and he came down in mud ankle deep.

While New York was waiting for definite word of him a score of idle reports were circulated in regard to him, telling different stories of his condition and his aeroplane.

This is the greatest feat ever performed by an American aviator—following an exact timetable in a long flight—and shows the value of the aeroplane in the future of transportation. Under perfect control, the aeroplane was driven with the precision of a train.

A COMPLICATED CASE.

She was a little dressmaker whom everybody respected, but who, in spite of the fact that her family consisted of only one ,and that one herself, had never climbed the hill of difficulty, but was forever at the foot. She had ambitions and ideals, after which she was perpetually striving in the tread mill methods of a struggle for daily existence. She had possibly some dreams of love, but there was always a dismal awakening until she had come to look upon her circumscribed area of life as the only camping ground fate was willing she should have. So she made herself comfortable with the material at hand and tried to think herself happy when her four walls were the boundaries of her world.

Contentment came, if not happiness, and then the disturbing element of love entered into her domain and took possession. At least she, who was not familiar with the dear visage of love, mistook the intruder for the winged god, and bade him welcome. To drop metaphor, she was continually meeting a man upon the stairs of the boarding-house, which was her Rialto. He was a lonely single man of gentlemanly appearance, but to the eye of the initiated he bore the unmistakable signs of dissipation. Miss Lonsdale, the little dresmaker, was not initiated. She believed him to be suffering from illhealth ,the result of despondency, and woman-like, first pitied, then loved him. His name was Maurice Dunbar, and he told her that his family had disowned him because he was poor.

This seemed perfectly natural to Miss Lonsdale, for she herself looked on poverty as a disease or crime, and shunned contact with the more fortunate of her fellow beings.

They were married, and she soon found that with a conjugal complement she was a complete failure. She had used her burial fund, as a marriage dowry, and while it lasted, they lived on the fat of the land. She found her husband had elegant tastes and she gratified him. He had no money, so she provided him with all she had, and when it was gone, went back to her dressmaking, a profession to which matrimony is always fatal.

She was absent minded ,and nearly cut off a customer's ears with her fitting shears. She no longer chatted and beguiled the time of her fashionable people with quaint reminders of other customers. They grew tired of her and took their custom elsewhere.

It came out in the usual way. Love's wings trailed in the dust, and were despoiled. When she could no longer maintain him, her husband abused her.

"I made you a lady when I married you," he said; "my family is far above yours," and he would pose dramatically like an injured lord.

"I have no family," she would answer in a tearchoked voice, "except you. Be good to me, Maurice, and I will do antyhing for you. You need not lift a finger; only be good to me."

The disposition of a man to whom such an appeal is necessary is already brutalized beyond redemption. He went from bad to worse, gambled, drank and ended by beating his wife, and turning her out of doors.

That is not pleasant to read about; think, then, what it must have been to endure. Mrs. Dunbar went to the house of one whom she had befriended to ask shelter for the night. It was declined, on the ground that there was no vacant room. She would have taken her friend in and sat up all night that she might rest well. There was one other family, but on the steps of their house her heart failed her, and she turned away and went back to her own rooms, where she could not make any impression on the man in a drunken sleep within. Then she walked the streets until daylight, when she fell senseless and was carried off in an ambulance to one of the hospitals, where she remained unknown and unclaimed.

She was ill a long time. After that there was a tedious season of convalescence. She was in the city ward, but everybody was good to her and took an interest in the lonely woman. She sent a note to her husband by a messenger, who brought back word that the house was empty. She never intended to go back to him, but wanted the few possessions she owned to make her comfortable.

One day she was reading a newspaper when she saw her husband's name among the killed in a marine disaster. There could be no mistaking it, for it was peculiar and the description justified her fears—or, shall I say hopes? For she had suffered so much that she could shed no tears for him nor canonize him as some widows do their departed tyrants. She was sorry for his wasted life, his desperate death, but would have felt herself insincere and hypocritical to mourn for his taking off. She went out into the world the next day and began life over again, queen of two hands.

Richard Lester, lawyer and politician, and a rising man, although no longer young, sat alone in his private office one afternoon when the door opened to admit his confidential clerk who said:

"A lady to see you, sir," and at the same time he laid a cheap looking card upon the lawyer's desk. It read: "Mrs. Maurice Dunbar, fashionable dressmaking, Rose Terrace."

"Why, Claude," exclaimed Mr. Lester, "this is the party for whom we advertised."

"Same party, sir," responded the clerk, with commendable brevity.

"Well this is remarkable. But, by the way, Claude, it was a man, not a woman, we wanted. What does she look like?"

"Widow, sir."

"Show her in."

The next moment a slight figure, dressed in new, cheap black, was ushered into the room. The lawyer rose to meet her. He asked brusquely:

"Are you the widow of Maurice Dunbar?"

"Yes, sir."

Her voice had a peculiar resonance, acquired through much pain—the clear, low sweetness of her hospital tones attuned to the ear of suffering. There was nothing suppliant in them, no alms-taking quality, but a womanliness that touched the tough heart of the lawyer into a sympathetic vibration. He looked at her with interest, and excused himself for asking her to throw aside her long crepe veil. He found himself staring at a pale, delicate face, around which masses of red brown hair were heavily crimped. Her eyes looked into his with the truthfulness of a child.

"Pardon me," he stammered; then resuming his coldest exterior, demanded her credentials.

She showed an aptitude for business in the promptness with which she produced her identification, the account of her husband's death and other date of importance. No point was left uncovered. She had come prepared to lay immediate claim to a fortune left to Maurice Dunbar by his uncle, Maurice Dunbar, who had lived for the past twenty years in an inland town of British North America.

He was not on good terms with any member of his family excepting Maurice, who had visited him some years previous, and in whose favor the will had been made at that time.

Had you ever heard your late husband speak of this uncle?" the lawyer asked among other questions.

I have heard him speak of a relative from whom he had expectations," answered the widow guardedly, "and once said that he would be benefited by his death, and that he had the same name."

"The name is a common one, but I shall probably have other applicants who will see the advertisement, and must not make any mistake. The conditions of the bequest are unusual. Have you any children?"

"No thank God," answered the widow quickly. She felt tha t she had reason to be thankful in escaping that perpetuation of moral obliquity.

"In the case of there being children the money would belong rightfuly to them. The will makes this provision, but adds further that if there are no children the widow shall be the next heir. In the event of death or re-marriage, the whole sum reverts to charity, one particular institution being named as beneficiary."

"I shall not marry again," asserted the widow.

"Don't be too certain of that," responded the lawyer, "you are still young ,and at—" attractive, he was going to say, but finally concluded, "at your age it is not an impossibility. I will see you again tomorrow. Goodbye, madam," and he escorted her to the door, which he closed after her.

Within a month the money had been paid to her, and the widow of Maurice Dunbar, who had put on her first black in order to appear decorous at the lawyer's office, moved into a handsome new house, and began climbing to her new ideals upon the fateful fragments of her dead past. She hardly recognized herself in her new role of a successful woman who had money enough and to spare. There was no frivolity in her outlay. Her home was a picture of comfort. She looked up a poor woman who had once assisted her in her dressmaking enterprises, and gave her an elaborate order for modified mourning. She made glad the waste places of many a life with her compassionate help, and in making others happy found her own greatest happiness.

One man came to her for help and comfort who needed the sunshine of life and could find it only in her presence. This was Richard Lester, the successful lawyer. He had met his fate when he first saw Myra Dunbar and heard the tones of her womanly voice, and now he was pleading with her to marry him, to cast her fortune into the lap of charity and to receive tenfold from him. She was afraid to tempt fate again and put him off, but he had compelled her to acknowledge that his love was no imposture, but the genuine brand. She was lonely, and so was he, and they were so congenial and looked at everything with the same eyes. What she did not know he would easily forgive. And he could teach her—sweet employment!

And at last she consented to a quiet wedding, and a long journey to foreign lands, where under a new heaven their wedded life would begin, then——

"A—— some one to see you, ma'am," anounced the rosy faced housemaid of the widow one morning a few weeks before the wedding day.

"Some one on business, Julia?" asked Mrs. Dunbar, looking up from the morning paper.

"Y-e-s'm. I expect he wants help. He looks kind of shabby."

"He is not a gentleman?"

"I should say not, ma'am, and he isn't a tramp exactly—kind of betwixt and between."

"I will see him," said Mrs. Dunbar, and she laid aside her paper and left the bright fire burning in the grate a little reluctantly. She had laid aside her mourning now that she was engaged to another man, and wore a pretty breakfast gown that was suitable to her petite stature and most becoming.

When she entered the little reception room where the caller waited, she saw a thin emaciated man shabbily dressed and bearing many marks of privation, and she saw something else, a likeness in his profile that set her heart to beating with an awful fear. When he rose and confronted her she fell back, and with whitening lips gasped out the name:

"Maurice Dunbar!"

"Yes! Maurice Dunbar returned from the dead," was the cruel, sneering answer.

Then she fainted, and mercifully knew no more.

Again, Richard Lester, a bowed and miserable man was seated in his office alone in the gloom and depression of approaching night, and of his own unhappy thoughts. Before him was the one letter he had received from her since the cruel necessity of parting had come upon them, it had contained the ring with which they had plighted their troth. He had written a mad and hasty reply, in which he had urged her to fly with him, and offered the devotion of a lifetime, and she had come to him and rebuked him with a broken heart.

"Do not make it harder for me," she said in that brief final interview. "You can do one thing to help me, if it is not wrong. This money really belongs to—to my husband, but I think God has made me his almoner. As long as he believes the money to be mine I can control him and compel him to live like a gentleman, and perhaps help him morally. If he has it he will go to instant ruin. Will you help me keep the secret? He shall have every comfort, but he must take all at my hands. Can you do this legally?"

No he could not, but for love of her concluded to keep silence and let her believe it was right. So he pays the annuity regularly nad asks God to forgive him if he does evil that good may come.

A strange sequel to this was a call on one occasion from Maurice Dunbar himself, who, well-dressed and cared for, presented the appearance of a gentleman, a moral phase of development which was the effect of his wife's faithful labors—at first from a sense of duty, but later from a revival of the old love.

"I have come," he said as he followed his card into the presence of the lawyer, "to consult you on a matter of importance upon which I require legal advice.

"He has heard of the bequest," thought Lester, with a sudden fear, but aloud he said calmly: "Please state the circumstances as briefly as possible."

And he listened to another phase in the complicated life of the woman he loved.

"I wish to inquire," proceeded Maurise Dunbar, "whether a man who marries under an assumed name is legally married or not?"

Richard Lester made no outward demonstrations of a great joy that for one moment filled his heart, to be followed by a thrill of despair.

"Yes," he said, after a moments thought; yes, by the law of this state a man who marries under any name is legally married. I assume then," continued the lawyer, "that you are interested in such a case?"

"I am personally interested. The name by which I am known, Maurice Dunbar, is not my own name. I have been troubled with some doubts. My wife is a lovely Christian woman ,and I feared I had done her a wrong in marrying her under a name that was assumed as a matter of convenience. There is no disgrace attached to it, but when I renounced my family I left off the old name. I shall keep the one I have until I die."

He paid a liberal fee and left the stunned and dazed man of law with another perplexity to combat.

Richard Lester never by any chance sees Mrs. Dunbar, whose man of business he remains; nor does he know that to her he is only a memory associated with a certain legal transaction, which she believes she is justified in keeping secret; for she realizes that her husband is weak and his present goodness enforced, but she has saved him from himself, and is satisfied with her reward.

It only remains now for the real Maurice Dunbar to appear and claim his inheritance, which Richard Lester will pay him dollar for dollar. But that is a contingency which may never occur.—Detroit Free Press.

WIFE IS FAITHFUL TO DARING OUTLAW

Thought to Be Supplying Murderer Phelps With Food

North Adams, Mass., June 14.—Silas N. Phelps, the Franklin county desperado and murderer, is believed now to be lurking near his home, fed and sheltered by his relatives.

Following the search of the house of Herman rnelps, the desperado's brother, State Detective Bligh, who had remained behind, concealed in the trees, says that he saw Mrs. Phelps leave her home carrying an earthen pitcner and a covered dish, evidently containing food. The woman disappeared in a thicket back of the house.

It is Phelps' life or that of other people. Everyone knows that here. Phelps s a dead shot. He can clip the tail of a leaping squirrel with a rifle bullet, and now he knows his life is at stake—well, those who know he holds them grudges are not sleeping these nights.

Determined mountaineers, with orders to shoot Phelps on sight, patrol the wooded foothills of the Berkshires with fingers on the hair triggers of their long squirrel rifles.

Ancient Ideas of Africa.

In mediaeval times Africa was an unknown continent as well as Asia Until a few years after the discovery of Columbus no one had sailed around it, and it was quite generally thought, as it had previously been thought in regard to Asia, that the African continent extended on and on indefinitely It was supposed that far to the south was the zone of heat, in which no human being could live. This was by no means an unreasonable inference to the ancients. They knew that the farther they sailed to the north the colder it grew and that in the extreme north was a region of perpetual snow. They also knew that the farther they sailed to the south the warmer it grew, and what was more natural for them to suppose that if they went far enough in that direction they would come upon lands that were parched and baked and upon seas that boiled, where nothing could live but salamanders?

A Bismarck Incident.

It used to be the privilege of Austria's representative at any conference of representatives of the German states to smoke, the others refraining This was supposed to be an acknowledgment of Austria's supremacy. At the first conference that Bismarck attended as Prussia's representative he began to puff smoke across the conference table as soon as the Austrian diplomat lit up. That set everybody present to smoking on equal terms, and Austria's supremacy got a blow.

WINANS' CLEVELAND STABLE.

Siliko and Allen Winter Will Be Watched on Grand Circuit.

Among the prominent stables which will be trained this spring at the North Randall track is that of Louis Winans of Brighton, England, the first stable from across the water to invade the harness horse tracks. This stable is in charge of Al Pennock, a former well known Ohio trainer, who for several years has raced the Winans horses in England and on the continent.

The star pair are the $50,000 Derby winner, Allen Winter, 2:06½, and the Kentucky Futurity winner, Siliko, with a European record of 2:08¼. Two or three European bred horses are also in the string, and they will be raced in the slow trotting classes on the grand circuit.

There will be a lot of interest taken in the reappearance of Siliko on this side. His first start will undoubtedly be in the $2,000 2:09 trot at the grand circuit opening meeting at Kalamazoo.

DIXIE TO DEFEND CUP.

Power Boat Entered In British Trophy Event Aug. 20.

The Dixie II., one of the fastest power boat racing craft in this country, will again compete for the British international trophy, which race is to be held on Aug. 20. Frederick K. Burnham, owner of the boat, who recently joined the Motorboat Club of America, says he has entered the Dixie II.

JOHNSON, GREAT TWIRLER.

Were Washington's Star With Strong Team He Would Break Records.

If some first division club could only gather the name of Walter Johnson on its roster and send that famous youngster to the front with a real team to render assistance what a wonderful indention he would make in some of the existing baseball records. Johnson has everything that a great twirler needs—control, curves, cool head and more speed than any pitcher in the country.

Since he became a member of the Washingtons several years ago Johnson has twirled first class ball, but owing to poor support by his team at critical moments he has lost more games by one run than any other pitcher in the country. Place him with a club like the Cubs, Pirates, Detroits or Philadelphias and there is little doubt that he would come pretty near leading the winning pichers in the country.

Hudson River Rowing Regatta.

The stewards of the Hudson River (New York) Rowing association have set a date for the organization's annual regatta on the Hudson. The events will be rowed over the Waverly course on July 16. The program will provide a junior single gig, junior double gig, junior four oared barge, junior four oared gig, senior four oared barge and junior centipede, all on conditional entry of three crews.

AROUND THE BASES

Here and There in the Old Colony League

The champion Deweys, Saturday.

* * *

The rain spoiled all chances of our jumping into the lead all by our lonesome.

Ainsmith, the catcher who started last season with Rockland, and who afterwards signed with Lawrence in the New England league, was bought recently by the Washington Americans. He will join that club in a near future.

* * *

Willard, the 17-year-old twirler, who is pitching for "Greg" Hayes' outfit at Randolph, is a star slab artist. This lad is a south-paw with fine curves and a barrel of speed, and if he don't surprise some of the fans in this league before snow flies I will miss my guess.

* * *

Dobbin o fthe Deweys is not shaping up any too well and it is rumored "Tommy" Nash is doing some worrying over the inability of this lad to hold his opponents.

Quincy fans are praying for fair weather for Friday and Saturday of this week. On Friday, June 17th, the leaguers play the snappy Makaria team who have a victory over the Deweys to their credit. On Saturday they face the champion Dewey club for the first time this season. If the weather is good we may expect to see record breaking crowds at both games.

* * *

During recent conversation with a live baseball fan over the fast men on the bases, in this league, many names were mentioned. Among them were Lonergan of the locals, Laughlin of the Lincolns, Mahar of the Rocklands, Orcutt of the Deweys, Dam of Randolph, Reynolds of Stoughton and others. While I do not care to pick any as the fastest, Lonergan and Laughlin look like star men to worry the backstops according to my version.

* * *

Again, President Jerome F. Murphy has clearly demonstrated the fact that he has the interest of the Old Colony league at heart all the time. I refer to his judgment in picking such competent umpires for this season as Smith, Cody and King. Nothing but favorable comment has come from all towns where they have worked, and it is indeed encouraging to know all have signified their intention of staying with us all season.

* * *

"Bill" Duggan is playing the game of his life in left field. In recalling his star catches in the Lincoln game at Lincoln and his great catch off Moore in the Rockland game I fail to see where any outfielder in the league has anything on him. Bill is also hitting the ball, having four hits to his credit out of twelve times up. Keep it up, Bill, we're all with you.

* * *

William A. Blodgett, the owner of the Lincoln club, is interested in a mammoth Fourth of July celebration for the town of Lincoln on the big holiday. This man is a born sport and the league did a wise thing in adding him to complete the circuit.

Modern Gold Mining.

Up until about 1850 only placer or surface gold was mined—that is, free gold, deposited in the beds of streams, in sands and in the crevices of rocks. Placer mining, mainly in new and remote regions, still furnishes a material though not a large percentage of the world's output. Formerly the alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852 the hydraulic method was first employed in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water turned against the side of a mountain washes everything before it. The gold settles to the bottom of the tunnel or sluice through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used in Australia. Today steam and electric dredges produce a considerable portion of the world's output.—Byron W. Holt in Everybody's.

JOHNSON LIKES THE LIMELIGHT.

Champion Will Not Begin Hard Training Until June.

HAS HIS OWN METHODS.

Says He Does Not Need More Than Three or Four Weeks to Fit Him For Coming Battle—Will Weigh About 198 Pounds When He Tackles Jeff.

Until recently the all absorbing question was, Will Jeffries be able to get into condition? Now they are asking if Jack Johnson will be able to do himself justice July 4. Some people are worrying because the negro is having a good time at his Seal Rock quarters, near San Francisco, and has not settled down to the real hard training. There is no need for any worry. Johnson knows how to get into shape for a battle. The negro champion needs only the fraction of the time Jeffries is using for the preparation, as he has been fighting often and can get into shape very quickly.

Just at present he is getting all there is to be had out of the sensation of being a prominent figure in the public eye. He seems to feel that the hard grind of the training season will be on whenever he makes up his mind to forsake pleasure and meet it face to face.

While training for his fight with Tommy Burns in Australia some of the well meaning visitors did not like Johnson's style of preparing for a world's championship fight, and they made suggestions. Johnson heard them and was quick to resent. From these training camp experiences developed the feeling of dissatisfaction which resulted in Johnson turning Sam Fitzpatrick, a valuable, conscientious manager and advertiser, adrift.

Johnson has some sound logic of an epigrammatic nature in his comments on training. He says:

"A fighter when in the ring may wish he had some of the strength he wasted on a wood pile.

"No heavyweight fighter needs to starve in order to be fast enough to enter the ring.

"It is tax enough on any one's strength to fight, so it is better to save all your power by refusing to worry."

Johnson says he will begin real hard training about the first week in June. Then he will get busy with the weight machines, the medicine ball and the four round tilts with the human punching bags to be in fit fettle to meet Jeffries. He can reach the prime condition notch in three weeks.

If he started sooner he might find himself stale. He knows what's good for him and doesn't have to monkey around to find out how long he should train or what kind of work suits him. Johnson has his mind set on being at concert pitch by July 1 and then be able to hold himself in trim from then until he faces Jeffries in the ring.

When Johnson arrived at the training camp he tipped the scales at 226 pounds. After a few twelve mile runs on the road he weighed 210. In talking about his weight recently Johnson said:

"It never worries me how much or how little I weigh. My training is all based on how I feel and perform. If I could hit as hard, be as fast and feel as well I would not care whether I weighed a ton or 150 pounds. But common sense tells me that 198 or 200 pounds is enough for me to weigh and be at my best. I do not expect to weigh an ounce more than 198 when I meet Mr. Jeffries. It is not necessary for me to tip over buildings or wrestle with bears. All I need is some outdoor work, a little boxing to retain speed, and I will be there without an excuse prepared."

Manager Little has taken every precaution to safeguard Johnson against any tampering with his food. The negro has a special cook and waiter, and every care is being taken to see that raw as well as cooked food is free from anything that will harm the heavyweight.

So that the new cook may not find the time hanging heavy on her hands Little has had special chicken yards installed at Seal Rock House and is also pigeonholing the roof cots so as to increase the squab outfit.

"Jeffries may be able to outbox this fellow, but Jack can give him cards and spades eating chickens," said Manager Little recently. "He only gets away with six squabs at a meal."

A baseball diamond has been arranged in the rear of the hotel, and as J. Arthur is a crack first baseman he proposes to have a team of his own and play all comers, excepting, however, the Jeffries nine.

WADDELL'S PITCHING DAYS MAY BE OVER.

It looks like curtains for Rube Waddell, the star pitcher of the St. Louis Americans. The great southpaw twirler whose eccentricities have made him a byword among baseball fans may never pitch again. Waddell was struck on the left arm by a pitched ball in Boston recently and the bones in the elbow fractured. Attending surgeons fear that the pitching arm will never be able to work again. Erratic and uncertain, Waddell was, with all his faults, one of the best southpaws who ever shot a ball up to a batter. He had everything in the curve line. It has often been said of him that if he had been gifted with the brains of Mathewson he would have been the king of pitchers. Connie Mack managed Rube better than any other manager, and the Rube responded by pitching the Athletics into a couple of pennants. If he ever had a sore arm no one heard of it, but there was never any telling whether Rube would appear at the ball yard or go on a hunting or fishing trip. In Houston this spring Rube renewed his antics, and Jack O'Connor had a heart to heart talk with him. O'Connor told him he would either keep in shape and give his best services to the Browns at all times during the season or he would be released. O'Connor meant it, too, and the Rube kept close to the lines.

Swedish Congregational Church Burn Mortgage and Cancel All Indebtedness

Close of the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Services

Tuesday evening the six-day celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Swedish Congregational Church was brought to a close by burning the mortgage on the church building. The congregation was addressed by Rev. David Tornwall, followed by Rev. C. A. Bjornbom, a former pastor of the church, both of whom spoke of the splendid work done by the congregation in their field of endeavor.

REV. G. W. PALMGREN.

After the adresses a selection was sung by the choir, and then Alfred Wesden and Gustaf Sandelius, the latter treasurer of the church, burned the mortgage for fifteen hundred dollars which has been over the church for nine years and has just been paid off.

Beside this mortgage a pew debt of $500 has been paid, making the total disbursement $2,000. As the document burned the congregation sang one stanza from an impressive Swedish song of praise in their native tongue.

Rev. C. E. Rydstrom, the pastor of the Swedish Methodist church delivered an address of congratulation.

The closing address was by the Rev. Emil Holmblad.

During the six days from Thursday to Tuesday there have been services every evening at the church on Garfield street, the most interesting of which included an historical address by the Rev. Emil Holmblad which covered every point of the work of the church. Mr. Holmblad is one of the older clergymen in this section, and is, therefore, thoroughly conversant with every stage of Congregational progress.

Monday evening pastors of neighboring churches were invited to attend the services and the congregation heard a number of them speak, notably the Rev. J. A. Johnson of Lynn and the Rev. Mr. Tornwall.

The Swedish Congregational Society of Quincy has a large member-

OVER $4,000 NOW PLEDGED

For Improvement Fund of the First Presbyterian Church

The campaign committee for the "Improvement Fund" of the First Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening for its first reports. The results were very gratifying and there was great enthusiasm as already two-thirds of the $6,000 have been pledged.

Great rivalry has sprung up among the different teams, but the Ladies Aid Society and the pastor seem to have a big lead.

The committees met at 8.30, with Rev. J. Matheson as chairman, and as each team reported their was surprise and enthusiasm, for the total for the evening was $4,110.00.

The reports follow:

Ladies Aid Society	$1500.00
Team 1—Capt. J. J. MacLennon	422.00
Team 2—Capt. W. J. MacLeod	418.00
Team 3—Capt. D. J. MacLennan	167.00
Team 4—Capt. Robert Craig	368.00
Team 5—Capt. Alex Clark	280.00
Team 6—Capt. George Craig	255.00
Team 7 Capt. Rev. J. Matheson	700.00
Total	$4,110.00

At the start, the committees set Saturday evening June 18, at 9 o'clock, as the limit of time in which to raise the $6,000, but the success has been so great at the start that it is possible that the full amount may be pledged at the meeting on Thursday evening.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cowe of Jackson lane observed their silver wedding aniversary on Monday evening, entertaining a large number of friends. There was a reception from 8 to 9 followed by a supper, games and dancing. John C. Murray, in behalf of the guests, presented Mr. and Mrs. Cowe a handsome parlor set of three pieces, and also a silver tea service. The house and grounds were illuminated and decorated for the occasion, and it was a jolly affair.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of Simon and Emily Feard, for violation of the liquor law at Quincy, was called. Emily entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50. The case against Simon was dismissed for want of prosecution.

Martin Kierce of Quincy was fined $15 and Patrick McDonough of Milton $3,for drunkenness.

Norman Shehherd was arraigned for drunkenness and for assault on his wife at Quincy. The case for drunkenness was placed on file. On the other complaint he was sentenced to three months in the house of correction; sentence suspended until Oct. 1.

Angelo Mezzola and George Lameaux were fined $25 each for crap shooting at Quincy. Sentences suspended on probation until Aug. 1. Louis Mezzola for being present had his case placed on probation until Oct. 1. Several others who were arraigned for being present had their cases dismissed for want of prosecution.

FLAG DAY OBSERVED

Woman's Relief Corps Have Interesting Program

At the regular meeting of Paul Revere W. R. C. held in G. A. R. hall Tuesday afternoon, Flag day was observed under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide McGrath patriotic instructor. The program including the reading of "Peace arbitration day" by Mrs. Kate A. Blaisdell; song, "Old Glory," by Mrs. E. Nason; reading,

"Let the flag go by" by Mrs. Mary E. Powers; Song, "Flag of the free" by Mrs. E. Nason; reading, "Honor the flag" by Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher; and remarks by other members of the corp. At the close of the meeting there was a sale of aprons etc. Ice cream, cake and strawberries were served.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL ROAD.

New impetus was given this week to the plan of the Lincoln Memorial Road Association to have the government build a road from Washington to Gettysburg in commemoration of the martyred President. At a meeting of the association which is fostering the idea, held this week in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, it was decided to start a nation-wide propaganda in support of the measure, which is said to have the approval of Secretary of State Knox and other prominent Federal officials. The road as proposed is to be 72 miles long, and will cost in the neighborhood of $2,500,000. In its scope and general outline, if carried out as designed, it will be one of the most unique tributes ever made to a notable character in any country in the world. At different times, bills designed to effectuate the plan have been before Congress, sponsored by men of national prominence, but for one reason or another have been stifled in committee. By means of its organization, the Lincoln Memorial Association now hopes to develop sufficient sentiment throughout the country before next winter to insure the concurrence of both branches of the national legislature in the plan.

HIS SECOND THOUGHT.

A politician named Blank got a place for a clerk during one of the sessions of the legislature of his state. The clerk was very grateful says the Saturday Evening Post. At the end of the session he came around to Blank and said: "Mr. Blank, I want to tell you how much I am indebted to you for your kindness in getting me the place I have had. It meant more to me, Mr. Blank, than you may think. I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Also I want to say, Mr. Blank, that if there ever comes a time when I can do anything for you—anything at all—you are to command me. I will do anything you may ask me to do. I am at your service."

Blank thanked the man, and he started to go. As he reached the door he turned and said, "Of course, Mr. Blank, I would prefer that it should be something honorable."

$3,000 NEEDED FOR FOURTH

Committees Cannot Get Along with Smaller Sum

Three thousand dollars is the minimum amount with which the Fourth of July finance committee will be satisfied. In order to do full justice to all committees that sum is necessary. Above that mark there is no knowing how high they will reach, for at the public meeting of all Fourth of July committees in Union hall Tuesday night unbounded enthusiasm was the keynote of every utterance. Not a man present felt otherwise than absolutely sure that the celebration was to be the biggest thing in Quincy, and that he personally was responsible for its success in part if not in whole.

The ward committees on finance were thoroughly instructed, and will start work as early as possible today, with a view to reporting a collection on Saturday night that will assure success.

Subscription papers, headed as follows were given out: "We the undersigned, citizens of Quincy, Mass., respectively contribute the amounts set opposite our names, to be used for the expense of a Fourth of July celebration in Quincy, the same to be published in the Quincy papers."

The mass meeting was toned with greater dash and spirit than any previous meeting, and every man felt the spirit of the evening, numerous persons speaking during the meeting to the accompainment of loud applause.

The next meeting will be on Saturday night to hear the reports of the finance committee, and take definite action.

Difficulties are being experienced in arranging the hours for President Taft's visit to Somerville and Boston on the Fourth of July. The latest schedule is Review at Somerville at 10 A. M., review in Boston at State House between 11 and 12; address at Teachers' convention at 3 P. M.

It is reported that an effort will be made to have the City Council appropriate $299 at its meeting next Monday evening for the Fourth of July celebration. Any sum over this amount would require two readings and would not pass until too late to be of use. If there is any appropriation to which this amount can be changed, or there is sufficient balance in the "Excess and Deficiency Fund account" from which it could be transferred, the order could be passed at Monday nights meeting. A loan would require two readings. The general opinion seems to be that the Council may be willing to appropriate that amount.

LODGE OF SORROW

Held by Elks in Memory of Moody Leighton

A lodge of sorrow was held by Quincy lodge of Elks at its meeting Tuesday evening, in memory of Moody Leighton who died at Nantasket June 4, 1910. The ritualistic service was conducted by Exalted Ruler William J. Coleman, assisted by officers of the lodge.

After this service several applications for membership were voted on and three candidates were initiated into the mysteries of Elkdom.

The subject of participating in the Fourth of July parade was brought up, but no action taken.

After the meeting an adjournment was made to the club house where a lunch was served.

ASSURED A WELCOME.

Sunday the congregation will greet their former rector who is overjoyed at this opportunity to visit the scene of his former labors. He is at present department secretary of the First Department of Domestic and Foreign Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

QUARRY CONTRACT

Quincy Granite for Addition to Custom House

There is a possibility that when the proposed addition to the Boston custom house is made that Quincy may be called upon to furnish the granite. The granite for the original building came from what is known as the "Old Berry Bros. quarry." It is not the extra dark but of medium color. This quarry is now owned by J. S. Swingle, and there is plenty of stock, and as good as that of which the building is constructed.

The quarry has not been operated for some years, but is now being made ready to operate. It has been pumped out and a fifty-ton derrick is being erected; also a fifty-horse power engine to operate the derrick.

Near the medium quary is another owned by Mr. Swingle, which is said to produce a dark stock. Workmen are now engaged in removing the headland between these two quarries so that when ready to operate he will have two dark stock quarries and a medium stock quarry.

LEISURE TO THINK.

The Transcript in a two column article asks the question "Do colleges furnish leisure to think and is it used?" As it is the time of year when all that pertains to college life is of interest, when anticipation is high for those about to enter as well as for the thousands who come forth ready for life's work it may be found interesting to quote at length.

"Those to whom the four years of undergraduate life appeal as an aimable loaf should be instructed in a few items of its routine. An undergraduate can be and usually is the most blamelessly and superficially busy person alive. Early rising is a virtue much more prevalent than confessed to, and the men who get up at six for two hours' uninterrupted work on a biscuit and a cup of tea are more numerous than their modesty would advertise. Morning lectures, afternoon lectures, with intervals filled with details; exercise from three o'clock until dinner time, and an evening that is a pressure of contending claims—this is the skeleton of any undergraduate's day. After a certain point in his career has been reached a mysterious function known as a "meeting" will claim any or every evening, and its range may be from a public lecture to the mystical ceremonies of a rehearsal or an initiation.

All this passes among boys who are sure of three meals a day and a place to sleep, in keen health, high spirits and the jolliest of comradeship they have ever known or ever will know. No days were ever so worth putting in solely for their own sake, and the inducements to reflection were never so slender. The reply to these remarks is that this routine, superficial as it sounds, is silently furnishing the raw material of thought, and the cow-eyed undergraduate is putting down the cud for later mastication. For a time it may seem heedless, wanting purpose, wanting definiteness, but it trains a man unconsciously for a later routine, more imperious and less enjoyable. He at least acquires the knack of passing quickly from one occupation to another. He learns, too, that it is not always necessary to stop in order to think.

The years will bring the need to think, his mental cast will bring the disposition, experience will furnish the subject-matter. As we live in America during the present decade, the leisure to think is negligible. Most of us never had it before, and many of us will never have it again. We must do our thinking as we can—in trains, in street cars, while noting the hobbles of the pavement, while reading a silly advertisement, or observing the jaded lines about the month of the man opposite. For when the most of us sit down purposely to think minds go wool-gathering, but good ideas come casually whilst tying shoe-strings. This may not be the system which gave us the great philosophies, but it is the way the world lives, and busy men may therefore have their fling at many a tough intellectual cud. The life we impose upon men of ability is the life that a college community, consciously or unconsciously, imposes upon the boys to seek it out. We have chosen to agree on this; that he who has the most to do can get the most done. We do not inquire closely into whether it is all worth doing.

Since the college elevates executive ability, the freshman who came with a purely intellectual zeal deflects from thought into activity. He supposed the four years were to be a time of uninterrupted study, of ripening reflection, and after recovery from surprise at the minimum of thinking with which the undergraduate leaders managed to get on, he, if he was apt, took his cue and changed over from philosopher to man of action. He came with a zeal for research, a thirst for thesis-writing, half a dozen topics tugging at his brain, a pure rapture for scientific studies, a lofty enthusiasm for early English. He cashed in as a manager of teams for the college, and the country were demanding men of affairs. His lectures became incidental to his executive duties, and he could even hear members of the faculty asking one another "whether these incidental activities were not, after all, the most valuable part of the college training?" This may depend upon what we are training.

The colleges have a solid defence against objections under this head. In spite of everything, two or three big ideas do filter into the minds of freshmen whether they mean them to or not, and freshmen are never the same again, as sighing relatives point out. These ideas color all their later thinking, if any. They realize that they are among men, who, as Goethe used to say, care more for what a man actually said than for what someone else believes he ought to have said; they realize that they are in a community where for a man to entertain opposite opinions is not inherent proof of his error; it is seen that toleration and impartiality do not instantly signify moral edcay. And to the greater part of the freshman class, the most astonishing thing about this idea is its utter novelty. The point on which men from colleges most frequently find themselves in dispute with others who are not; their chief advantage, and, (I was going to say) their only advantage is this; they have learned to tolerate what others are taught that it is virtue and duty to abhor.

This, after all, is worth taking four years out of one's life to learn. For the profit of the college training begins only when it is over. It is not the fault of colleges that they foster aristocracy of mind and manners, but they do. Unless men pass into the mill and moil of later life that sense breeds what Thackeray is pleased to call university snobs. The great lessons come after the undergraduate years; first, that all that has been learned must be forgotten before it can be of any use; and second, that in spite of the aristocratic prejudices bred by the institutions, the undergraduate's superior sits on any third teamster's seat, or pulls the throttle of any third locomotive. No amount of leisure to think will impart this conviction; to have missed it is to have missed the main thing, and the colleges to cause a good many of their men to miss it, just how or why it is difficult to say. They will admit its truth, but decline to believe it in their hearts. Like religion, it is professed generally and practised by almost none, but with results, when it is practised, that are amazing. For the world cannot see how men get back their lives bygiving them up; at least, it is afraid to try.

DRIFT OF OPINION

Like the cost of living, the cost of running an automobile is on the up grade, and if the price of tires is advanced on July 1, as is predicted, automobiling will cost more than ever. There is one way to meet this increase in the cost of tires, and that is by using the car less. That this is the course being adopted by many is apparent. During the first years of motoring every owner of a car grasped each available opportunity to make long and expensive tours. Not only the family, but friends were taken, and if the friends paid their hotel bills, they didn't pay for the wear and tear on tires and machinery. It is asserted by those who have looked into the matter, that indiscriminate touring is on the wane, and that already hotels and garages which for the past few years have been doing a rushing business with automobilists, are finding that the trade is slackening. It is not surprising that this should be true.—Banker and Tradesman.

The thing needed is not plans, but men. A well-though-out plan without a man to execute it is a waste of money; and as a rule, the more comparatively the details have been thought out by a man who is not going to execute them himself, the larger will be the amount of money masted. Get a man with a plan, and the more money he has the greater is his chance of doing a large work; but a plan without a man is as bad as a man without a plan—the more he has the more he wastes.—Arthur T. Hadley in Worlds Work.

Mamma had found it necessary to discipline Georgie for being naughty, one day, and the usually forgiving nature of the child was held in check until papa came home, when the little boy ran to him and said:

"Papa, I want you to do sumphin for me. I want you to dischare mamma."

SENATE AVOIDS TAKING A STAND

Bill For Direct Vote For Senators Is Held Up

SHREWD TACTICS BY LODGE

He Leads Owens, Author of Resolution, to Point Where He Accepts Suggestion That Committee Be Discharged — Parliamentary Sparring Leaves Motion So That It Can Only Come Up by Unanimous Consent

Washington, June 15.—On the suggestion of Senator Lodge, Senator Owens eliminated the word "favorably" from his resolution, now before the senate, to instruct the committee on privileges and elections to report on the first day of the next session upon his resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution, through the legislatures, providing for the election of United States senators by the people.

Mr. Lodge said that he did not purpose to speak upon the merits of the resolution, but merely to suggest that the senate had no power over the options of individual senators and therefore could not order a committee to report favorably or otherwise. Owens having withdrawn the word, Lodge went on to state that the proper motion for the senator to make, and the only one, according to precedent, was to discharge the committee.

Mr. Owens retorted that he was aware what the usual procedure is, but he added sarcastically that the committee had kept his resolution for two years and had not even been able to have a meeting on it, hence he did not want to do anything as precipitate as asking for the discharge of the committee. He would prefer a vote on his motion as he made it.

Mr. Lodge then raised the point of order that the proper motion was to discharge, thus, if carried, leaving the senate free to take such action as it chose on the resolution. Owen, stating that a vote on that motion would be sufficient to place the senate on record, accepted the suggestion and moved that the committee be discharged.

It was then 1:50 p. m., and in ten minutes the Owen resolution would be superseded by unfinished business. The senators were talking against time to throw the Owen motion over.

Mr. Lodge came back with the suggestion that in all his experience in the senate he had never known so drastic a motion as that to discharge a committee to be acted on in the absence of the chairman of the committee. The smiling Owen, seeing the trend of things, calmly acquiesced in this suggestion and asked unanimous consent that action on his motion be postponed until the return of the chairman, Senator Burrows, who is out of town.

Senator Gallinger objected and Mr. Heyburn, an equally loyal "regular," who sits beside him, took the floor and talked until 2 o'clock, when the conservation bill was taken up and Owen was compelled to desist. The Owen motion cannot get before the senate again except by unanimous consent, hence the senators probably will not be compelled to go on record at this session whether they or their successors shall be elected by the legislatures or by the people.

The shrewd parliamentary tactics whereby this important question was postponed for a session probably have saved an awkward situation for many statesmen. According to Owen, no less than thirty-seven states have approved the popular election idea, either by memorial to congress or by informally nominating their senators in state-wide primaries. The only states that have not done this are the six New England states and New York, Delaware and West Virginia.

Senator Owen pointed out in debate that all political parties except the Republicans have favored the direct election of senators in their national platforms.

FAT JUROR CAUSES SMILES

Weighs Over 400 Pounds and Finds Jury Box Rather Uncomfortable

Pittsburg, June 15.—N. J. Huffman, 30 years old, a juror sitting in the present term of criminal court, is having a most uncomfortable sesssion. Huffman weighs 435 pounds and has great difficulty stowing away his bulk in the jury box. The chairs are too small for him, so he has to sit on the edge of two placed side by side.

Huffman takes the situation with good nature and causes even the judge to smile at his struggles to and from the jury box.

PREPARED TO SHOOT TO KILL

Militiamen Join In the Hunt For Desperado Phelps

FUGITIVE IS WELL ARMED

Pursuers Meet With Opposition at Home of His Brother, Who Objects to Search of Premises and Renders No Assistance—His Wife Slips Away to Dense Woods Under Eyes of Corporal—Authorities In the Dark

Monroe Bridge, Mass., June 15.—Company I of the Second regiment of the Massachusetts militia were called into the man hunt of the Berkshires and are now camped on the Ralph Blue farm, high up on the sides of Kingsley mountain.

The capture or death of Silas N. Phelps, who Saturday night stabbed William Penman and Sunday morning shot dead Sheriff Haskins of Charlemont, trying to arrest him, is thought to be only a question of hours.

In addition to the twenty picked sharpshooters of the militia four deputy sheriffs and three state officers are directing the search for Phelps.

Every man was instructed to get "Si" Phelps. "If he doesn't surrender, then shoot him dead and mind you shoot quick or it may be too late," they were told.

The stories told of "Si" Phelps make him out a fiend incarnate and one who will sell his life at the dearest price. He has the tools to do it with. When he left home he carried a 44-40 repeating rifle with 100 rounds of ammunition and a double-barrelled shotgun, which has shells enough to kill a company of men before it becomes useless.

After a conference with the state officers, in which a plan of campaign was laid out, Captain Flower marched his men up the road which leads to the home of Herman B. Phelps, brother of the murderer.

Here for the first time openly broke out the opposition to the capture of Silas Phelps which the state police have been meeting since Phelps escaped. Herman Phelps did not dare to oppose a search of his premises, but he talked and acted sullenly and gave the police and militia no aid in their search.

Because Mrs. Herman Phelps was seen leaving the murderer's house with food the police believed Silas was being shielded by his brother and sister-in-law and if not in the house itself was not far from it.

The company halted in a deep cut of the road before the Phelps home, and orders were given to load the rifles. The company deployed on three sides of the house and with Captain Flower, the state police, with drawn revolvers, entered the house.

While the search was being made inside soldiers with rifles pointed at the windows and doors crouched on all sides of the house. The house was gone over from cellar to attic, but no trace of Silas was found.

After warning Herman that any attempt on his part to feed or send food or clothing to his brother meant instant arrest for him the soldiers, posse, police and deputies deployed into the woods and made a search of the abandoned farm buildings with which the mountain abounds. Every precaution was taken before entering any of the buildings, and armed men stood on guard ready to fire at the first sound.

While Corporal Sleeper was guarding Herman Phelps' home last night he saw a man and a woman coming out of the house and, with four bundles in their hands looking like clothing and food, disappear in the dense woods behind the house. Sleeper signalled to one of his fellow militiamen and started to follow them through the woods, but soon lost track of them and hurried back to headquarters to report.

As the search now stands the authorities do not know for sure just where Phelps is. The strange actions of the Phelps family relatives lead the authorities to the belief that Silas is still hiding in this vicinity.

LUNACY CHARGES DROPPED

Mrs. Ford Freed of Indictments Concerning the Warriner Case

Cincinnati, June 15.—Formal dismissal of the charges of lunacy against Mrs. Jeanne S. Ford, "the woman in the case" of Charles L. Warriner, defaulting local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, was entered in the probate court of Hamilton county.

The dismissal of the lunacy charges leaves Mrs. Ford free of all formal charges and indictments growing out of the Warriner case. She is under the care of alienists.

HAVE YOU PAWNED CURRENCY

New Way to Retain Keepsakes and Spend Value.

"Pawnbrokers don't think much of ten dollar bills as pledges," said a New York salesman. "I saw a man pawn one the other day for $6.50. When asked why he didn't spend his $10 instead of soaking it for a little more than half the amount he explained that he wanted to keep that particular bill. Twice before he had tried to keep a certain bill by giving it as security to a friend who had so many bills that he would not need to spend that particular one, but both times the friend got his money mixed and the keepsake was lost after all. This time he depended upon the pawnbroker to tide him over.

"To pawn money struck me as a very curious proceeding, but the broker assured me that it is frequently done by people who attach a sentimental value to a particular bill or coin."

AT BREWERS CORNER

AMONG THE CLUBS

Those who are interested in the financial side of the recent "Pinafore" performance will be glad to know that the Quincy Women's Club is not only able to meet its pledge of $300 for a shack at the Mt. Pleasant camp, but that it is also possible for the club to donate an additional $200 to the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, by vote of its Music committee, approved by the Executive board. This makes a total of $765 voted to the society since January of this year nearly all of which has been raised by the faithful and enthusiastic work of club members. It is seldom indeed that any organization raises so much money for the benefit of another however worthy the cause for which that other may be working; and the opinion of clubs in other cities that "the Quincy Women's club is unique in its methods, and especially in expending nearly all the money turned into its treasury for philanthropic purposes," seems well grounded in fact.

Teachers College, Columbia University, has recently received in its School of Household Arts an endowment for a department of nursing and health which promises to develop a new field of public service for young women, especially in positions connected with boards of health, tenement inspection, market inspection visiting nursing an dother phases of modern movements for health protection. Teachers' college is just dedicating a new building for its School of Household Arts, erected through the generosity of annonymous donor, who has provided a half million dollars for the complete equipment of laboratories in all fields related to household science and art. Added to this, comes the new equipment for specialized training of workers in health protection, or in what has been called municipal housekeeping. This endowment will be used to train nurses who have completed their regular courses in hospital training schools, and other competent persons who desire to secure special preparation for public health service. The training will prepare persons as visiting nurses and teachers of home hygiene in city and rural districts; as nurses, inspectors, or teachers under boards of health, for prevention of infectious diseases, and for food ,tenement and market inspection; as assistants to medical inspectors in public schools; as supervisors of milk stations and teachers of infant care and feeding; and in welfare departments, in shops and factories; and in general in all lines of public and private service intended to guard against disease and reduced efficiency which comes from ill health and lax sanitary conditions. This new profession of health guardianship, should attract the best equipped for its opportunities are immeasurable.

Two hundred and five women hold positions on the Isthmus as nurses, postal clerks, stenographers and teachers. The first woman employed by the Commission was Miss Eugenia Hibbard, superintendent of nurses, who took this position in 1904 when an epidemic of yellow fever was prevalent. Women have truly played a noble part in building the Canal; first the heroic nurses who assisted in the yellow fever days; then expert stenographers, store clerks and women teachers ,and thousands of women who have come here to make American homes and render life on the Isthmus pleasant for husbands and families. They have aided materially in maintaing the esprit de corps of the working force. Women's clubs and social evenings have helped to while away the loneliness of life on the Zone. Every Saturday evening there are social gatherings, dances and balls, in nearly all of the twenty-three towns along the canal.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in the National Magazine for June.

TEACHERS CONVENTION.

The following notice has been sent to the Quincy Women's Club:—

The National Education Association will hold its convention in Boston, July 2-8, 1910. This association returns to New England after a season of successful meetings, south and west.

So great was the enjoyment of the visitors to the Boston meeting of 1903, that great effort was made to bring the convention here this year, although strong inducements were held out for it to go to the Pacific coast. It is conceded that a large measure of the success of the convention was due to the co-operation of the Women's Clubs in the performance of committee work, hospitalities, and subscriptions to membership.

The Women's Clubs very generally sent representatives to the convention, and their reports upon the meetings constituted valuable features of club programs in the fall. It is assumed that associate officers, and other club members will attend the convention, not only for the intellectual and social privileges which it offers but also to give expression to the interest which the Women's Clubs of New England have ever shown in educational affairs.

The cost of advance membership is two dollars, and the certificate to be issued on the payment of that sum, will entitle the owner to admission to the several educational meetings and social functions—including the open air meetings, with music, in the Harvard stadium at which President Taft is to make an address—that are to be held during the sessions of the asociation; and it will also entitle the holder to a badge, a guide or souvenir book, and, (if application be made before Sept. 1, 1910,) to the official volume of proceedings and addresses to be published later. Application for advanced membership should be addressed to William C. Crawford, Cambridge street, Allston, Mass.

VULPINE SAGACITY.

The Tale of a Fox From the West Coast of Ireland.

It has often been said that the fox is the most cunning of all animals, but the following story of vulpine sagacity seems to require some credence. Some fishermen on the west coast of Ireland were in the habit of going to a small island a few hundred yards from the mainland in quest of bait. The island was inhabited by large numbers of rabbits and could be reached at low tide by wading, the water then being only a few inches deep. One morning they went in their boat quite early, it being high tide, and on landing saw what seemed to be a dead fox lying on the beach. The fur of the animal was all bedraggled, and he seemed to have been drowned. One of the men, remarking that his skin was worth something, pitched him into the boat. Procuring their bait, they returned to the mainland, and then the man who had possessed himself of the fox seized him by the tail and flung him on shore. As soon as the animal struck the beach he picked himself up with considerable agility for a dead fox and shot off like a flash along the cliffs, while the men stood staring at one another in mute astonishment. The men concluded that he had crossed over to the island during the night when the tide was low in search of rabbits and, finding in the morning that he was cut off from the mainland, counterfeited death, with the expectation of thereby procuring a passage to the shore in the boat, an expectation which was fully realized.—London Globe.

An Odd Turkish Superstition.

An odd Turkish superstition is as follows: If one finds a piece of bread lying upon the ground he must pick it up, kiss it and carry it until he finds a hole into which the bread can be inserted. To step upon a piece of bread or to leave it lying upon the ground is one of the unpardonable sins and dooms the offender to the third hell, where he is perpetually gored by an ox that has but a single horn that is in the center of his forehead.

The Smile.

We talk of a smile of defiance There is really no such thing. Such a so called smile is nothing more nor less than a snarl, a survival of the way our savage ancestors had of showing their teeth in order to strike fear into the hearts of their enemies. The real smile of pleasure begins with slightly opening the mouth, and is, of course, traceable to the joy of those same savage forefathers of ours at the prospect of food.

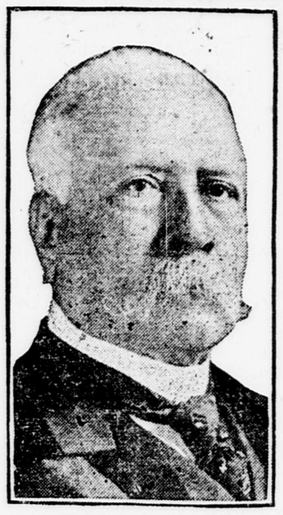
PRESIDENT DIAZ

His Opponents Said to Be Harshly Dealt With



MADERO SUPPORTERS HELD

Prominent Mexicans Who Are Opposed to Diaz Are Jailed

Eagle Pass, Tex., June 15.—There is commotion in the Mexican town opposite this city over the arrest of twenty-five prominent Mexican citizens who have been put in jail. They had agreed with many hundreds of others to support Madero for president.

About twelve others have taken refuge on this side of the river. The report comes that seventy-three similar arrests were made in Torreon as the crowd was dispersing after a bull fight.

ORIGINAL PACKAGE LAW IS IN EFFECT

New Era In Boston Relative to the Sale of Milk

Boston, June 15.—The board of health's "original package" milk regulation, which has been the bone of contention between the board and many of the milk dealers in this city for nearly a year, went into effect this morning.

Under the new regulation the old practice of storekeepers ladling milk out of dip tanks or pouring it out of large cans into the receptacles brought to stores by customers is done away with.

Instead the storekeeper is required to sell milk in the bottle or other receptacle in which the milk reaches his store. Thus the old custom of consumers carrying their own bottles, cans or pitchers to stores to have them filled with milk, which has been practised in Boston since time immemorial, is now wiped out.

POISON IN PHOSPHORUS

President Considers Application of Commerce Law to Check It

Washington, June 15.—President Taft has referred to Representative Mann, chairman of the house committee on interstate commerce, the question of prohibiting the use of white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches in the United States. He has asked Mann to see if it is not possible to enact legislation on the subject at once.

It is believed that by the application of the interstate commerce principle, the federal government will be able to control the use of the poisonous substance in the manufacture of matches.

The subject was brought to the president's attention by the American association for labor legislation. It is claimed that great harm is being done daily by the poison in phosphorus matches, which brings about necrosis of the jaw.

FIGHT MAY BE BLOCKED

Tangle Developes Over Permit For the Johnson-Jeffries Scrap

San Francisco, June 15.—Fresh cause for alarm over the possibility of the big fight being delayed came last night when it was announced that the local board of supervisors had granted the July fight permit to M. Simons, a lawyer and manager of the Panama Athletic club, for the Ketchel-Langford mill.

Under the law but one permit can be granted each month, and there is seen a plan to hold up Rickard and Gleason under penalty of enjoining the big fight.

Men familiar with the peculiar political conditions obtaining here see in the move a scheme to make some money by the sandbag method.

Two Deaths In "Safety" Powder Fire

Coudersport, Pa., Jnue 15.—Clarence Buck and his son were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their powder factory. The elder Buck was the inventor of a so-called "safety" powder, which was manufactured by a secret process.

KITTERY POINT ELMS.

Each of the Giant Shade Trees Cost a Pint of Rum.

One of the most striking attractions of the old town of Kittery Point has long been her towering elms. They rise magnificently above trees of all other varieties, and in summer with their foliage encompass her quaint streets in delicious green coolness, transform the fine old place into a veritable seashore fairyland and last, but not least, enrapture the summer visitor.

For nearly two miles along the highway, which for the most part follows the shore of the harbor, these splendid specimens rear themselves at fairly regular intervals, though the ax has in times past brought some of the monarchs crashing to the earth.

The story of the circumstances attending the planting of the giants, as it has been handed down from father to son, runs as follows: "Major Thomas Cutts, one of the old town fathers, who conducted a fishing business, foreign commerce, a store and a tavern in the famous Pepperell mansion (built 1662), conceived the very commendable idea of beautifying his native town by setting out trees.

"Accordingly in 1791 he gave one Samuel Blake the contract. Samuel's remuneration was nothing more or less than a pint of rum, doubtless brought from the West Indies by one of the major's pinkies, for each tree planted. There were originally ninety of them, and they extended from the Seavey lot, near where the First Christian church now stands, to the 'top of the Point' or the shore of Spruce creek."—Kennebec Journal.

THE SPIDER'S THREAD.

Its Use by Astronomers In Thsir Study of the Stars.

The threads of the garden spider are fixed by astronomers in their telescopes for the purpose of giving fine lines to the field of view by which the relative positions of stars may be accurately measured.

For a century astronomers desired to make use of such lines of the greatest possible fineness and procured at first silver wire drawn out to the extreme limit of tenuity attainable with that metal. They also tried hairs one five-hundredth of an inch thick and threads of the silkworm's cocoon, which are split into two component threads, each only one two-thousandth of an inch thick. But in 1820 an English instrument maker named Troughton introduced the spider's line. This can be readily obtained a fourth of the thickness of the silkworm's thread and has also advantages in its strength and freedom from twist.

In order to obtain the thread the spider is carefully fixed on a miniature rack, and the thread, which at the moment of issue from the body is a viscid liquid, is made to adhere to a winder, by turning which the desired length of firm but elastic thread can be procured.—London Graphic.

Henley's Sufferings.

In fifty-four years of his life—he was born in 1849—W. E. Henley never knew what a day's perfect health meant. When little more than a boy he was attacked by a disease which necessitated the amputation of one foot. He was told later by the doctors that the sacrifice of the other leg was necessary were he to live. The fame of Dr. Lister had reached Henley, and, penniless and almost friendless, he determined to try Edinburgh infirmary. Thither he traveled third class in physical suffering such as few have known, and when he reached the infirmary his whole possessions amounted to a few shillings. His confidence in Lister was justified, and his leg was saved. He was and remained a cripple, but neither hopeless nor helpless. His astounding nimbleness under these conditions suggested to Robert Louis Stevenson the physical sketch of John Silver.

A Hard One.

"The self made man is splendid,' said Andrew Carnegie at a dinner in Washington, "if he makes himself a mental and spiritual no less than a financial success. Too many self made men neglect the intellectual side. This sometimes—at commencements, for example—puts them at a disadvantage. I know a self made man who said at a commencement to his nephew:

"'Well, Tommy, my son, what do they teach you here?'

"'Latin and Greek,' the boy replied 'and German and algebra.'

"'Dear me!' cried the self made man. 'And what's the algebra for turnip?'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Difference.

"What do you regard as the chief difference between a theorist and a practical man?"

"A theorist," replied Senator Sorghum, "studies out how a thing ought to be done, and the other fellow makes up his mind how it can be done."—Washington Star.

Out of the Ordinary.

Belle—Why do you encourage that stupid Mr. Blinks? Nelle—Why, he says things I never heard any other man say! Belle—Honestly? He proposed?—Cleveland Leader.

His Constituents.

"Ever had 'em strew flowers in your path as you returned home, senator?"

"Naw. I'm satisfied not to have 'em strew banana peelings."—Pittsburg Post.

Extremes.

Mrs. A.—My husband is positively impossible. He knows nothing. Mrs. B.—Mine is simply unbearable. He knows everything.—London Tit-Bits.

Boxing the Compass.

Boys who live in seaport towns are sometimes asked to "box the compass." If they can do it quickly and accurately they are fine sailors and may grow up to be the captain of a four master. If they miss a point or can only do it slowly they are landlubbers and will never see blue water. To box the compass means to name all the points in order just as fast as you can speak. This is the way an old down east skipper will rattle it off: North, nor' by east, nor'-nor'east, nor'east by north, northeast, nor'east by east, east-nor'east, east by north, east, east by south, east-sou'east, sou'east by east, sou'east, sou'east by south, sou'-sou'east, sou' by east, south, sou' by west, sou'-sou'west, sou'west by south, sou'west, sou'west by west, west-sou'west, west by south, west, west by north, west-nor'west, nor'west by west, nor'west, nor'west by north, nor'-nor'west, nor' by west, north.

Can you do it?—Exchange.

The fact that they cannot carry a tune does not deter some men from singing their own praises.—Philadelphia Record.

BRIEFS

It is said the hot wave is here to stay a while.

Seventy-five degree temperature was reported at midnight.

Miss Christina Moody and Fred Smith both of Quincy Point will be married Tuesday, June 28.

Miss Lulu Moody of River street will go to Maine for an extensive vacation about the middle of July.

The handsome estate of the late Dr. William Everett on Elm street and Miller Stile road will be sold at mortgagee's sale, Wednesday, July 6.

Walter S. Redding and family of Washington street, will go to their summer home in Gloucester the latter part of this week for an all summer stay.

WREATHS ON ELEVEN GRAVES.

The names of the Quincy firemen whose graves were decorated on Sunday by the Firemen Relief Association at St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy, were:—Frank Gaberino, G. S. Bennett, Thomas Gilrain, P. H. Gavin, T. H. Keenan, Thomas Conlan, D. J. Creegan; at Calvary Cemetery, S. H. Cunningham; and at Mt. Wollaston, A. S. Kingsley. At the requests of the Weymouth and Amesbury Associations the graves of Moris O'Connell and John Coyle at St. Mary's were also decorated by the Quincy association.

Despite the poor weather of Sunday a large number of men turned out to do honor to the graves of the dead firemen. The decorations were beautiful wreaths.

The officers of the Relief Association are Daniel J. Nyhan, president; W. F. Pollard, vice-president; James Gallagher, clerk; Edmund G. Hayden, treasurer.

Why Boiled Water Freezes Easily.

Water which is hot of course cannot freeze until it has parted with its heat, but water that has been boiled will, other things being equal, freeze sooner than water which has not been boiled. A slight disturbance of water disposes it to freeze more rapidly, and this is the cause which accelerates the freezing of boiled water. The water that has been boiled has lost the air naturally contained in it, which on exposure to the atmosphere it begins again to attract and absorb. During this process of absorption a motion is necessarily produced among its particles, slight certainly and imperceptible, yet probably sufficient to accelerate its congelation. In unboiled water this disturbance does not exist. Indeed, water when kept perfectly still can be reduced several degrees below the freezing point without its becoming ice.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone. In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament.

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.

ASKED $100,000 OF "BIG BILL" KELIHER

Lawyer Hidden In Closet Heard Goleman's Demand

Boston, June 15.—The trial of "Big Bill" Keliher, so far as the taking of testimony is concerned, came to an abrupt close yesterday afternoon. Although Keliher did not take the stand in his own behalf, he brought the testimony to a close by springing a surprise that proved to be the sensation of the whole trial.

Through his counsel, Daniel H. Coakley, he produced in evidence the stenographic report of a conversation between Coleman and himself, which was taken by a lawyer concealed behind the partially opened door of a dark closet in the Keliher home. It showed that Coleman tried to get $100,000 from him, threatening trouble if the money was not forthcoming.

Attorney Flaherty, who is connected with counsel for Keliher, made the stenographic report. District Attorney French referred to Flaherty's act with a show of sarcasm, calling it "eavesdropping." Coakley hotly retorted that a better term for it would be "catching a blackmailer."

INJUNCTION IS VACATED

Curtiss and Paulhan Score a Point Against Wright Brothers

New York, June 15.—Orville and Wilbur Wright lost a point in their court fight to protect the patents covering their aeroplane from alleged infringements by Glenn H. Curtiss and Louis Paulhan, the French aviator.

By unanimous decision the United States court of appeals vacated the temporary injunctions obtained by the Wright company against Paulhan and the Herring-Curtiss company, pending trial of suits which will determine whether there is any infringement in fact.

The decision cites that the only question involved is whether in the defendants' aeroplane the tendency to swerve or spin is counteracted by means of a vertical rudder. Following the original decision numerous affidovits were submitted by both sides, which present sharp conflict in the evidence.

Under the circumstances, the court says, the infringement is not so clearly established as to justify a preliminary injunction.

LARGE FACTORIES BOUGHT

Marshall Field & Co. Now Own Spray Textile Establishments

Charlotte, N. C., June 15.—Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago have purchased a controlling interest in all of the textile manufacturing establishments at Spray except three mills. The purchase includes the American Warehouse company, with its large finishing plant and warehouses; the Spray woolen mills, said to be one of the largest mills of its kind in the world, and others.

Most of the stock in the mills taken over was acquired from B. F. Mebane, one of the largest manufacturers in the south, and the deal is probably the largest of its kind ever consummated in North Carolina or the south.

Spray is the largest exclusive manufacturing town in the south, the entire population deriving its support from the operation of the big mills, ten in number.

A PLEA FOR REFUGEES

Mrs. Jones Asks Congressmen to Afford Protection to Mexicans

Washington, June 15.—"Mother" Jones addressed the rules committee of the house in behalf of the Mexican refugees, who, it is alleged, are being persecuted in the United States through the agencies of American officers and Mexican government "spies."

Mrs. Jones denounced President Diaz of Mexico for sending "his hirelings across the border to crush the constitution of our country." She declared that she did not think the "United States should run its penitentiaries in the interest of the Mexican government." She urged the committee to institute an investigation.

ON TRAIL OF WALSH

Department of Justice Is Looking For "Jack," the Faro Dealer

Washington, June 15.—The department of justice has invoked the aid of the Boston police in locating one Martin J. Walsh, who, it is believed, was connected with the faro bank in New York, in which George W. Coleman, the defaulting bookkeeper of the National City bank of Cambridge, was reported to have lost some of the money which he took from the bank.

A reward will be offered for Walsh's apprehension.

BANISH MYSTERY AT WHITE HOUSE

Norton, Taft's New Secretary, Proves Agent of Publicity.

NEWSPAPER MEN APPLAUD.

Senators No Longer Hurdle Presidential Guardians, and Gum Shoes No Longer Are Popular—Successes of Lamont, Cortelyou and Loeb Guiding Stars For New Mentor.

Charles D. Norton of Chicago, who succeeded Fred W. Carpenter as secretary to President Taft, "made good" the first day and wins additional plaudits each hour.

Secretary Norton's first day was a busy and important one, embracing as it did the conference between the president and the western railway heads. One of the first things Mr. Taft's new confidential man did upon meeting the newspaper men in the forenoon was to tell them that the conference with the railroad presidents would be at 3 o'clock, that when it had concluded a statement would be issued and that he was going to see that the correspondents then met the president personally. And it happened just that way.

Newspaper Praise Is Sweet.

His initial success led the White House reporter of the Washington Times to extol him like this:

"Above the executive offices there ripples and rumples in the June breeze the gonfalon of publicity, and through the rooms where grim silence took his gloomy pleasure in the dear dead past there rings the merry echo of candid laughter and happy speech.

"In other words, the executive offices are to be run in a manner radically different from the management of Fred W. Carpenter. News is to be given out as it happens. Mystery inscrutable as the night will no longer hold its sable court within the house that is white.

"The ceremonies and shrouds which were wont to cloak the official live things have been discarded, and the quietest thing heard about the grounds was the dull thud of castoff gum shoes as they hurtled through the windows and fell to the asphalt about a mile away.

"Statesmen who used to think they had to be able to do the 220 yard hurdles in a minute in order to run through the guardians who kept them away from the presidential ear can now give up their athletic training.

"For Charles Dyer Norton is on the job, and things are looking up."

Shows Tact Early.

Another evidence of his tact was the affair in which Congressman Francis Burton Harrison of New York was excluded from the Jewish delegation which saw President Taft regarding Russian massacres. Mr. Taft declined to see Mr. Harrison, one of the delegation's sponsors, because of criticism of the Ballinger case. So while the congressman was summoned to Mr. Norton's office the Jewish visitors were ushered into the president's office, ignorant of the complication.

If the former assistant secretary of the treasury maintains this success he may reach higher honors, as several of his predecessors have done.

For instance, Daniel S. Lamont, who was secretary to Grover Cleveland, was later made head of the war department.

George B. Cortelyou, who was secretary to McKinley and later secretary to Roosevelt, was made the head of the department of commerce and labor. He was subsequently made the head of the postoffice department and later secretary of the treasury. From there he graduated to a lucrative position as president of the Consolidated Gas company in New York.

Mr. Cortelyou was succeeded as private secretary by William Loeb, Jr., who has now become collector of customs of New York city and is being much mentioned for governor of New York.

Sidney was walking on the beach with his Uncle John when his uncle told him that if he could find two pebbles exactly alike he would give him a dollar. Full of glee, Sidney began searching. By and by he ran to his uncle crying, "Oh, Uncle John, I've found one of them!"—Delineator.

A Crowd Assured.

"Can't we have our marriage celebrated quietly, dear duke?"

"You mean wizout ze gr-r-reat crowd?"

"Yes."

"I'm afr-r-raid not. My creditors are quite sure to find us out, and every one weel be zere!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer

NEW JERSEY YOUTH SOARS OVER HUDSON

He Experiences Considerable Difficulty In Effecting Landing

New York, June 15.—Another manbird has loomed up on the horizon, this time in a dirigible balloon. Fred Owens, a 20-year-old aeronaut of Belleville, N. J., brought business to a virtual standstill in lower Manhattan by suddenly appearing in his airship, flying across the Hudson river and then attempting to land his craft in City Hall park.

Owens found that landing had its elements of hazards as well as those of flying. His dirigible became unmanageable in a vagrant air current between the city hall and the county courthouse, and the framework of the gas bag bumped a chimney on the courthouse, bending the frame and putting the propeller out of business.

Owens threw out a rope and tried to land, but the gas bag shot upward and the dangling rope eluded a crowd of onlookers, the aeronaut and his unmanageable dirigible floating away in the direction of Brooklyn.

Owens concluded his flying venture when his airship landed in a shade tree in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn. Owens lowered the anchors, which caught in the branches of the tree and ladders were raised to take off the aeronaut.

HAS SUBSTANTIAL SUPPORT

But Bill to Abolish Jewish Pale Will Not Be Passed by Douma

St. Petersburg, June 15.—The bill providing for the abolition of the Jewish pale, which has been introduced in the douma, has no chance of enactment. Its introduction, however, shows the strength of the element which favors giving the Jews the right of unrestricted residence in Russia.

It is signed by 165 members of the opposition in the legislative body with which originated the present anti-Hebrew campaign. The total membership of the douma is 440 and accordingly the measure has the support of more than one-third of the chamber.

Corporation Tax Postponed

Washington, June 15.—Senator Cullum offered a resolution providing for postponement of payment of the corporation tax until Jan. 1, 1911, in view of the fact that the constitutionality of the tax is now before the supreme court.

Were Lost at Sea

Louisburg, N. S., June 15.—Two fishermen, James Lennox and John Music, arrived here from Little Lorrain, which they managed to reach in dories from the American schooner Blanche. They had been adrift and lost at sea for six days.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Strawberry Ice Cream. One quart of strawberries, one pound of sugar; one quart of fresh cream is required. Put half the sugar and half the cream in a double boiler over the fire; when the sugar is dissolved stand it aside until very cold. Stem and mash the strawberries ,add the remaining half of the sugar and then stand aside for one hour. Then press them through a colander. Add the remaining half of the cream to the sweetened cream that is now very cold; turn it into the freezer and freeze moderately stiff. Then add the berries; turn the crank evenly and moderately until the mixture is again frozen, rather hard. Remove the dasher, smooth down the cream, repack and stand aside for one or one and a half hours to ripen.

Fruit Biscuits. Take five cold baking powder or soda biscuits, cut each into three slices and butter each slice. Place bottom slice of each biscuit in a separate dish, pour over it any juicy small fruit, boiling hot and sweetened. Arrange the other layers alternately with fruit, lastly pouring fruit and juice over the top and around each. Serve hot or cold, with or without cream.

Cheese Rice. Boil one cup of rice in two quarts of water until tender; drain, shake hard, stand at back of range ten minutes to dry. Add one tablespoonful butter, four tablespoonfuls of grated or cream cheese and a dash of cayenne pepper. Stir well and serve hot.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

JUDGE CLEARS LYMAN SCHOOL

Inquest Report Declares That Newman Committed Suicide

TESTIMONY AT STATE HOUSE

Master of School Tells of Finding Boy After He Escaped and of Locking Him Up In Lodge Where He Was Found Hanging Next Morning—Testimony Regarding Punishment Given by Former Inmates

Boston, June 15.—John Newman, 14 years old, whose alleged suicide has resulted in a legislative investigation of the Lyman school for boys, was alone responsible for his death, and nobody else contributed in any way to it, according to a report filed at Worcester by Judge Fowler of the Westboro court. Fowler was given charge of the inquests following the death of Newman on June 7.

The parents of the boy claimed that he died of corporal punishment inflicted by officials of the school. Because of these charges the legislature instituted the investigation now in progress.

The special legislative committee will probably ask for more time and for authority to report to the governor and council. It is felt, on one hand, that prorogation should not be delayed because of this investigation, and, on the other, that, having once started on an investigation, this inquiry should be pushed to the bottom.

William C. Morton, master at the Lyman school from 1902, testified Tuesday. He described the escape of Newman on June 6, the search that was made for him and the fact that he and two other officers found the boy at night at a street railway transfer station. On the car going back to the school Morton asked Newman why he ran away. His answers were senseless and unsatisfactory, said Morton.

When they arrived at the school he put Newman in the Lyman hall lodge, taking the key from the watchman at the administration building, with the understanding that he would call for it later. The cot in the lodge had sheets. He had Newman disrobe and get into bed; then bade him good night. That was the last time he saw him alive.

Morton said that he saw Newman's body on June 7. It was back to, with a sheet about the neck, fastened to the top of the door. The feet were dragging on the ground, but the knees did not touch. The right side of the face was resting on the grating. He did not examine the body closely.

How boys are whipped with birches, beaten with heavy rubber hose, punched in the face, kicked, cuffed, made to go without food at the Lyman school was told by former inmates.

James Levy declared: "I was whipped, punched and made to sit against a post for an hour at a time. If I tried to get to my feet they were kicked from under me and I fell to the floor.

"At one time I was forced to go without my meals just because I whispered. Once in the playfield when I talked too loudly an officer knocked me down and kicked me. At another time I was put in a little room and handcuffed to an iron bar for seven hours. I was given no meals.

"We were whipped with a piece of garden hose about two feet long and an inch in diameter and the lowest number of blows received was twenty. On one occasion I saw a boy come in who had been whipped and the blood had dried on his back where he had been cut by the hose. I have seen boys punished by having their ears pulled. I have seen a man punch boys at least a dozen times a day."

"I had every punishment that was given to boys at that place," told Henry Silver. "I was whipped every other day for a week one time. They always beat me on my bare skin. I was beaten so hard once that when I rubbed soap over my bruises to wash them it felt like I was using a scrubbing board."

MELLEN IS STRICKEN

Veteran Member of Massachusetts Legislature Is Close to Death

Worcester, Mass., June 15.—Representative James H. Mellen was stricken with apoplexy at his home here and is not expected to live. He has served eighteen years in the legislature, and few men are more widely known in politics or in labor circles in the New England states.

Mr. Mellen is 65 years of age. He was born in Worcester. From the outset of his career he was an active and enthusiastic labor organizer.

ALL EUROPE LAUCHED AT T. R. CARTOONS

World's Record For Publicity Set During Royal Visits and Hunt.

Praise and Derision as Freely Mixed as In United States.

Many Opportunities For Caricatures During Colonel's Travels Ignored.

WHETHER Theodore Roosevelt is the apostle of publicity his enemies claim or as insensible to criticism as he averred in Egypt, the comments and caricatures of the European journals must have interested him between speeches, royal luncheons and the other phases of his spectacular caracole since he emerged from the deserts of Africa.

If the first theory is true, then a great feeling of gratification must encompass the mind of the hunter. On the other hand, assuming the colonel to possess the impenetrable hide of one of his quondam rhino friends, he must marvel at the inability of some Europeans—as well as some Americans—to grasp his mission in life.

Never has any human being attracted the attention of special writers, editorialists and cartoonists in Europe as has T. Roosevelt. They knew him before he arrived, but found their stock of subjects useless in view of the steady run of incidents which their visitor presented as up to date substitutes.

Some Praise, Some Deride.

Like their brethren of the United States, the European cartoonists were sharply aligned in their treatment of Roosevelt. There were those who seriously promulgated the idea that here was a great preacher of truths before whose logic even the crowned heads of the old world bowed. And there were also those who laughed to scorn the same addresses as "emphasizing the obvious," a more genteel rendition of the claim of sundry Americans that Roosevelt was gravely informing the world "that two and two make four."

Yet the carieaturists across the sea failed to grasp some glorious opportunities for displaying the ex-rough rider, teeth, boots et al. Those gaps were largely filled in America, yet place the total of incidents depicted by the opportunities manufactured by Roosevelt and the latter is seen to have exceeded the capacity of the cartoonists. The accompanying correspondents recorded a world of side lights that would appall the average man of the colonel's age; but, of course, the average man probably does not possess what the mighty hunter at Oxford termed "the fighting edge." Also the average man does not want it.

That first week at Khartum was a busy one. It was here the newspaper men had their inning, the colonel having copyrighted his hunting adventures, and they dashed into the breech.

A brief resume of the unusual incidents abroad may not be amiss, as it precedes a certainty of violent exercise in his native America.

Rides Camel and Sees Sphinx.

'Twas in the Sudanese capital that Roosevelt rode a camel, compared it to the broncho and thought he would prefer a rhino. He won the British and angered the Egyptians by his praise of the conquerors' methods. He communed with the sphinx by moonlight, the result, like subsequent European conversations, not being for publication. He told the editors how to muckrake and smiled dentally when the mob of Cairo shrieked. "Down with the false one!" He congratulated visiting Americans that "not a lion had done his duty," but submitted to wearing yellow shoes, the badge of an infidel, when he visited a Mohammedan mosque.

During the now historic ruction in Rome Colonel Roosevelt was made to feel at home by several continental editors, notably Maximilian Harden of Berlin, who said of his career since he left the presidency, "A carnival of bluff, bluster and limelight calculated to make the press agent of a Caruso hide his face for shame and envy."

The newspapers scored one victory when they spoiled the second Italian honeymoon of the Roosevelts, and he was affected by the wrath of King Victor Emmanuel's children when he failed to bring a menagerie to the palace.

The matter of naming a street for him in Porto Maurizio was a mere incident, much less than the unrevealed talk with Gifford Pinchot there. He called the Duke of the Abruzzi a "trump," as a matter of course, and received the Emperor Francis Joseph's salutation of "my great friend" in the same spirit.

Even Risks His Toes.

His courage stood the test when a fancy rider of the Austrian army rode his horse around and over the T. R. toes, and he did not reprove Count

Roosevelt's Talk In Berlin.

The duties of a citizen of a constitutional monarchy as seen by Kladderadatsch artist:

"My Lords and Gentlemen—In the first place, this citizen must possess the proud self consciousness that on him rest individual rights supported by popular representation. But he must also show such self sacrifice as only a loyal disposition is capable of."

"In strenuous manner he must, in words of thunder, defend before the throne his individual opinions."

"But, on the other hand, he must be animated by a warm feeling for the established royal house in order to make a proper appearance of humility before those with divine rights."

"As a citizen of a constitutional country he should be elevated above petty demands, toward the recognition of higher things."

"Still, he should preserve a little place upon his otherwise monarchical heart whereon a few blessed marks of honor and decorations can find room at any time."

Mr. Roosevelt Lecturing Europe.

London Punch pictures the American ex-president as "instructing" the crowned heads of Europe.

Apponyi at Budapest when he was described as "the most efficient agent in our time in advancing the moral regeneration of nations." He submitted to the indignity of having an Arabian filly named for him and soothed himself by driving a four-in-hand from the Hungarian royal stud. Then he received a tentative offer of the Hungarian crown from the crowd without comment.

Calls Ambassador "Bob."

France furnished a few incidents. To show that fair Harvard was still dear to him the colonel greeted Ambassador Bacon with "Hello, Bob!" from the car window on his arrival in Paris and bore President Fallieres' toast of "the friend of France and of peace" with equanimity. Visiting the tomb of Napoleon and the dungeon which once held Marie Antoinette was an incident.

Frederic Masson, editor of Echo de Paris, undertook to jar the colonel as follows: "The violent quest for publicity, mapped out as if by a manager promoting a tourist agency or illustrated journal, bootblacking parlor or new quack medicine, makes one think Roosevelt is rather a pupil of Barnum than a disciple of serious and virtuous republicanism."

In addressing the Sorbonne the traveler was accused of immodesty in saying, "In a republic the quality of the ruler is all important, but we the the rulers," while other editors called his language "that of a Hercules at the door of the Augean stables."

The Belgian trip was mild, but in the land of his forefathers, Holland, the colonel sang an old Dutch lullaby and then showed that the "malefactors of great wealth" were still in his mind by saying, "If the rich maintain an arrogant attitude in their relations toward those less well off they may expect the dreadful day of judgment."

Fails to Find Ghost.

In Denmark he walked with Hamlet the walls of Elsinore, looking in vain for the regal ghost to "speak to it though hell itself should bid me hold my peace." On receiving a degree he heard himself referred to as having "already left earth and residing on Olympus with Jupiter and Apollo," and as "a rushing human engine," the chancellor closing by saying it "was difficult through the clouds of smoke to discern whether he is a winged angel or a modern devil with claws."

The adventures on the Scandinavian peninsula were limited to a cup of tea with King Haakon of Norway and the addition to the Ananias club of ex-Premier Knudsen for his too liberal construction of Roosevelt's admonition to "tell it (conservation idea) to any one you like," which the statesman announced as an indorsement of his policies.

Then the German invasion and the mysterious confabulations of the kaiser and colonel in which both hammered tables and otherwise gesticulated. Despite the death of his uncle, Edward VII., the kaiser held a review for his visitor, showing him 12,000 of the flower of the fatherland and significantly saying, "You know, you are the first private citizen to review a German army." Yet the next day the recipient made his host perspire visibly while awaiting his arrival in full uniform at the University of Berlin. This was the occasion when the professors slept during the colonel's degree speech.

Sees Cowboys and Kings.

Despite the death of Edward, England did well by Roosevelt. Though mixing with royalty and in the hands of King George's throat specialist, T. R. found time to shake hands with United States Marshal Seth Bullock of South Dakota, though the cowpuncher was attired in frock coat and silk hat, and to take tea with Dr. Osler.

Though the baseball season was in full blast, the colonel took a shot at American football and also its critics before the Cambridge students by "hoping to see football changed to draw the teeth of the mollycoddles who are always clamoring for the abolition of any manly game."

In effect he revived an old favorite in "fish or cut bait" in telling England how to run Egypt and permitted Lord Curzon at Oxford to poke fun at him in Latin thusly:

Before whose coming comets took to flight
And all the Nile's seven mouths turn pale with fright.

AVIATION HITS BALLROOM.

"Airship Glide" May Succeed Long Popular Twostep.

Members of the United Professional Teachers of Dancing at their annual convention at Chicago declared the "aviation dance" or the "airship glide" will become more popular than the waltz or the twostep.

"In dancing now," said a lecturer before the convention, "people hop too much. They ought to glide. They wiggle too frequently. They ought to float."

AN UP-TO-DATE STOVE

Do you realize there is no longer any reason why you should use a coal range? Oil is cheaper than coal; it is lighter and easier to handle, and gives an intense heat. Provided you have the right stove, oil is more economical, cleaner and less trouble. Have you seen the

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove

The accompanying illustration gives you only a rough idea of its appearance. You really can't appreciate it until you either use it yourself, or talk to someone who has used it. It does everything that a coal range will do—except heat the room. The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove will do anything, from heating a kettle of water to cooking a course dinner, but it won't heat a room. It doesn't "smell," it doesn't smoke. It can't get out of order. Light it and it is ready. Turn it down and it is out. Only a woman who knows the trouble of carrying coal and cooking in a hot kitchen can appreciate what it means to have a clean, perfect stove that will cook anything, boil, bake or roast, and yet won't heat the kitchen. How is it done? The flame is controlled in turquoise-blue enamel chimneys, and directed against the bottom of pot, pan, kettle or oven, and only there. The flame operates exactly where it is needed—and nowhere else. With this stove your kitchen is cool.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The nickel finish with the bright blue of the chimneys makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

ATTRACTIONS FOR PICNIC

West Quincy Has Long List of Sports

The committee having in charge the grand outing of the Ward Four Improvement association at Elcock's grove, Braintree pond, on the holiday say all that is needed to make the affair a grand success is good weather. At 9 o'clock Friday morning there will be a band concert at Brewers corner, and half an hour later a line of march will be taken through several of the streets of West Quincy to the depot where cars will be taken for the grove.

Special cars will leave West Quincy at 10.25, 11.25 and 12.25, and Quincy Adams at 10.45, 11.45, and 12.45.

During the morning there will be a list of field events that will include the following:

100 yard dash for men.
Fat man's race for men.
Sack race for men.
Three-legged race for men.
100 yard dash for boys.
Potato race for boys.
Sack race for boys.
Three-legged race for boys.
50 yard dash for girls.
Potato race for girls.
Spoon race for girls.
Raisin race for girls.

Valuable prizes will be given in each event.

Between 1 and 3 o'clock there will be a clam bake, and a select line of eatables served by some of the prettiest girls in West Quincy.

The grand event of the day is the game of ball between the Copeland club and Mike Kiley's colts, known as the "Pride of the Rail," for a purse of $50.

FIREWORKS LICENSES

How About Those Granted Under the Old Law?

The article in Tuesday's Ledger, containing the information that hereafter under the new law, permits to sell fireworks will be issued by the Chief of the Fire department was received with some surprise. It was generally known that the Legislature had passed a new law, but it was not generally understood what it provided.

Aside from the fact that the Chief Engineer is the one who now issues the permit, the question is puzzling some people about the licenses already issued this year by the City Council. There have been several of these issued, and the parties have paid their $2. Now they want to know if that gives them power to sell fireworks, or if they will have to get an additional permit from the Chief Engineer and pay fifty cents more for it.

Some people think that the city should refund the $2 paid, but that is probably impossible without an order passed by the City Council as the money paid has passed into the general receipts of the City Treasurer.

Under the reading of the law and the regulations of the district police, nothing is said abou what shall be done with the fifty cents received by the Chief for issuing the permits. They imply, however, that the fee is retained by him for his trouble.

Sharing His Bed.

A Grub street friend of Dr. Johnson's was Derrick, of whom he wrote, "I honor Derrick for his strength of mind." One night when Floyd, another poor author, was wandering about the streets he found Derrick asleep upon a bulk. Upon being suddenly awakened Derrick started up "My dear Floyd," said he, "I am sorry to see you in this destitute state. Will you go home with me to my lodgings?" And they turned in on the bulk together like the good fellows they were.

A Modest Request.

An impeccably dressed gentleman the other day when walking along Piccadilly felt a movement in his pocket and, clapping his hand thereto, seized the wrist of the thief. He drew forth the erring member, and, looking at it with supreme disgust, he released it, saying, with a grimace of disgust, "For heaven's sake, my good man, go and wash your hands before you put them in a gentleman's pocket again!"—London Tatler.

GRANITE CITY LEAGUE.

The Granite City League met last night and proceeded to what business had arisen. Owing to a mishap the name of Murray Kerr, a Fore River player, was omitteed from the published list of names, and it was voted that he be accepted in the league regardless of this.

One of the advisory board having joined a team of the league he was removed, and E. A. Gisburne, of the Daily Ledger, elected his successor.

Two of the umpires selected have given the greatest satisfaction, but the third has failed to appear at his games, and an effort will be made to replace him.

Only pleasant weather is needed that the team may play the games scheduled.

Consul King David.

This amusing anecdote of Lamartine is related by the Baroness Boude in her volume of letters. Shortly after the revolution of February he wrote on the blank leaves of his pocketbook the names of his proteges and sent the list to be provided with places immediately. Previously, however, it seems, he had scribbled "David" on the page, and the head of the cabinet appointed the said David consul at Bremen. The postulant, however, never came forward, and, though the poet did not like being disturbed, M. Hetzel was obliged to ask who was the David on his list.

"He who danced before the ark," was the answer.

"Oh, dear! I have gazetted him to Bremen!"

"How very singular! I meant him for a subject for meditation, not for nomination. But you can cancel it."

The monlteur registered the change, but few knew that the last consul appointed to Bremen was King David!

Language of Switzerland.

It is a curious fact that the people most celebrated for love of country should in a manner be without a language—that is, a mother tongue. The Swiss have three official languages—German, French and Italian. About three-fourths of the population of the mountain confederation speak German, while the remainder divide four other languages among them, chiefly French and Italian, these languages being found, as a rule, in districts in close proximity to the countries wherein those languages are the principal tongue. In Switzerland documents and notices are printed in both the French and German languages. In the national assembly members deliver their speeches in either French or German, for nearly all members understand both tongues. The decrees and proclamations of the president are translated by an official interpreter and furnished to the press in both languages.—New York Press.

TOO MUCH WORK HURTS PITCHERS

Examples of the Folly of Being "Iron Men."

WALSH'S CASE IS CITED.

Chicago American Star Having Trouble With Salary Wing—Twirlers Are Foolish to Work In More Than Fifty Games a Season.

Does it pay to be an "iron man" in baseball? This question is now being asked on the big league circuit. Many twirlers think it a great honor to pitch fifty or more games a season or two, but in doing so ruin their salary arms. The most recent case is that of big Ed Walsh, the star pitcher of the Chicago Americans.

In 1908 Walsh was the "iron man." He pitched sixty-six games, winning forty, losing fifteen and tying one. What did spitballer Ed do last season? Not very much. He won fifteen and lost eleven games. That record does not compare favorably with that of the previous year, does it? Recent reports say that Walsh's arm is giving him considerable trouble and his career in the majors is short. Of course nobody can correctly prognosticate what Walsh may do later in the season, but if he again pitches star ball he can be regarded as more or less of a marvel. He is close to that in physique now, but the salary arm of the major league baseball pitcher is an entirely separate piece of mechanism from the rest of his constitution.

As the baseball world is aware, an "iron man" is one who can work at least four games a week and be ready to act as the main stem in a double header in between if any are carded to be played. The "iron man" must be always willing to unloosen some of the steel in his arm for the benefit of his club.

Joe McGinnity used to be the best "iron man" in the business. He could pitch a double engagement today and go in and wheel again tomorrow. And he used to win the majority of his games. That's why he was regarded as the best "iron man." Joe did his most superb work when McGraw was erecting pennant poles at the Polo grounds. This was over five years ago. Too many "iron man" entertainments made him lose his National league effectiveness. Now he is managing the Newark club of the Eastern league and pitching once or twice a week.

The "iron men" of the newer baseball era are no longer "iron men." Jack Chesbro, leading pitcher of the American league in 1904, is farming today on a big homestead in New England. Jack is done for so far as the use of his big league arm is considered. He is not beset with any financial worries, because he saved a great deal of what he made in the days of success, but the fact that it was Jack's steady pitching that enforced his retirement from baseball cannot be gainsaid. In 1904 Chesbro was the meat and bone of the New York Yankee pitching staff. He would have pitched that club into a championship but for an unfortunate slip of his spitball at the psychological moment in the last and deciding game of the season.

After the momentous campaign in 1904 Jack was pretty near ready for his baseball obituary, although he essayed to pitch until 1908.

Last year Harkness, now with the Cleveland Naps, gunned sixty-five games for Portland in the Pacific Coast league. As a member of McGuire's contingent he did not show any better than many minor pitchers who graduate and not nearly as good as some.

"Stoney" McGlynn worked in sixty-four games for Milwaukee last year. In nearly every game he has pitched since the opening of the present American association race he has been peppered by opposing batsmen. "Stoney" worked too hard in 1909.

The Eel, 2:02¼, In Fine Condition.

The Eel, 2:02¼, that wonderfully fast and consistent Canadian owned pacer, is reported to be in grand condition, and his friends are predicting a record of two minutes or better for him this year.

TYRUS COBB'S DEBUT.

"Duckey" Holmes Tells of Famous Player's First Big Game.

William ("Duckey") Holmes, manager of the Toledo team in the Eastern league, is one of the veterans of the game who has been in the limelight for the last decade and a half.

In that time experience has given Duckey many set views on the acts of ball tossers and the qualifications which they have to be successful. Duckey has a fund of dope stored away in his cranium which he gathered during his sojourn about the country, and one story which he likes to tell is that relating to Ty Cobb's debut in the American league.

"I played in the first game in which Ty Cobb participated in the major leagues," declared Holmes the other day.

"It was in 1904. He had just joined the team and was playing center field, and I was in the left garden for the Chicago White Sox. You never saw any one in your life who had stage fright worse than Cobb.

"He faced Doc White, one of the best left handed peggers that ever worked in a box. Doc shot them over fast and mixed them up. He struck Cobb out four times. After the game while we were in the bus going back to the hotel I said to Fielder Jones, manager of the White Sox at that time, 'That Cobb kid handles himself in fine style.'

"'Yes, he looks good,' said Fielder, 'but he can't bat.' Every one joined in the chorus, 'Naw, he can't bat.'"

LARGE CLASS GRADUATED AT THE WOODWARD

Rabbi Charles Fleischer Speaks on Individuality and the Importance of Ideals

A Rich Musical Program Given by Pupils of School

A delightful program was presented at the graduating exercises of the class of 1910 at the Woodward Institute on Wednesday evening, including instrumental music by members of the graduating class, choruses by the school, and an address by Rabbi Charles Fleischer of Boston.

The platform was enlarged for the occasion, and was made attractive with a background of green. There was a border of green enlivened with a few daisies along the front. Overhead was suspended the class motto in large gilt letters and a red background—"Live pure, speak true"—and the portrait of Dr. Woodward the founder was entwined with green.

The seating capacity of the hall was taxed to its utmost when the school marched in promply at 8 o'clock. The following musical program under the direction of Mr. John D. Buckingham was first presented:

Violin, 'Cello and Piano
Adagio, Allegro con spirita C Bohm
Miss Ruth Keating, Miss Dorothy Alexander
Miss Nellie Drummond
Chorus: O that we two were maying
Gounod
Violin solo: 7th Air de Beriot
Miss Ruth Keating
Chorus: Bridal Chorus Cowen

All the numbers were very pleasing, the instrumentalists being accomplished, and the chorus well trained.

The address of Rabbi Charles Fleischer was one of the best ever delivered at a Quincy graduation. He had looked over the program, he said, for a class prophecy, usually given on these occasions, but had found none unless it was the "Bridal Chorus." The speaker was thankful the date had been set in advance of the arrival of the great traveller, as he would engross all the time next week. The theme was "Individuality" but there were perplexities in facing women. He hoped, however, that the graduates would realize that humanity was greater than feminity. Our day and our land mean something different than other lands. The speaker said he never lost the opportunity to emphasize the importance of the life of the individual to the great mass. It was a great honor to be a descendant of soldiers of the Revolution, but a greater privilege to be an ancestor than a descendant.

It was important to have ideals, and schools like this promote idealism. Life is full of disappointment, and brings all kinds. Very, very few things in life are worth while, but one needs ideals to arouse enthusiasm. From individuality for things worth while, we go to eteranl things. All America is an ideal. There is evolution of the race, and the past is continually eclipsed by the present. You are becoming a more consecrated part. As you live up to the words of your class ode in bidding farewell to Woodward you will do your duty to Woodward and your community.

Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, the chairman of the board of directors, spoke briefly before presenting the diplomas. He emphasized the importances of discipline of mind. It was that which counted not the degrees.

A list of the graduates follows and as each name was read there was applause:

Gertrude Fay Baker
Marjorie Seelye Gould
Dorothy Quincy Alexander
Dorothy Grace Bean
Clara Beatrice Brown
Harriet Frances Burns
Helen Margaret Callahan
Mary Ethelreda Cook
Synthia Elizabeth Curtis
Mabel Ellen Dorlay
Nellie May Drummond
Teresa Edwards
Marie Winifred Goodhue
Ruth Anna Keating
Catherine Helen Laing
Gertrude Ursula Larkin
Lillian Engeborg Lindberg
Marion Lawrence Moorhouse
Mary Caldwell Murray
Katherine Clare O'Neil
Corine Eleanor Samuelson
Gertrude Annie Shaw
Bertha May Smith
Bertha Marie Vendret
Emma Eaton Walker
Alice Louise Waterhouse
Ruth Augusta Winslow

The "class ode" written by Marie Winifred Goodhue, was not sung, but Rabbi Flerscher quoted it in full. The words are:

As we bid farewell to Woodward
Joy and sorrow strangely blend,
Now through other scenes and pathways
Each alone her way shall wend.

Many pleasant ties have bound us,
Bright and gladsome is the past,
Mem'ries sweet will linger round us
As our thoughts we backward cast.

Vast and untried is the future
Open are its portals thrown,
Shall we find success or failure?
Time will answer—Time alone.

Fall we may—oft have the bravest,
We must rise and start anew,
Thus at last may we, dear Woodward,
Pay our debt of love to you.

Principal Plummer invited all interested to inspect an exhibit of drawings at the close of the program. These were very creditable to the school and Miss Georgiana Lane the special teacher, including designs, charcoal sketches, colored work, and antique work from the statue of Venus.

This evening the Class of 1910 will hold a reception at Woodward hall.

MANY PLANS FOR SCHOOLHOUSE

An Unusually Large Number of Sketches Submitted

Thirteen or more sketches for the proposed new eight-room school building at Montclair were submitted to the School Committee by as many architects on Wednesday evening. A special meeting of the School Committee has been called for tonight at which time the various plans will be considered.

ALL INTERESTED IN CAMPAIGN.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church gave a social in the vestry of the church on Water street, Wednesday evening, the proceeds to be added to the fund for the remodelling of the church. The first of the evening was occupied by an entertainment by the little girls and boys of the Sunday school. Everett Bissett spoke a greeting. The quartet followed with a song. Beatrice Boggs recited and was followed by Beatrice Medlin, who sang a solo. The chorus gave a selection. Everett Bissett again recited, Annie Medlin and Ethel Kerr sang a pretty duet and sixteen little girls brought the evening's entertainment to a close by a very pretty doll drill and song. After the entertainment the Rev. J. A. Matheson spoke on the campaign the parishioners had started to raise money wherewith to remodel the church, and congratulated the teams on the showing they have made. At the close of the evening ice cream and cake were served. The entire affair was very enjoyable.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Follows Marriage of Louis J. Walters and Miss Mahoney

Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock in St. Mary's parochial residence, Louis James Walters and Ella Gertrude Mahoney of Barry street, daughter of Mrs. Mary D. Mahoney, were married by Rev. Fr. Henry Grady pastor of St. Mary's church.

The groom is a contractor, a large property owner of Dorchester, and the builder of the interior of St. Mary's church, while Miss Mahoney was for years identified with the granite industry of Quincy, and has always been an active worker in the Sunday school and choir of St. Mary's church while popular with old and young.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Louise Hylande Mahoney, as bridesmaid, the best man being Joseph Walters of East Milton, a brother of the groom.

The bride was charming, her gown being an elegant creation of imported white Lehr lace over ivory messaline with pearl ornamentations, and was exquisitely delicate and beautiful. She carried a shower boquet of lilies of the valley and wore a pearl brooch, a gift of the groom. The bridesmaid's gown was of pink messaline with beautiful picture hat of white, massed with pink sweet peas, while she carried a shower boquet of pink sweet jeas. She wore a sapphire pendant, the gift of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the brides home, and at 8 o'clock the reception of the friends of the couple began continuing until 10. They were assisted in receiving by their parents and bridesmaid. About one hundred and fifty attended reception which was a brilliant affair. The house decorated with honey-suckle vines, laurel and roses. After nine o'clock a light collation was served to the guests. Distinguished among these were Hon. William T. Shea, Rev. Henry Grady and Rev. W. H. Duffy.

The ushers were Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien, Mr. Edward D. Larkin, Mr. Thomas J. Shortle, Miss Sarah E. Monahan, Miss Mary Ethel Burns, Miss M. Josephine Grignon. The reception was certainly one of the most brilliant events of the year.

The bridal couple have gone to Atlantic City, New Jersey for two weeks and upon their return will occupy their newly built home at 62 Crescent street, West Quincy, where they will be at home after Sept. first. The beautiful new house is Mr. Walters gift to his bride.

It was night. They—he and she—were sitting on the porch, looking at the stars.

"You know, I suppose," he whispered, "what a young man's privilege is when he sees a shooting star?"

"No," she answered. "I haven't the slightest idea. There goes one."—Chicago Tribune.

FIREWORKS REGULATIONS

Many Will Be Unable to Obtain Necessary Permit

Here are some of the rules and regulations made by the District police regulating the keeping and sale of fire crackers and fireworks by retail dealers that should be born in mind:

Section 38. From June 10 to July 10, or during such part of the time as the permit may cover, any official designated to grant permits may, in his discretion, require any person holding a retail permit to keep fireworks for sale to keep a competent person in front of his store during business hours to prevent any one from entering therein with a lighted cigar, pipe or cigarette, and to take such other precautions against fire as may be possible.

Section 41. All fireworks kept in retail stores, excepting toy torpedoes and single paper caps, shall be kept in boxes with tightly closed covers until delivered to purchaser or while such fireworks are kept on the premises.

Section 42. No permit shall be granted to keep for sale at retail any fireworks or firecrackers in any building used in part as a tenement, lodging or apartment house, or used in part for school or factory purposes or where people are accustomed to assemble.

Section 43. No smoking shall be allowed about the premises where such sales are permitted, nor shall any person expose any of said firework or firecrackers for sale outside of the walls of a building, nor in any door or window, and safety matches only shall be sold or used on such premises.

Section 44. No torpedo larger than three-fourths of an inch in diameter shall be kept or sold. Torpedoes must be packed with sawdust in paper cartons and these in wooden cases.

Section 45. All persons to whom retail permits are issued shall place and keep in a convenient part of the premises where fireworks or firecrackers are kept for sale at least 6 pails of water to be used in case of fire.

Section 46. All premises for which said permits are issued must be lighted by gas or electricity, where such conveniences are to be had, and such lights must be protected with glass or wire globes or screens.

WELCOME HOME.

Many friends of J. Frederick Johnson of Gothland street, were at the South station in Boston Wednesday night to welcome him home, after an absence of three years in Eureka, Utah, where he is employed. After attending Harvard college, Fred went to Utah where he obtained employment as civil engineer, and has held the position since. During his vacation of a month he will be pleased to meet his old schoolmates and friends. He will be remembered as a pupil of Adams Academy.

ENTHUSIASM AT GRAMMAR GRADUATION

Friends of Class from Each Building Liberal in Their Applause

Address by By Commissioner Orr And Good Music

The annual graduation exercises of the Quincy grammar schools was held this afternoon at High school hall and as usual the attendance was limited to the capacity of the hall. The parents and friends of the pupils who had been fortunate enough to secure tickets began to arrive early, and when the hour for the exercises to begin arrived every available seat had been taken. The platform was reserved for the invited guests who included the members of the school board and city officials.

The march in of the different school classes was as usual and interesting feature. As each class entered with slow measured tread, the leader bearing aloft the school banner, it was greeted with a round of applause. In addition to the banner each pupil wore a ribbon bow of school colors.

As usual music was an interesting feature of the exercises. Numbers were given by the combined schools under the direction of Clarence J. Fouche, the director of music, with Miss Bertha F. Estes as accompanist. The music was grand and inspiring and reflected great credit upon Mr. Fouche. The salute to the flag was given with a ring that caused a wave of patriotism to surge through the heart of every one present. The exercises closed with "America" and the march out of the pupils.

The exercises of the afternoon opened with music and were followed by a few introductory remarks by Supt. Albert L. Barbour, who gave a few statistics of the graduating classes.

The address of the afternoon was

The Seventeenth of June will be generally observed as a holiday in Metropolitan Boston, and the office of the Daily Ledger will be closed all day Friday. No paper will be issued.

SLEEPING IN CHURCH.

"Charles," said old Mrs. Spreckles to her husband, "I'm so ashamed of the way you go to sleep in church Sunday after Sunday that I don't know what to do. I can't hardly hold my head up and look the people in the face after the services. You are such a devoted man on week days that I don't see why you show so much disrespect for sacred things on the Sabbath."

"Theres no disrespect intended," answered Mr. Spreckles. "I am like the little boy next door. All week he loks forward eagerly to the Sunday auto ride his uncle gives him. It is the crowning event of the week to him. Yet he goes to sleep invariably before he has ridden a mile, and he doesn't wake up until it is all over. Because Willie goes to sleep is no sign that the ride is not doing him any good, is it?"

THE PATRIOT.

Susan Coolidge.

He serves his country best
Who joins the tide that lifts her nobly on;
For speech has myriad tongue for every day,
And song but one; and law within the breast
Is stronger than the graven law on stone;
There is a better way.
He serves his country best
Who lives pure life, and doeth righteous deed,
And walks straight paths, however others stray,
And leaves his sons as uttermost bequest
A stainless record which all men may read;
This is the better way.

MAY LOSE CAVALIERI

Paris Rumor Has It That Chanler Engagement Is Broken

Paris, June 16.—It is rumored here that the engagement of "Bob" Chanler of New York and Mlle. Cavalieri has been broken off.

Chanler, who is staying here at the Grand Hotel, would neither affirm nor deny the rumor.

"I don't know a blessed thing about it," he declared in an interview, "and surely I would be the first to know. You ask Cavalieri about it; she has been ill; threatened with appendicitis, and obliged to cancel her contract with the Buenos Ayres opera house."

Her Fault.

The teacher in charge of the primary department at a school in West Philadelphia was talking the other day about her work and her pupils.

"They are dear youngsters," she said, "but they sometimes make curious remarks. Several times I have had occasion to reprove a little boy who isn't bad, but who is very mischievous and annoying. He is always getting into trouble and making a disturbance.

"One day he had been more than usually uproarious, and I was very tired. Instead of scolding or punishing him I began in rather an exasperated tone to talk to him.

"'Tom,' I said, 'I'm afraid I'm never going to meet you in heaven.'

"He looked up with the most shocked face. 'Why, teacher,' he said, 'isn't that just too bad? What have you done?'"—Philadelphia Times.

Made Him Feel Old.

"What's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing much."

"But you look as if you had something serious on your mind."

"Well, if you insist on knowing, a boy who was named after me has just become engaged to be married. How time flies!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

Consecration Ceremonies at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery

(Historical Paper No. 20)

The preparation of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, opened in 1854, had become so far advanced in the fall of 1855, that the committee deemed it ready for the sacred ceremony of consecration, which it was decided should be on the first day of November, 1855, but not without considerable opposition.

The advent of the Know Nothing Party, (so-called,) in 1855, a secret political organization, whose avowed principles were strongly anti-Catholic, and who swept the State and town like a whirlwind for two or three years, electing their offiers with large majorities, revived in a most bitter and hostile manner a strong opposition to the Catholic. So powerful was this antagonistic sentiment at this time, that a large majority of the committee on the Mount Wollaston Cemetery were opposed to its consecration, as it was a Popish custom and ought not to be tolerated. Notwithstanding this opposition, the minority of the committee concluded to have the ground consecrated and abide the consequences. Many were so prejudiced in their views that they openly declared that the granite gateway ought to be demolished because it had a cross carved upon it, and one of the leaders of this faction was a member of the Board of Selectmen.

The order of exercises at the consecration November 1, 1855, was as follows:—

1. Invocation, by Rev. D. L. Gear.
2. Hymn

"To thee, O God, in humble trust,
Our hearts their cheerful incense burn,
For this thy Word thou art of dust,
And unto dust shalt thou return.

"And what were life, life's work all done,
The hopes, joys, loves' that cling to clay:
All, all departed, one by one,
And yet life's load borne on for aye!

"Decay! decay! 'tis stamped on all,
All bloom it, flower and flesh shall fade;
Ye whispering trees when ye shall fall,
Be our long sleep beneath your shade.

"Here to thy bosom, mother earth,
Take back in peace what thou hast given,
And all that is of heavenly birth,
O God, in peace, recall to heaven."
—Pierpont.

3. Introductory Remarks, by William S. Pattee.
4. Prayer, by Rev. W. W. Dean.
5. Address, by Rev. Nelson Clark.
6. Hymn.

"Home of the coming dead!
The spot whereon we tread
Is hallowed ground:
Here earth, in sacred trust,
Shall hold their sleeping dust,
Until her bonds they burst,
And rise unbound.

"Here shall the weary rest,
And souls, with woes oppress'd
No more shall weep;
And youth and age shall come,
And beauty in her bloom
And manhood, to the tomb;
Sweet be their sleep!

"Around their lowly bed
Shall flowers their fragrance shed
And birds shall sing;
On every verdant mound
Love's offering shall be found,
And sighing trees around
Their shadows fling.

"And there's a holier light!
Hope, with her taper bright,
On every tomb,
Points upward to the sky,
There every tear is dry,
There is no mourner's sigh,
Nor death, nor gloom."

7. Benediction.

The place selected for the exercises was under the old buttonwood tree, near Maple avenue in the cemetery. The day was a beautiful one, and nature had attired herself in the fulness of her crimson autumnal beauty; the gentle southerly wind made the out-door exercises agreeable and pleasant.

The first lots were sold at auction, for the right of choice, May 5th, 1856. Numbers 370 and 546 were the first disposed of, and the Hon. Charles F. Adams was the purchaser, at five dollars each. Mr. Holt, No. 322, at six dollars; Mr. Hall, No. 16, at six dollars; Mr. Dow, No. 240, at five dollars and fifty cents; Mr. Whiting, No. 15, at six dollars; Mr. Cudworth, No. 270, at five dollars and fifty cents; Mr. Flint, No. 271, at five dollars and fifty cents; Mrs. Boltenhouse, No. 169, at seven dollars. These were all the lots sold at this time.

It was found in 1870, that the lots in the new cemetery had nearly all been taken up, and that an addition to it was required to meet the increased demands for interments. This led the citizens to call a town meeting September 20th, 1870 to consider the question of enlarging the ground. It was found at this meeting, after a candid consideration, that an extension was immediately demanded. In accordance with this fact the town voted unanimously to make the addition, and a committee was chosen to directly surround it with a proper enclosure, and prepare the ground for burials. This was accomplished in about one year, increasing the number of lots from 577 to 1,007.

It appears by the action of the town that infive years time from the last extension the ground had become too limited for burial purposes, as a committee was chosen to consider the expediency of annexing the almshouse land, on the opposite side of the street, to the cemetery; also to report whether the provisions in this gift of land to the town by Mr. Coddington had been complied with. We have been unable to find that the committee has ever reported on the question.

Since the publication of Pattee's History in 1878 several additions have been made to the grounds toward Greenleaf street and beyond. It now comprises over forty acres and extends from Sea street to Merrymount road, a distance of 2000 feet, and along Sea street for nearly 1500 feet.

LEGISLATURE PROROGUED

Large Number of New Laws Enacted by Bay State Solons

Boston, June 16.—The great and general court of 1910 prorogued at 9:30 last night. One of the most important acts of the legislature in its last moments was the passage of the bill providing for the validation of the securities of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. The Boston Railroad Holding company preferred stock bill was also enacted and signed.

In the house there was a boom set on foot by Representative Callahan of Boston for Speaker Walker as the candidate of the Republican party for governor next year.

The work of the session is represented by the passage of 659 acts and 164 resolves. Of these Governor Draper approved 651 acts and 158 resolves. He vetoed three bills and one resolve and allowed eight bills and two resolves to become law without his signature.

Last year there were enacted 543 acts and 144 resolves.

LITTLE HAIR; MUCH FAITH

The editor of a popular newspaper recently printed a modest receipt for making the hair grow; he did not guarantee, however, that it would absolutely do what he claimed for it. Notwithsanding, the hair-growing recipe appeared to have struck a popular chord. Hope seemed to have "sprung eternal" in the breats of the bald-heads, also in the breasts of everybody with thin hair. "Little hair; much faith," nominated one and all! Meagre hair is the one subject about which most men are sensitive. In spite of everything they feel that polished heads were not meant to be eternally thus; that somewhere beneath the surface the hair is lying only waiting for the proper call to rise. A man may be a confirmed hypochondriac. Everything may go wrong with him and the world. He may have rheumatism, lumbago, and a half dozen other diseases. He may be expecting each or all of them to carry him off any minute. He may walk enveloped in gloom. But do not be deceived. That man believes in the utmost possibilities of hair. The night is never so dark that he cannot forsee the dawn of hair. His unconscious creed is, "Hair can be grown." Rheumatism, liver trouble, heart disease may be ready to take him away. But no power exists to take away the possibility of hair from his living, breathing pate. Take a cynical, skeptical sort of man. He may deny everything. He may take a particular pleasure in shocking other people's faith. He may deny the existence of public honor or private virtue. He may be the very incarnation of negation, the fruit and flower of skepticism, a paladin of doubt, a questioner of all things high and low. But when it comes to hair—his absent hair—how great the change! He believes that if only the proper combination can be found his intellect will once more be crowned with tufted beauty. No certainty, of course. But still a possibility—even a strong probability. Wonderful things have been done in the way of restoring absent hair. A man is foolish to doubt the evidence. It is too strong to be lightly put aside. He will not—cannot do it. Great, great and mysterious is hair! Present, it is a protection and a joy. Absent, the very nurse of hope and faith and patience. We may not fathom the secret of its power and influence. We can only see and note and wonder.—Boston Courier.

JUSTICE MOODY

Retirement on Salary Is Proposed by Lodge

RETIREMENT FOR MOODY

Bill In Senate to Relieve Him From Duty With Full Pay

Washington, June 16.—Senator Lodge introduced a bill permitting Associate Justice Moody of the supreme court of the United States to retire from office with full pay, notwithstanding he has not served ten years nor is he 70 years old, as required by existing law. Moody's health is given as the reason for the proposed act.

It is believed that the bill will be passed before adjournment so that President Taft can fill the vacancy in time to have a full quota sitting on the supreme bench to pass upon the Standard Oil, tobacco trust and the corporation tax cases which are to be heard at the fall term.

CRASH OF LOCOMOTIVES

Both Reduced to Scrap Iron and Freight Fireman Is Killed

Bennington, Vt., June 16.—A misunderstanding of orders resulted in a head-on collision on the Rutland railroad north of the South Shaftsbury station, in which one man was killed and two were severely injured.

The collision was between a southbound freight and a light engine. The locomotives were both reduced to scrap iron.

Fred Coffman, fireman of the freight, was instantly killed; Thomas Mangan, freight engineer, was injured internally, and Louis Greenough, engineer on the locomotive running light, was badly mangled.

STILL TALKING ON GUILDHALL SPEECH

Dalziel Thinks It Bad In Manners, Taste and Policy

London, June 16.—Theodore Roosevelt was sharply attacked in the house of commons for his Guildhall speech on the Egyptian policy of the British government. Following a speech by Sir Edward Grey, in which he expressed approval of what he termed "Roosevelt's interference in Egyptian affairs," Sir Henry Dalziel arose in condemnation of Grey's remarks and declared Roosevelt's course to be "a dangerous innovation."

Continuing, Dalziel said: "British ministers did not go to New York and make speeches on America's management of the Philippines. Roosevelt's speech was bad manners, bad taste and bad policy."

Both speakers were freely applauded.

TO HOLD SUMMER SESSION

Lyman School Investigators Ask For Autopsy on Newman's Body

Boston, June 16.—The special legislative committee investigating the death of John Newman of Cambridge at the Lyman school, and also the treatment of the boys held at the institution, mailed a demand to District Attorney Taft of Worcester county that public sentiment and public interest required that John Newman's body be exhumed and an autopsy performed.

The committee is to hold sessions during the summer, when the whole system of Lyman school correctional methods will be considered, together with the effect of the punishments upon the boys. This is in accordance with an order passed by the house yesterday.

Connaught to Open New Parliament

London, June 16.—The Duke of Connaught will go to Cape Town to open in November the first parliament of the Union of South Africa. George V was slated to go there when his father's death elevated him to the throne.

Regency Bill Names Queen Mary

London, June 16.—Premier Asquith introduced in parliament a regency bill, nominating Queen Mary as regent in the event of the Duke of Cornwall reaching the throne before his majority.

WATCH PORTS FOR PORTER CHARLTON

Police Think He Knows Something About Wife's Murder

Como, Italy, June 16.—What appears to be well founded reports to the effect that Porter Charlton is still alive caused the police officials to send out requests to the authorities at different ports to watch for a man of his description.

The search of Lake Como, where the body of Charlton's wife was found in a trunk a few days ago, is still being continued.

It has been learned that Charlton wrote on June 6 to the Russian, Ispolatoff, who is under arrest, that he and his wife were leaving for the Riviera. On the same afternoon he went to the postoffice and made inquiries as to steamers leaving for America. The letter he sen to Ispolatoff contained no postage stamp, and this is taken as an indication that he was strangely agitated when he sent the letter.

Mrs. Charlton's body was buried yesterday in a grave near the villa in which she met her death.

EXPLOSION OF FLOUR

Demonstration of the Harmful Effects of the "Bleached" Process

Kansas City, June 16.—The contents of a bottle, said by government attorneys to have contained bleached flour, exploded during the progress of the flour case here, startling jurors, attorneys and spectators.

It was while Professor Acree of the chemistry department of the Johns Hopkns university was on the witness stand that the contents of the bottle exploded.

"What caused that?" asked an attorney.

"The formation of nitrogen peroxide gas in the flour," answered the professor. Decomposition as well as bleaching would cause gas to form in flour, explained the witness. On cross examination Acree admitted that there were nitrates in air, rainwater and melted snow.

POINTERS ON POLITICS

Lodge Will Give Them to Roosevelt at the Latter's Home

Washington, June 16.—Theodore Roosevelt's purpose to learn at firsthand, at the earliest possible moment, the latest details of men and things in the United States, will be assisted by the inclusion of Senator Lodge in the cabinet party which will go down to quarantine on the Dolphin tomorrow afternoon.

The boat will bear also Secretaries Meyer and Wilson, Captain Butt, the bearer of a personal message from President Taft to Roosevelt, and Nicholas Longworth, Roosevelt's son-in-law. This party will take precedence over all others assembled to greet the former president.

Sunday morning, by special invitation, Lodge and Longworth will breakfast with Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill, where a general discussion of the legislative and political situation will take place.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

Two meetings of the senior class have been held the past week. Monday Leon Brown, the treasurer, reported about $240 in the treasury. The class gift committee was unable to choose the class gift for the school until after the publication of the last Goldenrod. As soon as the proceeds from the sale of the paper were learned the committee would make the selection of picture immediately. The class reception committee are making every possible effort that the reception may be successful. They have decided to change to Merrill's Orchestra.

By vote of the class the members who have failed to pay their dues were given another opportunity Tuesday, so they might not be debarred from the reception. After speaking concerning the dues, Headmaster Howlett made an announcement of the tickets to the hall on graduation night. He said that probably four tickets would be granted to each Senior. The tickets will be numbered so that the seats may be reserved. Two of the four tickets will be for seats in especially desirable parts of the hall on order that the father and mother of the graduate may have as good seats as possible. In order there be no misunderstanding the sets of tickets will be drawn by lot. Thus no one can complain concerning his alottment of tickets. Tuesday and Wednesday the class is to report at the school for rehearsals. A member of the class will be chosen to act with President Theodore Corey as marshal to lead the class as it enters the hall. If possible without too much confusion the diplomas will be presented as the class marches across the platform.

Miss Molly Brown has been presented with a two volume set of the "Cloister on the Hearth," and Miss Bass a set of Scott for their untiring efforts in the preparations for the Senior dramatics.

* * *

Wednesday tickets for the reception were given out. Each Senior who has paid his class dues received five. The invitations are very tastefully prepared. It will be remembered the class motto is "Possunt quia posse videntur." At the reception, Marion Hicks will be the prophetess and Gordon Jameson the historian.

* * *

The speakers at Graduation will be Grace DeWolfe, Mary Cleveland, Richard Favorite, Alfred Hanson.

The Graduation exercises will close with the singing of "To Thee O Country."

* * *

The Seniors have finished their recitations but the undergraduates will attend Monday and Tuesday.

* * *

Report cards will be given the last day of school.

* * *

Rain prevented the playing of the Hingham game on Friday. At this game, had the weather been fair, the players who had been dropped from the nine because of smoking would probably have been reinstated.

* * *

The Waltham game scheduled for for yesterday was cancelled.

Monday the players on the baseball nine went to Nerses to have a picture taken of the nine.

Rain prevented the meet planned with Melrose High school. It has been decided to hold the meet the coming Saturday, June 18. Quincy High should win with the capable men it can rely upon. Last year's meet resulted in a victory for Quincy High. While Melrose has been able to conquer in football, baseball, and basketball, it has not yet surpassed the track team.

Tuesday the Seniors received their class pictures.

The last edition of the Goldenrod appeared Tuesday. On the front page is a picture of the Golden Rod editorial staff of 1910. In the picture are editor-in-chief, Grace DeWolfs; literary editor, Alfred Hanson; alumni and exchange editor, Mary Cleveland; local editor, William Northrop; athletic editor, Theodore Corey; business manager, Roy L. Sidelinger; also Miss Marion S. Chadbourne, teacher of English, who has carefully supervised the preparation of the manuscript and insured a high literary tone throughout the entire paper.

The Golden Rod prizes were awarded as follows: First prize, Charles Sayward, 1910; second prize Ralph Ford, 1910; honor prize, Margaret Tubman, 1911; poem, Lewis Coombs, 1910.

* * *

The editors of the Golden Rod deserve much praise because of the success of their efforts this year. Three editions have been published, each with a high order of excellence.

* * *

Manager Blackmur, 1911, the efficient assistant manager of the football team has already booked seven games for the football schedule. He is making a record for early dates. They are as follows:

Cambridge Latin at Quincy, Sept. 27.
Weymouth H. S. at Quincy, Sept. 30.
Abington H. S. at Quincy, Oct. 7.
Revere H. S. at Revere, Oct. 11.
Brockton H. S. at Brockton, Oct. 14.
Hingham H. S. at Quincy, Nov. 11.
Dorchester H. S. at Dorchester, Nov. 19.

* * *

No school today or tomorrow for the undergraduates, as today is the Grammar school graduation and tomorrow the holiday.

* * *

The college trial examinations have ended.

The Seniors as a whole joined the music class Tuesday in preparation of graduation music.

* * *

On the evening of graduation the three rows of seats in the centre, back of the chorus, will be removed so as to give room for the piano. With this provision, the chorus and the Senior class can face the same way. In former years the chorus and Senior class have faced each other. Thus the best musical effects have been prevented.

* * *

The baseball season has been successful. Out of thirteen games, nine have been victories and four defeats. Three of the defeats by a very narrow margin.

* * *

There seems to be promise of a good base ball season next year, as but four players graduate this year.

VISITING NURSE.

The Conference of Visiting Nurse committees held at the Quincy Women's Club house on Wednesday afternoon brought together a group of women earnestly engaged in directing one of the most important philanthropic movements of modern times.

Mrs. William Ward Whitcher opened the meeting with a graceful welcome to the visiting delegates and then introduced Dr. Middleton as the first speaker of the afternoon, saying that the success of this work in any community depended upon the cooperation of the physicians.

Dr. Middleton spoke convincingly of the value of our visiting nurse's work saying in particular that our local committee had chosen its nurses wisely, and that all work done had been well done. The district nurse is an interpreter and teacher for the attending physician among foreign population, demonstrating to them the proper way of dressing wounds, the treatment of septic sores and, most important of all, the daily care of mother and child for the first few weeks after confinement. Dr. Middleton hoped the work here might be enlarged by establishing a second nurse for obstetrical cases only, saying that the need of such a nurse was daily becoming greater in our city. He advocated the establishing of school nurses in every city, saying that their work was invaluable in raising the moral, physical and mental tone of the public school. That the district or school nurse should be carefully selected as the importance of her work made it necessary that she should be intelligent, patient, sympathetic, high-minded and at all times command the respect of her patients.

Other speakers were Miss Emily C. Fisher of Norwood, chairman of the Health Commission of this county, Mrs. Harold Fales and Mrs. Frank Fales, also of Norwood and Mrs. Williams, chairman National Health Department of the general federation. In the short time devoted to questions and discussion, neighboring clubs were well represented by their delegates, the Brighthelstone in particular, having sent the President, chairman of the Visiting Nurse committee, and the nurse herself, who gave an interesting outline of her work in Brighton and Allston.

The afternoon brought out many interesting points, first of which was "necessity of the visionizer"—one capable of making her vision plain to the workers who are ready to make it practical, the value of co-operation in this work betweent adjoining sections, the advisability of the district nurse's interest in the anti-tuberculosis movement, that she report the conditions of all cases coming under her observation while in the discharge of her other duties, the proportion of free attendance in the different sections, one half being the maximum. In the districts where the proportion was lowest, it was of value to note that the work was largely obstetrical nursing, where mothers of growing families were able to hire competant help for household work, during this time, while the daily visits of the district nurse gave the mother and baby the best of professional care. Norwood with 10,000 inhabitants supports three nurses, obstetrical nursing being most important. One nurse in one month has made 500 visits. The smallest number for one day being eight, while twenty-eight was the largest number, and the average calls for the year has been about three thousand. Watertown with 12,000 inhabitants supports one nurse and needs another. By cocparison, it would seem a small matter for Quincy with 30,000 inhabitants, to support more than one nurse, and, as Miss Robinson, our own nurse said, in her "few words from the nurse's standpoint," there is every opportunity to broaden the work here.

In the closing minutes of the meeting, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney added a word of the great basic principal underlying all philanthropy today, the desire that the poorest may receive the same loving care as the wealthiest, and that humanity may be "one in helpfulness" to relieve suffering.

There were many expressions approving the first conference and a general desire that yearly or half yearly meetings may be held in the future. During the closing social half hour refreshments were served being in charge of Mrs. Hazen E. Riker and Miss Almira Simmons Mrs. N. S. Hunting and Miss Simmons served frappee assisted by Mrs. Alexander Hill and Mrs. Joseph Sheahan.

Delegates were present from Brookline, Arlington, Waltham, Watertown, Medford, Bridgewater, Melrose and the Brighteistone clubs.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

Miss Helen Richards the Bride of Carl T. Humphrey

At the Union Congregational church, East Braintree, Wednesday evening, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends from far and near, Miss Helen Avis Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Richards of Front street, Weymouth, became the bride of Carl Thomas Humphrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Humphrey of East Weymouth.

The church was brilliantly lighted throughout and beautifully decorated in laurel and green. Promptly at 8 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bridal procession consisting of the four ushers, flower girls, two bridesmaids, maid of honor and the bride leaning on the arm of her father entered the church. They were met at the altar by the groom and best man, Frank Charles Starr of Washington, D. C., where the bride, given away by her father, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. Robert H. Cochrane, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Emery L. Bradford of East Weymouth.

At the close of the ceremony, a reception was held, the happy couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Humphrey and the attendants.

The bride was charming in ivory white panne satin with point venice lace and pearl trimmings and she carried bride roses. Her only ornament was a beautiful hand wrought gold necklace, a gift from the groom.

Miss Emma Frances Harris of Weymouth, cousin of bride, was prettily gowned in pink messaline with opalescent trimmings, while the bridesmaids, Miss C. Margaret South and Miss Susan A. Humphrey, wore creations of white net over silk. The little flower girls, Martha Hunt Whittle and Mildred Draper Richards were little visions of loveliness.

The ushers were Messrs N. Atherton Richards of East Orange, N. J., brother of bride; Henri Gibeau of Villanova, Penn., Everett Gardner and Leighton Voorhees, both of Weymouth.

At a late hour, amid a heavy shower of confetti and best wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey left for Philadelphia, which will be their future home. Both were popular and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

The wedding gifts were beautiful and costly, consisting of cut glass, silver, china, bric-a-brac, etc.

The Languages of Paradise.

Every language has its admirers. In "Lucile" the author, Owen Meredith, maintained that when he heard French spoken as he approved he "found himself quietly falling in love." Edward Hutton is another instance of this lingual fascination. In stating his preference in his enchanting "Cities of Spain" he recalls an interesting mediaeval legend. He says:

"And as I listened to the splendid syllables of the Castilian tongue that rang eloquently through the twilight I remembered the saying of that old Spanish doctor of whom James Howell tells us in his 'Instructions For Forraine Travell'—to wit, that Spanish, Italian and French, these three daughters of the Latin language, were spoken in paradise; that God Almighty created the world in Spanish, the tempter persuaded Eve in Italian and Adam begged pardon in French."

MOTOR SLEDGE MAY END TRIALS OF POLAR QUEST.

Scott Antarctic Expedition Seeks Icy Goal by Aid of Novel Modern Invention.

The most pertinent feature of the British antarctic expedition under Captain Robert Scott, which sailed recently and expects to reach the south pole in December, 1911, is the motor sledge.

Captain Scott admits that the main object of his expedition is to "reach the south pole and obtain for the British empire the honor of that achievement." In an interview on his plans he said:

"The problem of reaching the south pole from a wintering station is one of transport. The distance to be covered there and back is about 1,500 miles. The time at disposal in a single season is about 150 traveling days. An average of ten miles a day can be easily maintained by men, provided adequate transport arrangements are made.

"There are three means by which the traction for heavy sledge loads can be provided—viz. ponies, dogs and motors—and each must be considered not only with regard to capacity of work, but also with respect to the changes in the nature of the track.

"The motor sledge is a new development and bids fair to become the most promising means of polar transport. As a result of two years' experiments a motor sledge has been evolved which has undergone satisfactory trials on the snows of Norway. A motor was taken on Mr. Shackleton's recent expedition, and it is instructive to note that it was found possible to run it in the lowest temperatures. Its use on a prolonged journey was prohibited only by the fact that its wheels were not sufficient to support it on the soft snow of the barrier.

"The plan for the journey to the south pole from King Edward VII. Land includes the use of the three means of sledge traction described. Ponies will be taken in sufficient numbers to insure a thoroughly adequate amount of food being taken to the base of the glacier, a dog team with a relay of men will transport the loads over the glacier surface, and a picked party of men and dogs will make the final dash across the inland ice sheet."

The motor sledges have stood satisfactory tests on the snows of Norway, made by Captain Scott himself. Under the runners of the sledge passes an endless chain fitted with spuds and patterns. The appearance of the sledge in motion is very curious. The chain, where it touches ground, appears to stand still while the sledge passes over it. This in fact is what actually takes place, the upper chain traveling forward at twice the speed of the sledge. The wheels do not touch the ground. The British government recently granted $100,000 for the expedition.

BURIED TREASURE GOOD "AD"

London Nearly Torn Apart Seeking Sir George Newnes' Gold.

The recent death of Sir George Newnes, proprietor of the Westminster Gazette, founder of the company owning Tit-Bits and the Strand Magazine and donor of the international chess trophy bearing his name, will recall to many the "buried treasure" method by which he advertised his publications in London a few years ago.

It was announced that a tube containing 500 sovereigns had been buried in some secret place, the clew to which was contained in a story published in the Strand. The resulting excitement can be imagined. All England was turned upside down. Then came the announcement that another deposit of ten lots of £100 each had been made.

Something in the story seemed to point to Trafalgar square as the place where the treasure was buried, and the police had to be called out to stop the eager treasure hunters. Houses were pulled down, shops invaded by persons who insisted that they be allowed to burrow under the floors, and traffic was held up while the gold crazy horde measured off distances with tapes.

Finally it looked as if they might tear down the Nelson column. It was then that the police intervened and put a stop to the plan, but the Newnes publications had already gained a tremendous amount of free advertising.

Compass "Boxing" Unnecessary.

A new compass that registers only true north has been adopted by the hydrographic office of the United States navy. The new device will make it unnecessary for modern navigators to learn to "box" the compass, one of the first tricks seamen have had to learn in the past centuries.

Loves Cats More Than Husband.

That thirty-two cats his wife owned slept and ate all over the house and finally broke up their home is the charge of Dr. Robert A. Pierce of Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Pierce has brought suit for separate maintenance, and the evidence in this unique case has just ended.

The Hat Straw Crop.

The greater part of the straw employed for making summer hats comes from Italy. To obtain a suitable straw for this purpose the wheat is sown as thickly as possible in order that the growth of the plant may be impoverished as well as to produce a thin stalk. The Italian wheat blooms at the beginning of June and is pulled up by hand by the roots when the grain is half developed. Should it be allowed to remain in the ground a longer time the straw would become too brittle for the purpose for which it is grown. Uprooted straws to the number of about five dozen, the size of the compass of the two hands, are firmly tied together in little sheaves and stowed away in barns. After that the straw is again spread out to catch the heavy summer dews and to bleach in the sun. When the product has been sufficiently bleached it is put into small bundles and classified. The last step is to cut it close above the first joint from the top, when it is again tied up in small bundles containing about sixty stalks each and is then ready for the market. —Harper's Weekly.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell of Washington street have leased a cottage at Adams Shore for the season.

The store of R. E. Foy & Co., will be open this evening but will be closed all day tomorrow, that employees may enjoy the holiday.

Charles H. Hardwick will entertain the Pickwick club on the Seventeenth of June at Point Allerton, at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Hardwick.

The Seventeenth of June is not a State holiday but is a Boston holiday, and is observed in Metropolitan Boston. Busines will generally be suspended in Quincy tomorrow. The Daily Ledger will not be issued.

Two Quincy young men received the degree of bachelor of laws at the Boston Y. M. C. A. Evening Law school on Wednesday evening: William Everett Howe, Jr., of Bigelow street, and James William Sweeney of West Quincy. There was a class of 58 graduated, the degrees being conferred by President Samuel C. Bennett. The address of the evening was delivered by ex-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr.

"ORIGINAL PACKAGE" MILK

Boston Dealer Questions Legality of Board of Health's Rule

Boston, June 16.—W. A. Graustein of the Boston Dairy company has sent a letter to all of his customers in this city stating that he intends to test the legality of the new milk regulation as laid down by the Boston board of health.

This rule is to the effect that this fluid and cream must be sold by dealers in separate receptacles, and not out of coolers or cans.

Yesterday the "original package" regulation of the board went into effect, having been postponed from May 1 until June 15, in order to give the milk dealers an opportunity to procure the necessary cans and jars. Milk can no longer be sold in any receptacle other than sealed ones, as prescribed by law.

Love at a touch will alter,
Love at a nod will stay,
But armies cannot alter
One hair-breadth of his way.

He trembles at a rose-leaf,
And rushes on a spear,
A thorn-prick and he shows grief,
But Death he cannot fear.

He follows shadow faces
Into graveyards unawares,
He reaps in sterile places
And brings home sheaves of tares.

One tear will heal his anger;
He will wait and watch all day;
He scoffs at toil and danger,
His last crust gives away.

He will strip off his raiment

CANNOT FIGHT IN CALIFORNIA

Governor Puts Veto on the Johnson-Jeffries Battle

ATTORNEY GENERAL WILL ACT

Has Received Orders From Gillett Not to Allow Meeting For Championship Honors—Said to Have Doubts About Contest Being Conducted "on the Square"—Ministers' Alliance Also a Factor In the Matter

San Francisco, June 16.—The Jeffries-Johnson fight will not be held in this city on July 4. Neither will it be held anywhere in the state of California.

This announcement was made by Attorney General Webb in confirming a report current for several days that Governor Gillett would not permit the battle to take place. The attorney general said he would carry out the governor's orders not to allow the men to meet.

It is not yet known what the fight promoters will do, but it is believed the battle will be transferred to Salt Lake City unless Jeffries kicks over the traces and refuses to fight at all.

Governor Gillett said: "I have instructed Attorney General Webb to stop the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and I shall expect him to do so." The attorney general said he would take the necessary steps at once.

The action of Gillett was not unexpected. He was quoted by a Chicago newspaper on his recent eastern trip as saying that he believed the fight to be a "fake" and "frame-up." The interview was subsequently declared to have been authorized, but the governor has never said that he did not use the expressions attributed to him.

It is understood that he made them while in conversation with a friend and never expected them to be made public.

The governor did say, however, that the laws of California did not forbid the fight and as long as they did not he would hardly act.

Pressure brought to bear by the Ministers' Alliance and the better class of political leaders is understood to have caused the change in his attitude.

Jeffries was sore when he first heard of the accusation of faking and it is regarded as almost certain that he will refuse to go any further.

It is reported that the promoters will appeal to the courts for a writ of injunction to prevent any interference.

Tex Rickard, promoter-in-chief of the big battle, when informed of the governor's action, said:

"If Governor Gillet has stated he will not permit us to handle the Jeffries-Johnson fight in this state, that settles us. We will not attempt to buck him nor bring down the militia upon us. I shall order work stopped on the arena at once and take the fight elsewhere. I prefer Salt Lake City, but Reno and Ely, Nev., will also receive consideration."

The statement of Rickard was seconded by Jack Gleason, his partner.

NOW UP TO THE JURY

Many Lawyers Hear Speeches For and Against "Big Bill" Keliher

Boston, June 16.—Before a courtroom filled with leading members of the bar, final arguments in the case of William J. Keliher, charged with aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the looting of the National City bank of Cambridge, were concluded yesterday.

In a brilliant invective speech, Counsel Coakley for the defense charged that George W. Coleman was shielding someone in the bank who was a party to the robbery.

In a no less forceful argument, District Atorney French declared that the conviction of Keliher would be the first step to rid the country of a gang of sharpers, blacklegs and swindlers which was a menace to the financial interests and the moral welfare of the home.

PREACHER SUES SANDFORD

Seeks to Recover Money Which He Gave to the "Kingdom of Maine"

Lynn, Mass., June 16.—The "Kingdom of Maine," the society at Shiloh, of which Rev. Frank W. Sandford, known as "Elijah II," is the head, was defendant in a suit heard before Attorney Gorman as master.

The plaintiff, Rev. Ira Case, sues for $1725, which he alleges that he gave to the society while a member of the colony.

Sandford is missing, but his assistants, Rev. Charles E. Howland and Rev. Willard N. Gleason, testified that when a person becomes an inmate of the hilltop "House of the Hundred Fold" at Shiloh he is obliged to surrender all his possessions.

A DOG IN THE SKY.

Tibetan Explanation of the Cause of an Eclipse.

Every one has heard of the Chinese myth explaining an eclipse and the enormous dragon that stalks through the sky seeking to devour the sun. But the Tibetan legend is a little different and very interesting as described by Sven Hedin in his "Trans-Himalaya." After describing the eclipse and the terror and depression with which it was received he says:

Then I visited Hlaje Tsering with the corner pillars of my caravan. He sat at his lacquered table drinking tea and had his long Chinese pipe in his mouth.

"Why is it that it has just been so dark?" I asked him. "The gods of the Dangrayumtso are angry because you will not allow me to visit their lake."

"No, certainly not. A big dog roams about the sky and often conceals the sun. But I and the lama Lobsang have prayed all the time before the altar and have burned joss sticks before the images of the gods. You have nothing to fear. The dog has passed on."

"Very fine!" I cried and made a desperate attempt to explain the phenomenon. Robert held up his saucer to represent the sun, and I took two rupees to represent the earth and moon crossing each other's orbit. Hlaje Tsering listened attentively to Muhamed Isa's translation of my demonstration, nodded approvingly and finally expressed his opinion that this might do very well for us, but that it did not suit Tibet.

Meteors.

There is one very interesting fact connected with meteors that have struck the earth. Hundreds of them have been examined and found to contain animal remains—that is, the very lowest forms of life. This indicates that they are parts of a world that burst into fragments long, long ago. What a thought—a world broken up and scattered through space! Maybe we had another moon once, but that broke into pieces and these are the pieces, and maybe they are parts of the planet that once revolved between Mars and Jupiter. Over 500 of the larger pieces of this planet have been discovered and catalogued. One of these flew away inside of Mars' orbit. Why may not many of the smaller pieces and these solid meteors be they? It is probably so.—Columbus Journal.

The Way to Float.

This is the advice of an old swimmer to those who cannot swim: "Any human being who will have the presence of mind to clasp the hands behind his back and turn the face toward the zenith may float at ease and in perfect safety in tolerably still water. When you first find yourself in deep water you have only to consider yourself an empty pitcher. Let your mouth and nose and not the top of your heavy head be the highest part of you and you are safe. But thrust up one of your bony hands and down you go, turning up the handle tips over the pitcher." There are reason and logic in this.

Dense.

One day the teacher asked her class to write an essay on London, about which they had just been reading. When examining their papers later she was surprised to read the following:

"The people of London are noted for their stupidity."

"Where did you get that from?" asked she of Maggie Jones.

"Please, miss, it's all in the book. It says 'the population of London is very dense.'"—London Answers.

Props.

"My dear brother," said the clerical looking man, "are you doing anything to keep your brother from falling?"

"Why, yes," was the reply. "I'm interested in a concern that manufactures lampposts!"—Boston Courier.

Do good to thy friend to keep him, to thy enemy to gain him.—Franklin.

Gunpowder and Artillery.

There is abundant evidence that the origin of gunpowder and artillery goes far back in the dim ages of the past. The Hindoo code, compiled long before the Christian era, prohibited the making of war with cannon and guns or any kind of firearms. Quintus Curtius informs us that Alexander the Great met with fire weapons in Asia, and Philostratus says that Alexander's conquests were arrested by the use of gunpowder. It is also written that those wise men who lived in the cities of the Ganges "overthrew their enemies with tempests and thunderbolts shot from the walls."

Artful Innocence.

"I wish I was a moth," was the enigmatical declaration made by a young married woman to her husband.

"Why?"

"Because I should be able to get into some new clothes!"

THIRST DRIVES HIM TO COVER

Phelps Is Trapped When He Begs Farmer For Water

CAPTURED BY GAME WARDEN

Says He Tried to Surrender to Two Militiamen and Had Called to Pursuers During Man Hunt—Killing of Sheriff Was Not Intentional, According to His Story—Does Not Appear to Take Arrest Seriously

Monroe Bridge, Mass., June 16.—Declaring that he had been trying to surrender since Tuesday afternoon, Silas N. Phelps, slayer of Deputy Sheriff Emmett F. Haskins of Charlemont, is locked up in the Franklin county jail.

His capture yesterday afternoon near the Plumb place closed the man hunt on the Monroe mountain that began Sunday.

Phelps says that he scared two militiamen by coming upon them suddenly recently. Before he could offer himself for capture they took to their heels. Frequently during the hunt for him he had called to his pursuers, but they paid no attention to him.

Phelps' capture was due to the bravery of Dennis F. Shea, a fish and game warden employed by the state. As a reward for his nerve, Shea will get the $500 offered for the capture of Phelps by the selectmen of Charlemont.

Charles Thompson accompanied Shea into the thicket where Phelps was lying in hiding, and stood ready to shoot Phelps if Shea could not subdue him.

Phelps had lost his nerve, and through unexplainable foolhardiness caused his own arrest. After four days and three nights in the woods, without food and water and aware of the armed men surrounding him, Phelps gave thirst and hunger as his reason for surrendering.

Phelps took his arrest as a boy would who had been caught playing truant from school, and began joking his captors on the way he had outwitted them. The only time he showed any feeling was when, after he had been fed and given water, he asked to see his family.

His request was granted, and those who saw the parting between the man and his faithful wife and children shed tears.

As he was being led out of the thicket Phelps said that he had no intention of killing Sheriff Haskins when he shot at him Saturday night. He said he would not have done it for a thousand dollars, if Haskins had not pulled a gun on him.

Later he said his finger was on the hair trigger of his shotgun and, when he dodged to escape the bullet he expected from Haskins' revolver, his own gun went off and he saw Haskins fall.

It was about 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning when 15-year-old Louis Tower ran into Camp Ballou and told of having seen "Si" Phelps near the potato patch on the Plumb place.

Captain Flower with a squad of militia ran to within 100 yards of the thicket and started to get in back of Phelps. Deputy Warden Shea and Deputies Pratt and Bridges went into the fringe of the woods in front and waited for the sound of Phelps' voice to guide them to his location. In the field at work was Nathan Tower, whom Phelps had asked earlier to go for water.

When Phelps first appeared he was at the edge of the woods, and called to Tower: "Nate, I'm Si Phelps. Go get me some water. I'm dying of thirst."

Nate started off for the house, as if to grant his request, and told his nephew to run to headquarters. The capture of Phelps followed an hour and a half later.

Prayers Failed to Cure

Chicago, June 16.—Death caused by a rattlesnake bite ended nearly a week of torture endured by Oliver Pugh, formerly an alderman in Zion City. True to the teachings of his creed, Pugh refused to take medicine, relying upon prayers.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

AT THE BOSTON THEATRES

TREMONT THEATRE.

Like Tennyson's babbling brook, "The Girl in The Taxi" with Carter De Haven, seems destined to run on forever. This rollicking and laughable French farce, so admirably adapted by Stanislaus Stange, is now well on its way toward its hundredth performance and the indications are that it will round out two centuries before the public of Boston and the neighboring towns permit it to depart from their midst. The complications and laugh-producing situations in "The Girl In The Taxi" are too numerous to mention. They defy description. One must pay a visit to the Tremont theatre to get any adequate idea of the quantities of mirth aroused by play and players. The rise of the first curtain is the signal to relase the brakes and from the first introductory speeches laughter holds the reins and drives at a speed-defying pace over hills and dales of hilarity. Carter De Haven is supported by a cast composed entirely of star-players. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees are extremely popular, especially with out-of-town patrons.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Sensations are following each other in rapid succession at Keith's these days, where with Madam Chung still a popular idol another comes in Lillian Lawrence, the favorite stock actress, who was for years at the old Castle square and since headed her own companies in Boston. She will be seen in an entirely new comedy written especially for her, entitled "A Reno Divorce," and thousands of her friends will no doubt welcome her during her engagement at Keith's. Another Boston favorite on the bill is Ralph Smalley, cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra. For the children there will be an exceedingly strong feature in Captain George Auger and company in "Jack, the Giant Killer." Other features of the bill will be Ray Cox, "the girl who made baseball famous" Howard and Howard, "the messenger boy and the thespian"; and a number of star attractions yet to be announced.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The opera season at the Castle Square begins on Monday with Gilbert and Sullivan's favorite Japanese opera, "The Mikado," which always has been more than popular with Bostonians. It was in this piece that Richard Mansfield first won his fame as a comedian twenty-five years ago, and its long run of several months then at the Hollis Street theatre will always be memorable. Since then "The Mikado" has been revived again and again, with no sign of any decrease in the public demand for it, and it is because of this popularity that it is to be given for the opening of the Castle Square summer season. One of the finest casts ever seen in Boston has been provided for this revival of "The Mikado." The leading tenor and soprano roles of Nanki Poo and Yum Yum will be filled by Harry Davies and Ethel Balch, while the principal humor will be supplied by Donald Meek and George Hassell, both favorites at the Castle Square, as Ko Ko and the Mikado. In the other leading roles will be George Crampton, Clarence Chute, Vera Roberts, Mary Sherwood and Lola Villiers.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

After a week of darkness during which the extensive alterations of the past two months have been completed and the house has been thoroughly renovated, the American Music hall will reopen next Monday with a new and beautiful production of that sterling drama "St. Elmo" by the Lindsay Morison Stock company. Coming after most of the theatres of Boston have been closed for the summer season, this announcement will be welcomed particularly by Boston stock patrons. The name of Lindsay Morison in the past has been closely associated with all that is best in stock productions and he has given assurance that his efforts this summer will fully equal, if not exceed those of the past. In his company of local favorites will be found the names of Wilson Melrose, one of the most popular leading men that Boston has ever known and Rosalind Coghlan, leading lady of "The Travelling Salesman" during its long run at the Park theatre.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Quincy Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Quincy citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. George McDonald, 133 1-2 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have more faith in Doan's Kidney Pills than in any other remedy I have ever known of and it gives me great pleasure to publicly recommend them. For at least six months I was feeling all out of sorts as the result of kidney trouble. I became tired easily and had but little strength or energy to do my housework. Pains through the small of my back annoyed me a great deal. A friend, knowing of my condition, advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug store. A short time after beginning their use, I was helped and I now feel like a different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GIFT OF $60.000 TO WIDOW OF MINISTER

Substantial Token of Esteem From Church Parishioners

New York, June 16.—Sixty thousand dollars in cash has been presented to Mrs. William R. Richards, the widow of Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, by the parishioners as a token of the esteem in which they held him.

Dr. Richards died suddenly after a pastorage in the Brick Presbyterian church that had been replete with good results. He was at all times very active, a fact that is supposed to have contributed to his sudden demise.

At a meeting held shortly after the death of the pastor it was decided to quietly raise the sum of $60,000 for his family. The plan received the hearty approval of the congregation.

Mrs. Richards was not aware that there was such a plan on foot until the sum was handed over to her. The Brick church did the same thing for the widow of Rev. Dr. Maltbie R. Babcock, Dr. Richards' predecessor, who also died suddenly.

ROBBERY PROBABLE MOTIVE

Unknown Man Kills Providence Storekeeper and Commits Suicide

Providence, June 16.—Joseph Navocroski, aged 54, a second-hand clothing dealer, was shot and killed in the door of his store on South Main street last night.

His murderer fled to the cellar, where, after an exchange of shots with several police officers, and an attempt to drown him out by the fire department, he committed suicide by shooting.

No motive for the murder is known except robbery. It is believed the unknown young man came to the store with the idea of robbing the storekeeper or looting the store, and being confronted by the storekeeper killed him.

FEARS OF THEFT CONFIRMED

Safe Wreckers Work Thirty-Six Hours on Great Steel Door Before It Is Torn From Safe, Which Is Found to Have Been Robbed of 18,000 In Cash—Warrant Out For Arrest of Assistant Cashier

Mount Holly, N. J., June 16.—Apparent manipulation of the time lock on the huge safe in the Mount Holly National bank here, necessitating smashing of the steel door after thirty-six hours of labor by safe experts from New York and Philadelphia, was followed by the discovery that $18,000 in cash had been stolen from within.

Immediately after the discovery of the theft Frederick H. Lee, the cashier, secured a warrant for the arrest of Clifford S. Heller, 30 years old, the assistant cashier, who is missing, on the charge of embezzlement. The Philadelphia and New York police have been asked to search for him.

John H. Dobbins, the receiving teller at the bank, placed all the cash in the proper boxes at night, had carefully locked the inner drawers and, after setting the eight day time clock for 9 o'clock in the morning, he swung the heavy door shut and twisted the combination knob. As is customary, Lee stood by and watched Dobbins lock up the valuables.

Lee and Dobbins appeared at the bank in the morning and on entering compared their watches with the time clock on the front of the giant steel and iron safe. Their watches disagreed by several minutes with the safe clock.

Somewhat apprehensive, Dobbins entered the inner cage and started to manipulate the safe combination. Missing the count on the first try, he believed his mistake was due to his excitement. The second effort, however, was equally unsuccessful, and when Lee tried to unlock the box of iron he too failed. By this time several clerks and Donald Riley, secretary, arrived at the building.

When 9 o'clock passed and nothing was noticed as an action from the time lock Lee telephoned to Philadelphia, seventeen miles distant, and asked that the safe company from which the safe was purchased a short time ago send experts to aid in opening the door.

After working all day and night the door of the safe had been perforated with drill holes, none of which had penetrated more than three and a half inches. Then huge wrenching jacks were applied.

A half score of eager and tired men stood in the tool strewn cage of the bank at 7 o'clock at night when the blow of a heavy hammer sent a drill crashing through the door of the safe. Ten minutes later the door was torn from its place.

Lee was the first to spring forward, pulling out the drawers in his haste to discover that some one had been at the safe after it had been locked up. The cash drawer showed that $18,000 in money had been taken.

The bank holds Heller's bond for $15,000.

BIG CONSPIRACY TO ROB

Several Junk Men and Small Hardware Dealers Are Implicated

Boston, June 16.—Nine men were arrested on secret indictments charging them with conspiracy to steal and to receive stolen goods, valued at $4657.50, from the Walworth Manufacturing company. The men were all taken before the superior court, where they pleaded not guilty and were held in various amounts of bail.

It is claimed that there was an agreement among several employes of the firm and junk and hardware dealers. The employes saw that the goods went to the junk dealers, it is said, and the latter disposed of them to several small hardware dealers.

It was one of the biggest conspiracies to pilfer a large manufacturing concern, the police claim, that has come to their attention in recent years. More arrests are expected.

The Story of a Strike and the Way It Was Settled.

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The strike at the steel plant had lasted long. Vaughn, the assistant manager, went in his automobile to investigate the temper of the strikers. He was received by a hooting crowd. A giant Italian raised a stone and held it poised high above his head.

"Throw it, Andrea!" screamed the voices, and then down the steps of a tenement building came a flying figure—a girl whose dusky hair fell about her face as she ran.

"Andrea," she called breathlessly, "remember Nickola!"

Unquestioningly the men made way for her as she rushed through the crowd and leaped into the automobile, then stood directly before the man whose life was threatened, protecting him with one small outstretched hand.

"Wait!" she cried. "Wait!" And then it seemed to Vaughn that a miracle happened, for the desperate mob instantly obeyed her imperious call and by a common impulse moved farther back into the roadway, leaving a clear path before.

"Andrea," the girl repeated sobbingly, "oh, Andrea!" And in silence the giant replaced his stone and followed the others.

As she stood panting, one hand pressed closely against her heart, the picture was indelibly stamped upon Vaughn's memory—the small white face with its great dark eyes.

Down the rickety stairway, clattering upon his crutches, hobbled a crippled Italian boy. "Antona!" he wailed. "Antona!"

The girl's face was transformed by a loving smile. "It's all right, Nickola," she called reassuringly. "I will be with you soon."

"And now," she asked of the waiting men, "will you let us go? This person is here for your good. Can you not trust Antona?"

As though in answer the crowd quietly dispersed, and she turned to Vaughn. "I am going to ride with you until you have passed through the dangerous section," she said. "Start at once, for their moods change quickly."

The factories and houses had been left behind when the girl again spoke. "You will be quite safe now," she told him. "Let me get out, please. I must go back."

Vaughn stopped the machine at her bidding and bent over to look into her eyes. "I am inexpressibly grateful," he said, "for the great service you have done me, while I marvel at the power you hold over those desperate men."

"I love them and do things for them all," she answered simply, "and down here in this part of the world we repay our kindnesses just as truly as we revenge our wrongs."

"You say 'we,'" the man interposed quickly, "but you are very different from the others."

"That is only because I have had the schooling and training which they have missed," she answered. "In thought and feeling I am still a woman of the people and sooner or later, as you have learned, demand payment for my kind deeds. What reward shall I claim from you, Mr. Vaughn?"

"I am eager to show my gratitude," he replied.

She stood up before him, and her glowing color deepened. "If you are sincere in that," she said quietly, "then end the strike at once."

The man looked up in dismay at this unexpected request. "You ask an impossibility," he said curtly. "I am but the junior member of the company, and even if I were willing to yield to the unreasonable demand of the men whose cause you champion there are others in power higher than myself."

The girl spoke in a low, passionate tone. "You and I both know," she said, "that they will do exactly as you advise. All has been left to your judgment. Your agents, or whatever they may be called, have not been giving you correct information regarding the origin of this strike. This time the workman's cause is just, and I will tell a few truths which it will be well for you to know."

Vaughn sat fascinated, watching her flashing eyes and impulsive gestures as she eloquently portrayed the misery and poverty in the lives of the men who had threatened him so short a time ago. Tears filled the girl's eyes. "And there is Nickola," she continued. "It was his father who would have crushed you with that great stone today. His temper when aroused is terrible. In a fit of rage he threw the baby Nickola downstairs, and that is why he must walk on crutches always. Since then Andrea's life has been one long effort to make amends to the boy, and because I try to make Nickola happier there is nothing I may ask of Andrea that he will not do. When Nickola is in want then the father turns savage and cruel. Many nights since the strike began has the boy slept and wakened hungry, for one must plan cleverly indeed to thrust charity upon these two stubborn people. Oh, promise me," she said tremulously, "that this strike may end."

Her voice thrilled him strangely. "You do not understand," Vaughn said gently, "all that is involved. We ha, a principle to maintain. The demand for increased wages is of no consequence."

"Then," she answered breathlessly, "if the men go back to work, apparently agreeing to all your conditions, will you later pay them what they have asked of you?"

Vaughn smiled. "We would willingly comply with that peculiar arrangement, Miss Antona," he replied, "but these people of yours have refused any compromise."

The girl stepped down into the roadway and shook her head in mock despair. "The men would be much more easily influenced than yourself, Mr. Vaughn," she said, and then he gave the desired promise and regretfully watched the little figure until a bend in the road hid her from his view.

The next day, without explanation or mention of any agreement, came the surprising news that the workmen had surrendered, and when Vaughn returned to his private office after a lengthy consultation with the senior members of the company he found a very small boy with crutches beneath his arms standing near the doorway, his mournful eyes shining out weirdly from the thin, wan face. "Iva note for Meester Vaughn," he said, with a soft Italian accent, "from Mees Antona."

The neatly folded paper contained but three words, "Remember your promise." And Vaughn replied as briefly, "I have remembered."

Through the busy days which followed the girl's face, with its wonderful dark beauty, haunted him continually, and he was possessed of an overwhelming desire to hear her voice, perhaps now in commendation, and at length he determined to visit upon the following day the crowded street near the factory. It was really necessary, he told himself, that he should learn what effect the settlement of the strike had upon the lives of the people, and Nickola could tell him where to find—her.

This particular evening he had agreed to accompany Freddie White to the opera. It was very high class opera, and Vaughn was exceedingly bored until his roving eyes, glancing into an opposite box, rested unbelievingly upon the piquant, glowing face of Antona. Clad in a white silken gown, with sparkling jewels at her throat, she leaned forward, listening with rapt expression to the music. Vaughn caught his friend's hand in a crushing grasp. "Who is that?" he demanded.

Freddie winced; then his gaze followed Vaughn's. "By Jove!" he said pityingly. "We all succumb sooner or later to Miss Norton's undisputed charm, but to be bowled over at the first glance, old man, is unusual."

"Who is she?" Vaughn insisted, and Freddie drew a long breath.

"Well, to be exact," he answered, "her mother is the acknowledged society leader, her father an inexhaustible bank, while Miss Antoinette herself despises us and our superficial pleasures. We merely have rare glimpses of her. She is interested in settlement work—noble purposes and all that sort of thing. The poor and miserable of a certain section regard her as an angel upon earth, and good reason they have to do so. Pretty names they have for her. 'Little Mother' is one, and she seems to understand the queer beggars and to like them too. Hang it all, Vaughn, I'd be an Italian laborer myself to gain that girl's approval!"

But his friend did not smile. "Will you present me after the performance?" he asked eagerly, and Freddie willingly complied.

"Prepare to be snubbed, agreeable as you may consider yourself," he said by way of friendly warning. But Miss Norton was very gracious to Vaughn, and the astonished Freddie, after standing unnoticed for some time in the rear of the box, presently withdrew. Vaughn looked admiringly down into the girl's dark eyes.

"I have been trying to decide," he said, "whether I most admire a white satin gown or one blue woolen dress which has a scarlet tie."

"It all depends," she replied, "whether you prefer the beautiful things of life to the useful ones."

"A combination of the two," he said seriously, "is good indeed to see."

She smiled and turned to seek the members of her party, who, seeing her evidently engaged, had drifted away.

Vaughn laid the dainty opera cloak across her shoulders.

"The wheels of a great factory are moving again," he said slowly. "Hundreds of men leave its doors each night to go home to happier families. There is no more discontent, and it is all because of you."

The girl looked out and far beyond the moving throng. "I am so glad," she said joyously, "so glad, though until you spoke I had not thought of all that it means to so many, for I seemed only to see Andrea coming home with his great arms filled with packages. Little Nickola would meet him at the head of the stairs; then a never to be forgotten supper would be served upon the wooden table near the window, and," she added softly, "it is all because of you."

"Antona," the man whispered tenderly, "Antona!"

She laughed a little unsteadily. "Yes," she said, "you may call me by Nickola's translation of my name. It is a privilege which only you may share with him."

"You were kind enough to act as my escort upon one memorable occasion," Vaughn reminded her. "May I now return the favor?"

Miss Norton looked in the direction of her waiting friends and nodded to them with a conciliating smile, then placed her hand upon his arm. "You may if you please," she said.

BRIEFS

A race for launches under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club will be held tomorrow starting at 2.45 o'clock.

The National banks in Quincy will be open for business as usual tomorrow as the Seventeenth is no t a legal holiday.

The reception and dance of the class of 1910 of the Woodward Institute will be held this evening at Woodward hall.

The morning game on the Water street grounds tomorrow will be called at 10.30 and will be between the Norwoods and Copelands.

Work has been started on a concrete sidewalk in front of the Y. M. C. A. building. Walks will also be laid to the main entrance and to each of the side entrances. The addition will greatly improve the appearance of the building.

BATHHOUSE OPENING.

The city bath house in Ward Two will be officially opened for the season on the holiday and will be in charge of Jack Starr. Although not officially opened, several of Quincy's salt water bathers have already been down and taken a dip. Bathers this season will appreciate the sand that has been dumped along the beach in front of the bath house, covering up the sharp stones that hurt the feet of bathers as they walked over them going to and from the water. Electric light wires were run to the bath house this week so that on nights when the tide is right the beach and bath house will be lighted.

TO PUT DOWN LID.

Chief of Police Burrell will have a large squad of special officers at Houghs Neck on the holiday and the various clubs of youn gmen will be held in check. It is the intenetion of the chief to put the lid down on these clubs, and keep it down. If he accomplishes this he will receive the hearty thanks of the law abiding residents of Houghs Neck and their cooperation.

BOY'S CLUB.

At a meeting of the Boy's club of Christ church held in the parish house Wednesday evenin gthe following officers were elected:

President, James E. Smith.
Vice President, Peter Williams.
Secretary, Edmund Gabrial.
Treasurer, Stanley Ross.
Sergeant at arms, Alfred Gabrial.

The club is under the direction of James Smith, Jr., assisted by George Hanson and E. J. ownsend physical director.

The club has adjourned until the second Wednesday in September, but during the summer there will be frequent athletic meets for running and jumping, swimming and baseball, under the direction of Physical Director Townsend.

EARLIER HOUR FOR FIRE DRILL

Saturday Exhibition to be Held at 2.15 P. M.

The firemen are hoping that the weather man will be good to them Saturday, and give them a pleasant day for the parade and trials of the several companies of the city. The program for Saturday will be carried out as arranged for last Saturday with the exception that the hour of the parade has been changed to 2.15 o'clock. This will give the base ball fans an opportunity to see the parade and then take in the league game between the Quincys and Deweys on the Water street grounds, which is scheduled for 3.30.

The firemen have been making the best of the time this week in practising raising ladders, laying hose, etc., and are now in the pink of trim to show what they can do.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

Roll Call Demanded on the Neponset Bridge Bill

It fell to the honor of Senator Hultman of Quincy to make the presentation to President Treadway at the last session of the Senate on Wednesday. He intimated that it might be his last appearance as a senator, and he therefore desired to express the appreciation felt by himself and his fellow-senators for President Treadway. In their behalf he asked the president to accept a handsome bronze clock, and expressed the hope that the president would hear in every tick the expressed wish of every one of his fellow senators, "Allen, God bless you!"

President Treadway responded, and there was other speaking.

The Quincy representatives made a bold stand at the last hour for the Neponset river bridge bill. The Globe says: "At the afternoon session Mr. Langelier of Quincy criticised the committee on counties for its adverse report on the bill providing for a new bridge over the Neponset river between Boston and Quincy; he said the committee did not give the matter proper consideration.

Messrs. Thomas of Quincy and Willetts of Fall River also favored the bill.

Mr. Crocker of Boston opposed the bill because the existing bridge has been made serviceable by repairs.

Mr. Fogg of Newburyport said his committee reported against the bill because it appropriates $250,000 for a $400,000 bridge, and because it puts an unfair burden upon the city of Boston, besides letting the street railway company off easily.

The bill was favored by Carr and Mildram of Boston, but on a rising vote the house referred it to the next general court, 111 to 35. On a roll call the vote stood 149 to 50.

TODAY'S COURT.

Robert B. Agnew and Charles Clegg were fined $15 each for drunkenness at the Blue Hills.

Lugie DeBarodine was arraigned for cruelty to a horse at Braintree. Case continued until June 17.

William Gilman was fined $15 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

BALKED ON CROSSING

Auto Party Has a Close Call at Water Street

While driving across the grade crossing at the Quincy Adams depot in his touring car Wednesday evening at about 5.55 o'clock ex-Councilman Thomas Bishop, his wife and son narrowly escaped a serious accident if not death. Just as the car was well on the railroad tracks the spark plug balked and the engine stopped. As this happened the 5.25 accommodation train from Boston passed under the School street bridge going toward Quincy Adams at considerable speed. The gateman rushed forward to flag the train, but before it had come to a stop the auto engine picked up again and the car was driven to safety.

The track from Quincy to Quincy Adams is up grade, and the train had no great momentum but had the grade been down it is certain that a serious accident would have occurred.

Mr. Bishop formerly served in the Quincy City Council and owns a granite business in South Quincy.

COMEDY OF "ME AND OTIS"

Makes a Great Hit at Park and and Downs Church

"Me and Otis" a four-act comedy, was most successfully staged by the young people of the Christian Endeavor at the Park and Downs Congregational church on Tuesday and Wednesday evening. The play was given to aid in raising the fund for the new church building, and much credit is due Chester A. Boynton who coached the performers.

In the comic character of Otis Tewksbury of Perkinsville, Artemus Dingwell excelled, while Flora Sass as his wife was also good. The scenes were laid at college and at the home of the Tewksbury.

The cast of characters follows:

Dick Davis, a student fond of football and girls, William Northrop.

Byron Makepiece Thorton, his room-mate not fond of either, Ralph P. Greene.

Otis Tewksbury ,of Perkinsville, Artemus Dingwell.

Rosilla Tewksbury, his wife, Flora Sass.

Betty Tewksbury, his daughter Gertrude Sass.

Sophronia Ruggles, lFlorence's maiden aunt, Geraldine Scott.

FALL NOT SERIOUS.

Wednesday about 5.30 o'clock while leaning out of a second story window of his home, which is on Water street adjacent to the railroad depot at Quincy Adams, Sam Markileison ,the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Maskileison, fell from the window to the ground, a distance of about twenty feet. He struck in a sitting position ,turning a complete summersault in the air. About the hour mentioned the trains from Boston pass the house quite frequently and in an effort to detect a train as it approached the Quincy Adams station the lad leaned too far from the window and fell. The little fellow only temporarily embarrassed by his shaking up, and the services of a physician were not needed.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

At Opening of Clubhouse of Quincy Yacht Club

The formal opening of the remodelled club house of the Quincy Yacht club will be held Thursday evening, June 30, and the occasion will be a red letter one in the history of the club. Admiral Francis T. Bowles president of the Fore River Ship Building Co. has accepted an invitation to be present as has also Admiral Garcia and members of the Argentine Commission stationed in Quincy.

As no wplanned there will be a reception to Admiral Bowles and the Argentine Commission from 6 to 7 o'clock. At the latter hour William Norteman will serve one of his famous shore dinners in the club house This will be followed by music and the singing of popular airs by the club members ,and a first class vaudeville entertainment by well known Boston artists.

The above is the outline of the program for the opening night, and the house committee will meet tonight to make final arrangements. Rear Commodore Frank Fessenden Crane waited upon Admiral Bowles and the Argentine commission at the Fore River and secured their acceptance to the reception to be tendered them on the above date by the Yacht club.

JEFF'S STUNTS DISAPPOINTING.

Reports From Rowardennan Do Not Satisfy Sporting Public.

TOO MUCH RELAXATION.

Big Fellow Should Do More Sparring In Order to Bring Back the Quickness of Eye—Actual Training Narrowing Down.

By TOMMY CLARK.

Reports from Jim Jeffries' training camp at Rowardennan vary so much from day to day that it is next to impossible for any one to get a correct line on the real condition of the former boilermaker from newspaper reports That the grouch that Jeffries is charged with harboring has much to do with the unfavorable reports which are sent broadcast is no doubt true, but there may be reason, too, which warrants these statements. One day Jeff is as good as he ever was, and the next time he goes through some stunts he shows plainly that he is not in form.

Jeff's desultory style of training has not been altogether pleasing to the followers of pugilism who have been watching from day to day the reports that emanate from Rowardennan While it is conceded that the ex-champion and his trainers are in a position to know better than any one else what the big fellow requires to condition himself, there is another side to the story.

The old question of whether Jeffries will be able to stand up under the strain of a fight was to have been answered in part by his work in camp That work has not been such, however as to give any true line. It is quite true that he has done a world of road work, that he has toiled conscientiously in the handball court and gymnasium and that upon occasions he has worked furiously with the gloves.

There has, however, been too much relaxation mixed in with the boxing to satisfy people. For every day that

Jeffries has boxed he has laid off two and perhaps three, and of actual sparring he has had little or no work. In short, the stories from Rowardennen have been so regularly of a layoff and a trip to this place or another that suspicions have been aroused as to whether Jeffries dares to go to work in real earnest.

His preliminary exercising has been well and good, but it is high time that he take serious thought of his boxing, for a man so long out of the game as Jeff has been needs to regain that judgment in hitting and that quickness of the eye that cannot come otherwise than with the gloves. Since he settled down in the mountains it has been announced that after the middle of June there will be no boxing lest there might be an accident to his hands.

That means the time for actual training is narrowing down. At the outside, Jeffries has not more than a month for actual work. He can afford also to do his work more in the open and where the crowds can see him.

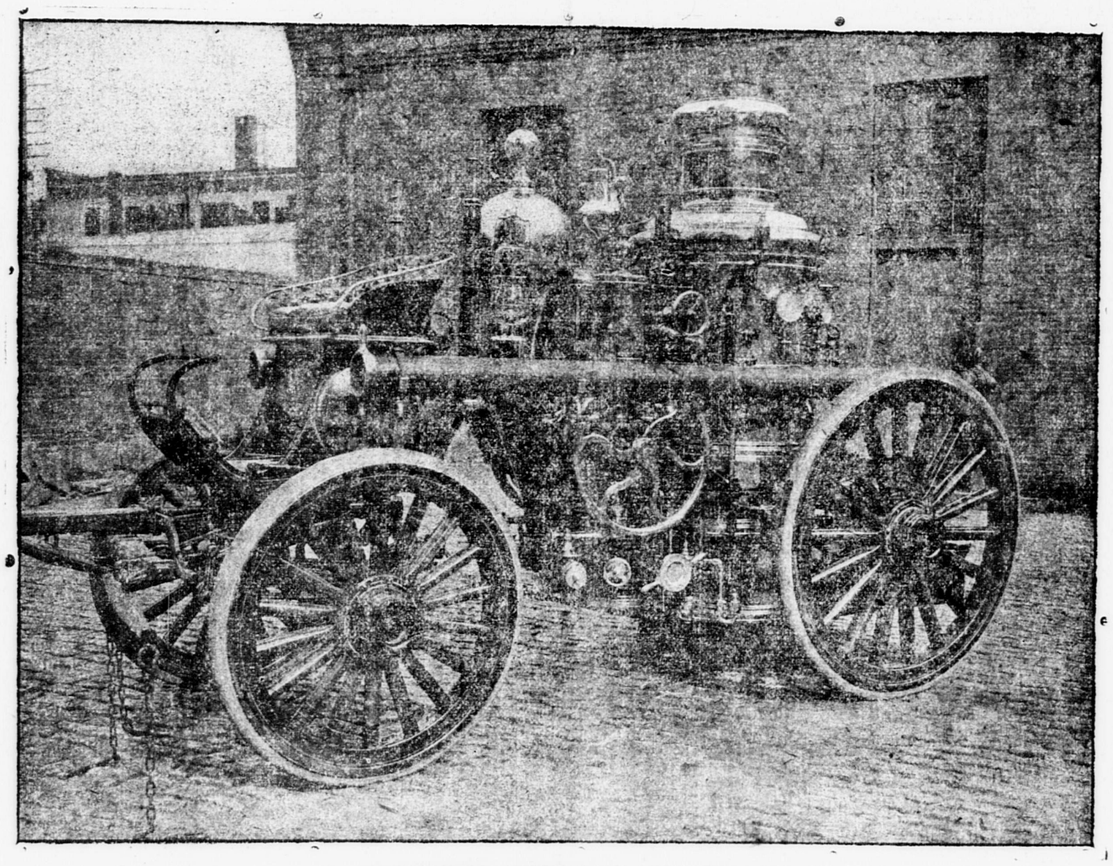
A SQUARE DEAL—QUINCY UNANIMOUSLY INVITES NEW COMERS. YELL IT—EVERYONE.

Vol. 24 No. 141 QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 18, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

A FIRE DEPARTMENT OF WHICH TO BE PROUD

Grand Parade of Ten Pieces of Up-to-Date Apparatus



Exhibition of Quick Work in Laying Hose and Raising Ladders

A STEAMER WITHOUT AN EQUAL

It required some courage early this morning, after the long continuous rain of two days, to predict a pleasant day for the Firemen's exhibition in City Square this afternoon. The holiday, like last Saturday, was rainy all day, and had balked numerous plans. But the wind had shifted, and although the weather man predicted showers it was decided to go ahead with preparations for the gala day of the merchants postponed from last Saturday.

Early in the morning Commissioner Bainbridge put a large gang of men at work in City Square to scrape up the mud, that the street might dry as quick as possible. The firemen got busy in grooming their horses, and making everything about their apparatus spic and span. The merchants prepared for a busy day, in anticipation of a crowdo f thousands in City Square.

At times during the morning the sun did break through the clouds, but the next moment the sky was overcast and theatening, and thus it alternated during the morning, and the hopes of the people ascended and descended.

The hour set for the program to begin was 2.15 P. M., and it was decided that there should be no further postponement. Box 26 in City Square was pulled by Mayor Shea, and all the fire apparatus of the city dashed into City Square, to the admiration of thousands of people who had assembled. Men, Women and children had come from all parts of Quincy—South and West Quincy, Wollaston and Atlantic, Quincy Point and Houghs Neck— also from all the South Shore towns from Boston to Hull, Plymouth and Brockton. A fire department always arouses enthusiasm, whether it is in action at a fire or on exhibition.

After the dash into City Square the apparatus was sent to Adams Academy to form for a parade, to be followed by an exhibition. The Daily Ledger of Monday will report the results in detail.

The route announced for the parade was short: From Adams Academy via Hancock street by City Hall to Cottage avenue, thence to Foster street, and thence by Washington street into City Square.

The order of parade as planned was:

Squad of Police.
National Band.
Quincy Steamer, No. 1.
Combination Hose, No. 1.
Combination Ladder, No. 1.
Hose 3 of West Quincy.
Hose 4 of Quincy Point.
Truck 3 of West Quincy.
Combination 2 of Atlantic.
Combination Hose 3, Houghs Neck
Combination Ladder 2 of Wollaston.
Combination 3 of Wollaston.

Wollaston, West Quincy, Houghs Neck and Quincy Point will each lay one line of hose against time.

The Combination at the Central fire station and the Atlantic Combination will each lay two lines of hose. Each Ladder Truck will throw ladder twice, and the Steamer will play through one and tyo lines of hose and then play into the Hart gun.

The Hose companies will play from the fourway hydrant in front of the cemetery; each company making a flying run. Time will be taken from the time the gun is fired.

The judges will be Dr. Francis Abele, D. Desmond, Jos. L. Whitten, Jr., George Cushing of Hingham, George Choate of Milton and John Kelly and Frank O. Whitmarsh of Braintree.

The committee of the Merchants Association includes E. J. Murphy, George Nightingale, Nathan Ames, Gerald Sullivan and William Corcoran, who have had the hearty cooperation of Chief Williams and all the members of the Fire department.

A band concert was given during the afternoon, and there will be another this evening bringing Merchant's Week to a close.

WOODWARD RECEPTION

Brilliant Event Although Night was Stormy

A most brilliant gathering of the younger society folk of Quincy marked the reception of the class of 1910 of Woodward Institute in the school hall Thursday evening. More than two hundred attended the reception, some of the young ladies appearing in very handsome gowns in face of one of the worst downpours of the season. From 7.45 to nearly 9 o'clock the guests continued to arrive, many in carriages and autos, the rest from the street cars which pass nearby.

From 8 to 8.20 the guests were received by Principal F. W. Plummer and Mrs. Plummer; Mary W. Dinegan and Charlotte Burgess, teachers in the institute; and Gertrude Baker and Clara Brown, president and vice president respectively of the class of 1910. The guests were ushered to the receiving line by the members of the class of 1911.

After the reception the dance was in order, and continued until 11.30. During the intermission light refreshments were served by the class of 1911. Cuff's orchestra furnished the music.

The class motto "Live pure, speak true" was displayed above the stage. Seated on the platform during the evening were parents and relatives of the graduates.

The reception was a bright social event which was greatly enjoyed by the guests of the graduating class. The officers of the class of 1910 are Gertrude Baker, president; Clara Brown, vice president; Dorothy Alexander, secretary; Marion Moorehouse treasurer.

SUCCESS ASSURED.

Tonight the whirlwind campaign of the First Presbyterian church for $6,000 with which to remodel the church building at the corner of Water and Quincy streets will close amid enthusiasm, as the total is sure to go over $6,000. It might have been pushed over Thursday night, but that would have brought "the fun" to a close too soon. The returns on the second night were $1,610.25 as follows:

Team 1, J. J. MacLennan	$105.00
Team 2, W. J. MacLeod	568.50
Team 3, D. L. McLennan	242.00
Team 4, Robert Craig	14000
Team 5, Alex Clark	399.00
Team 6. George Craig	121.00
Team 7, Rev. J. Matheson	35.00
Total	$1610.50
Last report	4110.00
Grand total	$5720.50

The final reports are to be made this evening at 7 o'clock and a supper is to be given by the Ladies' Aid Society to the collectors.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Welcome T. R.! We are all delighted! Glad to have you with us, and pleased at your safe return. Your journey was a triumphal tour, but you will find at home your truest friends and most ardent admirers.

Again on the holiday the weather was a big disappointment. Because of the rain it was necessary to concel practically all the out door events planned. The base ball fans and the West Quincy picnickers were the most dis-heartened.

Each report of the Citizens Gas Company seems to make a better showing than its predecessor, and the indications are that prosperous times are ahead. The consumers may look for a reduction in rates at no distant date.

The jury in the Kelliher case did a good job quickly when they found the defendant guilty. United States District Attorney Asa P. French, a graduate of Adams Academy handled the case well, and should continue to follow up both the faro gang and the officials of the Cambridge bank.

It would be hard to make a more disagreeable day for the Seventeenth than was handed out by the weather man. While it did not rain hard all day there was no time when it was not raining or looked as though it would rain at any minute. The result was that every thing scheduled for out of doors in Quincy had to be called off. No ball games were played, and outings were abandoned. There were times during the morning when it looked as though the sun might break through the clouds, but it did not. The wind hung in the easterly quarter all day and the air was cool.

One of the best half tones of old Bunker Hill Monument ever printed was used by Sheppard of Boston on the Seventeenth of June to illustrate his page "Ad." The illustration measured 16x9 inches and clearly showed the style of architecture of this memorial which is built of Quincy granite. The monument was constructed on plans of Solomon Willard, a resident of Quincy, who was a noted sculptor, inventor and public spirited man, born in 1783 and dying suddenly in 1861. His remains are buried in the Hall cemetery at West Quincy, and the Williard school was named in his honor.

Quincy is proud of its Fire department. Not only on show days like today, but for its efficiency. Chief Williams demands the best of service, and with the limited appropriation at his command succeeds admirably in equipping and maintaining an excellent department. He sets a good example, personally, by promptness and courage, and this is why the firemen are always prompt, and attack blazes in their incipient stages thereby preventing large losses. With the exception of the Gear Works fire, Quincy has been very fortunate, and it was not all luck. The Chief and hismen "get there" and do their work promptly and understandingly. May their grand record be maintained.

SARCASM WITH A POINT.

Seeking to ridicule a proposal advanced recently to the effect that Central park, New York, be stripped of many of its present features in order that it may be turned into a public playground, a New York writer brings up a point well deserving of consideration by serious people. In these days there is a lamentable disposition in many quarters to give the masses of the people what some who profess to speak for them with authority say they want, rather than what the intelligently observant and the judicious are convinced they need. Insistence is laid upon the assertion that so-called "popular taste" should have whatever it craves, the inference being that its appetite for the trifling, the trashy, the morbid and even the vicious, should be palliated rather than checked and corrected.

Democracies have always been accused of "levelling- down" tendencies, and not always without some reason. This has not been true of us in the past, however, and , despite some appearance to the contrary, it is not true of us now. We continue marvelously to assimilate the alien, and our whole process of citizen-making has been, and continues to be, upward levelling. This process was never more earnestly and never more successfully pursued than it is today, and evidence of this is found in the multiplication of public playgrounds and recreation parks in the congested district of all our populous cities. In every one of the cities, too, the great pleasure parks have been increased in number and made more beautiful and attractive. They are not intended for any particular class. They are for all the people, and it is the aim of every true friend of the masses, who is also a true friend of this democracy and its institutions, to make these great parks simply stepping stones in the leveling-up process.

The proposal to transform Central park, New York, or any other great pleasure park anywhere in the country, into a common playground, thereby depriving it of its artistic, esthetic and elevating features and influences, is entirely contrary to our idea of public education. tI is destructive rather than constructive. It is leveling down rather than leveling up. As a nation we are moving on an ever-ascending plane. Our safety and the welfare of humanity in general demand that we shall permit no allurement or obstacle to prevent us from continuing this course. —C. S. Monitor.

MILTON

Samuel Shaw of 12 Belcher circle will give a bridge whist party on Tuesday evening to a number of friends.

Mrs. Eva Richardson of Otis street East Milton has gone to Littlejohn Island, Portland, Maine. Her son Richard has joined her for a short vacation.

There are over 50 applicants for the position of master at the Milton High school.

The citizenship committee of the Educational Society has asked the co-operation of the citizens to raise money for a fireworks display the Fourth of July.

Milton High school graduation took place Thursday.

On the initiative of John A. Tucker seconded by two pastors of churches in East Milton about 100 people gathered Sunday at the site of the home of Rev. Peter Thacher, the first resident pastor in Milton and held a service.

A large number of Milton people are congratulating themselves on their good fortune. The Walter Baker Co. has made an increase of about twenty-five cents a day in all wages.

Anna Josephine Dee, daughter of James Dee of Halifax, N. S., was recently married to Francis C. Donovan of East Milton at St. Gregory's church by the Rev. W. H. Fitzpatrick.

Harry Sheldon of Adams street has returned from his fishing trip to Canada.

Ethel Kirkton, daughter of James Kirkton of Dyer street, received a diploma at the Boston University graduation.

On June 18, the Home Garden committee will have an exhibit of flowers and small fruits at the Assembly hall from 2 to 6 P. M.

The Tuell Alumni hold a reunion in Town Hall June 24.

Miss E. F. Frye of Bryant avenue has left for a visit in Oak Bluffs.

Mrs. Howard Knox is in Gloucester and wil lstay until the first of August.

Mrs. J. A. McSward of Portland, Oregon, is visiting her daughter Mrs. Willard Hodges.

The School Committee have given no reason thus far for Headmaster E. D. Varney being dropped. Mr. Varney's requested resignation is a subject for animated discussion throughout the Miltons.

The lowest age at which a child can enter the Milton kindergarten is now five years instead of four as formerly, and has caused a protest from parents. To receive the children at the age of four says the committee, means the addition of another primary grade and consnderable expense, and the results are not satisfactory.

THOUSANDS WELCOME ROOSEVELT

Nation Pays a Great Tribute to Former President Upon His Arrival In New York

New York, June 18.—A reception that transcended all of his visits to the capitals of Europe combined in point of numbers, enthusiasm and spontaneity greeted Colonel Theodore Roosevelt here this morning on his return to his native land.

The most frankly pleased person was the returned traveler himself, and not only by words of thanks, but with the famous Roosevelt smile and vigorously enthusiastic acknowledgements of greetings, did he show his appreciation of the greatest reception tendered any American.

"De-lighted!" roared the crowd on lower Broadway as the procession started northward from the Battery, and the ex-president showed his famous teeth as he bowed. "Bully!" shrieked the impenetrable mass at City Hall park, and the Rough Riders stood in his carriage and waved his hat. The people remembered the colonel's succinct phrases, and so did Mr. Roosevelt, for he never ceased to acknowledge them.

New York has welcomed many notables, but never a one attracted the attention or received the welcome accorded the citizen of Oyster Bay. Before many of the so called "malefactors of great wealth" had arisen for the half day's labors the naval flotilla was at quarantine awaiting the transferring of the Roosevelt party from the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria to the revenue cutter Androscoggin.

Half Holiday Opportune

By the time the great marts of trade were in full swing he was being officially welcomed home, and the commencement of the half holiday served chiefly to permit the hundreds of thousands of workers to delay their homeward trips to witness the triumph of Roosevelt as the procession passesd up Broadway, under the Washington arch and up Fifth avenue through ranks of cheering political and business and social organizations.

Despite the early hour thousands of sightseers—men, women and children—were at the Battery by 5 o'clock this morning. The reason was twofold. They wanted to see the departure of the flotilla of steamers as it started down the bay for quarantine, and they had hopes they would beat the police to positions of vantage around the stand of welcome. The latter was a vain quest, for hundreds of bluecoatas surrounded the platforms and adjacent space reserved for the reception committee.

It was a hurried embarkation of the welcomers not only at the Battery, but at more than a hundred piers on the Hudson and East rivers, for the rendezvous was set for the Narrows, connecting the upper and lower bays, for 8:30 a. m. The sun was fast dispelling the morning mist and the light glinted on gaily decorated craft of every description. Flags, bunting, Teddy bears, G. O. P. elephants and welcome signs were seen everywhere.

Greeted In the Bay

The time of transferral of the Roosevelt party had been tentatively fixed for 9 o'clock, and it was about half an hour before that the huge Kaiserin Auguste Victoria was seen threading her way up the Ambrose channel, the decks filled with passengers, who waved greetings to the hundreds of smaller craft that surrounded her.

As the steamer passed the din of welcome began. The guns of Fort Wadsworth on the Staten Island side of the Narrows boomed their greeting, and the artillery of Fort Hamilton on Long Island echoed noisily. Every whistle of the flotilla shrieked in rivalry as the steamer dropped anchor off quarantine.

The din was at its height when the Roosevelt party was espied on the upper forward deck, the colonel boyishly waving his hat to Collector William Loeb and other friends on the revenue cutter Androscoggin.

By his side were Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Miss Ethel and Kermit Roosevelt and Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who met the steamer at Sandy Hook last night.

The Androscoggin headed the procession, and Colonel Roosevelt held an improvised levee forward. There were few of the committeemen whose names he could not recall without prompting, for they embraced old friends and allies and bitter political foes, but all this was laid aside for a day in New York's expression of the national welcome to the statesman and hunter.

"DE-LIGHTED!"

Naval Parade Impressive

There was but one warship and five torpedo boats in the fleet, but it lacked nothing of dignity because of the necessary omission. There were twelve divisions, each commanded by a vice commodore under general supervision of Fred B. Dalzell. In the first and second divisions were steamboats carrying members of various political organizations. The Republican club of New York, Hamilton club of Chicago, Duquesne club of Philadelphia were among them, and each had a steamer filled to the guards and canopied in bunting.

The third division was composed entirely of steam yachts, and this was the social section, for the women lent their aid to the celebration with the gayety of summer costume. The remaining division contained tugs and miscellaneous craft. The entire course in the upper bay and North river was patrolled by revenue cutters and steam craft impressed into service by the committee in charge.

The water display was an impressive one. The big armored cruiser, North Carolina, was President Taft's insistent contribution as an administrative feature, and it formed a black spot in the array of highly decorated steamers and tugs.

Straight up the North river the procession moved, factories and vessels along the shores adding their whistles to the din that carried for miles. The boats were in two lines 200 feet apart and kept to the New Jersey side of the river to Fifty-ninth street, where a stakeboat was placed. On the return trip the boats followed the New York side and enabled Colonel Roosevelt to review the procession, the Androscoggin passing through the center of the flotilla. By the time Colonel Roosevelt arrived at the Battery the boats were still moving up the river. The nearest approach to the demonstration was the trip up the same river in 1899 of Admiral Dewey and the Olympia on his return to the United States after his triumph at Manilla.

People Pack Water Front

The water front on both sides of the Hudson was black with people, special grand stands being erected on many of the piers, and exorbitant prices were charged for seats.

It was about 11 o'clock when Colonel Roosevelt and the reception committee disembarked at the Battery, where Mayor Gaynor awaited them. Every available foot of ground not guarded with physical force by the police was occupied, and it was with difficulty that Broadway was kept clear for the land parade.

The debarkation was the signal for the start of a hoarse roar from the crowd, which was but temporarily checked by the presidential salute of twenty-one guns from the North Carolina. The arrangements at the Battery were so perfect that Colonel Roosevelt was landed without inconvenience and made his way on a raised walk from the pier to the platform facing Battery park in comparative comfort. The windows and roofs of surrounding skyscrapers reflected the masses of people on the Hudson's shores, and no point of vantage was too dangerous to lack an occupant.

According to the committee's program, the ceremonies of welcome were brief. The advance of Mr. Roosevelt to the front of the platform was the signal for a marvelous demonstration, during which time he renewed his acquaintance with Mayor Gaynor and others and then waited for the tumult to subside. The noise would die away, and then the colonel, catching sight of some child in the crowd who was waving a handkerchief, would smile broadly and wave his hand, and the noise began again.

Finally, in despair, the ceremonies began, Mayor Gaynor simply telling Mr. Roosevelt of the joy he felt as a New Yorker of welcoming home a native of the city who, in addition to reaping the highest honors his own country could bestow, had likewise excited rulers of Europe and downed the savage animals in Africa in their lairs.

The mayor's remarks were inaduible to those within the charmed roped circle in front of the stand and to the committeemen and others on the reserved section of the stand. The people seemed content with looking at the ex-president and occasionally cheering without other incentive.

Hence the same conditions prevailed when Colonel Roosevelt made his brief reply. He thanked the committee and through it New York and the states generally which had tendered him the welcome, which he felt more deeply than any honor yet tendered him.

If the naval parade was a success the parade up Broadway and Fifth avenue was trebly so. It was here that the thousands upon thousands who lined the streets could see the man who had caused this uproar and greet him, and the canyon of Broadway resounded with cheers. Here, as at the Battery, the office buildings were jammed with sightseers. Even the wonderful height of the Singer tower was no obstacle to privileged ones who gazed at a spectacle that must have resembled an ant's procession in their eyes.

Many Celebrities In Line

Following an escort of mounted police and the band of the historic Seventh regiment of the New York national guard came a corps of rough riders, mounted and in costume, the guard of honor. Behind them was Colonel Roosevelt in an open barouche. The reception committee in a long line of carriages followed, embracing national celebrities such as Secretary of the Navy Meyer, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Captain Archibald W.

The band of Squadron A, the crack cavalry troop of Manhattan, led the Spanish war veterans, of whom several thousand were in line in the khaki of the Cuban and Philippine campaigns. Bringing up the rear were Captain Jack Abernathy, federal marshal of Oklahoma, and his sons, Louis and Tempe, aged 10 and 6 respectively. The youngsters, who had ridden from Oklahoma alone to greet their idol, the colonel, received a hearty welcome.

25,000 Club Members Cheer

That was all the procession, but the east side of Fifth avenue from Washington square to Fifty-ninth street was lined with military and political organizations to the number of 25,000, while the curb on the opposite side was devoted to the public.

From the Narrows to Central park it was the same, a continuous ovation, but Colonel Roosevelt seemed never too tired to bow and smile, and that satisfied the people.

At the conclusion of the parade Mr. Roosevelt and several others were driven to the residence of Mrs. Henry A. Alexander, mother of Theodore junior's fiancee, Miss Eleanor B. Alexander, where they were entertained at luncheon. Colonel Roosevelt did not reach his Oyster Bay home until late afternoon. Tomorrow will be spent as quietly there as conditions permit, and on Monday his son, Theodore junior, will be married.

WEDDING AT ATLANTIC

Miss Harriet Hawkins the Bride of John Beede

A pretty home wedding took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hawkins of 42 Bilings street when their daughter, Harriet Perkins, was united in marriage to Verna John Beede of Atlantic by the Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor of Memorial church.

The bride was attired in white lansdown, trimmed with Irish point lace and elaborately braided, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Florence G. Rayner of Dorchester and was attired in champagne Jacquard silk with gold trimmings. The best man was Leroy I. Spaulding of Dorchester cousin of the groom. The ring bearer was Miss Jeannette Woodward, cousin of the groom, dressed in white.

Under an arch of evergreen and syringas, the double ring service was solemnized. The bride, standing under an elaborate marriage bell, which was filled with confetti, was surprised at the close of the ceremony when the ribbons were pulled by the brides maid and best man. The room was prettily festooned with evergreen and syringa.

Guests were present from Salem, Beverly, Boston, Roxbury, East Milton, Brookline, Billerica, Braintree, Sea View and a large number from Atlantic. Collation was served by two young ladies, friends of the bride, Miss Beatrice Butler and Miss Elsie Badger both of Atlantic. The ushers were Harry Hodgkins and Frank Ayers. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Sadie F. Cook, sister of the bride.

The gifts bestowed were choice and numerous, of silver, china, cut glass and linen. Among them was a brass bed, gift of Mr. George W. Wise and Mr. George W. Wise, Jr., for whom the bride has worked for five years.

After a two week's trip, Mr. and Mrs. Beede will reside at 42 Billings street.

The usual shower of confetti was bestowed as they were escorted to the auto in waiting.

CITY COUNCIL.

The meeting of the City Council Monday evening will be an important one. There will be a public hearing on the acceptance of some seventeen or eighteen streets under the act authorizing the assessment of betterments. In addition, numerous committee reports will be received, and it is expected that some move will be made to get an appropriation for the Fourth of July celebration. There will doubtless be more or less debate on different matters which argues well for a late session.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

Atlantic, Mass., June 16, 1910.

To the Editor:—

In answer to the article under "Letters of Public Interest" entitled "No Doubt in Montclair" in the Ledger of June 13th. A writer professing to be the "A. B. C." who wrote an article for the Ledger which appeared in the issue of June 9th, says that the writer of the June 9th article has found out that he was greatly in error about his statement and hereby wishes to apologize to the Montclair people and people at large for the hasty remarks, is a falsehood for the writer of the article in this paper was the writer of the article in the Ledger of June 9th. This writer does not retract any statement which was made at that time nor has the writer written for the Ledger since that date. It anyone interested will look up the article of June 9th they will find that there were no hasty remarks made. Moreover, it looks as if there was a guilty conscience somewhere as the article of June 9th did not mention a petition. However, we would state an incident which has come to our attention since the writing of the first, article, namely, that some married women were asked to sign the petition with their own initials rather than their husband's initials and omitting the title of Mrs. It seems obvious why this was done.

We consider the school committee of the city of Quincy amply capable of choosing a name for the new school building without a lengthy petition to teach them what to do.

We regret that some unprincipled person has taken advantage of a paper which is well known to be accurate in its statements, to perpetrate a falsehood. The Ledger has been so fair as to print both sides of all questions impartially. This occurance seems like ingratitude.

LAWN PARTY.

Master Joseph Brow was given a birthday party on Monday afternoon by Mrs. N. E. Hollis. It was the event of the week in Braintree.

Monday afternoon, June thirteenth will be long remembered by many of our young people as Mrs. N. Eugene Hollis, Washington street, Braintree, was giving a party in honor of the ninth birthday of Master Joseph Brow. The spacious lawn was the scene of gay festivity for three hours and everything possible was done to give the guests pleasure. Mrs. N. Eugene Hollis, Mrs. Louis Brow and Master Joseph Brow received the guests as they arrived. Each child who came in a carriage received a balloon. The grounds looked very attractive, red and white bunting, flags and quantities of flowers added to the natural beauty of the scene.

The unique entertainment furnished by W. E. Floyd of Chelsea proved a banner attraction. The illusions presented were of great interest especially to the children. Prof. Floyd is not only a skilful magician, but he is a comedian, humorist and entertainer and kept his audience in a state of constant merriment. He gave two half-hour performances during the afternoon. Music from a Columbia graphaphone was an aid in the marching and was the cause of considerable favorable comment.

The general committee, who had the entire affair in charge consisted of Miss Margery White, Hollis avenue, Miss Grace Wilde of Allston and Mrs. George Farrington of New York, daughter of Mrs. N. E. Hollis. During the afternoon delicious punch was served also ices, assorted cakes and candies. T. D. Cook and Co. the specialty caterers of Boylston street, Boston, were employed.

Among those who assisted in serving refreshments were noticed, Mrs. James Ellsworth, Miss Margery White Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Fred W. McCarter, Mrs. George Farrington, Mrs. Albert Wilde, Mrs. George Ellsworth, Mrs. Louis Brow, Mrs. Charles A. Kohler and others.

It was quite a surprise to Master Brow to receive so many gifts as the little guests came laden. But the closing feature of the afternoon, when all gathered to cheer the generous hostess came all too quickly and the little guests will look at their souvenirs many times remembering with joy the happy occasion. It was estimated that there were nearly three hundred guests present.

The infant of the household was in its cradle. The head of the house was at home, peevish and faultfinding. At length he became unendurable.

"You've done nothing but make mistakes tonight," he growled.

"Yes," she answered meekly, "I began by putting the wrong baby to bed."—M. A. P.

SOUTH SHORE PROTESTS

Against Assessment for New Craigie Bridge

An important meeting of the Selectmen and representatives of the city of Quincy and the towns of Milton, Hyde Park, Weymouth, Braintree, Hingham and Hull was held at City Hall this morning, to organize so as to protect themselves against any part of the cost of the building of Craigie bridge over the Charles river and the improvement of the Charles river basin, being assessed on them as a part of the Metropolitan district.

The cost of this work is between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 and under Chapter 465 of the Acts of 1903 the cost of the removal of the old bridge and the construction of a bridge in place thereof was to be apportioned between the cities of Cambridge and Boston. The remainder of the improvements under the act is to be assessed upon the cities and towns in the Metropolitan district.

The special commission who are apportioning the cost and maintenance of the park system for the next five years are to give a hearing on this proposition July 6.

The meeting this morning organized with Mayor Shea as chairman and Albert P. Worthen, town counsel of Weymouth, as secretary. The situation was gone over thoroughly and the act explained in detail by City Solicitor McAnarney.

The meeting then took prompt action toward protecting the interests of the several municipalities at the hearing, and placed the case in charge of City Solicitor McAnarney.

SHAPRIO—GOLDNER.

Thursday evening Isaac Shapiro of Boston, and Miss Sophie Goldner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldner of Water street, Quincy, were maried by the Rev. Julius Aandolavitz in A. O. H. hall. The bride was arrayed in whited satin and carrie pink sweet peas. She wore a pearl pendant, a gift of the groom. The briesmaids were Sarah Salpin, Rose E. Harris and Annie Arcus. The best men were Jacob Goldner, Nathan Karger and Samuel Davis. After the ceremony supper was served, and then the company indulged in dancing until a late hour.

ZONE PLAN NOT IN FAVOR

Nearly Everyone at Telephone Hearing Opposed

There does not appear to be many supporters of the zone system for telephone in Quincy, and ex-President Walter S. Pinkham of the City Council voiced the sentiments of the people when he appeared at the hearing before the Massachusetts Highway commission on Thursday. He was totally opposed to the proposed change. He said that the individual should not be considered as against the community as a whole. This whole matter should be treated on board metropolitan district lines. Equality and justice for everybody should be considered. The citizens of Quincy are just as much citizens of Boson so far as the telephone is concerned as those who sleep on the other side of the Neponset. They are very glad that they are in the 5-cent district rather than the 10-cent, but they are wholly dissatisfied with the zone system.

Prof. D. C. Jackson was almost alone in support, while several spoke in opposition.

between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother.

If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers. That is why we are so successful.

He was 80 years of age last month and has been lord president of the council since 1908.

OUTLAW PHELPS IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Declares That the Killing of Haskins Was Accidental

Greenfield, Mass., June 17.—Silas Phelps, cowed and dejected, pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering Deputy Sheriff Haskins. Judge Field held Phelps without bail for a continued hearing, June 24.

A few minutes earlier, upon his plea of not guilty, Phelps had been held in bonds of $5000 for a continued hearing on June 24 on a charge of assault with intent to kill William M. Penman, superintendent of the Ramage Paper company's mill at Monroe Bridge.

Upon his return to the county jail Phelps talked for a few minutes with the newspaper men. He said that the killing of Haskins was purely accidental. He said that he intended only to frighten the officer and that he did not mean to fire the shot which killed the deputy.

STOCK JOBBERY CHARGED

Wireless Company Officials to Shift Blame on Selling Agency

New York, June 17.—President Christopher C. Wilson and Vice President Samuel S. Bogart of the United Wireless company, who were arrested on federal charges that they were implicated in stock frauds aggregating $20,000,000, will endeavor to escape by shifting the blame on the New York selling agency which advertised the wireless stock, according to a statement made by a representative of the wireless concern.

Chief Inspector Mayer charges that, although the company has been running at a loss, the price of its shares has been advanced by manipulation to fictitious values, and that the officers of the company have sold out their stock to the general public at a profit estimated in one instance at between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, with other instances in proportion.

SITE FOR BIG FIGHT CHOSEN

Goldfield Will Again Loom Prominently on the Map

$120,000 PURSE GUARANTEED

Place Where Gans-Nelson Battle Drew a $60,000 House and Rickard Made His Reputation as Fight Promoter as Well as Getting Good Share of Rushing Business In Saloons and Gambling Halls During Many Weeks

San Francisco, June 18.—Tex Rickard announced that the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be held in Goldfield, Nev., July 4. One hundred and twenty thousand dollars has been guaranteed the promoters by the Goldfield business men, and Rickard says the fight will go to that city unless some other place bids more, which he does not anticipate.

Goldfield is the place where Joe Gans defeated Battling Nelson for the lightweight championship of the world on Sept. 3, 1906, in forty-two rounds, winning on a foul. The fight drew a $60,000 house. The Jeffries-Johnson battle will be the third championship fight to be held in Nevada, as it was in Carson City that Fitzsimmons defeated Corbett for the heavyweight championship.

Tex Rickard has a tender spot in his heart—as tender as a shrewd business man can possess—for Goldfield. It was there that he first came to the fore as a fight promoter.

Rickard managed the Gans-Nelson fight and while he was unknown when he took up the job when he got through with it he had a fame in the sporting world as extensive as that of Goldfield.

That mining town is his old stamping ground; he knows it, and he knows the men there, and while the other possible sites were being discussed the deal was quietly pulled off.

Rickard was a well-to-do resort owner in Goldfield when the Gans-Nelson go was arranged. A committee of Goldfield men was got together to run the affair through as an advertisement for the town.

Rickard got the cold shoulder on most of the committees, but they made him manager, and while the other men remained in the background he loomed as the big chief.

In the weeks of preparation Goldfield was crowded and the saloons and gambling halls did a rushing business. Rickard got a good share of it. While he lost money on the fight, he more than broke even from his other ventures.

Goldfield has been neglected in the talk of the last two days. Other Nevada towns will wonder as to what happened.

Injunction Is Refused

San Francisco, June 18.—Superior Judge Van Nostrand declined to grant a temporary injunction against the Langford-Kaufman fight this afternoon, refusing the petition of Attorney General Webb. The matter of stopping the fight is now one for the governor. The injunction was applied for by Webb on the grounds that the fight would be a public nuisance.

CHARLTON IS GUILTY

Italian Magistrate Says Young American Murdered His Wife

Rome, June 18.—Judge Fracazzi, the examining magistrate, before whom the inquiry into the murder of Mrs. Mary S. C. Charlton has been held at Como, delivered his official report to the foreign office. In it he places the guilt upon the missing husband, Porter Charlton.

Nearly every bit of testimony adduced at the hearing, he reports, tends to show that the crime was committed by Charlton. Beyond this, the judge is convinced that the young American was not himself murdered and that his body is not at the bottom of Lake Como.

As the result of these findings, it is declared here that Constantine Ispolatoff, the Russian arrested soon after the crime was discovered, will soon be released.

Cotton Pool Indictments

New York, June 18.—Indictments were handed up by the federal grand jury in the cotton pool cases which the jury has been investigating. Frank B. Hayne, William P. Brown and E. Scales, named in the indictments, were in court with their counsel. James A. Patten and Morres H. Rothschild were also indicted.

WARRANTS FOR PERJURERS

Said to Have Lied With Great Audacity In Trial of Keliher

Boston, June 18.—In consequence of the conviction of "Big Bill" Keliher and the arrest of Francis J. Wood, one of the witnesses, on a charge of perjury, a number of those who testified at the trial are said to be in a state of panic.

In addition to Wood, four other prominent witnesses, including one of the women who testified, have been accused of perjury by the government.

Warrants for their arrest were sworn out the moment they left the witness stand, but owing to the fact that the service of the warrants had to be deferred until after the verdict was returned, several of them have been able to get away.

In respect to perjury, the trial is said to be the most notorious that has ever been conducted in this district. The audacity with which it was committed led counsel on both sides not only to intimate it strongly to the jury but to openly charge it in their arguments.

WILL QUICKLY FILL MOODY VACANCY

Taft May Name Supreme Bench Justice Next Week

Washington, June 18.—With prompt action by the senate and house on the bill for the retirement of Justice Moody assured, gossip is busy with the question of who will be his successor. It is expected the bill will have passed through both houses and be in the hands of the president not later than Monday night.

The immediate resignation of Moody is looked for. President Taft is expected to appoint a justice next week, and the senate is expected to confirm him before the session ends.

Among the many names suggested as successor to Moody are those of Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis, a Democrat, and special counsel of the government in the recent injunction suit against the roads in western trunk line territory; Judge Vandeventer of the Eighth circuit, a Wyoming resident; Solicitor General Bowers; Henry H. Hoyt, counsellor for the state department, and Judge Deemer of the Iowa supreme court.

REASON NOT DISCLOSED

Connecticut Man Takes Life of a Woman and Himself

Seymour, Conn., June 18.—On the second story balcony of the house here where they had lived as husband and wife, Theodore Withgyk shot and killed Mary Kusko, threw her body to the street, and then going into the house, ended his life with a shot in the head from the same revolver.

No reason for the shooting has been disclosed. The woman was about 36 years old and Withgyk was a few years her senior.

SAILS UP 4503 FEET

World's Aeroplane Record For Altitude Is Broken by Brookins

Indianapolis, June 18.—Walter Brookins, in a Wright biplane, broke the world's aeroplane record for altitude when he soared to a height of 4503 feet, according to the measurement of the altimeter.

His motor stopped as he was descending and he made a glide of two miles, landing easily in a wheat field.

Twenty Years For Killing Wife

Stuttgart to Have Luther Statue

Berlin, June 17.—In spite of the explanation from the Vatican declaring that no offense was intended to non-Catholics, the wave of protest at the recent Borromen encyclical continues to grow. Even in the principal cities of Catholic Bavaria the protest is general, and plans are being made for the erection of a statue to Martin Luther at Stuttgart.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Quincy People Know How to Save It.

Many Quincy people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Quincy citizen's recommendation.

Nicholas Albanese, 16 Gilmore street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I was annoyed by attacks of backache for some time, often while at work sharp, shooting pains darted through my loins, causing me great misery. I also had dizzy spells and my sight seemed to be affected. I tried many remedies, but did not receive relief and as a last resort, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store and in a short time after using them, I was helped. I have no hesitation in giving Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Cutting Remarks about the Safety Razor Girls' Strike—Boston Bacteria are Quoted at Six Hundred for a Cent—Hub's Street Hawkers Will be Trained to Vocalize Like Caruso—Newly Planted Eucalyptus Tree Are to Furnish Another Boston-1915 Plank—Municipal Concerts Have been Very Successful.

Boston, June 17.—"Old rags and bottles" has been set to music before but a philanthropically disposed young woman of nineteen years has set herself to the task of conducting an outdoor school in the South End for developing musical ragmen, hawkers and street venders. Hereafter the rasping monotonous "Strawbe-e-ries," "Soap grease," "Lobsters" and other ear maddening cries of the street will become as the finished tones of the opera singer, and the house-wife will isten with soothed nerves and uplifted soul to the tuneful trills and flute-like voices of the alleyway.

Bacteria in Boston are quoted at $50 per 3,000,000. Six hundred for a cent. That at least is the figure you get from the fine imposed upon a prominent milk contracting firm for distributing milk which contained from 500,000 to 3,000,000 undesirable inhabitants. Considering the danger to infants and invalids—not to mention the rest of us—from the presence of bacteria in such numbers, it might seem that a cent apiece would be none too heavy a fine.

One of the Bostonians interested in the ambitious "Boston-1915" movement is preparing a unique souvenir for that occasion. During a visit to California a few months ago he planted a dozen eucalyptus trees from which in 1915 he proposes to have cut a supply of timber to construct some one of the structures which are to form part o fthe exhibition of that year and afterward a part o fthis material will be worked up into walking sticks which will be presented to those prominently identified with the movement. His plan is rendered feasible by the fact that the rapid growth of the eucalyptus tree brings it to a height of seventy-five feet and a diameter of twelve inches in ten years so that half this period will be amply sufficient for the purpose in mind. The trees that are now growing in California soil in preparation for Boston's great celebration will be under the care of former State Forester G. B. Lull of California who is now in charge of field operations for the Eucalyptus Mahogany Growers, ins., of New York, an organization which is devoting itself to an extremely practical side of the conservation movement in encouraging the growth of a future hardwood timebr supply to replace the rapidly diappearing forests of native hard woods.

The chance to hear President Taft talk and to see the Hub animated by the presence of pretty school teachers from everywhere will bring thousands of New England people who are not professional educators into Boston durin gthe week of the convention of the National Educational Association. This gathering, which opens July 2, will be by far the liveliest affair of the summer of 1910 in Yankeeland, an invasion of the grey old town by a fluttering host, most of them women, from every American state, territory and Canadian province. The Chief Executive himself has promised to make some remarks at a public meeting in the Harvard Stadium, one at which the attendance will rival that of any of the intercollegiate football games. Already the street car people are preparing to take care of this crowd with the dispatch and efficiency for which the Boston Elevated Railway Company has become famous. The headquarters of the Association will be at the old Art Museum building in Copley Square whence the visiting teachers singly and in groups will make excursions to the many points of historic interest in and near the Hub, will luxuriate in plunges into the salt water at South Boston, Nantasket or Revere and in general will enjoy a week or two of seaside Boston as only people from the interior can enjoy it. Receptions and fetes in honor of the delegates are being arranged. The Professional Women's club, for instance, will tender a reception, at which Mr. Taft will be present to leading members of the Association at the Somerset on July 5. Doubtless, as in 1903, some of the delightful estates of Brookline and other suburbs will be thrown open, and a favorable idea of Boston hospitality will thus be given to people man yof whom have been led by the New York comic papers to think of Bostonians as frigid and absolutely unapproachable persons. During and for some days after the convention the teachers will own the town, and it will be strange if the throngs they bring—about forty thousand according to present estimates—is not largely increased by a fringe of interested spectators from the neighboring towns and cities of New England.

Others besides English suffragettes are developing into roystering blades. The two popular Boston women who were recently arrested for distributing handbills to the girls of a well known safety razor factory in South Boston have appealed their case to the Superior Court They seemed to be determined that the women employes of this and other establishments shall become keen and sharp for their own interests through organizing themselves. As a result, perhaps ,of their efforts the girls in the factory have said many cutting things about the management and the judge. It is hoped that there will be no razors flying through the air when the case again comes to trial.

Boston's novel scheme for combining an informal lecture with its municipal concerts has been very successful in its first season. During teh past winter and spring the municipal orchestral concerts have endeavored to popularize the world's best music, and an important feature of the effort has been an explanation of each number by a trained musician and lecturer, no less a person, in fact, than Louis C. Elson, of the New England Conservatory of Music, teacher, music critic and author of many well known works on the history of music. Mr. Elson, following in a general way the plan he has pursued at the music school, gives a brief sketch of the composer of the selection about to be rendered by the orchestra, differentiates the styles of composition, and classes of music of various nations, explains the different instruments, and in general lifts these concerts to the plane of authoritative musical education. It is notable that the masses prefer the really finer things when they are enabled to enjoy them to their full extent through the lecturer's interesting explanations. This plan is one which has attracted widespread attention and is likely to be followed generally.

The need of making the good old Hub of the universe a better village for Boston born young men to stay in, work in, and marry in is something the Boston girl could wish might be impressed upon many crusty New Englanders by reading such a life story as that of John Adams Thayer, whose autobiography, just published under the designation "Astir" is full" of statements which indicate the need hereabouts of coming to life. This energetic publisher, the man who discovered Thomas W. Lawson as a producer of literature, and gained in the Frenzied Finance series the greatest prize ever secured by an American magazine, is one of the many impatient souls who, when they have tried to do things in Boston, have found it difficult or impossible to shake off the dead hand of tradition. Mr. Thayer, the son of abolitionist parents, reared in Cambridge to the delights of Magazine Beach, catcher behind the bat to that swiftest of pitchers, the late John Clarkson, early discovered that the opportunities in the printing trade which he had learned in the eighties were better in Chicago than in Boston. Since then during an eventful business career in which he has been printer, salesman of type founding establishments, advertising manager, business manager and publisher of several of the world's biggest publications, he has at one time and another been back in Boston, but, as when once he wanted to alter the character of a Boston publication in a direction in which he believed there lay a greatly increased circulation, "the delightful gentleman who has been for so many years at the head of this old house was interested, but to change the magazine in any way—never. It was Boston." Fortunately however, with the newly reorganized Chamber of Commerce and with "Boston-1915"' simultaneously making lively times in the old town the American Athens may henceforth be a likelier place for live lads to rustle around in.

Ethel Angier.

COMMENCEMENT.

Northfield Seminary ,the (school founded here by the late D. L. Moody, at its twenty-seventh annual commencement on Tuesday gave diplomas to thirty-seven young women. Rev. F. B. Meyer of London, who took a prominent part in the recent convention at Washington of the World's Sunday School Association of which he is president, delivered the graduation address. Commenting briefly on the status of the higher education of women in England he went on to draw his text from the description of the city of the New Jerusalem, which is four-square. He urged a life of height and depth and breadth; and as that city committed itself as a bride, he by virtue of his office, wedded this class to humanity.

Preparations for the Summer Conferences, which open on the 24th with the gathering of students from the Eastern colleges and preparatory schools, began immediately on the departure of the Seminary girls for their homes. The school buildings will as usual be occupied throughout the summer by the delegates to the various conferences.

PARR'S REWARD DECIDED UPON

Taft and MacVeagh Think He Is Entitled to $100,000

DISCOVERY OF SECRET SPRING

It Helped Government Recover More Than $2,000,000 In Sugar Underweighing Frauds—Deputy Must Wait For His Money, as There Is Not Cash Enough In Fund From Which It Is to Be Drawn

Washington, June 18.—Richard Parr, the customs deputy at New York, who materially assisted the government in recovering more than $2,000,000 in the sugar underweighing frauds, is to be given a reward of $100,000.

The decision to reward Parr in the amount named was reached at a conference held between President Taft and Secretary MacVeagh.

There is not money enough available in the moiety fund in the treasury from which rewards are paid to cover the amount agreed on, so that, unless other arrangements are made, an appeal to congress will have to be made for the necessary appropriation. That, MacVeagh indicated, would not be done at this session of congress.

Parr discovered the secret spring on the dock of the American Sugar Refining company by which the underweighing was carried on. The final discoveries of fraud were made in 1907, since when the government has been engaged in collecting the duties out of which it had been defrauded.

There were two other claimants with Parr for reward. They were Edwin I. Anderson and Charles M. Dally. MacVeagh submitted to Attorney General Wickersham the question whether he was authorized to reward the three men, but the attorney general held that only Parr was entitled to any compensation from the moiety fund.

It was his opinion that the leadership was in Parr. The initiative rested with him and the initiative and action were meanwhile associated with him. The success of the suits to recover money he attributed largely to Parr's work. There is also no doubt, he declared, that Parr was offered large amounts of money and that he was dogged by detectives.

EPIDEMIC OF SUICIDE

Two Lowell Men Slash Their Throats and One Drowns Himself

Lowell, Mass., June 18.—Two young men are dead and one is dying as the result of three attempts at suicide here.

John Gruce, aged 25, a mill operative, is still alive. In a fit of despondency he slashed his throat with a razor, severing the jugular vein.

Thomas J. Donahue, aged 25, overcome by the effects of his celebration of the receipt of a $1000 legacy from Ireland, also cut his throat. He died before he was discovered.

Pietro Simonian, aged 18, a barber, also despondent, threw himself into the Pawtucket canal. Attempts were made to rescue him, but he fought his rescuers.

DOCTOR OF JURISPRUDENCE

Degree Bestowed Upon President Taft by Noted Catholic Institution

Villa Nova, Pa., June 18.—While Colonel Roosevelt's home coming celebration was being held in New York today, President Taft was receiving from the noted Catholic institution at this place the degree of doctor of jurisprudence. He left Washington early this morning and will return this evening.

After attending the Villa Nova commencement, he visited Lincoln university, a negro institution in southern Pennsylvania.

THE KAISER'S SORE KNEE

It Keeps Him Housed Up, but He Is Attending to Business

Potsdam, June 18.—Emperor William is housed up at New Palace with his troublesome right knee, but receives visitors and transacts official business much as though nothing had occurred to hamper his movements.

Inquiriers at the palace are told that the affection of one of the tendons at the knee joint, officially stated to have been caused by overexertion in the saddle, is taking its normal course.

Rain Spoils a Holiday

Boston, June 18.—Although the rain fell in torrents, thousands of people lined the sidewalks to view the military and the firemen's parade in Charlestown in the Bunker Hill day celebration. Two thousand red-shirted firemen were in line. The 5000 military men marched with rivulets running down the back of their necks and uniforms besplashed with mud.

$300,00 to Raise the Maine

Washington, June 18.—The appropriation for raising or removing the wreck of the battleship Maine from the harbor of Havana was increased from $100,000 to $300,000 by an amendment to the deficiency bill.

COVERNOR CALLS IT A POLITICAL MOVE

Draper's Reply to Critics of Civil Service Commission

Boston, June 17.—That Mayor Fitzgerald's demand for the appointment of a citizen of Boston on the civil service commission in place of Frank A. Foxcroft of Cambridge, whose term soon expires, and that the petition of Surveyor of the Port McCarthy for the removal of the commission is "a move made largely to produce political effect," is the statement made by Governor Draper in a letter in answer to Mayor Fitzgerald last night.

Governor Draper makes it obvious that he proposes to reappoint Foxcroft as a member of the commission, and that the petition of McCarthy for the removal of the civil service commission will receive but scant consideration at his hands.

He says of the civil service commission, "that no substantial criticism has been made up to the immediate present that it has not honestly performed its duties."

Boy Aviator Killed

San Francisco, June 18.—When making a practice flight in an aeroplane glider, Eugene Speyer, 17 years old, fell to the ground from a height of fifty feet, suffering injuries which resulted in his death. His mother is a wealthy widow in this city.

Bleriot Scores In Army Test

Paris, June 18.—Aviator Bleriot, who is now serving his term of military service, was ordered suddenly to carry dispatches in his aeroplane from Chalons, where he is quartered, to Paris over a given route. He carried out his orders in brilliant style.

BRIEFS

Miss Fannie F. French is enjoying the summer at Warner, N. H.

The Walter Baker mills were closed on Thursday night not to open again until Monday.

Rev. William E. Gardner, a former rector will preach at Christ church on Sunday at 10.30 A. M.

The district court was in session Friday, but there were no criminal cases to occupy the attention of the court.

Another service for children will be held at Christ church on Sunday at 9.30 A. M.

Holy communion will be observed at Christ church on St. John Baptist's day, Friday, June 24.

The annual picnic of the Sunday school of Christ church will be held Thursday, June 30, at Glen Echo park.

The new Buffalo-Pitts steam roller was put to work this morning on Adams street between Dimmook street and Presidents' bridge.

Miss Alice S. Hatch a teacher in the Washington school has returned to her home in North Marshfield for the summer.

The comedy, A Symphony in Black, will be given in the Universalist vestry Tuesday evening to be preceded by a supper.

As the Rev. Mr. Gardner must leave Quincy for New Hampshire Sunday afternoon he will not preach at the evening service as previously announced, but at the morning service only.

The plasterers are completing their work at the new St. Johns school on Phipps street, the staging having been removed in some of the rooms. The new parochial school will have all the up-to-date improvements.

Many friends of Miss Teresa Keating attended the graduation exercises of the Jonas Perkins school of East Braintree, Friday evening. The special feature was the cantata, "Legend of Bregenz," under the direction of Miss Keating. The solos, duets and quartetts were sung remarkably well by members of the graduating class. The chorus work also reflected great credit on the director.

Mrs. Carl G. Horst entertained the church helpers some thirty-five in all, at her home on Winthrop avenue on Thursday afternoon. The mothers were invited to bring their babies as there would be some girls to care for them. While a number did this there would have been more had the weather been less uncertain. A pleasant time on the lawn was enjoyed by all nevertheless.

SORE ON WEATHER MAN

West Quincy Picnic Held in St. Marys Hall

Although a band had been hired and was in readiness, and special cars had been chartered, and an unbelievable amount of eatables laid in for the picnic of the Ward Four Improvement Association on the holiday at Elcock's grove, Braintree pond, the event was finally abandoned in face of a persistent drizzle of rain. It was thought that the athletic events and baseball game could be played on Ward Four playground, but the rain also balked this plan. Finally St. Mary's hall was secured and the dinner served in the lower hall to ravenous hundreds piping hot. The remainder of the ingredients of the clam-bake were auctioned off by John Evans, who worked up some hot competitive bidding.

The younger people danced in the upper hall. The picnic was not called off until the eleventh hour because every arrangement had been made for a grand affair, but repeated discouraging reports from the Blue Hill observatory finally caused its promoters to go to St. Mary's hall.

The luncheon was served from 4 to 10 P. M. consisting of steamed clams, ham, cheese, sardines, and chicken sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cigars.

In the evening a collection was taken by Joseph Walker for the Fourth of July fund and $40 was contributed.

Completest arrangements had been made and the members of the association feel particularly sore toward the weather man.

BRIEFS

The Rev. Josiah Pope Diderman of Cambridge will preach at Bethany church Sunday Evening.

Col. Edward Anderson of this city as orator at Malden on the holiday received an ovation. He delivered the address at the dedication of the soldiers monument.

The seven-horse portable sprayer is at work today on Chestnut street. Supt. Stewart and his men easily reached all the branches of the noble elms on the Hardwick estate.

Marines from the battleship North Dakota, and seamen from the New Jersey and the Salem took part in the parade at Bunker Hill; also the band from the North Dakota.

The School Committee has awarded the contract for furnishing the schools with coal. The contract for the Georgies Creek coal went to the Neponset River Coal Co., and the contract for the hard coal to J. F. Sheppard & Sons.

TODAY'S COURT.

Daniel J. Moran was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy. Appealed.

Harry T. Rodman of Quincy was sentenced to three months in the house of correction for drunkenness.

Francis J. Sheedy of Weymouth was fined $15; Dick Johnson, John J. Sullivan and John Cullin of Quincy $10 each for drunkenness.

James Henry and Catherine Pidmont of Woonsocket, R. I., were arraigned for lewdness at Quincy and were sentenced to one year in the house of correction. Sentence suspended until Monday. If the parties are married in the meantime the cases will probably be dismissed.

John Delory and George Morrison were arraigned for assault on Percy E. Wood at Weymouth and were fined $25 each.

The liquors seized from John H. Campbell at Quincy were forfeitted.

DARTWELL A WINNER

But a Few Seconds Ahead of the Hustler

One of the sports which the rain does not prevent, if there is a breeze, is a yacht race. Therefore the open race of the Boston Yacht club was held on the holiday although it was necessary to put off the hour for the hour for the start on account of a light air.

The conditions during the race were not such as go to make up an ideal race, and some of the half hundred competing yachts had a hard time finishing. There were seven classes, including Class D in which most of the Quincy Cape Cat boats participated, and the Dartwell of Vice Commodore Ira M. Whittemore registered her first win of the season, beating the Hustler, Commodore Robbins' old boat now owned by R. J. Carpenter, which was the second boat by 21 seconds on corrected time. Rear Commodore Crane's Iris was the third boat, some seven minutes behind the Dartwell on corrected time.

The boats in this class were close together until turning the Quincy mark when the Dartwell and Hustler pulled out ahead and finished with safe leads. The summary of Class D:

CLASS D

RUNAWAYS ARRESTED.

James Henry, aged 21 years, and Catherine Pidmont, aged 18 years, of Woonsocket, R. I., were arrested by Chief Burrell at 136 Canal street Friday, on complaint of the girl's mother. The couple ran away from home May 28, and came to Quincy where they have been living together as man and wife. It was not until this week she traced them to Quincy. She came here Friday and told her story to Chief Burrell who accompanied her to the Canal street boarding house, where they were placed under arrest.

The mother did not care to press her complaint if the couple would get married. This morning in court a sentence of one year in the house of correction was imposed but was suspended until Monday to enable them to get maried. If this is done the cases will probably be dismissed.

BRIDE FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

Miss Nellie Barnes Wife of Arthur B. Foster

Miss Nellie Barnes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter R. Barnes of Oxford, N. H., and Arthur B. Foster, son of Charles C. Foster of Quincy Point, were united in marriage at noon Thursday at the home of the brides parents.

Rev. Henry H. Wentworth performed the ceremony in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. The wedding march by Lohengrin was played by Miss Minnie Willard. The double ring service was used. The bride was becomingly attired in white. Miss Cora Barnes a sister of the bride was maid of honor and was dressed in pink. The best man was C. Frank Foster, a brother of the groom. The decorations consisting of maiden hair fern and syringa were very beautiful.

A wedding breakfast was served in the dining room after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Foster left amid a shower of confetti in an automobile for a short trip through the White Mountain. The happy couple received many beautiful gifts from friends and relatives. They will be at home to to friends after June 25, at 14 Bay View street, Quincy.

COUNTY G. A. R.

Both the Quincy Post and Corps were represented at the annual convention of Norfolk county associations of G. A. R. posts and W. R. C. at Dedham yesterday. In spite of the weather about 400 from all parts of the county attended. James T. Stevens of Post 87, Braintree, was in the chair at the meeting in G. A. R. hall.

The W. R. C. held its session in the hall of the Ames school on Washington street, and was presided over by Mrs. Susie R. Tuckerman of East Milton.

In the afternoon a union meeting was held in the Ames school hall. A resolution was passed expressing sympathy with the posts of Montana in their protest against the placing of a statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in Confederate uniform in the Helena high school hall.

SURPRISE PARTY.

In spite of the threatening weather Friday evening, a large crowd turned out for a birthday surprise party tendered Miss Ella Werme of 25 Station street. The party was originally to be given by the church choir of which she is a member, but to augment the number her Sunday school class of girls was asked to participate. Later invitations were extended others and the house was taxed to its utmost capacity.

During the evening several selections were sung by the choir, and also by Miss Werme's class. Violin and guitar duets were rendered by Victor and Ella Werme. Then the young people enjoyed a few parlor games.

In behalf of those present, Mr. Lundin presented the hostess with a handsome toilet set. She responded briefly expressing her thanks and great appreciation.

Refreshments were served twice during the evening. First the guests were seated at tables when coffee and cake were served, and later ice cream and cake.

Mrs. August Weeden was the committee of one who had made the arrangements for the evening and great credit is due her for its success.

Among those present of the class were: the Misses Esther and aMrie Weeden, Esther Jepson, Madeline Nelson, Amie Blomquist, Ruth Johnson, Tyrara Osterman and Alice Gustafson. Of the choir the following were present: Mr. A. Lundin, Knute Blomquist, Miss Dora Landerholm, Miss Signe Almquist, Miss Ella Werme, Miss Hulda Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Hedman, Clarence Lundin, Mr. A. Weeden and Alfred Hanson. Among others present were: Mrs. August Weeden, Mr. and Mrs. Werme Mrs. J. Johnson, Mrs. A. Nelson, Mrs. O. Gustafson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Swanson, Henry Swanson of Cambridge, Miss Florence Lund, the Misses Esther, Elsie, Helga and Lillian Carlson, Miss Lillian Lindberg, Mrs. J. Almquist, Mr. and Mrs. Werme, Miss Lilian Werme.

Leifield Will Earn His Salary.

"Lefty" Leifield will have a fine opportunity to earn his salary this year. Fred Clarke says he will be disappointed if the veteran southpaw does not pitch at least forty games for the Pittsburg world's champions.

Close Contest in Hose Laying and Ladder Raising

The weather man was certainly good to the Quincy merchants Saturday afternoon, for while it rained hard in Boston and elswhere, the sun for the greater part of the afternoon shone brightly in Quincy. Shortly before 2 o'clock there were several heavy peals of thunder and the sky began to blacken, so that it was thought by many that Quincy was in for a storm good and strong. The black clouds soon disappeared, however, and a few minutes later the sun came out again. Once during the afternoon, a few drops of rain fell, but that also soon passed away so that as a whole the afternoon as far as weather was concerned was all that could be desired.

The several pieces of fire apparatus of the city never looked more attractive and formidable than it did Saturday. Every piece of brass shone like a diamond. The horses, always handsome, looked fine, every hair glistening in the sun light, showing the excellent care received. Quincy has every reason to feel proud of its fire department and no one who witnessed the parade and trials could for a moment regret the amount of money required each year to maintain it at its high standard.

It was just 2.10 o'clock when Mayor Shea pulled Box 26. Few however, in City Square, knew that the alarm had been sounded for the bell on the First church did not strike. The first intimation was when Chief Williams came dashing through the square from the south followed by the Central Station, West Quincy and Houghs Neck apparatus. At the same time District Chiefs Packard and Nyhan came into the square from the north followed by the apparatus from Wollaston, Atlantic and Quincy Point.

THE PARADE.

The several pieces of apparatus then went to Hancock Square near the Adams Academy where the procession was formed. The several companies then paraded by City Hall past the judges Messrs. Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., Dr. Francis Abele and Daniel Desmond. The formation of the procession was as follows:—

National Band.
Chief Williams and Driver.
District Chiefs Packard and Nyhan.
Steamer 1.
Combination Hose 1.
Combination Ladder 1.
Hose 3, West Quincy.
Ladder 3, West Quincy.
Hose 4, Quincy Point.
Combination 2, Atlantic.
Combination 3, Houghs Neck.
Hose 2 Wollaston.
Combination ladder 2, Wollaston.

THE PRIZES.

Passing through Hancock street, Cottage avenue and Chestnut street to Hancock street, the line again passed the judges. It was not however until a third time that the awards for the best single, two and three horse hitches were made. These prizes were cups and were awarded as follows:—

Three horse team to Steamer 1, driven by James Connell.

Two horse team to Combination ladder 2, of Wollaston, driven by Frank Genero.

Single horse team, to Hose 4, Quincy Point, driven by A. L. Mead.

The several fire companies looked very neat, especially the men on the steamer with their blue suits and white caps. The men of Hose 1 and H. & L. 1 wore khaki suits and black caps. Hose 3 and H. & L. 3 men wore khaki suits with blue shirts and black caps. Hose 4 men wore blue shirts and soft felt hats. Combination 2 men wore fire helments and the men of Hose 2 and H. & L. 2 wore khaki pants and shirts with bright four in hand ties and black caps. Combination 3 men wore ordinary business suits.

By the time the parade was over the square was black with people. Every window in the Adams building and the Savings Bank building held its little group of sight seers. The Granite City club whose rooms are on the upper floor of the Savings Bank building kept open house for the ladies of its members and many of them had an unobstructed view of the parade and play out from the windows. During the Afternoon a light lunch was served to the ladies.

HOSE LAYING CONTEST.

Following the parade came the trials of the several hose companies. The single horse teams and the Houghs Neck combination were to make a short run, lay a line of hose and get water through it, while the Central station and Atlantic combinations were to run, lay two lines of hose and get water through both lines. The company which made the best time was to get a cup.

Hose 2 of Wollaston made the first trial and did the trick in 20 seconds.

Hose 4, of Quincy Point came next and did the trick in 25 seconds.

Combination 3 of Houghs Neck required 23 1-2 seconds.

Hose 3 of West Quincy was the last of the single horse companies and they stood a good chance of winning out. They were very quick, but unfortunately the water came before the nozzle had been attached and no time was taken.

Combination 2, of Atlantic was the first of the three-horse teams to have a try out. They made the run in good time, but unfortunately did not lay but one line of hose. They were therefore out of it.

Then came Hose 1 of the Central station with Driver Faircloth handling the ribbons. This company laid its two lines of hose and water came through them simultaniously. Their time was 19 1-2 seconds. This company was awarded the cup.

LADDER RAISING.

The next trial was that of raising ladders in front of the First church. Starting at the sound of the gun the men raised a 40 foot extension ladder and put a man at the top.

Combination ladder 1 of the Central station did the trick in 15 seconds.

Hook and Ladder 3 of West Quincy then came to the line. Chief Williams cried out, "are you ready." At that, without waiting for the gun, the company raised its ladder, and did the trick in 10 1-2 seconds. As they started ahead of time they were made to try again. This time they made the start on time, and in just 10 1-4 seconds Albert Bellevue reached the top round of the ladder.

Then Hook & Ladder 2 of Wollaston had its try, and did the trick in 11 3-4 seconds.

The cup was given to Hook & Ladder 3 of West Quincy. The judges on these trials were Chief George F. Choate of Milton, Chief F. O. Whitmarsh of Braintree, John Kelley of Braintree and Henry Miller of Quincy.

GREAT WORK OF STEAMER.

This concluded the trials of skill and the only thing left was for the new Steamer to show what she could do in throwing water. The steamer was located at the new hydrant in front of the Adams building on Temple street and first threw water through two lines of hose. Two powerful streams were thrown. Then came a trial of the "Hart gun." This gun was located on an aerial frame on the Central station truck. It took some minutes to get the frame up and ready. Then four lines of hose were taken up the frame, two lines from a hybrant were attached to one gun, and two lines from the Steamer to the other. The last trial was of two lines from the steamer into one gun and the volume of water which was thrown was astonishing and would readily drown out any ordinary fire in a few minutes.

This concluded the exhibition of the afternoon. Everything had been carried out according to the program arranged and without a hitch. It had been witnessed by a large crowd that filled City Square and they required active work on the part of the officers on duty to keep the crowd back out of the way so as not to interfere with the firemen.

Band concerts were given during the afternoon and evening by the National band stationed in the band stand near Bethany church, and City Square had one of its liveliest days.

GASOLENE STARTS BLAZE

Two Men at Abbott & Miller Garage Burned

Two alarms from Box 25 at 11.10 this noon sent the department flying to the junction of Canal and Newcomb streets. The fire was in the garage of Abbott & Miller, and besides damaging one of their big trucks, burned two men, but fortunately neither severely. The men were Amadi Ghetti and Arthur Boynton. Ghetti was burned about the hands, arms and face, and Boynton had his mustache and hair singed. Quick work on the part of both men prevented them from being seriously burned.

Ghetti was in the pit beneath the truck assisting Boynton, who was in the body of the truck putting in some new bolts. One of the red hot bolts was accidently dropped, and landed in some loose gasoline in the bottom of the pit. In an instance there was a flash and explosion. Ghetti managed to crawl out from his perilous position and Boynton lost no time in jumping from the car and sounding the alarm.

The blaze set fire to the bonnet of teh truck which was burned off. The body was also somewhat burned. Unless the heat has taken the temper from the steel frame and axes, the damage will not be heavy. The fire was extinguished with a chemical stream.

Ghetti had his burns treated by Dr. Hardwick.

HEARTY WELCOME.

After an absence of two years the Rev. William E. Gardner, former rector of Christ church, stood in its pulpit again Sunday morning. He expressed greatest joy at again being with them, if only for a short time, and congratulated Mr. Armstrong and the congregation on their work and its results.

Mr. Gardner spoke chiefly on the mission work throughout the world. Few people realize, he said, the value of concerted effort put forth at the present time, since in ten years from now, as calculated by experts, the non-Christian world will no longer be amendable to conversion. The foreign missions of all churches have made China the main object of their work as the most thickly populated non-Christian country of the world. Three-fourths of the people on the globe are non-Christian today, so that immense effort must be put forth before a change in condition, as predicted, shall remove the probability of reform.

Mr. Gardner, as secretary of the Episcopal Mission society is in charge of funds aggregating $300,000. After his sermon Mr. Gardner with Mrs. Gardner were the center of an impromptu reception were warmly greeted by former friends. Christ church was crowded with those desiring to see both. Mr. Gardner was originally to have spoken at the evening service, but other arrangements were unfortunately necessary, and he left Quincy for New Hampshire early in the afternoon.

JOHNSON—ANDERSON.

Miss Ester Ardie, daughter of John, W. Anderson, and Charles Arvid Johnson, were united in marriage Saturday at the home of the bride, at 29 School street, the ceremong being performed at 7 o'clock by Rev. George W. Palmgren.

The bridesmaids were Miss Emily Nilson, Miss Helga Johnson and Miss Edith Johnson. The groom was attended by Rube Duff, Jean Algerison and John Fullgren. Miss Evelyn Smitters was the flower girl. The bride and her attendants were gowned in white, and the flower girl in pink.

The reception and wedding supper followed the ceremony and was very largely attended. During the reception there were flute solos by Mr. Johnson, and piano selections by Mr. Proverst. Guests were present from Bath, Me., Cambridge, Dorchester, Hudson, Milton and Boston.

PRIZES FOR BABIES

G'ven at Show for Benefit of Quincy Day Nursery

A baby show for the benefit of the Day Nursery fund was held in Union hall, Saturday afternoon by the Children's club, which is composed of 48 children, who have been drilled under the direction of Mrs. Grace Condon. The tickets were sold by the little ones and a large sum realized.

One of the features was a night dress drill, in which the members carrying candles and arrayed in night gowns gave a drill which brought forth hearty applause. The dresses worn will be given to the poor children of the city.

Prizes were awarded as follows:

Fairest baby, Stanley Frank Melville.

Darkest baby, Isadore Szathmary.

Heaviest baby, Pearl L. Madison, weighing 38 pounds at 16 months.

Lightest baby, John Gabriel, 12 pounds at 7 months.

Prizes for the best dressed dolls were awarded to Ellen Wright, Pearl Condon, Hilda O'Brien and Beatrice Johnson.

The judges of babies and dolls were Mrs. Thomas Addison, Mrs. B. N. French, Miss Mary Buttrick and Miss Bertha Newcomb.

There was an entertainment by the children, the feature of which was an Italian song by Lucia Adasalvo.

Mrs. Thomas Addison made an address on the work of the Nursery. Beginning with one child in 1903, the Day Nursery had taken care of 450 children up to June 1. She paid a fine tribute to the self sacrificing work of the matron, Mrs. Loring.

HOUGHS NECK LIBELLED

Such the Belief of Chief of Police and Others

Although there was a very large crowd at Houghs Neck Saturday night and Sunday there was no disturbance. Chief Burrell and a number of officers in citizen's dress were at the beach all day but found none of the clubs or other persons who were not behaving themselves. Neither did they find any such conditions as has been said to exist at the beach. It is also understood that Rev. Fr. Coan of St. John's church has also been making a quiet investigation of conditions at the beach, and has been there several nights unbeknown to the public, looking into matters to see for himself if the conditions were such as had been publicly stated.

Evidently he did not find them so, for it is reported that Sunday at the services at the Houghs Neck church, he took occasion to deny some of the statements that had been made. Several councilmen were also at the beach Sunday looking over the ground to see what was doing.

While the temperature was not as high this noon as it was on Tuesday and Wednesday last week it was more uncomfortable today, for it was hot and oppressive with hardly a breath of air.

JUNE FESTIVAL AT WOLLASTON

The Midway or Fakirs Row Was the Big Attraction

Electric Display in the Evening Beautiful

After two postponments on account of inclement weather the third annual June festival was held at the summit of Winthrop avenue Saturday afternoon and evening by the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The decorations of flags and bunting were attractive, but the evening illumination in which many hundreds of electric lights were used exceeded the most sanguine expectations. From a tower, outlined in electric lights and standing thirty feet high, strings of electric lights extended under the trees on both sides of the street and over the broad lawns, festooning the booths and making the whole scene as light as day. On the booths were set pieces while here and there were hung many Japanese lanterns, the whole making a sight worth coming a long distance to see.

The premier attraction, and one which drew the largest crowd when in full swing, was the midway or Fakirs row, operated by a large committee of the young men. Here were seen the Artful dodger with Louis Weston and Wallace Bennett as the artists. Every time a hit was made a cigar of the "best" brand was handed out by the barker, Clarence Armstrong.

The shooting gallery was in charge of Clifton Baker, and Ned Taylor, while Selden George and George Browne drew many a nickel with the Japanese rolling game.

Canes to be rung were in charge of Frank Bishop and Arwin Page. G. Ernest Carr and Irving L. Shaw conducted the Japanese babies.

Automobile rides proved a star attraction from early in the afternoon until closing time. A lunch counter was conducted in the evening and an Italian orchestra rendered selections intermittently. The younger set were much disappointed over the omission of dancing, which has been a feature other years, but interested themselves in the many other attractions that were afforded.

In tents in the background was a camp where gypsies in appropriate costume read one's palm, while Miss Fannie L. Johnson told stories to the children.

The June Festival has come to be an annual fixture, and one that is always looked forward to with pleasant anticipation. That of this year proved no exception.

The festival was in charge of the parish committee, which consists of Dr. C. S. Adams, Nathan S. Robinson, Walter J. Wellington, Newell O. Parker, Edward J. Cummings, Rufus F. Leach, David T. Whiton, Roy C. Baker.

Composing the sub committees were:

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Let us hope, now that we are to have a few fair days, that June may live up to traditions.

Admirers of Roosevelt should be supporters of Senator Lodge, for these gentlemen are close friends. The only senator to go to Oyster Bay to be the guest over Sunday was the senior senator from Massachusetts. Col. Roosevelt looks to Mr. Lodge to enlighten him on affairs political in this country. Massachusetts has one of the foremost men in Congress in Senator Lodge whose ability is recognized throughout the nation.

Quincy and New York should feel thankful for the weather on Saturday for their gala days. In Quincy it was threatening all day. In New York the deluge did not come until after the parade. Boston and towns to the west and north had rain, which caused the garden party of Wellesley college to be a failure, postponed the field day at Newton, and caused death and destruction by lightening at Scituate, Revere, Watertown, Melrose, Malden, Medford, Arlington, Stoneham, Wakefield and Worcester.

Col. Roosevelt's addresses at New York were brief, but in hearty appreciation of the welcome extended. There was one part of his remarks very pleasing to the people generally, when he said:

> "I am ready and eager to do my part so far as I am able in helping solve problems which must be solved if we of this, the greates t democratic republic upon which the sun has ever shone, are to see its destinies rise to the high level of our hopes and its opportunities."

Somehow we seem to need the Colonel to help in the fight.

HIGH COST OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

We have aparently gone crazy about spending money and every time some one thinks up a fresh way of getting rid of it, we sit up and lament loudly the increased cost of living. As some one has aptly put it, it is not the struggle to make both ends meet that is consuming our time and energy, it is the constant endeavor to make those ends meet and tie in an elaborate bow-knot. The universe would hold together just as well if the ends just met, but that would not do for us at all. We want to think of some way to spend about one-third again as much as we have and then lay the blame to the tariff or the trusts or some other conveniently remote cause.

It would be interesting to hear the comments that would be made if some of our grandfathers could come to life for a short time. What would they say to see their descendants sneaking in as if they were ashamed to eat a dinner of perfectly good food, well served, but only costing perhaps fifty cents? Would they lay this sort of performance to the tariff? Not they, grandfather would say: "I did as much work as John is doing, for half the salary, and saved money on it. I was comfortably clothed and housed. But I wasted no time in trying to see if I couldn't look like a multi-millionaire and act like a fool." And grandfather would be right.

The whole trouble is that down in our inner consciousness we know just what the trouble is. We know we are extravagant and improvident. That is why we try to blame the tariff and the world in general for what we have not the honesty to confess is mostly our own fault. Some day we will wake up and the cost of living will come down with a bang. We will then be on a more solid foundation and will not have to worry because the automobile is running around with yesterday's flowers in it.—Fibre and Fabric.

Alpha Hall—cool and well ventilated. Special low rental prices for summer season.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

The Summer School will open its session on Tuesday morning, July 5, at the Women's Club House, Goffe street.

The school will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Mackay, chairman of the Education committee, assisted by the ladies of that committee.

The school term will be six weeks, beginning July 5th and closing August 13th.

Girls residing in Quincy between the ages of nine and seventeen are invited to attend this school free of charge.

The hours for lessons will be from nine o'clock until half past eleven in the morning.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Training by Miss Ruth Bass of Sargent's school of Gymnastics. All sorts of exercises for development of the body, games and dancing. Most of the work to be done out of doors.

Home Nursing by Miss Blanche M. Thayer, Superintendent of Quincy City Hospital. In this course girls will be taught to prepare the bed for sick persons, to give baths and change clothes; how to dress wounds and give first aids; how to restore fainting persons; what are the symptoms of the commonest contagious diseases; the importance of isolation; personal hygiene and other important information which will be of great assistance to them through life besides teaching them the things which make for the health of the community. A prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Current Events. There will be a course in current events and a prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Spelling. Some time will be devoted to the old fashioned spelling-matches. The girl who spells correctly the largest number of words will receive a prize.

Vocational Work. The Education Committee hopes to be able to do some Vocational Work among these girls this summer. It will be their aim to find out what the girls who do not expect to go to High school are thinking of doing in the autumn and to be able to assist such girls in finding employment best suited to their capabilities.

Business Course. Some simple work among the girls instructing them about receipts, how to make out money orders, checks, the importance of signatures and ordinary business formalities, which women ought to know.

Household Art. Mrs. Stanley Bone will give a series of twelve lessons in Household Art. In this course it is expected that girls who cannot go to High School will be taught how to go into the kitchen and prepare wholesome plain meals and then leave the kitchen in perfect order. There will be a prize in this course for the girl who does the best work.

Music Some time will be devoted to music, Probably the learning of familiar songs.

It is expected that there will be four or five first-class lectures for the girls. The topics will be: "How a Statue Grows" by Mrs. H. H. Kitson. "The Story of a Great Painting" by Miss Georgiana Lane. "How a Great Musical Composition is Created," by Mrs. Chandler Smith. "Poetry and Moral Lessons" by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston (if possible.)

To the girl who gives back the best reproduction of these five lectures a prize will be given.

Swimming Lessons. These lessons will be given to girls who cannot swim upon days when the tide is high during the school hour. It may be possible to have these lessons in the afternoons.

Inspection of Gardens. There were started in this city one thousand home gardens. These gardens are to receive inspection. The inspectors are so systematizing their work that it can be divided and sub-divided. Any person interested in the garden work is invited to accompany inspectors on their rounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best specimens raised in the Home Gardens.

Swimming Class for Clerks. On Wednesday afternoons during the six weeks of the Summer School a teacher will be in readiness to teach the art of swimming to girls who have only that time for recreation. Those desiring to have these lessons will please give their names to Mrs. Souther at Wadsworth's store.

MINUS A FEW DEGREES.

The distinguished traveller who is now homeward bound brings not a few foreign degrees with him in addition to his African spoil. He is Theodore Roosevelt, A. B., LL. D., Litt. D., Ph. D., D. C. L. There is still wanting the degree of doctor of science for eminence in natural history, and the degree of doctor of divinity for skill in exhortation. Thus two American institutions of learning have a chance to round out the list.—Providence Journal.

FALL CAMPAIGN PLANS BEGUN

Hard Fight In Massachusetts For Control of Legislature

AMES' CANDIDACY IS NO JOKE

Senatorial Election and Redistricting Increase Importance of Election—New Apportionment Greatly Reduces Number of Republican Delegates to State Convention In Several Counties, There Being 238 Less

Boston, June 20.—Both the Democratic and the Republican parties are preparing to wage an energetic campaign for control of the legislature next winter. Both have begun operations, the Republicans having prepared their auxiliary committees and the Democrats having already held one meeting.

There are several things in connection with next year's legfslature that make the fight for membership in it of considerably more importance than in any other campaign for many years. One of these is the United States senatorship, and even at Republican headquarters in this city there is no longer any inclination to take Congressman Butler Ames as a joke.

Besides that is the fact that a redistricting of the state into congressional districts will be ordered by congress next winter, following the census that is now being compiled. Both parties have their eye on that redistricting, and the party that has supervision of it is certain to have an immense advantage in the election of congressmen during the next ten years.

There will be 1578 delegates in the Republican state convention next September, but 238 less than a year ago, when there were 1816, comprising the largest political convention ever held in Massachusetts.

The apportionment, which was made public at state headquarters, is on the basis of one delegate to each 75 votes cast for governor last November, and every county in the state, with the exception of Dukes and Nantucket, has suffered a cut in its representation. The former county stands pat with eight delegates and the latter with three.

The largest loss sustained by any county is in Middlesex, where the roll will be 46 smaller than in last year's convention. Suffolk comes next with a loss of 37, while Essex is trailing close with a loss of 36, and Worcester is not far behing with a cut of 30. Barnstable comes closer to maintaining its standing than any of the other mainland counties, it losing but 1 delegate, while Hampshire loses only 2 and Franklin 9. Berkshire loses 18 delegates, Bristol 19, Hampden 21, Norfolk 15 and Plymouth 14.

Middlesex, as usual, still maintains first place in the apportionment, it being entitled to 355 delegates, with Suffolk second on an apportionment of 229.

THREE DEAD, MANY INJURED

Engineer Who Forgot His Orders Responsible For Serious Accident

Norwich, N. Y., June 20.—A passenger train loaded with emigrants, en route to the west, was wrecked at Parker. Three passengers were killed and twenty-five were injured, several seriously. The wreck occurred when the emigrant train dashed into a locomotive running light.

The engineer and firemen on the train escaped serious injury.

The engine running light was returning to Sydney from Guilford summit. Engineer Kingman had orders to wait at the summit until the second section of No. 5 had passed, but he forgot his orders and was dropping back to Sydney, when at a sharp curve he collided with a heavily loaded passenger train, which was running about thirty miles an hour, up the heavy grade. The light engine, making about twenty-five miles, struck it head on.

TRUCK OWNERS' GREAT LOSS

Gang Has Stolen $92,000 Worth of Goods During Past Three Months

New York, June 20.—According to statements made in court by a special officer of the New York Truck Owners' Association, $92,000 worth of goods has been stolen during the past three months from trucks standing in the streets by an organized gang.

William Tuohey and Arthur Hanlon were arraigned and locked up for want of bail, charged with driving off a truck last week loaded with $15,000 worth of goods.

He has bequeathed $60,000 for a high school building, $50,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building and $40,000 for a hospital in Ottawa.

ADOPTED AT AGE OF FORTY

Pittsburg Woman Becomes Legal Daughter of 70-Year-Old Spinster

Pittsburg, June 20.—In common pleas court No. 2, Judge Hayman presiding, an order of adoption was issued which makes a woman 40 years old the legal daughter of a woman aged 70.

The elder woman is Misss Mary L. McIntosh, a very sick woman, of Pittsburg, who relates in the petition for the adoption that she was never married and has no heirs; that Ida S. Leight, aged 40, has never married, and has lived at the home of Miss McIntosh for thirty years, or since the death of Miss Leight's parents.

The order of the court gives the adopted woman the rights of a child and heir, and directs that her duties shall be those of a child to its parents.

CHANLER WEDS CAVALIERI

Plea For Early Wedding Accepted by Grand Opera Singer

Paris, June 20.—Robert W. Chanler of New York, grandson of the late John Jacob Astor, and Mlle. Lina Cavalieri, the grand opera singer, were married by the mayor of the eighth arrondissement of Paris. Only the witnesses of the contracting parties were present.

The marriage was originally planned for autumn. Mlle. Cavalieri had engagements to sing in Russia and South America, but she became slightly ill and her physician advised against both trips.

Mr. Chanler followed the singer to Paris, and when he arrived here repressed for an early marriage. In this he was successful, and they waited only until the necessary papers for the bride could be obtained from Italy.

WILL SURELY FIGHT ON FOURTH OF JULY

Principals Don't Care Where the Big Mill Comes Off

San Francisco, June 20.—"We'll fight somewhere on July 4. We don't care much where."

This was the gist of the interviews given last night by both Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson. Neither principal seems to be affected by the action of the governor in preventing the championship battle from coming off in San Francisco.

"What difference does it make where we fight?" asked Jeffries. "If we have to go to Nevada, it will be as fair for me as it will be for Johnson, and I guess we'll both be in shape, no matter where the ring is pitched. They'll find me ready."

Johnson was equally positive. "I don't care if I fight here or in Kalamazoo," said the negro champion. "I'll be ready, and from the reports I get from Jeff's camp, he will be, too. There'll be a fight on July 4, be sure of that."

STAR BOARDER SKIPS

So Does Landlord's Daughter, and He Asks Police to Find Them

Middleboro, Mass., June 20.—Miss Eleanor Pittsley, aged 16, of Rock Village, left her home Saturday morning, as did Edward McLaughlin, aged 22, and the police of Middleboro have been asked to locate them.

A couple answering to their description visited the city clerk's office in New Bedford Saturday, but it was closed. It is believed that they have now gone to Brooklyn, where they will probably try to be married, although the father of the girl has asked the police to prevent the wedding if possible.

Pittsley is a farmer and his wife keeps a private boarding house. McLaughlin, who is a shoe operative in Middleboro, has been the favored boarder at the Pittsley home for two years.

The girl's parents are irate over the disappearance and hope to be able to prevent the marriage.

SUICIDE IN A STABLE

Hostler Evidently Intended to Also Take Life of a Woman Friend

Portland, Me., June 20.—An attempted murder and then suicide is the solution entertained by the police officials here as the result of the autopsy performed upon the body of Walter G. Hanscomb, who was found dead in a livery stable at Gorham with the unconscious form of Mrs. May Stewart. The result of the autopsy therefore disposes of the theory that a third party may have been concerned in the tragedy.

Mrs. Stewart, who was shot in the head, is in a critical condition. The woman had been separated from her husband for some time and had been on friendly terms, it is said, with Hanscomb, who was a hostler.

Congress Cuts Lawyer's Fee

Washington, June 20.—Resisting as extortionate a proposed appropriation of $5000 for legal services engaged to defend the house committee on printing against a charge of violating a contract made with the Valley Paper company of Holyoke, Mass., the house cut down the payment for such services to $1500.

INSURANCE RETURNS

Life Companies Paid Quincy People $116,303 in Year

It is estimated by the Insurance Press that $116,303 were paid to Quincy people by life insurance companies during the year 1909. This amount is divided as follows: Quincy, $43,418; Wollaston, $49,360; West Quincy $23,525.

The total paid to Massachusetts people was $25,500,000. This includes death claims and matured endowments. Perhaps some of the $7,021,037 credited to Boston went to Quincy and other cities. According to the Massachusetts list, 36 cities and towns received more than Quincy.

Those receiving over $200,000 in order of amount were: Boston, Sprinkfield, Brookline, Holyoke, Lynn Beverly, Cambridge, Fall River, Worcester, Lowell, Newton, Somerville, Haverhill, Brockton, Salem, Lawrence, Malden, North Adams, New Bedford and Winchester.

In the class from $200,000 to $100,000 were: Melrose, Westfield, Taunton, Watertown, Woburn, Leominster, Waltham, Marlboro, Pittsfield, Greenfield, Danvers, Chicopee, Lenox, Arlington, Norwood, Spencer, Quincy, Newburyport, Northampton, Lee, Adams and Reading.

One would expect to find Quincy higher in the list, but sometimes one large policy puts a small town ahead of a city.

The payment in Hyde Park was $73,827, in Milton $60,480, in Dedham $34,259, in Weymouth $31,030, in Hingham $24,138.

The only states to receive larger returns than Massachusetts were New York and Pennsylvania. It would be of interest to compare with the above the payments made by people to the insurance companies.

PROFESSORS' SALARIES.

While the universities of the land are receiving the most munificent gifts, while millions are devoted to the construction of marble halls and ivory towers, the wives of the college professors are trying to make both ends meet on their husbands' average salary of $2,500 a year. The size of some professors' families fails to support the theory of race suicide, but their stipends for training the youth of this great and wealthy country afford a pretty clear demonstration of the beginnings of race homicide among the more cultivated members of the race. College professors must be presentable socially and as befits their learned station. They have not the means to rear their families.

If the plight of the professors is evil, that of the assistant professors is worse. Consultation of Bradstreet's tables shows that the cost of living has increased 50 per cent. during the period in which the assistant professor must serve before being promoted. The young men who choose a career in a university must, of course, and gladly do, abandon expectation of riches. But they should be permitted to live, not merely to exist, on a wage that is exceeded by the bricklayer's. After a general and specific investigation Prof. Guido H. Marx of Stanford University recently reported in Science that assistant professors have found their salaries inadequate to support them comfortably as celibates, and many are seriously debating whether to resign their positions.

There is something unsound in university administration when the Faculties are so ill-paid. Possibly competition with the State universities, which are steadily voting percentage increases of salary to their Faculties, will stir the majority of privately endowned institutions to action. But their Trustees have been too long asleep.

Wrestling For Rent.

In several cantons of Switzerland the custom prevails of holding wrestling matches and other exhibitions of physical strength at their choral, gymnastic and rifle festivals. The champions taking part in these athletic sports belong to the most diverse ranks in the social scale. Thus at a recent festival at Grenchen, a little town in the canton of Soleure, a wealthy property owner and his tenant, a carpenter, stepped into the arena to wrestle according to the rules of the art. There were to be four rounds, or "falls." The stake for each "fall" was one quarter's rent. After the carpenter had thrown his landlord four times the victor's prize was awarded to him, and he accordingly found himself entitled to live in his house rent free for a whole year.

PARADE, SPORTS AND FIREWORKS

Are the Features Now Included in Quincy Fourth of July Program

Over $500 Subscribed and $2,000 Is the Estimate

Over $500 are now in the treasury for the Fourth of July celebration. At the meeting Saturday evening these reports were made:

For Ward One, Galen Vinton Bowditch returned $40, and A. N. LaBrecque, $120.

For Ward Two, $70.

For Ward Three, $74.

For Ward Four $125.

Ward Five made no return.

Ward Six also made no return.

This, with a sum of over 100 collected by E. R. Stone, makes a grand total of $537 collected without organized effort.

After hearing the reports of the committees, estimates of the amount each ward could turn in were requested, and given as follows:—Ward One, 300; Ward Two, $200; Ward Three, $300; Ward Four, $300; Ward Five, $500; Ward Six $100. These amounts give atotal of $1700, which is only a rough estimate.

George H. Elcock, for the Fireworks committee stated that he must enter into his contracts Monday in order to have them properly fulfilled, and requested that his appropriation, 500, be approved. Unless this was done, said Mr. Elcock he could not, sign a contract, since there would be no surety for payment.

A delegation from the C. L. U. attended the meeting and requested to know why certain printing had been done without the union label, after an agreement had been made to the effect that all work of that nature should bear the union label.

The secretary of the Publicity committee explained that the job had been a rush one, and no union shop would guaratee it on time, therefore under a clause of the agreement between the committee and C. L. U., which provides for union labor "as far as possible," he had the work done at a local non-union shop in order to get it out in time. The labor representatives resented the words "as far as possible," and maintained that they had no place in the agreement. However, the matter was amicably settled so that the committee will act as heretofore.

A motion was put and carried to eliminate the balloon ascension, that the money might be expended for the children's entertainment.

The athletic committee reported the necessity for the immediate appropriation of money that entries might be secured, and in view of the fact that $1500 was estimated as the minimum contribution of the city, 300 was allowed. The size of the amount occasioned considerable discussion, and was finally compromised at that amount with more if possible up to $500.

The parade committee was voted $400, and should the collection prove large a sufficient sum to raise the present amount to $1000 or 1100, this addition to be proportionate as the size of the first appropriation.

The executive committee estimated the returns at $2000, and feel sure that it is safe to sign contracts, two sub-committees having been authorized to do so at once.

The financial committees will report again Thursday evening at a meeting of the executive committee.

The committee will ask the City Council for an apropriation of $299. A list of subscribers will be printed in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

PRESBYTERIANS SUCCESSFUL

Over $500 in Excess of the Amount Set

Though all the money collected in the $6,000 campaign of the First Presbyterirn church has not yet been turned in, the sum now on hand is $550 in excess of the amount sought. The campaign lasted but one short week yet the teams were able to gain the desired object by systematic work.

Enthusiastic collectors convassed the city and worked with the greatest success. The congregation and pastor, Rev. J. A. Matheson, are overjoyed at their success. The money will be used for extensive and much needed repairs and a general remodeling of the church. The teams were given a supper by the Ladies Aid when the last returns were made Saturday night.

The teams made their returns the totals being as follows:

Team 1, J. J. McLennan,	$ 583
Team 2, W. J. McLeod,	1059
Team 3, D. J. McLennan	427
Team 4, Robert Craig,	590
Team 5, Alex Clark,	838
Team 6, George Craig,	617
Team 7, J. Matheson,	935

FINED FOR ASSAULT.

There has been bad blood between James P. Doherty and Joseph F. Garrity for some time. Doherty claims that about a month ago he came from Botson and meeting some friends at South Quincy they adjourned to the Water street ball field where after a time they were overcome with sleep. Awakening later he found that his bundle and watch and chain were missing. He claims that Garrity is responsible for the disappearance of the articles. Saturday the two men met at Brewers corner, and for a few minutes the hair flew. Blows fell thick and fast and those who witnessed the fight saw a representation of what the coming fight between Johnson and Jeffreys may be. Who was the best man was not decided as Officer Milford as referee collared both men and sent them to the police station. In court they were arraigned for mutual assault and assessed $15 each by the court. Garrity appealed.

The Antiquity of the Organ.

The organ is the most magnificent and comprehensive of all musical instruments. While the pipes of Pan, aside from that mythical personage, indicate a very ancient use of pipes as a means of producing musical sounds, the "water organ of the ancients" furnishes to the student of organ history the first tangible clew regarding the remote evolution of the instrument. In the second century the magripha, an organ of ten pipes with a crude keyboard, is said to have existed, but accounts of this instrument are involved in much obscurity. It is averred that an organ, the gift of Constantine, was in the possession of King Pepin of France in 757, but Aldhelm, a monk, makes mention of an organ with "gilt pipes" as far back as the year 700.

CHILDREN'S SUNDAY

Several Little Ones Christened at Wollaston Unitarian

Children's Sunday was observed at the Sunday morning service of the Wollaston Unitarian church when five infants were christened and an address delivered by Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of the Quincy schools.

Superintendent Barbour spoke not from the viewpoint of an expert in Sunday school work, but simply as a former Sunday school pupil and as a school administrator interested in boys and girls. "Although not interested in any particular Sunday school," said Mr. Barbour, "I am deeply interested in Sunday school development which has been most remarkable in recent years. At present, in the United States and Canada, over eighteen million are connected with the Sunday school which nearly equals the number enrolled in the public schools."

The Sunday school attended in a body occupying the central portion of the church. The songs used were carols from the Sunday school books. Several selections were rendered by the chorus choir.

The church was attractively decorated with wild flowers and the chirping of canaries lent a novel and festive air to the scene.

The children christened were: Elizabeth Oldham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Oldham; Nathaniel Holmes Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Perkins; Eleanor Elwell Rohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rohn; Doris Holmes Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Simmons, Jr.; Miriam Gertrude Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ernest Carr.

The service was conducted by the pastor.

LOST CHILD.

The lost child call was sounded at 12.15, Sunday, from Box 445, to summons aid to search for Loretto Pagnano; the 8 year old son of Antonio Pagnano who resides in the rear of 86 Copeland street. The lad had been missing since Saturday, and it was feared that he had fallen into some quarry hole. He came to City Square that afternoon to see the firemen's parade and evidently became bewildered for he wandered to Neponset He was picked up by Boston police officers who sent him to the Charden street home, where he was cared for. His parents neglected to notify the police Saturday night, or the boy would doubtless have been found that night. Word was received after the lost child call was sounded that the boy was at the home.

QUINCY HIGH WINS MEET

But Led Melrose High by Only Six Points

	Quincy	Melrose
Mile run	9	0
Running high jump	3	6
100 yd. dash	1	8
Running broad jump	1	8
440 yd. dash	4	5
Shot put	4	5
880 yd. run	9	0
220 yd. dash	8	1
Totals	39	33

In an athletic meet between Melrose and Quincy High at Merrymount Park on Saturday the home school won by six points. Quincy captured three first places, six seconds, and also six thirds. The Melrose school took five first, two seconds, and two thirds, but was unable to defeat Quincy High.

Two trial heats were run in the 100 yd. dash , Winship of Melrose, won the first heat in 10 3-5 seconds with Cranshaw of Quincy second. The other heat was won by Milton of Melrose, first in 10 2-5 seconds and Wentworth of Melrose second. Winship dropped out in the finals because of a slight injury to his foot. Milton came in first, Wentworth second, and Cranshaw third. The time was 10 2-5 seconds.

Just before the mile event Marceau cut his foot and was unable to run, although later events he entered. In the mile the two Melrose men dropped out in the second lap, leaving a clean field for Quincy. Manning won in 4 min. 52 1-5 seconds. Sutermeister, and Cranshaw were nearly tied for positions but the former gained just at the tape, taking second.

A Melrose man, Winship, won the running high jump with a record of 5 ft. 2 in., with White of Quincy, second, and Stuts of Melrose third.

Chisholm of Melrose made 19 ft 7 inches in the running broad jump Littlefield of Melrose came second with 19 ft. 2, and Manning of Quincy third with 19 ft 1-2 in.

Milton of Melrose captured the quarter mile although it was all but a tie with Marceau. The time of 56 sec. made by Milton was very fast for the track. Manning came in the third place. Milton fell at the tape.

Bates of Quincy apeared to have won the shot put until almost the last. Then Wentworth of Melrose put the shot 41 feet 1 inch. Preciously Wentworth had not put better than 38 ft. 10 in. Indeed, his best put in competition anywhere had been under 39 ft., so the distance came as a surprise to all. Bates rallied with 40 ft. 5 in., which is equal to the school record, but was unable to better that distance, so gained second place. Brown came third.

Quincy High won all three places in half mile. Marceau first breasted the tape in 2 min. 15 sec., with Sutermeister second. C. H. Kendall won his "Q." by gaining third position.

MELROSE LEADING.

There was much excitement at this point. The number of points stood 32 to 31 in favor of Melrose. The last event of the day would decide which school won.

The Quincy men entered the 220-yd. dash ready "to do or die." They responded nobly in the race and Quincy finished ahead, taking both first and second places. Everett Prout crossed the tape first, winning in 24 seconds with Manning a close second. Wentworth a Melrose man, was third.

For the second time in the last two years, Quincy High won from Melrose on the track.

Mr. Pierce, a former teacher at High accompanied the Melrose team and served as an official with Mr. Blazo, Mr. Currier, and Mr. Roach.

At the conclusion of the meet, ribbons were presented those who had won first, and Bronze medals to the winners of second and third places by Mr. Pierce.

The points were made as follows:

For Quincy High,—Manning, 10; Marceau, 8; Sutermeister, 6; Prout, 5; Bates, 3; White, 3; Cranshaw, 2; Brown, 1; and Kendall 1.

For Melrose High,—Milton, 10; Wentworth, 9; Winship, 5; Chisholm, 5; Littlefield, 3; and Stuts 1.

TODAY'S COURT.

James P. Doherty and Joseph F. Garrity were fined $15 each for mutual assault at Quincy. Garrity appealed.

Charles Murphy was fined $15 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Walter Rowell was fined $10 for drunkenness at Milton.

Edward Fenska was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Joseph Herman was arraigned for peddling without a license and for larceny at Milton.

BRIEFS

Miss Ethel Schools and Miss Clara Pearce have been spending the week end in Montello.

Miss Maud Hodgkinson of Willard street spent Sunday in Somerville visiting relatives.

Miss Jennie Barton of Phipps street is spending a few days with friends in Lawrence.

Mrs. James E. Neary of Hancock street left Sunday for a visit to her old home in New York state.

Mrs. William Spargo and son John of South Quincy sail Tuesday for England, where they will spend the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hill left Sunday evening for Montreal, to visit their daughter Mrs. W. R. Seffell. They will be gone about ten days.

Commissioner Bainbridge is doing a good job in removing the tree stumps that are sticking up through the sidewalks along Hancock street.

Carl Gram of Kemper street, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology leaves Wollaston on Thursday for St. Louis Mo., where he has accepted a position with the American steel foundries.

The Sunday schools of Wollaston will join in a union picnic to be held at Glen Echo Park, Stoughton, on Saturday. The start will be made in special electric cars from Beale street at 9 o'clock. An interesting program of races and ball games has been prepared and a large number are expected to participate.

Wollaston and Quincy friends will learn with regret of the death of Miss Bula Lorenz Loud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Loud, of Beach street, at Hampden, Maine, on June 17, where she had gone for her health. She was a graduate of the Quincy High school, class of 1996. The many friends she made during her long residence iu Wollaston mourn her death.

Stranded Near Ocean Graveyard

Halifax, June 20.—Sable Island's sandy bars threaten to add another victim to the long list of wrecked vessels which have laid their bones there. The Norwegian steamer Helmdal, in ballas, is stranded on the south bar, where she remains fast.

Clotheslines Save Boy's Life

Boston, June 20.—Joseph McKinnon, 2 years old, fell forty-two feet from a third-story window at his home in East Boston and escaped injury by striking three clotheslines in his descent, each one breaking the force of the fall.

WEDS AMIDST JUNE FLOWERS

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Has Become a Benedict

DECORATIONS ARE ELABORATE

Leads Miss Alexander to Altar Through Aisle Wholly In White Blossoms, With Clusters of Roses and Lilies at Each Individual Pew—Bride's Dress of White "Satin Souple"—Hats of Bridesmaids In Picture Effects

New York, June 20.—The brilliant wedding of Miss Eleanor B. Alexander, only daughter of Mrs. Henry A. Alexander, to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., took place this afternoon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Miss Alexander's attendants were Mrs. Snowdon A. Fahnestock, at whose recent wedding Miss Alexander was the chief bridesmaid; also her cousins, the Misses Harriet and Janetta Alexander; Miss Jean W. Delano, and Miss Jessie Millington-Drake.

Kermit Roosevelt was best man for the former Thompsonville, Conn., carpet worker who, though son of the former President of the United States, engaged in manual labor at $18 a week.

The ushers were George E. Roosevelt and Monroe D. Robinson, cousins of Roosevelt; Francis Roche, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Fulton Cutting, John W. Cutler, Grafton Chapman, E. M. Gilbert and Eliot Cutler.

There was an elaborate scheme of decoration in the church. There were thousands of pinks and white blossoms, roses, lilies of the valley and varicolored peonies.

The main aisle was wholly in white, with clusters of roses and lilies laid at each individual pew. This scheme extended to the altar, where the steps were profusely carpeted with lilies of the valley and bride roses. The prie dieu of white satin displayed a festoon of bride roses and above this was an arch of white flowers in combination.

Up to the organ loft this decoration was carried, surmounted with large masses of pink rambler roses. Great bushes of these rare roses, against a background of palms, were set on either side of the organ loft.

Festoons of roses graced the columns on each side of the church and masses of ferns and roses lay at the base of each window.

Dull pink and pale blues of pastel shades were the dominating colors of the costumes worn by Miss Alexander's attendants, and these carried flowers to correspond, pink roses and forget-me-nots.

The bride wore a gown of conventional white satin and old point lace with a veil of tulle. The lace was used on the bodice and sleeves. The white satin of the dress was not the old-fashioned kind, but what the French now call "satin souple," of the softest variety obtainable. A few sprays of orange blossoms were artlessly caught in the bride's veil.

The gowns of the bride's attendants were made in the same establishment where that of Miss Alexander was built. White chiffon was used, painted in the floral designs sent to Paris some time ago. The hats were in picture effects, in line with the color scheme of the frocks.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., although but 23 ears of age, has already had an eventful career. He first became known to the general public through the newspapers when he entered Groton school to prepare for Harvard. Nov. 15, 1902, he was forced to leave Groton on account of trouble with his ees.

In 1905 he entered Harvard university. In September, 1906, he accompanied the president on a hunting trip after bears in the Rockies.

While at Harvard he was very studious, completing his course in three years and graduating bachelor of arts cum laude.

A FAIR JUNE BRIDE

Now Daughter-in-Law of Our Ex-President

Young Roosevelt went to work as a wool sorter at Thompsonville, Conn., Oct. 1, 1908, at $5 a week. The following month considerable attention was attracted by his order for the installation of a $500 bathroom in his boarding place. He cast his first vote at Oyster Bay, Nov. 3, 1908, in company with his father.

Young Teddy is known as an expert horseman, a canoeist of no mean merits, and on April 22, 1908, participated in a balloon ascension at Washington.

His engagement to Miss Alexander, the chum of his sister Ethel, who enjoys the distinction of being the matchmaker in the case, was announced Feb. 10 of the present year.

Miss Alexander is 21 years old and resides with her mother at 42 West Forty-seventh street. Her father, Henry A. Alexander, was formerly a New York lawyer, but has for several years resided in Paris, where he is counsel for the American embassy.

BAY STATE MEMBERS RIGHT ON THE JOB

Congress Will Allow Building Funds For Six Cities

Washington, June 20.—Six members of the Massachusetts delegation in the house are shaking hands with themselves over the contents of the omnibus public buildings bill reported by Repreresentative Bartholdt of Missouri, which contains an aggregate af $545,000 for Massachusetts public buildings out of a total of $19,288,500. The members and the bills they succeeded in getting reported favorably are:

Mr. Lawrence, $100,000 for a site and postoffice building at Greenfield; Mr. Weeks, $70,000 for a site and postoffice building at North Attleboro; Mr. Tirrell, $115,000 for a site and postoffice at Waltham; Mr. Gardner, $25,000 for a site at Newburyport; Mr. Roberts, $10,000 for a site at Reading; and Mr. Greene, $225,000 for a site and building at New Bedford.

REAL DAY OF REST

Roosevelt Enjoys a Quiet Sunday at His Oyster Bay Home

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 20.—Yesterday was Theodore Roosevelt's first day of rest in months. The return to privacy is a delight to him, and he made it known that it is his desire to drop just as far out of public sight as the public will let him. In the autumn he will make a tour of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt went to Christ church in Oyster Bay in the morning and took a long walk in the afternoon. Senator Lodge and Representative Longworth were at Sagamore Hill all day and in the afternoon Secretary Meyer came for a visit. Roosevelt took an early train for New York today to attend the wedding of his son and Miss Alexander.

MILL SAFES BLOWN OPEN

Nervy Robbers Then Make a Man Furnish Them With Food

Lowell, Mass., June 20.—Four masked men, riding in a high-power automobile, blew open the safes in the offices of the Abbott woolen mills in Graniteville and Forge Mills. They secured about $500.

After the safe-blowing they went to the home of Victor Pigeon and, routing him out of bed, commanded him to furnish them with something to eat. Pigeon did so, and after his guests had gone went back to bed and slept without sounding an alarm.

STOWAWAY'S HOPES ARE SHATTERED

Started Back to Russia After Desperate Efforts to Land

Boston, June 20.—With two desperate attempts to escape to his credit, one by jumping into Massachusetts bay and the other by breaking out of the immigation station on Long wharf, Max Selling, the most determined stowaway who ever arrived in America, was deported on the Leyland liner Winifredian.

Selling was handcuffed and taken from Long wharf to the pier in a closed carriage, accompanied by Immigration Inspectors Burke and Hartland, and put on board an hour before sailing time. He was closely guarded by the liner's officers until the steamer was far out at sea, for Captain Shepherd was taking no chances of having the big Russian make another dive over the side. Scores of women among the outgoing saloon passengers on the Winifredian wondered at the handcuffed man as he walked up the gangplank.

IS ONCE MORE ALONE

Clara Ward, Once Noted Beauty, Is Deserted by Her Third Husband

Paris, June 20.—Clara Ward, formerly Princess Chimay and later the wife of Gipsy Bandmaster Rigo, is again in trouble. This time she is a complaining wife, who says her husband, Peppino Ricciardi, formerly an Italian stationmaster, has heartlessly deserted her.

The once fair American would not be recognized by friends of other days, or even by those who knew her five years ago. She has grown stout and gross, hardly a trace of her former beauty being left.

The much bereft Miss Ward, according to The Matin, in which she relates her woes, says that if Ricciardi does not return she will seek another husband as soon as she can secure a divorce.

BARGE IS HAUNTED

Ghost of Former Skipper Mans What Is Left of Famous Old Liner

Seattle, June 20.—Sailors say that the famous old liner Melanope, which was dismantled and converted into a big barge, is haunted. Captain and Mrs. Walter Tinn, who were in charge of it, have been transferred, at the request, it is said, of Mrs. Tinn, who found it unpleasant to live on a ship manned by a ghost.

The ghost is supposed to be that of the former skipper of the Melanope, the celebrated Captain Willis, who commanded the big ship some ten years ago.

Taste Is Localized.

Taste is curiously localized in the mouth. Put a lump of sugar on the tip of your tongue and you will find it distinctly sweet. Then try it halfway back on the tongue and you will find it tasteless. All sweet or aromatic substances, such as wine, sugar and coffee, can be properly appreciated by the front half of the tongue, a piece of knowledge that every true connoisseur applies when he sips instead of taking a mouthful. With most other substances, however, the reverse is true. In these cases the tip of the tongue serves only for touching—it is the back part that tastes. The sides of the mouth, too, are quite insensible to certain substances not tasteless. Put some salt or vinegar between the teeth and the cheek and you will find them absolutely flavorless.—London Standard.

Matrimonial Dyspepsia.

"Well, how do you like married life?" inquired the friend.

"Not at all," replied the man who had married money and was suffering for it. "I'm a case of matrimonial dyspepsia."

"Matrimonial dyspepsia?"

"Yes. She never agrees with me; she's too rich."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

MRS. RICKER'S MONEY TALKS

Pays Fee as Candidate For Governor of New Hampshire

DECLARATION IS ALSO FILED

Says She Is a Member of Republican Party and Wants Her Name on Its Official Ballot at Primary Election—Thinks State Needs a House Cleaning—Has Tendered Her Vote Every Year For Nearly Half a Century

Concord, N. H., June 20.—Marilla Ricker's "money talks," and with the receipt here of a cashier's check on a California bank for $100, made payable to Edward N. Pearson, secretary of state, all doubts and speculations whether she will or will not be a candidate for the governorship of New Hampshire are dispelled, for that amount covers the fee prescribed by the new primary election law. Accompanying the check came the written "declaration," also prescribed by law, written in Mrs. Ricker's own handwriting and signed "Marilla M. Ricker."

Her declaration of candidacy reads as follows:

"I, Marilla M. Ricker, declare that I reside in Ward 4, in the city of Dover of the county of Strafford, state of New Hampshire, and am a qualified voter therein; that I am a member of the Republican party; that I am a candidate for nomination for the office of governor, to be made at the primary election to be held on the sixth day of September, 1910, and I hereby request that my name be printed on the official ballot of said Republican party as a candidate for such nomination or election.

"I further declare that if nominated as a candidate for said office I will not withdraw, and that if elected I will qualify and assume the duties of said office.

(Signed) "Marilla M. Ricker."

The check and declaration are now in the hands of her personal attorney, in this city, awaiting the specified time of filing, July 8.

In brief, Mrs. Ricker means business. She will run. She believes the state of New Hampshire would be the better for a housecleaning. She is herself a lawyer and declares there is nothing in the statutes of New Hampshire that prevents her from taking office should she receive a majority of the votes cast.

She is a suffragette and was the first woman to attempt to cast a vote in the United States. This was half a century ago nearly, and she has appeared at the polls regularly every year since and tendered her vote.

A property holder, she has paid taxes under protest. "No taxation without representation" has ever been her slogan.

She was the first woman to be admitted to the bar of her native state and of the District of Columbia. She was the first woman to seek a diplomatic post. She was also the first woman to run for congress.

TAFT'S PET MEASURE

President Smiles as He Signs His Name to Railroad Measure

Washington, June 20.—President Taft has signed the railroad bill, the first of the administration measures to have been enacted by congress. The house rushed through this measure and another administration bill granting statehood to Arizona and New Mexico and they were awaiting the presidential signature when Mr. Taft returned from his trip to Villa Nova college.

The president glanced through the two bills which, especially the statehood bill, will be connected in history with his presidency. With a smile he wrote at the bottom of the most important bill passed since the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, "William H. Taft." The president will wade through the statehood bill today.

TEN CHINESE GRADUATES

Young Orientals In Lawrence Academy Proved to Be Apt Students

Groton, Mass., June 20.—Of the eighteen graduates from Lawrence academy ten of them were Chinese boys. The boys will enter advanced technical schools in the fall.

The Chinese are being educated at the expense of their government as a part of the demands made by the United States after the Boxer uprising. The United States insisted that China should send at least 100 boys to this country every year to be educated, and two years ago these ten boys arrived at Groton, and proved to be apt students.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Hon. E. C. Stanley, a member of Congress from Kentucky, has presented a unique bill in Congress. It is to provide a government cold storage plant in Washington. He insists that such a plant will more than pay for itself in saving the government thousands of dollars yearly. Dr. Wiley, the distinguished government chemist and advocate of the pure food laws, expresses his approval of the Stanley bill. He says a government ice house will result in better provisions for the army and navy and cut off the enormous profits of the meat trusts. A cold storage plant built by the government according to the statement of this bill, will cost a million and a half and it is provided that the Secretary of the Treasury shall buy a site and proceed at once to build a model storage house for meats, butter, vegetables and such other foods as are issued to the army and naval forces of the United States.

The bill has another purpose in that it will give the government a chance to study and learn the cost of keeping perishable foods in a healthful condition without taking the evidence of interested and prejudiced men in the employ of the trusts. Moreover, it will save thousands yearly by supplying food to the army and navy and to the Soldiers' Home situated in Washington and to other soldiers' homes in different parts of the country. In his argument in favor of the bill, Representative Stanley says that the most odious and oppressive of all trusts is the food trust, and he points out that although the cold storage men protest that charges of exorbitant prices with which they are indicted have been disproved, it is universally believed that cold storage in the hands of the trusts is one of the main causes of high price of foods.

Representative Stanley and Dr. Wiley have been in correspondence. In a recent letter to Dr. Wiley, Mr. Stanley asked his opinion with reference to the feasibility and advantages of the cold storage plant. In this letter he said: "It is certain that cold storage men are in the habit of keeping meat and other foods long after they cease to be wholesome. The government experiences great difficulty in obtaining accurate information and must necessarily depend upon expert statements of interested parties." In replying to this letter, Dr. Wiley said: "In regard to the subject of a cold storage plant in Washington, in so far as facilitating our investigations on the storage of food is concerned, I am free to say it would be of the greatest advantage. A government ware-house which could collaborate with us in securing definite degrees of refrigeration would be advantageous." Dr. Wiley declared that cattle are sold from his farm near Washington and bought by the consumers at less than half the prices charged in Washington or any other city where it is necessary to buy cold storage meat. Mr. Stanley argues that if Dr. Wiley is correct in his statements the government will quickly be repaid for the money invested in a cold storage plant, and moreover, that the military and naval forces of the country will be supplied with a better quality of eatables. Mr. Stanley says that the plant could be operated by the government at a minimum cost and that inasmuch as the government has refused to buy tobacco from the tobacco trust or powder from the powder trust, there is no reason why it may not make every effort to obtain its supply of meat independent of the meat trust, which has been time and time again indicted and convicted. He says that it is not intended to have the government go into the meat business, but that inasmuch as the government is the largest purchaser of meats and other like products, it is its duty to the taxpayer to secure provisions in the most economical way.

During the last year more than a million of dollars was expended for meats for soldiers' homes alone. The army expended over two millions of dollars for fresh meats, to say nothing of bacon and lard. The navy bill for butter was $400,000 at the rate of 33 per pound. The fresh meat for the navy cost fifteen millions. Besides, we purchased thousands of pounds of poultry. Swift, Armour, Cudahy and other like concerns furnished this food at exorbitant cost to the government and at immense profit to themselves.

John Aborn's Disappearance

A Story of Kentucky When It Was a Wilderness.

By GERTRUDE B. WALKER

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

One hundred years ago a young couple left Virginia, crossed the Allegheny mountains and settled in Henderson county, Ky. It was a wild country in those days, but very beautiful, nature seeming to tempt the pioneer with its virgin scenery, its immense trees, its profusion of wild flowers. And such temptation was necessary. The settler never knew at what moment the yell of the savage would break the stillness of the wilderness or when he and his family might be cut down by a tomahawk without even a whisper of warning.

John Aborn and his wife Mary journeyed to their new home down the Ohio river on the only means of inland navigation known at that time, a flatboat, and on reaching their destination went ashore, "entered" a quarter section of land, built a log cabin and proceeded to make a living by the cultivation of the soil and hunting. Children were born to them, and other families settled about them. As more room was needed their cabin was extended, and within a few years the location assumed the semblance of civilization.

Aborn brought with him to Kentucky a few slaves and bought others from time to time, for we must remember that in those days the only hands a farmer could obtain were his own negroes. The community lived on game, of which there was abundance near at hand; the grain they raised and nuts and berries, which grew plentifully on tree and bush. Each family was a unit bound together by the strongest ties.

But after a time the game was not so plentiful about the settlements on the river bank, and the hunters were obliged to go farther inland to provide meat for their families. Then it was that Mrs. Aborn's troubles commenced. In the wilderness still inhabited by the deer and the wild turkey were many dangers. Besides the Indian, there was the wolf, and there were desperadoes, who, whenever a new country is settled, on account of the absence of government find it a fine field for their lawless operations. Nevertheless every autumn John Aborn was obliged to go into the unsettled regions in order to bring back a supply of meat for the winter consumption. Sometimes he would go with a party of his neighbors, sometimes with a single friend and sometimes alone.

One October morning he set out on his annual hunting tour in company with Alexander Swift, the neighbor with whom he was most intimate. When Aborn embraced his wife and children before departing they clung to him with unusual reluctance to let him go. Whether this was due to a presentiment that evil might happen to him or that he must now go farther and remain longer than ever before, the fact remains that he and his family were loath to part. Finally, tearing himself away from them, he sprang into the wilderness with his friend.

When it came time for the husband and father's return his wife and children watched for him eagerly. He had usually been away two weeks, but on this trip he purposed to be gone three. This was because with the settling of the country he was obliged to go farther from home. He had set out on a Monday and had promised to be back on Saturday, two days before the third Monday following. All that day his wife and children watched for him, but he did not come. The next and the next day they felt sure would bring him, but he disappointed them. The wife and mother began to be troubled, but concealed her anxiety as well as she was able from her children. When another week had passed and neither Aborn nor his companion returned Mrs. Aborn felt sure that both had met with misfortune. The most reasonable supposition was that they had been killed by Indians.

A month passed, and still neither Aborn nor his companion returned. Then the other hunters of that region organized a band to go and look for the missing men. A week later they returned, reporting that they had come upon the body of Alexander Swift pierced with arrows and scalped. They had found no trace whatever of Aborn. It seemed probable that the two men had been attacked by Indians; that Swift had been killed and Aborn captured, in which event he must have met a worse fate than his companion. The rains had washed out the trail of the redskins as well as that of their captive.

The party before their return debated what report to make to Mrs. Aborn as to the probable fate of her husband and agreed that it would be best to tell her that her husband had doubtless been killed by the Indians, not mentioning that he had been first tortured.

As the Aborn family had increased the father, who at times had been troubled with insomnia, had slept in a room by himself. Mrs. Aborn, who did not relinquish all hope that he would return, kept this room always ready for him. But she kept it locke and never mentioned it or to whom it had belonged. After her husband's capture by the Indians she sold he household negroes, feeling that she could not afford to keep them, buying a strong woman who would serve all domestic purposes. To this woman the bedroom that was never opened was a mystery. She once mentioned the room to her mistress, asking why it was kept locked, but received no satisfaction. After that she speculated a great deal about the room, telling the field hands that she "'spected Missy Aborn had a ha'nt locked up in dat room." The settlers, or, rather, their wives, who knew of the closing of this room pitied the poor woman, whose husband had been doubtless tortured and burned at the stake by the savages and would never return. They assumed that she hoped her husband would come back to her and she wished him to find his room ready for his occupation.

Two years passed, during which Mrs. Aborn worked her farm as well as she could, and her neighbors on their return from their hunting expeditions always supplied her with meat for the coming winter and spring. But it was a forlorn country in which to bring up children, and she was often tempted to remove to Indiana or Ohio, where she would have facilities for giving them an education. Finally she resolved one autumn that if no tidings came from her husband during the winter she would sell her plantation and her negroes, keeping her horses, and, mounting her children and herself on them, would go to some point on the river bank opposite Ohio, cross the river and make a home in one of the villages of that state.

The winter passed without the return of her husband or any news of him. Friendly Indians came and went to and from the settlement, and the widow never failed to inquire if any of them had knowledge of a white man she described to them. But none of them could give her any news of him. In the spring she began her preparations for removal.

One night when she had put her children to bed she concluded to ride over to the house of a neighbor to whom she hoped to sell her plantation. It was a stormy night, but she was anxious to get an offer for the property and was not deterred by the weather. During the evening a band of friendly Indians came into the settlement and were soon wandering about in search of what they could steal. One of them appeared at the kitchen, where Martha, Mrs. Aborn's maid of all work, was at work, and, turning, she saw him standing in the doorway. She was wiping a plate, which she straightway dropped on the floor, and it broke in pieces. The savage in a guttural tone peculiar to the Indian said:

"Me want bed. Me good Indian. Me no hurt anybody."

Martha got up enough courage to tell the redskin that every room but one was occupied by the children and that was locked. The Indian horrified her by walking into the kitchen, taking up a tallow dip and proceeding to examine the house. Seeing the children sound asleep in their beds, he held the candle over each one of them in turn, giving a grunt of satisfaction at the sight of their rosy faces. Martha followed him at a distance, her complexion wearing the sickly light yellow of a frightened negro. She saw him go into her mistress' bedroom, and when he came out he had a key in his hand. Going to the empty chamber, he unlocked the door and said to the woman:

"Me sleep here. You no tell."

He accompanied his words with a savage look that tied her tongue completely. She wished to tell of the Indian who had gone into the only vacant room, but did not dare. He would surely know that she had told and would tomahawk her. When her mistress returned it was evident that the negro had experienced a great scare; but, though Mrs. Aborn tried to induce her to tell what had frightened her, her efforts resulted in failure. As soon as Mrs. Aborn had gone to her room Martha went out and reported the Indian's presence in the house But she was either not believed or those she told, considering that the group of red men who had come to the village were friendly, did not think the matter worthy of their attention, especially as the Aborn house was closed for the night.

Oblivion finally reigned over the settlement. Martha slept in one of the negro cabins and early in the morning returned to her mother's abode, dreading to find both her and her children murdered. Entering the kitchen, she went from there into the other portions of the house, and, finding everything quiet, the older children asleep in their beds and her mistress slumbering with the smaller ones, she made up her mind that the savage was less murderous than she had supposed him to be and set about getting breakfast.

Presently she heard a cry. Terrified lest the Indian, after all, was about to tomahawk her mistress, she ran out of the kitchen into a passageway. There she saw Mrs. Aborn in the arms of the Indian, whose face had lost its coppery hue during the night. Mrs. Aborn's head was hanging limp on the Indian's arm, it being evident that she had fainted. Martha, supposing it to have been from fright, sought support against the wall to avoid collapsing herself.

The Indian was none other than John Aborn. And this was his story: He and his companion huntsman had been set upon by Indians. Swift had been killed and Aborn made a prisoner. He was taken far to the south and adopted into the tribe. No opportunity had occurred for some time to return north, and even then he had been obliged to delay going to his home. Those with whom he had entered the settlement were ignorant that he was a white man, and he did not wish them to know it. He remained concealed till they had left.

BRIEFS

City Council tonight.

H. L. Kincaide returned Saturday from a ten days' trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Rice returned Saturday from a week spent at West Falmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Haskins of Goffe street have just returned from a week's auto trip to New York.

Forty-six more naval officers from Argentina are expected early in July to inspect construction of the new battleship.

D. D. G. P. Agnes G. Fletcher of Maple lodge, K and L. of H., and suite, will visit Silsby lodge of Brockton on Tuesday evening.

Court John Ericson, F. of A., will elect officers Wednesday evening, and consider the Fourth of July celebration.

Harry Hathorn has resigned his position as a member of the reserve police force, and this morning began duty at the Middlesex Fells as one of the Metropolitan Park officers.

Mrs. E. E. Field of Hancock street left last week for Peaks Island, Me., where she will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Louise Beaumont, for the summer.

Levi. H. Turner and Quincy A. Lothrop were among the speakers on Sunday at a memorial meeting on Boston Common to the late Edward Doherty, the single tax advocate.

At the quarry of John Ballou, on Saturday, Peter Johnson of 77 Isabella street, had his right foot crushed by a large stone. Dr. Ash ordered his removal to the City Hospital.

The awning in front of the Quincy market in the Adams building took fire Saturday evening, probably from a lighted cigar being thrown onto it. The fire was extinguished by a couple of buckets of water.

Miss Mary F. Morris of Garfield street, the daughter of the late P. S. Morris, died on Sunday in her 16th year. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning from the residence of her grandparents, 51 Garfield street.

Norfolk county will have fifteeen less delegates at the Republican State convention this year than in 1909. This will reduce the total representation at the county convention to 106 so that 54 will be a majority.

Dr. J. Winthrop Spooner, for 38 years a practicing physician at Hingham, and for 24 years medical examiner of Plymouth county, died at his home Sunday as the result of a paralytic shock. He was 64 years of age. He leaves a widow and two sons.

MAKARIA AGAIN

Win from Malden Athletics by Score of 1 to 0

The Makarias defeated the strong Malden Athletics at Merrymount park, Saturday afternoon, in a well played game by a score of 1 to 0. The features of the game were the battery work of the rival nines, and all-around playing of "Honey" Curtis.

APPRENTICES WIN.

The only game in the Granite City league on Saturday was between the Fore River Apprentices and Hardys. Desmond, a new southpaw held the Apprentices up to the ninth and then let down, the Fore River boys winning out in the ninth on a big batting streak. The feature of the game was a back handed running catch by Howley, which saved the day for the Apprentices in the ninth. The Hardys made 10 safe hits to 9 for the Apprentices. The error column was also in favor of the Hardys 4 to 5.

WEYMOUTH 2, QUINCY 1.

(By Rube.)

The champion Deweys of Weymouth came to the Water street grounds Saturday afternoon and took the local Old Colony league club into camp by a score of 2 to 1.

The Deweys appeared in White uniforms and among them was "Wes" Ganzel, son of Charlie Ganzel, until recently a resident of this city, who played first base. Dobbins was on the slab for the visitors and Nash held Ruddeham in reserve for the former has not been going well. For the locals the same team was on the field with exception of pitcher, who was, "Johnny" Glaze the former Dartmouth star boxman. "Charlie" King the ex-American league umpire called the game at 3.55 o'clock, and the hot contest was on. The lateness of the hour in starting was due to the firemen's playout in City Square.

The Deweys went out in order in their half but Quincys were more fortunate. Lynch, the first man up, walked; Murray flied to centre; Lonergan hit to Orcutt who threw Lynch out at second; Lonergan stole second and third; Bjorkland walked and stole, but Briggs was an easy third out, Dobbins to Ganzel.

The Deweys went out in order in the second and third. Fraser singled in Quincys second but died at first.

In the Dewey's fourth, Reilly fanned; Orcutt singled; Giroux hit too hard for Glaze to handle and Orcutt went to third; Giroux started to steal on the first ball, but Murray astounded the fans by snapping the ball to second with Orcutt on third getting Giroux by ten feet, a great play. Cruikshank fanned.

In Quincy's half of the fifth, Connelly singled, Fraser flied and Glaze hit into a double play.

The Dewey's got busy in the sixth, Dobbins hit safe, Loud drove a line drive to right and Connelly made a star catch. Gaze lost his bearings and passed Reilly and Orcutt in succession filling the bases; Cruikshank fanned for the third time and no runs resulted.

Quincy scored their only run in the seventh. Bjorkland walked and reached second on Orcutt's low throw off Briggs; Duggan hit the breeze; Connelly drove the ball for two sacks to centre scoring Bjorkland and putting Briggs on third; Fraser fanned and Glaze fouled out to Giroux.

In the eighth the Dewey's sewed up the game. Dobbins got his second hit; Loud paddled; Reilly Walked; Orcutt got his second safe one scoring Dobbins; Reilly and Orcutt moved up on an out. Reilly scored when Glaze foolishly tried to catch Orcutt off second. Lynch got Orcutt at the plate on Rudderham's hit but the damage was done. These two runs proved enough for the Deweys to "bring home the bacon."

In the eighth Quincy made a bid to tie the score but fell short.

Lonergan and Orcutt both put up a fine game at the hot corner and Murray caught in old time style. Bjorkland got in a shoe string catch at a critical time and Dobbin by using his head got out in good style.

The Deweys by winning the game tie up Rockland for the top position.

HISTORICAL PAGEANT FOR CHICAGO.

The Chicago association for a quieter Fourth is pushing its plans to have an historical pageant in the downtown district on that date that will rival the Mardi Gras spectacles at New Orleans. Henry Kabierske has been engaged by the association to arrange for the artistic side of the pageant, while the members are raising the funds to meet the bills. It is estimated that the affair will cost from $75,000 to $100,000. The various clubs and organizations in the city are being enlisted in favor of the pageant, and little doubt is felt that the funds will be raised without difficulty.

"We will have the biggest thing in a parade spectacle that Chicago has ever seen," says Mr. Kabierske. "Every nation will be represented by a magnificent float, and the more important events in American history will be similarly represented.

There will be a section for each nation, and each reproduction of an historical event, and at the head of each section will ride a uniformed herald bearing a banner describing the historic meaning of the section. We shall have among the many things an exact reproduction of the old liberty bell and of Washington's coach."

The parade pageant is to be the morning feature of the quiet Fourth celebration. It probably will be augmented by a great military parade, in which from 4000 to 5000 soldiers of the regular army from Ft. Sheridan and a number of companies of state militia will take part.

In the afternoon the soldiers will begin a military celebration on the lake front. Free seats for about 40,000 spectators will be provided, and there will be "seeing" room for about 100,000. Infantry, calvalry, artillery and the engineering corps will take part. One of the sights will be the building of a pontoon bridge under fire of rifles and cannon.—C. S. Monitor.

A BATHTUB FOR MULES.

A concrete bathtub some forty feet long and a few inches more than four feet deep has been installed in the Henry colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company at Plains, Pa., for the accommodation of the mine mules.

This mine improvement is built at the entrance of the mule barn. The long eared beasts are pretty tired when they conclude the day's work, but when they strike the bath all fatigue disappears and they rush in, crowding each other for the deepest place in the tub.

Directly over it runs a perforated pipe, and when the mules have disported themselves in the water in the tub the shower bath is turned on. The speed with which a mine mule will hurry to the barn when the day's work is over is proverbial, yet with all their desire to get the second meal of the day they have to be driven out of the bath.

One old fellow is said to take such delight that no amount of coaxing will get him to leave the tub until he has had at least ten minutes of the fun. Others will not leave the tub until the shower is turned on, and it seems that this feature is the most enjoyable. Some of them, the mine foreman says, will look at the attendants longingly and then swing their heads appealingly toward the spray pipe until some one turns it on.

The bath is expected to prolong the vigor and vitality of the mules. The driver boys are the only workers in the mine who are not absolutely in sympathy with the innovation, the bath keeping them in the mine ten or fifteen minutes longer than before, yet the enjoyment of their charges seems even to offset this inconvenience to a great extent.—Popular Mechanics.

MATTY HAS NEW TRICK TO CATCH SLEEPERS.

Christy Mathewson, the New York Nationals' great pitcher, has a new trick to catch the sleepers. In making the play Matty stands half facing plate and half facing first. As a teaser he tosses a few slow balls to the first baseman. That worthy is seemingly slow in touching the runner. Returning the ball to Christy quickly, the hurler returns it with lightning speed and catches the runner flat footed off the bag. Of course the runner comes up with a bounce and runs off the cushion to get a good lead a few times before he is finally caught.

ATHLETICS LOOK LIKE WINNERS

Connie Mack's Team the Sensation In American League.

PITCHERS IN GRAND SHAPE.

Bender, Morgan, Plank and Dygert Are a Formidable Quartet—Infield Could Not Be Improved On—Outfield Going Good.

Stop Connie Mack and his band of Philadelphia ball tossers and make a race of it is the slogan all along the American league circuit. The Athletics are the sensation of Ban Johnson's circuit this season, and the team gives every evidence of being a flag winner.

Connie Mack says that his 1910 team is the best string of ball tossers that he ever had in hand, and he has led some formidable Athletic teams in his career.

The Athletics have been hitting the ball hard, fielding in dazzling style, and the pitchers have shown great strength, but more than anything else they have been playing the game intelligently. Brains and baseball ability, when mixed, form a combination that is hard to beat, and the Athletics appear to have these qualities.

Last year the Mack men would have won the pennant if they had played better baseball in the early lap of the race. But this early weakness was really a blessing, for it showed Connie that he had to make a big change, and this he did, with the result that he has the present powerful lineup. Mack has a number of topnotchers, whose work stands out above all, yet the others, if less conspicuous, are good enough to make a well balanced machine.

In Collins and Baker the Athletics have two of the surest hitters in the country. Collins is a most baffling customer for a pitcher to combat, for he seems to be able to do almost anything with a ball. On the paths he is both fleet and cunning. Baker is a homeric hitter of the Sam Thompson school. He puts tremendous force behind his swings, and when he meets the ball right it travels like a projectile. Barry fits in nicely at short.

On the first corner Davis, although along in years, is faster than three-quarters of the young first basemen and the superior of most at hitting, while in headwork only Chance, the Chicago first baseman, is his equal.

If Mack's outfield was a trifle weak last year it is vastly improved this season. Dan Murphy is the same old sure catch in right and also a powerful hitter. The veteran Hartsel has picked up wonderfully this season and is in the thick of the run getting. Oldring is also showing steady improvement and playing with his old time confidence and dash. Behind the bat Thomas and Livingston wear well. The pitching staff has star performers, men who have been under fire and are reliable.

Plank and Krause are easily the best pair of left handers in the country. Atkins is another coming portsider, while Coombs, Morgan, Dygert and Bender, who recently pitched a no hit-no run game against Cleveland, are a formidable quartet of right handers.

There is probably no other team in the fast set so well fortified with brilliant—not merely fair—extra material. McInnes, the kid infielder, is a wonder and no mistake.

Rath is another swift infielder, while Strunk, the extra center fielder, is so good that he may land one of the regular positions in the outfield. Heltmuller, big and brawny, can murder a left hand pitcher and is invaluable in pinches. Jack Lapp, the third string catcher, is a good one.

A whole ton of press notices will not win a pennant, but it is no use hiding the fact that Mack has a wonderful team this year. Barring accidents, it is certain to be a pennant competitor to the finish.

Most Dangerous Punch.

Pugilistic experts pick the right hand uppercut as the most dangerous punch. This is Jack Jonhson's favorite blow.

STREET APPROPRIATION ORDERS PASSED

City Council at Midnight Session Debate Half Holidays and Express Permits

Money Voted for New School Lot at Wollaston

It was 12.20 this morning before the City Council adjourned, and the vote then was a close one. So close that Councilman Whiton who was in the chair had to vote which made a tie vote 7 and 7. There were several matters in the calendar which the Councilmen desired to dispose of, but it is doubtful if 16 votes could have been mustered to pass them.

A public hearing on accepting new streets consumed over an hour and debates on a half holiday for City laborers, the granting liquor permits, and street appropriations prolonged the session. The street orders, however, were all passed to be ordained. Councilmen Bolster, Cherrington, and Snow were absent.

NELSON STREET.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works stating that it would cost $1,100 and damages to extend Nelson street from Arthur street to Copeland street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

RING AVENUE.

The Mayor forwarded a petition for the acceptance of Ring avenue as a public street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

CONSTABLES.

The Mayor announced the appointments of Patrick Morrin and Dexter Royse as special constables. Confirmed.

PETITIONS.

A number of petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

A petition was received from the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles on Billings road and referred to the Committee on Streets.

LICENSES.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting a number of licenses to sell fruit on the Lord's Day, also to common victuallers for, pool tables and to innholder. Adopted.

The same committee reported reference to the Chief Engineer of the applications for fireworks licenses.

The same committee reported an order granting the Telephone Co., permission to keep gasoline on Merrymount road. Adopted.

The Committee on State Aid reported orders granting Soldiers Relief. Adopted.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the applications of Cateldo Coletti and Gerardo Capo Bianchi for permits to transport liquor.

Councilman Smith moved to lay on the table. Motion lost. The report of the Committee was accepted, but the recommendation was rejected by a vote of 7 yes and 11 no. The applications were then laid on the table.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on a number of applications for minor licenses. Those of G. Gardiano for a common victualler's license and to sell fruit on the Lord's day were laid on the table.

STREET COMMITTEE.

The Committee on Streets reported the folowing orders:—

For a public hearing June 27 on petitions of the Telephone Co., and Electric Light Co., for attachments and location for poles and underground connections. Adopted.

An order for a public hearing June 27 on petition of the Gas Co. to lay mains.

An order granting the Electric Light Co a location for poles. Ordered to a second reading.

ANOTHER FIREMAN.

The Committee on Fire and Police reported an order amending the Fire Department ordinance so as to provide one additional permanent man, and reducing the number of call men of the Houghs Neck apparatus from nine to six men. The new permanent man to be stationed at Houghs Neck. Referred to Finance Committee.

POLICE ORDINANCE.

The Committee on Fire and Police reported ought to pass on the order amending the Police ordinance so as to provide that the force shall consist of a chief lieutenant, two sergeants an inspector, etc. Referred to Finance Committee.

STREET HEARINGS.

Public hearings were held on the acceptance of Beacon street, Hull street, Clairmont avenue, Madison avenue, Plymouth street, Laury street, Ritchie road, Taber street, Ballou street, Hill street, Fayette street, Phillips street, Pierce street, Royal street, Belmont street, Warwick street and Birch street, and on accepting a foot way from Avon way to Dixwell avenue. The only opposition was on the foot way. Several appeared in favor of each street. The hearings closed and the orders were recommitted.

SIDEWALK ASSESSMENTS.

The Finance committee reported an order assessing one-half the cost of permanent sidewalks built in 1909 on the abutters. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on order for $4,900 for rebuildin g Trafford street.

Objection was made to suspending the rules that the order might pass. The rules however were suspended by a vote of 14 yes to 4 no.

Councilman Richards questioned if the city was in a financial condition to warrant taking up these matters at the present time.

Councilman Whiton did not question the needs of the streets being taken care of, but when we borrow money for rebuilding we are simply beating around the bush for resurfacing. Where are we going to stop if we legislate in this manner. We have $164,000 borrowing capacity. Why not take this and fix up the whole city. No man would handle his own business in this way. It is nothing more than resurfacing a current expense and should be put into the budget.

Councilman Bryant said it was well enough to talk that way, but the gentlemen know that we could not raise any more in the budget. We presume the Street committee selected these as the streets most important to be fixed. If we stop street improvements we step the growth of the city. It was right the city should borrow a reasonable amount each year.

Councilman McDevitt said this street was in bad shape. We have got to have these improvement and

WOODWARD PRINCIPAL

Will Resign to Accept High School Election at Chelsea

The many friends and pupils of the Woodward Institute will be sorry to learn that the school is to lose its master, Frederic W. Plummer, who was on Monday evening elected as master of the new Chelsea High school. When seen this morning, Mr. Plummer said that he had been informed of his election, and that he should probably accept.

Continuing Mr. Plummer said that while he should very much regret leaving Quincy, and the school where he had formed many warm and lasting friendships, he felt that it would be to his advantage to accept. A school, exclusively for girls, did not offer the opportunities for broadening his work, and for advancement such as a mixed school would, and that he felt that every year he remained at the Woodward, lessened his chances for advancement. For this reason it was not the matter of salary that prompted him to accept the position as master of the Chelsea High school.

Mr. Plummer has been master of the Woodward since Sept. 1901 ,succeeding Miss Carrie E. Small, the first principal of the school. He came to Quincy from the Murdock school at Winchendon, and was selected from several hundred applicants. He is a native of Danville, Me., where he was born March 7, 1867. He fitted for college in the Auburn, Me., High school, and was appointed a cadet at the United States Military academy at West Point by Senator Dingley in 1886, but resigned the following year. He was graduated from Bates college, in the class of '91.

He was for two years principal of the Winthrop, Me., High school, one year submaster of the Lewiston, Me., High school, and three years submaster of the Lynn English High school. From there he went to the Murdock endowed school in Winchendon, where he taught for four years prior to coming to Quincy.

Since residing in Quincy Mr. Plummer has made many friends. He is a very pleasant man to meet, either socially or on matters pertaining to the school. He is a member of the Wollaston Unitarian club, of which he was one year the president. He is also president of the Quincy School Masters' club, a member of the Granite City club, and is affiliated with several Masonic bodies. He is married and has two children.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frederick A. Herman and Francis A. Hunt were find $10 each for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

NEW TEACHERS ELECTED

Architects to Appear Before School Committee Tonight

At a special meeting of the School Committee the following teachers were elected:

Albert Ray as supervisor of manual arts at the High school.

Miss Frances Whitcomb, supervisor of sewing.

Miss Jennie Stratton as supervisor of drawing.

The following resignations were accepted:

Miss Clare Jones of the Quincy school.

Miss Lucy H. Chapman of the Wollaston school.

Tonight the committee will have eight architects before them to explain plans for the Montclair school.

BRIEFS.

Mr. George Taylor and family of Newcomb street leave Wedensday for Seattle to make their future home.

The Railroad Commissioners have approved the new location for a street railway turnout on Squantum street.

The Naval bill has not passed Congress yet. It has been in the hands of conferees and their agreement was reported in the House on Monday.

Quincy is having its first 90 degree day of the season today, the mercury registering 91 at noon. This is one day ahead of 1909, when there was a 95 degree day on June 22.

The earliest date in fifteen years for a 90-degree day was May 10, 1896. On five different May dates in this period the mercury has been above 90 at noon .

The Harvard and Radcliffe entrance examinations were begun yesterday at the Quincy High school and will be finished Thursday afternoon. Herbert P. Arnold of this city, who is completing a course for Ph. D. at Cambridge, is giving the Harvard examinations while Mrs. John D. MacKay is giving the Radcliffe examinations. Quite a number of students from Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and other towns are trying their luck.

SECRETARY McCARTHY

Head of National Quarrymen's Union Dead

Patrick F. McCarthy, secretary-treasurer of the National Quarrymen's Union, was found dead on Monday in his office at Barre, Vt. Several weeks ago he had a shock, but of late had been able to visit his office daily. He was known in Quincy and leaves a widow and children.

The Globe prints the following sketch: "Patrick F. McCarthy was born in St. Augustine, Fla., Aug. 30, 1870. He entered the granite industry at Monson, Mass., when about 14 years old.

Mr. McCarthy was one of the pioneers in organizing in 1889 the quarrymen's national union. The general lockout of granite workers of New England in 1892 practically disbanded. In 1893 McCarthy was elected secretary and treasurer of the organization, but owing to the reverses that had been met and the panic that then prevailed, he advised the few remaining branches to disband the national union and secure charters direct from the American federation of labor.

As the quarries were now closed to him, on account of his agitation among the men, he secured a job shoveling dirt in a tipcart gang for $1.35 for 10 hours. He next secured work at his trade as hoisting engineer on the construction of dams and bridges. This he followed for a few years until the quarry owners had forgotten his labor record. He then secured employment in the quarries at Woodbury, Vt.

In three weeks after his arrival in Woodbury the quarrymen were organized and a charter secured from the American Federation of Labor. The companies were served with due notice of desired changes, and as a result an eight-hour day with increase in wages and a union job were secured.

In September, 1903, Mr. McCarthy was elected delegate to a quarry workers' convention held in Washington, D. C., and with eight other delegates representing five local unions organized the quarry workers' international union of North America.

He was elected secretary-treasurer of the newly formed organization. The first application that was secured for the new organization was from the local union at Woodbury, Vt., now known as branch No. 1, Q. W. I. U. A few days after branch No. 2 was organized at Hardwick, Vt., where the men were on strike. McCarthy took charge of the situation and in two days had another eight-hour day, straight union job.

Aside from his connection with the quarry workers' international union, he served two terms as president of the Vermont Federation of Labor, and then declined reelection. He was editor of the Quarry Workers' Journal, a general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and a member of the executive board of the New England civic federation.

He was married in Brattleboro, Vt., in 1893, to Mary E. Hopkins, also of Brattleboro."

OFFICE OF BOARD OF HEALTH.

City of Quincy.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Health held June 9, 1910 Regulation 31 was amended so as to read as follows:

Reg. 31. No person shall buy, sell, exchange, take in exchange or give away a mattress or pillow that has been used by any person, without first notifying the Board of Health, and having the said mattress or pillow disinfected or fumigated by, or under the directions of the inspector of said Board, or by some process approved by it. Whenever said article has been so disinfected or fumigated a certificate to that effect shall be attached thereto by said inspector and wherever after being so disinfected or fumigated said article has been used by a person it shall not be again bought, sold, exchanged ,taken in exchange, or given away until again disinfected or fumigated as aforesaid.

Whoever violates any provisions of any kind of these regulations shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offence.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Nicaraguan insurgents were just hungry enough to eat up the enemy.

There is no such thing as luck. If you are a small eater and a slow eater, you are lucky.

Bryan's Commoner is issued only once a week, and, therefore, cannot be expected to give publicity to all of Mr. Bryan's paramount issues.

Some Congressman think they have done their full duty to their constituents if they succeed in knocking $2.50 off of the President's travelling expenses.

The announcement that not one cent of the Rockfeller hookworm fund will be spent in Texas probably means that the intensely emotional nature of Texas politicians at this time proves complete freedom from the apathy-producing hookworm infection.

The river and harbor bill, as finally adopted, is the beginning of a yearly budget for rivers and harbors as urged for many years by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which it is most generally conceded had done yeoman service in bringing this condition about.

It seemed to be Ward One that was the watch dog of the city treasury at the City Council this week. Messrs. Branch, Nowland and Whiton voted against most of the loan orders which they looked upon as current expenses. Councilman Ericson however, was with the majority which succeeded in passing all the orders.

The House has at last passed the postal savings bank bill. Measure will go to conference and before the adjournment of Congress there will be legislation on the important question. It has taken long years of agitation to bring it about, but it has come finally. It ought to result in largely increasing the savings of the American people.

Quincy people had come to look upon Principal Plummer as a fixture at the Woodward Institute, and nobody expected him to retire until a pension was voted, which will probably be 20 or 30 years hence. Everything was running smoothly at the Woodward, and Mr. Plummer was a great success; both efficient and popular. But Chelsea heard of him, and made him an offer which he could not resist. As a High school master he will have both boys and girls as pupils. We regret to have him go, as he was prominent in city affairs as well as a good teacher.

NORFOLK CLUB.

The Norfolk Republican club will hold a summer outing, probably at Nantasket beach, Saturday, July 16. The Governor has agreed to be the guest of the club on that occasion, and others of state and national note are expected to be present and help along the mid-summer enthusiasm Wednesday evening, Oct. 12, the club will have its big banquet, closely following the Republican State Convention and it will be one of the notable political events of the campaign. President Pearson will line up some big speakers for the occasion.

END OF BIG SAILING SHIPS.

That the big sailing vessels of years ago are rapidly passing is well illustrated by the fact that today only six large vessels remain in the sailing service out of the fleet of 100 big ships built by Arthur Sewall & Co., of Bath, Me., since 1823.

Alpha Hall—cool and well ventilated. Special low rental prices for summer season.

FOR TROLLEY TRAVELLERS.

The new folders issued by the passenger department of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony Street Railway Companies for the season of 1910 have been given general distribution and will be found of unusual interest to trolley travellers. The folder this year has an especially unique and attractive cover design which is certainly distinctive of trolley travel. Inside of the cover are twenty-four pages devoted to a great deal of interesting and instructive matter telling about the various trips which can be taken over the 908 miles of track comprised in those two systems, as well as trips upon all connecting lines. The book is profusely illustrated with interesting half tone cuts of various attractive sights along the lines.

Aside from the information which is given as to how to go to various points, the distances, the fares, the running time and the places where cars are to be taken and where changes are necessary to be made, there are also two departments devoted, one to the principal points of interest along the lines and the other to the more important pleasure places by the shore, inland and by lakes and rivers. Tipped in to the back of the folder is a new four color map covering the entire section of southern New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Massachusetts east of Worcester.

These folders are for general distribution and will be sent entirely free upon application to the passenger department at 309 Washington street, Boston, or to the local division superintendents' offices of the Old Colony street railway companies.

ANDREW CARNEGIE IN HUB

Reporters Hunt For Laird of Skibo but Find an Immigrant

Boston, June 21.—Andrew Carnegie arrived in Boston from Glasgow aboard the Allen line steamer Numidian. His name among those of the passenger list of the boat caused a panic among the reporters assembled to meet the boat at the wharf.

Prolonged search finally revealed a young Scottish immigrant among the steerage passengers.

The young Scot had a sense of humor and he enjoyed keenly the discomfiture of the reporters when he admitted that his name was Andrew Carnegie. "I'm just as good as the other man and I'll be giving away libraries when I'm his age, if I have half a chance," declared he to the reporters.

NOVEL WEDDING CEREMONY

Bride, Groom and Minister on Ponies While Knot Is Tied

Los Angeles, Cal., June 21.—In the presence of 200 friends garbed in riding costumes, and mounted on cow ponies, Miss Evelyn Baker and George Morse, members of the "Out West club," were married while on horseback in Griffith park.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Munroe, who also was mounted.

Rejected Lover Takes Poison

West Medway, Mass., June 21.—Despondent because his employer's daughter repeatedly spurned his suit, Waldo Dunton, aged 22, a laborer on A. Howard's farm, drank enough strychnine to kill eighty men, dying in convulsions at Rose Howard's feet.

WORLD-WIDE HUNT IS BEGUN

Government Determined to Secure Arrest of Walsh

OFFERS REWARD FOR ARREST

Whoever Captures Dealer In Faro Game In Which Coleman Was Swindled Out of Vast Sum Is In Line For Fine Government Position—Keliher Still Languishing In Jail, Being Unable to Raise $50,000

Boston, June 21.—"The United States department of justice will pay a reward of $200 for the arrest and delivery to a proper federal officer of Martin J. Walsh, who is wanted by the federal authorities in the district of Massachusetts for aiding and abetting in the misapplication of funds of the National City bank of Cambridge."

The above notice with a photograph and a description of Walsh, who has been accused of being the dealer for the faro gang which swindled George W. Coleman, the bookkeeper of the bank, out of more than $200,000, has been sent broadcast through the country to every United States marshal and every chief of police between the Atlantic and the Pacific in the hope of securing his arrest.

Only in rare cases does the national government offer a reward for the apprehension of a criminal and then usually not until the person is indicted. The action of the attorney general in offering the reward in the case of Walsh is said to indicate the determined attitude of the government to arrest him, and gives the case a national importance.

The same notice has been sent abroad to all the foreign representatives of the United States and to consuls and other officers of the national government, who reside in every quarter of the globe. The hunt for Walsh has in consequence become world-wide.

As Walsh's captor will be given an opportunity, it is understood, to secure an enviable government position, in addition to the reward, a lively hunt for the missing man is expected to ensue. His arrest is looked for now at any time. Shortly after he left Boston in March, his trunks were traced out of the country.

The description of him is given as follows: "He was born in Holden, Mass., is 41 years old, 5 feet 11 inches in height, 205 pounds in weight, may be a little lighter at present; very dark moustache, wears it closely cropped invariably; married."

Walsh's alleged confederate, "Big Bill" Keliher, who was convicted of aiding and abetting Coleman in misapplying funds of the bank, has been in Charles street jail since last Thursday, when the verdict was returned against him and his bail was increased from $25,000 to $50,000 Every effort on the part of counsel is being made to secure the required amount of bail.

Keliher expects to secure it within a few days, but owing to the difficulty experienced heretofore, it is believed it will be some time yet before he is released from jail.

WOMEN IN FIRE PANIC

Had No Time to Lose After Blaze Started In Shirt Factory

West Medway, Mass., June 21.—The four-story wooden building of the Smith shirt factory, valued at $5000, burned to the ground, creating a panic among the fifty employes, mostly women, who were at work.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It started on the lower floor, spreading with great rapidity. Two of the stairways were cut off by the fire before the women on the upper floor were aware of their danger.

They made their escape by a rear stairway to the second floor, and by windows to the top of a shed, from which they were assisted down by the people who had escaped from the lower floors. Several shot to the ground on the freight elevator, which was able to take one load before the fire ate into the elevator well.

ACTION AGAINST PACKERS

Proceedings Begun In Missouri Against Five Big Corporations

Jefferson City, Mo., June 21.—Attorney General Major has begun ouster proceeding against five meat packing companies by filing quo warranto information in the supreme court.

The companies attacked are Armour Packing company, Morris & Co., Swift & Co., Hammond Packing company and St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision company.

Grand Jury Indict Wending

Louisville, June 21.—The grand jury returned an indictment against Joseph Wendling, the missing janitor of St. John's church, charging him with the wilful murder of Alma Kellner.

BOSTON HOTEL.

Boston's need for a thoroughly up-to-date hotel for women has long been recognized. To satisfy this need and to provide working women with such a building the Women's Hotel Association has been organized. Plans have been drawn and committees appointed to attend to the various branches of administrative work. It is now only a question of a little time and the project will have become an accomplished fact, and the women of Boston will have for their use and enjoyment a home which will not only provide them with comfortable living quarters, but the agreeable surroundings to be found at any first-class social club.

The building as planned will accommodate over 200 young women, who will have the use of its parlors and reading rooms, its roof-garden and games; and all for a moderate rental. There will be provision in the flats for cooking through the medium of a small kitchenette and for those that do not care to do their cooking a cooperative dining-room is planned where dinners may be obtained at a small sum.

The association directors and committee in their statement relating to their organization assign three reasons for the need of the woman's hotel:

First—Boston has 75,000 homeless women who live in lodging houses who are entirely dependent upon their own resources for a livelihood.

Second—Department stores employ only women who have homes and reside with their parents. Stenographers, typewriters, bookkeepers and clerks are expected to reside in Boston and live with their parents or families; this class of girls is given the preference by their employer in obtaining positions of trust over those who have no permanent homes.

Third—Orphans and girls who have no family ties who must rely entirely on their own resources as bread winners, students, nurses, dressmakers, assistants, musical students, decorators, artists, clerks stenographers, etc., should be given every encouragement to help them fight the battle for bread. This class receives the least aid or co-operation from employers or society to better their home life by being properly housed and protected.

Boston has fewer homes or hotels for industrial women than any other city in the United States. Rents are higher, accommodations poorer. Unsanitary old buildings bring larger rents than many of them are worth. Boston according to the Federal government's report, is the most unhealthy city in the United States. Women and girls who receive small wages must live in the unhealthy tenements.

New York has ten modern new hotels and flat homes for this class of women who receive wages under $10 per week. The latest under the auspices of the Woman's League has just been completed. They secured by subscription $260,000 for the erection of the new building on 78th street, where girls can procure flats of two rooms and a kitchen for $1.30 a week, each with the privilege of steam heat, gas, stationary tubs, steam laundry dryers and other modern conveniences. Many of the girls prefer to do their own cooking, but for those who do not, there is always the co-operative dining room, where dinners may be obtained at 15 and 25 cents each.

While as yet the exact location for the hotel has not been decided upon, sites are under consideration, and the architects—St. Clair & Thayer—have planned the building to be located on an interior lot of land. It will be built around a hollow square, as is customary in the hotel and apartment houses of Paris. The entrance from the street will be through a "place" which will lead directly to a central archway, above which, on each floor, will be five Venetian-arched windows, similar to those on the Casa d'Oro in Venice. The only architectural enrichment on the outside of the building will be grouped above the main entrance. None of the other outside walls will be exposed to view, as they will be surrounded by other buildings. All the windows, therefore, and all the apartments will look out directly upon the courtyard with its fountain terrace and flowers.

The building is planned to accommodate both regular roomers and transient guests. Under the archway, transient guests will turn and enter the office on the left, about which will be arranged the administration rooms. Women occupying apartments in the hotel will cross the courtyard and enter at one of the opposite corners, where will be located the elevators and the stairs.

Mr. St. Clair, the designer of the building is a young Boston architect. He graduated from the course in architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1901, after which he studied in the ateliers of the Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris and resided for a short time in 1903-4 in Venice. It was at this time that he measured and drew the fronts of a number of the Venetian palaces, among which was the famous Casa d' Oro, from which he has borrowed the motif for the present design. He selected Mr. Thayer as his associate in their project as one who has been in charge of the construction of similar institutions, and who is well qualified to atend to the details of arrangement and management of this commendable work.—Boston Courrier.

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Quincy Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
When urinary troubles set in,
Your kidneys are "in a bad way."
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.
Here is local evidence to prove it:

Mrs. F. Olsen, 197 Whitwell Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "For some time my back was weak and gave me a great deal of trouble. I could not sit up in a chair for more than a few minutes at a time without having severe pains in my back. I was also subject to headaches and dizzy spells and at times was very nervous. I was becoming discouraged when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store and through their use received immediate relief. I did not expect to be speedily cured, as my condition was so serious, but I can say that the results could not have been more satisfactory. In a few weeks I was restored to good health. Doan's Kidney Pills certainly have my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

CITY COUNCIL

he hoped the order would pass.

Councilman Branch inquired the length of the loan.

Councilman Bryant replied ten years

Councilman Branch asked how much should be borrowed each year in addition to the budget?

Councilman Bryant replied that we ought to expend $15,000.

Councilman Branch. The $12 limit does not seem to allow us to raise sufficient money. If that is the fact the loan should be made for one year and not spread over ten years.

Councilman Whiton would be willing to agree to $15,000 each year for these things, on a short loan, but it was time to stop borrowing for current expenses.

The order was passed on roll call 14 voting yes and 5 no.

WEST QUINCY PLAYGROUND.

Ought to pass was reported by the Finance Committee on the order appropriating $1,500 to purchase playground bounded by Copeland, Common and West streets. Rules suspended order passed.

HANCOCK STREET PAVING.

Ought to pass, on the order appropriating $20,000 to continue the paving of Hancock street. Rules suspended order passed.

CROSSWALKS.

An amendment adding the borrowing clause to the order appropriating $800 for crosswalks, and ought to pass. Order read once.

BROOK STREET.

Ought to pass on the order appropriating $1,500 for the construction of Brook street, Wollaston. Rules suspended and order passed.

FURNACE AVENUE.

Ought to pass on the order appropriating $1,000 to rebuild Furnace avenue. Rules suspended and order passed.

CRESCENT STREET.

Ought to pass on the order appropriating $2,000 to rebuild Crescent street. Rules suspended and order passed.

LOAN ORDER.

A loan order for $9,400 to provide funds appropriated for Brooks street, Furnace avenue, Trafford street and Crescent street. Read and ordered to a second reading.

PERMANENT SIDEWALKS.

An amendment to the order for $17,600 for permanent sidewalks striking out Centre street and inserting in place the northerly side of Brooks road to Intervale street, and as so amended the order ought to pass. Rules suspended and order passed.

Ought to pass on the order for $1,100 for granolithic sidewalks. Rules suspended and order pased.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL.

The Finance committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $9,400 for the Wollaston school lot. The order took its second reading and the rules were suspended.

Councilman Richards said that before purchasing a school lot at Wollaston a new school should be erected in Ward Three, as between the needs in the two localities there was no question.

Councilman Nowland said that he had been informed that the only objection the State Police had to the Wollaston school was the lack of fire escapes. It did not seem like a square deal to South Quincy to purchase a new lot now.

Councilman McDevitte said it was up to the people of South Quincy to bestir themselves. Education was the only thing by which the poor people had a chance to rise.

Councilman Whiton said there was no question of the needs of a new Adams building but that did not do away with the fact that a new building was needed at Wollaston. He would not have his children go to the present Wolaston school.

Councilman Bryant said the Ward Three people had bee neglectful in not asking for a new building. He would be willing to vote for a building there also. He did not believe children should be allowed to go to school in a wooden building.

Councilman Nowland believed it was the duty of the Council to look after the school buildings. The buildings most needed should be taken up first.

The order was passed, Councilman Nowland voting no.

HALF HOLIDAY.

The Finance committee reported an amendment to the order for half holidays for city laborers on Saturdays making the dates from June 24 to Sept 1, and as amened the order ought not to pass.

Councilman Smith offered a minority report that the order ought to pass. He moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report.

In reply to a question, Councilman Smith said that the cost of the half holiday would be about $2,000.

In reply to a question of Councilman Branch, Councilman Bryant said this amount was not included in the budget. Continuing he said, he did not believe we should pay men who had only been at work a few weeks. He would agree to give the men employed all the year a half holiday.

Councilman McDevitt argued that men did as much work now in eight hours as formerly in ten hours. He also argued in favor of the order.

Councilman Whiton did not think we should give away something for nothing. He was willing to give the permanent men a half holiday.

Councilman Flynn favored the minority report.

Councilman Branch under rule 11 said that no one could speak more than twice on a question if objection was made and he objected.

The question was on adopting the amendment of Councilman Smith.

The motion to adopt the minority report was lost on a tie of 9 yes and 9 no. The Chair however inadvertantly anounced the vote as 10 no and 9 yes.

The vote was as follows:—

YES—Boyd, Cantfill, Carey, Flynn, Histen, McDevitt, Richards, Smith Woodward—9.

NO—Branch, Bryant, Clark, Ericson, Gardner, Moir, Nowland, Sandberg, Whiton—9.

ABSENT — Bolster, Wherrington, Loud, Snow—4.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs.

The recommendation of the committee ought not to pass, was then accepted by a vote of 10 yes and 8 no as follows:

YES—Branch, Bryant, Clark, Ericson, Gardner, Moir, Nowland, Sandberg, Whiton, Woodward—10.

NO—Boyd, Cantfill, Carey, Flynn, Histen, McDevitt, Richards, Smith—8

ABSENT — Bolster, Cherrington, Loud, Snow—4.

NOT VOTING— President Hobbs.

Councilman Gardner moved to adjourn. Motion lost 5 voting yes and 12 no.

On motion of Councilman Bryant it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until Monday June 27.

EXPRESS PERMITS.

On motion of Councilman Smith the applications of Cateldo Colletti and Gerardo Capo Bianchi were taken from the table. He then offered an order granting Colletti a permit to transport liquor which was adopted on roll call, by a vote of 11 yes and 7 no as follows:

YES—Boyd, Cantfill, Carey, Flynn, Histen, McDevitt, Moir, Sandberg, Smith, Whiton, Woodward—11.

NO—Branch, Bryant, Clark, Ericson, Gardner, Nowland, Richards—7.

ABSENT — Bolster, Cherrington, Loud, Snow—4.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order granting a permit to Gerardo Capo Bianchi, which was lost by a vote of 9 yes and 9 no, as follows:

YES—Boyd, Ericson, Flynn, Histen, Loud, McDevitt, Moir, Sandberg, Smith,—9.

NO—Branch, Bryant, Carey, Clark, Gardner, Nowland, Richards, Whiton, Woodward—9.

Absent—Bolster, Cantfill, Cherrington, Snow.—4.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs.

Councilman Flynn moved a reconsideration of the vote. Motion lost, 8 voting yes and 10 no.

The chair stated that he had received an opinion from the City Solicitor that a majority vote of those present and voting was sufficient to adopt an order of this kind and he would therefor rule that the order granting a permit to Joe Mecurio to transport liquor, which had been held up pending a ruling of the City Solicitor, had been adopted.

The vote on Mecurios' license was 12 yes and 10 no.

Councilman Nowland moved a reconsideration of the vote to adjourn to June 27. Motion lost.

Councilman Gardner offered an order granting a common victuallers license to Frank A. Moran. Adopted.

Councilman Flynn offered an order refunding P. J. Murphy $34.65 taxes illegally paid. Referred to Finance Committee.

A motion to adjourn was lost.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order granting G. Gardino a common victuallers license. Adopted.

SCHOOLHOUSE PLANS.

Councilman Bryant offered an order requesting the School Committee to procure plans for a twelve room brick school building on the new Wollaston lot to cost not exceeding $75,000. Adopted.

Councilman Whiton was called to the chair.

Councilman Flynn offered an order granting Edward A. Myatt a license to run an automobile as a hackney carriage. Adopted.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for a light on Willard street. Referred to Executive.

WATER METERS.

The order for $48,000 for water meters came up for its passage.

On motion of Councilman Branch the order was laid on the table.

Councilman Bryant moved a reconsideration. Motion lost. Vote doubted. On a rising vote of 4 yes and 8 no the motion was lost.

A motion to adjourn was voted. Vote doubted. On a rising vote the motion was voted 7 voting yes and 7 no. The chair voting in the affirmative.

Adjourned at 12.21 until June 27.

Saved by His Wit.

Lord Justice Fitzgibbon, at the time when he was one of the justices of appeals of Ireland, was holding assizes in Tipperary county when a man was brought before him on indictment for murder. The case was proved that the victim came to his death by being hit with a stick in the hands of the defendant, but the doctor testified that he had what they called in medical parlance a "paper skull."

The case looked dark for the prisoner, however, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. As the man was brought before the court for sentence it was noticed that his lordship had his black cap in his hand.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you?" demanded Lord Fitzgibbon.

The man looked for a moment and then said, "No, your lordship, I have nothing to say, but I should like to ask one question."

"What is that, my man?" said Fitzgibbon.

"I should like to know what a man with a head like that was doing in Tipperary?"

The black cap was put away and a prison sentence imposed.

"If."

Joseph Chamberlain, the English statesman, was once indebted to a nursery rhyme for a great oratorical hit. In one of his speeches he was criticising Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Salisbury on their return from Berlin, where they had been carrying on negotiations with Bismarck. Both had made speeches explaining their actions, and one of them in the course of his oratory used the word "if" so many times as to give Mr. Chamberlain a chance in his reply to make one of those popular allusions which are remembered longer than any logic.

"What the honorable gentleman has said," he remarked, "remind me of a rhyme I learned from my nurse:

"If all the seas were bread and cheese,
If all the rivers were ink,
If all the lakes were currant cakes,
What should we have to drink?"

The effect on the audience was tremendous. No one ever forgot that "if."

Marriage Marts.

The famous Tunis marriage mart is held twice a year, in the spring and in the autumn. The Tunisian girls attend by the hundreds, each with her dowry in coin and jewelry disposed about her person. The "golden girdle of maidenhood" encircles her waist, and in it is an unsheathed dagger. When the dagger is gently removed by a passing gallant and presently returned, it means that a proposal has been made.

A prettier custom prevails among the Ooraon maids, who, at stated intervals, assemble in the market place. In front of each is a lighted lamp, an emblem of conjugal fidelity. A young man feels attracted and gently blows upon the flame, extinguishing it. When the girl relights it, it is a rejectment; if she allows the lamp to go unlighted, however, the suitor is acceptable.

Wise Elephants.

Elephants, those animal sages that are constantly changing keepers, become so wise and know so much about the tricks of the trade and human nature in general that they finally will not work for any man. It is doubtful if there is a bull elephant more than fifty years old performing in this country. They have not "gone bad," as the showmen say, but have learned too much, picked up from their keepers, and they cannot be worked with safety. An elephant that is going to make trouble turns his back on his intended victim and begins to swing his great body from side to side. Then in a flash he wheels, catches the offender with his trunk and hurls him perhaps twenty feet away, following swiftly to crush the life from his body with his mighty knees.

CHINESE CUNNING.

An Official's Subtle Scheme For Securing His Prisoners.

One of the funniest stories about Chinatown is not really Chinese. It was told by a British consul at one of the treaty ports. He arrested nine delinquent Chinese, intending to turn them over to the tender mercies of the native magistrate next morning. Meanwhile he gave them into the custody of a Chinese policeman, telling him to lock them up, though there was no jail at the consulate. But the policeman was equal to the emergency. He solemnly saluted, saying, "I obey!" and marched his men off. Soon he returned and announced that they were safely caged.

The consul was curious to see how and where. He followed his policeman to the yard. There he saw the nine prisoners dancing round the consulate flagstaff, lugubriously chanting the Chinese equivalent of "ring around a rosy." Whenever the dance showed signs of flagging the policeman stirred them up with a long pole. They seemed at first sight to be holding each other's hands, but, looking closer, the consul saw that they were handcuffed together.

"Well," said the consul, "if they are chained in a ring around the flagstaff they can certainly not get away. But why do you make them dance?"

"Ah," answered the Chinese policeman, with infinite cunning, "so that they cannot climb up the pole and get away!"

The consul broke out into a loud British laugh and tried to explain to the Chinaman that the nine prisoners could certainly not all climb up the pole at once, but the Chinaman had his idea and held to it. So the dance went on.—Harper's Weekly.

AWED THE STUDENTS.

Jean Richepin's First Lesson as an Instructor In Literature.

At the age of twenty-two Jean Richepin, the French poet and dramatic author, accepted a place as instructor in literature in a school which prepared students for the military college of St. Cyr. His employers warned him that the future army officers took very little interest in belles-lettres and that their principal occupation in class was raising chaos.

Richepin's first lesson began amid a storm of whistling and catcalls. But the young instructor's voice boomed out above the uproar and imperiously commanded silence. "Gentlemen," he said, "I am not here because I like it. I am here for my living. Is any one of you going to stand in the way? If there is, I should be obliged if he will tell me so face to face on the Place du Pantheon, where I am ready to meet him at any time. And inasmuch as we are all of us about the same age, you understand, of course, that the interview will be with bare fists."

And, so saying, young Richepin brought his clinched hand down upon the desk, and the desk broke in two, and he and his pupils lived happily ever afterward. Thus runs the official legend.—Argonaut.

Crafty M. Blanc.

Blanc, the founder of the Monte Carlo gambling resort, was well aware of the desperate character of many of his customers. Knowing that they included the scum and riffraff of the world, he took precautions against them. He never carried any money, which fact he announced so frequently and publicly that it was known everywhere along the Riviera that the millionaire Blanc never had a penny on his person. But he carried in a pocketbook a draft on red paper for several hundred thousand francs, payable to the indorsee. He feared kidnaping as much as robbery, and in case of abduction he intended to ransom himself with this draft. But the instructions at his office were not to cash a red draft with his signature unless a telegram was received from him ordering it to be done.

A Painful Process.

I was quite surprised one day when upon telling my little five-year-old girl who was of a saving disposition, that I would put her pennies in the bank to have her educated to find that she burst into violent weeping and shouted, "I won't be educated; it hurts."

"Hurts?" I queried. "What do you mean?"

"I know," she sobbed. "They take a knife and scrape your arm and it swells up. I won't take my money to be educated."—Delineator.

Sultan of Sulu Wants to Raise Some Money For His People

Manila, June 21.—The Sultan of Sulu, who once offered his hand in marriage to Miss Alice Roosevelt, is to visit America. He announces that the chief object of his trip abroad is to dispose of a collection of pearls valued at something like $250,000, the proceeds from which will be devoted to improving the condition of his people. He will be accompanied by fourteen prominent Moros.

In August, 1905, President Taft, who in his capacity as secretary of war was touring the Philippines with a congressional delegation and an unofficial party, visited Sulu. The Americans, including President Roosevelt's daughter, were entertained lavishly by Sultan Hadji Mohammed Jamalul Kiram, who showered them with gifts and finally declared his wish to make Miss Roosevelt the sultana of the Sulu archipelago.

Miss Roosevelt, however, returned home to become the wife of Nicholas Longworth, another member of the party.

The First Socialist Mayor of Milwaukee, Wis.

BIG CROWD GREETS SEIDEL

He Attacks Commission City Government In Address to Chicagoans

Chicago, June 21.—The greatest crowd that ever attended a socialist meeting in Chicago greeted Emil Seidel, the Socialist mayor of Milwaukee. It is estimated that there were 50,000 persons, men, women and children, at the gathering, which was held at a North Side amusement park.

In his speech on "How Workingmen Govern a City" the mayor termed the commission form of government a "plutocratic plan for keeping plutocrats in power."

GOLDFIELD OFFERS PURSE OF $200,000

Reno, However, Thinks It Will Secure Championship Fight

Reno, Nev., June 21.—A delegation of Goldfield business men arrived here to meet Tex Rickard when he arrives from San Francisco. The Goldfield men guarantee gate receipts of $200,000 if the Jeffries-Johnson fight is pulled off in that city.

After three days of intense excitement Reno has settled down and calmly awaits the arrival of Rickard with apparent confidence that he will decide in favor of this city.

There is not a store room available here and few hotel rooms, so great has been the demand to engage them outright. Managers of the telegraph companies are already here planning for emergencies.

CAUGHT IN SEVERE STORM

Lightning Strikes Twice Near Auto In Which Governors Are Riding

Louisville, June 21.—Through one of the worst electric storms in central Kentucky in many years, Governors Sloane of Arizona, Hadley of Missouri, Ansel of South Carolina and Wilson of Kentucky, in company with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Hadley, drove in an automobile from Versailles to Frankfort. During the wild ride the lightning struck twice near the automobile.

Despite the fact that they had passed through the trying ordeal the visiting governors stated that the trip was a memorable one and was not altogether devoid of pleasure.

The four governors met to select the time and place for holding the conference of governors in November, and it is practically certain that Frankfort will be selected as the place.

"ARE STIFLING THE PUBLIC"

Lawyer's Hint to Committee Probing Lyman School

EXACT STATUS OF AFFAIRS

Not Obtainable Even by Chairman of Probation Committee of Board of Trustees—Thinks Whipping Loses Its Value After Certain Period—Believes Indeterminate Sentence Better Than a Fixed One

Boston, June 21.—Alleging that evidence had been produced that the most peculiar crime in the annals of the state had been committed at the Lyman school for boys at Westboro, Lawyer P. H. Kelley, representing the Parents' Protective association, protested to the legislative committee at the state house against being shut off from cross questioning Judge James W. McDonald of the Marlboro court, chairman of the probation committee of the board of trustees of the school.

Mr. Kelley intimated to the members of the committee that they were stifling the public, and that they might have questions to answer when they again went before the public politically this fall.

Judge McDonald had testified that he regarded the whipping of boys as the most humane mode of punishment. He said that he never felt that he could get exact information as to what was going on in the school, no matter how often he went there.

He said that out of eighteen boys that he had examined at random fifteen of them had received corporal punishment. Five of them had been slapped and had their hair pulled. He had seen some blue marks on the backs of boys that he supposed had been made by whipping.

Judge McDonald admitted that he believed that after a boy had been whipped three times that that form of punishment lost its value. He advised the hiring of an additional man who had made a deep study of incorrigible boys.

Judge McDonald testified that he had been trustee since 1905 and that he was one of those in charge of the probation system. In that work he said that he examined applicants for probation, saw that they were properly placed and through agents of the school followed their movements after they were placed.

"It is the aim of the trustees to return the boys to the community as soon as possible," said McDonald. "In doing this we try to avoid placing the boy in the same environment which originally caused his going wrong. Our agents are constantly supervising the conditions of the boys who have been placed or released and making reports to the trustees.

"I have never committed a boy to the Lyman school for his first appearance in my court. I hold that a boy under 15, whatever his offense may be, is entitled to another chance, and the Lyman school or an institution of that sort is the last resort. No boy should be sent there unless he has got beyond the control of his parents, the police and all influences that might help him."

Judge McDonald said that if a boy doesn't seem to be happy, the cause must be investigated, and an agent's duty is to seek another place for that boy. If he falls back to his old ways through his own fault, he is returned to the school.

He believes an indeterminate sentence is better than a fixed one for boys. He deals with delinquent boys for various offenses. The probation officer investigates sources of information as to a boy reported; then the boy is brought into court; not into the regular court, but a private room, so that he won't feel a criminal.

STATEHOOD BILL SIGNED

Roosevelt Greatly Desired Measure to Pass During His Presidency

Washington, June 21.—The president signed the statehood bill yesterday afternoon. Two pens were used by the president in affixing his signature, a gold one furnished by Postmaster General Hitchcock and an eagle feather, presented by Delegate Andrews. Both were retained by their owners as souvenirs.

It was one of Mr. Roosevelt's ambitions to have had this bill passed during his presidency. It is claimed it was deliberately held to give President Taft the honor.

TO RETURN TO STAGE

Decision of Mrs. Bowes, Who Forsook Footlights to "Darn Socks"

New York, June 21.—Margaret Illington, the actress, formerly Mrs. Daniel Frohman, who retired from the stage in 1908, will return shortly to professional life, appearing as a star in a new play, according to the plans of Edward Ellsner, who is Miss Illington's manager.

Two months after Miss Illington's retirement from the stage life she brought suit for divorce from Mr. Frohman, and on Nov. 10 last she married Edward Bowes, a real estate operator of San Francisco and Tacoma.

Interviewed in California, following her retirement, Miss Illington declared that she left the stage and Frohman because she craved a domestic life. "The life of an actress is abnormal," she said. "I crave domesticity, home life, children. I want to darn socks. Mr. Frohman, who is 30 years older than I, desired to make a great star out of me, but I wanted to lead the life of a normal woman. When I found that Mr. Frohman intended to keep me on the stage my love died. So we parted."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Alleged Perpetrator of Cowardly Crime Is Placed Under Arrest

New York, June 21.—William J. Duffy of Brooklyn is under arrest, charged with complicity in the murder of Frederick Devlin, who was shot to death in the Waverly hotel on the morning of Feb. 17 last.

Two men walked into the hotel with drawn revolvers and demanded money. Devlin handed them 10 cents, declaring it was all he had. As he turned, a shot was fired into his back and he died two hours later.

The men then hammered James Desmond, the night clerk, into unconsciousness with their revolver butts, rifled the cash drawer of its contents, and escaped.

Duffy was arrested yesterday for an alleged assault in Long Island City and on his appearance in court was taken to police headquarters and charged with the murder.

KAISER'S SUBJECTS GREATLY ALARMED

Lack of News of His Condition Causes Apprehension

Berlin, June 21.—Deeper and deeper grows the mystery of Emperor William's lame knee.

Berlin's best informed newspaper, The Lokal Anzeiger, printed a circumstantial story about it in which the assertion was directly made that an operation was performed. The report described how Professor Bier, an eminent surgeon, arrived at the servants' entrance to the palace at Potsdam and how other elaborate preparations were taken to prevent the news leaking out.

A bulletin denying all this was issued by the emperor's household physician, Dr. von Ilberg, and Dr. Niedner. They declare positively that there has been no operation and that The Lokal Anzeiger story was pure invention. The bulletin was accompanied by the statement that it was issued to quiet the public alarm.

There is genuine public alarm, and it has not been allayed by the doctors' denial, which Berlin does not believe.

THE WYMAN MILLIONS

Counsel For Mrs. Cutler Drops Suit For Share of Big Estate

Salem, Mass., June 21.—The appearance of William Odlin, counsel for Mrs. Mary S. Cutler of Andover, as contestant for the millions of Isaac C. Wyman of Salem, has been withdrawn.

Counsel for the will state that there has been no compromise or promises, but that Odlin telephoned that after investigation he had decided that there were no grounds for a contest.

This leaves as the only contestants of record the Mudge family, four cousins, the first question being as to their legal rights for contesting.

To Compete With Adams Express

Danielson, Conn., June 21.—The Providence and Danielson Railway company inaugurated a through trolley express freight service between this place and Providence. The company is planning to charge 18 cents per 100 pounds as compared with a tariff of 60 cents per 100 now charged by the Adams Express company.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by William Everett to George T. Bigelow, dated 7th July, 1887, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 594, page 491, for breach of the conditions in said mortgage deed contained, and for the purpose of foreclosing said mortgage, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on WEDNESDAY, the sixth day of July, 1910, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely a certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in Quincy, and bounded and described substantially as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point marked A on a plan of the Miller Estate, so-called, made by Whitman, Breck & Co., Surveyors, dated August, 1887, and recorded with said mortgage deed, in the northwesterly line of Elm street and running in a northeasterly and northerly direction on the line of said Elm street, a distance of five hundred and seventy four and eight tenths feet (574 8-10 feet) to a point on said plan marked B; thence turning nearly at right angles with said Elm street and running westerly a distance of seventy four feet (74 feet) to a point on said plan marked C in the centre of Town Brook, so-called; thence running northwesterly and northerly following the Median line of said brook a distance of two hundred and seventy eight and three tenths feet (278 3-10 feet) to a point on said plan marked D in the southeasterly line of a private way leading to Washington street; thence running southwesterly by a curved line along said private way a distance of eighty nine and two tenths feet (89 2-10 feet) to a stone bound; thence southwesterly a distance of one hundred and fifty four feet (154 feet) to the fence at a point on said plan marked F; thence turning and running southerly following said fence and a stone wall, in all, a distance of four hundred and thirty four and thirteen one hundredths (434 13-100 feet) to a point on said plan marked G in the westerly line of the driveway leading from Elm street to the mansion house on the conveyed premises, thence continuing in a southerly direction on a straight line with said wall extended for a distance of fifty two and two tenths feet (52 2-10 feet) to the point of beginning, containing three and one tenth acres of land more or less.

Said premises will be sold subject to the same restrictions referred to in said mortgage deed, so far as the same are now in force, as well as to any existing rights of way across said premises, if any, and subject to any and all unpaid taxes, tax titles, liens and assessments.

$500 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale; other terms at sale.

FREDERICK L. DABNEY,
Trustee under the will of George T. Bigelow, present holder of said mortgage.

STRANGLED BY A HEAVY MAN

Jeweler Then Packed In Trunk While Still Alive

RESULT OF SACHS AUTOPSY

Police Trying to Find Owner of Horse and Wagon Which Were Used to Carry Trunk, Which Was Dropped In a Hallway—Stolen Gems Not Yet Located—Three Suspects Are Held For Examination

New York, June 21.—Evidence gathered by the twenty detectives trying to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Moses Sachs, an aged jewelry dealer whose body was found in a trunk in the hallway of the tenement at 51 Goerck street, convinced them that Sachs was alive when packed in the trunk, and that the assault committed on him was done in a section remote from that in which his body was discovered.

The police believe the trunk containing the body was conveyed from a far away section to divert possible suspicion from the scene of the crime. The robbers took $3000 worth of diamonds and $300 in bank bills from Sachs.

An autopsy performed on the body in the presence of detectives by Dr. Weston, the coroner's physician, showed that Sachs was alive when his body was thrust into the trunk. Weston said he believed from the condition of the body that Sachs was almost strangled by a man of great strength before he was robbed. He judged that a heavy man of more than ordinary strength seized Sachs by the throat, threw him to the floor and, while his knee rested on his chest, choked him until he was unconscious.

Through the East Side and in other parts of the city as well policemen are going to stables trying to find the owner of the horse and wagon that delivered the trunk. This wagon was left under the Williamsburg bridge, and the trunk was carried into the first hallway.

The police have not found who made or sold the trunk, which is so new that it could not have been manufactured for any great length of time. A trunk similar to the one found is made by H. Raffelowitz & Sons and they sell their goods to an Italian dealer, but Raffelowitz went to police headquarters and could not identify the trunk as one he manufactured.

Pietro Lombardi, Fietro Carolli and Frederico Piedzurro were arraigned in court and held for further examination, without bail.

When Piedzurro was searched after he had been taken to the police station three rings were found on him. The sons of Sachs were unable to identify the rings as those carried by their father at the time of the murder. As many of the manufacturers and wholesalers from whom the dead man purchased his stock who could be found were taken to police headquarters to look at the jewelry, but they were unable to make the identification.

BAD YOUTH SHOOTS NEGRO

Women and Children See Two Shots Pumped Into Man's Body

Winthrop, Mass., June 21.—Without warning, Guy Gove, a 19-year-old bad man of Winthrop Beach, who boasts of twenty-three arrests, shot and perhaps fatally wounded Jesse Hayes, a negro, aged 45, before a crowd of screaming women and children. Gove fired two shots at Hayes, both taking effect.

The doctors at the hospital to which Hayes was taken say his condition is critical. Gove was captured within fifteen minutes after the shooting.

Trouble between Gove and Hayes arose because Hayes had refused to drink whisky upon the demand of Gove.

ISPOLATOFF IS RELEASED

Found to Have No Connection With Murder of Mrs. Charlton

Como, Italy, June 21.—Constantine Ispolatoff, the Russian who has been detained by the police in connection with the mysterious murder of Mrs. Porter Charlton, whose body was found packed in a trunk and fished out of Lake Como, has been released.

Ispolatoff was a chance acquaintance of Mrs. Charlton and her husband, and he has been closely questioned since he was taken into custody.

Steamer May Be Total Loss

Halifax, June 21.—A freshening wind, which has raised a heavy surf and caused the sands to shift, has caused a serious setback in the attempts to float the Norwegian steamer Meimdal, which struck on Sable island during a fog, and it is feared that the Heimdal will be a total loss.

Decaying Fish Menace to Health

Newburyport, Mass., June 21.—Tons of dead silver hake and dogfish line the coast at Plum Island. The authorities of this city and Newbury are trying to devise a way of preventing the decaying fish from becoming a menace to health.

A Henpecked Astrologer.

Lilly, the astrologer and alchemist, could not see for himself sufficiently far into that future which he professed to be able to scan so clearly for others to guard him against making a fool of himself by marrying. He caught a vixen, "of the temper of Mars," to use his own words, and the fact that she brought him £500 as dowry did not count for much in the way of compensation, seeing that "she and her relations cost him £1,000."

SUNDAY SERVICES

HALL PLACE M. E.

"The starting point of a Christian's strength" was the subject of the Sunday morning sermon at the Hall Place M. E. church. The text was taken from Luke 22-32, "When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethern." The sermon was an exposition of what conversion really is, an emphazing of the fact that since it is the starting point in the building of true active progressive Christian character that it is required of all, that the sinner against God, the one who lives simply a moral life, and that even the child who has come to the years of understanding, must needs openly and freely turn to God in order to know the enjoyment of the best things in life.

The pastor took pains to show at length the nature of child conversion, especially, showing that none should expect a child to have the experience of a hardened sinner of many years, and he also urged parents and teachers to take pains to lead to Christ at the earliest possible opportunity, the boys and girls who are immediately under their charge, for though children were by the grace of God through Christ, members of the Kingdom during the years of unaccountability, yet must they be urged to make a public confession of Christ when they have reached the years of accountability. He closed by earnestly appealing to all Christians not to be satisfied until their experience of salvation became clear and joyful that they might thus be a strength to their weaker brethren.

There was an increase in attendance at the Sunday school. Junior League was held at 3 P. M. Miss Lillian Johnson lead the Epworth League at 6.15 on this subject "The secret of the Lord."

The subject for the evening service was: "The disciple that was so near and yet so far," the text being: "And Peter followed afar off." Luke 22-54.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The new pulpit, the gift of the Church-Helpers to the church, was used for the first time Sunday. It is greatly admired by those who worship in the little stone church on the corner.

The service of worship with sermon by the minister and the Sunday school session next Sunday morning will be the last of this season. The Unitarian church will be closed during July and August and divine services will be resumed the Sunday after Labor day. Next Sunday, being our last Sunday this season, let every regular attendant be in his or her pew.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will be the guest of the Laymen's club of London at a banquet Thursday, July 28, to be held in King's hall, Londan. A reception previous to the banquet will be held in the Throne room at 7 P. M.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will attend a social gathering of the members of the Berlin Congress excursion party (sailing on the Cymric, July 12, and the Devornian July 13) on Wednesday, June 29, at 3 P. M. in Channing hall, Boston.

The Cheerful Letter committee will meet with Mrs. Harry Stevens in the church vestry, June 22, at 3 P. M. to prepare magazines to send away. Any one having good reading matter to donate is asked to send it to the vestry before Wednesday.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The Rev. Joseph Walther preached Sunday morning on "The child model." Matt. 18:2-3. What is there more perfectly fitted for us as a model than a dear little child of God. A little child of innocence, pure and frank. So forgiving, so truthful, so dependent, so happy and humble. And, Jesus tells us that except we be converted, and become as little children, we cannot enter the kingdom of heaven. A king's child will play with a peasant's child if permitted. It knows no distinction between rank, position and wealth. But the one great model for all, is Christ. In His life were manifested all the best qualities of childhood. He was innocent, pure, forgiving, trustful and indifferent to rank, wealth or position.

In closing, Mr. Walther said: "If our love were but more simple, simple as a little child. Oh, how happy we would be, if we would but take Him at His word, just like a child. Our lives would be all sunshine in the sweetness of our Lord.

In the evening, Mr. Walther talked on "The Devil's devices." 2 Cor. 2:11. He showed how Satan is always watching to tempt the people. We are warned to be aware of false prophets. He said, sometimes the temptation comes to us through a very dear friend, a father, a mother, and we are therefore urged to go slowly. He showed how Jesus was tempted in so many diffrent ways, and as we are today.

Notice of The Summer School

The Summer School will open its session on Tuesday morning, July 5, at the Women's Club House, Goffe street.

The school will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Mackay, chairman of the Education committee, assisted by the ladies of that committee.

The school term will be six weeks, beginning July 5th and closing August 13th.

Girls residing in Quincy between the ages of nine and seventeen are invited to attend this school free of charge.

The hours for lessons will be from nine o'clock until half past eleven in the morning.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Training by Miss Ruth Bass of Sargent's school of Gymnastics. All sorts of exercises for development of the body, games and dancing. Most of the work to be done out of doors.

Home Nursing by Miss Blanche M. Thayer, Superintendent of Quincy City Hospital. In this course girls will be taught to prepare the bed for sick persons, to give baths and change clothes; how to dress wounds and give first aids; how to restore fainting persons; what are the symptoms of the commonest contagious diseases; the importance of isolation; personal hygiene and other important information which will be of great assistance to them through life besides teaching them the things which make for the health of the community. A prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Current Events. There will be a course in current events and a prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Spelling. Some time will be devoted to the old fashioned spelling-matches. The girl who spells correctly the largest number of words will receive a prize.

Vocational Work. The Education Committee hopes to be able to do some Vocational Work among these girls this summer. It will be their aim to find out what the girls who do not expect to go to High school are thinking of doing in the autumn and to be able to assist such girls in finding employment best suited to their capabilities.

Business Course. Some simple work among the girls instructing them about receipts, how to make out money orders, checks, the importance of signatures and ordinary business formalities, which women ought to know.

Household Art. Mrs. Stanley Bone will give a series of twelve lessons in Household Art. In this course it is expected that girls who cannot go to High School will be taught how to go into the kitchen and prepare wholesome plain meals and then leave the kitchen in perfect order. There will be a prize in this course for the girl who does the best work.

Music Some time will be devoted to music, Probably the learning of familiar songs.

It is expected that there will be four or five first-class lectures for the girls. The topics will be: "How a Statue Grows" by Mrs. H. H. Kitson. "The Story of a Great Painting" by Miss Georgiana Lane. "How a Great Musical Composition is Created," by Mrs. Chandler Smith. "Poetry and Moral Lessons" by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston (if possible.)

To the girl who gives back the best reproduction of these five lectures a prize will be given.

Swimming Lessons. These lessons will be given to girls who cannot swim upon days when the tide is high during the school hour. It may be possible to have these lessons in the afternoons.

Inspection of Gardens. There were started in this city one thousand home gardens. These gardens are to receive inspection. The inspectors are so systematizing their work that it can be divided and sub-divided. Any person interested in the garden work is invited to accompany inspectors on their rounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best specimens raised in the Home Gardens.

Swimming Class for Clerks. On Wednesday afternoons during the six weeks of the Summer School a teacher will be in readiness to teach the art of swimming to girls who have only that time for recreation. Those desiring to have these lessons will please give their names to Mrs. Souther at Wadsworth's store.

CAPT. STEVENS SURPRISED

Braintree People Descend on His Summer Residence

James T. Stevens a prominent resident of Braintree, and one of the best known men in this section was tendered a surprise party at his summer home on Sagamore hill, Nantasket Monday evening.

The occasion was in recognition of the arrival of his 75th birthday and using Capt. Stevens owns words, "It was the best in his whole life." Mr. Stenvens is a member of the Water board of the town of Braintree, Braintree club, Post 87, G. A. R., and other organizations and has always worked for the best interests of his home and surroundings. It was in view of this fact that several prominent townspeople started this movement, and it went through with a swing, for a more popular gentleman never lived.

Mr. Stevens was pleased Monday afternoon to receive a few members of Post 87, G. A. R., to help him celebrate but upon the arrival of a party of 75 in the evening his joy knew no bounds, and he was unable to speak for several minutes. In the party were Commander William L. Gage of Post 87, G. A. R.,; Commander Joseph E. Hayden of Camp 32, S. of V.; President of Auxiliary 16, Mrs. A. F. Hollis; Postmaster W. A. Torrey, Supt. of Water Works, William E. Maybury, Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern of School board, Rev. George H. Parkinson, pastor of South M. E. church, ex-Representatives Will W. Mayhew and John Kelley, both members of Water board with Mr. Stevens; Alfred W. Donovan of Rockland, a member of E. T. Wright Co. shoe firm, and numerous others.

During the evening several presentations were made by various individuals and societies, among them being valuable field glasses, a handsome cane, flowers of all kinds, confectionery, etc. The party broke up at a late hour, satisfied that they had all done their share towards showing their appreciation of the efforts of Mr. Stevens, during his life, to keep the welfare of others constantly in his mind.

PARADE FEATURES.

The parade committee of the July 4th celebration are working hard and new entries are coming in daily. Colonel Kincaide visited the High school this morning in an endeavor to get our High school boys interested. The parade committee would like to have the boys enter in a body with possibly a float or more containing the young ladies. Every citizen would take pride in seeing our young men and women of the future pass the reviewing stand on Independence day.

HOT TIME AT HOUGHS NECK.

After a rather acrimonious exchange of words two women on Winthrop street, Houghs Neck, fell to exchanging blows on Monday afternoon. One fixed her hand firmly in the other's hair and pulled firmly but received a savage blow on the nose which occasioned a considerable flow of blood from the injured member, and caused her to release her hold upon the hair of her opponent. With her nose still bleeding she rushed from the "Us Too" cottage in search of an officer. She finally located Officer George Phillips and demanded that he arrest the other woman. However, as neither would swear out a warrant, Officer Phillips was unable to satisfy either of the combatants, who finally retired to their respective homes.

SPORTING NOTES.

At the request of some very small boys the Daily Ledger takes pleasure in reporting that the Glover Stars defeated the American Italians at base ball on Monday at the Main street grounds, by a score of 10 to 3. The line up of the Stars included: Edward Carlson, Saver Giglio, Francis Myatt, Rufus Woodsum, John Griffin, Lester Walker, John Moynihan, David Wienhause and Alek Wienhause.

GEAR WORKS HAS ANOTHER FIRE

Started in Boiler Room--Sparks Set Fire to a Neighboring House

Loss of About $600 at Noon Today

The interior of the furnace room in the rear of the building of the Boston Gear Works at Norfolk Downs, becoming overheated from the intense heat required under the boilers, took fire today near noon and damaged the property to the extent of $600.

Sparks from the fire flew across Hancock street to the roof of a house owned by Charles Nelson, and set fire to it, causing a loss of $25. The alarm was rung from box 612 at 11.47.

The blaze in the furnace room started on the woodwork of the room, and burned fiercely, and finally communicated itself to a pile of refuse wood and so forth which stood behind the building.

The employes of the Gear Works brought out the hose which is kept for such emergencies at the shop and had the fire fairly well in hand when the steamer from the Central station and the Wollaston and Atlantic hose companies arrived. The aparatus was brought into play and the flames soon extinguished.

The fire on the roof of a house owned by Charles Nelson was soon put out by a liberal application of water. The damage to the roof was about $25.

Stories of Frederick the Great.

In the course of some military evolutions Frederick the Great of Prussia, irritated by some mistake of a captain, ran after him with his stick in order to strike him. The captain ran away. The next morning the commanding officer reported to the king that the officer in question, one of the most efficient in the regiment, had sent in his papers. "Tell him to come to me," said the king. The officer, in great perturbation, came. "Good morning, major," he apostrophized the officer, who was speechless with surprise. "I wanted to tell you of your promotion, but you ran so fast I could not catch you up. Good morning."

Another time an officer attempted to get a comrade into bad odor with the king by telling his majesty that he was a drunkard. In a subsequent battle the latter's fitness was conspicuous, whereas his slanderer played a very poor part. When afterward he defiled past the king at the head of his regiment his majesty called out to him in a voice of thunder, "The sooner you take to drink the better!"

The Old Time Surgeon.

Before anaesthetics were known the surgeon's only expedient was to abridge his patient's sufferings by working rapidly. In this the old time surgeons did wonders. They had a control and a surety in their hands that are now seldom found. One day the celebrated surgeon Maisonneure had to amputate the leg of a poor devil, who began to howl in advance. "I'll give you my watch," said the surgeon, "if the operation lasts more than a minute." The man accepted the offer, but was obliged to forego the handsome watch, as the operation took less time than it requires to describe. To amputate an arm at the shoulder is a most difficult operation. Dr. Langenbeck of Germany did it in two minutes. A young physician who came to see him perform the operation adjusted his spectacles to his nose so as not to lose a single movement, but when the spectacles were in place the operation was over and the severed arm lay on the floor. Times have changed much since then.

Dr. Johnson's Church.

St. Clement Danes has never forgotten the fact that Johnson worshiped within its walls. The pew in which he sat (it is in the north gallery, close to the pulpit) is marked by a brass plate which was erected by the parishioners in 1851. In December, 1884, the centenary of Dr. Johnson's death was observed by a memorial service, when a special address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Lindsay, at that time rector of St. Clement Danes. Johnson's pew was on that occasion draped in violet. Johnson was always constant in his attendance at church on Good Friday and Easter day. On April 9, 1773, he went with Boswell. "His behavior," writes Boswell, "was, as I had imagined to myself, solemnly devout. I shall never forget the tremulous earnestness with which he pronounced the awful petition in the litany, 'In the hour of death and in the day of judgment, good Lord, deliver us!'"—London News.

Stewed Deers' Horns.

Deers' horns when young may form a dish for human consumption. Sir S. W. Baker writes, "When the large horns of the sambur, or wapiti, are growing they make an excellent dish, first scalded to divest them of down and then gently stewed with a good sauce and a few vegetables."—London Mail.

Her Description.

Muggins—Women have such queer ways of expressing themselves! Buggins—Such as? Muggins—Well, my wife was telling me about Miss Yellowleaf and said she was a sight to behold and in the very next breath said she wasn't fit to be seen.—Philadelphia Record.

A Pearl Stringer's Keen Eye.

The pearl stringer's eye becomes practiced in the detection of real and imitation pearls. One glance is usually sufficient. A genuine pearl has a hard look. It presents a sort of shell-like surface with an indescribable blush. This blush is so cleverly counterfeited in wax imitations that even those who are accustomed to handling pearls day after day are likely to be deceived.

In one of the large New York jewelry houses last winter a customer purchased a hand painted miniature set in a frame of imitation pearls. On examination it was found that several of the pearls had been slightly defaced, and the whole thing was sent to the manufacturing rooms for repairs. By chance it came under the eye of one of the pearl stringers, who instantly detected four genuine pearls in the circle of imitation ones about the picture. The frame had passed through a dozen expert hands without any one's noticing the presence of real pearls. No one could account for their being there. If they had not been detected the purchaser of the frame would have had a bargain, for the four genuine pearls were worth many times more than the picture and the rest of its setting.—New York Tribune.

Spirit of Young America.

A teacher in a Philadelphia public school narrated the following account of how an aspiring young Italian citizen was beginning to show the effects of an American environment. The story, which was told at a teachers' association meeting, runs something like this:

Tony had been away from school about a week, and when he showed up one morning the teacher asked him where he had been.

"I ran away," said Tony.

"Ran away! What did you do that for?" asked the teacher.

"My father was going to lick me, so I thought I'd run away," was the reply.

The teacher by further questioning brought out the fact that Tony for some trifling dereliction had been threatened with a beating and had stayed away from home the best part of a week.

"But your father has the right to whip you," said the teacher.

"Yes, he may," added Tony, "but I was born in this country, and I don't want no foreigners to lick me."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Costa Rican Volcanoes.

Costa Rica has been subject to earthquakes for many years. Part of the republic is exceedingly mountainous, and in this part of the country there are more than a score of volcanoes, some of them dead, but a few that break out periodically. There are three or four that have been active for more than a century. Some of these are near San Jose, the capital. Costa Ricans have always believed that earthquakes, which the country has experienced ever since it was first settled by Spanish adventurers, were caused by the volcanoes. There is good ground for this belief, because it has been noticed that earthquakes of more or less intensity followed the activity of these volcanoes. If the volcanic eruptions were violent the earthquakes were correspondingly severe.—Washington Post.

An Essay on Cats.

A schoolboy wrote an essay on cats. The chapter on different breeds supplies the following information:

"Cats that's made for little boys and girls to maul and tease is called Maltease cats. Some cats is known by their queer purrs—these are called Pursian cats. Cats with very bad tempers is called Angorrie cats. Sometimes a very fine cat is called a Magnificat. Cats with deep feelin's is called Feline cats."—Exchange.

STORIES OF THE DIAMOND.

George Stone Tells How He Became a Sphere Walloper.

BATTERS BORN, NOT MADE.

Browns' Clever Outfielder Says He Had Hard Time Breaking Into Major League Game—Pointers For Batters.

No. VIII.
By GEORGE STONE.
[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Batting, according to the experts, is considered the most important factor in the national game. The ball tosser who can successfully combat the pitchers and get away with two or three safe bingles in each game in the course of the season is looked upon as the most valuable asset to any ball club. To a certain extent I do agree with the baseball experts that batting has taken a scientific aspect. Still, there is a great amount of luck attached to it. In my case particularly I will say that I have in my career in the big league experienced my share of luck with my hitting. I don't mean to say that the majority of my hits have been lucky ones, but a great number of them were.

In order to be an expert batsman it is necessary for the player to be possessed of extraordinary perception, or, better, to be quick of thought, fast as a sprinter and, above all, own a stout pair of shoulders and arms. I went into the American league in perfect condition. I worked at manual labor several years before adopting the game as a profession, and as a result my arms, legs and shoulders were hardened and fit to go the route.

I have not changed my position since the first time a bat was handed to me, some twenty years ago. I was called awkward by my side partners, but despite this supposed handicap I developed into a hard hitter. I was never much of an outfielder. In fact, I aspired to be a pitcher or a third baseman, but the boys wanted me to play the outfield because of my ability to smash out drives at the right moment.

When I went to the Milwaukee club some years ago the experts there criticised my position at the plate very harshly. But nevertheless I led the American association that season with an average that has never been excelled. When Jimmy Collins, then manager of the Boston champions, signed me the know-it-alls opposed me. Manager Collins was informed that I would never make good in the American league, and they told him that I was the poorest outfielder in the country. I admitted this end of it, but was sure that I would prove my ability as a batsman. I was given little chance to show it.

Shortly after, when I visited Boston as a member of the St. Louis Browns, I showed these know-it-alls that I could wallop the sphere. I was lucky enough to maintain a batting average of .400 in every game in which I took part.

In order to be a successful batter you must study and watch every move the twirler makes. From the time he braces himself up to the arrival of the ball in front of you you mustn't move your eye off Mr. Pitcher and the ball. You must watch the ball as a cat does a mouse. The minute you lose track of its course you are lost.

Twirlers have various ways of delivering the ball. Some make a lot of unnecessary motions in order to catch you off your guard. Others cut out the swing and hurl the ball over when you are least expecting it. Then the catcher is always trying to draw you into conversation in order to detract your attention from the pitcher so that you will lose sight of the ball. Keep your ears and eyes wide open. Pay no heed to the man behind you or the pitcher before you. This pair are trying to outfigure you. Remember these things well. If you never lose sight of the ball you will be able to hit it. Of course you may not be as successful as some, but you will succeed. I crouch, as the critics say, like Jim Jeffries does when he delivers a blow. By this I mean I bring my shoulders down on a line with the ball, and as a result when I swing the full force of my shoulders, arms and body is behind the blow stick. The boys say I drive a hard, bounding infield hit. My shoulder motion, coupled with a very sharp twist of my wrists, does this. I practiced this method several years ago upon the lots in Iowa and found it was the best system of them all. I am called a fast runner, but I gain most from breaking fast from the plate. One-tenth of a second gained after hitting the ball wins many a safety for me.

Walker Liebgold Leaves Amateurs.

Sam Liebgold, who for twenty years has been American's most representative walker and during that time won more championships than any other amateur in this country, has decided to leave the amateur ranks and become a professional.

During all his years on the track Liebgold has won over 300 races, nearly all handicaps, and has captured 500 prizes. He is at his best from one to three miles, but can also cover long distances in fast time.

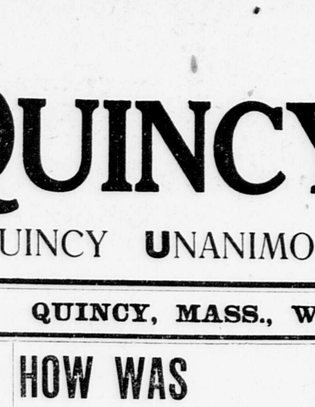
HOW WAS IT DONE?

Record of Firemen Causes Congratulations

Few people outside of those directly connected in Fire department circles realize what remarkably quick time was made last Saturday by the several Hose companies in laying hose. It has, however, caused considerable talk among firemen all over the State. Chief Williams has received several letters congratulating him on the great showing made by his department on Saturday.



CHIEF WILLIAMS.

One of these came from Capt. D. W. Howland of Hose 3 of New Bedford, who writes to know how they do it in Quincy. Capt. Howland says he has a good company, but the best time his company could make under similar circumstances was 41 seconds. There is quite a difference between that time and 19 1-2 seconds, the time made by Combination Hose 1.

For several weeks the hose companies had been drilling for the trial, and were nigh perfect when they lined up Saturday. John Faircloth the driver of Hose 1 has his horses under perfect control, and the men were alert in every move. A run of 200 feet was made, two lines of 200 feet of hose were laid, and the water came through in 19 1-2 seconds from the sound of the gun.

If the New Bedford company wants to know how it is done Capt. Howland should send his men to Quincy for a few lessons.

IN NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman William A. Carey, who for the past six years had been connected with the steam engineering department at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, severs his connection with that company this week to accept a position with the Payson Mitchell Co., who are to open a Men's furnishing goods and clothing store. The clothing business is not a new one to Councilman Carey, for in addition to his duties at the Fore River Co. he has been connected with Remick Bros. as an extra salesman for the past six years. Councilman Carey is serving his third year in the City Council as a member from Ward Two and this year is chairman of the standing committee on State Aid as well as being a member of the Finance Committee, one of the most important committees of the council. His many friends wish him all success in his new undertaking.

PRIZES FOR PARADE FEATURES

Fourth of July Committee Offer a Large Number in Different Divisions

Some of the Features Which Have Been Entered

The prizes in all but one division of the Fourth of July parade are decided upon, the division which was omitted having a special committee to attend this feature.

The best prizes are to be large silk banners trimmed with gold and lettered in gold, suitable for hanging in club rooms or lodge rooms.

For the first or military division of the parade three of these banners will be given as prizes to be awarded solely by merit.

The second division includes societies, clubs, organizations, and so forth. Since these are of a varied character and very numerous, therefor, three first, second and third prizes will be awarded, nine in all, and twelve special prizes.

For the decorated autos a special committee will select the prizes. Chester I. Campbell of Wollaston, who has had charge of the great auto shows in Boston, has consented to take charge of the auto division of the parade, and requests that he be allowed to designate the prizes. The floats, however, come in this division and will be awarded three banners.

Division 4 will be made up of antiques and horribles and individual features, and the prizes will be three five dollars in gold, two two and a half dollars in gold, and five one dollor prizes.

In the civic and trades division there will be three prizes offered for the best one-horse hitch, three for the best two-horse hitch, two for the best four horse hitch, and one for the best six horse hitch.

For the best trade features, two prizes are offered and a prize for the best merchantile auto truck. The prizes for the horse competition are to be of brass, suitably lettered, which may be attached to harness. The finest looking driver will also receive a fine whip.

The chairman of the parade committee has interviewed the principal of the High school and Paul Blackmur, Jr., president of the class of 1910 in an effort to have the High school boys parade.

The Copeland Club has entered a float upon which the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be depicted, and requests that all other organizations refrain from working on the same subject.

The Salvation Army has entered a twelve-piece band.

All that now remains for the Parade committee is to carry out the details as planned.

A SYMPHONY IN BLACK

Drama Presented by Murray Club and Dorcas society

Although one of the warmest nights of the season, many enjoyed the supper and drama given in the Univeralist church vestry Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Murray club and Dorcas society. The supper served at 6.30 consisted of cold corn beef, baked beans, salads, rolls, coffee and fancy pies. The efficient committee were Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Lermond, Mrs. Gragg, Mrs. Smith and able assistants.

At 8 o'clock the comedy "A Symphony in Black" was given by the members of the Murray club, the following members taking part: Misses Katherine P. Reed, Edith Hyland, Mildred Smith, Margaret Raleigh and Harriet Lombard. The young ladies all took their parts well, and reflected credit on themselves and their director.

Between the acts there were piano solos by Miss Hyland and Frank Smith, and a vocal selection by Miss Annie Wright. Ice cream was served at the close of the entertainment all being sold in an increditably short time.

GONE TO NEW YORK.

Frank Hollis of South Braintree, who has been connected with the Quincy Daily Ledger for nearly a year, resigned this week to go into real estate business in New York. He was known to Ledger readers as the "Ledger Ad. Man" and was a frequent caller on many of our merchants. As "Rube" he was also well known and popular in sporting circles, enjoying a good game of ball and writing sporting news for the paper. The good wishes of many friends go with him to his new field of work.

LARGE CLASS AT HIGH

Over Twice as Many Graduates As Ten Years Ago

The Class of 1910 which will be graduated from the Quincy High school this evening numbers 97, compared with 96 in 1909 and 102 in 1908. While about the same as in recent years it is 15 larger than in 1905, over twice as large as in 1900, and nearly four times as large as fifteen years ago, as will be seen by these figures:

In 1910	97 graduates
In 1909	96 "
In 1908	102 "
In 1907	90 "
In 1906	72 "
In 1905	82 "
In 1904	79 "
In 1903	60 "
In 1902	52 "
In 1901	49 "
In 1900	46 "
In 1895	25 "

The ten honor pupils in alphabetical order this year are:

Helen Gertrude Atkins
James Stanley Churchill
May Janette Cleveland
Grace Lillian DeWolf
Ruth Green Epes
Richard Joseph Favorite
Alfred Emmanuel Hanson
Edith Louise Hyland
Enor Edward Lundin
Roy LeVan Sidelinger

Four of these pupils will take individual parts in the graduating exercises. The address of the evening will be by Mr. James P. Munroe whose subject will be "Gumption."

The diplomas will be presented by John L. Miller, the chairman of the School Committee. The High School chorus will sing four numbers.

PRESIDENT DID NOT VOTE

Therefore Did Not Kill Half Holiday Order

It was stated by certain parties Tuesday that President Hobbs of the City Council was the one responsible for the rejection of the order calling for half holidays for city laborers, and that he voted against the order making the vote 10 against and 9 for. As a matter of fact, however, President Hobbs did not vote on either of the roll calls that were taken on the order. The vote on the minority report which recommended the passage of the order was, as published in the Daily Ledger of Tuesday, 9 in favor and 9 against. That was a tie vote therefore defeating the order.

PRESIDENT HOBBS.

Where the misunderstanding came was in the announcing of the vote which President Hobbs announced as 10 no and 9 yes. This was due to a slight error in the hurry of adding up the vote. The error, however, was discovered later in the evening. In fairness to President Hobbs it should be stated that he did not vote either way on the proposition.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The Savannah News' suggestion that one may get too much watermelon sounds like rank treason.

Two new stars for the flag—Arizona and New Mexico. Perhaps we may soon have half a hundred.

A Missouri blacksmith has entered the Senatorial race against Mr. Warner. He will at once try to start an anvil chorus, of course.

Old Prevaricator Cook guessed within ten feet of the correct altitude of Mount McKinley, it seems, after all.

If T. R. should give the Taft administration the glad hand the scramble to cover would be entertaining and highly edifying, perhaps.

The Jeffersonian Democracy of Patriot Tom Taggart has dropped off the mask and picked up the bludgeon. He's going to "clean up" on those who just "cleaned up" on him.

Vice President Sherman has given up predicting when Congress will adjourn. He first fixed the day as June 10. Then he put it over until July 2; now he is naming no dates.

Many complaints have reached the Ledger because of delays and trains being late on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. On investigation we find the railroad is not to blame as its officials are more than anxious to keep to schedule time. The trouble is at the Neponset bridge; the government is dredging the river and the scows are going continually up and down stream and through the draw. It can be easily seen that if a train either to or from Boston is delayed only a few minutes it means delay for the next one and so on through the day so that often there is a long wait for some trains. The railroad is powerless as it cannot interfere with government work. Trains not on schedule time are an annoyance to the traveling public, a nuisance to the railroad officials as they have to be safe guarded from accidents and especially aggravating in this case where there seems to be no remedy.

The indications are that the total debt of the city will this year pass the two million dollar mark. This is aside from "temporary loans" of $500,000 authorized in anticipation of taxes. All these debts require the payment of nearly $100,000 in interest annually.

During the five hours in which the City Council was in session Monday night, orders aggregating $59,000 were passed and sent to the Mayor for his approval or disapproval. Orders for $21,700 were recently passed, and others involving large sums are pending.

City Auditor Fairbanks reports the debt of the city on June 1, including loans of $21,700 authorized before June 20, as follows:

Municipal debt,	$545,030.00
Playground,	28,000.00
Street improvement	49,500.00
Sewer debt	604,300.00
Water debt	674,500.00
	$1,901,330.00

The limit of the borrowing capacity of the city previous to Monday was $175,664.35, and this was reduced to $116,664.35, which is expected to provide for a new school house at Wollaston to cost $75,000, and many other improvements.

DRIFT OF OPINION

The High school graduates are leaving a mighty pleasant place. They know it. Every student who is worth his salt realizes that fact as the last day in the High school comes. Whether he goes on to college or whether he goes out into the world of work, he's leaving a good friend and a protecting influence. But, as he leaves that good friend, let him resolve to prove to the world that the friendship has been of greatest value to him. Let him prove it by his ability to go along and hew out a path for himself. Let him show the world that he is just as good as anybody ,and a little better than a lot of folks. Let him enter the race with determination and with no thought of failure. Let him prove himself a fighter in a fighting world. Let him use his education and his experience in the world of books and of results accruing from the study of books to show that the time and money he has spent and which have been spent for him have had a fixed and worthy result. Let him assure himself and assure the world that the finished product of the High school is something for competitors in all walks of life to reckon with and to respect as an opponent ever worthy of their steel.—Brockton Enterprise.

The problem of life is, after all, at the ulimate, the problem of the individual, and no individual can contribute more to its solution than his individual part. When enough individuals have arrived at intelligent conceptions of their individual duty and their readiness to do it, then we have something like a public thought and a public conscience. To stimulate and inspire the individual thought and the individual conscience is as essential with this problem as with any other problem, and we believe the solution is in this way and in no other. Men and women must see what marriage signifies, what parentage involves, what the home means, what duty—their own duty—demands, before the state will have any success in seeking through the passage of laws to ensure that every child shall be well-born. The agencies which are striving to this end, modest though they may be, are those which are most effectively solving the problem—New Bedford Standard.

"I do not believe the young often realize the myriad searching eyes that are upon them noting their habits, questioning their ability, ready to give an opportunity if they can serve, but exceedingly cautious and swift to turn away from the one who has given evidence of folly. Cleanliness, a sense of the value of time, prudence, adaptability, energy kindliness and honesty almost assure the success of anyone who possesses them. Young men today do not think enough of the future. New England thrift has nearly departed from New England. The young today often spend all they earn and about all they can get from their fathers besides. I wish I could fill all young men with a fear of poverty. You are slaves and always will be so long as you spend all you earn. The only man who is a free man is the one who can live a year or two without working if necessary."—Rev. Levi M. Powers, D. D., of Haverhill.

BICYCLIST IN MIX-UP.

If ever a young man wore a disgusted look that young man was the fellow who fell from his bicycle in City Square on Tuesday afternoon. The young man who had probably been to Neponset for a supply of refreshments of the liquid kind, was holding a bundle in one hand as he rode along. In passing over a crosswalk his wheel turned and he was thrown to the ground, bundle and all. As he struck there was a sound of breaking glass, and a foaming liquid that smelled strongly of beer ran over the street mutely telling that the bundle held half a dozen bottles. Aside from losing his load the young man received a long cut on the hand, his wheel was badly bent, and his clothing was besmeared with dirt with which the oil dust preventative had been mixed.

NOW AN AUTHOR.

A Boston boy who in 1876 was a private in the Hayes and Wheeler torchlight company of which Thomas W. Lawson was captain and who years later served with Mr. Lawson in a very important capacity in applying the torch to the "system," has thrown some new light on one of the most extraordinary chapters of American history. John Adams Thayer, formerly a resident of Quincy, and one of the publishers of Everybody's Magazine during the months in which the installments of Mr. Lawson's Frenzied Finance series were eagerly awaited by the public, and who subsequently retired from active connection with the periodical, has written a narrative of his experiences which a Boston house will issue simultaneously with editions in England and France. "Astir" he calls his story, a narrative which, whether or not it takes rank with the autobiography of Benjamin Franklin, relates amusing incidents of the career of a Cambridge born American who 35 years ago stood behind the bat trying to hold the swift pitching of that other distinguished Cantabrigian, the late John Clarkson.

TAFT TAKING NO CHANCES

Won't Leave Capital Until Postal Savings Bill Passes

CANCELS TRIP TO NEW HAVEN

Sends For Senators Who Have Gone Astray on the Message and In Vigorous Language Makes His Position Known—Will Not Consent to Any Amendments by Senate to House Bill

Washington, June 22.—The president had a word for the senate, and the word had some vigor in it. It was that the postal savings bank bill must be made a law before this session ends.

"I will stay here until the first of December if necessary to get this legislation," was the substance of what he said to at least a dozen senators. To show that he meant what he said, he cancelled his engagement to go to New Haven to see his son graduate from Yale today. He told his callers that he proposed to stay in Washington until the postal savings bank bill was laid before him for his signature.

The president has discovered what a good many persons had known for several days, that the senate was conspiring to defeat the postal savings bank bill. Word reached him that many of the most influential of the senators, some of them regulars, some of them insurgents and some of them Democrats, were conniving to bring about a situation in the senate while he was out of town which would make postal savings bank legislation impossible at this session.

As soon as he reached his office, he directed that numerous senators be summoned to the White House at once. He laid the law down to them in vigorous fashion. With a little more emphasis than he has used at any time since he entered the White House, he told them that if the senate thought it could run away from postal savings bank legislation it was much in error.

He learned from some of his callers that at heart the senate does not want postal savings bank legislation at all; that if there is to be legislation many of the senators prefer the senate bill to the bill passed by the house; that the country bankers are up in arms against the legislation, and that retail merchants in many of the larger cities are sending in vigorous protests against such legislation.

The president refused to be moved by any of these representations. He maintained that the party had promised postal savings bank legislation, and he declared he would go to any extreme to force congress to carry out that promise at this session. Senators also learned that the White House regards the senate bill as a distinctly bad bill, that it is a bill framed in the interests of bankers.

The president told the senators that he regards the house bill as a good measure. He indicated that if he could have had his way he would have made some changes in it, but he pointed out that is was the result of a compromise between the regulars and the insurgents in the house, and that if the senate did not accept it without change postal savings bank legislation would be lost.

The president was told by members of the house that if the senate failed to accept the house bill, there would not be the slightest possibility of any legislation. They pointed out to him that not one member in ten from the eastern part of the United States wanted postal savings bank legislation, and that if the bill was brought before the house again it would certainly fail of passage; that any sort of a bill would be sure to be rejected.

This sort of talk seemed to arouse the president more than ever, and he told the senate that it simply must accept the house bill without further delay. Most of the senators called in were known to be secretly, if not openly, against postal bank legislation. The president exacted from nearly all of them a promise to help put the bill through and before his conferences were over, he was inclined to believe he had done something toward straightening out the tangle.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

HOME FOR GRAND ARMY

Dr. William Everett Estate an Ideal Location

Editor Daily Ledger:

In reading the report of our City Council, I notice an order to purchase the hall now occupied by Paul Revere Post. I desire to call the attention of the Council and the Mayor to the sale advertised of the fine old residence of the late Dr. William Everett. I believe this property should be purchased by the people of this city for the use of the Grand Army and all the patriotic organizations.

Several rooms should be given to the display of interesting relics of the past, the grounds could be laid out at a small expense, and with the stars and stripes floating over this spacious lawn Quincy would have a home for her soldier boys in keeping with their fine record.

What finer example could be given our young people than to see the homestead of the foremost scholar of America dedicated to patriotism. One half the purchase price of this property will no doubt be the selling price of the present quarters.

Nearly every town and city in the Commonwealth furnishes a hall for their Grand Army posts. It is time Quincy should do the same. What a notable example Quincy could give of a "saner Fourth" by the announcement that this city has purchased this historic residence for the "Boys in Blue."

"Historic Quincy, past and present," should be the password of every true citizen.

Charles H. Johnson.

CHARGES AGAINST CIVIL SERVICE MEN

Governor Draper Refuses to Grant a Hearing to McCarthy

Boston, June 22.—The petition by Jeremiah J. McCarthy for a hearing by the governor and his council on the charges he preferred against the civil service commission was refused by Governor Draper last night.

The news was conveyed to McCarthy in a letter which aroused him to a bitter reply, in which he asserts that the governor treated him outrageously by not referring the matter to the council even.

The governor, in his letter of notification, closed by saying that he would not refer the petition to his council, and that he left McCarthy to seek his remedy elsewhere, if he had one.

To this McCarthy intimated that he would certainly be heard from. He characterizes the action of the governor as inspired by political motives, but he declares that he will stand by the Republican party although he fears that its action will result in the election this fall of a governor pledged to the removal of the civil service commission.

ARRIVALS AT SEASHORE

Hot Weather Expected to Increase Summer Colony

Hot weather has arrived and probably most of the cottages at Houghs Neck will be opened before the Fourth of July. Thus far the season has, however, been a little backward.

D. S. McDonald will spend the season on Centre road.

Mrs. Susan M. Burke will occupy a cottage on Weymouth street during a part of the season.

William H. Magnet of Brockton will spend July and August on Winthrop street.

Joseph F. Fenno will spend the summer on Shaw road.

Turner street will have a large colony, some of whom are William F. Gaffney and family for the season; Miss B. A. King, Mrs. M. N. King, Charles .F Humphrey and William H. Ford.

William Cockran will spend Fourth of July week on Sea street.

L. A. Whittaker will summer on Charles street.

The school house building is well under way. The foundations are raised and the walls nearly raised to the second floor level. A large force of masons is working daily on the building.

A large number of enthusiasts go in swimming daily.

The tragedy of a few weeks ago has been quite a blow to the beach.

CLUBHOUSE ENLARGEMENT

Quiucy Yacht Club Will Have Commodious Quarters

The addition which is being made to the Quincy Yacht Club clubhouse at Houghs Neck is now quite near to completion and will be ready for the opening basquet which will be given June 30. The rough work on the building is entirely complete and the finishing work is now in hand.

The addition is a two story structure 80 feet long by 48 feet wide with a veranda around all three sides on both floors. The floors will be hard wood to conform with the finish of the old club house.

The addition furnishes accomodations for 100 storage lockers, a ladies parlor, pool room, shower bath room and a banquet hall which will seat 40 or 50 persons.

In the older part of the building the stairs will be moved, to be run in the addition, an extension has been made on the waterfront side of the dance hall and the stage in the hall set back to give a larger and entirely clear floor space for dancing.

Under the clubhouse all of the old piling has been removed, and replaced with new oak piling. The approximate cost of the repairs and addition is $10,000.

The Argentine naval officers stationed in Quincy, and President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding company will attend the opening banquet which will be given June 30.

GARDEN PARTY.

Saturday will be "Charity Class Day" at the grounds of the Free Home for Consumptives, 428 Quincy Street, Dorchester. Young ladies frim the various sections of the city and suburbs are anxious to make their respective tables a success.

First Corps Cadet band, attached to the armory on Columbus avenue, the exclusive band of Boston, will give a rare treat in the line of music. The Colored troupe from the Sunny South will delight you; A merry lot of darkies in melodies and dance. The dancing in the new building will be enjoyable afternoon and evening, and the whist parties from 2-5 and 8-10 P. M., will be a source of charming recreation.

WOLLASTON UNION PICNIC.

The Sunday schools connected with the various churches in Wollaston will unite in a union picnic at Glen Echo park, Stoughton, on Saturday of this week.

Committees have been appointed having in charge the transportation, sports and refreshments, and all who go are promised a most enjoyable time. Special electric cars will leave at the Beale street turnout at 9 o'clock. The bell on the Baptist church will be rung at 8 o'clock as a signal that the picnic will be held, so if the weather is doubtful those intending to go should listen for the signal.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles Merino, Alfonso Merino and Joseph Gleason were fined $5 each for taking clams from prohibited flats at Quincy.

Robert Cameron was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Randolph. Case continued until July 2.

Patrick Sullivan, Patrick Quick and John Manning were fined $3 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Charity and Prudence.

The contradictions of life are many. An observant man remarked recently that he was prowling about a certain city square when he came upon a drinking fountain which bore two conflicting inscriptions.

One, the original inscription on the fountain, was from the Bible, "And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Above this hung a placard, "Please do not waste the water."—Youth's Companion.

DEEPER WATERWAYS.

Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, and president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association has been an enthuiastic advocate of improving the rivers and harbors of the United States ever since he was a reporter on the Philadelphia Public Ledger years ago. Since he came to Congress he has taken a commanding position in the movement for a comprehensive waterway policy on the part of the government and the formation of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association i s due largely to his persistency and enthuiasm for the construction of an inside passage from Boston to Beaufort, North Carolina, and thence on to the Florida Keys using the canals, bays and sounds between Boston and Beaufort thereby shortening the distance some six hundred miles between the points named and at the some time avoiding the perils of Hatteras. At the last session of Congress Mr. Moore endeavored to secure the authorization for an invitation to the International Navigation Congress to meet in the United States but failed in securing such authorization. This session Mr. Moore has had better luck, the Rivers and Harbors bill carying an appropriation for $50,000 for this purpose. Commenting on the provision the hustling member from the Philadelphia district said:

"The coming to the United States of the Permanent International Association of Navigation Congresses will mean much for waterway development in this country. It is well known that we are far behind European countries in inland waterways development. The picked engineers and experts of all nations attend these conferences in the old countries and this will be the first conference of the kind to be held in the United States. The significance of such a convention is apparent when we recall that up to 1907 the United States, with its vast area, had spent only about $550,000,000 on all its waterways and harbors, while France alone, since 1814, had spent more than $700,000,000."

Mr. Moore expressed the earnest hope that the next international conference held in this country would devote itself, amongst other things, to a discussion of the limitation of artificial harbor depths. He had just been before the Committee on Foreign Affairs advocating a joint resolution recently offered by him directing the Secretary of State to confer with the maritime nations of the world as to the advisability of reaching an international agreement upon this question.

"It is highly important," said he, "that the nations should come to some undertsanding as to the depth to which they propose to dredge harbors for the accommodation of a very few big ships. New York alone on the Atlantic coast is prepared to receive vessels of the Mauretania and Lusitania type. Are we to continue appropriating millions of dollars every year to attain for other harbors the artificial depth we are giving New York, or are we to agree all along the coast upon the concentration of international trade and commerce at one point? What one port has another will strive for, and an equal distribution of trade seems to be a fair proposition. This same problem confronts British ports like Liverpool and Southampton. The latter has the advantage over Liverpool and any further dredging, if the construction of freak vessels is to be involved, would operate to put Liverpool out of business.

"But apart from the question of distributing trade, is the very important one of the wasting of public money. Every nation is affected, but the United States—by reason of its area—will undoubtedly be the largest sufferer, because, if foreign shipowners build vessels of extraordinary draft, the various ports of the United States must be deepened to accomodate them whether they do or do not appear at those ports."

Friends In Need.

"I don't put much faith in proverbs,' said Brown to Jones. "For instance look at the oft quoted one, 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' Now, most of my experience with friends in need has been that they wanted to borrow Give me the friends that are not in need."

A Hard Task.

"Now, sir," said an Irish barrister with severity to a loquacious witness, "hold your tongue and give your evidence clearly."

"UNFAIR" SAYS UNION LABOR

Withdraw Support from Fourth of July Celebratiom

Charles W. Hanscom, the representative of the Central Labor Union of Quincy, called at the Daily Ledger office today, and took exception to the report that the Union and the Fourth of July committee had buried the hatchet.

He said it was not a fact that the point at issue had been "amicably settled." The C. L. U. had still adhered to its original request, that union labor be employed wherever possible. No demand had been made, but simply a request.

Some weeks ago the Central Labor Union had voted the sum of $50 toward the celebration, and a check was drawn and handed to Mr. Hanscom, which he was requested to hold.

Recently the union instructed Mr. Hanscom not to forward the check as they claim no effort has been made by the Fourth of July committee to accede to the wishes of the union relative to union labor.

Blanks for subscriptions, forwarded to Mr. Hanscom, have been returned to Secretary Stetson because they did not bear the union labor. It is very evident that the celebration will receive no support from union labor.

It is no secret, also, that manufacturers and others have declined to contribute to the fund because of the prominence of organized labor, and its demands. This has made it extremely difficult to raise funds, which ordinarily would come easy.

JULY MAGAZINES.

Roosevelt, the most talked of private citizen, and the German Emperor, the most talked of sovereign, are the subjects of articles in the July McClure's. Both papers are by Sydney Brooks, a well known English political writer and both so good that the magazine is induced to break its rule of not printing two articles by the same author in one number. Mr. Brooks tells "What Europe Thinks of Roosevelt" and his paper, "The Real Kaiser," is said by those who should know to be the best article ever written about that picturesque ruler. Elizabeth Shepley Sergeant writes of the shocking conditions under which false hair, "willow" plumes, artificial flowers and other things sold in the great shops are manufactured in New York tenements; John Burroughs answers the exponents of the "new psychology" who declare that animal behavior is not governed by reason or instinct and Senator Platt gives his side of the Garfield-Conkling feud. Jack London contributes "The Unparalleled Invasion" to an exceptionally strong fiction number. Other stories are "From One Generation to Another" by Arnold Bennett; "The Translation of Giovanna" by Amanda Mathews.

The Engineering magazine for July gives the leading position to the second instalment of Harrington Emerson's exposition of the twelve principles of efficiency, the first part of which was presented last month. In this paper Mr. Emerson discusses the organization necessary for the successful application of efficiency principles. He finds that American organization for operation, governmental, educational, industrial, or commercial, is inefficient, often disgracefully so, and he recomemnds the adoption of a constructively defensive type of organization in place of the destructibly offensive type which has been tried and found wanting. An article of very timely interest is Alex. Del Mar's consideration of the causes of the increased cost of living and their proportionate effects. An important feature of this number is a critical editorial discussion of the proposed United States Bureau of Mines, its purpose, powers, and influence. The number carries also the full Review of the Engineering Press and The Engineering Index. The Engineering Magazine, New York.

Started In Business.

"Father thinks I ought to go in for business a bit," remarked the gilded youth.

"Made a start yet?"

"Oh, yaas. I've ordered three business suits and had me name put up at a commercial club."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Managing the Weather.

It may safely be said that control of the weather by sorcerers was altogether disbelieved in by very few persons in the sixteenth century. But if the belief was held more strongly along one coast line than another it was around the Baltic rather than elsewhere. As late as 1670 a traveler tells us how, being becalmed off Finland, the captain sent ashore to buy a wind from a wizard. The fee was 10 kroner (say 36 shillings) and a pound of tobacco. The wizard tied a woolen rag with three knots in it to the mast. Untying the first knot produces just the wind they want, southwest. That slackening, untying knot No. 2 revives it for a time, but knot No. 3 brings up a fearful northeaster, which nearly sinks them. "Qui nescit orare, discat navigare," was a much quoted phrase. True enough of one traveler, it would appear, seeing he is reported to have prayed during a storm: "O Lord, I am no common beggar. I do not trouble thee every day, for I never prayed to thee before, and if it please thee to deliver me this once I will never pray to thee again as long as I live."—Atlantic Monthly.

Norway's Love For Bjornson.

What Bjornson was to his own people is best made clear by an incident which occurred at his beloved Aulestad not long before he was forced to start on his final journey to Paris in search of another lease of health and life. A regiment passed the place in the course of a maneuver. Its commander sent word ahead to the poet asking him to review the soldiers as they marched by. Bjornson stood on the veranda of his house, surrounded by his entire family—a man who had never held any public office, mind you! As the troop approached on the highroad below officers and men gave the salute due to a commanding general or a member of the royal house. But this was not all. From the rapidly moving ranks rose one mighty shout after another—a spontaneous outburst of devotion and gratitude such as it has been granted very few men the fortune to inspire. —Edward Bjorkman in American Review of Reviews.

Figures of Speech.

A well known ventriloquist who had consented to give a performance in aid of charity heard that certain members of his prospective audience were determined to watch the movements of his mouth with the closest scrutiny with a view of confounding him. The night came, the attendants carried in three dummies on chairs, and the artist made his appearance. His performance was unusually successful, the muscles of his face giving no evidence of his art. The changes of voice were marvelous, and the astonished crowd at the close of the exhibition gave him a rousing cheer. Again and again they called him back, and he expressed his pleasure by innumerable bows. At last the cheering ceased, and he was permitted to retire. Scarcely had he done so when the three "lay" figures got up from their chairs and walked off the stage. The ventriloquist had employed three friends to impersonate his usual mechanical figures.

The "Bull."

The origin of the word "bull" as the definition of a confused utterance is doubtful. Some philologists say it comes from the French boule—"fraud"—and others that it is derived from the Icelandic bull—"nonsense." Many definitions have been attempted, but the best probably is that of Sydney Smith. Writing of the difference between wit and "bulls," he says: "Wit discovers real relations that are apparent; 'bulls' admit apparent relations that are not real. The stronger the apparent connection and the more complete the real disconnection of the ideas the greater the surprise and the better the 'bull.'"

Where Looks Don't Matter.

Apropos of a titled foreigner's marriage to a rich and rather plain American girl a New Yorker said:

"The count has no cause to complain. The ethics of such a marriage as his are but the ethics of the matrimonial agency.

"A man called at a matrimonial agency.

"'I am interested,' he said, 'in the young lady who has $250,000 in her own right. Could you let me see her photograph?'

"'No; that is not the custom,' the agent replied. 'In any case over $100,000 the photograph is never asked for.'"

Working Him.

"I want the office, of course," said the aspiring statesman, "but not unless I am the people's choice."

"We can fix that, too," said his campaign manager, "only you know it's a good deal more expensive to be the people's choice than it is to go in as the compromise candidate."—Chicago Tribune.

Friendship.

Friendship is a vase which when it is flawed by heat or violence or accident may as well be broken at once. It can never be trusted again. The more graceful and ornamental it was the more clearly do we discern the hopelessness of restoring it to its former state.

A Continued Story.

"What did your wife say when you stayed out so late last night?"

"I don't know. She hasn't finished telling it all to me yet."—Detroit Free Press.

In this world it is not what we take up, but what we give up, that makes us rich.—Beecher.

BRIEFS

Full moon tonight.

Tomorrow the sun begins to rise later.

The Fourth of July comes a week from next Monday.

Summer begins today, says the Old Farmer's Almanac.

It was a hot night as well as a hot day; the mercury at midnight registered 77.

Miss Caroline Picard, after six years with H. L. Kincaide & Co., has resigned her position.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Taylor and family of Newcomb street leave today for Seattle, Wash.

Miss Annie Hobart of Pearl street, who sprained the ligaments of her knee a few weeks ago, is now convalescent.

John S. Sullivan of Copeland street who has been ill at his home the last month, has gone to New Hampshire to regain his health.

A club race under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club will be sailed Saturday, starting at 2.45. There will also be a race for power launches.

The through line of street cars between Neponset and Nantasket, which have been running on Sundays, will be run every day beginning next Sunday.

Bids will be opened by City Treasurer Curtis tomorrow for the sale of four per cent registered bonds to the amount of $21,700 including five loans.

Monday evening the Y. P. C. U. of the Universa'ist church will give a free social in the vestry of the church, when the comedy, "A Symphony in Black" will be repeated.

The picnic of the Universalist Sunday school will be held Tuesday, June 28, at Glen Echo park, Stoughton. A special car will convey the party and refreshments will be served.

The Frederick estate on Adams street, recently purchased by Joseph W. Dennen, is undergoing quite a change. The house is being painted red with white trimmings.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Lathrop of Whitney road have returned from Provincetown. Mr. Lathrop, who is connected with the Electric Boat Co., went to Provincetows in connection with the trials of the submarines.

Twelve members of the arts and crafts committee accepted the invitation of Mrs. E. S. Tenney, the chairman, to enjoy a day's outing at her bungalow at Scituate beach on Tuesday. She is very pleasantly located, and has a well planned cottage.

Joint memorial services will be held on Sunday evening by Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., and George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, in Odd Fellows, hall, Adams building. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. W. B. Ayers of Wollaston Park and John D. Mackay, Esq. Music by America quartet.

Electric vacuum house cleaners, special June prices $2. per day. Kincaide & Co.

TORCH APPLIED TO NEGRO

Texas Mob's Awful Vengeance For Mistreating of a Woman

Rusk, Tex., June 22.—Leonard Johnson, a negro charged with having mistreated and killed Miss Maud Redding near here, was burned at the stake by a mob near the scene of the crime.

Sheriff Norwood and deputies were en route to Rusk with the negro when they were overpowered by a mob at Lone Star. Seizing the negro, who pleaded for his life, the mob, composed of more than 100 men and boys, dragged him a short distance from the town.

The negro was tied to a stake and brushes were piled high around him. A torch was applied. Disregarding the pleading of Johnson, the fire was fed until he was partly incinerated.

MOODY BILL IS PUSHED

Senate Omits Formality of Conference on House Measure

Washington, June 22.—The house bill authorizing the retirement of Justice Moody of the supreme court, becaues of protracted illness, was passed by the senate without going through the formality of sending it to conference. The measure now goes to the president for his signature.

The retirement bill as passed continues to the associate justice his full salary for life, notwithstanding that he has not reached the requisite retirement age of 70 years and has not served the necessary time to make him eligible for retirement under existing law. To receive the benefits of the act Moody will be compelled to resign within five months.

MILITARY PLOT IS NIPPED IN THE BUD

Chinese Viceroy Causes Arrest of Important Army Officers

Pekin, June 22.—High and important officers in the Eighth division of the new Chinese army are in close and solitary confinement in the provinces of Hu-Peh and Hu-Nan, following the discovery that they were engaged in a revolutionary propaganda through which it was hoped to create a military league that might control the army and extend its influence to control the government.

The viceroy of Hu-Peh and Hu-Nan ordered the arrest of at least four officers and has two others under investigation. The prompt action of the viceroy is believed to have destroyed a movement that would have developed into a very powerful factor in the government of the Chinese army and China.

HAZING CADETS LOSE

Resolution Permitting Their Reinstatement Fails of Consideration

Washington, June 22.—By failing to take action on the joint resolution providing for the reinstatement of the West Point cadets who were dismissed for the hazing of young Sutton last summer, the house committee on military affairs knocked out the chances of the cadets in question for reinstatement at the coming session of the military academy, the way for which was paved by the resolution.

Under the provisions of the resolution considered by the military affairs committee the West Point hazers were to be tried by court martial, and, if exonerated, were to be allowed to reenter the academy in the fall.

TAFT URGES LAND APPEAL

Special Message on the Subject Sent to Congress by President

Washington, June 22.—The president sent to congress a special message recommending the enactment of legislation to permit appeal from the decision in land cases of the secretary of the interior, to the court of appeals in the District of Columbia.

Representative Mendell, in introducing a resolution to carry into effect the president's recommendations, said he considered the measure a most important one, as the legislation proposed will relieve the secretary of the interior of many criticisms. Secretary Ballinger is in favor of the bill.

CANDIDATES FOR SENATE

Colt and Spalding Want Seats Occupied by Aldrich and Flint

Providence, June 22.—Samuel P. Colt is an avowed candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, who recently declined to run for another term.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 22.—A. G. Spalding, head of the sporting goods house of Chicago, for several years a resident of San Diego, has been formally requested by San Diego business men to accept the nomination to succeed Frank P. Flint in the United States senate.

Praise For Taft, None For Roosevelt

St. Paul, June 22.—Indorsing the "wise, conciliatory" administration of President Taft, but laying on the table a resolution "re-affirming our unalterable support of the policies promulgated by Theodore Roosevelt," the Minnesota Republican state convention met and nominated a full state ticket.

DESPERATE SCHOOLBOYS

Story of Another Who Hanged Himself at Westboro

THREAT TO BAR THE PUBLIC

Committee Probing Lyman School Aroused Over Lawyer Accusing Trustee of Lying—Principal Ryan a Firm Believer In Corporal Punishment, Which He Admits He Administered With Rubber Hose

Boston, June 22.—The large crowd, many of whom were women, that gathered before the legislative committee that is investigating conditions of the Lyman school for boys at Westboro at the state house, was startled when a letter was read declaring that another boy had died at that institution under practically the same circumstances that surrounded the death of John Newman, the 14-year-old Cambridge boy.

The letter was read by Representative Reed of Cambridge. It was signed by Lewis Emery of Holyoke, who said that his nephew, Peter Laporte, had been found dead after being brought back to the school and punished for running away. The officials declared that he hanged himself, just as they have declared that the Newman boy hanged himself.

A threat to clear the public from the hearing room, followed by an order by the chairman of the investigating committee to the attending officer to evict Attorney Kelly if he persisted in causing a disturbance, was a feature of the hearing. Kelly twice told the committee that in his opinion the witness then on the stand, Trustee Lamb of the school, was lying, and that he could prove it. He was told that if he had such proof it was his duty to take the stand as a witness under oath and to give the committee the benefit of his information, but this he declined to do.

Mr. Lamb testified that he investigated one case of alleged cruelty at the school which resulted in one of the boys having nose-bleed. He found that the boy had made an insulting remark to one of the women visitors and she had struck him with her hand. He said that he did not blame her in the least, for the remark was one which required that sort of treatment.

Corporal punishment, he said, is the greatest problem with which the trustees have to contend, and it does not have his approval except in extreme cases. He said that he had looked over the records recently, and found that in the past two years twenty-five boys had been whipped once, thirty-six twice, and seventy-two three times or more.

John J. Ryan, principal of the Lyman school, testified that he had been connected with the institution for two years. He explained that all of the boys of the Lyman school are required to attend classes. The school is graded like other schools, and has a primary department for feeble-minded boys. This school's boys are different from the average schoolboy, in that they are deficient both morally and mentally.

Mr. Ryan said that he had occasion to administer corporal punishment in the course of procedure and that the only implement he used was a rubber hose, such as had been exhibited at the hearings. The teachers send the boy to the principal, who investigates the case. The other form of punishment in vogue at the institution is the depriving of play, depriving of the swim and the taking away of credits.

The average number of boys is 350. Ryan said that he remembered John Newman, who came to him on May 29. He was placed in the sixth grade and was not considered a bright boy. In answer to questions as to whether he had given the subject of corporal punishment consideration, Ryan said that he had studied the matter thoroughly and that he was in sympathy with it; that it would be a mistake even in our public schools to take away corporal punishment. Corporal punishment acts as a safety valve; judicious use of it is necessary. He said that the trustees aim to give the boys every possible uplifting influence, allowing them to have baseball teams, a band, swimming, military exercises and gymnasium work.

GIVEN A LOVING CUP

Miss Gould's Work In Behalf of Railroad Men Is Appreciated

New York, June 22.—An interesting ceremony took place at the Gould mansion in Irvington yesterday afternoon when Miss Helen M. Gould was presented with a loving cup by the employes of the Gould system in the southwest in appreciation of her interest in their welfare and her efforts to better their condition.

The presentation was made by a committee and at the same time Miss Gould was presented with a volume of letters, bound in morocco with silver trimmings, from twenty-five railroad associations and an equal number of the higher officials of the Gould lines.

It was Miss Gould's birthday.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT MAY BE ENGAGED

Visit of "James" to Oyster Bay Sets Villagers to Guessing

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 22.—"Is Miss Ethel Roosevelt engaged to be married?" This is the question which Oyster Bay folks are asking.

James T. Williams, one time a Washington newspaper correspondent and later a member of the civil service commission, was Miss Roosevelt's guest at luncheon yesterday. He arrived on the noon train and Miss Roosevelt was at the station in a runabout to meet him. She greeted him as "James." They mingled little with other members of the Roosevelt family during the afternoon and went for a long walk after luncheon.

Williams left for New York last evening. Miss Roosevelt brought him down to the station in her runabout.

WAS POET AND ARTIST

Death of Princess Feodora, Sister of the Empress of Germany

Karlsruhe, Ger., June 22.—Princess Feodora of Schleswig-Holstein, the youngest sister of Empress Auguste Victoria, died suddenly from heart failure. The princess was born on July 3, 1874, the daughter of Frederick, Duke of Schleswig-Holstein.

Princess Feodora never married. She had written several volumes of verses and was an artist of merit. Owing to the death of her sister, the empress has cancelled all her social engagements for the near future and also her expected visit to Kiel, for the yachting regatta.

FIGHTS ON BATTLESHIP

Ring Contests Despite Orders of Head of Norfolk Navy Yard

Norfolk, June 22.—Despite the recent order of Captain Parker of the Norfolk navy yard, to the effect that prize fighting would not be permitted at this station, four fights have taken place on board the battleship Minnesota.

The principal bout was between Phillips, of the wireless station, and Szarwanski, of the Virginia. The bout went six rounds and the decision was given to the Russian. Phillips holds the welterweight championship of the navy.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED,
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

A gripping story having to do with the most vital forces that affect the human being; a thrilling narrative of the combat of an American against the worm eaten aristocracy of the old world---as such may the novel "Half a Chance" be briefly described. The brilliantly drawn characters, typical of London, range from Jocelyn Wray, the beautiful young debutante, sought and worshiped by a score of noblemen, to Tom Rogers, the brutish filcher, highwayman and debased magsman. A feature of the story is the influence that can be exerted on her associates of low and high degree by the sweetness, simplicity and purity of a little girl. She was confident that there was something good in a man, no matter how low he might have sunk. She set out to prove it. The manner of her endeavor and the events associated with it go to make the story one of rare fascination. And the vivid pen picture of the struggle of a great human spirit to emerge from the abyssmal depths of wrong living and degradation will long be imprinted on the memory of the reader.

CHAPTER I.

MR. GILLETT'S CHARGE.

"By all means, m'deah, let's go down between decks and have a look at them."

"Of course, if you wish, Sir Charles, although— Do you think we shall be edified, Mr. Gillett?"

"That depends, m'lady"—and the speaker, a man with official manners and ferret-like eyes, shifted from one foot to another—"on what degree or particular class of criminal your ladyship would be interested in. If in the ordinary category of skittle sharper or thimblerigger," with a suspicion of mild scorn, "then I do not imagine your ladyship would find much attraction in the present cargo. But, on the other hand," in a livelier tone, "if your ladyship has any curiosity—or shall we say a psychological bent?—regarding the real out and outer the excursion should be to your liking, for," rubbing his hands, "a properer lot of cutthroats and bad magsmen it has never been my privilege to escort across the equator, and this is my sixth trip to Australia."

"How interesting—how very interesting!" The lady's voice floated languidly. "Sir Charles is quite right. We must really go down. At any rate, it will be a change after having been shut up so long in that terrible stateroom."

"One moment, m'lady. There's a little formality that must be observed first. No one allowed on the prisoners' deck without the captain's permission. There he is now."

"Then be good enough to beckon to him," said the lady.

But this Mr. Gillett, agent of the police, discreetly declined to do. Captain Macpherson was a man not to be beckoned to by any one, much less by him.

"Sir Charles and lady and Sir Charles' party have expressed. Captain Macpherson, the desire to obtain permission to visit the prisoners' deck," said Gillett.

Captain Macpherson looked toward Sir Charles and his lady, the other passengers lounging around them, a little girl at the rail, her hair blown windward, a splash of gold against the blue sky. "What for?" said the skipper brusquely.

"To have a look at the convicts, I suppose."

"What good'll that do them?" growled the commander. "Idle curiosity—that's what I call it. Well, go along and keep them away from the bars. The weather has mae improved the tempers of a few of the rapscallions, and they'd like naught better than a chance for their claws."

"Thanks for the permission, and," a little stiffly, "the admonition, which latter," turning away, "a man whose lifelong profession has been dealing with convicts is most likely to stand in need of and heed."

"May I go too?"

The child with the golden hair desisted in her occupation of watching the flying fish and other real winged creatures and, leaving the rail, walked toward the group that was about to follow Mr. Gillett. She was a very beautiful girl of ten or eleven, slim, delicately fashioned, of a definite proud type.

"May I go, too, aunt?" she repeated.

"Why, of course," interposed a blase, cynical appearing young man who had just emerged from the cabin. "Don't know where she wants to go or what she wants to do, but don't say she can't; really you mustn't, now."

"Well, since you insist on spoiling her, Lord Ronsdale"—

He twisted a blond mustache which adorned a handsome face that bore many marks of what is called experience of the world. "Couldn't do that! Besides, Jocelyn and I are great chums, don't you know. We're going to be married some day when she grows up."

"Are we?" said the child. "The man I marry must be very big and strong and must not have light hair."

Lord Ronsdale laughed tolerantly.

"Plenty of time for you to change your mind, don't you know. Meanwhile I'll not despair. Faint heart, and so on. But," turning to Sir Charles, "where is it she wants to go?"

"To see the convicts."

"Convicts? Ah!" He spoke rather more quickly than usual, with accent sharper.

"You didn't know who your neighbors were going to be when you decided so suddenly to accompany us?"

"No." His voice had a metallic sound.

Sir Charles addressed Mr. Gillett. "Tell us something more definite about your charges whom we are going to inspect. Meant to have found out earlier in the voyage, but been so jolly seasick, what with one gale after another, I for one until now haven't much cared whether we had Claude Duval and Dick Turpin themselves for neighbors or whether we all went straight to Davy Jones' locker together. A bad let, you have already informed us, but how bad?"

"Well, we haven't exactly M. Duval or Mr. Turpin in the pen, but we've one or two others almost as celebrated in their way. There's Billy Burke, as desperate a cracksman as the country can produce, with," complacently, "a record second to none in his class. He"— And Mr. Gillett, with considerable zest entered into the details of Mr. Burke's eventful and rapacious career. "Then there's the 'Frisco Pet,' or the 'Pride of Golden Gate,' as some of the sporting papers call him."

"The Frisco Pet!" Lord Ronsdale started; his color slightly changed; his lashes drooped over his cold eyes. "He is on board this vessel?"

"Yes. You remember him, my lord, I dare say?"

"In common with many others," shortly.

"Why," asked Jocelyn, "did they call him such a funny name—the Frisco Pet?"

"Because he's a Yankee bruiser, prizefighter, or was before the drink got him," explained Mr. Gillett. "Some one brought him to London, found out about his 'talents' and put him in training. He was a low, ignorant sailor—could scarcely write his own name—but he had biceps and a thick head. Didn't know when he was whipped. I can see him yet as he used to look, with his giant shoulders and his swagger, as he stepped into the ring. There was no nonsense about him or his fist—could break a board with that. And how the shouts used to go up! 'The pet!'—'a quid on the pet!'—'ten bob on the stars and stripes!'—meaning the costume he wore. Oh, he was a favorite in Camden Town! But one night he failed them—met some friends from the forecastle of a Yankee trader that had dropped down the Thames—went into the ring with a stagger added to the swagger. Well, they took him out unconscious. Never was a man worse punished. He never got back to the sawdust, and the sporting gentlemen lost a bright and shining light."

"Broke his heart, I suppose," observed Sir Charles.

The police agent proceeded. "After that it was a case of the rum and the toss pots, and when he was three sheets in the wind look out for squalls. He got put in quad, broke out and overpowered and nearly killed two guards. Took to various means of livelihood until they got him again. Trouble in prison and transferred to the solitary, with a little punishment thrown in for a reminder. When he got out of limbo again he lived in bad company in one of the tunnels near the Adelphi. Hard place for the police to rout a cove from. He made it quite interesting for the police—quite interesting. So much so he attracted me, and I concluded to take a hand."

Mr. Gillett paused. Obviously in his case egotism allied to enthusiasm made his duties a pleasure. He seemed now briefly commending himself in his own mind. "Up to this time," he resumed, "our friend the ex-pugilist had never actually killed any one, but soon after I engaged myself to look after him word was brought to the department that a poor woman had been murdered, a cheap music hall dancer. She had seen better days, however."

Many Women who are Splendid Cooks

dread having to prepare an elaborate dinner because they are not sufficiently strong to stand over an intensely hot coal range. This is especially true in summer. Every woman takes pride in the table she sets, but often it is done at tremendous cost to her own vitality through the weakening effect of cooking on a coal range in a hot kitchen.

It is no longer necessary to wear yourself out preparing a fine dinner. Even in the heat of summer you can cook a large dinner without being worn out.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove

Gives no outside heat, no smell, no smoke. It will cook the biggest dinner without heating the kitchen or the cook. It is immediately lighted and immediately extinguished. It can be changed from a slow to a quick fire by turning a handle. There's no drudgery connected with it, no coal to carry, no wood to chop. You don't have to wait fifteen or twenty minutes till its fire gets going. Apply a light and it's ready. By simply turning the wick up or down you get a slow or an intense heat on the bottom of the pot, pan, kettle or oven, and nowhere else. It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot, drop shelves for coffee, teapot or saucepan, and even a rack for towels. It saves time, worry, health and temper. It does all a woman needs and more than she expects. Made with 1, 2, and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner sizes can be had with or without Cabinet.

REGARDED AS AN IDEAL SPOT

Johnson-Jeffries Fight Will Take Place at Reno

WILL BE NO INTERFERENCE

Governor Announces That Protests Against Contest Will Be of No Avail —Goldfield Delegation Disappointed, but Will "Boost the Game"—Training Quarters For the Fighters Selected and Work Begun on Arena

Reno, Nev., June 22.—With Reno definitely fixed as the battleground, with assurance from Governor Dickerson that no attempt to interfere will be made by the state authorities, and with preparations already under way for the building of the arena, the Jeffriens and Johnson fight seems certain of fulfillment on July 4.

No further complications are anticipated, and Promoter Tex Rickard last night had the first quiet pillow that he has had since Governor Gillett issued his ultimatum that the contest could not be held in California.

The selection of a site for staging the big fight was made yesterday afternoon. It is a rocky field in East Reno, about a mile and a half from the heart of the city. It is familiar in ring history as the scene of the Hart and Root contest of July 4, 1906. It is regarded as an ideal place, as it affords plenty of ground for a spacious structure. On one side it is flanked by the tracks of the Southern Pacific railway and on the other by a trolley line.

Contractor McLaughlin went over the place with Rickard and the Reno fight committee and immediately began to carry out plans already prepared for the construction of the arena.

Another selection made yesterday afternoon was training quarters for Jack Johnson. Tom Flanagan, the champion's manager, after looking over several sites, finally settled on a road house, three miles southwest of Reno, known as "Rick's Resort." According to Flanagan, it is an excellent place for a training camp and affords all necessary facilities.

Jeffries will be stationed at Moana Springs, three miles south of Reno. Nothing is said to be lacking at this place that could be desired in connection with a fighter's camp.

The Goldfield delegation which had made a determined effort to swing "the battle of the century" to Rickard's home town accepted the announcement with expressions of regret, but with promise to "boost the game" to the extent of their ability.

Reno's fanatics are wildly delighted over the defeat of Goldfield. The city's fight committee promises to make the necessary preparations for the care of all who come for the fight. Jeff and his trainers are expected today. Flanagan has sent a telegram to Johnson advising the negro to lose no time in reaching Reno.

Dickerson Won't Interfere

Ogden, Utah, June 22.—When Governor Dickerson of Nevada arrived here from Oregon he announced that he would not interfere with the Jeffries-Johnson fight scheduled to take place in Reno on July 4. When he was told of the many protests that awaited his arrival at Carson City he said that they would not make the slightest difference to him.

You'll never know how good Lenox Soap is unless you try it.

And you'll never get out of it all the good there is in it, unless you use it as it should be used.

The right way to use Lenox Soap, for washing clothes, is in the form of a solution. Lenox Soap Solution does better work than soap; and is more economical.

TO MAKE LENOX SOAP SOLUTION:—Take a cake of Lenox Soap, shave it into small pieces, and dissolve in three quarts of boiling water. Keep water at boiling point until a solution is formed.

Wet the clothes, rub the solution on the soiled parts, fold and roll each piece separately, pack in a tub, cover with warm soapy water and let stand over night. Next morning, you will find that the really hard part of washing—rubbing the clothes up and down the wash-board—is not half as hard as usual.

CRUSHED UNDER CAR

Motorman Vainly Endeavors to Save Life of Two-Year-Old Boy

Boston, June 22.—Andrew A. McKinnon, 2 years old, was instantly killed by a trolley car on Tremont street last night. The car was coming down an incline in charge of Motorman Deveney and Conductor Rice. The child ran directly in front of it and was crushed under the wheels.

Deveney, after jamming on the brakes, reached over the fender in a desperate effort to save the boy, but his fingers only touched the little fellow's clothing.

Deficiency Bill Is Passed

Washington, June 22.—The general deficiency bill, the last of the regular supply measures to receive the approval of the two houses of congress at the present session, was passed by the senate. It carried appropriations aggregating nearly $8,000,000, an increase of about $1,800,000 over the house measure.

Miss Sarah Sproul and Master Harold Morgan of Standish avenue left Tuesday for Danbury, New Hampshire, where they will spend the summer at Inland farm.

Miss Jackson, who has made her home with her niece, Mrs. Henry Schulze of Upland road, leaves tomorrow for Cincinnati to visit her sister. She will be accompanied by Miss Exelyn Schulze.

The annual field day of the house officers and doctors of the Boston city hospital was enjoyed at Peddocks island on Tuesday. About 150 were in the party. Sports and a dinner were on the program.

The annual meeting of the City Messengers' club is to be held Saturday at Paragon Park, Nantasket, where a shore dinner will be served. City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell will represent Quincy at the meeting and outing.

BIGONESS BAXTER

Quincy Young Man Returns to Milford for Bride

At the St. Mary's church at Milford this morning Miss Rose Gertrude Baxter of that town became the bride of Mr. Joseph William Bigoness of South Quincy, the ceremony being performed by Rev. D. F. McGrath, the pastor.

The ceremony included special music by St. Marys choir, with nuptial high mass. The bride is a member of the choir and the groom was a member when he resided in Milford. Miss Kathryn Garrity of Saxonville rendered "Ave Marie."

The bride wore a rich white lace princess gown over white silk, with bridal veil, and orange blossoms, and carried white pearl prayer book, the gift of her aunt Sister Mary Alphonsus ,a Sister of Mercy at Rochester, N. H.

The bride was attended by Elizabeth Teresa Baxter, her sister, gowned in white batiste princess over white silk, Irish lace hat of white with pink roses, and carried a white pearl prayer book.

The best man was Arthur McCarthy of Milford, formerly of Quincy.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's father, Mr. James F. Baxter of 85 West street. The house was prettily decorated with roses, peonies, daisies and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigoness were assisted in receiving by the bride's father, the groom's mother, an aunt of the bride, and the best man and bridesmaid. Guests were present from Quincy, Providence, Keene, Boston and Milford.

There were many beautiful presents including over $300 in gold and checks, a silver service, cut glass, china, silver, linen, furniture, etc.

The groom's present to the bride was a gold ring set with pearls and emeralds. The bride's present to the bridesmaid was a gold breastpin set with pearls. The best man received gold cuff links.

The bride is one of Milford's estimable and best-liked young ladies. She was graduated from the St. Mary's parochial school in the class of 1895, and later attended Comer's commercial college. Later she was employed in Boston.

The wedding trip includes a visit to New York and Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigoness will reside at 246 Newbury avenue, Atlantic, in a house recently purchased, and will be at home after Sept. 1.

NEW UNION CLUB.

The first regular meeting of the Men's club of the Park and Downs church was held Tuesday evening, and at the business session it was voted to call the club the Park and Downs Union club. At the conclusion of the business meeting a quartet composed of Messrs. Caten, Hayes, Boynton and Bishop rendered several selections. A. T. Merritt of the Neponset Brotherhood gave the address of the evening, after which Louis Coombs gave several vocal selections. Light refreshments were served. The men are looking forward to many pleasant meetings.

BILLBOARD MAN FINED.

It cost Dick Ashbrook, one of the advance men of the circus, just $15 in court this morning for hitting Gerald A. Sullivan of Atlantic over the head with a paste brush Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Sullivan said he heard the circus men were covering the side of a stable at the corner of Madison and Hancock streets which he had rented with circus bills. He immediately drove there, and after some words with the bill posters grabbed hold of a bill partly stuck to the barn and pulled it off. At that, he claimed, Ashbrook whirled about and smote him on the cheek with the paste brush.

Ashbrook said he thought he had permission to use the stable, and that when he turned around the brush fell from the handle, and that was what hit Sullivan. After hearing the evidence the court assessed the damages at $15, which it would cost Ashbrook plus his counsel fees.

BRIEFS.

Ernest Hermann, recently physical instructor in the Quincy schools, has been elected to a similar position in the Cambridge schools.

Rear Admiral Aaron Ward, president of the board of inspection of navy yards, made an inspection Tuesday of the battleship North Dakota built at the Fore River yards, now at the Charlestown navy yard.

MANAGER BJORKLAND OF QUINCYS DROPPED

Michael Shea, the President of the Club, Will Also be the Manager

Some Changes Also Made Among The Players

(By Rube)

The directors of the Quincy Old Colony league baseball club have thrown the harpoon into some of their players and as a result we will see several new faces in the line-up at Randolph on Saturday afternoon.

It has been rumored all along that the directors were not satisfied with the showing being made ,and after the defeat at the hands of the Deweys they decided to act at once. "Brodie" Bjorkland, the manager who has strived hard to give Quincy a winning club, did not direct his energies in the right direction, signing only veteran players who got the cash and letting, the coming stars sign elsewhere where they have made good with a venegnace. In justice to Bjorkland it would be well to state he has worked like a demon to give us a winning club, but something has gone wrong since he assumed control.

The players let out after Saturday's game were Manager Bjorkland; Fraser, the second baseman; Lynch short-stop and Murray catcher. Of these players, Bjorkland was undoubtedly laboring under a heavy strain caused by managerial duties. Fraser has been away off and Lynch has been an in and outer. Murray has showed up in the last two games to better advantage than at the start but at that is far from the shape he was in last season.

The directors have decided to handle the team, and President Michael Shea will be "chief judge" of the promising ball tossers." "Mike" already has his wires working and has signed Walter Troupe of the Makarias to grab the curves back of the plate. This lad should prove a valuable acquisition to the club for he has an arm of iron and can throw to bases like a shot. Brought forward under the watchful eyes of Charlie Ganzel he will surely show that he is fast enough from the sta t. Glaze will undoubtedly twirl and Briggs and Lonergan will be retained. At second it is expected Armstrong will be given a chance to show his worth. Short-stop will be filled by a Barnard, a player from a Southern college who is summering at our resort. This lad was on the bench Saturday and in practice previous to the game, made a good impression. In the outfield Duggan wil lstay in left. "Bill" is playing a great game and the royal rooters are working overtime for this popular lad. In centre "Artie" Dunn will be given a trial. Dunn, a few seasons ago, was classed with the best in this section ,and is sure he can repeat his old time showing. If he can, all will be well.

"Larry" Connelly by his splendid game against the champions is solid with every interested fan in the city and can have a berth on the team as long as he keeps up his present pace. In summing up the outfit they look as strong as any in the league and should make all rivals go to beat them for the large end of the score.

What is needed most is some live coachers who know the game. It has been stated a coach can either win or lose a game, and many believe had there been a live coach at third, Saturday, Briggs would have scored, or Connelly's two bagger, and thus made the score a tie. A man like Butman or Mahar is what is needed on the lines, and if either one of these two were on the lines, with the players secured there, would be something doing from the cry of the umpire.

Get busy fans and plan to go to Randolph on Saturday. You will see a great pitcher's battle between Glaze of the locals and "Pat" Willard, the 17 year old wonder with "Greg" Hoye's pennant competitors. You will also have a chance to size up the new Quincys ,and judge where they will wind up in the Old Colony race.

PARK RUSH BEGINS.

Hot Weather Resorts Reported Ready State Trolley Men Turn Showmen —Extra Cars and Crews for Short Season.

More than a million dollars worth of parks are today being thrown open to the public by the trolley roads of this state, according to reports that have just been received at the headquarters of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association inthis city. Within reach of the people of almost every community, scores of mountain, lake and seaside resorts that have stood deserted for the last eight months are now repaired and ready to receive the crowds for whose summer amusement they are maintained. Squads of extra motormen and conductors and hundreds of cars that have been idle since last fall are reported to be prepared to move excursionists to these parks over miles of track that has had little use all winter.

To turn showmen in the midst of their preparations to cope with the short summer rush, is regarded by the trolley men who make up the state association as one of their hardest tasks. While the big power plants required to move the pleasure crowds of a hot evening are being made ready for their extra burden, overworked officials are required to organize and carry on free amusement enterprises along the most modern lines. Though every park maintained by the street railways of Massachusetts is recorded as losing from one to thirty thousand dollars as a show venture last summer, the trolley men declare that popular demand and the necessity of making some use of their large investment in these parks will oblige them to ocer even more extended entertainment during this season.

Accurate account of the cost of every swing, seat, booth and board in their resorts is being kept by the street railways, together with the details of every one of their multifarious operations as showmen. Just as the value of each bit of street railway equipment, from bolts to bridges and cable to cars, must be submitted to experts of the Board of Railroad Commissioners before its exact amount can be authorized in issues of securities, every dollar's worth of the paraphernalia of these show parks is required to be recorded. Though the members of the state trolley association are finding this accounting in their unusual amusement activities sometimes a trifle perplexing, they are generally reported as anxious to carry out this provision of the railroad law that has made Massachusetts noted as the state where the relation of physical value to securities is the highest in the world.

Though almost every trolley park, from the Berkshires to the coast, will be kept open with new amusement attractions this season, it is reported that many a street railway would be glad to give up this peculiar function of showman along its lines. Few new resorts of this kind have been built in the last fifteen years, the records show, while practically none have been set up within the last decade.

—After considerable planning the women of Rockland have organized a Visiting Nurse association. We believe that this is one of the most important events that has happened in Rockland in recent years and the poor people of the town will be much benefitted by the service which will now be rendered to them. The new association is one which ought to enlist the support of everybody and we have no doubt that it will.—Rockland Standard.

PERMITS REFUSED

Many Cannot Sell Fireworks Under New Rules

Chief Engineer Williams has been obliged under the new law to refuse permits to several storekeepers, who have in other years been granted licenses to sell fireworks, on the ground that the stores in which they are to be sold is occupied in part by a hall or as a dwelling. This has caused considerable kicking on the part of these parties, but the Chief had no alternative. On the other hand the kind of fireworks that may be sold has been so restricted that there will not be much profit in the sale of fireworks by any dealer this year.

QUINCY MANSION SCHOOL BRIDE.

Miss Mary Randall Neill of Calais, Me., was married in Boston on Tuesday to Dr. Robinson Bosworth of Asientos, Mexico. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. A. Berle of Shawmut Congregational church.

Miss Neill attended the Quincy Mansion school and since her graduation has spent most of her time travelling. She has just returned from Havana, where she spent the winter.

Dr. Bosworth is a graduate of Phillips Andover Academy and Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. His home is in Wisconsin, but he is practising medicine in Asientos.

Hit Him Coming and Going.

An attorney went to a livery stable and hired a team for two or three hours and at the end of that time, in a state of absentmindedness, left the team at another livery stable, where it remained eight days. At stable No 1 there was no worry about the team. They knew the attorney was perfectly good for the pay. They knew that if he kept the team a month the bill would be paid promptly on presentation. They presumed that he knew what he was about and concluded it was his business and not theirs. At stable No. 2 there was equal freedom from anxiety. The attorney came there, left the team and went away, saying nothing. They put the horse into a stall and "chalked it down" on the office slate, knowing him to be a business man who paid cash. Discovery came at last, and the lawyer was presented with two bills, one for eight days' hire and the other for eight days' keep. He paid both bills promptly, but it cured him of being absentminded for nearly a whole month.

The Coffee Cup In Persia.

The expression "to give a cup of coffee" has in Persia a somewhat ominous significance. This is due to the fact that the coffee cup is one recognized medium for conveying poison. Some years ago the governor of Aspadana, having long been at daggers drawn with the chief of a powerful mountain tribe, determined in this way to put an end to all trouble. He professed to entertain a great degree of friendship and esteem for the chieftain and invited him to visit him at his palace. The chief unsuspiciously came, accompanied by his two young sons. For a week they were royally entertained. But at last one morning when the chief came into his host's presence he was coldly received, and an attendant soon stepped forward with a single cup of coffee in his hand, which he offered to the guest. The latter could not fail to understand that he was doomed. Preferring, however, steel to poison, he declined the cup and was thereupon, at a signal from his host stabbed to death.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

Members of the Class of 1910 Receive the Recipe for Gumption from Mr. Munroe

Must Learn to Operate Power Says Chairman Miller

Although the evening was hot, the Class of 1910 of the Quincy High School presented a pleasing program at their graduating exercises on Wednesday, which was not in any detail tedious, so that the large audience enjoyed it. Five of the eleven numbers were musical, and the essays and addresses were not long. It did take quite a while to present diplomas to each of the 97 graduates, but not as long as in recent years, for the class made a request relative to applause which expedited it considerably. The request, as expressed by Headmaster Howlett, was that no applause be given to the individuals as their names were called, but that it be given to the class as a whole when all had received diplomas. The request was rigidly observed by friends, but at the close was so long continued that it seemed to have no end. All the numbers of the program were applauded, too, showing appreciation of efforts.

The decorations for the evening were simple but attractive. On the wall back of the platform were crossed flags and below the motto in gold letters on a blue background—"Possunt, quia posse videntur," which when liberally translated is "We can if we will."

Along the front of the platform daisies were prominent, but most conspicuous was the large floral "Q" the gift of Nerses, the photographer. The letter itself was of white pinks. The centre was filled in with blue on which were placed the letters "H. S." for the High school, and the figures "10" for the class. Green vine was clustered about the balcony.

The program in brief was:

"Holy Art Thou" Handel
High School Chorus.
A New Demand in Education
Grace L. DeWolfe
Under-Water Fighters
Richard J. Favorite
"The Storm-Fiend" Roeckel
Hih School Chorus
Aerial Naviation
Alfred E. Hanson
Flower Myths
Mary J. Cleveland
"'Mid the Waving Rose-Trees"
High School Chorus
Address:—Gumption
Mr. James P. Munroe
"When the Sun in Splendor Rising"
High School Chorus
Presentation of Diplomas
Mr. John L. Miller
(Chairman of the School Committee)
"To Thee, O Country" Eichberg
The Graduating Class.

THE ESSAYS.

The undergraduates of the school, who comprised the chorus, took seats early in the evening in front of the platform. Just previous to the program the Class of 1910 marched down the two centre aisles to the platform, escorted by two of the ushers, Paul Blackman and Jack Pfaffmann, and were greeted with applause.

By locating the piano near the centre of the hall, the graduates and chorus faced the audience, being a great improvement. All the musical numbers were well rendered under the direction of Mr. Clarence J. Fouche.

Miss DeWolfe claimed in her essay that too much time in past years had been given to training for college, to the neglect of the ordinary pursuits of life. For the girls in particular she would introduce studies to assist in the management of the home. Our nation will be successful as it places on high the ideal home.

Mr. Favorite gave a good description of submarine boats,— their development, construction, records and value. They will revolutionize warfare, and the indications were that at that time the United States would be in the lead.

Mr. Hanson told of the progress in the development of flying machines. He predicted that the problem of flying successfully by self propelled air ships was only a matter of a short time. He closed in verse.

Miss Cleveland recalled several well known myths, telling of their origin and superstitions. All the essays were well memorized, and clearly delivered.

THE ADDRESS.

James P. Munroe, the speaker of the evening, was introduced by Headmaster Howlett. He referred to each of the four addresses in a complimentary way, and then took up his subject—"Gumption." He said the early settlers of New England found only forests, granite, ice and Indians. The country was cold and barren, but they started in to raise men and had been successful ever since. Some of the things accomplished by New England were cited—factories, railroads, telegraph, telephones, etc. Because of thrift New England was the richest part of the country per capita. It had been accomplished by honesty, industry, attention to details and "gumption." He gave the recipe for gumption as follows: First sound health; second, willingness; third, to keep the mind well oiled; fourth, keep senses alert; and fifth make the most of every opportunity.

We are living in a wonderful century, and you graduates have been given the most splendid gift by the people of Quincy. As you posses gumption you will succeed. He wished all the highest possible happiness and success.

At this point Mr. Howlett made the class request as to applause.

In presenting the diplomas Mr. Miller spoke at some length. In school you have learned to use the mind, but now you must go into the world and must think and act for yourself. He likened the class to an electric power station, but each machine needs a motor. Each must learn to operate the power and solve problems. He wondered what the future of the individual members of the class might be. You have every opportunity. Play your part well and climb the ladder. Despise not labor. Remember, too, the "other fellow" has rights; give him the helping hand. Be not too anxious to get rich. He felt it an honor to present diplomas to so many.

In presenting the diplomas Mr. Miller was assisted by Eva Linton

YOUNG MAN DROWNED

With Others Was Swimming at Wendell Quarry

Aloysius Lynch, aged 17 years, a son of John Lynch of Canton, was drowned Wednesday afternoon while swimming in the old Wendall quarry at Quincy Neck.

The boys parents formerly lived in Quincy, and he was employed as an apprentice at the Fore River Shipyard. The family moved away recently to Canton, but the young man remained behind to complete learning his trade. Early Wednesday evening Lynch and a number of companions went to the quarry for a swim. Lynch dove in and swam across the quarry to the opposite side. He then turned and started to swim back. He had reached the middle of the quarry hole, where the water was the deepest, when he was probably seized with cramps, for he uttered a cry and almost immediately sank. His companions jumped into the water and swam toward the spot where he had been seen to go down. Several of the young men dove down but were unable to locate the body, which had probably become wedged in the ledge. The water in the quarry is very deep and very cool, and it was doubtless the coolness of the water that caused the cramps, for Lynch was regarded as an expert swimmer.

The drowning was reported to the police and it was some time before they were able to locate the boy's parents. They were finally reached through the Canton police, who informed them of the drowning.

Wendall's quarry has not been operated for upwards of 30 years. It is one of the deepest quarries in the city, and the water in it comes from a hidden spring or stream which quarrymen opened while working there years ago. So fast did the water come in that further operation of the quarry was abandoned. The stone quarried here was taken over a railroad that ran to the river near Howard avenue, and loaded onto vessels, the cars being drawn by oxen. The old road bed is now used in part by the Fore River railroad.

Mr. Neary of the Fore River company speaks well of the unfortunate young man. It was on Sept. 9, 1908, that he became an apprentice at the shipyard. He was born in Canton in 1893 and was the son of John Lynch. He has been living of late at 29 North Payne street.

This morning the parents of the boy came to Quincy and the services of George L. Phillips, the well known sub-marine diver, were secured. Mr. Phillips had little difficulty in recovering the body which was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms. It will be taken to Canton for burial.

FUNERAL AT ST. JOHN'S.

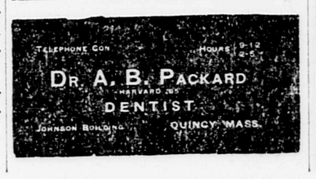
The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Doyle, wife of Thomas Doyle, was held this morning from St. John's church, and was largely attended. A solemn high mass was celebrated with Rev. John J. Coan as celebrant, Rev. John J. Casey as deacon and Rev. Patrick Scannell as sub deacon. The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir. At the elevation, Miss Mary Burns sang Pie Jesu. There were many beautiful flowers. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery Randolph, where the committal prayer was said by Rev. William T. Deasy. The bearers were Charles Sullivan, John Welch, James H. Sullivan, Michael Coffey, David Dennehy and Stephen Doyle. Mrs. Doyle leaves a husband one son and two daughters.

SCHOOL FURNISHINGS.

Bids were opened by the Commissioner of Public Works this morning for furnishing the desks and other furniture for the new Houghs Neck school. Two bids were received, one from H. L. Kincaide & Co., and the other from William G. Shaw. The bids were very close and were taken under advisement.

OUR PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Two members of the Board of Selectmen and two members of the school committee of New Milford, Conn., were in Quincy, Wednesday and today inspecting some of the public buildings. They were accompanied by President Stone of the Board of Trade. This morning the party visited the post office, public library, and some of the school buildings. They spent Wednesday night at the Greenleaf. The party were G. W. Barlow, R. G. Barlow, William H. Adams and Stephen C. Beach.



NOT READY TO INVESTIGATE

Houghs Neck Associates to Keep out of Controversy

An effort was made Wednesday evening to get the Houghs Neck Associates to investigate the recent charges against the fair name of Houghs Neck. A lengthy letter was received from H. S. Brown, the manager of one of the local dance halls which was read and provoked considerale controversy.

It requested the Associates to hold a special meeting and that Rev. Mr. McMeeken be present with his evidence. Mr. Brown was anxious to learn whether his hall was among those included, and did not think it should be. He told of his efforts to conduct a first class place.

Mr. Brown is not a member of the Associates and was not present. Early in the evening it was voted also to exclude all reporters, but as some newspaper men are members, it amounted to little, and was an unwise move. The Daily Ledger has a copy of the letter, and might publish it in full if it wished to retaliate. A copy was also sent to Rev. Mr. McMeeken.

After the controversy it was voted to return the letter to Mr. Brown, saying that the Associates declined to take action.

Between 30 and 40 members were present. Reports were received from the committees on streets, sewers, public conveniences and public health. The most important was the offer of Matthew Connors, the manager of the Steamboat Company, to provide a building for a comfort station provided the city would cooperate and furnish water.

It was voted to subscribe $10 toward the Fourth of July celebration at Quincy; also to enter a float. Considerable enthusiasm was shown.

Capt. Fosdick and others endorsed the stand of the Daily Ledger in reporting Houghs Neck news, and in appreciation of publicity of the rigat sort.

☞The sign "1387 Payson, Mitchell Co., 1387" over the store in City square formerly occupied by the F. D. Fellows Co., does not mean that the newcomers to our city were established in 1387 for that would be a great many years ago even for this firm. It does mean however that they are to conduct an up-to-date men's furnishing store at 1387 Hancock street and will open for business Saturday. Watch Friday's Ledger for their big ad.

THE GUILD ENTERTAINED

Enjoyable Outing at Seashore Cottage of Mrs. Torrey

As a fit closing of the years successful and pleasant work the Guild of Christ church were invited to spend the day with one of its members Mr. William F. Torry at her Adams Shore home on Wednesday. The members began to arrive at 11 o'clock and gathered on the spacious verandas enjoyed the sunny and cool ocean breezes until 1 P. M. At that hour luncheon was served, some thirty-five members being seated at the table. A appetizing menu was attractively served as follows: Steamed clams, clam chowder, cold meats, salads, dessert, cafe noir. A pleasant surprise was a unique and dainty place card in the shape of a minature photo of the long pier and beach in front of the Torrey home. After luncheon music by the younger members of the family and friends passed the time and all to quickly it was time to depart. Cars were taken for Quincy at 4 o'clock, all expressing their appreciation and thanks for the days pleasure.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Washington is making a reputation as a city of near-marriages.

So far, the June poets have been kept busy keeping in out of the wet.

The talk of keeping Bryant out of the Indiana campaign is the most convincing sign of Democratic harmony yet observed.

The way eminent citizens are being detained for attempted smuggling nowadays convinces one that the tariff is at least interesting if not beneficial.

Because Texas claims to have made $2,000,000 on her onions, and is proud of it, the Los Angeles Express is willing not to wager that it had to hold its breath while doing it. The remark savors of envy and sarcasm.

Because of the poor excuse that they did not know where to locate it the Beverly alderman defeated an appropriation order for a comfort station in that city. The Times commenting on the matter says "There seems to be no question but what such a station is needed and the petition signed by the business men was good evidence that they believed one is needed. The entire trouble seems to be as to where the station should be located, but the aldermen have plenty of time to look up places and it seems as if the order should not have been killed because of a difference of opinion as to where the station should be established. The time is coming when the legislature will make provisions for the maintainence of a station in every good sized town and city in the state.

The most logical way would be to compel the Boston & Northern street railway to maintain suitable quarters in the car station, whereas if the city establishes one it will be to care for the patrons of the road."

This matter has been agitated to some extent in Quincy but to no purpose. It is the opinion of many that the Old Colony Street Railway should maintain in City square a comfort station or waiting room for the convenience of their patrons. It is the junction of several branches of their road, where many wait for cars and the passengers should be entitled to every convenience and comfort. Perhaps as we are a growing city the city and railroad could unite in the support of such a station. At present the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. has to bear the burden of caring for its own as well as many street railway passengers and transient people. In fact the railroad station is used as a comfort station by people who have no intention of traveling on the trains.

IN DANGEROUS POSITION

Allan Line Steamer Goes Ashore and May Become a Total Loss

St. John's, June 23.—Allan line steamship Prinz Oskar, Montreal for Rotterdam, with passengers and freight, which ran ashore on Flower Ridge, opposite Point Amour, is in a dangerous position and it is feared she will be a total loss.

Her passengers were taken off by the Allan liner Stalian, which then proceeded to England.

News of the Prinz Oskar's predicament did not reach here until last evening, and then a revenue cutter was dispatched immediately to her assistance.

HARMON FOR PRESIDENT

Boom Launched by Ohio Democrats, Who Renominated Governor

Dayton, O., June 23.—Judson Harmon was renominated for governor by acclamation and his boom for the presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket was formally launched by the state convention of his party. Harmon is thus the first man in the field for candidacy in 1912.

It was conspicuously a Harmon convention, and his personality and influence were shown in everything which was said and done and was effective in preventing a senatorial indorsement.

The convention voted, 840 to 254, to reject the proposal to indorse a candidate for United States senator, as proposed some weeks ago by W. J. Bryan.

GAYNOR ABOLISHES PLAIN CLOTHES MEN

Two Hundred Gotham Policemen Return to Patrol Duty

New York, June 23.—Hereafter there will be no more plain clothes men in the police department. Acting on the suggestion of Mayor Gaynor, Commissioner Baker issued an order ordering 203 men doing that kind of duty to report at various police stations last night to begin work as policemen in uniform. Some of the men affected have not worn a uniform in years.

The abolition of the plain clothes system is a severe blow to the captains and the men affected, but persons on the inside of the department say it is a master stroke on the part of Gaynor. It is regarded as the severest blow ever dealt the so-called "system" of the department.

It is reported that the extension of the detective service will be made. Each detective branch will be assigned to cover so many precincts.

HAS NOT YET SPOKEN

Colt Denies That He Has Announced Candidacy For the Senate

Providence, June 23.—Samuel Colt, whose name has been mentioned the most prominently as successor to Senator Aldrich, denies that he has announced his candidacy for the presition. Charles R. Brayton, who was quoted as having declared that "Colonel Colt is an avowed candidate for the place," asserts that "it is a lie; I have said nothing of the kind."

While Colt generally is looked upon as the logical candidate, he has not authorized any one to speak for him and has said nothing for himself. Those who know him best say that he will say nothing until he knows the place is his.

SUICIDE ON WEDDING DAY

Man Kills Himself Just Before Ceremony Is About to Occur

Marblehead, Mass., June 23.—Myron N. Osborne, aged 26, clad in the wedding clothes and the white gloves that he was to wear at his wedding last night, took his own life at his home yesterday by shooting through the heart. Miss Elizabeth Withum, his fiancee, is prostrated at her home.

It is believed that Osborne took his life because he feared that a nervous disease, to which he was subject, might drive him insane and that the thought of marriage with such a conclusion was so menacing that he felt it wiser to die.

A PLEASANT GATHERING.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Johnson of Glendale road was the scene of a pleasant gathering Wednesday evening, when a large number of relatives and friends were present in honor of Mr. Johnson's brother, J. Frederick Johnson, who has but lately returned from Eureka, Utah, after a three years' absence from his home city. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were capital entertainers, and all had a very pleasant time. Games, music and singing made the evening pass all too quickly, and at the close all united in wishing Fred the best of luck when he returns to Utah. Refreshments were served during the evening.

WHAT THE FOURTH MEANS.

That there is an emotional aspect worth cultivating in an Independence Day celebration we may readily agree; but the real meaning of the national holiday can be apprehended only by intellectual process which involve some study and some thought. So far as a flight of sky rockets conveys any hint of the real meaning of the Fourth to a person ignorant of the history, it might as well be displayed in honor of the great god Ashtaroth. To one who understands, the ringing of the bells and the blaze of fireworks in honor of the Fourth may cause a thrill of patrotic emotions. The spirit responds to the intellectual association. To him who does not understand it is meaningless—at the best, a mere provocative of a pleasurable excitement. Let us not deceive ourselves, however well-in tentional we may be. The meaning of Fourth of July can never be taught to "the foreigners among us," nor truly apprehended by ourselves, by any performance whose primary intent is amusement. Teaching "the real meaning" must be effected in some other way.—Norwood Messenger.

BIG CIRCUS COMING SOON..

After an absence of several years from this section of the country, the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Bros. Big United Shows are to exhibit in Quincy on Tuesday, July 12 The management of the circus have spent $3,200,000 in refitting their show with new properties, tents and rolling stock and a complete new menagerie, in the purchase of hundreds of strange wonders from all parts of the world and in the creation and building of the longest and most gorgeous street parade ever seen anywhere in the world. This is the first time in all the history of amusements that any circus has ever appeared brand-new from start to finish, not so much as a flag, a single wagon or a solitary costume from the old equipment having been retained.

The company of performers is also new to America. There are 350 in all, and 300 of these are of European importation. The show is now by far the most expensive of all. Every day's receipts must exceed $7,000 to cover the show's expenses. The great cost of the show and its vast daily output are exciting great interest among circus people, while the wonderful entertainments they are presenting are a source of great surprise. The old expression, "There is nothing new under the sun," has been changed to, "There is nothing old under the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Bros. circus tents." And this is literally true. In point of novelty the parade is nothing short of wonderful; among the 125 acts on the long program there is not an old feature to be seen, and while among the animal displays all the various exhibits that are familiar to students of natural history have been retained, there are also at least 250 specimens of wild animal life that have not been seen with any circus in the past.

"JOKER" IN HOLIDAY LAW

Bay State Saloons Will Not Be Closed on Columbus Day

Boston, June 23.—A "joker" in the law making Oct. 12, Columbus day, a legal holiday has been discovered, which permits open saloons on that day.

The bill was passed and signed by the governor in the last days of the session, and the fact that no provision was made for the closing of barrooms on the new holiday apparently escaped the vigilance of the temperance interests.

In any event, the barrooms will be opened on the first celebration of the holiday this year, since the bill cannot be amended until after the legislature comes into session on Jan. 1.

ROOSEVELT ANGRY OVER PRESS STORY

Ethel Not Engaged to Marry Former Newspaper Man

New York, June 23.—Theodore Roosevelt came into town from Oyster Bay in a towering rage. He has seldom, if ever, been seen to show the anger he did when a newspaper reporter showed him a story in a paper to the effect that his daughter Ethel was to marry James T. Williams, Jr., an ex-newspaper man, whom President Taft made civil service commissioner.

Mr. Roosevelt was in his automobile at Oyster Bay at the time, and it looked as if he would get out and begin to swing his fists at any and everybody, so furious did he become when he saw the article.

"This is an infernal scandal," he shouted, "and it is foolish to answer it. It is the scandalous infamy of a scoundrel. There is not a word of truth in it. That's all."

Kermit and Ethel, with a friend of the family, were in the automobile at the time.

Schermerhorn Must Pay Death Penalty For Killing Sarah Brymer

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23.—Frank Schermerhorn was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in the supreme court. Schermerhorn assaulted and murdered Sarah Brymer, a governess, at the summer home of Barnes Compton at Millbrook.

Schermerhorn was sentenced by Judge Morschauser immediately after the verdict to be electrocuted the week of Aug. 8.

It developed during the trial that Schermerhorn, before entering the governess' room, had blackened his face to hide his identity. The woman had been criminally assaulted and strangled to death. Schermerhorn is 23 years old.

Harrisburg, June 23.—The following ticket was nominated by the Republican state convention:

For governor, John K. Tener; lieutenant governor, J. M. Reynolds; secretary of internal affairs, Henry Houck; state treasurer, C. F. Wright. The Penrose organization had entire control.

President Taft's administration and the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill were indorsed by the convention. Governor Stuart and his administration were also indorsed.

Notice of The Summer School

The Summer School will open its session on Tuesday morning, July 5, at the Women's Club House, Goffe street.

The school will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Mackay, chairman of the Education committee, assisted by the ladies of that committee.

The school term will be six weeks, beginning July 5th and closing August 13th.

Girls residing in Quincy between the ages of nine and seventeen are invited to attend this school free of charge.

The hours for lessons will be from nine o'clock until half past eleven in the morning.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Training by Miss Ruth Bass of Sargent's school of Gymnastics. All sorts of exercises for development of the body, games and dancing. Most of the work to be done out of doors.

Home Nursing by Miss Blanche M. Thayer, Superintendent of Quincy City Hospital. In this course girls will be taught to prepare the bed for sick persons, to give baths and change clothes; how to dress wounds and give first aids; how to restore fainting persons; what are the symptoms of the commonest contagious diseases; the importance of isolation; personal hygiene and other important information which will be of great assistance to them through life besides teaching them the things which make for the health of the community. A prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Current Events. There will be a course in current events and a prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Spelling. Some time will be devoted to the old fashioned spelling-matches. The girl who spells correctly the largest number of words will receive a prize.

Vocational Work. The Education Committee hopes to be able to do some Vocational Work among these girls this summer. It will be their aim to find out what the girls who do not expect to go to High school are thinking of doing in the autumn and to be able to assist such girls in finding employment best suited to their capabilities.

Business Course. Some simple work among the girls instructing them about receipts, how to make out money orders, checks, the importance of signatures and ordinary business formalities, which women ought to know.

Household Art. Mrs. Stanley Bone will give a series of twelve lessons in Household Art. In this course it is expected that girls who cannot go to High School will be taught how to go into the kitchen and prepare wholesome plain meals and then leave the kitchen in perfect order. There will be a prize in this course for the girl who does the best work.

Music Some time will be devoted to music, Probably the learning of familiar songs.

It is expected that there will be four or five first-class lectures for the girls. The topics will be: "How a Statue Grows" by Mrs. H. H. Kitson. "The Story of a Great Painting" by Miss Georgiana Lane. "How a Great Musical Composition is Created," by Mrs. Chandler Smith. "Poetry and Moral Lessons" by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston (if possible.)

To the girl who gives back the best reproduction of these five lectures a prize will be given.

Swimming Lessons. These lessons will be given to girls who cannot swim upon days when the tide is high during the school hour. It may be possible to have these lessons in the afternoons.

Inspection of Gardens. There were started in this city one thousand home gardens. These gardens are to receive inspection. The inspectors are so systematizing their work that it can be divided and sub-divided. Any person interested in the garden work is invited to accompany inspectors on their rounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best specimens raised in the Home Gardens.

Swimming Class for Clerks. On Wednesday afternoons during the six weeks of the Summer School a teacher will be in readiness to teach the art of swimming to girls who have only that time for recreation. Those desiring to have these lessons will please give their names to Mrs. Souther at Wadsworth's store.

THREE PRIZES IN EACH EVENT

For Sports on the Afternoon of the Fourth

The athletic committee, for the Fourth of July, after receiving assurance that funds would be available, has orde ed prizes for the events in this big meet. The prizes are all valuable and worth competing for, and should attract the attention of athletes all over the state.

The first prize in each event will be a Waltham gold watch 15 jewel, movement, 16 size, crescent plain open case, 20 year guarantee. This watch is of exceptional quality. Second prize will be a solid sole leather dress suit case, handsomely finished; and third prize a solid silver medal engraved with the seal of the city, made up as a watch fob on black silk ribbon.

Permission to exhibit these prizes in the window of the Quincy Savings Bank will be requested as soon as the prizes are delivered, and it will doubtless be granted.

The entry blanks are out today and will be sent broadcast over the state and no doubt the entries will start to come in immediately.

BULLARD—NILES.

One of the most brilliant home weddings of the season occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Niles, 84 Front street, Weymouth, Wednesday evening, when their daughter Miss Blanche Lillian Niles became the bride of Henry Freeman Bullard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bullard of Milford, Mass.

Using the double ring Episcopal service, the ceremony was performed promptly at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. William Hyde of Trinity church, Weymouth, Miss Emma Clapp presiding at the piano rendering the wedding marches as the bridal party entered the parlors and took their places.

The bride was charming in a beautiful gown of Ivory metior satin with pearl trimmings and draperies of old lace worn as a wedding veil by the groom's grandmother. Her long tulle veil, which was worn by the groom's mother, was caught up with lilies-of-the-valley and she carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers. Her sole ornament was a gold chain with pendant of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Miss Edith Simmons of Rockland, in a creation of embroidered silk mulle over pink silk and carrying pink sweet peas, proved an attractive maid of honor.

Irwin Hoffman of Milford served as best man. The ushers were Messrs. G. Russell Niles of Weymouth, brother of the bride, and Eugene C. Loud of South Weymouth. The house was beautifuly decorated throughout, the parlors being in green and white, the dining room in pink and green, while the music room presented a perfect bower of flowers and plants of every variety.

A reception was held at the close of the ceremony, when the happy pair, assisted by their parents, received the congratulations of a large number of friends and relatives from Boston, Dorchester, Roxbury, Brookline, Marlboro, Providence, Westboro, Worcester, Quincy, Hopedale, Hollliston, Milford, Braintree and the Weymouths.

Leavitt's orchestra discoursed beautiful music during the entire reception.

The groom presented the ushers and best man with scarf pins, while the maid of honor received a dainty Duchess lace handkerchief from the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Bullard left at a late hour for a wedding trip to parts unknown and after October first will be at home to their friends at 10 Forest street, Milford.

Mr. Bullard is very popular in Milford and surrounding towns, being manager of a large dry goods and millinery store in the former town. The bride has been an organist and teacher of music for eight years and has won by her sterling character and pleasing ways, a wide circle of friends, for none know her but to love her. The wedding gifts were numerous, handsome and costly.

Alkarazza.

Alkarazza is the name given to vessels of very porous earthenware which when filled with water are always moist outside and owing to the evaporation of the water on their surface always keep their contents cool. Alkarazza can be made from any good potter's clay by mixing with it 10 per cent of its weight, dry, of very fine sawdust and then working it. On burning the sawdust is destroyed and the clay thereby left porous.

The closing musical number is a favorite of the Quincy High, and was well sung by the Class of 1910.

This evening the class will give a reception, and on Friday evening there will be a class party which will close the commencement exercises.

All parts of the city are represented in the Class of 1910.

Salad of the Shoes.

Freshmen have troubles the world over. The "conscrits," as they are called at the famous Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, are subjected to an amusing initiation called the salad of shoes. The freshmen report some days before the upper class men so that they can receive their uniforms and become familiar with the routine of the school. The first morning after their tormentors return the freshmen are aroused by a demand that they throw their shoes out of the windows into the courtyard. The shoes are gathered into a heap, and, kneeling in a big circle around this, the freshmen are obliged to go through some ridiculous gymnastic movements at the command of their superiors. When the study bell rings they have but a minute to appear in the class rooms, and it is a strenuous minute around that pile of shoes.

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

Solomon Willard a Public Spirited Man and Benefactor

Quincy is proud of Bunker Hill Monument not only because it is a memorial to Revolutionary heroes, but because it is built of Quincy granite and from designs furnished by a Quincy architect, and because of the fact that it developed the granite industry of the town, and caused the first incorporated railroad in the country to be built here. The life of Solomon Willard, the architect, is not as familiar to Quincy people as it should be, and the Daily Ledger is pleased to reprint this sketch from Pattee's History:

Solomon Willard was not a native, but a voluntary citizen of Quincy, coming here in 1825, to construct the Bunker Hill Monument—the great, and to him the greatest episode of his life. Mr. Willard was born at Petersham, Worcester County, Massachusetts, on the 26th of June 1783. His father, known as Deacon William Willard, was a native of Biddeford, Maine. He received his early education at the country school of that day, which consisted of six months in the year.

At the age of twenty-one, he bade his native home farewell, and in October, 1804, came to Boston,

NOT AS MANY DO,

"waiting for something to turn up," but rather to turn something up, and see what perseverance ,energy and active industry might accomplish. Here he commenced the trade of a carpenter ,and with his broad axe and willing heart, he began with fitting a set of piles for the building of a wharf ,at fifty cents per day and board. His employers were Pond & Gale, for whom he worked ten days.

The first year of Mr. Willard's residence in Boston, he worked for several parties; and after settling his personal expenses, as well as the purchase of tools, books, etc., Salmon Morton, on the 12th of Oct., 1805, paid him two hundred dollars for eight months' work. At this time he made his first investment by a loan of two hundred and five dollars, to William Willard, which was afterwards paid by installment.

In 1808, Mr. Willard was employed as a carpenter on the famous Exchange Coffe House, an immense and costly edifice extending from Congress to Devonshire street. "This building combined the Merchants' Exchange and Hotel. There were in this building three principal staircases, of which the grand spiral pile on the southerly side of the building which extended from the basement story to the roof, and intended especially for the hotel, was built by Mr. Willard, and was the work of considerable calculation, judgment and skill, in the JOINER'S ART.

Probably there was no piece of joiner's work in the country at that time, which would compare with it in spaciousness, architecture or finish." This building was seven stories high, and most elaborately finished. It was destroyed by fire on the 3d of Nov., 1818, and the light of the conflagration was seen at a distance of one hundred miles from Boston.

In the mean time, Mr. Willard had been improving his mind by the study of architecture and perspective drawing; he also acquired a knowledge of the French language ,and attended anatomical lectures. So noted had he become as a carver, that he was constantly employed. Among his works were the Ionic capitals for the Brighton meeting-house; Ionic and Corinthian capitals for Park-street Church, Boston; also, for Dr. Channing's Church, on Federal street, which has since been taken down. In 1810, he carved a colossal spread eagle, which was placed on the old Custom House in Boston. It is now to be seen on the United States Bonded Warehouse. He executed another eagle to adorn the Beacon Hill Monument; when this monument was taken down ,the eagle was suspended in the Representatives' Hall of the State House.

In 1813, he connected ship carving with his profession.

HIS MASTER-PIECE

of this kind of work was the large bust of Washington, executed by him in 1816, for the 74-gun ship, Washington. Previously Mr. Willard had been engaged in his profession at Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. In 1818, Mr. Charles Bulfinch, the architect of the capitol at Washington, engaged Mr. Willard to construct a model of the capitol building.

In addition to many other models of public buildings in various parts of the country, that Mr. Willard was called upon to execute, was the plaster models of the old Roman pantheon and parthenon of exact proportions ,which were used by Mr. Edward Everett, in a course of lectures delivered by him in 1821-2. We believe these models are yet to be seen in the basement room of the Boston Athenaeum. Mr. Willard was called upon to design and execute work for all the principal buildings in the early part of the present century, in connection with which, he taught at his studio, lessons in architure; he was also one of the original projectors of the Merchants Institution of Boston in 1826. In 1825, he became a member of the Charitable Mechanic Association.

After laying aside the foreplane and broad axe and entering upon the higher branches of mechanical art, architecture, sculpture and modelling the idea occurred to him that one important matter connected with his profession had been neglected. That was the inadequate and unsatisfactory system that had been adopted for heating large public buildings, and making the better class of dwelling-houses more comfortable in the extreme weather of our winters; upon this idea he went to work and made a model for the construction of an apparatus for producing artificial heat, and ventilating the various apartments of the building. Thus to Mr. Willard belongs the honor of being the of the Hot Air Furnace, upon which he charged no royalty; if he had, he might have become quite wealthy ,as the furnace became popular and was extensively used. The manufacturer of these furnaces, Mr. Daniel Safford, of Boston, with his assistant workmen was employed night and day in supplying the market. These furnaces were placed in the Old South, St. Paul's, Dr. Lowell's and other churches ;also in the United States Capitol at Washington ;they were constructed mostly for wood, as fuel Anthracite coal was little in use at this time, 1823. In 1820, three years previous, only three hundred and sixty-five tons of anthracite coal was used in the whole country.

Improvements have been made in the construction of Hot Air Furnaces. Mr. Willard's furnace to some extent continued to be manufactured up to 1840.

The crowning glory of Mr. Willard's life was when the distinguished committee on the Bunker Hill Monument, accepted his plan and adopted his suggestions for the construction of the monument, although many have tried to rob him of this honor. Mrs. Lee, in her "Familiar Sketches of Sculpture and Sculptors," states as follows:—"It is well known that Horatio Greenough furnished the design for the Bunker Hill Monument, though at that time an undergraduate of Harvard College; it was forwarded to the Board of Directors with an essay ,and finally acepted." We have omitted to relate in this note his adventure in the stone business, as it is enumerated in the text.

After the construction of the monument, Mr. Willard spent the remaining portion of his in West Quincy, in connection with the stone business, excepting a year or two of the latter part of it, when his time was mostly taken up with experiments in agricultural chemistry. He was a great follower of Liebig, the noted German chemist. Before commencing his agricultural pursuits in West Quincy, which was an unhealthy part of the town, its inhabitants dying off like sheep, with dysentery and typhoid fever, Mr. Willard, by irrigating, clearing up and draining the swampy low lands of this section of the village, caused it to become as healthy as any other part of the town.

Mr. Willard was a fair example of a

SELF-EDUCATED MAN;

retiring in his habits of life, yet always willing to converse and freely impart instruction or knowledge to any one who desired it, and strongly opposed to all ostentation or flattery; this point is well illustrated in the following communication with Mr. Edward Everett; the correspondence occurred in reference to what Mr. Willard's fee was for a plan of his, which had been adopted by the building committee, for a monument to be erected at the "Old North Bridge" in Concord, Mass., in commemoration of a skirmish there in Revolutionary times. The following is Mr. Willard's characterisitc reply:—"I did not think of making any charge, and am sorry you should give yourself any trouble about it." He further says in the same note,—"Many of my friends are in the habit of adding an Esq., to my name in the superscription of their letters, supposing me possessed of the little vanity which it would gratify, but as I have no claim to such distinction, it would be more pleasing to have it omitted." This request was ever after scrupulously complied with by Mr. Everett. Mr. Willard had, in his humble and unostentatious way, been a great and the citizens of West Quincy did him no more than simple justice, when they honored him by calling the school-house erected in that district, after the person who had done so much for their welfare.

On the morning of the twenty-seventh of February, 1861, Mr. Willard, when about to take his place at the breakfast table, was stricken with apoplexy, and in about twenty minutes' quietly expired. His death caused sudden and sad gloom to come over the village of his residence, and his funeral was attended with every degree of respect; the schools were dismissed, the bells tolled, and the school children, with all the citizens of West Quincy, in sad and solemn procession ,while the band played a dirge, proceeded to the Hall Cemetery, where all that was once mortal of Solomon Willard was deposited, and the rejected shaft of the New York Exchange, which some years previous he had unaided placed there, is erected near the last resting place of this public-spirited man, and benefactor of the town.

Ready For the Next One.

A generous and brave but very eccentric Virginia planter named Hill Carter, who had once been an officer in the United States navy, had a hand to hand battle at fisticuffs one day with his plantation overseer and came off second best. He therefore challenged the overseer to a formal duel, but the latter declined on the ground that, being a husband and father, he was under obligation not to risk leaving his family destitute. Carter at once removed that objection by settling upon the family a comfortable annuity. Then everything was got ready for the fight, but just as the two men faced each other the sheriff arrived on the scene, took them into custody and had them bound over to keep the peace. Mr. Carter did not, however, change the deed of gift with which he had provided for the overseer's family, remarking that he might wish some time to resume the interrupted fight and hence would rather keep everything in readiness for prompt action.—New York Post.

Fine Art of Letter Opening.

In Russia one letter in every ten passing through the post is opened by the authorities as a matter of course. Indeed, the postal authorities of every country have experts who have raised letter opening to a fine art. Some kinds of paper can be steamed open without leaving any traces, and this simple operation is finished by reburnishing the flap with a bone instrument. In the case of a seal a matrix is taken by means of new bread before breaking the wax. When other methods fail the envelope is placed between pieces of wood with edge projecting one-twentieth of an inch. The edge of the envelope is first flattened, then roughened and finally slit open. Later a hair line of strong white gum is applied and the edges united under pressure.—London Chronicle.

As to Truth Telling.

There is an eastern saying which runs: "It is good to know the truth and to tell it. It may be better, knowing the truth, to talk of date stones."—London Truth.

The Man and the Parrot.

Exasperated Purchaser—Didn't you guarantee that this parrot would repeat every word he heard?

Bird Dealer—Certainly I did.

"But he doesn't repeat a single word."

"He repeats every word he hears, but he never hears any. He is as deaf as a post."

Mr. and Mrs. Byron C. Miller, nee Florence White, of Franklin street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son born Monday.

The Quincy Point bathhouse is in full swing now. An average attendance of 200 daily is recorded since the opening. The water is fine these warm days.

A bunch of keys of value to the owner was lost Tuesday, probably in the vicinity of Presidents bridge. If returned to the Ledger Office a liberal reward will be given the finder.

William J. Sands and William B. Gerry have been appointed by Chief Williams under the civil service rules as substitute firemen. They will take the places of the regular men during vacation season.

It was fully as hot at 9 o'clock Wednesday night as it was during the middle of the day, and even at midnight the temperature had only dropped to 78 degrees. Continued warm weather is indicated for today.

CHANGES AT LYMAN SCHOOL

Likely to Result From Probe Being Conducted by Legislative Committee

Boston, June 23.—There are at least surface indications that the Lyman school investigation may result in some changes in methods at that institution and possibly in the personnel of some of its officers. The special legislative committee that is investigating the school has adjourned until next Monday.

Incidentally there are some interesting bits of gossip floating around about what the committee will do in the interim. The committee went to Westboro before it began its public hearings at the state house, and examined several witnesses, including officers of the institution, privately.

First Airship Passenger Line Opens In Germany

A THREE-HUNDRED-MILE TRIP

Takes Nine Hours For the Deutschland to Cover Distance From Friedrichshafen to Dusseldorf—Zeppelin at Helm of Dirigible Fitted With Home Comforts—Has Lifting Capacity of 44,000 Pounds

Dusseldorf, Ger., June 23.—The first regular airship passenger service was inaugurated when Count Zeppelin's craft, the Deutschland, carrying twenty passengers, successfully made the first scheduled trip from Friedrichshafen to this city, a distance of 300 miles, in nine hours. The weather was perfect and the motors worked faultlessly.

The average time maintained for the complete course was approximately 33 miles an hour, but between Friedrichshafen and Stuttgart, the 124 miles was covered in an average rate of 41 miles an hour. The best speed for a single hour was 43½ miles.

Count Zeppelin was at the helm when the Deutschland rose at Friedrichshafen and sailed away on the trip that was to mark an epoch in aviation. The passengers were some of the directors of the Hamburg-American Steamship company and the German Airship Stock company, joint owners of the dirigible, and guests. They occupied the mahogany walled and carpeted cabin situated between the gondolas, and from the windows of which they viewed the scenery as the aerial car swept along. Zeppelin steered for the greater part of the distance.

The route was via Stuttgart, Mannheim and Cologne to Dusseldorf. It had been marked out in advance for the guidance of the pilot and was followed exactly. No air was stirring and the Deutschland made her way unhampered through a flood of sunshine.

The hour and minute of the probable passing of the various points had been bulletined ahead, so that not only the people of the cities on the line, who filled the streets, but the inhabitants of all the intermediate villages turned out and cheered as the immense torpedo-like structure, with its whistling screws, drove over their heads at a height from the surface of between 200 and 300 feet.

The Deutschland swung gently into her landing here and the multitude surrounding the landing yards shouted a welcome. The city had been decorated in honor of the event. The promoters of the enterprise and their guests were entertained at a public dinner.

Regular trips will be made, and many tickets have already been sold for the first few days at from $25 to $50 each. The airship is equipped with a restaurant which will supply the passengers with a buffet service such as is afforded on parlor car railroad trains.

The dimensions of the Deutschland are: Length, 485 feet; width, 46 feet. Its gas capacity is 24,852 cubic yards and it carries three motors having a total of 330 horsepower. It was designed to maintain a speed of 35 miles an hour. Its lifting capacity is 44,000 pounds, of which 11,000 cover the crew, passengers and express. It is expected to be able to accomplish a continuous trip of 700 miles.

SACHS MURDER MYSTERY

No Inkling of Where or by Whom Aged Jeweler Was Slain

New York, June 23.—More than four days have elapsed since the body of Moses Sachs, an aged jewelry salesman, was found in a trunk in the hallway at 51 Goerck street, but the police have not been able to find out where the murder was committed, by whom it was committed, and are not certain as to the time.

Pietro Caroli and Frederico Piedzurro, who were arrested as suspicious persons, were discharged in the Essex Market court. They were then taken before Coroner Holtzhauser, who held them as material witnesses, bail being fixed at $100.

Reporters Find Teddy, Jr.

Chicago, June 23.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and bride registered at the Congress hotel as "William Throop Rogers and wife, Philadelphia," but the newly wedded husband eventually admitted his identity when discovered by reporters. HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Economical Ice Cream. Scald a quart of new milk. Beat together three whole eggs and a cup of sugar. Stir the scalded milk slowly into the bowl containing the eggs and sugar, then return all to the double boiler and set over the fire. Stir constantly until thickened and creamy, but do not let it boil lest it curdle. Take from the fire, heat, cool and flavor. Freeze. If you have cream to spare add it as it will make the ice cream the richer. A few red raspberries, sliced peaches, bananas or strawberries may be mixed in when the beater is removed and before packing. A tumblerful of red currant jelly stirred in with a pint of thin, plain cream in delicious and imparts a pretty pink color.—Emma Paddock Telford.

To Cook Salt Pork. Cut in thin slices and dip in flour, and fry a light brown on both sides; then take from the spider and have already prepared a batter made of one egg well beaten, a pinch of salt, and thickened with flour. Dip each slice of pork in the batter, and return to the spider, which should be kept hot, and fry a nice brown. Salt pork is delicious cooked this way.

Sugar Gingerbread. Cream three-quarters of a cup of butter, add gradually one and one-half cups of sugar ,three quarters of a cup of milk and five cups of flour in which two teaspoonfuls of baking-powder have been visited also one and a half level teaspoonfuls of salt and three quarters of a teaspoonful of ginger. Put the mixture on buttered baking pans and then roll out very thin. If a corrugated roller is used it will mark the sheet in grooves. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and bake in a moderate oven.

Potatoes and Cheese. Cut some boiled potatoes into slices and prepare a sauce of one cupful of milk thickened with one tablespoonful of flour and with two tablespoonfuls of butter added, and mix with one cupful of grated cheese ,a little cayenne, two teaspoonfuls of mustard. Line a dish with croutons, arrange around them a close row of the potato slices, and cover with the sauce; repeat in alternate layers, covering the whole with sauce; sprinkle lightly with grated cheese and very brown croutons, and bake in the oven for about twenty minutes.

SAVE THE BIRDS.

The Massachusetts State Grange is sending out letters calling attention to the decreasing number of our native birds and suggesting means of protecting them. The great value of our birds and the real service they do in keeping down insect pests is now well understood and it would be a matter of economy to do all possible to increase their number. It is suggested that boxes for bird houses be set up in the woods and about the grounds of homes, scatter crumbs about the walks, set pans of drinking water out of the reach of cats, hang nesting material on branches of trees and plant bayberry, barberry, alderberry, sumac, etc., for food. Cats should be watched to see that they do not disturb the young birds.

MILLIONS FOR PRINCETON

Court Says Contestants of Wyman Will Have No Standing In the Case

Salem, Mass., June 23.—Judge Harmon, in the probate court, allowed the will of the late Isaac C. Wyman, who left his millions to Princeton university for the founding of a graduate college.

Judge Harmon ruled that the Mudges of Lynn, who filed appearances, had no standing in the case and that their relationship was so distant that, had no will been filed, they would have been unable to secure any of the property of the deceased.

London Warrant For Charlton

AGENCY FOR WHITE SLAVES

Indications That One Has Been Existing In Boston

ALLEGED PRINCIPAL CAUGHT

One Party of Victims Said to Have Been Shipped to Panama Canal Zone While Investigation Was In Progress and Four Others Were About to Be Sent Away—Traffic Unearthed by a Daring Woman Detective

Boston, June 23.—The activities of Mrs. Jeanette Abrams of Boston have resulted in two arrests being made in connection with the white slave crusade and promise many more arrests in the very near future.

It was she who dared to enter and beard the lion in his den, and as a result Max Peretz was arrested on the charge of participating in the white slave trade in this city, and held under $3300 bonds by Judge Wentworth in the municipal court.

His was the first arrest made under the law fathered by the Watch and Ward society, through whose energies Peretz and the woman whom he claimed as his wife, Frieda Peretz, were arrested. The latter was held under $800 bonds on statutory grounds.

Not being able to furnish bonds, both Peretz and the young woman, whom he claims as his wife, were sent to jail, to await a hearing, which was continued from yesterday to June 25.

The Watch and Ward society, through Secretary Chase, is the complainant in each case. Lawyer Scharton appeared as counsel for the Peretzes.

The woman who, as agent of the society, brought about the two arrests, is a widow of 35, with a son to support and was for a long time a detective in the employ of Boston department stores. On account of her marked efficiency in detective work the Watch and Ward society induced her to become its agent.

Mrs. Abrams met Peretz in various drinking houses and palm gardens, and having been informed that his actions indicated knowledge if not complicity in the white slave traffic, she made it a point to get acquainted with him. She opened a room on Columbus avenue, and it is said, received Peretz there at various times, always under the eyes of agents of the Watch and Ward society, one or the other of them being at all times secreted in closets or other hiding places in the room.

While the investigation was in progress, it is stated, one party of white slave victims was shipped from this port to Panama. Two Jewish girls were among the number, and the party has already reached its destination, so that any aid from Masachusettts is out of the question.

It is also stated that Peretz went to the Washington street office of a ticket company and procured tickets for the passage of Mrs. Abrams and three others. They were to sail on the steamship Allianca, which leaves this port for Colon, Panama. The white slaves were to go to Culebra.

The last conversation which the agents of the society overheard in Abrams' room satisfied them that it was time to act. Accordingly an agent went to the municipal court and swore out warrants for the arrest of Max and Frieda Peretz, 41 Dwight street, where the two were arrested. When they were taken to police headquarters it was found that Peretz had $130 in his pocket as well as four tickets to Panama.

Peretz denied emphatically that he sought to induce Mrs. Abrams, or "Julia Adams," as she was known, to go to Panama, but that she offered herself and asked to be taken there.

On the other hand, the society agents allege that in that last interview, which they overheard, Peretz told an alluring story of what a great amount of property might be acquired by a young woman who went to the canal zone. She was told that she could easily put away $5000 in a very short time and then return to Boston to live in comfort the remainder of her life.

White Slavers Sentenced

New York, June 23.—Frank Grillo, a white slaver convicted of holding girls captive, was sentenced in Brooklyn to ten years' imprisonment in Sing Sing. Frank Salvatore, similarly convicted, got four years.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

HALF A CHANCE

By Frederic S. Isham,

Author of "The Strollers," "Under the Rose," "The Lady of the Mount," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

Lord Ronsdale, who had been looking away, yawned, as if finding the police agent "wordy," then strolled to the rail.

"Suspicion pointed strongly in his direction, and we got him after a struggle. It was a hard fight, without a referee, and maybe we used him a little rough, but we had to. Then Dandy Joe was brought in. Joe's a plain, mean little gambler and race track follower with courage not big enough for broad operations. But he had a wide knowledge of what we term the thieves' catacombs, and, well, he peached on the big fellow—gave testimony that was of great service to the prosecution. The case seemed clear enough. There was some sort of contrary evidence put in, but it didn't amount to anything. His record was against him, and he got a heavy sentence, with death as the penalty if he ever sets foot in England again."

Sir Charles assisted his lady from her chair. "Coming, Ronsdale?"

"Believe I won't go down," drawled the nobleman at the rail. "Air better up here," he explained.

Sir Charles laughed, got together the other members of his party, and all followed Mr. Gillett to a narrow companionway. There a strong iron door stopped their progress; but, taking a key from his pocket, the police agent thrust it into a great padlock, gave it a turn and swung back the barrier. Before them stretched a long aisle, at each end of which stood a soldier with a musket. On one side were the cells, small, heavily barred.

Mr. Gillett peered into the cells at his charges with a keen, bright gaze that had in it something of the animal tamer's zest for his part.

"Well, how are we all today?" he observed in his most animated manner to the guard. "All doing well?"

"No. 6 complained of being ill, but I say it's only the dumps. No. 14 has been garrulous."

"Garrulous, eh? Not a little flighty?" The guard nodded. Mr. Gillett whispered a few instructions and asked a number of other questions. Meanwhile the child had paused before one of the cells and, fascinated, was gazing within. What was it that held her—the pity of the spectacle, the terror of it? Her blue eyes continued to rest on the convict, a young fellow of no more than one-and-twenty of magnificent proportions, but with face sodden and brutish. For his part he looked at her open mouthed, with an expression of stupid surprise at the sight of the figure so daintily and slenderly fashioned, at the tangles of bright golden hair that seemed to have imprisoned some of the sunshine from above.

"Well, I'm blowed!" he muttered hoarsely. "Where'd you come from? Looks like one o' them bally Christmas dolls had dropped offen some counter in Fleet street and got in here by mistake!"

A mist sprang to the blue eyes. She held her white, pretty fingers tight against her breast. "It must be terrible here," she said falteringly.

The convict laughed harshly. "Hell!" he said laconically.

The child trembled. "I'm sorry," she managed to say.

The fierce dark eyes stared at her. "What for?"

"Because you have to stay here."

"Well, I'm"— But this time he apparently found no adequate adjective. "If this ain't the rummiest Christmas doll!"

She put out her hand. "Here's something for you, poor man," she said as steadily as she could. "It's my King George gold piece, date 1762, and belonged to my father, who wore it on his watch chain and who is dead. Perhaps they'll let you buy something with it."

He looked at the hand. "If she ain't stickin' out her duke to me right through the bars! Blamed if she ain't! Looks like a lily—a bally white lily," he repeated wonderingly, "one of them kind we wonst run acrost when the cap turned up adrift on an island jest to waller in green grass!"

"Don't you want it?" said the child.

He extended a great, coarse hand hesitatingly, as if half minded to and half minded not to touch the white finger tips.

"You ain't afraid?"

The golden head shook ever so slightly. Again the big hand went toward the small one, then suddenly dropped.

"Right this way, m'lord—m'lady!" The face of the convict abruptly changed. Fury, hatred, a blind instinct to kill, were unmistakably revealed in his countenance as he heard the bland voice of the police agent. From the child's hand the gold disk fell and rolled under the wooden slab that served as a couch in the cell.

"Good heavens!" Mr. Gillett seized the girl's arm and abruptly drew her away. "My dear little lady," he said, "really you don't know the danger you run. And near that cell of all of them!"

"That cell?" observed Sir Charles "Then that is"—

"The convict I was telling you about—the 'Pet of Frisco,' the 'Pride of Golden Gate.'"

CHAPTER II.

A MESSAGE TO THE ADMIRALTY.

THE following night Captain Macpherson, in his cabin, rolled up carefully the chart he had been scanning, deposited it in a copper cylinder and drew from his pocket a small pipe. The weather had turned nasty again; above the wind sounded loudly. Now, it descended on the ship like a fierce scolding virago, then rushed on with wild, shrieking dissonance. Suddenly something happened that caused him to change his mind; abruptly hurled to the other end of the cabin, he found himself lying half stunned on the floor. A hubbub of noises filled the air—snappings, crashings, the rending of woodwork.

Captain Macpherson staggered to his feet and, swaying like a drunken man, stood a few moments holding his hand to his brow. Then his fist clinched, and he shook it at the cylinder that had fallen from the table.

"Ye viperous, lying thing!" he cried and ran from the cabin to the deck.

(To be Continued.)

DECORATE WITH FLAGS.

When it was proposed to hold the next annual encampment of the Grand Army in Atlantic City, N. J., objection was made that it was only a summer resort, and had no special civic pride, none of the patriotic sentiment that has been displayed elsewhere on such occasions. When Comrade Burrows, of Jersey City, closed his appeal for the choice of location by holding aloft a bundle of contracts signed by the hotel people giving free headquarters to the various departments, all objections were withdrawn. Now the mayor of the city has asked the inhabitants to display the American flag on every building, large or small, throughout the city, and to use nothing but the Stars and Stripes for decorations during the encampment. If his wish is regarded it will be the finest display of the national colors ever seen at an encampment. In Denver a flag 150 feet in length and in proper proportions was displayed. Each city where the encampment is held vies with those which have previously held the honor in the attractions presented to make the occasion notable. his display at Atlantic City next September is expected to eclipse all previous efforts. The sight of so many American flags, and no other decorations, will be a unique spectacle.—Lynn Item.

CLERGYMAN A BANKRUPT

Has No Money With Which to Settle Debts Amounting to $3548

Taunton, Mass, June 23.—Rev. Hazen Conklin, former pastor of the North Attleboro Universalist church, appeared before Referee Sherman in the bankruptcy court here for examination. Only one creditor appeared and his claim was approved.

Conklin's debts, according to his statement, amount to $3548.48, with no assets. The greater number of creditors are persons in North Attleboro, from whom the clergyman borrowed money. Other items are for rent, plumbing, and other small bills, which include $3.75 for cigars and $3.39 for photographs.

Havana, June 23.—The house of representatives passed the bill granting a thirty-year concession to an American company to operate bull fights, rooster fights, horse racing and gambling generally on the reservation at Buena Vista, a suburb of Havana.

Hailstones Destroy Crops

Waterville, Me., June 23.—Thousands of dollars' damage was done in this section in about fifteen minutes by a hailstorm. The hailstones fell with great force, cutting all growing crops to pieces. Fruit trees were also badly damaged.

OBJECT LESSON IN HARMONY

President Receives Assurance That Minnesota Is "All Right"

HIS POLICIES ARE ENDORSED

Renomination of Senator Clapp, Who Has Been at Swords' Points With President, Indicates Disposition of Factions to Get Together—Message Over Bill Affecting Ballinger Stirs Up Hornets' Nest

Washington, June 23.—President Taft's triumphal legislative march continues. The White House has been buzzing with complacent senators and representatives congratulating Taft upon the steady progress of his measures and felicitating themselves also that the Republican party bids fair to face the congressional elections with a fine record of work accomplished.

Private advices received at the White House, in addition to the newspaper dispatches, have given the president assurance that Minnesota is "all right." In other words, the Republican state convention, in endorsing the Taft administration, avoiding the embarrassment of "reaffirming" support of the Roosevelt policies and unanimously renominating the insurgent senator, Moses E. Clapp, has given the country an object lesson in practical Republican harmony.

Low tariff and reciprocity sentiment is very strong in Minnesota and the concession made to the insurgent element in the endorsement of Clapp is counted as master stroke of practical politics. Taft and Clapp have been as near swords' points over part of the administration program as two men well could be. But both are Republicans, and the Minnesota state convention evidently has set the pace for harmony by indicating that there is still room in the party for men of radical differences of opinion.

The legislative outlook is as encouraging as the political. All statesmen, from the president down, predict the adjournment of congress by Saturday night.

After voting down several amendments the senate decided by a vote of 44 to 25 to concur with the house amendments to the postal savings bank bill and thus took the last legislative step necessary to the establishment of a postal savings bank system in the United States.

The measure was included in the administration schedules and its passage marks another triumph for President Taft.

The voting began at 5 o'clock last evening and the bill was passed a quarter of an hour afterwards.

President Taft has stirred up a "hornet's nest" in the house with his message recommending legislation providing for an appeal from the decision of the secretary of the interior in land cases to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia.

It was charged by Democratic members of the public lands committee of the house that the bills introduced by Senator Nelson and Representative Mondell, following the president's recommendations, might accomplish nothing more or less than the ultimate clear-listing of the famous Cunningham group of claims—the bone of contention in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

The public lands committee considered the Mondell bill and Assistant Attorney General Lawler from the interior department appeared to explain the measure. Representative Robinson (Ark.) asked Lawler why the bill had been brought in just at the close of the session, instead of during the earlier days, when time might have been had to consider it. Lawler replied that the interior department had not thought before to suggest it to the president.

President Taft is prepared to make definite his Fourth of July engagements in and about Boston. He will pass through the mass of cheering school children in Everett in the morning, review as much as he can of the Somerville parade, then hasten to the state house for a glimpse of the Boston marchers, and then go to Cambridge for luncheon with President Lowell and his address in the Stadium, after which he will return to Beverly.

Mrs. Taft left for Beverly this noon. The president will make no further attempt to leave until two or three days after the adjournment of congress. He is as happy as a boy over his personal and official outlook, but will deny himself to visitors for the first week or ten days at Beverly, that he may recover from the fatigue incident to the heat and haste of adjournment.

LONDON SOCIETY GREATLY EXCITED

Marriage of Miss Deacon and Prince Radziwill Is Postponed

London, June 23.—What happened to cause the postponement of the wedding of Miss Dorothy Deacon of Boston to Prince Antoine A. Radziwill is a problem that no one can solve except the principals themselves, and they are apparently satisfied to let other people guess about it. The wedding was to have occurred yesterday, but was postponed at the last moment.

The romance of the American girl and the Polish nobleman has been even more the subject of gossip than any of the brilliant American marriages in London this season, for there have been many interruptions to the course of their love.

Currency In China.

Writing from the interior of China, a traveler says: "Currency is primitive to a degree. Lump silver only is used and copper 'cash.' Coined money is not current. Even in Honan city, which is distant only two days by rail from Pekin, lump silver, the same cumbrous currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed. It is cut into small pieces by hammer and chisel. Every town and village has its own weights and scales, and there is no pretense at uniformity."

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Quincy Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement the public expression of Quincy people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Quincy reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

W. Charlesworth, 33 Cranch street, Quincy, Mass., says: "About five years ago I began to suffer from kidney trouble. I had pains in my back which were very severe at times and cold or damp weather aggravated my suffering. I knew that my kidneys were at fault and used everything I could think of in an effort to obtain relief but to no avail. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I finally decided to give them a trial and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before I had taken the contents of two boxes, the backache was a thing of the past and I felt better in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful 'Cascarets' for three months and being entirely cured of stomach catarrh and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to 'Cascarets' for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without avail, and I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken would in a year." GREAT LACK OF BEDS.

Will Take 45 Years at Present Rate to Care for all Consumptives.

At the present rate of increase, nearly forty-five years must elapse before sufficient hospital accommodations to provide for all the indigent consumptives in the United States will be provided, declares the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin issued today.

Although over 7,000 beds in hospitals, sanatoria, camps, and wards for tuberculous patients were established last year, there are fully 300,000 indigent consumptives who ought to be placed in such institutions and a total of only 22,720 beds in the entire country. On May 1, 1909, there were 15,244 beds for consumptives and 294 institutions. The anual report of the National Association shows an increase of 99 institutions and 7,500 beds.

New York state leads in the number of beds for consumptives provided up to May 1st with 5,476 beds; Massachusetts is second with 2,403 beds; Pennsylvania third with 2,347 beds; Colorado, fourth with 1.489 beds; and New Mexico fifth with 1,104 beds. As yet, not one state in the country has made adequate provision for its consumptives. New York has set itself the task of having "No uncared-for Tuberculosis in 1915" and several cities in other parts of the country have adopted similar programs. The National Association says that tuberculosis will not be stamped out until all cases of this disease are cared for either in their homes or in institutions. With this end in view, efforts will be made to increase the number of hospital beds in this country to at least 35,000 by May 1, 1911.

The Animals In the Zoo.

The sleeping hours of the animals at the zoological gardens in Regent's park vary as much, according to the families to which they belong, as do their other characteristics and habits. The orang outang goes to bed at sundown, draping its head in a blanket and refusing to see visitors after dusk. It is also an early riser. With the lions, tigers and other members of the cat tribe the night finds them at their liveliest, and they sleep most between the midday meal and supper time. The eagles go to sleep just about the time their neighbors in the owl cage are waking up, while the bears during the winter months apparently sleep all day and night too. The residents of the monkey house object seriously to being disturbed after dark, and if one of the keepers happens to take a light into their quarters they scold him unmercifully. On the other hand, it would probably take a dynamite bomb to arouse the rhinoceros, and it is not uncommon, the keepers say, to find rats biting holes in its thick hide with impunity.—London Mail.

A Ban on Patterns.

"There is one kind of correspondence sometimes received by women clerks that makes heads of firms hopping mad," said the pretty stenographer. "That is dress patterns. They don't mind letters and magazines, but if a girl wants to keep on good terms with her employer and maybe keep her job she had better advise pattern companies to send their communications to some other address. I know one employer of about 100 girls who has put up notices in the workroom to the effect that no patterns can be received at that office. Not many men go that far, but all hold the same grudge against patterns. A girl who has a new dress to make up can't help spreading the pattern out the minute she gets it. Then every other woman in the office becomes interested. Nothing is so disorganizing to women clerks as patterns. Nothing takes up more time that belongs to the firm, so you really can't blame the bosses for putting a ban on patterns."—New York Press.

A Beautiful Lake.

Perhaps the most striking instance to be seen in the whole world of the wonderful apparent coloring of bodies of water is the marvelously beautiful Blue lake in Switzerland. Encompassed on all sides by lofty mountains, their lower ranges luxuriantly clothed with verdure down to the edge of the water and adorned with many fine forest trees, while their higher acclivities are garbed in a mantle of eternal snow, the little lake, nestling in its deep hollow basin and protected from winds and storms, is quite startling in its singular and strange beauty. The water, although really pure and colorless, appears to be of a most vivid and intense sky blue. And its transparency is so remarkable that a small nickel coin dropped into the water in the center of the lake can be seen gyrating downward until it reaches the bottom, apparently more than a hundred feet beneath.

How a Maid Proposed Marriage For Her Mistress.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

A gentleman, handsomely dressed, alighted from a railway train at a suburban station and, going out to where carriages stood waiting, looked about for one he expected to meet him. Passing a landau in which sat a young woman in the costume of a maid, she called to him:

"Beg pardon, sir. Are you Mr. Jurnegan?"

"I am."

"I've been sent by Miss Whitehead to meet you."

"Indeed!"

"Yes, sir. Miss Whitehead was intending to come herself, but she was called away suddenly this morning."

Since it was a four hour journey each way Mr. Jurnegan decided to stay. But what was he to do to amuse himself till tomorrow? He and Miss Whitehead were both interested in an estate that was in litigation. Mr. Jurnegan's father and Miss Whitehead's uncle had been partners in business and had left their affairs in a tangle Mr. Jurnegan seemed to have the best of the legal situation, and Miss Whitehead's attorney advised her to meet Mr. Jurnegan, whom she had never seen, and endeavor to effect a compromise. He strongly recommended her to marry him if she could. She had invited him to her home for a conference. As he rolled along he concluded to pump the maid.

"Does Miss Whitehead live alone?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, with a housekeeper for chaperon."

"Good mistress?"

"Very good—in some ways, sir."

"In what way?"

"Well, sir, there's nothing mean about her. She pays good wages and gives us days out quite often, besides lots of fine castoff clothing. But she's very independent, does things her own way, and the neighbors call her freaky."

There was nothing in this to help Mr. Jurnegan to an opinion as to whether he would be able to make a compromise favorable to his own interests or not, though the fact that Miss Whitehead was not mean looked well. On reaching her residence he alighted and was shown to his room by a manservant. There he made his toilet and went down to luncheon After that he had a whole afternoon before him with nothing to do. Going on to the piazza, he lit a cigar. The maid came out with periodicals, which she placed on a table near him.

"Miss Whitehead told me I was to do my best to make your waiting as easy as possible, sir."

"I don't know how you can do that better than by telling me about Miss Whitehead," he responded. "Sit down and tell me what she is like."

The girl demurred at seating herself near a gentleman, but agreed that if he would permit her to get her needlework she would answer any questions he might ask. He gladly consented and on her return began his inquiries.

"How old is Miss Whitehead?"

"I don't know, sir. She might be thirty."

"Thirty! I heard she was not more than twenty-two."

"She looks it anyway."

"Good looking?"

"Oh, no, sir! Miss Whitehead is not good looking."

"Then she's very stupid to have so pretty a maid. The contrast is detrimental to her own appearance."

Naturally the maid was pleased at this compliment. She bent her head over her work and said nothing.

"I fancy," pursued Jurnegan, "that your mistress must rely on you for more than the duties of a maid or she would not have intrusted you with keeping me here till her return?"

"I sometimes act as secretary for her."

"Indeed!"

"Yes, sir, and she likes to talk over her business affairs with me. You see she has no one else to talk with about them."

"She wouldn't talk with you very long about them if she didn't get valuable hints from you."

At this moment a telegraph messenger boy came in at the gate and delivered a dispatch. The maid opened and read it.

"It's from Miss Whitehead," she said. "She is uncertain about her return and would like you to make her a proposition through me."

"I told you so. She has recognized in you a head for business."

Mr. Jurnegan was a clear headed man and one who acted on broad and liberal principles. He laid down the business situation between himself and Miss Whitehead showing that their interests were identical, that they must manage harmoniously the property in which they were jointly interested He was proceeding when the maid interrupted him.

"It seems to me, sir," she said, "that by far the best arrangement to be made is for you and Miss Whitehead to marry. I hope you'll never tell her I proposed such a thing. If you do I'll lose my place."

"I had often thought of that myself," said Jurnegan, naturally surprised. "But I am opposed to marrying a woman older than myself. You say that Miss Whitehead is thirty and homely?"

"I am not a judge of beauty. You might think her fairly good looking."

"It takes two to make a bargain. What do you think Miss Whitehead would say to your plan?"

"She favors it."

"Favors it!"

"Yes, sir. She has told me several times that it's the only way of making a satisfactory permanent settlement."

"Oh, I see. Miss Whitehead, having such an opinion, prefers to let it be known through another. I'm inclined to think she went away on purpose to enable me to get it through you."

"You're right, sir. The story about her aunt was made up."

"Well, upon my word! You're very frank about it. But, while Miss Whitehead, you say, favors a settlement by marriage, it doesn't mean that she would settle it in that way without seeing me, and if she sees me she might decide that no such settlement is possible."

"I think that part of it would be all right, sir."

"Why so?"

"Well, Miss Whitehead is a very sensible and a very practical woman. She is also peculiar and has some strange notions. She thinks that love often blinds us to our best interests. She went away resolved that if this settlement by marriage be agreed to by you her consent would depend entirely on my report of you."

"The dickens she did! That beats anything of the kind I ever heard of as coming from a woman."

"Miss Whitehead, as I told you, is very peculiar."

"I should think she is, leaving the question of her acceptance of a life partner to her maid."

"But, under the circumstances, don't you think, sir, that it shows a certain depth of wisdom?"

"I don't know but it does."

"Well, sir, since my mistress has left her part in the matter to me it is settled. Now, what shall I say to her as to your part?"

"You can say that I am so astonished at this remarkable method of bringing about a settlement that I don't know what to say. It's my opinion that you have furnished the brains to concoct such a plan. If you were making the proposition on your own behalf I would say, 'It's a go.' As it is I must see Miss Whitehead before giving an answer."

"Very well, sir; I will telegraph her to come at once."

"How long will she be coming?"

"She will be here for dinner."

With that the maid arose, remarked that the periodicals on the table were of the latest issue and left him. Instead of reading them he got up and walked about the grounds. He saw nothing, however, his mind being entirely taken up with this remarkable turn in his affairs. The maid had doubtless been instructed to say that Miss Whitehead was older than she was and plain looking. It would not do for her as her mistress' spokesman to say that she was young and beautiful. He was very impatient to see this practical and peculiar lady and sincerely hoped that he would find her prepossessing since much depended upon whether he could bring himself to marry her. But he could not divest himself of admiration at the way her maid had acquitted herself of so delicate a mission. Indeed, he was remarkably pleased at both the plan and the manner in which it had been carried out. But the as yet unseen Miss Whitehead—would her appearance correspond with her talent for diplomacy or her maid's diplomacy?

Every ten or fifteen minutes he took out his watch to note the time, which dragged heavily. Between 5 and 6 o'clock he went to the house and asked a servant what time dinner would be served. He was informed that Mrs. Whitehead usually dined at 7. Then he inquired if Miss Whitehead had returned. There was no need for him to ask this question, for he had been watching all the afternoon to see her drive up. When he received a negative reply he sent for the maid-secretary and asked her if she were sure her mistress would return in time for dinner.

"She will surely be here, sir," was the reply. "I think it is time for you to dress for dinner, sir. Miss Whitehead always expects her guests to wear evening dress for dinner."

With that Mr. Jurnegan went up to his room. It was in the rear of the house, so that he could not see Miss Whitehead's arrival, but since her maid had so definitely informed him that she would come in time for dinner he dismissed the matter from his mind. At half past 6 he heard carriage wheels grinding on gravel. His heart throbbed. She had come.

A few minutes before 7 Mr. Jurnegan went downstairs. At 7 punctually the butler announced dinner.

"But where is Miss Whitehead?" asked the guest.

"You will find her in the dining room."

Thinking the lady had naturally put off their meeting till the last moment from motives of delicacy, Mr. Jurnegan went into the dining room. A young lady in evening dress advanced to meet him. He stopped and looked upon her, surprised. He saw the maid-secretary in the costume of her mistress.

"Your mistress has not arrived after all, I suppose, and you are to take her place."

"Are you disappointed?"

"Disappointed! I'm delighted!"

"I will not deceive you any longer. I am Miss Whitehead."

Jurnegan stared at her in mute astonishment for a few moments, then when he found his tongue said:

"Your proposition is accepted."

A Witty Retort.

A good story is told of two great Irishmen, the late Archbishop Plunket and Father Healy, the well known parish priest of Bray. Making their way together to Bray railroad station one morning, the priest urged that they should hurry, but the prelate's appeal to his watch convinced him that they had ample time. They arrived to see the train for Dublin disappearing. The archbishop's apologies were lavish. He pleaded that he had always had unbounded faith in his watch. "My dear Lord Plunket," was Father Healy's rejoinder, "faith won't do without the good works."—Blackwood's Magazine.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

Vol. 24 No. 146 QUINCY, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 24, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

CONTRACT SIGNED FOR FIREWORKS

City Will Be Asked to Erect a Reviewing Stand in City Square for Parade

Sports at Merrymount Park and at Houghs Neck

The executive committee on Fourth of July celebration met again Wednesday night in the Board of Trade rooms. The reports of the financial committees in the wards were somewhat smaller than expected, but committees are hard at work. President Bowles of the Fore River Company has given permission to the Ward Two committees to canvass the shops during working hours.

The contract for the fireworks display has been signed by George E. Elcock, chairman of that committee, and a representative of the company, and was read at the meeting.

It was voted to have all bills approved by a majority of the committee, including the president, vice president, secretary and the chairman of the committee contracting the debt.

The water sports will be held at 9:30 in the morning at the Houghs Neck steamboat landing. There will be a 100 yard swimming race for men, a fifty yard race for boys under sixteen, a fifty-yard race for girls, under water swim, diving contest, a rowing race, riding the barrel, and efforts are being made to bring James Greene of the Brookline gym to Houghs Neck to give an exhibition of fancy swimming and diving. Entries in the water sports may be made with A. H. Briggs, 93 Appleton street, Atlantic. The first prize for these events will be a cup, second a silver fob engraved with the seal of this city.

The athletic games will be held at Merrymount Park at 10 A. M. They will be at this hour as some of the men who will compete at the games on Boston Common intend to compete at Quincy also, and the hour was arranged to allow them to get from Boston.

Herrymount Park will be roped off the Saturday before the holiday, to allow the contractor to set up the fireworks display, and all persons are warned to keep outside the ropes, since the slighest thing may disarrange the delicate set pieces and spoil their beauty.

So far two bands are assured, and as it is known that all union bands are hired for the holiday non-union bands will be procured.

The city will be asked to build a reviewing stand in City Square to accommodate about 300 persons. The entire Argentine commission, Mr. Bowles of the Fore River, the entire city government and other prominent people will be invited to occupy the stand.

There is now little more than a week for every arrangement to be thoroughly completed, and all the committees are working hard and conscientiously for the success of the celebration.

ENGINE DISABLED.

A brake shoe on one of the wheels of the locomotive of an express train, due to pass through Quincy about 9 o'clock broke and dropped off while passing the old cemetery this morning. The train was stopped and held up ten minutes until the next inward train. The two trains were then connected and the disabled train was pushed into Boston. Fortunately the broken shoe dropped clear off the track and no damage was done.

O'CONNELL SEATED.

By a unanimous vote the National House adopted on Thursday the report of the committee on election, declaring Joseph F. O'Connell of Boston to have been duly elected a representative from the Tenth Massachusetts district. This ends the contested case of J. Mitchell Galvin, who was defeated in 1908 by only four votes.

Q. Y. C. RECEPTION.

The grand opening of the Quincy Yacht club house and reception to Admiral Bowles and members of the Argentine commission announced for Thursday June 30 has been postponed one week. That is until Thursday July 7. The postponement was made because on June 30, Governor Draper entertains the members of the commission and their ladies at a reception.

CLASS OF 1910 RECEPTION

Very Pretty High School Party at Music Hall

The Class of 1910 graduated from the Quincy High school this week held a reception Thursday evening in Music Hall from 8 until 12. The affair was a very brilliant success, one of the best ever given by the school. About three hundred couples were in attendance. Besides the usual decorations of the hall, there was the class motto "Possunt, quia posse videntui" on the platform, also a large floral piece, Q. H. S. '10.

At eight o'clock the reception commenced. In the receiving line were president Theodore H. Corey, treasurer Leon D. Browne, vice president Forrest B. Royal, secretary Bertha M. Given, andthe matrons, Mrs. Albert L. Barbour, Mrs. John F. Roache, Mrs. Melvin T. Holbrook, Miss Lilla R. Birge, Miss Clara E. Thompson. The ushers were Paul Blackmur, Jack Pfaffman, Winthrop Safford, Raymond Hall, Henry Huston and Clarence Armstrong.

A grand march followed gracefully led by President Corey and Miss Amy B. Wood. Dancing for the remainder of the evening followed. Music was furnished by Wilson's orchestra. During the evening frappe was served. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

The committee who arranged for the pleasant occasion was Theodore Corey, Margaret Hall, Forrest Royal, Alfred Hanson, Gladys Hunt, Grace DeWolfe, Charles Hearn and Charles H. Kendall.

This evening the "class party" takes place at the school hall. The prophecy will be given by Marion Hicks and the history by Gordon Jameson. There will also be games, dancing and exchange of pictures.

CURTIS NOW MAYOR

Executive of City During Absence of Mayor Shea

Mayor Shea left this morning for New York on a few days' business trip. Te expects to return in time for Monday night's meeting of the City Council. Before leaving he appointed City Treasurer Curtis as acting Mayor.

BROTHERHOOD OFFICERS.

The regular meeting of the Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood was held in the vestry of the Hall Place M. E. church Monday evening. The following officers were re-elected: Richard Moyle, president; John Pearce, 1st vice president; H. C. Johnston, second vice president; Charles Goucher, third vice president; Enoch Fuller, fourth vice president; Robert Newcomb treasurer; Joseph M. Francis secretary; Rev. Carl H. Raupach, chaplain.

—An ordinance recently passed in New York and approved by Mayor Gaynor, prohibiting the establishment of any new cemeteries within the city limits. The ordinance is in the interest of land economy as well as of sanitary conditions, and will have the practical object of promoting the cremation methods of disposing of the dead.—Milford Gazette.

SCHOOL CONTRACT FOR COAL

Award to Out of Town Company the Subject of Considerable Adverse Comment

Difference in Price Was Too Small To Count

The award of the school contract for coal to an out-of-town firm is provoking considerable comment. The Quincy Merchants' Association has taken it up as will be seen by a report of their meeting. An editorial in today's paper quotes the bids and comments on the same.

The Daily Ledger has asked C. Patch & Son why they did not submit bids for the school coal. Mr. Patch said that there was nothing in it for him at the prices named. He regreted that the contract should go out of town, and he believed it was local pride that caused Messrs. Sheppard to name such a low price, so that the contract would not go out of town. The Quincy coal merchants were large taxpayers of the city and interested in Quincy, and they employ Quincy help. One business helps another, and the city should in all its departments favor home trade. It was very evident from the prices named that there was no attempt at extortation.

Quality of coal, too, is an important factor, and it is our aim to sell good coal rather than cheap coal. Screenings were often put into soft coals like the Georgie's creek coal, and it is only an expert who can detect it. The city is taking a big chance when it buys out of town. Local merchants have built up a reputation for reliable dealing, and that should count. If everybody purchased their supplies out of town what kind of a city would we have? Why, no business at all! Home trade helps the purchaser as well as the merchant. It keeps the money in Quincy and every line of business is benefitted.

Other interviews will appear in the Saturday Daily Ledger.

☞Are you a regular subscriber for the "home paper," the Quincy Daily Ledger? Now would be a good time to subscribe. Have it left at your house and enjoy reading it on the cool piazza. Any agent will take your subscription or send direct to the office, 1421 Hancock street.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

It is certainly "fair Harvard" today.

It is time to "go slow" says the Salem News. Whatever may be our habit of rushing hither and thither during the winter and spring, we ought to moderate our pace during hot weather. Really, nothing is gained by people who dash here and there; they do not accomplish any more during the day than those who are a little more systematic and moderate.

Some one well said the other day that the business man in New York or Boston will rush and tear around; dash out to some quick lunch place and bolt down all sorts of things and then, stand around on the sidewalk talking with some friend whom he meets, or saunter back to his office looking in store windows. Once there, he will dip into business as if life depended on it. Perhaps by 3 o'clock he will slam down his desk and rush off again, this time to the ball game or some other sport or entertainment. There is a good deal in this.

Considerable comment is being made among the tax-payers at South Quincy at the size of the appropriation made by the City Council for the rebuilding of Trafford street. The order passed for this job called for an appropriation of $4,900. Trafford street is but 1200 feet long and 36 feet wide between Liberty and Rodman streets.

While the taxpayers in that vicinity do not claim the street to be in first class condition, they can not see why such a large apropriation is necessary. One man, who expresses the sentiment of a large following, says if the street was picked up by the scarifier a few loads of gravel put on and rolled down it would be in better condition than nine-tenths of the streets in the city, and the cost would be nowhere near the amount that has been appropriated.

As it is today, it is in far better condition than many of the main thoroughfares of the city. It is what is called a side street, and but little used, and to expend such a large sum in rebuilding it seems like a waste of good money.

Considerable adverse criticism is heard because the School Commitee have awarded the bulk of the contract for coal for schools to an out-of-town company, and we are not surprised, for the bid of that company was only $23.25 less than the figures submitted by a reliable Quincy firm.

The bids in detail were:

J. F. SHEPPARD & SONS.

4 tons White ash egg	$5.90
105 tons Lehigh broken	5.50
40 tons Lehigh egg	5.90
651 tons Georgie's creek	4.05

WILLIAM CASHMAN.

4 tons White ash egg	6.00
105 tons Lehigh broken	5.70
40 tons Lehigh egg	6.00
651 tons Georgie's creek	4.19

NEPONSET RIVER COAL CO.

4 tons white ash egg	6.45
105 tons Lehigh broken	5.94
40 tons Lehigh egg	6.45
651 tons Georgie's creek	3.90

These bids aggregate as follows:

J. F. Sheppard & Sons	$3,473.65
William Cashman,	3,590.19
Neponset River Coal Co.,	3,450.40

In only one kind of coal out of four was the Neponset company lower than Messrs Sheppard, and the difference in the aggregate was only $23.25.

It is reported that J. F. Sheppard & Sons will not agree to a division of the contract, and their stand is generally endorsed. It is for the City department to set a good example in HOME TRADE. Not only in coal, but everything else as far as possible should be obtained in Quincy.

Where there is a difference of less than $100 in a contract of $3,500 for supplies, the city should not hesitate to give the contract to a Quincy firm. When figured separately the bids for the 651 tons of Georgie's creek coal were: Sheppard $2,636.55; Cashman $2,727.69; and Neponset $2,538.90. that of the Neponset company being only $97.65 less than the Sheppard bid. At these figures the city would be a gainer by awarding the contract to Messrs. Sheppard. In one case all the money goes out of town, but if paid to a local firm it helps not only that firm, but all its employees, the grain dealers, the blacksmiths, the wheelwright, the store keepers, the banks and most everybody.

BALLINGER'S TIME ABOUT UP

Resignation Awaiting Opportune Time For President to Accept It

Washington, June 24.—The first break in President Taft's cabinet is expected now any day. It comes from the most authentic circles that Secretary of the Interior Ballinger has decided to surrender his cabinet portfolio.

This decision, according to the source of information, is made without regard to the present investigation or any report made by the investigators.

The charges made by Gifford Pinchot have brought a notoriety that has been most distasteful not only to the secretary but to his family. As announced, the resignation already is awaiting an opportune time for the president's acceptance of it.

It was Ballinger's intention to leave the cabinet the first part of the month, but he has been prevailed upon to delay the presentation for a few weeks.

STARTLES REPORTERS

Roosevelt Tells Them He May Never Make Another Political Speech

New York, June 24.—Theodore Roosevelt had just popped out of his editorial office late yesterday afternoon when he saw a group of interviewers and stopped. They told him that his first political utterance was awaited with the greatest interest—and when, please, would he make it.

"I have no idea when I shall make a political speech," he replied. "I shall make no speech of any kind for two months, and my first speeches in Kansas City, Cheyenne, Milwaukee and Chicago will have nothing to do with politics. I don't know that I shall ever make another political speech."

"What, never!" someone cried.

"I don't say 'never,'" he corrected; "I simply don't know."

NO ATTENTION PAID TO DEMAND OF TAFT

Promises of Retrenchment Are Forgotten by Congress

Washington, June 24.—A veto of the rivers and harbors bill and the public buildings bill would keep the appropriations of this session of congress slightly below those of last year. With these two bills becoming laws, the appropriations of the session will exceed those of last session by about $30,000,000.

Last year, when the appropriations went to $1,044,401,837.12, the country was startled. On every side the demand went up for retrenchment. President Taft and the members of his cabinet joined in this demand. Many conferences were held and numerous plans for checking extravagance were proposed. But congress soon forgot all about the promise of retrenchment.

The seventeen appropriation bills for this year and the legislation providing for miscellaneous appropriations carry a total of $916,104,410, as against $882,943,131 for last year. To this amount is to be added the permanent annual appropriations, which brings the grand total for this session up to about $1,075,000,000.

COD IN BEHRING SEA

Plans of Western Combine Menace Great New England Industry

Boston, June 24.—T wharf almost hopped out of the water with excitement when reports came from the Pacific coast that a gigantic combine of five leading fish industries of the Pacific had been formed to drive the New England codfish industry off the map.

The Pacific combine plans to catch cod in the Behring sea. It teems with cod. The catches are to be cured in Alaska and along Puget sound and then merchandised so cheaply that the sacred codfish of Massachusetts will be put out of business. T wharf is quite concerned at the report.

Secretary Rich of the New England Fish company said that the Pacific combine would be a serious menace to the New England cod industry.

MILLS TO CLOSE TEN DAYS

Amoskeag Employes Will Be $140,000 Out of Pocket as a Result

Manchester, N. H., June 24.—The official announcement by Herman S. Straw of the Amoskeag Manufacturing company that from July 1 to July 11 the big mills here will be shut down, is the first intimation that the 15,500 operatives here will lose their weekly payroll of $140,000.

The move on the part of the company has been indirectly indicated, following the statement that the high cost of raw materials was making work on schedule time very difficult.

ONLY EQUALITY BEFORE THE LAW

All the Laboring Man Stands In Need of, Says Taft

TRUST LAW EXEMPTION FAILS

President Works Hard to Bring About Defeat of Measure Wanted by Labor Unions—Would Sacrifice Support of Every Workingman In the Country Rather Than Approve Such a Provision of Law, He Declares

Washington, June 24.—Labor organizations were declared by the house to be not immune from the anti-trust and interstate commerce laws. The house by a vote of 138 to 130, on a motion to concur with the senate's action, defeated the Hughes amendment to the sundry civil bill, which would have exempted labor organizations from the effect of those laws.

The defeated amendment provides that no part of the appropriation for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws "shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the condition of labor, or for any act done in furtherance thereof not in itself unlawful."

President Taft spent the entire day and bent every energy toward the defeat of the house amendment which proposed to exempt labor unions from the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

He threw his whole influence into the fight, sending for scores of representatives and urging them to defeat the provision. Mr. Taft declared that if it cost him the support of every laboring man in the country he would not approve such a provision of law. The laboring man, he believed, asked only equality before the law and was entitled to no more.

It was the president's fight on this amendment to the big supply bill which caused rumors that there undoubtedly would be a delay in adjournment. Mr. Taft felt he had a longer fight before him than proved to be the case, and was doubtful of the result until the vote was finally taken. When informed of the result he made no attempt to conceal his gratification.

Incidentally, the president sent a long telegram last night to the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen meeting at St. Paul, in which he outlined his views on the matter. The telegram was in response to a message of protest from the convention.

For several days past the White House has been fairly bombarded with letters and telegrams from labor organizations in favor of the house amendment.

JEFF "SORE" ON SULLIVAN

Refuses to Let the "Big Fellow" Enter His Training Quarters

Reno, Nev., June 24.—Former Champion John L. Sullivan was told by former Champion Corbett that his presence was not desired at the camp of former Champion Jeffries.

"Why?" asked Sullivan, as he stood at the gate that had been closed to bar him from Jeffries' cottage at Moana Springs.

"Because," said Corbett, "you have knocked the big fight and called it a fake. Jeffries wants me to say that he will not shake hands with you."

"That's a mistake. I've been misquoted," protested John L.

"I don't believe you were misquoted," calmly answered Corbett, and, after a brief colloquy, Sullivan returned to Reno with his manager, Frank Hall.

MARTIN WALSH INDICTED

Reward For His Apprehension May Be Increased to $1000

Boston, June 24.—Martin J. Walsh, alleged leader of the faro gang, was indicted by the United States circuit court grand jury on the charge of aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the misapplication of the funds of the National City bank of Cambridge.

United States District Attorney French has requested the department of justice to authorize an increase in the reward for the apprehension of Walsh from $200 to $1000. The attorney general has not yet acted upon the request.

Commutation Rate Protest

Washington, June 24.—Formal complaints were submitted to the interstate commerce commission of recent advances in commutation rates made by the railroads operating out of New York city. The commission has under consideration the acceptance of these complaints.

Fatal Mishap In Churchyard

Fall River, Mass., June 24.—Ernest Rioux, 7 years old, died from injuries received while climbing on a counter on the grounds of St. Mathew's church. The counter toppled over, fracturing the boy's skull and breast bone.

JOSHUA HOLDEN STRICKEN

Leader In Massachusetts Politics Up to Few Years Ago

Boston, June 24.—Joshua Bennett Holden, one of Boston's richest and most prominent citizens, died of heart failure at his Back Bay home. The hot wave is believed to have overtaxed his heart while it weakened his vitality.

Holden was formerly a state senator. A few years ago he ranked with Republican leaders in this state. Of late he has not been prominent in politics. He was 60 years old and a native of Woburn. Although Holden was a rich man he was very democratic in his manner.

YOUNG NEWMAN A SUICIDE

Report of Doctors Who Performed Autopsy on Lyman School Boy

Worcester, Mass., June 24.—District Attorney Taft announced that the report of the physicians who performed an autopsy upon the exhumed body of John Newman, the Lyman school boy, was that he came to his death by hanging, all evidence pointing to the fact that he committed suicide. The eport says there is no evidence of criminal homicide.

The autopsy was performed by Medical Examiner McGrath of Boston and Medical Examiner Knight in the presence of Dr. Charles S. Kale, family physician for the Newman family, and Professor Dwight of the Harvard medical school.

Brewery Workers' Wages Raised

Portsmouth, N. H., June 24.—An increase of wages, ranging from $1 to $1.80 per week, has been granted to all employes of the Frank Jones Brewing company, the Eldridge Brewing company and the Portsmouth Brewing company, all of this city.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother.

If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers. That is why we are so successful.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION

Opposed to Award of Contract for School Coal

The meeting of Merchants' Association held Thursday evening, to receive reports on Merchants' Week, was not largely attended. Vice President W. G. Shaw was in the chair.

None of the reports were made in writing, and were more or less incomplete. There was no summary of the expenditures, but its is thought that the receipts, with cash in the treasury, will pay all bills, and leave a balance.

Votes of thanks were extended to committees, judges and others who helped to make Merchants' Week a success, and there was some criticism of others who did not assist.

Two applications for membership were received and both were elected.

There was a general discussion of the feasibility of a Wednesday half holiday. The general sentiment seemed to be in favor, but some of the marketmen would not agree unless it could be made universal. It was voted that the association go on record in favor of the half holiday among all trades where it was feasible.

The recent award of the contract for coal for the schools to an out of town company by the School Committee was the subject of considerable adverse criticism. The directors of the association were instructed to investigate and then send a letter to the School Committee.

It was voted to suspend regular meetings until September.

JURY WILL RENEW INVESTIGATION

Demurrers to Beef Trust Indictment Are Sustained

Chicago, June 24.—Judge Landis in the United States district court here sustained the demurrers of the so-called beef trust to the indictment charging a combination in restraint of trade. A new grand jury was ordered to review the investigation of the packing companies.

The indictment was drawn on evidence secured by agents of the federal government against the National Packing company and its ten subsidiary companies, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictment quashed failed to show, in the view of Landis, that any offense had been committed within the last three years. The general averment that the packing companies engaged in a combination in restraint of trade the court declared to be a mere conclusion. Landis said:

"The court is not clothed with authority to supply entirely by inference the complete omission of so fundamental an element of the offense."

System Required.

Clerk—May I have a day's leave tomorrow, sir? It is my mother-in-law's funeral. Employer—My dear Huber, this mustn't occur again. Last week your wife died, and now your mother-in-law's going to be buried. You must arrange things better in your family and see that they happen in the holidays.—Lustige Blatter.

MILTON

In the Belcher school summer classes in millinery for girls not under 14 years old, and classes in thin metal working for boys not under 11 years of age, will be held.

Edward Linnehan is now employed by J. J. Hammers of East Milton.

Miss Elsie Kelley of Pierce street has accepted a position in East Milton.

F. E. Cabat and family of Edge Hill road have left their home for Pocasset, where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. Amos Poole and daughter, Caroline C., are visiting in Reading.

The Misses Peterson of Reservation road are visiting at Egypt.

A. W. Greene of East Milton is visiting in Hills boro, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Whitney of Belcher circle are at Hartsville over the Fourth of July.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Baxter and Miss O. M. Baxter are at Swampscott, for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harlow are visiting at Pierce Island, Gloucester.

Funeral services were held for Miss Jane Frances Dow at her home in East Milton on Tuesday, conducted by Rev. Roderick Stebbins, pastor of the First Parish (Unitarian) church in Milton. The burial was in Mt. Auburn. Miss Dow was born in Boston and distinctly remembers Benjamin Franklin. She lived in the same house in East Milton for 20 years.

Milton's Fourth of July celebration will be a big event and the Education committee and Selectmen have been working for some time to complete arrangements. There will be athletic games and baseball in the morning, and at the Cunningham gym there will be greased pig and greased pole contests and other such pastimes. In the afternoon Teel's band will give a concert near the Town Hall. In the evening fireworks will be displayed. The public has contributed to the fund in a liberal manner and the selectmen have each contributed $5. The directors of the Cunningham gym have donated the freedom of gym and grounds for the day.

TODAY'S COURT.

Domerick Alasandro and Stefano Amaroso were arraigned for larceny at Weymouth. Case continued until July 2.

Thomas M. Griffin was fined $15 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Irving L. Scott, James F. Walsh and Edward R. Rice were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Cases continued until Oct. 1.

Morgan Is Home Again

New York, June 24.—Despite various reports that he was seriously ill in different parts of Europe, J. P. Morgan arrived here on the Adriatic apparently in the best of health.

The Weather

Almanac, Saturday, June 25.
Sun rises—4:26; sets—7:31.
Moon rises—10:18 p. m.
High water—12:45 a. m.; 1:15 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Generally fair; light to moderate north to west winds.

The Peanut.

The common peanut, beloved of the small boy, grows in a way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots, with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As pigs are said to be especially fond of these, it has been suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

It is impossible to be just if one is not generous.—Roux.

SMITH OF IOWA MAY WIN SPEAKERSHIP OF HOUSE.

G. O. P. Regular Who Defeated Insurgent In Primary May Succeed Cannon.

Far more important to the nation than to the local situation in Iowa is the renomination of Walter I. Smith as Republican representative from the Ninth district. If Smith be elected and the Republicans remain in power the chances favor his succession to Joseph G. Cannon as speaker of the house.

It was because of this possibility of future greatness that the house gave him a great welcome on his return from Iowa. Regulars and insurgents extended their congratulations. The reception was looked upon with envious eyes by those who have aspirations for the shoes of Mr. Cannon.

Although Mr. Smith has been charged with "Cannonism," it is known that he has not been in entire sympathy with the tactics of the Danville sage. At the same time he would have been guilty of base ingratitude had he denounced Mr. Cannon or failed to support him upon various important matters. Recognizing his strength and influence among members, Mr. Cannon has given him choice committee positions and has aided him in getting legislation enacted.

But Mr. Smith has so conducted himself as to maintain friendly relations with many insurgents. There is today a large number of representatives who would be willing to elect Mr. Smith to the speakership if Mr. Cannon should be removed. Those who favor Mr. Smith believe he would profit by the mistakes Mr. Cannon has made, and those who are opposed to him admit he would be fair and just in his decisions and interpret the rules in accordance with precedent and the facts.

What adds to Mr. Smith's chances is the fact that he is in high favor with the administration. It will be recalled that the president wrote a letter in his behalf to General Granville M. Dodge, which the latter made public during the primary campaign.

STUDY WOOD AT WISCONSIN.

Technical Course Under Federal Supervision at University.

The first courses of instruction in wood technology and the mechanical engineering of woodworking plants ever offered at the University of Wisconsin are announced for the coming year as a result of the co-operation of the college of engineering with the new United States forest products laboratory at the university.

The three phases of the problem of saving timbers and using all the present waste from the lumbering and wood manufacturing industries will be considered in the new lectures and laboratory practice by the students, including special study of the physical and chemical properties of wood; of preserving and utilizing not only the timbers, but the stumps, small branches, bark, sawdust and all the waste bits, and of the mechanical means of transforming standing timbers into commercial products.

WILL RESTORE PARTHENON.

Greeks Plan Re-erection of Glories of Acropolis.

All the world will be interested to know that an attempt is being made to restore the Parthenon and the other buildings upon the Acropolis at Athens, which in many respects is the most important task of the kind ever attempted.

It is not intended to rebuild or redecorate this most perfect and beautiful of all buildings ever erected by human hands to the condition in which it stood when it was destroyed by Venetian artillerymen in 1687, but an effort is being made to identify and replace in their original positions such fragments of the walls and pillars and columns as are strewn over the ground and wherever necessary to support them by new material.

Anarchists Avenge Betrayal.

Four heavy guns in Cherbourg fortress were recently found to be useless owing to the disappearance of essential parts of their mechanism. Later the mystery was solved. A soldier named Beau was arrested, denounced by an anarchist of Italian nationality who was detailed by a secret society in Rome to avenge Beau's betraying some members of the society in 1907. Boschini, the anarchist, secured work as a mason near the fortress where Beau was quartered. Boschini induced Beau to steal the sights and other parts of the guns. Then he denounced him.

Japan's National Beverage.

Sake is the national beverage of Japan. It has a peculiar flavor not comparable to any European drink, is made from fermented rice by an intricate process in winter time and contains from 11 to 14 per cent of alcohol. It is a necessary constituent of every ceremonial Japanese dinner, is served in little, ampulla-like jars and drunk with much formality from squat, earless sake cups containing approximately about two ounces. To the European palate it tastes sour at first, but a preference for it is readily acquired. Curiously enough, it has a much more powerful effect on the Japanese than on Europeans. A stronger variety, shochu, contains from 20 to 50 per cent of alcohol. Another form, mirin, is more or less a liqueuer.—London Lancet.

The Other Way.

"Then you don't want to leave footprints upon the sands of time?"

"Nix," answered the politician guardedly. "All I want is to cover up my tracks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

RESTLESS NIGHTS FIXED HERE

Half the restless nights are caused by poor beds. We mean by poor beds the whole outfit, poor spring, hard mattress, uncomfortable pillows and unsanitary bed.

Now what's the use or reason of making your nights restless and your days miserable just because your bed isn't right. We have the bed outfits here that turn your restless nights into pleasant dreamy ones and when you rise in the morning the whole world seems different.

If you can't find it convenient to pay cash, we arrange a small weekly payment.

The sooner you own one of our soft restful mattresses made of hair or felt and a comfort spring bed, the sooner your happiness will be more complete.

BRIEFS

James Stevens of Quincy avenue is now employed at Doble's corner.

Roland Estey of Washington street leaves this week for a trip to Vermont.

Mrs. Walter A. Tallman, who was recently married, is paying her mother a short visit at her former home on Quincy avenue.

C. A. Franklin, superintendent of the Taylor Press, Boston, is now settled in his new two-story apartment house at Norfolk Downs.

H. R. Morton has purchased a house at Norfolk Downs and with his family will move from Hancock street, the first of the week.

Maple Lodge K and L of H has decided to have a float in the Fourth of July parade. The committee is working hard to make it one of the best features.

The street at the turn of the East Milton car track at the corner of Water and Franklin street, which was badly damanged by a car that ran off the track, is being repaired.

From all over the city come extra calls for the Daily Ledger, showing that the newsy home paper is appreciated. The editors are planning new features to make the paper even better each day.

N. B. Furnald probably carries off the honors this season in this vicinity for having the first dahlias in flower. He picked a full blossom Wednesday and others are nearly out. The flowers are perfect in shape and color.

Will Get Life Imprisonment

Providence, June 24.—The motion of William Trent to have set aside the verdict whereby he was convicted of the murder of William F. Meagher was denied by Justice Baker in the superior court. Trent, who is now serving a ten years' sentence for highway robbery, will be formally sentenced to life imprisonment.

Women Witness Awful Sight

Pittsburg, June 24.—John Mitchell a steel worker at the West Penn steel plant, was precipitated into a soaking pit containing a white hot ingot. His body was consumed by the metal into which it slowly sank, before the eyes of his sweetheart and mother who he had been showing about the place.

Whitney's Horse Wins Juvenile Plate

New Castle, Eng., June 24.—The Seghill, the juvenile plate of 500 sovereigns, 2-year-olds only, distance five furlongs, straight, was won by H. P. Whitney's Ballysand.

MRS. MARY CHARLTON

American Woman Whose Body Was Found In an Italian Lake

KILLED WIFE WITH MALLET

Charlton, Under Arrest at Hoboken, Makes Confession

WOMAN USED BAD LANGUAGE

Berated Him So Severely, He Says, That He Could Not Control His Temper—Struck Her on Head Two or Three Times, Placed Body In Trunk and Threw It Into Lake—Italian Government Will Seek Extradition of Young Murderer

New York, June 24.—Porter Charlton, husband of Mary S. C. Charlton, the American woman murdered and thrown into Lake Como, Italy, was arrested at Hoboken, N. J., as he landed from steamer Princess Alice and twenty-five minutes later he made a full statement, confessing that he had murdered his wife.

Charlton completely exonerated the Russian, Ispolatoff, who was arrested in Italy after the murder was discovered. Here is his confession:

"My name is Porter Charlton, 21 years old. I reside at 204 West Fifty-fifth street. My wife and I lived very happily together near Lake Como, Italy. But she had a very ungovernable temper.

"I also have an ungovernable temper. She used such degrading language that it was revolting to me to listen to it, and I know that she did not know the meaning of it. The night I killed her, her language was something terrible. I told her that she would have to stop or I would put a stop to it. She did stop for a while, but then started to berate more than ever in a very short time afterward. I struck her on the head with a wooden mallet. I struck her two or three times and thought she was dead.

"The mallet I hit her with was one that I had been using to straighten the leg of a couch that we had been using. I then put her body in the trunk and threw the mallet in with the body. I then dragged the trunk out of the house and to a small dock that was right near the house. I threw it into the lake. I then went back to the house and stayed in Como the next day. The following day I started in the direction of my own country.

"I see that Ispolatoff has been arrested, but he is entirely innocent, as he had nothing whatever to do with it. I am guilty. I have no defense and I want none."

The arrest of Charlton, and such prosecution as will follow, present some unusual questions of international law. The murder of Mrs. Charlton occurred in Italy, and it is assumed that the Italian authorities will undertake the prosecution. They asked Charlton's apprehension by the police of London, where it was thought he had sought refuge. Similar requests were made to the police at other leading transatlantic ports, and it is this general warning that led to the arrest.

The Italian authorities will seek extradition through the federal government at Washington, which in turn will make its representations to the state authorities of New Jersey.

KOHLER IS EXONERATED

"Golden Rule" Chief of Police Will Be Restored to Duty

Cleveland, June 24.—Frederick Kohler, the "Golden Rule" chief of police, who was suspended from his position by Mayor Baehr upon the filing of charges alleging drunkenness and immorality, was acquitted by the civil service commission.

The decision followed a lengthy trial. Kohler will be reinstated at once.

Washington, June 24.—R. P. Faulkner, chairman of the American commission to Liberia, has been appointed agent for the Liberian government in the negotiations looking to the refunding of the Liberian debt.

LOCKED IN DEATH GRIP

Two Women Drowned and Would-Be Rescuer Revived With Difficulty

Annisquam, Mass., June 24.—Della Healey lost her life off Annisquam in a vain attempt to save the life of Mary McKenna, who had slipped into the channel while in bathing.

Ralph Davis, who dived, clothes and all, after the two women, was also dragged under, and would have drowned with them but for the arrival of Ward Cunningham and Charles Browne.

Cunningham and Browne dived several times, finally securing all three bodies, locked together. Davis was resusciated after half an hour, but the two women failed to respond to the efforts of four doctors who were called.

Miss Healey, who was 45, and Miss McKenna, 30, were maids in the employ of Countess De San Marzano.

AGED BISHOP WEDS

Miss Jellison of Portland Becomes the Bride of Dr. Jaggar

Portland, Me., June 24.—The marriage in this city of Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Jaggar, D. D., bishop in charge of the American Episcopal churches in Europe, to Miss Mary E. Jellison of this city came as a surprise to the majority of the clergyman's friends.

Bishop Jaggar was born in New York in 1839 and from 1875 to 1905 he was bishop of southern Ohio, resigning his see on account of ill health. Later he became rector of St. Paul's church, this city.

The bishop was married in 1862 to Miss Anna L. Lawrence. She died some years ago.

The second wedding occurred at St. Luke's cathedral, this city, Rt. Rev. Robert Codman, D. D., bishop of Maine, officiating.

MRS. GLOVER AND OTHERS INDICTED

Seven Persons Accused of Concealing Hattie LeBlanc

Cambridge, Mass., June 24.—Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of Clarence F. Glover, and six of her friends were yesterday arrested on indictments charging them with being accessories after the fact to the murder of her husband at Waltham on the night of Nov. 20 last, in that they helped to conceal Hattie Le Blanc in the Glover house.

Indicted and arrested with Mrs. Glover were Samuel D. Elmore and Alton F. Tupper, her attorneys; George A. Freeman and Mrs. Frances I. Freeman, his wife, the most intimate friends of the widow; Seymour Glover, the only one of the five brothers of the murdered man who was remembered in his will, and his wife, Mrs. May Glover.

The trial of the indicted persons started with a rush. A jury was selected in a very short time. The twelve men were taken to Waltham, where they viewed the scene of the crime. They returned to Cambridge, had luncheon and were in the jury box at 3 o'clock.

WORKED FROM CELLAR

Robbers Easily Get $14,000 From Boston Bank In Broad Daylight

Boston, June 24.—Fourteen thousand dollars' worth of Austrian and Italian paper currency was stolen yesterday afternoon from the private bank of Julius Rottenburg in Salem street. Some $30,000 had been placed in a show window, where it could be seen by persons passing on the street.

The thieves had gained entrance to the cellar of the store and had cut a hole 12 by 6 inches in the bottom of the show window, and then cautiously had reached up and taken the money within grasping distance.

Thousands of persons passed the window during the afternoon but no one noticed anything amiss. Two Italians are understood to be under suspicion.

WHY COST OF LIVING IS HIGH

Conclusions Reached by the Lodge Majority Committee

MINORITY TO PROBE FURTHER

Percent of Advance In Farm Products Greatly Exceeds That of Any Other Group of Commodities—Being Produced on Much More Expensive Scale and Not Keeping Pace With Demand—Settlers on Ranges

Washington, June 24.—Senator Lodge's select committee on wages and prices of commodities made its report to the senate after a series of hearings beginning in February. The report comes from the Republican majority only, consisting of Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman; Gallinger, McCumber, Smoot and Crawford.

The Democratic minority, Senators Clarke, Johnston and Smith, have been authorized by the full committee to employ an expert and compile such a report as they may desire to make.

The three Democrats have uttered no protest against the findings of their Republican associates, but it is expected that they will avail themselves of their privilege and prepare a report which will be as useful as campaign ammunition for their party as the majority report will be for the Republicans.

The majority report, which is preliminary to a more exhaustive presentation, deals with sixteen subjects, viz: wholesale and retail prices, wages and hours of labor; increased cost of production of farm products; demand for farm products and the supply; the tariff; combinations and associations; the gold supply; labor unions; cost of distribution; cold storage; sanitary and other regulations; overcapitalization; immigration; the higher standard of living, and freight rates on the commodities of life.

Causes related to all these subjects except the tariff and also to shifting of population, reduced fertility of land, increased banking facilities, enabling farmers to hold their crops, are cited as contributing to the advance in prices.

Says the majority report: The causes of the advance can best be discussed by first indicating the groups of commodities in which the advances have occurred during the period from 1900 to 1909. The general wholesale price level in the United States represented by 257 commodities advanced 14.5 percent as follows: Farm products, 39.8; food, etc., 19.7; lumber and building materials, 19.6; miscellaneous commodities, 14.7; cloths and clothing, 12; fuel and lighting, 6.9; house-furnishing goods, 5.8; metals and implements, 4.6; drugs and chemicals declined 2.9.

The percent of advance in farm products was twice as great as the advance in any other group of commodities. The second greatest advance was in the food group, and the third greatest in lumber and building material.

The testimony of practically all witnesses who have been familiar with farm conditions is to the effect that the cost of production of farm products has risen very rapidly during the past ten years; wages of farm hands have increased on an average about 50 percent, and the original investment necessary to secure land has practically doubled during that period. The richness of the virgin soil is disappearing and in many localities the crop average can be maintained only by the use of expensive fertilizers, by rotation of crops, or by allowing the ground to lie fallow.

The supply of available government land for general farming has been materially reduced and the ranges are being rapidly cut up into homes for settlers.

The cost of production of live stock has materially increased with the disappearing of the range, which necessitates producing cattle on tame pasture and high-priced lands.

The assumption seems fair that for the products of the forest and of the farm the available supply is not keeping pace with the demand, while for manufactured articles the supply has practically kept pace with the demand. With imported articles, either not grown or produced in only a limited way in the United States, the supply appears to have slightly more than kept pace with the demand.

SYNOPSIS

A party of titled passengers on a ship bound for Australia visit a section "the ow decks" where a gang of convicts sentenced to deportation are confined. The ship, the Lord Nelson is wrecked.

(Chapter II—continued.)

A single glance told all: two of the ship's giant spars had gone by the board; entangled in her own wreckage, the vessel thumped and pounded with ominous violence against some sunken reef. Captain Macpherson groaned.

"Mr. O'Brien!" he called loudly.

"Aye, aye, sir."

"How long do you give her?"

"Half an hour, sir."

The master shook his head. "She'll nae last that long."

"Any orders, sir?" asked the chief mate.

Captain Macpherson recovered himself; his tone became once more quick and incisive. "Ye're right; I'm gone daffy. We'll get this business over in a decorous and decent manner." A number of orders followed.

As the chief mate disappeared to execute the commands he had received the harsh noises of the breaking ship, the seething of the sea about her, the flapping of canvas like helpless, broken wings, was supplemented by a babel of new and terrifying sounds, the screaming and cursing of the convicts below, their blasphemous shrieking to be let out! To this turmoil and uproar were added the frantic appeals and inquiries of the passengers who, more or less dressed, had hurried to the deck and who were now speaking to the master of the ill starred vessel. He answered them briefly. What could be done would be done.

"It's a question of the boats, I suppose?" Sir Charles, one of the calmest of the ship's cabin party, asked quickly.

"In ten minutes they'll be ready for the launching with nae lack of water and provision. Get plenty of wraps and greatcoats. It'll be a bit disagreeable nae doubt out yon in the wee craft."

The boat was soon overhauled, the lockers and water butt were filled, and the passengers, one by one, set into it. On the whole, at that moment for leaving the ship their conduct left little room for criticism. One or two of the women who had appeared on the verge of hysterics now restrained audible manifestation of emotion. Sir Charles proved a monument of helpfulness, assisted in placing the women here and there and extended a helpful hand to Lord Ronsdale, who had become somewhat dazed and inert. Total darkness added to the difficulties of their task, for the moon, which until then had shone with much luster, now went behind a curtain of cloud. But Captain Macpherson coolly called out by name the men to handle the lifeboat, and with no evidence of disorder they crowded in, none too soon. As the boat with its human freight hung in readiness for the lowering the remaining spar of the Lord Nelson fell with a mighty crash.

"Remember the name of your ship, lads!" Captain Macpherson's voice seemed to anticipate a movement of panic among the seamen on deck; if there had been any intention to rush the already well loaded boat it was stayed. "Mr. Gillett, I'll be troubling ye for the keys to the convicts' deck. Mr. O'Brien, get in and take charge. Steer southeast with a bit of rag; it's your best chance to get picked up. Hail near the ship until the other boat with the crew can come alongside. It's as well to keep company. Are the lines clear? Let her go."

The boat was lowered and at the right moment touched a receding wave. Captain Macpherson waited until the chief officer called out that they were safely away, then gave his last order:

"And now, lads, ye can be lookin' to yourselves!"

They did. The master turned and with some difficulty made his way toward the convicts' cells. Suddenly a number of mad, leaping human figures issued with horrible cries from one of the hatches.

"The life rafts!" Shrieking, calling down maledictions on the captain, they ran about, when suddenly an angry black wave swept the deck. A few went overboard with the hissing crest; several were hurled against the bulwarks, limp, lifeless things, swirled back and forth. One of their number, a big fellow of unusual strength, was shot toward the open companionway leading to the main cabin. As he plunged down he clutched at and caught the railing. Considerably shaken, dripping with water, he pulled himself together, and, raising a face, sodden and fierce, like a beast brought to bay, he looked around him. The light of one or two swinging lamps that had not yet been shattered revealed dimly the surroundings, the dark leather upholstering, the little tables. Uncertainly the convict paused; then suddenly his eyes brightened; the lustful anticipation of the drunkard who had long been denied shone from his gaze as it rested on a sideboard across the cabin.

"Bottles!" he said, steadying himself. "Rum! Well, I guess there ain't much chance for any of us, and a man's a fool to go to hell thirsty!" He had started toward the sideboard, with its bright gleaming ware and its divers and sundry receptacles of spirits and liqueurs, when suddenly his look changed and his jaw fell.

"What the"— A flow of choice billingsgate, mingled with the sailor's equally eloquent Golden Gate, completed the sentence. The convict stood stock still.

From the door of a stateroom at the far end of the cabin a figure appeared. A great shawl draped the small form. The golden hair, a flurry of tangles, floated around it. Clinging to a brass rail that ran along the side of the cabin, she approached, her eyes all alight as if well satisfied with something. Amazed beyond power of action, the man continued to gaze at her, at the tiny feet in the little pink slippers, at something she carried. "By the great horn spoon, the Christmas doll!" he muttered hoarsely. Then, forgetting his purpose, the bottles, he lurched quickly toward her.

"W'at you doin' here?" he demanded.

"I slipped out," said the child, holding the rail tighter as perforce she paused to answer. "I thought it would take only a moment."

"Slipped out?" he repeated.

"Of the lifeboat, I mean. It was dark, and they didn't see me. I just happened to think, and I had to do it. If I'd told them they mightn't have let me. It would have been very wicked if I'd gone away and forgotten. Don't you think so? And now I'm going back. Only I am afraid I've been longer than I thought I would be. The door of my stateroom seemed to stick, and I was a few minutes getting it open."

Beneath dishevele[d] masses of thick dark hair the brutish face continued to study the fairylike one. For the instant words seemed to fail him. "Do you mean," he observed, "you come back here for that measly dicky bird?"

"It isn't measly, and it isn't a dicky bird!" she answered indignantly. "And I'll thank you not to call it that. It's a love bird, and its name is Dearie."

"Dearie! Ho, ho!" The ship reeled at a dangerous angle, but the convict appeared not to notice. His voice rose in harsh, irresistible rough merriment. "Dearie! And she thanks me not to call it names! It! No bigger'n my thumb! Ho, ho!" His laughter, strange at such a moment, died abruptly. "Do you know what you've gone and done on account of what's in that cage?" he demanded, almost fiercely. "You've got left!"

"Left!" said she blankly, shrinking from him a little. "You don't mean—Oh, I thought I would be only a minute! They haven't really gone and"—

The great fingers closed on her arm. "They've gone, and the crew's gone! Both boats are gone!"

AT THE BOSTON THEATRES

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The summer opera season at the Castle Square is an immediate triumphant success. After a week of "The Mikado," which many declare to be the finest production of that opera ever seen in Boston ,the novelty will be offered of an opera that has not been given in Boston for more than fifteen years. "Rip Van Winkle" with the story of which everybody is familiar, will be staged at the Castle Square Monday evening with the same perfection that characterized the production of "The tton will be extremely picturesque who wrote "The Chimes of Normandy," and it is filled with passages of great beauty, with many beautiful solos, and with effective concerted numbers. The plot, moreover, is especially entertaining, an dit will be interesting to see good old Rip Van Winkle awake from his twenty years' sleep in the Catskill Mountains to the strains of music. The scenic production will be extermely picturesque and the costumes elaborate. In the role of Rip Van Winkle will appear William Wolff, who created the part when the opera was given at the Castle Square fifteen years ago. Mr. Wolff is an excellent actor as well as a singer, and he will give an extremely dramatic impersonation of the old Dutchman. Miss Ethel Balch will double the roles of Gretchen in the earlier part of the play with the role of her own daughter Meenie in the last act. Donald Meek and George Hassell will both have comic characters that they will act with their accustomed mirth-provoking skill, while Harry Davies, George Crampton, Clarence Chute and Vera Roberts will be seen in leading parts. The chorus will be large, and the orchestra will be under the direction of Samuel L. Studley.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Mr. Keith will inaugurate another departure at his theatre in Boston next week by the engagement of Captain Fritz Duquesne, a soldier, hunter, and author, who was selected to accompany ex-President Roosevelt on his hunting trip to Africa but was prevented from going by the British government, on account of the part he took in the Boer war. Captain Duquesne has the distinction of being one of the very few men who have been able to jump the circulation of a magazine into the hundreds of thousands and this is what he did by his stories in Hampton's magazine, entitled "Hunting Ahead of Roosevelt in East Africa." In coming to Keith's he will tell some of his experiences and in connection with them will present some moving pictures that have never been seen on this continent. In this connection it is worthy of note that Captain Duquesne was the only person who was successful in securing from the Pathe concern ,the pictures of "Jungles in Africa," that have become so widely popular since Mr. Roosevelt went there. Other features on the bill will be Jack Hazzard, comedian; James Horne and company in a sketch entitled "An Awful Fix"; the Big City Four; Cross and Josephine; and Claude M. Roode.

TREMONT THEATRE.

The weeks roll by and "The Girl In The Taxi" with Carter De Haven and its all-star cast continue to break all records at the Tremont theatre, Boston. This laughable farce is now in the eighth week of its run with capacity audiences the rule at every performance. The escapades of father, son and nephew, so admirably acted by Fred Bond, Carter De Haven and Morgan Coman, constitute the chief interest in the piece which abounds with merriment from curtain to curtain. The scene at the end of the first act wherein the nephew, (who pretends to be so ill that he is compelled to come to New York for treatment twice a year) sneaks off keep an all-night appointment with the wife of a perfume manufacturer, to be followed by Betrie's father who has also made an engagement for the evening, causes peals of laughter and arouses the keenest expectation as to what will happen in act second. What does happen is the meeting of father, son and nephew in the same restaurant, and the unexpected mix-up is embarrassing in the extreme. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees are convenient for out-of-town patrons. "The Girl In The Taxi" should not be missed.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

For next week, the second week of the summer stock season at the American Music hall, the Lindsay Morison stock company will present that most famous of all Viola Allen's successes "The Christian." This will be the first time in several seasons that "The Christian" has been seen in Boston, and it was due in a great measure to the numerous requests for its presentation by stock patrons, that Mr. Morison decided to put it on. The role of John Storm which in the original production was portrayed by Edward Morgan will be taken by Wilson Melrose. Mr. Melrose is not a stranger to the part for while a member of the Boston Theatre Stock Company, he handled it in a manner that evoked the most favorable comment from dramatic critics and the public in general. Mr. Morison's new leading lady Rosalind Coghlan who entrenched herself as a local favorite this week will essay the character of Gloria Qualye ,the part originally played by Miss Allen herself. Supplementing these two leading characters there will be a mammoth cast of seventy-five people including such well known favorites as Mary Sanders, Rose Morison, Katherine Clinton, William Hasson, Richard Pitman, Edward Nannary and S. T. Klawans. Monday matinees as usual, chooclate bon-bons will be given away to every patron and the same popular prices will rule as were inaugurated this week.

PARAGON PARK.

Paragon Park and the Palm Garden at Nantasket Beach is truly entitled to the management's designation of it as a "six-time winner." This is the sixth season and while other parks have sprung up and faded away since Paragon "burst" forth in all its glory six years ago Manager Dodge's City of Festivity, with the ocean on one side and the bay on the other and always swept by cooling breezes, has gone on growing more popular each summer until now it stands well to the front in the ranks of the foremost pleasure parks of the country. People come from miles around, by trolley, steamboat, trains, and in automobiles just to enjoy the luxury of dining in the famous Palm Garden which is famed far and wide for its cuisine, wine list, perfect service and unique attractiveness. In no place can one dine under such pleasing and altogether novel conditions. A view of the entire Park is open to the patrons of the Palm Garden within and at the tables on the broad verandas. Here one is treated to the alternating music of the Martland Military band on the lagoon and the Szatmary Viennese orchestra, assisted by the Paragon Male quartette in the garden itself. One may witness from there the wondrous array of free open air circus acts. Special fireworks displays are given every Wednesday and Saturday night , and there will be a big pyrotechnic program July 4th.

MECHANICS EXPOSITION.

Boston, this year, is to have another of the old-time Mechanics Expositions so vastly popular, of such extraordinary educational value and of such great business and commercial influence a few years ago, with the best of the reatures of former expositions brought up to date in every respect and dominated by the prevailing triumphant spirit of "1915." It will be held as usual in Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue, from 10 oclock A. M. to 10 o'clock P. M., daily excepting Sundays, from October 3 to October 29 inclusive. Saturday afternoon and evening October 1 will be devoted to the press of Boston and of New England and all of the exhibits will be in place on that day.

In many respects the coming exposition will be like the old Mechanics Fairs in that a large part of the exhibits, estimated 75 per cent, will be of the practical, working kind to be seen in the operation of running the gamut from raw material to the manufactured product. A practical illustration of a fact is worth more than a yard of statistics and this, it is proposed, will be the governing, dominating idea of the whole exposition.

It is too early to say much about details of the exhibits but among those already contracted for is an exemplification of the methods of making shoes, in which New England leads the world; another will fully illustrate the getting out of a daily newspaper for which a complete plant showing typesetting, stereotyping, printing, folding and so on, will be installed by a well-known local publishing house; another will show the process of making and ornamenting all kinds of confectionery. In every exhibit only the very latest mechanical processes andthe very latest inventions will be shown.

BRIEFS

F. Collett, West Squantum street is in Bangor, Maine, on a business trip for Jordan & Marsh of Boston.

Arthur B. Hutlman has been appointed assistant court officer at the district court, taking the place of Henry Hathorn, who is now a member of the Metropolitan police.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann McBroom was held Thursday fro mthe home of her daughter, Mrs. James Sanderson, at 4 McDonald street. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The Payson-Mitchell Co., have leased the store formerly occupied by the F. D. Fellows Co. and open for business Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. They are advertising some especially good bargains which Quincy men will not be slow to take advantge of.

Miss Edith Hoyt of Hollis avenue injured one of her limbs by slipping into a hole while bathing on the Atlantic beach Thursday afternoon. She was taken to her home in an automobile. Those in the water and on the beach at the time thought that she was joking until they heard her screams for help.

The Washington estate advertised today to be sold at public auction next Friday, offers an opportunity for investment, for every foot is available for business or residential purposes. It fronts on three streets with all the improvements, having a frontage of 115 feet on Washington street, 137 feet on Wibird street and 134 feet on Canal street. It is near City Square and Post Office.

NO SATISFACTORY BID.

Bids were opened Thursday by City Treasurer Curtis, for the purchase of the following bonds:

Holbrook School lot,	$7,700
Protection of public records,	3,000
John Hancock school heating	6,000
Houghs Neck school house	2,000
Steam roller,	3,0000
	$21,700

None of the bids received were satisfactory, and the loan was not awarded. Unless the City Treasurer is able to place the loan with private parties a new proposal for bids will be advertised.

A kind old gentleman, seeing a small boy who was carrying a lot of newspapers under his arm ,said: "Dont all those papers make you tired, my boy?"

"Naw. I don't read 'em," replied the lad.—Canadian Courier.

WEDDING AT A. O. H. HALL

Miss Lottie Lubarsky Bride of Abraham Kapplan

A largely attended Jewish wedding was solemnized Thursday evening at Hibernian hall, when Miss Lottie Lubarsky, daughter of William Lubarsky of 360 Water street became the bride of Mr. Abraham Kapplan of Lawrence. Both the bride and groom were attended by Boston friends, and the ceremony was performed by Rabbi Sandalowich of the Congregational church. In accordance with the Jewish custom the guests arrived at the hall at 5.30 and enjoyed dancing until 9 o'clock, at which time the ceremony took place. Following there was a grand march and supper. The ceremony closed with dancing.

CRAWFORD—PRATT.

Miss Annie Holbrook Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie A. Pratt of North Weymouth, and Dr. Frank Willis Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Crawford of South Weymouth, were united in marriage Wednesday at the home of the bride at 21 Curtis street, North Weymouth, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Henry C. Alvord, assisted by Rev. Frederick G. Merrill, in the presence of a large gathering of friends.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen M. Pratt, and Dr. Walter E. Caswell of Campello, a classmate of the groom at Tufts college was the best man. The ushers were Ralph Currier of Ponema, Me., Wesley Sampson of North Weymouth, Irving Smith of Holbrook and Samuel Robinson of South Weymouth.

The bride wore a white messaline with point lace trimming. She also wore a tulle veil held in place by white roses, and carried a shower bouquet of brideroses. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. A reception followed the ceremony after which Dr. and Mrs. Crawford left for a wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 386 Hancock street, Quincy.

DELIGHTFUL DAY.

The hottest day of the week was Tuesday, when the temperature at noon was 91 degrees. Every day since then the noon temperature has been dropping a little lower, until this noon the mercury reached the 81 degree mark. This ordinarily would be hot enough, but a cool breeze prevails. The indications for Saturday are that the warm wave will return.

The Origin of the "Marseillaise."

In the reign of terror under Freron and Barras, when hundreds of victims were carved by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy, was born the hymn of France, composed by Rouget de l'Isle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed, and the next morning his hostess, the wife of the mayor of Strassburg, tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the orchestra of the theater played it in the square of Strassburg, where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. Rouget called it a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers, mostly assassins, who marched out of Marseilles to Paris, where it was appropriated by the capital and called the "Hymne des Marsellais." But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty.—Deshler Welch in Harper's Magazine.

Westminster Hall.

Westminster hall, England's old hall of the king's justice, is one of the world's notable historical shrines. Built four centuries before Columbus sailed for America, burned, restored, remodeled, it has seen more history in the making than perhaps any other building west of Rome. Here some of the early parliaments met, and here the second Edward was expelled from his throne. Here Richard II. was deposed, Charles I. condemned and Cromwell hailed as lord protector, whose head, if the legend is authentic, was afterward exposed from one of the hall's pinnacles. Westminster hall was the scene of the trial of Warren Hastings. In it sentence of death was pronounced on William Wallace, Sir Thomas More, Somerset, Essex, Strafford and Guy Fawkes.—New York World.

Not New.

"Electricity isn't a modern discovery. It is as old as the flood."

"How do you make that out?"

"Why, didn't Noah have to have ark lights?"

PLAYING THE OLD GAME

Enlarged Pictures Free a Great Temptation to Many

People should be careful how they give prized photographs to traveling agents for enlargement for the chances are if they get them back again at all it will not be until a good-sized sum is expended for a frame. This kind of a skin game is not a new one, and is worked at periodically. Just now happens to be one of the periods, and several parties who have given up pictures for enlargement are looking anxiously for them.

Usually the first agent tells you that it will cost you nothing to have the picture enlarged as the company to advertise its work, is to give away a certain amount of enlarged pictures free.

A few days later the second man appears on the scene. He has picture frames for sale ranging from $3 upwards. These he will, if desired, sell on the installment plan. If you buy a frame you doubtless may get the photograph back. If, however, no frame is wanted, the chances are ten to one that your photograph is gone and can not be found.

MAKARIA VS. BROOKLINE

Saturday Makaria will play the Brookline Aspinwalls and a fast interesting game is expected at Merrymount park at 3.30 P. M. Stan Bates Makarias old reliable south-paw will twirl the sphere into young Artis, the new receiver for the local team who will fill Troupe's place.

On Saturday, July 2, the Makarias will go to Norwell and line up against the town team, and as Makaria defeated Norwell last season a corking good game can be looked for. The team will leave Quincy on the electrics and take a four horse tally-ho from East Weymouth for Norwell. All followers of the team are invited, and as it is a fine ten-mile drive a good time is assured. Any one wishing full particulars about game will receive same by writing to P. H. Frohwein, Mgr., Box 222, Quincy.

SPORTING CHAT.

Dorchester and the Copeland club in the Norfolk County league meet at the water street grounds Saturday.

* * *

The Athletic Committee for the Fourth of July celebration has a job on its hands. The Makarias, Copelands and Atlantics all claim the championship of Quincy and two of the three teams will play on the Fourth. The Makarias and Atlantics will play at Merrymount Park for the gate receipts, but Copeland refuses to play unless for a purse of $50, as they have to pay the players. The committee will have to decide which teams shall play without causing friction.

* * *

Mr. Neary who is in charge of the Fore River apprentices expects to take a few prizes from the Fourth of July meet. His runners are all fast men, who have made records in the inter-scholastic league in Boston, and ought to do something.

* * *

A number of athletes who will be in the Boston Common games the morning of the Fourth are coming to Quincy immediately after the Boston meet to compete here.

* * *

If the water-sports committee can get Greene of Brookline gym to show at Houghs Neck they will have a great attraction for the holiday.

* * *

"Rube" Hollis, until recently connected with the Daily Ledger, was a member of the advisory board of the Granite City League. As he has left town the league will have to elect a new man.

OTHER YANKEES WARMLY GREETED

Grant, Dewey and Bryan Share Honors With Roosevelt.

NATION WELCOMES SOLDIER.

Hero of Appomattox Given Ovation From Pacific to Atlantic—Victor of Manila Feted by New York—Democratic Leader's Reception Partisan but Vigorous In Character.

The reception given Colonel Roosevelt on his arrival in New York recalls the welcomes to General Ulysses S. Grant on his return from a tour of the world in 1879, to Admiral George Dewey on his return from Manila bay in September, 1899, and to William Jennings Bryan following his tour of Europe in August of 1906.

General Grant and Admiral Dewey were given greetings marked with patriotic enthusiasm such as belong to distinguished men whose achievements were on the battlefield, while that to Mr. Bryan was largely a tribute from political adherents and admirers.

General Grant on his return from his triumphant tour of the world in 1879, the year following his retirement from the presidency of the United States, reached San Francisco from Yokohama on Sept. 20. He came in the steamship City of Tokyo and was transferred to one of the ship's boats, which brought him ashore.

Grant's Welcome Nation Wide.

In General Grant's honor was given the biggest naval parade in San Francisco's history. As it passed in review cannons in the harbor forts boomed a salute of twenty-one guns. From the wharf to his hotel the distinguished ex-president and soldier was driven in an open carriage and was greeted by thousands of enthusiastic San Franciscans who lined the way. That night a parade was given in his honor, and the city was illuminated and fireworks were set off

On his journey east with Mrs. Grant he was given banquets and receptions and greeted with every manifestation of enthusiasm in the different cities in which he stopped. The journey was interrupted by a visit of several weeks to his old home in Galena, Ill.

Returning from his memorable victory over the Spanish fleet at Manila bay, Admiral Dewey reached American waters on Sept. 26, 1899, with the flagship Olympia. The next day the Olympia dropped anchor off Tompkinsville, and Admiral Dewey was welcomed on board by Mr. Roosevelt, then governor of New York, on behalf of the people of the state. He was next greeted by a committee of city officials and citizens, who outlined the reception in his honor. Mayor Van Wyck visited Admiral Dewey on the Olympia the next day.

The Dewey celebration lasted two days. On Friday, Sept. 29, a grand naval pageant, consisting of war vessels, merchant marine and private yachts, was held, and on Saturday there was a land parade.

Dewey Given Loving Cup.

The program on Saturday began at 7 o'clock, when a reception committee visited Admiral Dewey on board the Olympia. The admiral was landed at the Battery at 8 o'clock and there was met by another committee and a guard of honor consisting of a squadron of mounted policemen. He was escorted to the city hall and there received a loving cup, the gift of the city. The admiral next visited Grant's tomb on board the steamer Sandy Hook, and later luncheon for 500 guests was served on board the vessel.

The land parade followed at 1 o'clock. After passing through the Dewey arch at the north entrance of Fifth avenue and Washington square, which was erected to commemorate the victory at Manila bay, the admiral reviewed the parade from a reviewing stand at Madison square. There were in line 32,800 marchers, consisting of soldiers, sailors, militiamen and civic organizations.

Other features of the celebration consisted of night pageants, the harbor, North and East rivers for miles being illuminated, together with pyrotechnic displays on land and water.

Mr. Bryan was given an affectionate greeting by thousands of his admirers when he returned from his memorable European trip on Aug. 30, 1906, but his reception was not characterized by the spectacular features which have made of lasting memory and significance the homecomings of his fellow Americans mentioned.

Niagara 9,000 Years Old?

To the question, "How old are the Niagara falls?" geologists have returned replies varying by tens of thousands of years. At first it was estimated that the Niagara river came into existence through changes in the level of the land around the great lakes about 55,000 years ago. Later this was reduced to only 12,000 years. Lyell increased the estimate again to 35,000 years, and still later other scientists lowered it to about 9,000 years.

Sent Laundry to Holland.

In the sixteenth century clothes were sent from all parts of France to be washed in Holland, where the water of the canals was supposed to have special cleansing properties. The cost of transport was about ten times greater in those days than at present.

The Social Breakfast.

A London newspaper wonders why we no longer invite people to breakfast. The reason is to be found in the state of mind that usually possesses the free and independent citizen at that hour in the morning, a state of mind that makes him unbearable to himself and to every one who comes near him. Presumably it was not ever so, for invitations to breakfast were once common enough, and not so long ago either. Mr. Gladstone used to have guests to breakfast every Thursday morning as recently as 1884, and it was thought sufficient to supply tea and coffee, eggs, bread and butter and perhaps some cold meat. But the really solid breakfast had come into fashion long before then, and it is said that the English learned the fashion from the Scotch. Motley, when he was ambassador to England, found that the substantial breakfast was grievously opposed to the simpler customs of his own country. He says, "When I reflected that all these people would lunch at 2 and dine at 8 I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp."—Argonaut.

Big Clocks.

The big clock of the Metropolitan tower at Madison square, New York, is by long odds the costliest and most elaborate public timepiece ever constructed and is the only great clock in the world operated wholly by electricity without the touch of human hands. Some of its other wonders are its size, being the largest four dial tower clock and the third largest clock of any size in the world, and its altitude, which is the highest of any clock in the world. It has also the biggest and heaviest striking bell.

The other three largest clocks are the one face dial of the Colgate factory in Jersey City, which is forty feet across, the next in size of mammoth public chronometers being the dial at St. Bombort's, in the old city of Malines, in Belgium, which is thirty-nine feet across. St. Peter's of Zurich, Switzerland, has a dial face twenty-nine feet, and then in order comes the Metropolitan tower clock, which is twenty-six feet six inches in diameter.

Tennyson Disturbed.

This story is told in Robert H. Sherard's book "My Friends the French:"

"A granddaughter of Wordsworth, being full of admiration for the young poet who was to succeed her grandfather in laureate honors, was once taken to see Mr. Tennyson by Mrs. Taylor, the wife of another poet of some distinction. Tennyson received them very badly, showing great irritation at being disturbed, and when Mrs. Taylor rallied him on his manner he said: 'Madam, I am a poor man, and as I can't afford to buy the Times I hire it from the stationer's. He charges me a penny for it, which entitles me to keep it for an hour. Why will people always select just that hour to come and call upon me?' After which he flung out of the room, leaving Mrs. Tennyson to apologize for his brusquerie."

TWO SIDES OF COAL CONTROVERSY

A Piece of Imposition for School Committee to Go Out of Town, Says Mr. Sheppard

Chairman Miller Says He is Opposed to Paying Bonuses

SHEPPARD INTERVIEW

Eben W. Sheppard, of the firm of J. F. Sheppard & Sons, when asked what he had to say about the awarding of the contract for coal for the schools by the School Committee, said that he considered it a piece of imposition to go out of town for coal for the schools when there was so little difference between the local dealers and the one from out of town. He had been informed by a member of the School Committee that a representative of the Neponset River Co. had been to see every man of the School Committee in regard to the bids, and that the excuse this representative made for wanting the contract was that it would give him a better standing among the citizens of Quincy.

When asked what he had to say to the statement, that the advertisement of the School Committee call for bids for the whole amount or any part of the amount needed, Mr. Sheppard said that he had bid on the whole contract and not on a part of it. He had written the School Committee refusing to take part of the contract as awarded him, as he did not see why he was bound to take a part of it. If the School Committee are to decide its awards by parcels why not advertise for bids for four tons only.

Several years ago the School Committee had asked him if he was willing to divide the contract and he had said that he was. The same question was asked the Neponset Co., and they refused. They wanted the whole or none and they got the whole. Two years ago I was the lowest bidder on New River coal, but the School Committee refused this, as they wanted Georgie's creek. As a matter of fact the two coals are on a par, although all steamship companies prefer New River to Georgie's creek for steaming purposes.

As a matter of fact, on the present bids, the difference between my firm and the Neponset Co., was exactly $13.70. The amount of Georgie's Creek coal, as published, stated the amount to have been 651 tons. These figures were evidently transposed, for the amount of Georgie's Creek coal was 90 tons less, that is 561, so that the difference in the total figures for furnishing the whole contract was but $13.70 as stated.

Now it seems rather a small piece of business for the School Committee to send a $3,000 contract out of town to a non-taxpayer, when the difference was less than two cents per ton. My firm pays the City of Quincy on the total amount of business we do in taxes what is equivalent to 8 cents a ton. We employ Quincy labor who spent their money in Quincy. They do not. We buy all of our supplies in Quincy, such as hay and grain, and have our horse shoeing and repairs done in Quincy. They do not.

Therefor I say that it is a soak on the people of Quincy for the School Committee to give the contract to an out of town party. If the contract had gone to Mr. Cashman, Mr. Sheppard said, he would not have a word of fault to find, or in fact to any other Quincy firm, but he felt that he was justified in making a kick at the way the present contract had been awarded.

There was no money in the contract for anyone at the figures given. His system of figuring on this contract was to take the total cost per ton for doing business plus the cost of the coal. In this case it was figured 38

MILLER LETTER

An interview was sought with John L. Miller, the chairman of the School Committee, but he preferred to write a letter, which follows:

Editor Daily Ledger:

My attention has been called to an editorial in a local sheet in regard to the School Committee letting the contract for coal to an out of town firm. As this sheet appears to make no effort to get facts before it uses the type, I consider it is not worthy of being classed as a newspaper.

In regard to the coal contracts, the School Committee advertised for bids for the coal for the school buildings. The advertisement put no restrictions on any one from out of town bidding. One out of town firm bid, and on the whole contract they were some $13.70 lower. If it was only $3.00 and no charges against them they were entitled to the contract.

The committee was honestly divided in the vote and it was a tie, and I as chairman voted for fair play in business, as the advertisement called for the delivery of the total or a part thereof, they voted to give the out of town firm the soft coal, for which their bid was the lowest, and a local firm the hard coal ,as they were the lowest on that. In letting it in that way we could save approximately $85.00, but as the local firm has notified us that they would not hold to their bid on the hard cotl this of course only makes a saving of $13.70 on the face of it, but there are other conditions to consider.

In 1908 the out-of-town firm had the contract and the committee had an inspector to see the coal weighed. That year the coal was put in so promptly that it only cost $83.00 for this man's services. In 1909 the contract was let to local firms at a banus of $128.00 and it cost $139.00 for the inspector.

The out of town firm puts all the coal in a building in one day and puts in the windows, and cleans up after them, so there is no more dirt or bother. The local firms were as long as five weeks putting it into some buildings, from the first to the last load. One building came very near having a freeze up on account of having no coal. There was no coal in the bin, but after an urgent hurry up call a load arrived. These are conditions that are not pleasant and are not good business methods.

As for the sheets throwing in its insinuation about one member being opposed to organized labor, why did it not name the man? If they mean me, then all I have to say is that organized labor knows where I stand. I have been dealing with committees of organized labor for thiry years and they will say, as they have said, I was fair and did not go behind a tree to give my opinion, no currying favors or looking for votes, but always willing to give the other fellow a square deal. I never asked any man to vote for me for any office, and I never expect to, yet I appreciate what honor they have placed on me.

I will always vote for the best interest of the city, as I see it, and if the citizens don't want that kind of business the remedy is in their own hands. I shall never believe I was elected to any office to do my friends a good turn.

I can see no reason why our local dealers cannot do as well as outsiders. They ought to have as good facilities, but the facts are, they have not done so well in the past.

As for home trade, I believe in all

FIVE PLANS FOR SCHOOL

Now Under Consideration by School Committee

A special meeting of the School Committee was held Friday evening to consider plans for the new school building at Montclair. The plans have now been eliminated to five, and at the regular meeting of the Committee next Tuesday, the selection will be made. No action was taken on the coal contract.

ROUTE OF PARADE

Not Yet Determined by Fourth of July Committee

Arrangements will be made by the Fourth of July committee and the street railway company, so that the parade and the street cars will not interfere with each other.

The parade will probably form on Adams street, and advantage will be taken of the numerous side streets near Presidents bridge.

The police will no doubt make their own arrangements but will afford ample protection to the procession.

The subject of the route of the procession is the cause of some deliberation. There are so many things which must be kept in mind while laying it out, such as width of streets, degree of turns, grade of inclines, etc. However, the route will be decided on soon to admit of publication for the benefit of those interested.

The method of judging the various entries was also discussed, and it was decided to allow the judges to decide this among themselves. Badges for eighteen judges were authorized.

Except for the matter of the rout of the parade the committee is through with its work, though of course little details will arise from time to time.

PICTURES PRESENTED TO HIGH SCHOOL

By Class of 1910 which Organized an Alumni Association on Class Day Yesterday

History of Class Read, Also an Interesting Prophecy

With a "class party" last evening the Class of 1910 bid adieu to the Quincy High school with many pleasant recollections of four years of school life.

In the early part of the evening exchanges of pictures took place. A committee of eight was elected to have full charge of reunions, which included Bertha Given, Leon Brown, Russell Bates, Lillian Meade, Gordon Jameson, Richard Favorite, Stanley Churchill and Alfred Hanson. The committee met after the exercises and chose Leon Browne as chairman and Bertha Given secretary of the Alumni committee.

Gordon Jameson the class historian read the class history. It was very cleverly writen in verse, and portrayed the many events associated with the class from the first year, when the class was separated in dif-

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

"It pays to advertise," Ask Payson-Mitchell Co. They were convinced early today that the people saw their half page "Ad" in the Daily Ledger.

We hope someone will call on Acting Mayor Curtis for a speech while he is in the executive chair. Perhaps he can explain why the city did not receive any bids for bonds which were offered for sale this week.

That naval men like to show a little authority is shown at Winthrop where the commander of the fortifications defies the laws of the town and the State and says Sunday base ball games will not stop.

The Congressional contest will have new interest next fall with ex-Congressman McNary making a bid for the nomination. The vote of 1908 has also encouraged the Republicans, who believe it will be easy to overcome the plurality of four votes.

The Class of 1910 of the Quincy High school are having many happy events this week. They now realize more keenly that school days are happy, and have also formed a warm attachment for the Quincy High, and an appreciation of what the city is doing for its boys and girls.

The letter of Chairman Miller of the School Committee, and the interview with Eben W. Sheppard, the coal dealer, add interesting chapters to the coal controversy, and both a e worthy of consideration. We are nevertheless an advocate of home trade for it means everything to the business interests of the city. Even where the city pays a little more to the home merchant, it is a gainer rather than a loser. It is the home merchants who contribute to Fourth of July celebrations, the Bowles banquet, the Y. M. C. A., the City Hospital, the churches, the Anti-Tuberculosis camp, the Board of Trade, and all celebrations and efforts to boom the city. We might obtain cheaper stone than Quincy granite for our public buildings, but nevertheless Quincy granite should have the preference every time.

BAGLEY—LAIRD.

It is of interest to many people in Quincy that the little girl who left Wollaston soon after the sudden death of her father the Reverend James P. Bagley of the Wollaston Unitarian church, has attained womanhood and was married on Friday June seventeenth. The wedding occurred near her home in Toronto at the Episcopal church in the most beautiful weather and with a large attendance of near friends. Miss Marion B. Bagley and her husband Gordon P. Laird are Unitarians, but that church is closed for the season and the pastor is vacationing in Europe, so the ceremony was performed by the rector of the near-by church.

The old-time legend was observed prettily that says that the bride must wear "Something old and something new, Something borrowed, something blue." The new is always abundant but the old and borrowed was provided in a lovely lace veil loaned for the occasion and the blue by the aquamarine combined with pearls in the beautiful necklace presented by the groom. The bride wore a white satin gown and carried an exquisite bouquet, also the gift of her husband. The bridesmaid Miss Violet Summerhayes, formerly the tennis champion of Canada wore cream lace over cream satin and a picture hat. She carried a large bouquet of pink roses. The mother Mrs. Bagley wore grey silk and carried a large bunch of mauve sweet peas to match the plumes in her hat. The groom's brother acted as best man and the bride's brother Howard, a straight manly fellow and who resembles his father very closely passed up the church aisle with his sister and at the proper time in the ceremony gave her to the groom with great dignity. After the ceremony the most intimate friends were entertained at the home. Mr. and Mrs. Laird went to Niagara Falls for a brief honeymoon.

They were unable to accept the invitation tendered by their Wollaston friends for a honeymoon trip including receptions, dinners, etc., because Mr. Laird has a responsible position in the Canadian Bank of Commerce and at this time cannot be long absent. They will take a longer journey in August and spend the month at Muskoka.

The wedding gifts were numerous and many of them very costly. Gifts were received from friends in India, England and the United States. The gift included almost everything in silver from a tea-set to little individual pieces. There were many presents of copper and brass and a large quantity of cut glass in great variety. Table linen and other gifts were received including a fine framed portraist in colors of herself and some checks. The bride acknowledged promptly the gifts from Wollaston which pleased her particularly, because she was still kept in remembrance. She hopes to renew acquaintance with these friends of her childhood.

In this connection it is interesting to know that Howard Bagley has had fine opportunities in England's best schools and in France and is now employed in the Imperial Bank, Toronto. He is loyal to his birthplace and hopes at some time to be able to return to the States and fit himself professionally for permanent residence here. The many friends of the Bagleys wish them the greatest possible success.

SENT TO PENITENTIARY

North Conway's Thieving Postmaster Must Also Pay Fine of $4916

Concord, N. H., June 25.—Arthur W. Charles, recently postmaster at North Conway, pleaded guilty in the United States court here to the embezzlement of government funds. Judge Aldrich imposed a sentence of three years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and a fine of $4916, the amount of his embezzlement.

Petitions for leniency, very generally signed by residents of North Conway and vicinity, were received by the court in connection with the case.

TRIED TO KEEP VISIT SECRET

Roosevelt Has Conference With Garfield and Pinchot

BOTH ARE VALUED ADVISERS

Supposed to Have Discussed Controversy Which Led to Opposition to Taft Administration—Oyster Bay Paper Says They Talked Over Plans For Forming New National Party—Rough Riders Make a Patriotic Call

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 25.—Theodore Roosevelt held a long conference with James R. Garfield, his secretary of the interior, and Gifford Pinchot, the chief forester, whom President Taft deposed. But what they said and what bearing, if any, their talk had on the national political situation is known only to themselves. Every precaution was taken to keep it all a profound secret.

That the two men who were such close friends and valued advisers of Roosevelt during his years in the White House did talk politics, and explained their side of the controversy which placed them in opposition to the Taft administration, is conjectured here.

Oyster Bay, which is somewhat self-conscious politically, took no end of interest in the visit of Garfield and Pinchot, and Roosevelt's home paper, the Oyster Bay Pilot, appeared in an editorial utterance to the effect that Roosevelt, Pinchot and Garfield were very busy forming a new national party.

Garfield and Pinchot, who on their arrival Thursday night refused to discuss the subject of their visit, were as elusive as ever when they left town yesterday afternoon. Medill McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, who came down from New York in a big touring car, took them back with him, dodging interviewers.

In addition to Garfield, Pinchot and McCormick, Roosevelt yesterday had with him Jack Greenway of Colerraine, Minn., Captain Borein of California, William McGinty of Ripley, Okla., E. E. Emerson of Boston, all old Rough Rider comrades; Leslie Parlton and Claude Tritton, Englishmen, who organized his African expedition, and Francis J. Heney, the San Francisco graft prosecutor. Heney is another man who in an indirect way was connected with the Roosevelt administration, having prosecuted the Oregon land fraud cases.

The Rough Riders went to Sagamore Hill on a mission of patriotism. The four of them donned their uniforms in New York at sunrise, ferried across the East river, then rode all the way to Oyster Bay on cow ponies. They bore the Rough Riders' dearest possessions, the regimental flags which they carried on their charge up San Juan hill, and a guidon, a cavalry flag, which was presented to Roosevelt in behalf of the Grand Army of the Republic of Oklahoma.

Their horses were tired after their 35-mile trip, and the riders rested until 6 o'clock before starting back.

IN EFFECT JULY 23

New Haven Road Files New Passenger Tariffs at Washington

Washington, June 25.—Material advances in straight passenger fares—one-trip tickets—were announced by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company by the filing of tariffs with the interstate commerce commission.

The new tariffs will become effective July 23, unless they should be suspended by the commission.

While the increase may be considered as general throughout the system, they do not affect all points in the system. For instance, there are no advances from New York city to way points.

In some instances there are increases over the rates made by the tariffs effective May 1, which generally provided for advances.

ANNULMENT REFUSED

Marriage of Artist Earle to "Affinity" Wife Is Declared Binding

New York, June 25.—Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald signed an order refusing to indorse the referee's report recommending annulment of the marriage beween Ferdinand P. Earle and his "affinity wife," Julia Kuttner Earle.

Mrs. Earle had asked for annulment on the ground that Earle was not divorced from his first wife when he married her.

cents per ton or less, so that one could see how much profit there was in the job.

Mr. Sheppard further said that he had been informed that the sub-committee on supplies had recommended that the contract be awarded in Quincy, and that the School Committee had taken a vote on the question, fhich stood four for Quincy and four for an out of town man, and that the chairman of the Schoo! Committee had settled the tie by voting in favor of the out-of-town firm. In conclusion Mr. Sheppard said that his bid called for a total of $3,109.15, while that of the out of town man was $3,095.45 a difference of $13.70 in favor of the out of town man.

Other interviews and letters on the coal controversy may be expected in the Daily Ledger of Monday.

Mr. Editor, I think I have trespassed on your space, but I felt that the citizens should know the facts of the coal award, so they can give an intelligent judgment, without being hoodwinked by a sheet that would pose as a divider instead of a welder of the people of our city. There are divisions enough, the Lord knows without its help.

I have the honor to be

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Quincy Citizen.

Is your back lame and painful?
Does it ache especially after exertion?
Is there a soreness in the kidney region?
These symptoms indicate weak kidneys:
There is danger in delay.
Weak kidneys fast get weaker.
Give your trouble prompt attention.
Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.
They strengthen weak kidneys.
Read this Quincy testimony.

Mrs. J. Boyle, 8 Marsh street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can say they are unequalled for kidney disorders. They built up my entire system and in six weeks, freed me from kidney complaint from which I had suffered for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

• • •

Miss Etta M. Prescott and Mrs. Russell C. Low of Spear street were guests on Monday afternoon at a reception and tea given to neighborhood friends by Mrs. George Rice at her beautiful home in Westwood, which was formerly the Joshua Fisher estate and owned for many years by the family of the late Mrs. George W. Prescott.

• • •

John Paul Jones Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution of Boston are to have an outing at Squantum on Thursday, June 30, with a dinner at half past six. Members of the Professional Women's club will also participate in the outing.

• • •

Mrs. Ama K. Lee of Prospect avenue left Tuesday for Brentwood, Long Island, to be the guest of Madame Lee for the summer.

• • •

Lillian Sutherburg returned Thursday from Chever, New Hampshire, where she has been teaching.

• • •

The J. Edward Glovers of Washington street have gone to Nantasket where they are to spend the summer. Mr. Glover is connected with Swithen & Merrill, large dealers in Nantasket real estate.

• • •

Mrs. William L. Thomas entertained a party of ladies at bridge Thursday at her home on South street, which incidentally gave them an opportunity to admire her roses. Mrs. Thomas has quite a number of rose bushes which include jacks, killarney and other varieties. These are now in full bloom and make a very handsome sight.

• • •

Miss Ella Ames Horton leaves June 28th for Ripley, N. Y., where she will be the guest of Miss Grace Mahle. Miss Mahle, who is well-known in musical circles in Boston as well as Ripley, will give a recital on July 1st at which Miss Horton will be the assisting pianist.

• • •

Miss Dorothy J. Roberston of Hyde Park is the guest for a week of Miss Ferris Titus of Warren avenue.

Hon. Russell A. Sears and family of Glendale road left Thursday for West Dennis on the Cape, where they will pass the summer.

EXTRAVAGANT SUM.

Editor of Daily Ledger:

I read with interest your comments on the large amount of order for Trafford street. What is our Council thinking of to vote such amounts for ordinary repairs, which should be made one of ordinary appropriations? The street is in better condition than most of our streets, especially the main streets, and if the Commissioner recommended those figures he should take his pencil again,

RAILROAD FARES UP.

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. has filed at Washington notice of advances in one-trip tickets. Whether these affect Quincy locally is not known. If they do not increase the fare to Boston they may increase fares to the South Shore, Cape Cod and other points.

AN AUTO TRIP.

Fred Barnicoat took a party of South Quincy gentlemen on a automobile trip to Niantic and Westerly, R. I. on Thursday. In the party were George H. Field, Mr. Jackson of the Quincy Quarries Co., and Charles Barnicoat. The run of 200 miles was made in Mr. Barnicoat's Columbia without a hitch. At Westerly, the Crumb quarry, owned by Mr. Barnicoat, which comprises 50 acres, was visited, and was pronounced a most excellent quarry by Mr. Jackson who is an expert.

ferent buildings until the completion of the new building and through the graduation exercises. Mention was made of the headmasters the class has had, Mr. Charles F. Harper the first year, Mr. Leslie Cleveland the second and third, and until February of this year, and Mr. James Howlett, the present headmaster. The teachers who had left were referred to by the historian.

Although history is presumed by some to be a bit dry, Jameson showed that it is not necessarily so, for by a masterly moulding of the material the entire composition was very witty. Continued applause greeted its production.

Next in order was a two step with Mr. Wilson at the piano. Then Marion Hicks gave the "Class Prophecy" in a most humorous vein. An imaginary tour was taken of many cities and towns where members of the class were found in very diverse occupations. Naturally there were not a few hits in this pleasant feature.

There were games for the remainder of the evening interspersed with singing and dancing. Miss Sallsman was matron.

Refreshments of frappe and ice cream were served. Cheers were given for Mr. Howlett, president Corey, treasurer Leon Browne, Russell Bates, captain of the school teams; the classes of 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, and 1914. The exercises concluded with the singing of "America."

Opportunity was given to see the class gift which included five pictures depicting places and persons famous in French history. The pictures will be placed in the French room. The pictures were: Notre Dame, Conciergine, Jeanne D'Arc, Marie Antoinette, Victor Hugo and are indeed appropriate for such a room.

The evening was pronounced by all to be enjoyable in the highest degree.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.

Frederic W. Plummer, who was elected as master of the Chelsea High school, has tendered his resignation as master of the Woodward Institute, which has been accepted with regret. The Woodward directors have taken no actions as yet on filling the vacancy but will probably next week.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Thursday evening the Jolly Sixteen met for one more of their surprise parties, this time visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hammond, Quincy Point, it being the occasion of their thirteenth anniversary. The men of the club decided to see who could find the most original costume to wear. They succeeded so well it was hard to judge who was the prize winner. Mr. Stoddard's and Mr. Dexheimer's were both so remarkable for cut and style the judges were compelled to defer their decision.

Mr. Stoddard in behalf of the club ladies presented Mrs. Hammond with a handsome automobile, and members are now looking forward to their promised auto ride. They also gave Mr. and Mrs. Hammond a beautiful oak rocker, the presentation speech being made by Mrs. John Smith. Whist was enjoyed for two hours, souvenirs being given to Mrs. Dexheimer, Mrs. Howes, Mr. Hammond and Mr. Smith.

Clam chowder, crackers, cake, coffee, pickles and fruit punch were served, and as the hour of midnight sounded, the jolly club wended their way homeward, with another pleasant evening added to their long list of surprise parties, each asking the other, Who next?

NEW STORE OPENED.

The new gents' furnishing store of the Payson-Mitchell Co. in City Square, formerly occupied by the F. D. Fellows Co., opened its doors to the public this morning. Many stores o nthe opening day present souvenirs, but this company omit these oftentimes useless articles, and in their place offer some rare bargains in the line for furnishings for men and boys that will be a more lasting remembrance of the new enterprise. The store is tastefully arranged and a fine display of seasonable goods are displayed to advantage on the counters. Among the articles shown are many bargains that the careful buyer will readily recognize and will doubtless take advantage of. A large corps of clerks are on duty today. All are well Quincy young men, who know what the men of Quincy want, and who will attend carefully to their wants. A large number are availing themselves of the bargains offered.

McNARY IS IN THE FIELD

Announces His Candidacy for Congress in Tenth

A dispatch from the Washington correspondent of the Globe says:

Ex-Representative William S. McNary of Boston will be a candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination in the 10th district against Representative O'Connell.

Mr. McNary spent today here talking over the matter with friends. He conferred with Representatives Lloyd and Clark of Missouri, respectively chairman of the Democratic congressional committee and leader of the minority. He also saw members of the Massachusetts delegation.

Mr. McNary believes this is a Democratic year in Massachusetts. He says the next Governor will be a Democrat, although he is not prepared to say who the nominee will be. Mr. McNary says that the Democratic prospects in several congressional districts are good.

He was cordially greeted by old friends in the house, many of whom scarcely recognized him at first, owing to the absence of the beard with which they were familiar for a number of years.

Mr. McNary served several terms in congress and was succeeded by Representative O'Connell in 1907. Mr. McNary says he likes the life here. He retired from congress to enter business.

Mr. McNary's announcement of his candidacy was received with interest.

Representative O'Connell was not surprised to hear that ex-Representative McNary would run against him.

"There has been talk of Mr. McNarys congressional aspiration for two months,' s'aid Mr. O'Connell. "The only comment I have to make is that I expect to return to Boston soon after congress adjourns and to enter upon a vigorous campaign for renomination and reelection. I expect to be nominated and reelected despite Mr. Mc Nary. As to what backing McNary will have I cannot say."

BRIEFS

The Squantum Yacht club have a club race scheduled for June 26 at 12 o'clock.

Miss Ruth Hardy of Wollaston who has been studying music at Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio ,the past winter will sing at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday morning. She will sing, Dudley Buck's "My "Redeemer and My Lord."

The Hospital Aid Association will meet with Mrs. J. Henry Emery, Adams street, on Thursday, June 30, at half after two o'clock. As this is the last of the monthly meetings until the autumn a large attendance is hoped for.

The annual parish picnic of Christ church Sunday school is to be held next Thursday, June 30, at Glen Echo park. Box lunches are to be taken and cake and ice cream will be supplied. Special cars will be taken at the church. Much interest is being taken in the sporting events.

GARDEN PARTY.

The garden party of St. Theresa's parish, West Roxbury, will be held on the grounds of the rectory, Saturday, July 9. No doubt this affair will be of much interest to Quincy people, as Rev. Julian E. Johnstone, a former curate of St. John's church is now assistant pastor at St. Theresa's church. It is hoped that a large number of Fr. Johnstone's friends will embrace this opportunity of spending a pleasant day with him to remind him of the strong tie which exists between this brilliant young priest and his former parishioners of St. John's church.

ALMOST A DOUBLE MURDER

Two Little Girls Locked In Freight Car For Seventy-Two Hours

New York, June 25.—Unconscious, yet locked in each other's arms, two little Italian girls were found lying on the floor of a freight refrigerator car on the Lackawanna railroad at Seacaucus, N. J., near Hoboken. They had been shut in the car at Buffalo by malicious boys and had made the journey in their prison without food or water. Stimulants were administered and both regained consciousness. They will recover.

The victims of this prank are Mary Monia and Nunzia Bifulco, 10 and 8 years old respectively, both of Buffalo. Physicians regard the children's survival of the ordeal as remarkable. They were in the car nearly seventy-two hours, the atmosphere stifling, the car bumping over the rails and jarring their frail bodies. They were lured into their moving prison by the promise of finding bananas.

BANKER GOES TO PRISON

Received Deposit When He Knew His Institution Was Insolvent

Binghamton, N. Y., June 25.—Charles P. Knapp, one of the firm of Knapp Bros., private bankers of Deposit, which failed at the time the Binghamton Trust company's doors were also closed, was convicted of receiving a deposit in his bank on the day before it closed, knowing at the time that the bank was insolvent. Knapp was sentenced to Auburn prison for not less than fifteen months nor more than two years.

The failure of Knapp Bros. was due to excessive and unsecured loans to the Outing magazine publishers, and it was the crash of the banking firm that caused the suspension and subsequent liquidation of the Binghamton Trust company.

COLEMAN GOES TO JAIL IN AUTOMOBILE

Shows but Little Emotion, While His Relatives Break Down

Greenfield, Mass., June 25.—Showing but little emotion, although his cheeks were wet with the tears of his father, George W. Coleman, the self-confessed embezzler of $300,000 from the National City bank of Cambridge, where he was a bookkeeper, turned from the kisses of his weeping father and brother to Jailer Richardson on arriving at the Franklin county jail and began to serve the fifteen-year sentence as a federal prisoner.

While his measurements were being taken in the guard room, his father and brother, both weeping and apparently brokenhearted, climbed back into the automobile, where Mr. Stratton, owner of the machine and a friend of the Coleman family, awaited them, having chauffeured the prisoner, his guards and his father and brother from Boston.

WILL FIGHT EXTRADITION

Young Charlton Is Insane, According to Father's Statement

New York, June 25.—The extradition of Porter Charlton to Italy to be tried for the murder of his wife will be fought by his father, ex-Judge Paul Charlton of Washington, on the ground that the young slayer is insane and should be confined in an asylum instead of being tried for murder.

The father made this announcement before his son was arraigned before Recorder McGovern in Hoboken, on the charge of murder. J. F. Clarke, who has been retained by his father, issued a statement in which he declared that the young man was suffering from adolescent dementia or dementia praecox.

When Charlton's case was called his counsel asked an extension of time because he said he wanted time in which to look into the case. The recorder granted his request.

IF SHE FINDS A HUSBAND

Young Woman of Milwaukee Will Get a Fortune of $100,000

Milwaukee, June 25 —That she gets $100,000 if she wins a husband, and only the income from that amount if she remains a spinster, is the odd provision for Miss Alma Naumanna, in the will of Mrs. Henriette Friend, who died recently in Germany, having an estate worth $500,000.

The young woman is a foster-daughter of Mrs. Friend, whose axiom of life was that a woman's place is the management of a home.

MRS. GLOVER IS ACQUITTED

So Are the Six Friends Who Were Indicted With Her

JURY DECLARES "NOT GUILTY"

Instructed to Do So by Judge After Those Accused of Being Accessories In Connection With Murder of Laundryman Had Testified—Prosecution Balked In Attetmpt to Place Hattie Le Blanc on the Witness Statnd

Cambridge, Mass., June 25.—In a trial which will go down as the most unique ever conducted in this state, Mrs. Lillian Glover and the six others charged with being accessories after the fact in connection with the murder of Clarence F. Glover, the Waltham laundryman, were acquitted last evening after Judge Stevens had ordered the jurymen to return a verdict of not guilty against all of the accused.

Besides Mrs. Glover, Mrs. George Freeman, Mrs. Seymour Glover, Mrs. Frances I. Freeman, Mary M. Glover, Samuel D. Elmore and Alton F. Tupper, all of whom were concerned as principals in the proceedings, were acquitted. Elmore and Tupper were Mrs. Glover's attorneys.

Judge Stevens reached this decision after listening to speeches made by the attorneys for the defendants and District Attorney Higgins.

District Attorney Higgins in his address declared that he never believed that the defendants at the bar knew that Hattie Le Blanc was concealed in the Glover house. He said he felt convinced that Hattie Le Blanc was guilty of the murder. He then requested Judge Stevens to instruct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty against each defendant.

The jury reached the verdict without leaving their seats.

Mrs. Glover, called to the witness stand, swore positively that she did not know that Hattie Le Blanc was concealed in her home at Waltham while the police were looking for her.

The other six defendants, indicted as accessories after the fact to the crime, testified to the same thing relative to Hattie being in the Glover house.

All efforts of Higgins to get Hattie Le Blanc, the accused murderess of Glover and the principal witness against Mrs. Glover and the six accused with her as accessories after the fact, on the stand resulted in failure. As a result, Higgins caused to be told in court for the first time the prosecution's story of the search for and the finding of the Le Blanc girl in the Glover house.

When he found that he could not secure the presence of Miss Le Blanc, the district attorney said that he would be compelled to abandon the case. Attotrney Johnson, for the accused girl, immediately accused Higgins of trying to whitewash the cases.

Mrs. Glover, the central figure in the trial, accompanied by the other defendants, left the courtroom immediately after the verdict.

As Mrs. Glover was leaving the courtroom a few loyal friends gathered about her and congratulated her upon her victory. Among these was Inspector McKenna, who had been instrumental in gathering evidence upon which the indictments against Mrs. Glover and the others had been returned.

BARR BEATS THE KAISER

Krupp Prize In Kiel Regatta Is Captured by American Yacht

Kiel, June 25.—In the feature event of the regatta the American schooner yacht Westward, owned by Alexander S. Cochran of New York, won the Krupp memorial prize, beating Emperor William's American-built Meteor, with the emperor at the wheel, by half an hour over a 23-mile course.

The Hamburg came in third. The Germania and the Cicely did not finish.

The Westward was sailed by Captain Barr, the American skipper, and an expert crew. She outclassed the other contestants, leading from start to finish.

The race was sailed in a virtual calm and there was a heavy rain throughout.

Mrs. Hartje to Get Income From $100,000 and Retain Her Daughter

Pittsburg, June 25.—A compromise has been reached in the famous divorce suit of Millionarie Augustus Hartje against his wife on the ground of desertion.

It is learned that a decree has been prepared giving Mrs. Hartje the income from $100,000, she waiving all dower rights. The son, Scott, goes to the father, while the mother retains the girl.

WHY SHE RETURNS TO THE FOOTLIGHTS

Margaret Illington Says She Has Just Found Real Happiness

New York, June 25.—"It's foolish for anyone to say in this day of actuality, of moralism, that they have been misunderstood; that they have only just found themselves; but as trite as it may sound, as unreal as it may appear to sophisticated New York, I know that it has been my experience.

"I have only just begun to live; I have only just now found the Margaret Illington whom I have for years been seeking to know—the soul of me, the heart of me, the all of me. I am found. I am happy beyond wordly expression, and that is why I have determined to go back once more upon the stage."

As paradoxical as it may sound, no one could doubt who heard her express it, the conviction of Miss Illington.

LOMBARD PLEADS GUILTY

Forgeries of Framingham's Former Town Treasurer Reach $320,000

Cambridge, Mass., June 25.—John B. Lombard, former treasurer of the town of Framingham, pleaded guilty to seven counts of forgery in the superior criminal court.

Lombard, who is 60 years old and very feeble, stood at the rail and answered "guilty" as each of the counts were read to him. He will not be sentenced until Monday.

The seven counts of forgery total $320,000. Assistant District Attorney Weir told Judge Stevens that the stealings had been going on for twenty years. He said that Lombard forged the names of a majority of the selectmen of the town to the notes, and Charles S. Cummings, now serving six to eight years in state prison for uttering the notes, disposed of them to savings banks.

TAYLOR GRAVE IS FOUND

Woman Locates Bones of First Man Who Fell In Civil War

Baltimore, June 25.—Carefully locked in the vault at the Old Methodist cemetery is a heap of human bones and ragged clothes, believed those of Private Charles A. Taylor, member of the Sixth Massachusetts regiment, who was the first man to fall in the Civil war.

Mrs. Sarah Freitag has been familiar with the cemetery all her life. Her father-in-law was for fifty years the overseer of the graveyard, and she gave the clue that led to the finding of the bones.

She said that she distinctly remembered the burial of the soldier.

Steamer Heimdal Abandoned

Halifax, June 25.—All hopes of floating the Norwegian steamer Heimdal, which went ashore off Sable island, have been abandoned.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

KNOCKOUT OF HUGHES BILL

Conceded to Have Been Due to the Efforts of Taft

RISKS H.S POLITICAL FUTURE

Opposes Immunity For Labor Organizations Because He Believes It to Be Radically Wrong—Did Not Act Without Consulting Men Whose Opinions He Respects—Furnishes Political Capital For Labor Men

Washington, June 25.—The president has received many telegrams congratulating him on the firm stand he took against the Hughes amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill exempting labor organizations from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law. Some of these messages were from individuals, and some from industrial associations and organizations. Nothing was received from any of the labor organizations.

It developes that there was a conference at the White House attended by several of the more influential Republican members of congress, at which the question as to whether the president should openly oppose the Hughes amendment was discussed.

While a majority of the men present advised him to exert his influence against the adoption of the legislation, several men in whom he has always put a good deal of confidence urged him not to become involved in the contest.

After he had listened to advice on both sides of the question, he announced that he would risk his political future in an effort to defeat the proposed legislation, because he believed it to be radically wrong.

The prevailing impression here is that if the president had not brought the influence of his office to bear on the situation, the senate would, in the end, have agreed to the Hughes amendment.

The Democrats were nearly all disposed to vote for it, and some of the Republican senators who come from sections in which organized labor is strong were weakening when the president took the situation in hand.

Everybody gives the president the credit for having defeated the amendment. The White House appears to be confident that the best judgment of the country will support the administration in the stand it took.

That organized labor, or at least some of its leading representatives, will attempt to make political capital out of the action of the president is quite well understood. There is more or less talk here to the effect that some of the labor leaders will renew the movement to establish a labor political party. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which is in session here, insists that the action of the administration is a betrayal of the interests of the workers of the country.

The members of the council believe that one result of the stand the administration took will be a renewal of the contest against labor organizations by some of the large employers of the country. They expect to see, they say, more prosecutions than ever before under the Sherman anti-trust law.

They point out that under the decision of the supreme court in the hatters' case there can be no question that the federal government may criminally prosecute members of labor organizations and attempt to dissolve them under the anti-trust act.

The American Federation of Labor has been working for several years to have the anti-trust act so amended as to exempt labor organizations. The Hughes amendment, it is pointed out, would have accomplished the end sought. From labor's point of view, the president did an unwise thing by ordering the amendment killed.

HALF A CHANCE

By Frederic S. Isham,

Author of "The Strollers," "Under the Rose," "The Lady of the Mount," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS

A party of titled passengers on a ship bound for Australia visit a section "be'ow decks" where a gang of convicts sentenced to deportation are confined. The ship, the Lord Nelson, is wrecked.

(Chapter II—continued.)

"Oh!" The big blue eyes widened on him, and an inkling of her plight seemed to come over her. Her lips trembled, but she held herself bravely. "You mean we must drown?"

The thunder of seas breaking on the deck answered. A cascade of water dashed down the companionway and swept round them. The man bent toward the child. "Look a' that! Now, ain't ye sorry ye come back?"

"I couldn't leave it to drown!"—passionately—"couldn't—couldn't!"

"Blow me, she's game!" With difficulty he maintained his equilibrium. "See here! Maybe there's a chance if any of them's left to help with the raft. But we've got to git out o' this!"

He passed his hand through her arm, awaited a favorable moment, and then, making a dash for the stairs, drew her as best he might to the deck.

Of living man he caught no sight. Only a single one of the dead yet remained, sliding about on the slippery planks with the movement of the ship, now to leeward, now rushing in a contrary direction, as if some grotesque spirit of life yet animated the dark, shapeless form.

From wave washed decks the man's glance turned to the sea. Suddenly he started, his eyes straining. He stared hard. "Maybe they've missed you. One of the ship's boats seems headin' this way!"

"Are they coming back to save us?" asked the child.

The convict did not answer. Could the boat make the ship, could it hope to, in that sea? Undoubtedly no.

"Put yer arms 'round my neck," said the man, stooping.

She put one of them around, with the other held up the cage. He opened the door of the wickerwork prison and a tiny thing flew out. Then he straightened. Both arms were around him now.

"'Fraid?" he whispered hoarsely.

The child shook her head.

An instant he waited, then launched himself forward. Buffeted hither and thither, he made a fierce fight for the rail, reached it and leaped far out into the seething waters.

CHAPTER III.

AN UNAPPRECIATED BOUNTY.

In the prime of his belligerent career the Pet of Frisco had undergone many fierce contests and withstood some terrible punishments, but never had he undertaken a task calling for greater courage and power of endurance than the one he had this night voluntarily assumed. Overwhelmed again and again by the waves, each time he emerged with the child tight against his breast. Half strangled, he continued to fight on. But at length even his dogged obstinacy and determination began to flag. He felt his strength going, when, raising his eyes, he saw one of the small craft from the lost vessel bearing directly down upon him.

The sight inspired new energy and effort. Nearer, nearer, she drew; now she was but a few yards away. Then suddenly the sheet of the lifeboat went out, and the little sail fluttered like a mad thing, while the men bent with might and main over their ash handles in the endeavor to obey the commands of the chief mate in the stern. But despite skill and strength she was not easy to steer. Once she nearly capsized; then eager hands reached over the side. The convict held up the child. A voice, the police agent's, called out that they had her, and then the mate broke in with harsh, warning yells.

"Pull port, quick, or we're over!" And at once the outreaching arms returned quickly to their task. As the child was drawn in oars dragged and tugged. The lifeboat came slowly about, shipping several barrels of water. At the same time some one made the loosened sheet taut, the canvas caught the gust, and the craft gained sufficient headway to enable her to run over and not be run down by the seas. As she careened and plunged, racing down a frothing dark billow, the convict, relieved of his burden, clung to the lower gunwale. By a desperate effort he drew himself up, when a face vaguely remembered as part of a bad dream looked into his with a flash of surprise.

"Eh? Gimme a hand."

The asked for hand swept suddenly under the one grasping the side of the boat and shot up sharply. In the darkness and confusion no one saw the act. The convict disappeared, but his half articulate curses followed.

"The fellow's let go," muttered Lord Ronsdale, with a shiver.

At the steering oar the chief mate, hearing the cries of the man, cast a swift glance over his shoulder and hesitated. To bring the boat, half filled with water, around now meant inevitable disaster. One experiment of the sort had well nigh ended in their all being drowned. He knew he was personally responsible for the lives in his charge, and with but an instant in which to decide he declined to repeat the risk.

"He's probably gone by this time, anyhow," he told himself and drove on.

"He's done me—done me!" the convict repeated to himself. "And I ain't never goin' to git a chance to fix him," he thought and looked despairingly at the sky. "Ain't never! The slob!" And with a flood of almost sobbing invective he let himself go.

But as the waters closed over him and he sank his hand, reaching blindly out to grip in imagination the foe, touched something round, like a serpent or an eel. His fingers closed about it. It proved to be a line. He drew himself along, and to his surprise found himself again on the surface and near a great fragment of wreckage. This he might have discovered earlier but for the anger and hatred that had blinded him to all save the realization of his inability to wreak vengeance. Now, though he managed to reach the edge of the swaying mass from which the line dangled, he was too weak to draw himself up on the floating timbers. But he did pass a loop beneath his arms, and thus sustained he waited for his strength to return. Finally, his mind in a daze, the convict clambered, after repeated efforts, upon the wreckage, fastened the line about him again, and, falling into a saucer-like hollow, he sank into unconsciousness.

The night wore on. He did not move. The sea began to subside. Still he lay as if dead. Dawn's rosy lips kissed away the black shadows, touched tenderly the waves' tops, and at length the man stirred. He tried to sit up, but at first could not. Finally he raised himself and looked about him.

No other sign of the vessel than that part of it which had served him so well could he see. This fragment seemed rent from the bow. Yes, there was the yellow wooden mermaid bobbing to the waves, but not as of old. Poor castout trollop! Now the seas made sport of her who once had held her head so high!

Notice of The Summer School

The Summer School will open its session on Tuesday morning, July 5, at the Women's Club House, Goffe street.

The school will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Mackay, chairman of the Education committee, assisted by the ladies of that committee.

The school term will be six weeks, beginning July 5th and closing August 13th.

Girls residing in Quincy between the ages of nine and seventeen are invited to attend this school free of charge.

The hours for lessons will be from nine o'clock until half past eleven in the morning.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Training by Miss Ruth Bass of Sargent's school of Gymnastics. All sorts of exercises for development of the body, games and dancing. Most of the work to be done out of doors.

Home Nursing by Miss Blanche M. Thayer, Superintendent of Quincy City Hospital. In this course girls will be taught to prepare the bed for sick persons, to give baths and change clothes; how to dress wounds and give first aids; how to restore fainting persons; what are the symptoms of the commonest contagious diseases; the importance of isolation; personal hygiene and other important information which will be of great assistance to them through life besides teaching them the things which make for the health of the community. A prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Current Events. There will be a course in current events and a prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Spelling. Some time will be devoted to the old fashioned spelling-matches. The girl who spells correctly the largest number of words will receive a prize.

Vocational Work. The Education Committee hopes to be able to do some Vocational Work among these girls this summer. It will be their aim to find out what the girls who do not expect to go to High school are thinking of doing in the autumn and to be able to assist such girls in finding employment best suited to their capabilities.

Business Course. Some simple work among the girls instructing them about receipts, how to make out money orders, checks, the importance of signatures and ordinary business formalities, which women ought to know.

Household Art. Mrs. Stanley Bone will give a series of twelve lessons in Household Art. In this course it is expected that girls who cannot go to High School will be taught how to go into the kitchen and prepare wholesome plain meals and then leave the kitchen in perfect order. There will be a prize in this course for the girl who does the best work.

Music Some time will be devoted to music, Probably the learning of familiar songs.

It is expected that there will be four or five first-class lectures for the girls. The topics will be: "How a Statue Grows" by Mrs. H. H. Kitson. "The Story of a Great Painting" by Miss Georgiana Lane. "How a Great Musical Composition is Created," by Mrs. Chandler Smith. "Poetry and Moral Lessons" by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston (if possible.)

To the girl who gives back the best reproduction of these five lectures a prize will be given.

Swimming Lessons. These lessons will be given to girls who cannot swim upon days when the tide is high during the school hour. It may be possible to have these lessons in the afternoons.

Inspection of Gardens. There were started in this city one thousand home gardens. These gardens are to receive inspection. The inspectors are so systematizing their work that it can be divided and sub-divided. Any person interested in the garden work is invited to accompany inspectors on their rounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best specimens raised in the Home Gardens.

Swimming Class for Clerks. On Wednesday afternoons during the six weeks of the Summer School a teacher will be in readiness to teach the art of swimming to girls who have only that time for recreation. Those desiring to have these lessons will please give their names to Mrs. Souther at Wadsworth's store.

BRIEFS

Cooler today.

The last Saturday of June.

Nine days to the Fourth of July.

The term of the Norfolk Superior civil court terminated yesterday.

Clan McGregor will take action Monday evening relative to participating in the Fourth of July parade and sports.

The class of 1910 of the Brighton High school of which Frederic Allison Tupper is master contributed $20 toward a scholarship fund of the Brightelmstone club.

The Sunday school of the First Universalist church will hold their picnic at Glen Echo Lake next Tuesday, going by special car at 9 A. M., from Quincy square.

The inventory of the estate of William John Tilley of Houghs Neck, filed at the State House, includes $1350 real estate, and $13,708 personal, mostly in gas stock.

The Quincy Adams Quarry Company has been incorporated this month with a capital of $10,000. The directors are J. Lavers, president, Forbes Craig, treasurer and W. H. Deacon.

The Washington street estate advertised at auction by Frank F. Prescott is assessed for $4,100, and will probably be sold for less than $4,500. It includes a house and one or two houselots, the area of the estate being 13,480 square feet.

The Chelsea High school, of which F. W. Plummer will be master next year, graduated a class of 72 last evening. The school has a glee club, a girls singing club, and another musical organization known as the Carmen club.

The inventory of the estate of the late Dr. William Everett as filed with the commonwealth, places his personal estate at $15,070, including 32 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and 10 shares of General Electric Company. No real estate is mentioned.

A chorus of 75 voices, under the direction of Warren W. Adams, will sing Dubois' "Seven Last Words of Christ" in People's Temple, Boston, corner of Columbus avenue and Berkeley street, on Sunday evening. If Quincy people were sure it was Assessor Adams they would crowd the church.

Among the jolly party of South Quincy people who sailed from New York this morning for Scotland were Mr. and Mrs. Sangster Troupe of Plymouth street. They will visit relatives in Aberdeen, Glasgow, Edinburgh, and various small towns and will return to this city the last of August. Their many friends wish them a delightful trip.

Eben W. Sheppard has been confined to his home this week with a sore knee. Last Saturday, while at his Quincy Point wharf, he was accidentally struck on the knee with a lump of coal. He thought nothing about it at the time. Later, however, the knee began to swell and a physician was called. He has been unable to use his leg since that time.

TIMETABLE CHANGES

Some Quincy Trains Dropped and Others Added

Several important changes in trains stopping at stations in Quincy will go into effect by the new timetable on Sunday. These changes in brief are as follows:

The train now leaving Quincy at 6.21 A. M. will make stops at Quincy, Wollaston, Norfolk Downs, Atlantic and South Boston ,and will omit stops at Popes Hill. This train has been omitting stops at Atlantic and South Boston.

The train leaving Quincy Adams at 6.30 A. M. which ran express from Quincy Adams will make stops at Quincy 6.33 and Popes Hill.

The train now leaving Wollaston at 7.29 A. M. will make a stop at Atlantic.

On the outward service the train leaving Boston at 5.15 will omit the stop at Wollaston.

The 5.20 P. M. train from Boston will make a stop at Wollaston.

The 5.40 P. M. train from Boston will stop at Quincy and Quincy Adams.

The 5.45 P. M. train from Boston will omit stops at Quincy and Quincy Adams, but will stop at Norfolk Downs and Wollaston.

There are also several changes announced in South Shore trains which may effect Quincy, trains being either earlier or later.

SLIGHT FIRE.

The alafm from Box 48 at 11.18 this noon was for a slight fire on the roof of a house situated on Roberston street near the railroad track. The house was occupied by Daniel Fitzgerald, and the fire was caused by sparks from a passing locomotive alighting on the dry shingles. The loss did not exceed $25.

HOLIDAY SPORTS.

The entry blanks for the athletic meet to be held on the Fourth of July at Merrymount park at 10 A. M. have arrived and can be obtained by applying at Y. M. C. A. The prizes will be put upon exhibition Monday at Sandberg's jewelry store in City Square.

BRIEFS

Miss Cathryn Black of Glencoe place sails today from New York with a party of friends on the Columbia, to be gone until September, visiting relatives and friends in Scotland and England.

Four crowded special cars conveyed the Wollaston Union picnic to Glen Echo park today. Others went in regular cars. They are favored with a delightful day, and are sure to have a good time.

The Old Colony Association of Universalist will meet at South Weymouth on Wednesday, June 29 in the Universalist church, Rev. L. W. Attwood, pastor. The topic for the afternoon meeting will be the "Sunday school." Supper will be served and in the evening Dr. John Hunter of Glascow, Scotland, who has been speaking before large gatherings in the eastern states will give an address.

BRAINTREE HIGHLANDS

Mrs. D. E. Cain of Arbutus avenue opened her house, to the Braintree Highlands Neighborhood club and their friends on Friday evening. The entertainment took the form of an advertisement social, and was greatly enjoyed. Ice cream was on sale, and the proceeds of the evening go to add to the slowly but surely increasing fund for a club house, which shall be a center for neighborhood sociability.

With the cessation of the rains, and the consequent increased use of water all over the town, the residents of this district are being more and more annoyed by the low pressure and the semi-daily lack of water. The water department, having unloaded the pipes for the Holbrook connection, is evidently satisfied with its progress and rests on its laurels. The Braintree water board seems to be constituted for the purpose of serving as a rebuke to the nervous haste of the age.

On Sunday Martin Cooper youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Hubbard was christened by Rev. D. Roy Freeman on All Souls' church. Martin C. Peck of Brockton acted as godfather, and Miss Harriet Cooper, also of Brockton as godmother.

WEYMOUTH

Morris Bloom has returned from a trip to Niagra Falls and Canada.

Mrs. Harry Benn and litt'e son are guests of relatives at Andover, N. S.

George Schraut, the baker is to open a bakeshop in Burrell's building, Washington square.

Warren Bicknell of Portland, Me., is visiting his father, George H. Bicknell.

Miss Alice Nash of Front street was graduated from the State Normal Art school, Boston, on Tuesday.

Miss M. Ella Willoby of Baker avenue was entertained by friends in Salem last week.

Our baritone, Percy F. Baker is traveling in the south with the Temple quartet, of which he is a member.

Mrs. Charles Baker of Washington street has been the guest of Mrs. John Guy this week at her summer home at Wessagussett beach.

The many friends of Mrs. Alfred Fisher of Philadelphia, will be glad to learn that she arrived Saturday for her annual visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crocker of Prospect street.

Mr. Hall and family who have been residing in the old Jackson house on Washington street, moved this week to the Terry Murphy house on Richmond street which they have purchased.

An unusually large number attended the strawberry festival concert and entertainment at the Sacred Heart church on Tuesday evening. It is reported that four crates of strawberries were used.

The former choir o fthe First Baptist church were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Sulis at their summer cottage at Sand Hills, Scituate, on the 17th. A large sightseeing car came from Scituate, and conveyed the party down. The day was most pleasantly spent with music, games, sports ,etc.

Mrs. Carrie B. Lovell entertained the Good of the Order committee of Reynolds W. R. C. on Friday afternoon.

The annual reunion of the High School Alumni Association will be held in the school hall on Wednesday.

John Henry Tower of North Weymouth was elected a member of the executive board of Tower Family at the second annual reunion of the descendants of John Tower held June 17 and 18 at the old Tower homestead in Hingham.

Walter Pratt and family are settled for the summer in their cottage at Rose Cliff.

Mrs. L. B. Curtis has returned from a visit to her son in Milford.

John Manuel is housed up with an injured ankle.

Miss Beth Battles is home from Smith college.

Mrs. John J. Loud is convalescing from a surgical operation and her friends hope to see her about soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jordan of Front street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

Mrs. E. F. Beals of North Weymouth gave a reception at her home on Sea street, Wednesday afternoon to about 200 friends. The house was beautifully decorated, the living room and library with red roses, the hall with roses and forget-me-nots, and the dining room with pink roses. Mrs. Beals was assisted in receiving by Mrs. John Franklin of Fall River and Mrs. John A. Holbrook of North Weymouth. Punch was served by Mrs. Edward Haskell and Mrs. Horace Drinkwater of Braintree, and Mrs. Alfred Lincoln of Hingham.In a cosy corner on the piazza and in the dining room a most palatable lunch was served under the direction of Mrs. James B. Jones of Weymouth Heights, Mrs. William Field, Weymouth, Mrs. F. T. Hunt, East Weymouth, and Mrs. Charles Clapp of Weymouth. An orchestra stationed in the upper hall furnished delightful music throughout the afternoon. Guests were present from Boston, Swampscott, Woburn, Winthrop, Braintree, Fall River, Hingham, Quincy and the Weymouths.

ORCUTT FAMILY ASSOCIATION.

The annual reunion of the Orcutt Family Association will be held in the Union Congregational church at South Weymouth, Wednesday, June 29, 1910. The meeting will be called to order at 10.30 o'clock sharp. Dinner at 1.15 P. M.. Dinner tickets, 60 cents. In order to accommodate all, notice must be sent to the secretary at once the number of tickets desired. Mrs. Annie E. Jordan, Secretary, Weymouth.

☞Are you a regular subscriber for the "home paper," the Quincy Daily Ledger? Now would be a good time to subscribe. Have it left at your house and enjoy reading it on the cool piazza. Any agent will take your subscription or send direct to the office, 1424 Hancock street.

A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

His Recommendation.

Tom—Hello, Bill! I hear you have a position with my friends Skinner & Co.? Bill—Oh, yes; I have a position as collector there. Tom—That's first rate. Who recommended you? Bill—Oh, nobody. I told them that I once collected an account from you, and they instantly gave me the place.

FIGHTERS HAVING THEIR TROUBLES

Rumors of Friction In Johnson and Jeffries Camps

Reno, Nev., June 25.—When the big fight was moved here from California after the numerous squabbles there it was hoped the sailing would be smooth. Now there are hints of friction in the Jeffries camp and more than a hint that Billy Delaney will not be chief trainer for Johnson.

In addition, there is bad blood over the Jeffries, Corbett-Sullivan incident. John L. has an immense following and they are disposed to resent the discourteous treatment accorded the old fighter at the Jeffries camp.

Everything and everybody here seems to have been curried the wrong way. Everybody is going about with a chip on his shoulder.

A personal telegram to Rickard from the governor assuring him there would be no interference with the fight offered some slight panacea, but not enough to salve all the sore spots.

SPORTING CHAT.

Prospects for good athletic teams at High school next year are good. The basket-ball team loses only "Russ" Bates. The football team loses Bates, Bugler and Veal. Baseball which suffers most loses Bates, Barry, Murphy, Allen, Holteen and others. Manning will lead next year's basketball outfit and H. Hill the football team. "Mil" Chapman looks like next year's baseball chief.

The Granite City League is certainly a healthy organization.

"Russ" Bates and Manning are certainly good-all-round men. Both have played on all the High school teams and are in track athletics as well.

"Honey" Curtis of the Makarias looks good for some Old Colony team. He is a boy who can bat, run bases and field in almost any company, and knows the game thoroughly. If he is open to an offer Quincy ought to be there with both feet.

Copeland, representing Quincy in the Norfolk county league, has a strong team. They claim the championship of the city, but so do two other teams and there is quite an argument on.

West Quincy is to have another playground. These playgrounds are great for the young fellows.

Karger, the Red Sox southpaw has yet to be defeated this year.

Charlie Knight of the Adams A. A. has a most deceptive drop.

I don't think many noticed it, but the boy who let Makaria down with five hits Saturday last was Grethe, the Apprentice pitcher. The Apprentices have a strong team. Boyle is catching now, as Newcomb's hand is badly bent.

Are you saving the baseball coupons? There's a fine chance to see the World's series.

GRANITE CITY LEAGUE.

A case somewhat difficult of arrangement came before the Granite City League directors at their meeting last night. Robert Fitzgerald who has played with the Fore River Apprentices up to the time was discovered to be registered with the Hardy A. A. also. In checking over the lists of players turned in, the checkers probably understood that two men of the same name were registered, rather than the same man with both teams. There is no law or by-law of the league which covers the case, so that the man will play with the Hardys today instead of the Apprentices. A number of the Apprentices are in bad shape, notably Newcomb, and the team will play at a decided disadvantage. Fitzgerald is given two weeks to decide which team he will play with, meanwhile he may play with either.

H. Wright of the Adams A. A. was exchanged for J. Buckly of the Bryant A. C., the transfer subject to two weeks delay as prescribed by the constitution.

The matter of a appointing a successor to Frank Hollis of the advisory board was laid on the table before action, as the best man possible is desired.

The next meeting is Friday July 1.

TODAY'S COURT.

John J. Sullivan, Carmine Cartelli, Angelo Cartelli and James F. Savage were fined $10 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

The liquors seized from Senior Feard at Quincy were forfeitted.

F. B. Rice was fined $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Ledure Brackett and Arthur L. Brackett were fined $10 each for exceeding the automobile speed limit on the parkway at Milton.

Economy.

Vol. 24 No. 148 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 27, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

MANY MINISTERS ASSIST IN CEREMONY

At Laying of Corner Stone for New $20,000 Memorial Church at Atlantic

Proud Day for Church People of Ward Six

The corner stone of the new Memorial church at Atlantic was laid Sunday afternoon with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a large gathering of people. The afternoon was a warm one, and the sun shone brightly upon the gathering. The cool breeze, however, tempered the heat of the sun, so that it was not uncomfortable for those gathered about the lot. Rev. Thomas W. Davison, the pastor of the church had charge of the ceremonies, and it was a happy day for him to see the beginning of the new church that shall crown his labor with the people of the church. The corner stone, a large block of Quincy granite, was set in the southeast corner, and the only distinguishing mark was the figures 1910 carved on the front.

The ceremonies of the laying of the corner stone were opened with a cornet solo by one of the blind boys from the Perkins' home, Antonio Martone. With him was John Wetherell another blind boy from the home. The musical part of the program was under the direction of A. P. Briggs, and the organ and choir was located on a large wagon that had been backed onto the lot. The choir was composed of Mrs. A. P. Briggs, Miss Annie Harding, Mrs. A. R. Hailley, Mrs. William F. Cummings and Miss Florence Hill sopranos; Miss Maud Read, Miss Margurite Read, Miss Doris Cummings and Miss Ouida Keay altos; George A. Deans and J. C. Ward tenors; W. R. Harding G. A. Sherwin and W. F. Cummings basses.

The opening hymn was "How firm a foundation" followed by the reading of the scriptures by Rev. William B. Ayers of the Park and Downs church, anthem by the choir, prayer by Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Wollaston congregational church, hymns "The church's one foundation," offering, and anthem by the choir.

The pastor said that he had received a letter expressing regret from Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy, who was unable to be present.

Rev. Dr. Arthur Little of the Second Congregational church, Dorchester, said that 280 years ago a vessel sailed from England and landed at Squantum. That vessel brought 120 souls. The first thing they did after landing was to build a meeting house, which was also a stockade. This church served two purposes, one to worship God and the other as a defence against the Indians. Near that site of the first meeting house at Meeting House hill there has always been a church. This corner stone is a chip from Plymouth Rock; not literally however, but that it stands for the same things as does Plymouth Rock.

The glory of our New England history is its meeting houses, schools and training fields. These things have come down to us. We can do worse things than to heave too many meeting houses in one community. Atlantic is a large and expanding community. There is hardly a poorer thing to do than to organize a church and not give it a house to live in. The time to build a new church is when you have outgrown the old one and that is what you are doing. All of your church organizations will take on new life and have something to work for. This is a memorable occasion and I am sure you will never forget it. We congratulate you, and may God bless you until your house is completed.

Dr. Edwin N. Hardy of the Bethany Congregational church, Quincy, was glad to be present. The speaker has told of the splendid heritage of the past. He was thinking not of the old but of the new New England we are now making. He believed that it would be a good New England. When I see these children gathered about I believe it means better days to come. I believe the church has a new and bright future. He brought the congratulations of the churches of Quincy, and our best wishes for the future of your enterprise. The building of this church is from contributions of almost every family in Atlantic. This the speaker likened unto the building of the abbey when the stones were brought by the children. In closing Dr. Hardy wished the society splendid success in the building of its church.

Rev. Charles H. Washburn of the Neponset Congregational church said there were many reasons why he was glad to be present. Twenty-five years ago, while preaching in Brighton, he used to come here on picnics and have a good time. Looking back today to that time it seems marvelous how this community has grown. Atlantic is attracting the attention of builders. A corner stone means more than a piece of granite. It is what it stands for. Without this church your

ODD FELLOWS MOURN LOSSES

Large Mortality List During the Past Year

During the past year Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows and the George L. Gill Rebekah lodge have been called upon frequenfly to mourn the loss of a member, and largely attended memorial services were held in I. O. O. F. hall on Sunday evening, to which Manet encampment and the lodges of Wollaston, Neponset and Weymouth were invited.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. W. B. Ayers of the Park and Downs church, who also read the Psalm and Scriptures and offered the prayer. He spoke for 35 minutes on personal responsibility, his subject being: The strength of wolf is the pack, and the strength of the pack is the wolf. He regretted that in all ages to the present day the animal part of man had been the more prominent. This was why the large majority who die are not missed; they are just a link. He regreted that the ritual of the lodges was not taken seriously, and that it had no restraint on some. He noted that this was far less true of Odd Fellows than of other organizations, but called upon every member to so conduct himself as to add strength to the lodge. All members are guardians of the institution. He was inclined to believe that the good people were not yet in the majority in this world, but that they are strong enough to hold the bad in subjection. There was nothing on earth as cruel as man. The speaker profounded some very searching questions to his audience, asking: Is there no selfishness in the lodge? Does the spirit of peace and love prevail? Do you keep your pledges? Are we all good? and closed with an appeal for humanity.

During the past year the following members of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge have died:

James W. Young, October 1, 1909.
William J. Tilley, November 19, 1909
Emma P. Jones, December 6, 1909.

The necrologic address for these members was delivered by Mrs. Lillian E. Baker, the noble grand, who had a tribute for each, and also for the order.

Mt. Wollaston lodge has lost five members as follows:

Stavros G. Emanuel, August 20, 1909.
James W. Young, October 1, 1909.
A. Frank Bussell, November 13, 1909
James Thompson, January 14, 1910.
Joshua E. Hanson, April 15, 1910.

Bro. John D. Mackay, a member of the School Committee, gave the necrologic address for the lodge, and had kind words for all these brothers. He said the friendship of Odd Fellowship did not cease with death. In closing, he expressed at length his views on immortality, showing considerable research.

The service was interspersed with anthems and hymns by a male quartet, including "Lead Kindly Light," "Crossing the Bar," "The Lord is My Shepherd," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," "Sunset," and "Nearer My God to Thee," the audience joining in singing the last two.

TWO HOLD-UPS REPORTED

Quincy Autoists Shot at on Lonely Hingham Road

George F. Spooner and family of Revere road had an experience on Saturday evening which they hope will never be repeated. While returning from an automobile trip to Nantasket in their big touring car a lone highwayman made a bold attempt about 8.40 to hold them up on Lincoln street, Hingham, near the Bradley farm. Mr. Spooner saw the man run out into the street ahead of him and he flourished a revolver in his hand as he shouted "Hold-up, up, or I'll shoot! Instead of holding up, Mr. Spooner put on full power, and as he dashed by, the man shouted again and fired three shots one hitting the glass air shield in front, and one the body of the car in the rear, the other shot going astray. The speed of the car soon took them to a place of safetly.

In the car at the time was Mr. Spooner's wife and mother, also his son Bartlett and Walter Newcomb, aged 19, of Elm place. All escaped unhurt, but it was a trying ordeal for them as they crouched low in the car.

It was a dark night and the street is sparsely settled, but Mr. Spooner was well acquainted with the road, having travelled over it frequently by day and night.

There seemed to be very little travelling at the time of the hold-up, and Mr. Spooner did not meet anyone until he reached the bridge over Back river. At North Weymouth he notified the patrolman of the hold-up, and word was promptly telephoned to the Hingham police. All efforts to locate the highwayman were unsuccessful.

Mr. and Mrs. Spooner had many callers on Sunday, and many enquiries by telephone. All had recovered from the shock, and in the afternoon they visited the scene of the hold up in the same car, which is a large Pierce Arrow. They saw nothing of the desperado. The police were also unsuccessful in their search.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT.

It developed Sunday that George F. Spooner was not the only party who was a target for an unknown shooter on Lincoln street Saturday night, for a similar attempt was made to hold up the automobile of Dr. F. E. Jones and a party of Quincy friends shortly after Mr. Spooner had passed.

Dr. Jones was returning from Nantasket with a party of friends, and was coming along at a good clip, when there was a sound of a pistol

JOHN L. MILLER TELLS OF HIS DREAMS

Gets Back at the Merchants' Association Who Are Seeking Trade from Out of Town

Wants No Chinese Wall Around the City of Quincy

Editor Daily Ledger:

The controversy over the School Committee awarding the contract for the supply of coal to the lowest bidder, who happened to do business over a certain line that divides the City of Quincy from the town of Milton is getting interesting. But when it is simmered down to facts, as the public see it, it is a case of "Crying Baby," by the loser, over a contract that he had no right whatever, only through favoritism, a thing our city has repudiated time and again at the ballot box.

Mr. Sheppard is reported to have used the word "Imposition," and "it is a Soak." Let me remind this gentleman that is not half as soaky as the way he used citizens of Quincy during the coal strike. He must think the memory of our citizens is short. And what being a taxpayer has to do with it, I can't see. The City is supposed to give benefits for the taxes. It builds him streets to do his business over. It builds and supports schools to educate his children. It gives him sewer and water and many other incidentals. Surely he has got as good value for his taxes as any of the rest of us. I am perhaps as big a taxpayer as he, but the City has never given me bonuses, or a contract of any kind. As a taxpayer under our form of government he has no more right than the humblest voter.

When Mr. Sheppard bid on coal in answer to the School Committee advertisement, he bid on the whole or a part thereof, and for him to refuse to fill his part of the award, shows him in a decidedly bad light, and the man that tries so hard to belittle his competitor in every way possible, the public will form their own judgment, and it will not do Mr. S. any good. It is as important to be a good graceful loser as it is to be a graceful winner.

As for quality, I can say the poorest coal delivered at school houses has not come from the Neponset River Coal Co., by any means. There have been cases of a man setting a fire, then be the first to yell fire. I hope his insinuation about screenings is not a parallel case.

Now, Mr. Editor, in your little editorial of Saturday you say Mr. Sheppard helps support the Y. M. C. A. You would leave the impression that the Neponset River Coal Co., did not, when the facts are that in the late canvass for institution the Neponset River Coal Co., gave Dr. Johnson $100. I wonder if Mr. Sheppard did much better. "Honor to whom honor is due."

Why, Mr. Editor, this thing is getting on my nerves I believe. I had a terrible dream. I dreamt that I had been off on a long trip and just returned and when I arrived the square was brilliantly lighted, the band was playing, an dthe streets were thronged. I asked a man what it was all about. He answered, "Don't you know this is Merchants' Week?" Yes, but what does that mean, what is all this excitement? Oh, that is to draw the people from the surrounding towns to entertain them, and incidently to get their trade in the stores. But who pays the bills? The merchants ,an dthey are making big profits on the investment. Oh, now I see, this is a project to advertise Quincy, to draw trade here, well I like that, it looks like live business methods.

In my dreams, I went off again and returned in two weeks. I found the city still. I met a man who was looking dejected, dressed with a Prince Albert coat, a tall hat and dark of complexion. I asked him what was the cause of the quietness and why he looked so sad. He answered, "Have you not heard the awful news?" "The School Committee has awarded the contract for the coal for the school buildings to an out of town firm, because their bid was the lowest, an dhere I am, a coal dealer and the president of an association to stop just such things." "We are going to compel the people to buy at home." Oh, this is interesting, how can you do it? "Let me tell you a secret, I have friends enough in the City Council to get an appropriation through and we will build a great wall around the city, 50 cubits high, and the gates of brass, 20 cubits high, and none shall go out therefrom to purchase anything they get in the city." But, won't this be hard on the taxpayers to go to such great expense? He answered, "We will work it in the name of Patriotism and they won't mind." Won't the other towns and cities retaliate against you? How about our army of employees and professional men that go to Boston? If your secret gets out how will the surrounding towns take it? Will they come to Quincy to trade? He answered, "We care not, when we get our people in the habit of buying at home only, then we can charge what we will and they will pay it." At such a statement I was indignant and said, you are on the wrong track, you will make our city a by-word.

Our granite business depends on the other towns all over the nation. The Fore River Shipbuilding Co., the Tubular Rivet Co., and the Boston Gear Works, are drawing their trade from the nation. Then why offend their customers to please a few of your contracted people who are in favor of a little narrow contracted Quincy. Ifthere is any city that can't afford such narrow ideas it is Quincy. It is worse than our forefathers of centuries ago, who said "If you don't worship as we do, get out, we want none of you."

Your Association doesn't represent one quarter of the merchants of Quincy, for the seller of granite is a merchant as well as the seller of coal, or peanuts. Let us draw all the trade possible to our city and let us not offend our customers by building this Chinese wall.

Respectfully yours,
John L. Miller.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

His Excellency, Governor Eben S. Draper, has said and done many good things since his inauguration in 1909 but for good sound advice none were better than the following:

"There is no one thing that is so important for good in citizenship as to have all the people constant attendants of and interested in the work of some church.

It makes little difference to me what that church may be if that man is sincere in his devotion to it, because it appeals to the highest attributes of one's nature and does more to make good citizens than any other single work a man can perform.

I am happy to say that I was brought up by my parents to go to church when a boy, and I feel it today to be my duty and pleasure, and always go when I can. I know it does me good and I believe it would have the same effect on any other American citizen."

The State tax levied by the Legislature this year is the same as in 1908, two years ago,—$5,500,000—yet it is interesting to note the changes in Norfolk county towns because local assessors have raised valuations. Here are figures of the prominent towns for three years ,the tax of 1909 being one million dollars less than in the other two years:

	1908	1909	1910
Milton	$38,995	$31,905	$38,610
Quincy	43,065	35,235	43,450
Hyde Park	20,680	16,920	21,065
Dedham	18,590	15,210	19,085
Brookline	154,935	126,765	152,130
Cohasset	10,725	8,775	10,945
Braintree	8,525	6,975	9,185
Norwood	9,515	7,785	19,415
Wellesley	19,855	16,245	19,910
Weymouth	11,660	9,540	12,265

The increase of valuation in Quincy was above the average of the State so the tax upon Quincy is $3.85 more than in 1908. In Milton and Brookline the tax is less, but all the other towns in the list are larger.

Reference has already been made to the new system of valuation in Norwood. It was in 1908 decided to assess all valuation of the town at its true value, without fear or favor, both real estate and personal, and as a result the valuation made a tremendous jump, and the tax rate dropped from $25.60 to $8.50. That was the effect for one year, but the figures above show that Norwood must this year pay the State about $10,000 more than last year. It will also contribute nearly $10,000 more to the county than last year, and in a few years Norwood will have both a high valuation and a high tax rate like Quincy.

That everybody in Norwood did not take kindly to the new assessment is shown by the case below reported by the Hyde Park Gazette.

On Wednesday last the Norfolk county commissioners rendered their decision on the complaint of Hon. Frank A. Fales of Norwood, who appealed to the commissioners on the refusal of the Norwood assessors to abate his tax for 1908. The commissioners find the complainant's tax overrated to the amount of $5,150, and ordered his tax abated.

The decision which may be of considerable significance, is the outcome of the effort to reduce the tax rate of the town, which in 1908 was the largest in the state—$25.60 on the thousand. A committee was appointed to make an estimate of property in Norwood for the purpose of increasing and equalizing the valuation and cutting down the rate.

The committee turned over its report to the assessors, who made some changes and then assessed according to the changed schedule. The result was the cutting of the rate in 1909 to $8.50 on the thousand, but raising the valuation of many estates considerably.

Mr. Fales, who is postmaster of Norwood, was assessed $628.67 on his property on a valuation of $63,660 for himself and $10,300 for F. A. Fales & Co. On the refusal of the assessors to abate this he appealed to the county commissioners.

Chairman Richard E. Oldham of the board of assessors stated that this abatement will amount to about $43.57 in taxes the abatement being $5,150.

DRIFT OF OPINION

Even the casual observer must have noticed in recent years that the gap between the close of one season for fresh fruits and vegetables and the beginning of another is gradually and steadily narrowing, and that this is not altogether due to the modern expansion of the greenhouse industry. The explanation is to be found also in the fact that increase and betterment of transportation facilities over land and water lines extending into the tropics have opened to the gardener in practically all latitudes the markets of the temperate zone. It may be said now that the world's products are within possible reach of all, but it remains for us to bring it to pass that a fair share of the products of the world shall be easily within the means of all. Still better and cheaper transportation facilities will accomplish this. Where we are lacking is in a system of distribution that with unvarying accuracy shall anticipate and meet the deficit in one quarter with the surplus of another.—Christian Science Monitor.

JULY MAGAZINE.

If one may judge from the printed announcements, the remaining numbers of Lippincott's for the year 1910 will fully equal, if not surpass, the extraordinary fine ones brought out since the first of the year. Complete novels by George Randolph Chester, author of "Get-Rich-Quick," Wallingford," "The Cash Intrigue," etc.; Zona Gale, who wrote "Romance Island,' "The Loves of Pelleas and Etarre," etc.; Grace Livingston Hill Lutz, author of those popular books, "Marcia Schuyler" and "Phoebe Deane;" and others equally popular and well known, will appear in the near future. The complete novel for July is "The Lady Thalia," by Henry C. Rowland, author of "Germaine," "Sea Scamps," and other stirring books. "The Lady Thalia" is an entrancing romance of southeastern Europe, where an adventureous American and a titled Britisher quixotically come to the aid of a Balkan princess in distress.

THE END-SEAT HOG.

With lengthening days, and the approach of summer, comes also the day of the "end seat hog." Already the execration of him has begun. It will wax throughout the season and only begin to wane when the frost is on the pumpkin and the public begins to kick because the elevated doesn't put on the closed cars. The "end seat hog" let it be explained for the benefit of any strangers to America who may read this, is a person who, having secured the most attractive seat in an open car, keeps it. This makes him unpopular with his fellow-passengers, each of whom thinks the "hog" should have moved along and allowed him to have— and keep—the seat.—Framingham News.

DEATH OF DAN SULLY

Actor Wrote Most of the Productions In Which He Appeared

Woodstock, N. Y., June 27.—Daniel Sullivan, known to the stage as Dan Sully, died at his home here after an illness of Bright's disease and heart failure. He was an actor of the old-time school, well and favorably known to theatregoers or recent times as well as of a generation ago. Both playright and player, he wrote most of the productions in which he appeared.

"The Corner Grocery" brought his first notable success. Among his other offerings were "The Parish Priest," "Our Pastor," "The Chief Justice," "The Golden Rule," "The Matchmaker," "O'Brien, the Millionaire" and "Daddy Nolan."

Sullivan was born in Newport, R. I., on Nov. 6, 1855, and made his first appearance on the stage in 1875. He is survived by a widow, two sisters and two brothers.

REFUSES TO PAY FEES

Halifax Pilots Will Go to Courts to Make the Kingdom Settle

Halifax, June 27.—The Halifax politage commission made an unsuccessful attempt to collect pilot dues from the Holy Ghost and Us society's barkentine Kingdom. When one of the pilots tried to board the ship he was ordered off, but he asserted his right and stepped aboard. Those on the ship refused to pay up, claiming that as the vessel entered port without a pilot they were not responsible for any fees.

The rules of the port are that all vessels must pay pilotable fees whether they take a pilot or not. The commission will resort to the courts.

PEARY LAYS POLAR PROOF BEFORE WORLD

Carefully Planned Marches, Necessary For Success, Told In Detail.

Trip to 87 Degrees 6 Minutes, Former Record, Filled With Danger.

Bartlett's Party Nearly Swept Away on Ice Floe While In Igloo.

THE latest installment of Commander Peary's narrative, in the July issue of Hampton's Magazine, tells of his trip across the polar ice to beyond his own "farthest north." It presents many of the proofs which Commander Peary refused to turn over to congress, and it carries the polar expedition right up to the last stage of the dash to the pole itself. It also tells of Peary's main party nine men, seven sledges and sixty dogs.

"Five marches farther on Bartlett would return with two Eskimos, twenty dogs and one sledge, leaving the main party six men, forty dogs and five sledges.

"I hoped that with good weather and the ice no worse than it had been thus far Borup might get beyond 85 degrees, Marvin beyond 86 degrees and Bartlett beyond 87 degrees north.

dred yards distant and put up our igloos. I was just dropping off to sleep when I heard the ice creaking and groaning close by the igloo.

"Leaping to my feet and looking through the peephole of our igloo, I was startled to see a broad lead of black water between our two igloos and Bartlett's, the nearer edge of water being close to our entrance, while Bartlett's party was moving east on the ice raft which had broken off.

PEARY'S SUCCESSFUL DASH TO THE NORTH POLE SHOWN BY MAP.

This "birdseye" view map shows the Peary system of marching. At the end of the seventh actual march McMillan and Dr. Goodsell returned to land. At the end of the twelfth march Borup returned. At the end of the seventeenth march Marvin returned. At the end of the twenty-second Bartlett returned. At the end of the twenty-seventh march Peary reached the pole. As far as possible the returns were over the trail made by the party going out.

"marching system" and makes plain the improbability of discovering the pole by any other method. This he outlined as follows:

"On the evening of the 19th, while the Eskimos were building the igloos, I outlined to the remaining members of my party, Bartlett, Marvin, Borup and Henson, the program which I should endeavor to follow.

"At the end of the next march (which would be five marches from where McMillan and the doctor turned back) Borup would return with three Eskimos, twenty dogs and one sledge, leaving the main party twelve men, ten sledges and eighty dogs.

"Five marches farther on Marvin would return with two Eskimos, twenty dogs and one sledge, leaving the

"At the end of each five march period I should send back the poorest dogs, the least effective Eskimos and the worst damaged sledges.

"This program was carried out, and the farthest north of each division was even better than I had hoped.

"We were now across the eighty-seventh parallel and into the region of perpetual daylight during six months of the year. Only about six miles beyond this point, 87 degrees 6 minutes, I had been obliged to turn back nearly three years before.

"When I awoke March 28 the sky was brilliantly clear. After traveling at a good pace for six hours along Bartlett's trail we came upon his camp beside a wide lead. In order not to disturb Bartlett we camped some hun-

"It looked as if the ice raft which carried Bartlett's division would impinge against our side a little farther on, and I shouted to Bartlett's men to break camp and hitch up their dogs in a hurry in readiness to rush across to us.

"Slowly the raft drifted nearer and nearer until the side of it crunched against the floe, and we had no trouble in getting Bartlett's men and sledges across and on the floe with us.

"Notwithstanding the extra fatigue and the precarious position of our camp this last march had put us well beyond my record of three years before, probably 87 degrees 12 minutes, without allowing for our drifting with the ice."

LET US ALONE CLUB FORMED.

Slogan of "Interests" Adopted by Missouri Sportsmen.

"Let us alone!" which became the slogan of the railroads and special interests during the Roosevelt administration, has been adopted as the name of an exclusive club just organized by Judges John F. Phillips, John C. Pollock of the United States circuit court, Frank Hagerman and other Kansas Cityans. The articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state, and a charter was issued.

This club is to be exclusive, and its membership will be limited to twenty. A membership fee of $300 will be charged. A clubhouse, bordered with lakes, will be constructed in Bates county, Mo.

BOY BANDITS ARE TAKEN.

Hungarian Gang Committed 123 Robberies and One Murder.

Led by a ferocious chieftain, aged thirteen, a well organized band of boy robbers has just been captured by the police at Sopron, Hungary. The band consisted of eleven lads, aged from eight to thirteen years, who had left their parents for a life of adventure. They lived in a large cave and during the last three months committed 123 robberies and one murder. In the cave booty to the value of $25,000 was found.

The young chieftain, who shot and seriously wounded the policeman who was sent to arrest him, has been sentenced to ten years' confinement in a reformatory.

STEEL MILL WANTS CATS.

Rats Tie Up Machinery and Resist Poison Lures.

The United States Steel corporation at Gary, Ind., wants fifty cats and will pay 50 cents apiece for them.

The demand for cats is due to a peculiar incident. For many months the company has been pestered by rodents, and every known form of poison and traps has been tried without success. The final blow came when several rats got tangled up in one of the great dynamos which give power to the blast furnace mill. This tied the work up for four hours and resulted in the loss of $10,000.

Gary was hunted in vain for stray cats, and as a last resort an advertisement was inserted in a Gary paper.

THE GORE BRIBERY CHARGES

Resolution of Inquiry Adopted by House—Public Buildings Bill, a Veto of Which Had Been Feared, Is Signed by Taft—Cannon Says He Owes No One an Apology and Returns Home Without Malice

Washington, June 27.—The beacon light in the cupola of the Capitol was extinguished at 11 o'clock Saturday night, a signal to Washington that the end of the second session of the Sixty-first congress was at hand. At that hour, as previously fixed by joint session, Speaker Cannon, in the house, and Vice President Sherman, in the senate, officially authorized the adjournment.

At 10 o'clock the president came to the Capitol for the purpose of signing bills that had been made ready during the afternoon and evening.

He went to the president's room, at the rear of the senate, accompanied by most of the members of his cabinet and by Secretary Norton. Senators and representatives flocked thither, not alone to see that private measures obtained his official sanction, but to exchange a social word.

The last senate speeches had to do with the customary statements about the appropriations of the session. The respective party leaders place stress upon these statements, which invariably take on a political hue.

Thereupon Vice President Sherman started upon a felicitious little speech, thanking senators for their courteous consideration, and, bringing his gavel down, declared the senate adjourned.

Then, just when spectators in the house and galleries were eager for the customary fun to begin, Representative McGuire of Oklahoma arose to a question of personal privilege. He had been implicated in the charges made by Senator Gore in the senate, of bribery, in connection with certain Indian matters in his state. Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee had announced to the house earlier that it was McGuire who had offered to the deficiency bill the amendment in which Gore had found his joker.

Mr. McGuire consumed considerable time making a statement. He then offered a resolution, asking for its immediate adoption, providing for the appointment of a sub-committee of the Indian affairs committee to make an investigation, not only of the particular case under consideration, but of all matters anywhere in the country affecting the Indians.

Representative Carter of Oklahoma offered a much more specific resolution, directing an inquiry into the particular charges aired in the senate, and, after some amendments had been added, this resolution was unanimously adopted.

Business engaged the attention of the house up to the last minute. Usually there is a great demonstration of singing and waving of flags in the final hours, but the statesmen, anxious to return to their homes as speedily as possible and attend to their political fences, were not disposed to be gay. They dispersed as soberly as a congregation at church.

There had been rumors all day that the president would veto the public buildings bill, carrying $25,000,000. These disquieting reports were not entirely stilled until a few minutes before adjournment, when the bill with the president's "O. K." was received from the White House.

At the very last moment the white dove of peace fluttered into the chamber, which has been the scene of stormy meetings during the session. It settled directly over the speaker's rostrum, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon made a short speech, full of sentiment and good wishes.

Referring indirectly to the March insurrection, the speaker said he was going back to Danville without malice. He owed no one, either as speaker or as a member, an apology, and no other member owed one. He wished the members good luck and good health, and hoped to see them all back the first Monday in December. Then the Cannon gavel banged with the old-fashioned vigor, and the house had laid aside its duties for the summer.

Hold Last Service for Season ---Reception Planned

Rev. Carl G. Horst, took for the text of his sermon at the Sunday morning service the words, "In Him we live and move and have our being," found in 28th verse of the 17th chapter of Acts, dwelling upon the thought that God is constantly creative in His universe and continually in sympathy with it. As the unseen self in man influences the visible self, so the influence of God is felt in the universe. The body is not man and God is not the universe, but the soul of the universe, not to be conceived of as an absentee God nor as a mechanical God who has created a system and views it from afar, interfering only when re-adjustment is necessary. Can one think of such interference being necessary or possible when the great laws and causes which were operative when the morning stars sang together must be just as rythmic now as then?

The universe reveals God in all His majesty; science makes great strides, harnesses and gives into man's control the great forces of nature, but God alone can give life, even in its lowest form. Before the mystery of creating the spark of life man and science are helpless, God mercifully withholds this power.

God's nature is constantly to impart life, and to those who are prepared to recognize and receive it He forms out the life of the spirit, enriching and ennobling the life of man. He is the infinite reservoir from which we may fill our little cups and find no lack; we are created in his image, capable of thinking his thoughts after Him, and in Him we may live and move and have our being.

"Speak to Him, thou, for He hears
And spirit with spirit can meet
Closer is He than breathing,
Nearer than hands and feet."

Members and friends of the church are invited to a simple and very informal social gathering in the vestry Tuesday evening, June 28, at 8 o'clock to bid good-bye to the pastor Rev. Carl G. Horst, who sails for Europe July 13, and also to meet Mr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Robinson, whose removal to Sharon next Thursday is greatly regretted by their fellow worshippers.

William Harry Boynton has been elected by the parish committee to fill out the unexpired term of N. S. Robinson as clerk of the church.

The Unitarian Church-Helpers will meet with Mrs. Herman Henry Wieting, 183 Safford street, Thursday, June 30 at 2 P. M.

During Rev. Carl G. Horst' sojourn in Europe this summer the Rev. Lewis G. Wilson, secretary of the American Unitarian Association 25 Beacon street, Boston, will be ready to render such service as would come within the province of the minister of our church.

Remember the Isles of Shoa's Unitarian summer meetings and Sunday School Institute July 10-22.

The Unitarian House in Chantauqua, N. Y., will be open during July and August and offers its hospitality to all liberals coming to Chantauqua. A free loan library, liberal literature, and a reading room will be available at all times. A special Unitarian conference will be held July 20.

The biennial meeting of the Unitarian Ministers' Institute will be held in Marblehead next September.

Sundays service of worship was the last of the season. The choir rendering several fine selections, was assisted by Mrs. Frank A. Page. whom we always delight to hear. The Mizpah benediction followed by the singing of "God be with you etc" in view of the minister's departure for Europe was not only most appropriate, but deeply touched the hearts of the congregation. The church is closed during July and August and resumes divine services in September.

CORNER STONE LAID

property would not be worth what it is today. We are to meet the problems before us with the same principles that underlie that corner stone. I congratulate you on having a living influence that enables you to lay that corner stone today.

The corner stone was then laid by the pastor, Rev. Thomas W. Davison, a silver trowel being used. Before doing so he referred to the report that some Boston papers had stated the church would cost $15,000, but there would not be enough left of $20,000 to go to Squantum on a picnic. Beneath the corner stone the pastor placed a copper box contributed by Mr. Moore. In the box were the following:

History of origin of the church and parish society.

Records showing the origin of the name of the church.

List of original and present church members.

List of pastors and deacons.

List of present church officers, parish officers and officers of the different societies.

Names of the president and president elect of the Ladies Benevolent society.

Names of building committee.

Records showing the origin of the new church.

Copies of the Quincy Daily Ledger and Boston Globe giving the account of the raising of funds for the new church. Also a copy of the Congregationalist.

Photographs of the old church.

Coins of the year 1910.

Order of services at the laying of the corner stone.

Following the laying of the corner stone the choir and audiance sang the Doxology, and the exercises closed with benediction by the pastor.

—Largely through the firmness and influence of Gov. Draper in the direction of an economical administration, the state tax this year will be kept down to $5,500,000 instead of going to $6,000,000, as was threatened. The tax is large enough any way, and the governor is to be praised for his efforts to prevent an increase that the party would find it hard to explain in the fall campaign.—Athol Transcript.

UNION PIGNIC CREAT SUCCESS

About 400 Wollaston Yo People Go to Glen Echo

A union picinc was held by the Sunday Schools of the Wollaston churches at Glen Echo park, Stoughton, on Saturday.

About 400 children and grown folks participated representing the Wollaston Baptist, Wollaston Congregational, Wollaston Unitarian, Wollaston ethodist and St. Chrysostom's churches.

Shortly after 9 o'clock five crowded electrics left the Beale street turnout, and about two hours later the party reached the park.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of J. A. Sedgwick, C. A. Randall, A. B. Cassidy, O. A. Blaisdell, Charles Roach, Mr. Manchester, Samuel Kay and F. A. Page. The day was taken up with a general good time, consisting of bathing, boating, motor boat rides, swings, bowling and dancing. Lemonade and peanuts were served during the day by the committee in charge.

In the afternon sports were run off under a committee composed of Archie Briggs, David T. Whiton, J. A. Severence and Earl Church. Following is a partial list of winners:

100 yd. dash (boys under 12)—won by Kenneth Briggs.

100 yd. dash (boys 12-16)—won by Leon White, Charles Murphy second, Arthur Agnew third.

100 yd. dash (boys over 16)—won by Leon White, J. Floyd second, H. Pierce third.

440 yd. run (boys over 16)—won by Leon White, Archie Briggs second, Charles Wade third.

Peanut race for girls—won by Elsie Thompson, Dorothy Wetmore second, Anne McTeer third.

A baseball game with picked teams followed, after which cars were taken for home about 4.30.

On the return the young folks sang continually and the party arrived in Wollaston shortly before 7 o'clock tired but happy.

TO TOUR GREAT BRITAIN.

A number of persons left Quincy on Friday en route for Europe to visit again their native land, or the land of their fathers. To renew old friendships and to look once more upon the scenes of their childhood from which they have been long separated but have never forgotten; or to pay pilgrimage to places and scenes new to them perhaps but, which song and story have made famous and familiar. Among the number were Mrs. John Ross of 216 Liberty street and her daughter, Elizabeth, one of Quincy's younger, but efficient and successful school teachers. Mrs. Ross returns after an absence of about 25 years, all of which have been spent in Quincy. Landing in Glasgow their plan includes a visit to the land of Scott. Then on to Edinburgh where they will have the pleasure of making the acquaintance of many of the best people of the city through introductions from Dr. William Duncan of Syracuse, N. Y., father of the home department of the Sunday school, who is a cousin of Mrs. Ross' and who has a large circle of acquaintances in the Scottish capital. From Edinburgh they will make a pilgrimage to Ayr and the "Land o' Burns," Scotias immortal bard. Then north to Aberdeen "the silver city by the sea," where they will make their longest stay; making their home with Mrs. Ross' sister and visiting many of the famous and historic places and scenes in and around that ancient city, including a visit to the beautiful suburban village of Banchory on the banks of the River Dee. And last but not least, a visit to Balmoral Castle, the highland home of the late Queen Victoria and the late King Edward VII, a pleasure and privilege which few tourists are permitted to enjoy but which has been secured to them by friends in this country, who have relatives in the royal household. On their return journey they will spend some time with friends in Harwich, Lancashire, and Liverpool, England, where Mrs. Ross has three brothers with whom they will stay until they sail for home some time in September.

If you are a daily reader of the Ledger and are going on a vacation of course you will have us send you the paper while you are away. If you do not read the Ledger every day at home you will find when away you will have to have it or be a back number when you return. Keep posted on home news and have the Daily Ledger sent to your vacation address.

GRANITE CITY LEAGUE

Record of the Adams A. A. Is Still Unbroken

Adams A. A. continues at the top and the only changes in the standing of the Granite City league put Cranch in second place and the Fore River Apprentices in third place. The later team made a grand ninth inning rally, but Cranch went them one better in the same session. The Bigelows stacked up against the leaders and were turned down. Brown a new man worked well for the Bigelows but received poor support at times. The Bryant A. C. took its second from Hardy in a bat-feat and are tied up for third place.

The standing of the league:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Adams A. A.	3	0	1000
Cranch A. A.	3	1	750
Apprentices	2	2	500
Bryant A. C.	2	2	500
Bigelows	0	1	000
Hardy A. C.	0	3	000

EASY FOR BRYANTS.

The Bryant A. C. won its second game from the Hardy club on seventeen hits for twelve runs. The best inning was the fourth. The victory gives Bryant a chance for third place next Saturday.

The score:

GRAND RALLY IN NINTH.

The Cranch A. A. defeated the Fore River Apprentices at Ward Three playground by a score of 8-7. The Cranch held them to a shut out till the ninth inning when the Fore River scored seven runs. The features of the game were all round playirg of Erickson and Galvin, and the hitting of Houston who won the game in the ninth.

MAKARIA ONCE MORE.

Charlie Ganzel's Makaria had an easy time of it at Merrymount park on Saturday defeating the Brookline Aspenwall's by the score of 16 to 1.

Stan Bates pitched five innings and they didn't get a hit nor a run off him. "Ed Taber' made his debut as a Makaria pitcher and showed class especially at the bat getting three hits Al Artis showed that he has the making of a good catcher, he having taken Troupe's place. The batting of Eggleton and R. Bates were other features.

shot. But little attention was paid to the sound, however, as it was thought some one's auomobile tire had burst.

After arriving in Quincy, and hearing of the Spooner episode, the party came to the conclusion that what they heard was a pistol shot, and that they had also been targets for the unknown shooter.

BRIEFS

Has any one found a bunch of keys?

Mrs. William J. Tilley returned Saturday to her Houghs Neck home from a few days' visit to friends in Georgetown.

Misses Sadie E. and Mary G. Thomas of Granite street are at their cottage on Hampton hill, Nantasket for the summer.

U. S. District Attorney Asa P. French and son Jonathan of Randolph sailed Saturday on the Romanic for Italy to be away two months.

Mrs. George E. Drew and son Samuel of South Central avenue returned Saturday from Glendale, N. H., where they have been for six weeks.

The engagement is announced of Miss Edna Malone of Marletta, Pa., and Dr. Gerald Blake of Boston, Harvard '01, son of Dr. John Blake, and nephew of Henry McGrath of South Quincy.

Rev. and Mrs. Rufus B. Tobey of Lincoln avenue sailed Friday on the Numidian for Glasgow, to remain until September. They will not travel on the continent as the trip is taken solely for Mrs. Tobey's health.

The Aaron H. Gould estate on Grand View avenue has been sold and Mrs. Gould with her sons and daughter are making preparations to leave for Seattle, Washington to join Mr. Gould who went there last spring.

Councilman W. A. Carey has the best wishes of many friends at the Fore River in his new line of business. They forwarded to the Payson-Mitchell store on Saturday a beautiful four foot floral horse shoe made of roses and pinks.

IS ASKED TO RESIGN

Priest Advised Young Parishioners to Attend Protestant Colleges

Florence, Mass., June 27.—Rev. Patrick H. Gallen, pastor of the Church of the Annunciation, announced to his congregation that he had been asked to resign his charge because of a sermon which he preached in which he advocated that young men of the Catholic faith attend such institutions of learning as Harvard and Yale and other similar Protestant institutions.

The request for his resignation came from Bishop Bevan of the Springfield diocese, and Gallen has been allowed, he says, six days in which to tender it.

Father Gallen has been pastor of the church here for twenty-one years, and his congregation is much aroused at the request of the bishop.

Roosevelt Will Fight For Republicans In New York State

A CONFERENCE WITH HUGHES

Intimation That Former President Wants Governor to Lay Aside Supreme Bench Honor and Stand For Re-election—Newspaper Men Are Shown Great Mass of Letters Which Will Never Be Answered

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 27.—Theodore Roosevelt may never make another political speech in his life, as he told the newspaper men the other day, but he is going to roll up his sleeves and plunge into the thick of the political fight that will be waged this fall for the control of New York state.

The colonel persists in his refusal to talk politics for publication, but it may nevertheless be said with authority that he will devote his every effort to save the Republican party from the defeat which he thinks menaces it in this statet, and that he will not shirk the responsibilities which have been placed on his shoulders by those who look to him as the one man who can command the situation.

OOut of the coming conference between Roosevelt and Governor Hughes will issue an articulated policy. The governor and the ex-governor will go over the entire present political situation in New York state. Roosevelt will indicate his belief that if the fovernor accepts a place on the supreme court bench, as the governor has already signified his intention to do, and thus withdray entirely from active politics, the result may be disastrous to his party.

Mr. Roosevelt probably will not request the governor in so many words to become a candidate for a third term. He will present the situation as he sees it, leaving it to the governor to decide after he has learned Roosevelt's views, whether or not he should retract his positive statements that he will not accept another nomination, sacrifice his place on the bench of the supreme court and go back into harness for two years more at Albany.

Such a decision would carry with it a full understanding that in the event of a Republica ndefeat Hughes would find himself with neither a seat on the bench nor a seat in the executive chamber.

Colonel Roosevelt gave the newspaper men his first interview of any length since his return from abroad. Politics was barred.

The newspaper men were ushered into the library where they found a room in confusion, littered with thousands of unopened lettetrs, and hundreds of books sent by publishers and friends, with still other hundreds of magazines, all unread. There were letters on the table, on a settee and on the floor.

"I want you newspaper men to make it clear that it is utterly impossible for one man to cope with all this mail," said the colonel.

He began at the top of the pile and picked up a dozen letters. The first he opened was from a member of congress, inclosing a copy of a speech, which the writer requested Roosevelt to read and criticize.

"It would take an hour of my time," Roosevelt said. "It would be impossible for me to grant such a request."

The next letter was from a man from Arkansas who had a patent window device which he desires to bring to Sagamore Hill for Roosevelt's inspection.

Another lettetr was from an old friend who lost his place in the land office. This friend asked a personal intercession in the hope that he may regain his place.

"Much as I should like to help him, it is entirely out of the question," was Roosevelt's comment.

Then came a letter from a politician from up the state asking some opinion on direct primaries.

"It is just such communications that I cannot answer," said the colonel.

The other letters of the dozen were invitations o speak at school commencements and public dinners.

Having demonstrated the hopelessness of his task, Roosevelt first turned away and then turned back again to the stack of books. He picked up two of them and tore off the wrappers.

"Here are two books on religion," he said. "Undoubtedly whoever sent them expects me to read them and pass judgment on them."

The colonel sat down in despair and the interview ended.

Papal Secretary of State Enjoys Entire Confidence of the Pope

Rome, June 27.—The Vatican has renewed the statement that all reports of the resignation of Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, are unfounded.

It is further announced that the papal secretary is working directly under the guidance of the pope and that he enjoys his entire confidence. It is stated in many cases the pope lays commands upon him which he must obey.

FIGHT FOR LODGE'S SEAT

Congressman Ames Announces His Candidacy For the Senae

Washington, June 27.—Congressman Butler Ames has declared war on the senior senator from Massachusetts and the Republican Lodge machine of the Bay State.

The Lowell leader defiantly announced his position in a statement in which he gave out his candidacy for the seat in the senate now held by Mr. Lodge.

He explained that he was moved to this speedy action by the news of the Lodge lieutenants being already at work upon state representatives and senators for the re-election of Lodge.

In announcing his candidacy Ames declares that Lodge is the servant of great financial interests and charges him with aiming to crush all his rivals.

GOTHAM TONG WAR AGAIN BREAKS OUT

Three Chinamen Shot, Two Fatally, In Ninety Seconds

New York, June 27.—The furtive tong war that sleeps but never dies, despite threats, promises and solemn treaties, broke out again yesterday afternoon within the little triangle of narrow streets known as Chinatown.

In ninety seconds three Chinamen were shot, two of them fatally, a third was painfully wounded, and more than forty shots were fired. In three minutes seven Chinamen were arrested.

It was all over nearly as quickly as it had begun, and the remainder of the afternoon the streets were as quiet as they had been an instant before battle and murder broke the stillness.

GETS $7,000,000 FORTUNE

Old Montana Sweetheart Remembered by Australian Cattle King

Spokane, Wash., June 27.—Mrs. Dolly Baker of Coeur d'Alene City, Ida., said good-bye twenty years ago to her girlhood sweetheart, Arthur B. Travers, in Montana, and he went to Australia. The girl grew tired of waiting and married W. J. Grout, later divorcing him and marrying Baker.

Now comes word that Travers became a cattle king in Australia, accumulated $7,000,000 and died, leaving all to Mrs. Baker. An attorney has gone to Australia carrying proofs of Mrs. Baker's identity to claim the fortune for her.

NOT A BIG CATCH

Young King of Portugal Looking For Royal Wife With Large Fortune

Lisbon, June 27.—King Manuel of Portugal is looking for a suitable bride, but none of the marriageable princesses of Europe seem to be overanxious to share his somewhat unstable throne. His failure to secure a wife during his recent tour is a source of great disappointment not only to Manuel himself, but to his advisers.

Manuel is not wealthy as monarchs go. His civil list is just $1000 a day, and it was hoped he would be able to make a match with a popular princess possessing large means in her own right.

MURDERS NOT PREMEDITATED

Claim of Yeggs Who Killed Manufacturer and Policeman

DESPERATE TRAGEDY IN LYNN

Police Recover $4500 Which Was Stolen, Kill One of the Desperadoes, Put Bullet In Head of Another and Land Remaining Member of Gang After Preventing Lynching by Infuriated Crowd

Lynn, Mass., June 27.—Both of the surviving members of the bandit band that murdered Thomas A. Landregan, a shoe manufacturer, and Patrolman James H. Carroll Saturday, declare that the killing was not premeditated. They both admit, however that they came here from Russia, where one was a smuggler, bent on crime.

Not until the three bandits saw Landregan and Carroll coming from the Lynn National bank with a satchel which they rightly surmised contained money with which Landregan was to pay his employes, did they decide to rob and shoot, they said.

According to the story, Wasili Ivanowski, who is at Lynn police station with the top of a finger shot off, told, through an interpreter, that the trio first visited Chelsea, and after hanging around that city for some time for someone to rob they proceeded to Lynn.

They had not been in Lynn long when they saw Landregan and his guard coming from the bank with the heavy bag, and decided upon the attack which was carried out a few minutes later and which resulted so disastrously.

Andrie Epsom, as the interpreter says he spells his name, the man at the hospital, is reported as having a slight chance to live, although the bullet in his brain which the surgeons dare not probe for, hampers his recovery.

Ivanowski broke down and wept when he was told that he had killed a policeman who was the father of two children. So unnerved was he over the act that it was hours before he became calm.

He asked when the officers were going to shoot him and if it was going to be in a day or two. Some such idea of speedy punishment impelled him to write a long letter to his mother in Kiev.

It has been decided beyond all question that the dead bandit, Joe Andioki, was shot by Policeman Thompson. There were four bullet wounds in his body. Ivanowski said he heard the shots and saw Andioki fall, shot through the head.

Ivanowski said that his own wound was from the pistol of one of his companions in the mixup with Landregan and Carroll.

Medical Examiner Pinkham found thirteen bullet wounds in Carroll's body, six of them going completely through his body. Only one bullet was found.

Ivanowski will be arraigned in the Lynn police court on a charge of murder, and will be held without bail for the grand jury. Epsom will be arraigned just as soon as he leaves the hospital.

In the heart of the city and within sight and hearing of thousands of people the three desperadoes held up and killed Landregan and Carroll. The two men were robbed of a bag containing $4500 intended for the weekly payroll of the factory run by Landregan and his partner.

It was one of the most desperate and cold-blooded holdups in the history of New England, for the two men were robbed and done to death within twenty yards of the door of the factory and in view of the employes, while Central square, Lynn's busiest centre, is only a short distance.

All three of the bandits were armed with the most powerful automatic magazine pistols ever seen in Lynn and carried about 100 rounds of ammunition each. They used their pistols freely in their flight.

The police displayed splendid courage and efficiency in the hunt for the bandits, rounding up all three and recovering the stolen money within an hour and a half, and preventing the lynching of one yegg by the infuriated populace of Lynn, who fought and begged the police to be allowed to get at the fellow.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said:

"'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was smell and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost.'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

SYNOPSIS

A party of titled passengers on a ship bound for Australia visit a section "below decks" where a gang of convicts sentenced to deportation are confined. The ship, the Lord Nelson is wrecked. A convict, the "Frisco Pet," jumps overboard with Joeclyn Wray, a pretty little girl.

(Chapter III—continued.)

The convict continued to gaze out over the ocean. Far away a dark fringe broke the sea line—a suggestion of foliage—an island or a mirage? Tantalizing, it lay like a shadow, illusive, unattainable as the "forgotten isles." The man staggered to his feet. His garments were torn. His hair hung over his brow. He shook his arms at the island—this phantasy, this vain, empty vision. He regarded it now as some savage creature might a bone just out of its reach. From his lips vile words fell—to be suddenly hushed. Between him and what he gazed at along the range of vision an object on one of the projecting timbers caught his eye. It was very small, but it gleamed like a spark sprung from the embers of the dawn.

"The dicky bird!" His dried lips tried to laugh. "Ef it ain't the dicky bird!" The bird looked at him. "Ef that doesn't beat"— But he could not think what it "beat." The bird cocked its head. "Ain't you afeared o' me?" It gave a feeble chirp. "Well, I'm dashed!" said the man and after this mild expression of his feelings forgot to curse again.

Toward noon the man began to suffer more acutely from thirst, and, drawing out a sailor's oilskin pouch, one of the few possessions he had been allowed by the police to retain, he took from it a piece of tobacco, which he began to chew. At the same time he eyed the rest of the contents—half a ship's biscuit, some matches and a mariner's thimble. The biscuit he broke and threw a few crumbs where the timbers were dry, near the bird. For a long time it looked at the tiny white morsels, but, finally conquering shyness, hopped from its perch and tentatively approached the banquet. Hours went by. The man chewed and the bird pecked.

That night it rained in real, tropical earnest, and he made a water vessel of his shoe, drank many times, ate a few mouthfuls of biscuit and then placed the filled receptacle where he had thrown the crumbs. As he did so he found himself wondering if the dawn would reveal his little feathered shipmate or whether it had been swept away by the violence of the rain. The early shafts of day showed him the bird on its perch. It had apparently found shelter from the heavy downpour beneath some outjutting timber and seemed no worse for the experience. The man's second glance was in the direction of the island. What he saw brought a sudden exclamation to his lips. The land certainly seemed much nearer. Some current was sweeping them toward it slowly but irresistibly. The Frisco Pet swore joyfully. His eyes shone. "I may do him yet!" he muttered. The bird chirped. He looked at it. "Breakfast, eh?" he said and tossed a few more crumbs near the shoe.

The second day he brooded a great deal. The sharper pangs of hunger assailed him, and he grew desperately impatient, the distance to the island decreased so gradually.

Hardly knowing what he did, he drew forth the last little bit of the biscuit, ground it between his teeth and greedily swallowed it. The act seemed to sober him. He raised his big hand to his brow and looked at Dearie. Through the confusion of his thoughts he felt he had done some despicable thing.

"That weren't fair play, were it now?" he said, looking at the bird "That ain't like a pal," he repeated. The bird remained silent. He fancied reproach in its beadlike eyes. They seemed to bore into him. "And you such a small chap, too!" he muttered. Then he turned his back on the island and with head resting on his elbow uttered no further complaint.

That second day on the raft seemed much longer than the first, the second night of infinitely greater duration than the preceding one, but dawn revealed the island very near—so near, indeed, the bird made up its mind to try to reach it. It looked at the man for a moment and then flew away. Long he watched it, a little dark spot, now that he could no longer see the ruby on its breast. At lost to sight, swallow green blur.

JOB FOR LIGHTWEIGHTS

Airships Will Not Carry Employes Who Possess Surplus Avoirdupois

Berlin, June 27.—The aerial waiter has arrived, but he labors under the same disadvantage as the jockey. When he puts on fat he loses his job. In the German Associated Hotel Keepers' Weekly the following advertisement appears:

Wanted by the Aeronautical Society at Friedrichshafen (Count Zeppelin's company), a capable, experienced head waiter to take full charge of catering arrangements on board an airship. Must not weigh more than 140 pounds.

STROSNIDER DISCHARGED

Grand Jury Failed o Indict Man Held In Coleman Case

New York, June 27.—John Strosnider, sometimes known as "Big Lem," recently arrested in connection with the Coleman embezzlements in Cambridge, Mass., was discharged when Strosnider was brought before Commissioner Morle, on the ground that the federal grand jury of Massachusetts had failed to indict Strosnider.

The motion to discharge Strosnider and relieve him from further obligations of bail was made by Assistant United States Attorney Black.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother.

If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers. That is why we are so successful.

When the name of Andrew Carnegie appeared in the list of passengers aboard the Numidian from Glasgow Boston ship news reporters were for a moment electrified. This was something new in the way of steamship arrivals, for the Allan line boats, while excellent and sea worthy and well stocked with eatables and consignments of Scotch whiskey and all that are not the kind on which multimillionaires ordinarily travel. They are slower than the ocean greyhounds and less magnificently equipped than the big floating palaces of some of the lines that serve New York. Still, they are, of course, Scotch vessels and it was thought that the canny Andy might be patronizing one of the industries of his native land. The reporters found, instead of the laird of Skibo, only an intelligent but impecunious young Scotsman answering to the same name who announced that he was going to the Canadian northwest in the hope there to acquire such a fortune as his compatriot amassed in Pittsburgh. BRIEFS

Howard W. Rogers is confined to his home on Hancock street, a victim of lumbago.

Mrs. Ida M. Esteys, daughter and son of 68 Washington street left last week for Burlington, Vt., where they will rusticate for two months.

Mrs. Rose A. Reed of Liberty square left last week for a few weeks' rest at Biddeford, Maine, hoping by the change to be benefited in health.

Judge MacDonald of P. E. I., has been the guest of J. H. Gillis of Pleasant street the past week.

Harold Curtis of Upland road has accepted a position with the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis of Provincetown is the guest of her brother H. L. Kincaide of Whitney road.

Arthur J. O'Neil of the U. S. marines is home on a brief furlough having just returned from 27 months service in the Philippines.

William Edwards and family of Greenleaf street moved today to their summer home at Germantown.

Mrs. Owen Gibson of Granite street is entertaining her granddaughter, Martha Lennon of Marlboro, for two weeks.

The street railway is putting in a new switch at the junction of Washington and Coddington streets.

Lots of news today. Don't fail to read the Ledger every day if you wish all the city news.

A block of small stores would pay well on the Washington street estate advertised at auction on Friday. There is a frontage of 115 feet on Washington street and there would be two corner stores.

TOLD TO MOVE ON.

Archie Thayer who has been holding forth on Granite street near its junction with Hancock street, for a number of nights, was moved on Saturday night by Chief of Police Burrell. The merchants in that vicinity object to blocking the streets and sidewalks in front of their premises and Saturday night one of them entered a complaint by telephone to Chief Burrell. The Chief came down immediately and Archie moved on.

RACE FOR DORIES.

An obstacle race, in which four dories took part, was sailed Sunday under the auspices of the Wollaston Yacht club. At the start the dories were tied to the float with sails furled while the skippers sat on the piazza with backs to the water. At a given signal they ran to the float jumping over the ropes that had been tied across the run leading to the float.

The finish mark was a buoy which the dories had to touch. At the moment of touching one man had to jump overboard and swim back to the float an dthen go to the clubhouse.

The dories and skippers competing were Elizabeth, Capt. Leverett Brown; Hattie, Capt. A. R. Jefferson; Terror, Capt. Clifton Sass; Oaxaca, Capt. H. Winslow; Eagle, Capt. Guy Sass.

The Elizabeth finished first with the Hattie a close second. The man on the latter boat was a fast swimmer however, and reached the float first and won the race. The Elizabeth was second, Terror third, Oaxaca fourth and Eagle, fifth.

Miss D.—"Angelina, why don't you marry Lieutenant Y.?"

Miss A.—"Because he has no brains, and he can't ride, dance or play tennis. What could we do with him?"

Miss D.—"But he swims beautifully."

Miss A.—"Oh, yes. But one can't keep one's husband in an aquarium, you know."—London Tit-Bits.

Spe..., June 27.—Two mur... a suicide furnished a sudden ending to a family conference at the home of David Downes. In the presence of his 5-year-old daughter, his father-in-law, a half-brother of his wife and his wife, Downes listened to his wife's rehearsal of his ill-treatment of her and to the fiery denunciations of her mother, Mrs. Woodward.

While they were heaping charges upon him and telling him that his wife would never live with him again, Downes unslung a rifle from the wall above and fired point blank at Mrs. Woodward, who dropped to the floor, dead.

Before the others could intervene he shot his wife and she dropped dead beside her mother.

With the sound of his child's screams of terror ringing in his ears and while the other three people in the room were fleeing in terror, Downes calmly put the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger a third time and killed himself.

Tried to Fly.

John Milton in "Britain to the Conquest" says that the youth King Harold, last of the Saxons, strangely aspiring, had made and fitted wings to his hands and feet. With these, on the top of a tower, spread out to gather the air, he flew more than a furlong; but, the wind being too high, he came fluttering to the ground, maiming all his limbs, yet so conceited was he of his art that the cause of his fall was attributed to the want of a tail, as birds have, which he forgot to make.

Unkind.

Medical Man—Jobson has done the meanest thing I ever heard of. He came to my house the other night, ate a big dinner, got indigestion and then went to another doctor to be cured.

MANY EVENTS FOR YACHTSMEN

Challenger of Ex-Commodore Adams a Winner

Two classes participated in the Quincy Yacht club race Saturday afternoon, Classes B and D. The race was sailed in a light easterly breeze. The boats of Class B. had not been measured so that only the elapsed time was given out. In this class the Sis finished first with the Emone a close second.

In Class D, the Cape cat class, there was usual lively race between a fleet of eight flyers. The Iris was the first to cross the line at the finish with the Dolly III a good second. Correct time did not change their positions. The Dartwell finished third, but lost that position to the Busy Bee on time allowance.

WOLLASTON CHAMPIONSHIP.

The championship race under the auspices of the Wollaston Yacht club Saturday called out four classes and fleet of eleven boats. The wind was a light easterly one, and the course a seven mile triangular one. Several of the boats were not measured and only the elapsed time can be given.

The summary:

SQUANTUM RACE.

It was a fine breeze that greeted the yachts of the Squantum club Sunday afternoon in Quincy bay. The race was sailed over a seven-mile triangular course. The Warweenock crossed the line zrst in the first class but lost to the Ruggie on time allowance. In the second class the Brownie was the first to finish, but as none of the boats had been measured no time was given out. In the power boat class the Lettie Q. finished first and the Annie C. second.

The summary of the first class was as follows:

HOT WORDS OVER POLICE ORDINANCE

Two Members of City Council Required to Apologize for Unparliamentary Language

Order Defeated but the Vote Is Later Reconsidered

Many of the meetings of the City Council this year have been warm and lively ones, but that of Monday night was the hottest yet. At one time it was sizzling, and it looked as though the pot would boil over. The Council had been arguing for nearly an hour over the order amending the Police ordinance. During the argument it was asserted that a certain police officers had made himself prominent by either seeing members in person or sending friends to see them to vote against the order. Councilman Richards declared that no one had seen him. Councilman Whiton said that he had been approached and it was nonsense for any member to say he had not been approached. Thus the argument started and both used the word liar and other epithets. When things had quieted down somewhat, President Hobbs said "I call upon both gentlemen to withdraw their remarks.

Councilman Richards: "Any statement that I made that was not parliamentary I will withdraw."

Councilman Whiton: "For the same reason I withdraw what I said."

President Hobbs: "The dignity of the Council has been assailed. If we cannot maintain dignity we had better adjourn."

Councilman Richards: "I realize that I have done something I ought not to have done, and I apologize to the Council."

Upon motion of Councilman Nowland the apology of Councilman Richards was accepted by a rising vote.

Council Whiton: "Once more I apologize to the Concil."

Upon motion of Councilman Nowland the apology of Councilman Whiton was accepted. This closed the incident.

Aside from debates on the police order and the loan order to provide for the payment of the appropriations for street rebuilding passed at the last meeting of the Council, there was but little out of the ordinary. Councilman Snow was the only absent member although the Council was half over before all of the members arrived.

No communications of any kind were received.

A petition was received from the Telephone Co. for attachments which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

A number of applications for minor licenses were received and referred.

SURFACE DRAINAGE.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order appropriating $14,000 for surface drainage. The amendment strikes out the following streets: Glendale road $920. Arnold street $600, and Prospect avenue $340, making the total amount appropriated $12,140. The borrowing clause is also amended so that half of the appropriation shall become due July 1, 1912, and the balance on July 1, 1913. Report and amendment accepted and order place in the calendar.

POLICE ORDINANCE.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order amending the Police ordinance. The ordinance as amended abolishes the office of "inspector with rank of lieutenant," and creates the office of "lieutenant." It also creates an additional office known by the title of "inspector."

The report was accepted and the order took its second reading. A motion was made to suspend the rules.

On motion of Councilman McDevitt the order was laid on the table until later, when it was again taken up.

Councilman McDevitt in his argument intimated that policemen were doing work for outside parties. He asked the Chief of Police a number of questions in regard to the proposed ordinance. In his argument Councilman McDevitt claimed that favoritism was being shown and that the order was to take care of a certain officer.

Councilman Richards asked of the Mayor if there would be a competitive examination for the new office.

Mayor Shea said that the order was not one of his and that he had not seen it. When the matter came to him he would act.

Councilman Richards moved to lay on the table.

Councilman Smith—An appeal has been made to members of the Council by a member of the Police department in regard to this matter. His motive is not one of self protection. This order will not effect the standing of the sergeants. The opposition comes from a member of the police force as a matter of spite.

Councilman Richards—We want to know something about this matter. We want to know if it will work for a more efficient department. It was not a square deal not to have a competitive examination. We have other men on the force as efficient as the man mentioned for the new position.

Councilman Sandberg hoped the motion to lay on the table would prevail.

Councilman Smith—If the order passes the man in charge can be depended upon to give all a square deal.

Councilman Richards—It depends on the interpretation of a square deal.

Councilman Flynn favored the order. He believed in efficiency. If the civil service counts for anything it is for efficiency. He did not see where the condition would be bettered by competitive examination. It was not necessary to go down the line. It is not a question of who is to be appointed, but whether we are to create this office.

Councilman McDevitt asked his colleague who the man was to give the square deal.

Councilman Smith replied that the Gentleman knew as well as he did. If he did not, and I made a statement, he would not understand it.

Councilman McDevitt—Is it a square deal for some men to get eight days a week? The legal and police department are getting too close. There is too much favoritism. It is only a scheme to make a certain man solid.

The motion to lay on the table was lost by a rising vote of 7 yes and 13 no.

Councilman Cherrington said it was an open question in regard to the officers. He believed if the examination was to be an open one it would change votes. It was a fair way of doing the thing. He moved reconsideration of the vote to lay on the table.

Councilman Whiton—If the Chief does what he wants, it is a waste of time to talk. He questioned if we could get the Mayor to say what he would do. I would not if I was he. We have no right to dictate to him. The only question should be, is it a good thing.

It was at this point that the tilt came between Councilmen Richards and Whiton mentioned above.

After the air had cooled off Chief Burrell stated that it was only by watching the inspectors that he was able to determine who was the best man. Bradley, the first man who had the job, was a good man until he got it, then he fell down. Then Larkin had it, and afterwards there were some things against him. He had no favoritism in the matter. The only reason he wanted it to go through was so that there would be a permanent thing.

Councilman McDevitt—This will make bad feeling in the police department.

Councilman Bryant—It is none of our business whether the examination is competitive or not. It is in the hands of the Mayor. If we have any confidence in the Mayor we can depend on him to do the right thing. If you believe this should be placed under the civil service vote for it.

The motion to lay on the table was lost by a rising vote of 5 yes and 12 no.

The rules were then suspended and the order put on its final passage. It failed to pass, 12 voting yes and 7 no, as follows:

YES—Bolster, Branch, Bryant, Cantfill, Clark, Flynn, Gardner, Histen,

SUICIDE OF EVA SMITH

Excitement About the Home of Her Parents

There was considerable excitement Monday in the vicinity of the home of Bernard Smith on Buckley street, when news was received that his 16-year-old daughter had committed suicide by hanging at the State Industrial school at Lancaster during the night.

The girl was sent to Lancaster from Boston last April, and since her confinement there has been a good girl. It was thought at first that her rash act had been inspired by letters received from home, but this is denied by her mother, who says that her letters dwelt on neighborly and local affairs, in which she thought her daughter would be interested.

Monday the authorities at the school advanced the idea that jealousy may have been the cause. It was known that Eva was infatuated with one of her girl companions, and it is also known that this girl had not returned her affection with as much warmth as formerly.

Mrs. Russell, the matron of the Elm house, said that she had selected Eva as her room girl. This position the girls look upon with honor, and being near the matron she had a pleasant time. Mrs. Russell said she was unable to understand the cause of the girl's deed unless she was worried, thinking of things at home and that the girl to whom she had become attached was with another girl.

The girl has not been at home for six months. She had been employed in a candy manufactory near the South station in Boston, and her parents did not know why she was sent away.

In March, 1909, she was in Quincy court as a stubborn child. This case was continued on probation until June, when it was placed on file.

There is no other record against her in Quincy. The first that Chief Burrell knew of the girl being at Lancaster was when Miss Mary A. Dewson, who has charge of the probation department of the school, asked him to locate her parents.

The girl's mother was overcome with grief when she heard the news of her daughter's death, and said she knew of no reason why Eva should kill herself. She said she had been to the home twice to see her daughter who always seemed happy to see her. Mrs. Smith said that Eva wrote home regularly, her last letter being received Saturday. In this letter Eva said she was looking forward to the next visit of her mother, and was glad that her brother Willie was saving his money so he could also come and see her.

AUTO IN COLLISION

Horse Knocked Down and Pinned to a Post

There came near being a serious accident at Doble's corner, South Quincy, this noon when an automobile owned and operated by Dr. C. M. Marstin of Braintree collided with a horse and buggy said to be driven by a man known as Capo Charlie of West Quincy. Just how the accident happened is not known, but when the automobile struck the horse it knocked him down and pinned him against a post. After the wreck had been cleared away the horse got up and appeared to be all right, although the animal had a bad cut on one leg. Dr. Marstin and the man escaped injury.

PURSE FOR DR. TODD.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. James Todd formerly of Quincy, received a Scotch send off in Boston Monday evening, previous to their departure abroad. The reverend gentleman is pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church at South Boston, and chairman o fthe relief committee of the Scots Charitable Society, who tendered him a reception and banquet at the Boston City club. There were several complimentary addresses by James Pottinger, Walter Ballantyne, Rev. James Alexander, Alexander McGregor, John M. Jordan, Robert E. May, James Downs, Hugh Cairns, Robert Urquhart an dothers. President Robert Pirie presented Dr. Todd a purse of $250, and gave Mrs. Todd a large bouquet of roses. Dr. and Mrs. Todd sailed today on the steamer Zealand for Scotland.

TODAY'S COURT.

Albert C. White was fined $15, Amos W. Shepard $5, and Albert L. Dyer $15, for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Arthur Race was fined $5, William Kelley $5, John Cook $10 and John W. Moran $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

ANOTHER HOLD-UP

Third Quincy Auto at Hingham Saturday Evening

Charles Burgland residing at the corner of Granite and Whitwell streets was another man that unwillingly became a target for the unknown shooter at Hingham Saturday night. Mr. Burgland, who is employed by W. G. Shaw, has a runabout of his own. He says that it was about 8.30 while returning from Nantasket with a lady friend that he was held up near the Bradley farm.

He says a man came from the side of the road and said something like halt, and made a motion for him to stop. Instead of stopping however he put on more speed and dashed by the man. A year ago he was held up near the same spot in the same manner.

Mr. Burgland thought no more of the occurrence until he saw the printed account of Mr. Spooner's and Dr. Jones experiences. Then he informed the police of his own experience. The Hingham police have been anable as yet to find any trace of the highwayman. Possibly there were still other attempts.

The Y. M. C. A. will have a new physical director in August. C. M. Gifford has resigned and L. F. La Rose of Melrose has been elected. Mr. LaRose has been director of the Melrose association for two years, and comes well recommended.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The news that General Estrada has lost a town in Nicaragua is according to schedule. It was his turn.

The King of England yesterday ordered a member of his cabinet out of his presence—an indication that Burton Harrison isn't the only one.

It seems as though Quincy was not to be outdone in any particular. When Lynn has a hold-up, Quincy also has a hold-up. When a boy at the Westboro institution makes a sensation, a Quincy girl at Lancaster does the same. And we have hot times in our City Council as they do in Boston and other cities. Quincy is very much on the map, but we hope it may have some good advertising as well as the undesirable.

The signed letter of John L. Miller chairman of the School Committee, which appeared in the Daily Ledger of Monday, made mighty interesting reading. But a granite manufacturer cannot be expected to view the subject of "home trade" from the same view point as a local merchant, as the former does not depend on Quincy for business; in fact he expects very little business from Quincy people. John L. Miller, in his letter to the Daily Ledger, said "the seller of granite is a merchant as well as the seller of coal or peanuts," but we never heard granite manufacturers being classed as local merchants. At least they are not in the same list as those who furnish the necessaries of life— the food, the clothing, etc.

The granite manufacturer is in the same class as the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, the Tubular Rivet Company, the shoe manufacturer and other wholesalers who sell all over the country and even to foreign countries.

These manufacturers are protected by the National government by the tariff laws. There was a time when monuments of foreign granite entered this country in competition with Quincy granite manufacturers and Quincy labor, but now everybody in the country who wants a monument has to pay more for it. This is as much a bonus as to favor Quincy merchants in the purchase of coal or groceries, or provisions. So it will be seen that Mr. Miller does after all receive "bonuses." The majority of the voters of the country, however, have endorsed the Protective tariff, and we believe in it.

For the same reason we believe in a protective policy on the part of a city or town. An individual can purchase where he pleases, but those who are most loyal to their city will trade in Quincy even though the cost may be a little more. For this reason they support Boards of Trade and similar organizations.

Should the City of Quincy desire a soldiers' monument we believe that nothing should take the place of Quincy granite whatever the cost. Should the city decide to erect a public building of granite, that granite should be Quincy granite. Perhaps a dealer in Concord or Barre granite would like to erect a soldiers' monument of Concord or Barre granite for the City of Quincy at half price for an advertisement, but under no circumstances should it be accepted. Perhaps there are reasons why an out-of-town coal merchant will sell coal to the city without profit. It has been done to get the trade of residents of the city, and one of the arguments was that the city schools used their coal.

The trouble with Quincy merchants in seeking "home trade" is that they are not consistent. Recently, when they gave a banquet to their clerks to boom "home trade," they contracted with an out-of-town caterer in place of a local caterer. Then when they wanted an advertising sheet to boom "home trade" they had it printed out of town. Nevertheless the Daily Ledger advocates home trade at all times, and believes the School department should have awarded the coal contract to one of the Quincy coal dealers.

"CANNON AND CANNONISM"

Uncle Joe Thinks Cry Is Raised to Fool the People

OUT FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP

Defends New Tariff Law, Saying That Rates Are Too Low If Anything Is Wrong With It and That Close of Fiscal Year Will Prove Wisdom of Legislation—To Take Active Part In the Fall Campaign

Washington, June 28.—Posing on the steps of the executive office, Speaker Cannon intimated that if the Republicans have the next house of representatives he will be a candidate for re-election as speaker. When he was asked point blank if he expects to seek re-election to that office he said:

"I may be dead; I may be alive. Before you can make a hare pie you must first catch the hare. By raising the cry of Cannon and Cannonism some people in this country think they are going to fool the public. We shall see whether they do or not. I shall do my best to help the Republican party win another victory next fall. If we do win, it will be for the Republican party to say whether I shall be a high private in the rear ranks or shall occupy an official position. At any rate, I shall be content with whatever the decision of my party is."

The speaker said that if there is anything wrong with the tariff law at all it is that the rates on certain items have been fixed too low. "I will specify," said he, "by mentioning the boot and shoe schedule. The returns we are getting show that imports under this schedule are increasing at a rapid rate. I am convinced that, taking into consideration the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, in this particular case we have fixed the duty too low. Whenever we cut under the margin we are bound to do an injustice to our home industry. I fear we are doing it in the case of the boot and shoe business."

The speaker reiterated a statement he has made many times recently that the new tariff law will justify itself. "This new law will soon have been in operation one year," he said. "At the close of this fiscal year we shall be able to show to the country conclusively that the legislation has justified itself from every standpoint. As I have already said, if there is anything at all wrong with the law it is that in some instances the reductions we made were too great."

The speaker is leaving for his home in Danville, Ills., in high feather. He thinks things are coming his way again. He is certain the insurgents and the Democrats would have deposed him as speaker if they could have commanded the votes to do it. He wanted them to try it.

After about two months' rest he intends to go aboard a private car and tour the country in the interests of election of Republican nominees for congress. He says that he does not know where his first speech will be made. The present arrangement is for former Representative Watson of Indiana to accompany him on this long speaking tour.

KITTY DIDN'T MIND FALL

But Man Who Threw Feline From Fire Escape Is Arrested

New York, June 28.—Emanuel Manaka, 40 years old, living on the fifth floor of 231 East Forty-fifth street, was held in $500 bail for trial by Magistrate Krotel, on the charge of cruelty to animals. He is accused of throwing a cat from the fire escape of his apartment. Policeman Wagner arrested Manaka, Nicholas Fitzsimmons making the complaint.

Manaka admitted throwing the cat out, saying he found the stray animal on his bed. Boys who saw the descent said the cat didn't mind, alighting on its feet and running away with not even the semblance of a limp.

RAISE FOR 2500 CLERKS

New Haven Road Grants Advance of From Eight to Fifteen Perecent

New Haven, June 28.—An advance in wages from 8 to 15 percent has been given to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad clerks, the new schedule being effective from June 11.

The agreement was reached at a conference between the adjustment board of the clerks' organization and General Manager Higgins. About 2500 clerks will be benefited.

Appropriations Reach $1,027,133,446

Washington, June 28.—The appropriations made by the session of congress just closed amounted to $1,-$27,133,446, according to an official announcement made by the house appropriations committee.

FULL ORBED CHRISTIANITY

Rev. Joseph Walther Tells of Value and Meaning

The Rev. Joseph Walther selected Matt. 5:48 for the text for his Sunday morning service subject, "Full—orbed christianity."

He used as an illustration, a hemisphere, and on this hemisphere were words printed such as: God, heaven, love to God, divine fatherhood, justification by faith, the ministers' sacred desk, the salvation of individuals, the saviourship of Jesus, the glory of God, charity and ambitions of art, worship of the Lord's day and meek. Notice, begining with God and ending with meek.

Then there is the "neglected hemisphere," and also these words. Man (not men) humanity, love to man, human brotherhood, justification to employees, the merchants sacred desk, the society, the kingship of Christ, the kingdom of God. First and always first, God. Always respect and reverence to God. Love to God, obedience to God, righteousness towards God, faith in God and in his son Jesus Christ. Then man, next to God, man. God himself has shown his love for man and as for no other creatures, and bids us, his children next to loving God, to love man, our neighbor as ourselves. Likewise, earth as well as heaven. Greater emphasis should be put on the sacredness of the merchant's desk, the teacher's desk, the tables of the parents. We are not likely to forget the sacredness of the pulpit.

Sunday is God's own gift for rest and inspiration; as night is for slumber and refreshment. The Sabbath as a day of "rest and gladness." The worship of Jesus Christ is not to be closed with Sunday. Religion is not to be tucked away with our Sunday clothes, but is to be worn through the week. Every day is sacred with God. God is just as near us every day through the week, as on Sundays. By night as by day.

The value of "full-orbed christianity" in our own lives and character consists not only of possession, but position. Not only by some grace, but all graces. Love is spoken of as the greatest of gifts. Love, as the crown, and faith as the foundation.

A "full-orbed christian" means more than ourselves. It means our sister, brother, friend, neighbor, enemy, and the last man on God's earth who needs him, and that is but a half sphere. The "neglected hemisphere" is my brother, man. A "full-orbed christian" demands important interest in the world.

A good suggestion for us all is to live so that after we are gone the world will still feel the influence of our lives. In closing; may we cooperate with God in our own lives and others, even in human society all over this wide world, and may God add his blessing to our efforts.

This evening at 7 o'clock the East Norfolk district of the Massachusetts Sunday school Association will hold a home department conference in the Congregational church, South Braintree. Good speakers have been secured and friends are invited from this church and Sunday school.

This evening at 7.45 the last cottage prayer meeting of the season will be held at the home of H. J. Grass 52 Ardell street, Montclair. The pastor will lead.

Friday evening, the monthly covenant meeting of the church will be held in the vestry. Subject: "Is it harder to be a Christian now than ever before?" Trials common to all ages. The special trials of the early church. The trials of our fathers. Trials of the faith peculiar to the present. I Pet. 1:3-25. Heb. 11:32-40.

HALL PLACE CHURCH.

Rev. Carl H. Raupach, pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church, took for his Sunday morning subject, "Conversion plus power," his text being taken from Luke 24-49, "Tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be enbued with power from on high."

Miss Ada Williams had charge of the Epworth League service at 6.15. The text for the evening service was taken from Psalm 116, 12 and 13 verses: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me? I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord." At the morning service the choir rendered "Oh Paradise." The church was very prettily decorated with flowers.

Prayer meeting will be held as usual on Griday evening at 7.30.

On Thursday, June 30, the Pilgrim Union of Epworth Leagues will be held in the church. Rev. L. L. Hale of Neponset will be the speaker. A very pleasant time is anticipated.

TRIBUTE TO THE SIGNERS.

By ADLAI E. STEVENSON

FROM a Fourth of July address by the Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, former vice president of the United States, the following vivid appreciation of the signers of the Declaration of Independence is taken:

Let us turn for a moment to the Continental congress assembled in Independence hall in Philadelphia on the Fourth day of July, 1776. One act of insult and oppression upon the part of the crown toward the colonies had followed another in rapid succession until the time had come when the representatives of the colonies were to decide in favor of abject submission to tyranny or to resolve to be forever free and independent. Upon the one side were the ties of country and a common ancestry, upon the other rebellion against the mother country and the commencement of a struggle the end of which no man could foretell; upon the one side unqualified submission to the dogma of the "divine right of kings," upon the other war with the greatest nation of the globe, with independence as the prize of victory and with defeat as surely the forerunner of infamy and death.

The men who signed this Declaration were not unmindful of the grave responsibilities which they assumed. It was no rash act upon their part. They well knew that Great Britain would never permit these colonies to be wrested from her grasp without a struggle. They well knew England, with her untold wealth, her powerful army and a navy that made her mistress of the seas, was a foe to be respected even by the strongest government upon the earth. To the imperishable honor of the signers of this Declaration be it said that they did not hesitate when the dread issues of that hour were to be decided.

The gospel of universal liberty had been proclaimed to the world. For ages mankind had believed there was "a divinity which doth hedge a king." The world was now startled from its lethargy by the declaration that "resistance to tyrants is obedience to God." The new gospel proclaimed by the signers of the Declaration of Independence was in conflict with that by which the world for generations had been governed. Boldly and unequivocally it challenged the doctrine of the divine right of kings. The barons of England at the point of the sword had wrested from an unwilling tyrant that Magna Charta which for ages had been the palladium of English liberty. Again and again during the reign of the long line of the predecessors of George III. some darling of prerogative of kingly power had been grudgingly conceded to an exasperated people. But these were mere efforts to restrain within bounds, not to destroy, the one man power.

Our Declaration of Independence solemnly announced as a self evident truth that all men are born equal. It proclaims as the cardinal feature of the social compact, as the very connerstone of civil government, the absolute equality of all men. Governments were declared to have been established among men for the benefit of the governed. What a glorious inheritance is this Declaration! What lofty statesmanship is breathed in its every utterance! Well did the great commoner of England exclaim, "The men who can so write deserve to be free."

Whence came the men who signed this Declaration? In what school of politics or philosophy did they learn these great truths? Who taught them the science of political government? From what loyal line of lawgivers did they spring? Unskilled in the diplomacy and craft that control cabinets and govern empires, they were the people raised up by an all wise Providence to overcome the obstacles and grapple with the dangers that threatened their liberties.

From the earliest struggles for the freedom of mankind to the days of Thomas Jefferson the men who in the halls of debate or on the field of battle have been the eloquent advocates of human rights or the bold defenders of human liberty have sprung from the ranks of the people.

Fellow citizens, the calm dignity with which this Revolution was inaugurated, the ties of allegiance sundered, the solemn declaration made that henceforth these colonies were to be free and independent states and the solemn appeal of the representatives of the people to posterity for the rectitude of their intentions is one of the grandest and most imposing events in history. When in all time have any other people inaugurated revolution and confronted death with such fearless dignity? No bravado or violence marred the grandeur of this great act, but a calm recital of wrongs and oppressions is followed by the decisive step and the solemn appeal to the Supreme Judge of the world.

How striking the contrast with other nations when in the throes of revolution! The history of the rebellion in England which preceded the commonwealth is marred by the violent disruption of the parliament and the execution of Charles I. The oppression and wrong of the French people at the close of the eighteenth century culminated in the scenes of violence that caused Paris to run with blood, and the mob that ruled the hour threw down at the foot of the throne the head of a king as its gage of battle.

Notice of The Summer School

The Summer School will open its session on Tuesday morning, July 5, at the Women's Club House, Goffe street.

The school will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Mackay, chairman of the Education committee, assisted by the ladies of that committee.

The school term will be six weeks, beginning July 5th and closing August 13th.

Girls residing in Quincy between the ages of nine and seventeen are invited to attend this school free of charge.

The hours for lessons will be from nine o'clock until half past eleven in the morning.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Training by Miss Ruth Bass of Sargent's school of Gymnastics. All sorts of exercises for development of the body, games and dancing. Most of the work to be done out of doors.

Home Nursing by Miss Blanche M. Thayer, Superintendent of Quincy City Hospital. In this course girls will be taught to prepare the bed for sick persons, to give baths and change clothes; how to dress wounds and give first aids; how to restore fainting persons; what are the symptoms of the commonest contagious diseases; the importance of isolation; personal hygiene and other important information which will be of great assistance to them through life besides teaching them the things which make for the health of the community. A prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Current Events. There will be a course in current events and a prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Spelling. Some time will be devoted to the old fashioned spelling-matches. The girl who spells correctly the largest number of words will receive a prize.

Vocational Work. The Education Committee hopes to be able to do some Vocational Work among these girls this summer. It will be their aim to find out what the girls who do not expect to go to High school are thinking of doing in the autumn and to be able to assist such girls in finding employment best suited to their capabilities.

Business Course. Some simple work among the girls instructing them about receipts, how to make out money orders, checks, the importance of signatures and ordinary business formalities, which women ought to know.

Household Art. Mrs. Stanley Bone will give a series of twelve lessons in Household Art. In this course it is expected that girls who cannot go to High School will be taught how to go into the kitchen and prepare wholesome plain meals and then leave the kitchen in perfect order. There will be a prize in this course for the girl who does the best work.

Music Some time will be devoted to music, Probably the learning of familiar songs.

It is expected that there will be four or five first-class lectures for the girls. The topics will be: "How a Statue Grows" by Mrs. H. H. Kitson. "The Story of a Great Painting" by Miss Georgiana Lane. "How a Great Musical Composition is Created," by Mrs. Chandler Smith. "Poetry and Moral Lessons" by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston (if possible.)

To the girl who gives back the best reproduction of these five lectures a prize will be given.

Swimming Lessons. These lessons will be given to girls who cannot swim upon days when the tide is high during the school hour. It may be possible to have these lessons in the afternoons.

Inspection of Gardens. There were started in this city one thousand home gardens. These gardens are to receive inspection. The inspectors are so systematizing their work that it can be divided and sub-divided. Any person interested in the garden work is invited to accompany inspectors on their rounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best specimens raised in the Home Gardens.

Swimming Class for Clerks. On Wednesday afternoons during the six weeks of the Summer School a teacher will be in readiness to teach the art of swimming to girls who have only that time for recreation. Those desiring to have these lessons will please give their names to Mrs. Souther at Wadsworth's store.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother.

If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers. That is why we are so successful.

READ LEDGER ADVS.

CITY COUNCIL

Loud, Nowland, Smith and Whiton—12.

NO—Boyd, Cherrington, McDevitt, Moir, Richards, Sandberg and Woodward—7

ABSENT—Carey, Ericson, Snow—3.

NOT VOTING—President Hobbs.

On a rising vote of 10 yes and 7 no, the vote was reconsidered. The order was laid on the table on a rising vote of 11 yes and 6 no.

MOTIONS.

Councilman Smith offered an order refunding $2 to those who had paid for a license to sell fireworks. Referred to Finance Committee.

HEARINGS.

Public hearings were held on petitions of the Telephone Co. and the Electric Light Co. for attachments and a location for poles. The orders were then recommitted.

A public hearing was also held on the petition of the Gas Co. to lay mains. This order was laid on the table until later when Councilman Moir offered an order granting the permit, which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

NEW ORDERS.

Councilman Cantfill offered an order for $400 to resurface Marsh street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Gardner offered an order appropriating $400 to connect the cells at the police station with the public sewer. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

Councilman Cantfill offered an order for an arc light on Phipps street. Referred to Executive.

CALENDAR.

The orders appropriating $500 to equip playgrounds and $340 to maintain playgrounds were passed.

The orders granting the Telephone Co. attachments, etc., and the Electric Light Co. a location for poles were passed.

SHORTER LOANS.

The loan order for $9,400 took its second reading and the rules were suspended.

Councilman Richards believed that the loan on the order should be for a shorter period. It was not good policy to extend a loan over ten years when the street would be worn out before the loan was paid. We pay over $87,000 a year for interest. That means $300 a day.

Councilman Whiton; the condition of city is not bad, but this is poor financing. The last $1,000 of this loan will cost $360 for interest. He believed it should be paid in one year. If it was a permanent improvement there would be some excuse.

Councilman Bryant moved to amend the borrowing clause so that half of the loan should come due in 1911 and half in 1913.

Councilman Whiton moved to amend by making the loan all fall due next year. He later withdrew his motion.

Councilman Gardner believed in paying as we go. He would like to see the bills paid right up.

In reply to a question, Commissioner Bainbridge said if the granite teams were kept off of Trafford street it would last for ten years.

Councilman Branch said that he understood a large part of the amount for Trafford street was for surface drainage an dedgstones. It was an injustice for the city to pay for edgestones in one street and in the next make the abutters pay for it.

Councilman Bryant believed in one-year loan. He did not want to do too much however at the present time. There is now $112,000 falling due next year and there are other things likely to come up that will have to be paid next year.

It was then that Concilman Whiton withdrew his motion to amend.

In reply to a question, Commissioner Bainbridge said that on the Trafford street order $1,400 was for surface drainage and $2,000 for curbing.

Councilman Gardner did not see why some people should be assessed for curbing and others not. There was something wrong somewhere.

The motion of Councilman Bryant was adopted and the order placed in the calendar.

On motion of Councilman Whiton the order was referred to the Committe on Streets.

APPROPRIATION ORDERS.

The order appropriating $1,725 for fire alarm boxes was passed.

The order appropriating $800 for crosswalks was passed.

The order appropriating $2,500 to settle claims tok its second reading.

Councilman Whiton was called to the chair.

Taking the floor Councilman Hobbs moved to amend by making the date the loan should be paid Dec. 1, 1910, instead of July 1, 1911.

Continuing Councilman Hobbs said that as the City Solicitor did not want to give an opinion then as to the legality of issuing the bond as suggested by his amendment he would move to lay on the table.

Councilman Bryant opposed. If the Mayor had anything in the miscellaneous he could pay these claims. He did not believe the loan could be sold for so short a term.

Councilman Hobbs said this was the first time that he could remember that money was borrowed for such a purpose. He did not know why it should not be taken care of as in other years. This matter should be taken hold of in a rational manner.

In reply to a question, City Solicitor McAnarney said that some of the claims were of long standing. In one case that he had agreed to settle he had held the man waiting for six months. If he should sue the city he would recover five times what he had agreed to settel for.

The motion to lay on the table was lost.

Councilman Hobbs, this is a new departure in finance. These matters should be settled without coming to the council for a loan.

The amendment of Councilman Hobbs was lost, on a rising vote of 10 yes and 11 no.

The order was then passed to be ordained.

On motion of Councilman Bryant the rules were suspended and it voted that when the Council adjourn it be until July 11.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order changing the location of the victuallers' license of John Pelesi. Adopted.

Councilman Flynn offered an order granting M. T. Sullivan an auctioneer's license. Adopted.

Councilman Moir offered an order for three lights on Walnut street, Atlantic. Referred to the Executive.

Just before the City Council adjourned Monday night, President Hobbs made a statement in regard to the order providing for half holidays for city laborers. His statement, which was to set himself right on the question, was as follows:

"I doubt if anyone intends to intentionally misstate my position on any subject, but there has been so much said in relation to the vote on the so-called 'half-holiday measure' that perhaps it would be no harm for me to make a plain statement of facts.

"In the first place, all roll calls as you know are taken by the clerk of the Council.

"During the time I have been President, the clerk has without a single exception totaled the number of votes and I have invariably announced them as given me by him.

"The figures at the bottom of the roll call showed 9 in favor and 10 against the adoption of the amendment offered by the minority of the Committee of Finance, and was so announced by me.

"A vote by me would have been merely a political appeal for popular favor which I would rather refrain from doing.

"I have never believed that an appeal to class prejudice would be beneficial to the community at large, and the laboring man is the last of whom a political foot ball should be made.

"It would be more than useless for me to say that I would or would not have voted for the order, and undoubtedly the best way to show what a man might do is by his past conduct.

"On July 8, 1907, a similar order was before the then Council and on two roll calls I am recorded as voting in favor of the adoption of the order."

Adjourned at 10.44 until July 11.

HOME FOR NURSES

Has Long Been Needed at Our City Hospital

Hearing that some kind friends are struggling for a Nurses' Home I give a small sketch of the Nures' room and life at Quincy City Hospital, hoping it will help show our great need.

We begin in the attic. It is up two flights the last, a steep and narrow way—with sloping eaves, which as you may imagine, add not coolness in summer or warmth in winter. There is one large fan shaped window. In the center is a large chimney. This chimney is a great factor in the attic. It has all the advantages of a disadvantage, protecting the probationer from the cold draughts as the wind swirls up into her dark corner,—also shutting off the light and air. It also, in dressing, if one wishes to be exclusive, affords protection from curiosity and mishap. Really one is often tempted to pray, as to a heathen God, "Protect us! Protect us! and please do not move." There is a bed in each corner under the eaves, and here we are taught evolution, and incidentally our place in the laws of the universe and the Quincy City Hospital.

The Probationer—with high ideals and dreams of helpfulness—is put in to her dark corner, and simply evolves around the chimney as time goes on. She comes to the "Senior Attic Nurse's" bed by the book case in the corner of honor. Oh thou envied one! Not as the butterfly from its cocoon, but with tired feet, and much shop worn, she moves her belongings, and crosses off the months. We had one electric light, some times a candle if there was a storm,) on the wrong side of the chimney for the Prob; and sharp and glaring for the Senior Attic Nurse." There are two small closets for four of us, one in the dark corner by the "Prob's" bed under the eaves, and one in the tiny hall. These divided into two parts, leave very little room to search or quarrel over. Here also evolution is taught, as the Prob, leaves her bed in the dark corner under the eaves. She also comes out of the dark corner of the closet—and her belongings are treated with the respect, one always gives to growing greatness.

How well I remember my first night as Probationer—It was a dark cold stormy night. We had no heat in the Attic then. I have since observed that had its compensations—for while we were entirely put into cold storage, almost unable to dress, our hands were so stiff, some cold mornings. Now the poor Prob has her head literally steamed, while the gentle stormy winds sweep over her feet. Well, on with the night! You all know how vivid first impressions are. We were finally tucked away under the eaves, four of us, each in her own corner. And I lay and listened to my room mates sleep. One nice faithful girl sighed like the sea coming and going. Another tossed and moaned. The third simply lay on her back and snored long and loud "All thro' the night"— and I said. "Is this waking? Then a nightmare would be bliss. As one lies wakeful and restless among these soothing sounds you have a mad longing to "Take your playthings and go Home." As the night drags on to dawning day, you feel quite sure you have lost your desire to become a Nurse, and "to help in some real, even if small, way"—If some kind friends were not waiting to say "I told you so"—and your fading ideals did not persist in clustering around those sick and suffering ones in the Ward, that attract, yet half frighten you, well I imagine many of us would not be graduates of the Q. C. H..

Then too, the days and evenings have their troubles. One nurse comes off duty tired, weary, wishing to rest or sleep. Another feels especially frolicsome, with good news, on pleasure in view. Another with studying or a lecture to do, and perhaps the fourth in tears from some especially trying day. You can imagine how calmly each rested and with what strength of body, mind and serenity of soul each returns to her duties among the sick. Of course, our Superintendent made "The Attic" as attractive as possible. And we had our fun. With impromtu spreads, "High up Vaudevilles"—In cold winter our favorites were "Let's gather 'round the fire place" and "There'll be a hot time in old town tonight." On hot summer nights we recited with most melting feeling—"The Snow, The Beautiful, Beautiful Snow!" and sang with the salty perspiration streaming over us—"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."

Then as the year goes on we evolve downward to a real room with two beds. But that, and the Night Nurse, is another story—and "The half has never, never been told."

A Graduate.

QUINCY HIGH BOYS.

Paul Blackmur, president of the 1911 Class Q. H. S. issues the following notice: Every boy in the classes of 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1913, is urgently requested to attend a meeting to be held at Union hall, Wednesday, June 29, at 8.00 P. M., to form plans for entering a feature in the coming Fourth of July parade. Several fine suggestions have already been offered but more are wished for. A committee representing all the wards of the city will be elected to have charge of affairs.

Soak the clothes over-night.

It loosens the dirt and makes the work of washing very much easier.

Use three tubs, one for table linen, one for bed and body linen, one for the soiled towels and cloths.

Wet the clothes, rub Lenox Soap Solution over the soiled parts, fold and roll each piece by itself, pack in a tub, cover with warm soapy water and let stand over-night.

TO MAKE LENOX SOAP SOLUTION:—Take a cake of Lenox Soap, cut it into small pieces, dissolve these in three quarts of boiling water. Keep water at boiling point until a solution is formed.

Lenox Soap Solution does better work than soap; and is more economical, because there is no waste.

BRIEFS

Miss Lulu Moody is on her vacation trip in Vermont.

John Hayden has purchased and repaired a house on South street.

Mrs. John Burton will visit relatives in New York this summer.

Miss Emma Hayden of Washington court will teach in the Quincy public schools next term.

William Cranshaw of Edison street will work at the Fore River works during the school vacation.

The City bathhouse has attractions for people of other towns and Mrs. W. L. Brainard of Braintree is one of the daily visitors.

Rev. W. B. Ayers, pastor of the Park and Downs church has leased the Frazier etsate at 38 Beale street for a parsonage. It is very pleasantly located.

Mrs. George Weston of Providence, R. I. has been visiting friends the past week in Quincy and Boston, and is in such good health her friends are considering the question of moving to the busy little city. Mrs. Weston spent Sunday with her friends Captain and Mrs. Weed.

Mrs. Alexander Rose and son, Mortimer of Warren avenue left Monday to be with her mother Mrs. Andrew Souther of Cohasset for a three weeks visit. The rest of the summer they will visit her sister Mrs. Herbert J. Skinner at North Attleboro, Mr. Rose's firm having sent him to Attleboro for the summer.

Something should be done to prevent so much crushed stone being strewn on our streets while being carted from the stone crusher. This is particularly noticeable on up grades. The tip carts are heaped full and there is nothing to hold the stone in behind. The hill on Chestnut street today is strewn with this stone, which is not only unsightly, but dangerous to travel both for horses and automobiles.

NOT LIKELY TO RUN

Hughes Disinclined to Give Up Place In Supreme Court

Washington, June 28.—Representative Parsons of New York, who was at the White House, said upon leaving that he did not think that anyone would be able to convince Governor Hughes that he ought to give up his place on the supreme court bench and again run for governor.

Mr. Parsons said that at the request of Hughes he was looking for a permanent home for the governor in Washington to be occupied by him this fall when he comes to enter upon his duties on the supreme bench.

CONSIDERED SIGNIFICANT

La Follette Discusses Questions of the Day With Roosevelt

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 28.—Robert La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin, who is sometimes called "the father of the insurgent movement," and his law partner, G. E. Roe, were Mr. Roosevelt's visitors at Sagamore Hill yesterday afternoon.

The work of the session of congress just ended was rediscussed from every point of view, and the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy was considered at considerable length.

This much was admitted by La Follette, but he declined to go into details and referred the interviewers to Sagamore Hill.

After La Follette's statements had been repeated to Roosevelt he said: "There is nothing I can add to what the senator has said, but Senator La Follette sent a telegram asking to come here. I am not inviting anyone to come to Sagamore Hill."

BOTH PREACHERS' SONS

Jack Johnson States That His Father Was Also a Parson

Reno, Nev., June 28.—About the only thing out of the regular routine that has happened here is the discovery that Jack Johnson's father was a preacher.

If this should prove to be true, there will be two preachers' sons engaged in fistic combat on the Fourth of July. Jeffries' father has been a minister of the gospel all his life, and his permanent home is said to be in Ohio, although he travels about the country considerably.

Jack Johnson is authority for the statement that he is the son of a minister, but Jack fails to state where he officiated during his lifetime, so that Jack's word must be taken for the story.

TEN-YEAR SENTENCE IS GIVEN PITTMAN

Convicted of Conspiracy Against Madriz Government

Bluefields, Nic., June 28.—William P. P. Pittman, captured by the Madriz forces in the fighting around Bluefields, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for conspiracy against the Madriz government by a court martial at Bluefields Bluff.

Pittman is a Cambridge, Mass., man, born there 27 years ago. His mother, three brothers and a sister reside in Cambridge. Ten years Pittman left home to see the world, and in ten years traveled about all over the globe. He perfected himself in marine and mechanical engineering, served in the navy in Cuban waters, and during the past two years was engaged in the engineering department connected with the construction of the Panama canal.

It was from the isthmus that he went to Nicaragua upon the outbreak of the revolution, and with engineers in demand, he rose from a lieutenancy to the rank of a colonel in the insurgent army. This rank he held at the time of his capture.

SCARED BY STAGE INDIAN

Woman May Not Recover From Shock at Moving Picture Show

New York, June 28.—Uttering a piercing scream, a woman with a baby boy in her arms suddenly slipped from her seat and fell to the floor in convulsions at a moving picture parlor here. The lights were turned low at the time, while pictures representing "The Forest Ranger," a play of the wild west, were being thrown on the screen.

As the woman and child fell the spotlight had just been turned on an Apache Indian, who, to add realism to the pictures, was posing by the side of the platform, terrible in war paint and feathers. The woman fell almost at his feet, and it is said she will not recover.

MEAT PRICES FOR WOOD

New York Public Paid $28,000 For "Spreaders" During 1909.

New York, June 28.—W. H. Noyes, a representative of Swift & Co., testified at a hearing at the city hall that in 1909 the New York public paid for 225,000 pounds of wood "spreaders" in its meat, at an estimated expenditure of $28,000.

He gave his figures to refute statistics prepared by the city bureau of weights and measures. The bureau's estimate placed the amount of wood purchased in New York as meat last year at 587,000 pounds.

"Dakota Dan" Denied Jury

Boston, June 28.—"Dakota Dan," claimant No. 1 to the Russell estate in Melrose, was denied a jury trial on his appeal from the decision of Judge Lawton. This means that the trial of "Dakota Dan's" appeal will be heard by a single justice.

LARGE FINE IMPOSED

Judge Avery to Assist in Reform of Houghs Neck

Judge Avery took occasion Monday to read a lecture to young men who visit Houghs Neck and create a disturbance. The case in question was that of Frank La Cain who was arraigned for assault on Matthew J. Connors at Houghs Neck on Sunday. La Cain and a companion came over from Peddocks island and landed at the steamboat wharf.

Both had been drinking, and La Cain's companion was arrested. La Cain started an argument with Mr. Connors and then made an assault upon him, and was arrested by Lieut. McKay.

In imposing a fine of $25 Judge Avery said it was time that fines sufficiently large were imposed that would put a stop to such actions. If young men could not come to these places and behave themselves they should be punished by large fines. This would have a tendency to check the disturbances.

WHY SO MUCH DEVILTRY?

One of Penniman's taxi cabs had a narrow escape from meeting with a serious accident one evening recently, while crossing the Quincy Point bridge. The accident was due to the work of some person who closed the gate across the bridge. The gate in question is one that is swung across the bridge when the draw is open. In other times it is against the side of the bridge. Some maliciously inclined person closed the gate, and as there are no lights on the bridge the gate was not seen until the taxi banged into it. The result of the impact was to smash the radiator and hood of the car, as well as to smash the gate. The driver had the car under contol, and stopped it immediately. It was only by good fortune that some one was not seriously injured, for had the taxi been on the opposite side of the bridge the gate would have struck the driver in the head.

It would seem as though some method should be devised to lock the gate when it is open, so that evil-minded persons could not close it.

BOSTON FLORAL EMBLEM SO.

The twelfth annual distribution of plants, flowers and flags by this Society to the children of the poorer districts of Boston will take place Monday, July fourth, from the Floral Emblem Society's Tent on Boston common, near the Soldiers' monument. For the past twelve years it has been the aim of this ociety to promote a more rational observance of our National Independence Day, and the method adopted in this distribution of flowers and flags has brought sunshine and happiness into many homes where patriotism and the fragrance of flowers is little known.

That the work may attain the success it has met in past years and advance the popular movement of today, of a safe and saner Fourth, we again ask the co-operation of all interested people and especially the florists. Flowers sent to the North and South stations, marked Floral Emblem Society, care Armstrong Transfer Co., will be delivered free. Friends out of town can have flowers forwarded by train free of change if Secretary is notified in time to arrange for the same.

Contributions of money, however small, will be appreciated and may be sent to the Treasurer, Mrs. Lue Stuart Wadsworth, 112 Huntington avenue, Boston. If donations of flowers are made, please notify the Secretary that, asknowledgement may be made. Flowers may be sent to tent of Floral Emblem Society, on the Common, Sunday afternoon, or early Monday morning, July 3d and 4th. Friends are invited to witness the distribution, 10.30 to 11.30 A. M.—Mrs. J. H. Googins, President.

IN REALM OF DIPLOMACY

American Authorities Must Decide as to Extradition of Charlton

Rome, June 28.—The foreign office has decided to follow the provisions of the Italian-American extradition conventions and to ask for the extradition of Porter Charlton, leaving it with the American authorities to accept or refuse the request.

With this decision the Lake Como murder case enters the realm of diplomacy, and the outcome of the exchanges between Rome and Washington will be followed with an interest quite outside that attaching to the murder of Mrs. Charlton.

As soon as it was known here that the confessed slayer was under arrest in the United States, the ministry of justice recognized the unusual situation in which the Italian authorities were placed and forthwith referred the whole matter to the foreign office.

WITHOUT A MALE ESCORT

English Suffragist and Friend Ordered From Refreshment Room

Boston, June 28.—Mrs. Dora Montefiore, the London suffragist and socialist, who is in Boston at present proclaiming equal rights for women, was last night ordered out of the English room of the Thorndike hotel, whither she had gone in the company of Mrs. Corinne Brown, her hostess, for the purpose of getting a cup of tea.

Both Mrs. Montefiore and Mrs. Brown vented their feelings freely against the treatment which they claim was an insult to themselves and their sex.

The only explanation that the waiter who ordered them out gave to their protests was that women unescorted by men were not to be served and had to leave the room.

WILL SIFT FOREIGN QUARTER OF LYNN

Police Instructed to Drive Out All Undesirable Citizens

Lynn, Mass., June 28.—Mayor Rich issued instructions to the police yesterday afternoon to give the foreign quarters of the city a thorough overhauling. He instructed the police inspectors to go through those sections of the city where foreigners live, interview all strangers, and if they cannot give a satisfactory explanation of their presence in the city to either arrest them or railroad them out of town.

The order followed a report which reached him to the effect that the three bandits who shot up the city Saturday had been hanging about Andrews street for several days.

No one has come forward to claim the remains of "Joe" Androki, the bandit who was killed. Andrew Epsom, who is in the hospital, is in an extremely critical condition and his death is hourly expected.

Wasili Ivanowski, the yegg who was captured practically uninjured after he had taken the leading part in the outrage Saturday, was held without bail in the Lynn court on the charge of double murder. His case will go to the superior court at the next session.

SALARY FOR REST OF LIFE

Services of Retiring Director of Art Museum Are Appreciated

New York, June 28.—Sir Caspar P. Clarke, for five years director of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts, tendered his resignation yesterday because his health is poor and his physicians have advised him not to spend another winter in New York city.

In accepting the resignation of the British art connoisseur, the trustees, J. P. Morgan presiding, adopted resolutions of regret, and provided that his full salary shall continue for a year, and that he shall receive a salary of $5000 a year for life.

Sir Caspar is 54 years old and one of the best known art critics in the world.

Warehouse Fraud Indictments

Albany, June 28.—Edward A. Durant, Gibson Oliver, Henry C. Palmer and Grain Inspector Conley were indicted for vast warehouse receipts frauds in which the grain firm of Elmore & Durant lost over $700,000.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED,

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Quincy People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Quincy who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Quincy. Here's Quincy testimony:

Charles Somers, 17 Newcombe Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "It is a pleasure for me to make known to other kidney sufferers, the benefit I received from Doan's Kidney Pills. I had lame back as the result of weak kidneys, for about ten years. I could get no relief from the many remedies I tried and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before long this remedy completely cured me. I shall always praise Doan's Kidney Pills.

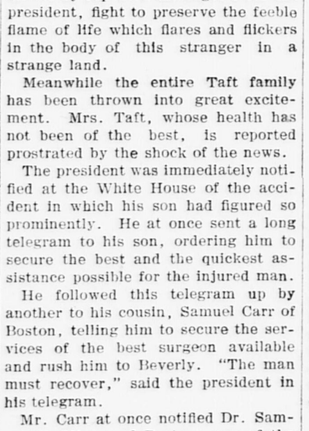
ROBERT A. TAFT
He Figures Prominently In Automobile Accident



AUTO DRIVEN BY YOUNG TAFT

Strikes and Dangerously Injures Unknown Foreign Laborer

HIS RECOVERY IS DOUBTFUL

President's Son Robert Was Giving Friends a Ride When Machine Tossed Road Repairer Into Gutter, Fracturing His Skull—President Makes Every Effort to Secure Services of Best Surgeon Available

Beverly, Mass., June 28.—The President of the United States kept the wires hot to save the life of an unknown foreign laborer who has been in this country so short a time that he is known as Road Repairer 38.

The man was struck by an automobile driven by Robert Taft, the president's son. He now lies at death's door in Beverly hospital, while surgeons and nurses, urged to greater efforts by repeated messages from the president, fight to preserve the feeble flame of life which flares and flickers in the body of this stranger in a strange land.

Meanwhile the entire Taft family has been thrown into great excitement. Mrs. Taft, whose health has not been of the best, is reported prostrated by the shock of the news.

The president was immediately notified at the White House of the accident in which his son had figured so prominently. He at once sent a long telegram to his son, ordering him to secure the best and the quickest assistance possible for the injured man.

He followed this telegram up by another to his cousin, Samuel Carr of Boston, telling him to secure the services of the best surgeon available and rush him to Beverly. "The man must recover," said the president in his telegram.

Mr. Carr at once notified Dr. Samuel J. Mixter of Boston, one of the best known surgeons in the country. When notified by Carr of the president's wishes he set out at once for Beverly.

The president ordered his son to find the man's family and see that it was properly cared for. Young Taft cannot do this unless his victim recovers consciousness.

Robert Taft, with two college friends, had started out from the summer White House for a spin along the North Shore. Robert had the steering wheel and the others sat behind.

At Pride's Crossing, about two miles from Taft's home, the streets are being oiled by some men. The automobile was slowed down, the horn sounded and most of the men stepped aside. One of them, however, was not quick enough, and the machine struck him, tossing him into the gutter. He was unconscious when picked up by Taft and his two friends.

No one can give the president's son any assurance that the injured man will recover. The hospital officials say that the man's skull was fractured, while there are cuts and bruises on other parts of the body, none of which, however, are of a serious character.

The machine, according to the police investigation, was traveling at a rate varying between thirteen and fifteen miles an hour when the laborer was struck.

Plans to Punish Beef Trust Heads

Chicago, June 28.—Plans for the government's fight to land the beef trust heads individually with fines or convictions were laid in a conference between Assistant Attorney General Wilkerson and Assistant Attorney General Kenyon, who arrived here from Washington.

New Church Army In the Field

New York, June 28.—Another national military-religious organization entered the field with the incorporation in the supreme court of the American Church Army. Its purpose as set forth are similar to those of the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America.

HALF A CHANCE

SYNOPSIS

A party of tilled passengers on a ship bound for Australia visit a section "below decks" where a gang of convicts sentenced to deportation are confined. The ship, the Lord Nelson is wrecked. A convict, the "Fr sco Pet," jumps overboard with Jocelyn Wray, a pretty little girl. The convict, after returning the girl to her friends is himself later cast away alone on a deserted island.

For a week nothing of moment interrupted the even tenor of his existence. He led the life of a savage and found it to his liking, pounced upon turtles and cooked them, kept his fire going because he had but few matches. One day a box was washed ashore, a message from the civilized centers to the field of primitive man: On its cover were the words, "Via Sailing Vessel Lord Nelson," followed by the address. The convict pried the boards apart and gave a shout. Rum, and plenty of it—bottle after bottle in an overcoat of straw, nestling lovingly one upon another! The man licked his lips, knocked off a neck, drank deep, and then, stopping many times, carried his treasure to his bower.

Day after day turned its page, merged into the past; sometimes, perforce, he got up, and, not a pleasant thing to look at, staggered to the beach with his club. There he would slay some crawling thing from the sea, return with his prize to mingle eating with drinking until, sated with both, he would fall back unconscious among the flowers. But the prolonged indulgence began to have a marked effect on his store. Bottle after bottle was tossed off, the empty shells flung aside to the daisies. At length the day came when only two bottles remained in the case, one full pair, sole survivors of the lot. The man took them out, set them up and regarded them; a sense of impending disaster, of imminent tragedy, shivered through his dulled consciousness. He reached for the bottles and fondled them, started to knock the head from one and put it down. Resisting desire, he told himself he would have a look at the beach; the ocean had generously cast one box of well primed bottles at his feet; perhaps it would repeat its hospitable action and make him once more the recipient of its bounty. The thought buoyed him to the shore; the sea lapped the sand with Lydian whispers, and there, beyond the edge of the soft singing ripples, he saw something that made him rub his dazed eyes.

A box, a big box, a box as tall as he was! No paltry dozen or two this time! Perhaps there was whisky, too, and the bubbling stuff the long necked lords had sometimes pressed upon him in the past when he had "ousted" his man and put quids in their pockets or some of that fiery vin—something he had once indulged in with a Johnny Frenchman before he took to the tunnel, when he had been free to swagger through old Leicester square. Anyhow, he would soon find out, and, rushing through the wafer, he laid a proprietary hand on the box.

A long time he battered and battered in vain with his rocks; but, after an hour or so, he succeeded in splintering his way through the tough pine. In his befuddled, half crazed condition he had thought only of bottles. What he found proved a different sort of merchandise.

Maddened, he tossed and scattered the contents of the box on the beach. The ocean had deceived him, laughed at him, cheated him. He turned from the shore unsteadily, walked back to his camp and knocked the neck from one of the two remaining bottles. A few hours later, sodden, sottish, he lay without motion, face to the sky. And as he breathed thickly, one bleeding hand still holding the empty bottle, a bird from an overhanging branch looked down upon him—a tiny bird, little bigger than his thumb, that carried a bright, beautiful spot of red on its breast, cocked its head questioningly.

WHAT HE FOUND PROVED A DIFFERENT SORT OF MERCHANDISE.

ULTIMATUM FROM VATICAN TO SPAIN

Asks Withdrawal of Decree Giving Rights to Non-Catholics

Madrid, June 28.—The Vatican's latest note to the Spanish government is regarded as practically an ultimatum. It insists upon the withdrawal of the decree of June 11 authorizing non-Catholic organizations to display their insigna as a condition precedent to the continuation of the negotiations over the revision of the concordat. The Republicans and Radicals are organizing throughout Spain counter manifestations against the Catholic agitation.

Republicans who were making an anti-Catholic demonstration entered the Carlist club rooms at Bilbao and rioting folowed. The police intervened, but before the fight was stopped one man had been killed and many others injured.

FINED AND JAILED

Healer Must Pay $100 and Spend Six Months Behind the Bars

Fitchburg, Mass., June 28.—Dr. Joseph Ouillette, claiming to have power received by inheritance from his father to heal the sick by laying on of hands, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction and was fined $100 on charge of attack upon a young woman and for holding himself to be a physician.

Several women witnesses testified to Ouillette's peculiar methods, and he himself admitted kissing one.

DIAZ REMAINS AT THE HELM

His Running Mate, Corral, Also Re-elected In Mexico

PRESENT POLICIES CONTINUE

Assured by Almost Certain Advancement of Vice President to Succeed Diaz, Who Is Eighty Years Old—Means Encouragement of American Capital and Development of Agriculture In Republic of Mexico

Mexico City, June 28.—Porfirio Diaz, the 80-year-old statesman who has been President of Mexico for twenty-six years, has been again chosen to succeed himself, thus insuring a continuation of the Diaz regime for another six years, or at least as long as the veteran statesman lives.

Ramon Corral has been re-elected vice president. In the event of the aged president's death before the end of his term Corral, who would succeed him, is expected to continue the Diaz policies in force.

The anti-electionists' ticket, headed by Francisco I. Maderio, now under arrest in San Luis Potosi, received about 20 percent of the vote cast in Mexico City. It is estimated that between 40,000 and 50,000 votes were cast in the capital. The city was free from disorder of a serious nature.

Whatever fight there was against the administration seems to have been concentrated on the nominee for the vice presidency, who is being groomed by the party in power as the successor of Diaz. Corral believes in the encouragement of American investments in Mexico and protection of all foreign interests in the republic, on the theory that they are necessary to progress. His active attitude in this respect has engendered widespread opposition to him, but by the same token his candidacy has been favored by the capitalistic class, domestic and foreign.

Senor Corral is a highly educated man, 55 years old, who has been governor of Sonora, his native state; governor of the federal district and minister of the interior. He is the father of nine children, all of whom were partly educated in the United States.

He is not a military man, like most of the governors and public men, but is a hard working, practical citizen who knows more about street lighting, irrigation, drainage and kindred things than about military affairs. One of his hobbies is the development of the agricultural resources of Mexico to place them on a par with the mining activities.

Those who have American capital invested in Mexico have been strongly favorable to the re-election of Diaz and Corral. It is estimated there is about one billion in gold of such capital.

LOMBARD IS SENTENCED

Former Treasurer of Framingham Gets Term In State Prison

Cambridge, Mass., June 28.—John B. Lombard, 60 years old, former treasurer of the town of Framingham, was sentenced to from ten to fifteen years in state prison by Judge Stevens in the Middlesex superior court on the charge of forging names to notes aggregating $320,000.

Although Lombard listened to the reading of the sentence with a semblance of composure, he broke down completely as he left the courtroom in charge of two officers and had practically to be carried across the street to the jail.

Lombard, in charge of Deputy Sheriffs Wardwell and Eveleth, was later taken in a closed carriage to the state prison.

CUNNIFF IS INDICTED

Witness Who Testified In Keliher Trial Charged With Perjury

Boston, June 28.—John A. Cunniff, a witness for the defense at the trial of William J. (Big Bill) Keliher for abetting George W. Coleman in stealing the funds of the National City bank of Cambridge, was brought into the United States circuit court on an indictment charging him with perjury. Cunniff was secretly indicted by the grand jury last week.

Before Judge Colt he was admitted to bail in $1000. He will not plead until next fall. The government asserts that Cunniff knowingly gave false testimony at the Keliher trial.

BRIEFS

Russell Pray of Dorchester visited his uncle on Wharf street, Sunday.

Walter Mead will visit his grandfather, Walter S. Redding, at Plymouth.

Carlton McNeil, a popular Quincy Point young man, has accepted a position in Boston.

Another meeting of the Fourth of July Parade committee will be held this evening at Union hall.

Mrs. William Hill of Washington street, Braintree, passed away this morning in her 80th year. Funeral services will be held Thursday morning.

From the debate at the Council meeting it would appear that some police officers had been doing some electioneering in addition to doing patrol duty.

The annual picnic of Bethany church and Sunday school will be held tomorrow. Nantasket is the place and special cars will leave City Square at 9.25 A. M.

Mrs. William Patterson of Wollaston had the misfortune to break her wrist by a fall while coming from Odd Fellows' hall Sunday evening. She was coming down stairs when she tripped and fell.

There are 13,480 square feet of land with a street frontage of 385 feet in the Washington street estate of F. F. Prescott adverised to be sold at auction on Friday at 5 P. M. Every foot is available for building purposes.

An election of officers was held Sunday by the Pride of Quincy lodge, I. O. B. A. Joseph Szathimary was re-elected president, Louis Stone was elected vice-president, John Berman, treasurer, Ike Shane ,trustee for one year.

At a meeting of the Clan McGregor last night it was voted not to enter the Fourth of July parade. A large number of its members belong to other organizations and will parade with them. This eliminates an interesting feature as the bagpipes and Highland costumes would have added to the parade.

A number of friends of Olaf Jacobson of Clarks avenue, West Quincy, presented him with a purse of $100 in gold Saturday evening. The committee in charge were August Johnson, Charles Larson and Jacob Jacobson. Mr. Jacobson and his family were greatly surprised and grateful and thanked their friends profusely. Mr. Jacobson was recently injured while at work and is obliged to go about on crutches. The party was entertained and served with refreshments, and spent a very enjoyable evening.

BURNING WAS FATAL

Clothing of Little Girl Caught from Bonfire

Hazel, the 7 year old daughter of Mrs. Etta L. Tracy of Granite street, East Milton, died at the Quincy City Hospital, early this morning from burns received Monday afternoon. The little girl, with others, was playing about a bonfire in a vacant lot near her home, when her clothing took fire, and before the flames could be extinguished she was terribly burned. The little girl was removed to the hospital where she died about 1 A. M.

SUICIDE

bring the body to Quincy and it is expected today.

Last April the mother of the Smith girl was summoned into court for neglecting to send her young children to school. At that time the case was coninued until May 13, and on the latter day again continued until today for final disposition. Mrs. Smith however, did not appear in court this morning.

BRIEFS

The Daughters of St. George held memorial services on Sunday afternoon at Clan McGregor hall for members who have passed away durin gthe year. Addresses were made by the president and vice president.

The amusement committee o fthe Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor enjoyed a theatre party to American Music hall, Boston, Saturday. It was very much enjoyed. Those who attended were Mrs. Fanny Wood, Mrs. Charlotte Scarborough, Mrs. Isabelle Pierce, Mrs. Catherine Falconer, Mrs. Catherine Gordon, Mrs. Jennie Mitchell and Mrs. Margaret Gammon.

Funeral services for Aloysius Lynch, who was drowned in Wendall's quarry last week were held at Canton on Saturday morning at St. John's Catholic church. The interment was at St. Mary's cemetery, Canton Corner. A large delegation of Fore River apprentices attended the funeral of their former shopmate. The pall bearers were William Spargo, Daniel Mahon, John Anderson and William Butler, all apprentices.

PICKING A VOCATION.

A national congress on the subject of vocational guidance, the first ever held to consider the important question of aiding children in the choice of vocations, will be held in Boston in November of this year.

The chamber of commerce has extended to the congress an invitation to use the chamber's building, and the chamber will itself invite commercial organizations in all parts of the country to take part in the conference.

The organizations which will be invited will include chambers of commerce, boards of trade, commercial clubs, school commerce colleges and universities, city clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s. settlement houses and other civic organizations, city, town and state governments, labor unions, parents' association—all organizations and individuals interested in the problem of giving boys and girls a chance to start in life right. The conference will last for several days. Notable speakers will be obtained, and the conference will develop a logical plan of work.

The first purpose of the congress is to call attention to the enormous waste of the haphazard system of today of sending young people into the world from school, and even from college, absolutely unprepared to face the problem of choosing a life work.

The second purpose of the congress is to devise methods of meeting the problem. The establishment of vocation bureaus, the training of school teachers to advise children, the creation of handbooks and other literature setting forth the requirements, advantages and opportunities of various occupations, provision for continuation of education after a person has begun to work, are some of the ideas already in mind, and the conference will be expected to develop others.—Chelsea Record.

SQUANTUM CAMPERS

Secure an Appropriation from Boston City Council

In its report of the Boston City Council meeting of Monday evening, the Globe says:

"After many amendments had been made the city council finally passed an order that $500 be transferred from the reserve fund to be expended by the superintendent of streets in installing sanitaries and a water system for the benefit of summer campers on the city land in Squantum; also that the superintendent of streets be authorized to issue 200 permits to citizens of Boston to $5 each for the summer; the installation of the sanitaries and the water system to be deferred until 100 permits had been issued and paid for.

SPORTING CHAT.

Saturday's victory certainly justifies the sweeping change made by the Quincy management in the Old Colony league, All of the new men worked well. Briggs' war club was much in evidence, that players hitting out two doubles. Four of the boys got two hits, including Glaze, the former Dartmouth star slabman.

The last shall be first and the first shall be last. Stoughton, from the depths arose and took the game and the lead from the Dewey by a 5 to 4 score. "Wes Ganzel made no hits.

Lincoln and Rockland engaged in an old familiar swatting bee, getting 16 and 11 hits respectively. Lincoln made the most runs but both made an equal number of slip-ups.

The Makarias simply had a walkaway with the Aspinwalls. The local team tried Ed Taber in the box when the game was well in hand. He was formerly with old Hough Neck team and starred quite brilliantly then.

"Al" Artis from the Point is catching gilt-edged ball for the Makarias. Although a light boy he can hold the speedy Stan. Bates without any trouble, and can get the ball off to second in great shape. He is also batting well.

That ninth inning rally by the Apprentices against Cranch was a corker. Seven runs in a bunch is going some.

Boyle, the Apprentices catcher, was nearly spiked in the second, in fact the spike tore his pants, but luckily got no closer.

Canavan, the Copeland pitcher has lots of class.

Saturday was an ideal baseball day.

Mower, at third for Dorchester, plays a pretty game.

The entry blanks for the Fourth of July meet are out. They may be had of C. M. Gifford or the Sporting Editor of the Ledger,

The prizes for the athletic games on the Fourth are in Quincy and on display in Sandberg's window in City Square. Owing to the lateness in ordering the medals they will be not displayed until Wednesday.

TROLLEY PARTY.

The Makaria Fraternity held its annual trolley ride party Monday night, and the 55 who participated pronounced it the best ever. The party left City Square in a special electric car at 6.55, nearly every fellow being accompanied by a young lady friend. Arriving at Nantasket, Paragon Park was visited where the different sights were taken in and dancing was enjoyed. The party left for home at 10.30, and on the way refreshments of fruit and confectionery were served. Quincy was reached about 11.30.

SPORTING NOTES.

The matinee meet of the Old Colony driving club was run off at Weymouth Saturday afternoon, Class C. furnishing the best racing. Roy K. won in the Class C. trotting event, though he was pushed to the limit. His time was 1:11 1-2.

Frank Drake's gelding took third in the Class K. mixed races.

—In New York the other day, the son of a millionaire was fined $1,000 and sentenced to a day's imprisonment for an acknowledged third violation of the automobile speed law. The jail sentence lasted half an hour, being committed at 3.30 o'clock and the official day ending at 4. At Trenton, New Jersey, the same day, a wealthy western banker was fined $5,000 for smuggling. These cases suggest that the courts hold offences involving property five times as heinous as those by which human life is endangered.—Milford Gazette.

JOHNSON'S GOOD RECORD.

Negro Pugilist Is Entitled to Be Classed With Game's Greatest.

While there is nothing spectacular in the career of Jack Johnson, the big negro is entitled to be classed with the greatest fighters the ring ever produced. Of his seventy battles fought in the squared arena Johnson has lost only three, one by a knockout, another on a foul and the third on a decision so rank as to be criticised even by Johnson's worst enemies.

On account of his refusal to cut loose he many times has been accused of possessing a yellow streak. However, he is not deserving of this criticism, for he has yet to show a tinge of cowardice. Pugilism at the best has many crooks and turns. It is more of a business than a sport, and Johnson at times owed his ring existence to agreeing to allow a man to stay the limit and making other binding contracts. While Johnson frequently by force of circumstances was restrained from showing his best, many other times by his sheer good nature he refused to punish unnecessarily an opponent, being content to go along and win on points.

Johnson may be likened to a big, overgrown, good natured boy. Any one who ever came in contact with

Johnson will testify to his ever present good nature. "Why should I beat him up? He's a good fellow," is the way Johnson explained one of his suspicious looking battles. More than one of Johnson's opponents have escaped a terrible pummeling simply because of Johnson's aversion to punishing a man whom he had beaten on points.

Johnson's fighting record gives no real idea of his ability. Many believe his statement that he never cut loose and fought his hardest. Again, as in the case of Peter Jackson, white pugilists in many cases have drawn the color line on him. Whether it was because they feared his ability or whether they really objected to boxing with a negro may be surmised.

Johnson is the first man of his color to get the chance to fight for the heavyweight championship since the Queensberry rules were framed.

Johnson is a magnificently built athlete. He is as strong as a bull, catlike and quick, clever and scientific and carries a damaging punch in either hand.

Troop Latest Sprinting Phenom.

The Pacific coast has a new sprinting champion named Troop, who is expected to do great things this year. Only recently he ran the 100 yards in 9 4-5 seconds.

PITCHED BALLS BRING DISASTER

Ball Players Hit by Thrown Sphere Lose Their Form.

MAY FORCE CHANCE TO QUIT

Cubs' Great Leader, Struck on Head by Ball Recently, May Manage Team From Bench—Cases Cited Where Stars Lost Their Effectiveness.

Being hit by a pitched ball may cause Frank Chance to quit as an active player and manage his team from the bench. In the fourth inning of a recent game with Cincinnati the Cubs' great manager was hit on the head by a pitched ball. He fell as if he had been struck by a club. The ball, pitched with all the speed that Gaspar commanded, struck the manager on the left temple and cut open his head. At the expiration of five minutes he was able to hobble to the bench, where his head was bandaged.

Being hit by a pitched ball seems to take the heart out of many ball tossers. Baseball history shows that nearly every star player that has been injured by being struck by a thrown ball is never the same afterward.

For instance, there is Charley Carr, now manager of the Indianapolis team in the American association. Several years ago Carr looked like the best batting and fielding first baseman in the country. He had his nose broken by a pitched ball while traveling with the Detroit club in the south. He was never able to maintain his previous batting ability after that. Detroit traded him to Cleveland for Hickman, and Cleveland sold him to Cincinnati. From the last named town he went to Indianapolis, where he has been ever since.

Hughey Jennings had his big league career cut short by being hit with a pitched ball, as did Oom Paul Kruger, formerly of Pittsburg. Danny Hoffman was Connie Mack's most valuable outfielder until he stopped an inshoot with his eye. The following year he was of little value to Philadelphia and was sold to New York. From there he went to St. Louis, where he has shown some improvement.

Eddie Summers when with Indianapolis gave Jap Barbeau a terrific jolt on the head. For a time it was thought that Barbeau would die as the result of the blow, but he finally recovered and played a brilliant game at short for Toledo the following season. But he has not hit as well as formerly.

Then there was Bill Bradley, whose arm was broken by an inshoot delivered by Bill Hogg, who died recently. Prior to his accident Bradley was a .300 hitter and as much feared by opposing pitchers as Nap Lajoie. But such is the case no more. Prior to being hit by Hogg, Bradley was famed as being particularly skillful in taking his base as a result of being hit with a pitched ball. After that memorable game at New York he attained first by such means less frequently.

Terry Turner has been of little value to Cleveland for two seasons on account of injuries, although when he did play he showed better form than ever before. Elberfeld has been an in and outer because of frequent accidents, and Freddie Parent has been much to the mediocre for the last two seasons.

It was a pitched ball that cut short Parent's career in the major organization. In the season of 1907 the clever little Frenchman was bowled over by a swiftly pitched ball, and he never has battled strong since.

Ed Walsh Forswears Reading.

They are telling this story on "Big Ed" Walsh, the Chicago Americans' star pitcher, who batted poorly last season. A number of Comiskey's players were sitting in a hotel in Washington when a visiting Chicago fan who thought to do Walsh a favor handed the pitcher a Chicago paper with a story more or less complimentary to him.

"Thanks," said Walsh to his friend, "but I have sworn off reading. It isn't good for a fellow's batting."

"My, but what a lot of reading you must have done last season!" replied the obliging fan.

BASEBALL POINTERS

"Walter Johnson has more natural ability than any other pitcher in the game," opines Hughie Jennings.

"Batters are improving, not pitchers deteriorating," is the way President Lynch explains the heavy hitting.

Duffy Lewis is playing wonderful ball for the Boston Americans. He's the California recruit who practiced with the Reds at Hot Springs.

Pittsburg has the best fielding club in the National league, but the pitchers are not going good, and the batting of the Pirates is a little weak this year.

Christy Mathewson is having trouble with his left wrist. He says he doesn't remember having hurt it in any way, but it is stiff and painful. Although it doesn't affect his pitching, it does his batting.

—Under the new automobile law which has just been signed by the governor, 20 per cent of the amount received for registration fees for automobiles and for fines for violations of the laws relating to their use, will go to the small towns for use in the repair of highways. This will be of material benefit to many small places which are not able to expend much money in highway repairs and the consequent improvement in the country roads will make automobile travel in many sections much more enjoyable. Many delightful localities now rarely visited because of the poor roads may thus be rendered more accessible, to the benefit of all concerned. Another important feature of the new law is the prohibtion of the use of freak horns of all kinds to the great relief of the general public.—Milford Gazette.

H. W. RICE ELECTED

As New Principal of the Woodward Institute

A meeting of the directors of the Woodward Institute was held Tuesday afternoon to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Frederic W. Plummer, principal of the Woodward Institute. Horace W. Rice, master of the Natick High school for the past 13 years was elected.

Mr. Rice is a graduate of Brown university in the class of 1881, where he received the degree of M. A. His first school was the Sherborn High school, where he taught one year. From there he went to the Lewis High school at Stonington, Conn., as principal, where he remained two years. He then became principal of the Natick High school, a school of 300 pupils and ten teachers.

Mr. Rice is married and has one son, who was graduated this year from Technology. He was born in Holliston in 1859. He is a member of the Methodist church, and also an Odd Fellow. He is also interested in teachers organizations, being a member of the High School Masters club. Mr. and Mrs. Rice will occupy the house on Greenleaf street which has been the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Plummer.

SMITH-MOODY WEDDING

Former Resident Comes Back to Quincy for Bride

Yesterday afternoon Miss Christine Moody of River street and Fred H. Smith of Weymouth Heights were married by the Rev. Charles Marshall of the Quincy Point Congregational church at the home of the bride. The wedding was very quiet and was attended by the relatives and close friends of the couple.

Both young people are well known and popular in Quincy. Mr. Smith is the son of H. H. I. Smith, the Washington street grocer, and is well known as a ball player having played on various teams in New England.

The couple will spend their honeymoon at Old Orchard, Maine, and will reside with the groom's father at 578 Commercial street, Weymouth Heights on their return.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith received a number of handsome gifts of silver and linen.

☞ Have you tried a Kincaide hammock? If not it is not too late as he has a few more of those canvas ones so popular this season with people who know how to be comfortable.

AT RESIDENCE OF MAYOR

Lawn Party in Aid of St. Mary's Parish

A lawn party and dance in aid of the Garden Party of St. Mary's parish will be held at Mayor Shea's residence, 12 Common street Thursday evening. An interesting program has been aranged and an enjoyable afternoon and evening are anticipated. The committee in charge have been working energetically for the past few weeks, and if the weatherman is kind, one of the best affairs of the summer season will be offered.

The afternoon will be devoted to an entertainment for the children, and prizes have been secured for the little ones. In the evening, dancing will be in order on the lawn , and music for the toe-fantastic will be furnished by a seven-piece orchestra. An interesting fireworks display will close the program for the evening. If the weather is stormy the affair will be held Friday during the same hours.

The committee in charge includes: Miss Catherine Shea, chairman, assisted by the following young ladies: —Nellie Egan, Elizabeth Riley, Susie Pickering, Agnes Smollett, Sarah Mullen, Mary Pickering, Celia Lorandeau, Beatrice Morrissette, Helen Pickering, Josephine Grignon, Mary Sabille, Helen Cronin, Louise Mahoney Emma Colletti, Clara Rouleau, Alice Sabille, Mollie Connolley, Margaret Burke, Mary Dinneen, Grace Egan, Catherine Connors, Louise Pickering.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE ELECT NEW TEACHERS

Vote to Advertise for Plans for New 12-Room School at Wollaston

Progress Being Made on Plans for Montclair School

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening.

COAL CONTRACT.

Francis M. Curtis was appointed as weigher of coal.

The contract for furnishing the hard coal for the schools was awarded to the Neponset River Coal Co., as both J. F. Sheppard & Sons and William Cashman had declined to accept it.

TEACHERS RESIGN.

The resignations of the following teachers were accepted:

Harry Brooks master of the Adams school.

Miss Adeline Williams of the Massachusetts Fields school.

Miss Margurite L. McKeever of the Washington school.

Clarence J. Fouche supervisor of music.

Miss Catherine Carter was transferred from the Gridley Bryant to the Massachusetts Fields school.

Miss Elizabeth G. Anderson was transferred from the Massachusetts Fields school to master's assistant at the Washington school.

NEW TEACHERS.

The following teachers were elected:

Miss Lucy L. Henigar to the Gridley Bryant school.

Miss Lucy Macomber to the Wollaston school.

Miss Emma A. Perkins as supervisor of music. Miss Perkins is now assistant supervisor of music at Medford, and supervisor of music at the Walpole schools.

NEW SCHOOLHOUSES.

It was voted to advertise for plans for a twelve-room brick building for the Wollaston school.

The board then took up the consideration of plans for the new eight-room building at Montclair. Before adjournment the number of plans under consideration had been narrowed down to two.

Another meeting of the board will be held next week Thursday when the plan to be recommended will be decided upon.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

China demands a congress of her own. She knows not what she does.

Nobody ever got hurt that took a joy ride on a pair of plow handles.

The government and the railroads having signed a treatly of peace, business may now resume.

Chicago complains of no t having seen any aeroplane flights. Tut, tut! It is only little vilages that have them.

The Indiana Democrats propose to eliminate Bryan from the fall campaign. The voters may eliminate his old side partner, John W. Kern, also.

Chancellor Day thinks too many men are keeping automobiles instead of supporting wives. The chancellor evidently has no stock in any of the automobile factories.

Champ Clark wants Speaker Cannon's chair, so they say, but as Champ has been wanting it for the past number of years it won't hurt him so bad when he is disappointed.

We hope Natick will have no hard feeling because Quincy is taking so many of its good teachers, but we are never disappointed when we go to Natick. Supt. Barbour has already established himself as a success, and we feel confident that Mr. Rice is just the man to succeed Mr. Plummer at the Woodward Institute.

When the Central Labor Union decides to celebrate Labor Day, as suggested in its open letter today, it will find the Daily Ledger and probably the business men of the city ready to cooperate if permitted. But there must be no ironclad rules. We are ready to give as much publicity to a Labor Day parade as a Fourth of July parade.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The Lynn tragedy calls attention to the danger that is present all the time by reason of so many men carrying concealed weapons. There is law enough to prevent this practice ,and if it were strictly enforced there would be fewer murders and maimings Men come here from foreign countries with the false impression that ours is a land of freedom in which every inhabitant can do what he pleases, without consulting the wishes of anybody but himself. The sale of firearms is as common as the sale of books, and pistols are in the pockets of men who know no control but their own passions. The law is not easy of enforcement. The police cannot search every arrival in the city on suspicion of concealing a deadly weapon, but if severe punishment was sure to follow the discovery of a violator of the law, the number of trangressors would be reduced and the safety of the community increased. The sale of deadly weapons should be restricted, as a precautionary measure, and it should not require many such lessons as that of Saturday to bring about such a result. We do not anticipate a recurrence of the scenes of Saturday, but the said affair may be duplicated and the tragedy should lead to some safer way being devised for the transmission of funds on pay days than is now in common use.—Lynn Item.

We sometimes hear of easy virtues, and there is something charming at first sight about the term and about the fact. These virtues appear to be warm-hearted, generous, forgiving, tolerant, gentle. They have a beautiful surface, but an evil odor sometimes hangs about them. Easy virtue is no virtue; it should be called by its true name, that its real nature be not hidden under flowery terms and fanciful designations. The easy virtue in politicians, public men, the peoples rulers, guides, and ensamples may eat out the honest heart of the nation, and leave but a fetid mass behind. Far better an evil not covered by apparent good deeds, kind acts, considerateness, and tenderness for the woes of humanity, and which shows its ugly features undisguised. —Christian Register.

HE WHO CAN PAY BILLS.

A clergyman in North Adams the other day preached a sermon in which the dominant note was "Pay your bills." He referred to the commandment "Thou shalt not steal," and said that a man or woman who contracts a bill and then makes no effort to pay it is no better than a common thief. This is strong language, but in a way is it not deserved? What right has a man to come to your store or office or to your place of labor and ask you to sell to him merchandise ,or advice, or labor, knowing full well that he doesn't intend if he can help it to ever pay for that which he takes? Merchants and manufacturers even sometimes fail and have to start life anew simply because people they have trusted refuse to make good and settle. Assuredly this can be placed in the category of thefts. Of course it is an entirely different matter when a debtor falls ill or meets with misfortune of any kind that cripples him financially. Merchants and others understand these cases and allow for them, and don't consider the unfortunate in the line of thieves. Anybody is liable to become a debtor without his consent because of the operations of mischance. But the fellow who buys and deliberately refuses to settle is a queer performer ,and deserves whatever may be said about him and whatever troubles he brings upon himself—Brockton Enterprise.

Missourians Start Campaign For Folk For the Presidency

New York, June 29.—A new idea in political campaigning, originated in the interest of the candidacy of ex-Governor Folk of Missouri for the Democratic presidential nomination, is on the eve of practical working out with New England as the field for the experiment.

Six Missourians from the Ozark mountain region left New York today on a tour of New England to tell the people of that section of what Folk has done and to organize the Folk sentiment in each town they visit. The Ozarkers, who form the "advance guard," are headed Bostonwards, where they will join the rest of the delegation and complete the round of New England states.

The trip up today will be utilized by the campaigners to preach Folk gospel to Connecticut, that state being selected as the starting point because one of its sons has served Missouri as an executive in the person of Governor Phelps.

POLITICS WARMING UP IN BAY STATE

The Ball Is Set Rolling by Longworth and Lodge

Somerville, Mass., June 29.—"Ain't it awful, Mabel, as we used to say out to Harvard," These were the words used by Congressman Longworth, son-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, to characterize the opposition against Senator Lodge in Massachusetts.

It was at the opening rally of the Republican party held in this city last night. The opening of a campaign at such an early date is unprecedented, but a tremendous crowd turned out.

Congressman Longworth made a stirring speech in defense of Senator Lodge and the new tariff law and before he got through the audience forgot that he was Roosevelt's son-in-law.

Senator Lodge said: "The difference between the Republican senators who voted for the bill and those who voted against it was a question of fact, not a principle. Democrats have an innate hatred of facts. I am not disposed to blame them. Facts are never friendly to Democratic policies."

BOATING PARTY MISSING

Woman and Two Middies Are Thought to Have Been Drowned

Annapolis, Md., June 29.—More than a score of marines are searching the waters of the Severn river for the bodies of Mrs. Nellie E. Bowyer, daughter-in-law of Superintendent Bowyer of the naval academy, and Midshipmen Grisble Thomas and Sherman M. Nason, who, it is believed, have been drowned.

The three left the naval academy in a sailboat and this boat was found drifting. in it were portions of the clothing which was worn by members of the party. All efforts to recover the bodies have been fruitless.

French Casualties In Morocco

Casablanca, Morocco, June 29.—The French punitive expedition in the Shaoult region has routed the partisans of Sheik Maelainin, a fanatical priest. The loss was heavy on both sides, the French losing thirteen killed and seventy-one wounded.

Death of Senator McEnery

New Orleans, June 29.—United States Senator Samuel D. McEnery died suddenly here. He was 73 years old and had represented Louisiana in the United States senate since March 4, 1897.

A better way to wash clothes.

With clean, warm water and a cake of Lenox Soap, any woman can do good work.

But she can do better work—and do it easier—if she uses Lenox Soap Solution.

This is the way to make it: Take a cake of Lenox Soap, cut it into small pieces, dissolve these in three quarts of boiling water. Keep water at boiling point until a solution is formed.

Wet the clothes, rub the solution on the soiled parts, fold and roll each piece separately, pack in a tub, cover with warm soapy water and let stand over night. Next morning, you will find that the really hard part of washing—rubbing the clothes up and down the wash-board—is not half as hard as usual.

RECEPTION AT WOLLASTON

Steamer Rug Presented to Rev. and Mrs. Horst

A large number were present Tuesday evening at the informal reception tendered Rev. Carl G. Horst in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church. In the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Robinson, the latter who are removing to Sharon next week.

Dr. Charles S. Adams in behalf of the parish presented Mr. Horst with an elegant steamer rug, bidding him God-speed and a safe return. In his reply Rev. Mr. Horst besides thanking the parish for its thoughtfulness, added a word in appreciation of the work of Mr. and Mrs . Robinson in the church.

For a number of years Fr. Robinson has efficiently filled the office of clerk of the parish, and his leaving is felt with regret. The office of clerk will be taken by William H. Boynton.

Mr. Robinson was presented with a spray of carnations and replied with a few brief words of thanks.

The floral decorations of the vestry were very pleasing, crimson ramblers roses and honeysuckle being in prominence. Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Charles S. Adams, Mrs. Walter J. Wellington, Mrs. Newell O. Parker, Mrs. Edward J. Cummings, Mrs. Rufus S. Leach, Mrs. David T. Whiton and Mrs. Roy P. Baker.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ON PICNIC.

Three car loads of happy young people connected with the Sunday school of the Bethany church left Quincy in special cars this morning for Nantasket beach on their annual picnic. Others went down at 11 o'clock. As these special cars passed through Quincy Point they were joined by another special car containing the Sunday school of the Washington Congregational church who are also holding their picnic at Nantasket. It is a fine day for the picnic and a grand good time is anticipated.

Y. M. C. A. COMMITTEES

Budget Adopted and New Physical Director Chosen

The regular monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors was held Tuesday evening with a good number present.

The president appointed the committees for the new year as follows:

Executive—R. D. Chase, A. D. Albee, G. H. Brown, H. M. Faxon, N. G. Nickerson, G. A. Sidelinger.

Finance—George A. Sidelinger, F. W. Crane, C. W. Bailey, A. N. Murray, J. A. Sparrow, Thomas Fenno.

House—N. G. Nickerson, F. W. Crane, W. G. Shaw, W. F. Cummings, J. A. Dasha.

Educational—George H. Brown, Edward Southworth, D. L. F. Chase, J. L. Miller, Dr. D. B. Reardon, E. H. Ewertz.

Physical—Dr. E. R. Johnson, Dr. W. L. Sargent, Dr. S. C. Hardwick, R. A. Stearns, Richard Jones, P. K. Griffin, J. M. Wilson, J. J. Floyd.

Membership—W. G. Shaw, D. King, J. F. Hunt, Harry Brooks, G. W. Gragg; others to be appointed.

Boys—J. A. Sedgwick, T. P. Pollard, C. A. Randall, W. F. Blake, D. King, C. A. Hobart, R. J. Davis.

Religious—J. A. Sparrow, Dr. C. T. Sherman, J. A. Sedgwick, Alex Clark, A. N. Murray, H. J. Christopher.

Social—Harry Brooks, George H. Newcomb, H. T. Tourtelotte, Joe Hogan, Albert Coffin.

It was voted to call L. F. LaRose of Melrose to became physical director in place of Mr. Gifford who has resigned. Mr. LaRose is a graduate of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. training school, class of 1904; has served as assistant physical director in the Chicago Central, as physical director at Newton for two years,, spent a year in the Panama canal zone, and has been two years in Melrose since his return. He comes well recommended as to ability. and temperament. Mr. LaRose is not unknown to the local membership as he has visited here with competing teams in base ball, basket ball, and track athletics; he will take up his work in Quincy on August 15, in connection with the playground in the rear of the Association building.

The chief item of business for the directors was the discussion and adoption of the budget for the ensuing year. Its adoption assures another year of progressive work for the young men and boys of the city.

OPEN LETTER UNION LABOR

Why Support Was Withdrawn from the Celebration

The following open letter from the Central Labor Union is self explanatory:

Citizens of Quincy:

In justice to the members of the Trade Unions and the public, relative to the position that organized labor occupies in connection with the celebration of the 4th of July, a brief statement of the actual facts in the case is due the public.

The question of a celebration was discussed at a session of the Central Labor Union, and a committee of three was appointed by the president to confer with the committee in charge of the proposed affair. This committee held meetings in the Board of Trade rooms. The committee representing the Central Labor Union attended a session and explained their presence and requested (no demands were made) that the committee recognize the Trade Unionists by employing Union musicians; that all printing and posters have the Union label on same; and that Union teamsters be employed as far as possible. This action was unanimously adopted and agreed to by both parties. And the Unions of the city were willing to assist in the work, and con tribute money to help defray the expenses of the celebration.

Immediately a rumor was circulated that the business interests would not contribute if the Trade Unions were to be recognized. This statement is evidently true, as is borne out by the small amounts subscribed by the business men to date.

The committee from the Central Labor Union reported the action of the committee, and the agreement was endorsed by the delegates present; and it was voted that all local unions should work and assist in the event; funds to be appropriated by the locals affiliated with the Central Labor Union; and individual members to assist in as far as their ability would permit.

The Central Labor Union did appropriate $50.00, but instructed their committee not to pay the same unless the agreement was carried out as provided by the action of the Executive Committee. This has been repudiated. Therefore the money will not be paid, but will revert back to the treasurer of the Central Labor Union, and no local union can consistently give any money to a body of men who do not abide by their own action.

The Trade Unions have been condemned and criticised as un-American and un-patriotic. This is false, as the history of the nation proves that the wage workers have in all ways supported the country in times of stress and war, with the sacrifice of life, in the past, and will do so in the future. The Trade Unions stand for a principle, and this was involved in the question at issue.

Organized Labor may, in the near future, celebrate its own holiday with honor to itself and a credit to Quincy, and the principles of the only movement which stands for improved conditions of the working men and women of the United States.

Charles W. Hanscom, Organizer
American Federation of Labor.

DICKERSON'S PROMISE

Governor Says There Will Be No Interference With Big Fight

Reno, Nev., June 29.—Tex Rickard and Governor Dickerson lunched together here and the governor was asked point blank what his stand was regarding the big fight. Turning to Rickard the governor asked: "Can you assure me positivtly that these men will fight on the square?"

"I can," was the reply.

"That's all I want to know," replied the governor, "and you can say for me positively there will be no interference."

Unless all signs go by the board or because of train wrecks or washouts, Rickard and his cohorts who are promoting a fight in this divorce colony will count about $400,000 in cold, hard dollars before the gong sounds for a history-making world interest figh t if the arena is crowded to its capacity.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

designation of any feature represented. This information will be secured in each division by some designated dismounted aid and will be prepared on duplicate blank which will be handed to the Chief Marshal not later than 7.20 o'clock A. M. One set of copies will be immediately sent by the chief marshal to the judges, the other kept by the chief of staff for the information of the press and all others concerned. After a division has been once formed no changes will be made. The procession will move promptly on the minute of 7.30 o'clock A. M., and all late arrivals will take a position in rear of the parade.

X—Unmanagable draught animals or broken vehicles will be immediately removed to the side of road in order that progress of the parade shall not be blocked.

XI—The chief bugler will announce forward march by three bugle blasts. To halt the parade, or rest for any other cause, one bugle blast will be blown. These calls will be repeated by a designated bugler in each division.

XII—The chief marshal, marshal and chiefs of staff will be designated by sashes worn over the left shoulder. Aids will wear a red rosette. Judges will wear a ribbon badge. Sashes, badges and ribbons will be supplied at the hour of reporting.

XIII—Organizations and individuals who have not yet sent to the parade committee their entry are requested to do so at once.

XIV—The route of parade will be over the following route: Adams street from Presidents bridge to Hancock street past reviewing stand opposite City Hall, continue Hancock street to School, School to Marsh, Marsh to Water, Water to Copeland, Copeland to Miller, Miller to Furnace Brook Parkway, Parkway to Copeland, countermarch Copeland to Granite, Granite to School, School to Elm, Elm to Washington, Washington to Temple, Temple to Hancock, past reviewing stand, where prizes will be awarded in every case where a decision has been reached by the judges. Continue march to Coddington street, where parade will be dismissed.

A CATHOLIC WHO'S WHO.

A book of exceptional interest to Catholic Americans and which will be the first of its kind will be "The American Catholic Who's Who." It will be issued in the autumn by a publisher in St. Louis. The work will contain brief biographies of Americans of the United States, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and of some who are residing in Europe ,and in addition many well known Canadians. There will be about two thousand sketches. Boston will be well represented in the list, which will include the names of Hon. Joseph H. O'Neil, president of the Federal Trust Company; Bernard J. Rothwell, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Thomas B. Fitzpatrick ,president and treasurer of the Brown, Durrell Company; Judge Joseph D. Fallon of South Boston; Joseph C. Pelletier, district attorney for Suffolk County, and Bernard Corr of Dorchester, one of the oldest journalists of Boston.

"The American Catholic Who's Who" is being edited by Miss Georgina Pell Curtis, who has been eighteen months engaged in the task. Miss Curtis is a convert, a native of New York, a graduate of the Episcopal school of St. Mary, that city, and for five years a student in the art schools there. She edited "Some Roads to Rome in America," and has contributed to two of the Harper periodicals and numerous other publications.

TAFT IN HIS SUMMER HOME

His Personal Physical Director to Remain With Him

VACATION PROGRAM LAID OUT

Hopes to Make Substantial Progress Toward Scientific Budget Making Which Will Result In Greater Government Economy—Conferences to Be Held With Heads of Departments—Honor For Guild

Beverly, Mass., June 29.—President Taft's summer vacation begun here this morning. He was accompanied by his secretary, Charles D. Norton, Captain Butt, his military aide, and Assistant Secretary Forster. W. W. Mischler and Assistant Secretary Latta will remain through the summer at the White House, where the work never ceases, though the president be away.

President Taft brought along also his personal physical director, Dr. Barker, who spent the summer with him at Beverly last year. Dr. Barker has been persuaded to give up a western trip to attend President Taft. He has remained in Washington all winter and assisted Taft in carrying out the regime of physical exercises which he prescribed. The morning bouts of the president with his "trainer" were an unwritten phase of domestic life at Beverly last year.

The president has been much better the last winter than for years before and he determined not to forget the services of the man whose supervision and insistence upon exercise always kept him in the pink of condition, President Taft is thoroughly well, but fatigued with the cares of office, and Secretary Norton announced that for at least two weeks no visitors would be expected at the summer cottage.

President Taft's official work at Beverly already has been cut out for him. He hopes before the season is over to make substantial progress toward instituting a system of scientific budget making. The natural development of his vacation, it is understood, will be uninterrupted desk work.

His plan is to take up the departments, one at a time, and by systematic consultation with the bureau chiefs of that department, learn its necessities and effect the most economical and efficient reorganization possible. This work already has been done in the treasury department, under Assistant Secretary Norton, before he left to go to the White House. Norton organized the bureau chiefs into committees, who met regularly once a week and reported the investigations. Experts were then set to work and from the thorough investigation thus conducted was developed a new system of administration which now is in excellent working order.

The secretary of the treasury has on hand a fund of $100,000 with which the recommendations of the experts may be carried out. President Taft has also an equal fund, which was voted by congress as a substitute for the Aldrich plan of a business commission.

Secretary Norton no doubt will be of special assistance to the chief executive in this important work. President Taft has not been moved to take up this task by the recent controversy between Representatives Tawney and Livingston as to whether the appropriations of this season exceed those of the last. On the contrary, the plan has been developing for months.

Neither is the White House disposed to criticise the committees of congress for failing to trim the appropriations more at this season. It is realized that only the most thorough inquiry will result in actual economies, and these cannot very well be conducted by the overburdened appropriations committees.

The administration has paid, and intended to pay, a very high compliment to Massachusetts in the selection of ex-Governor Guild to be the special ambassador of the United States to the national centennial to be held t the City of Mexico next September. In this honorary position ex-Governor Guild will rank with Theodore Roosevelt when he accepted appointment as special ambassador at the funeral of King Edward VII.

The president was greatly relieved to learn that Michael Thistwolla, the Italian laborer struck by Robert Taft's automobile, will probably recover. Dr. Mixter and Dr. Jackson, who are attending him, hold out strong hopes that he will live.

Bank Loot Found on Woman

New York, June 29.—A handsome young Roumanian woman is held a prisoner at Ellis island as an accomplice of Paul Webber, a clerk who is charged with looting a German bank at Cairo, Egypt, of $50,000. She had much of the money and confessed.

Clerk Coolly Murders Girl

New York, June 29.—Because Jennie Minkiffe, aged 17, rejected his attentions, Morris Nathanson, a young grocer's clerk, lay in wait in the hallway of her home and shot her through the heart. She fell dead at his feet. Nathanson was locked up.

TO STOP REVENUE LEAK OF $1,000,000

Bill to Check the Second Use of Stock Transfer Stamps

Albany, June 29.—Two bills designed to increase the revenues of the state were introduced in the senate and assembly, at the instigation of Controller Williams. One of them makes it a misdemeanor to use stock transfer stamps more than once, and the other increases to a very slight degree the franchise tax on corporations.

It has been stated by the controller that through the operations of irresponsible brokers in New York the state loses annually more than $1,000,000 through the use of stock transfer stamps which have already been used.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor for any person or corporation to sell or offer for sale any stamp without first obtaining from the controller his written consent.

ROOSEVELT'S BUSY DAY

Finds Plenty to Occuy His Time After Reaching Alma Mater

Cambridge, Mass., June 29.—Theodore Roosevelt, Harvard alumnus of the class of '80, came back to his alma mater and the scenes of his undergraduate days yesterday.

In a few short hours he attended a meeting of the corporation, addressed the Harvard Law School Alumni association, visited two of his undergraduate clubs, and as a climax to the day attended the banquet of his class last night at the Algonquin club. All this time was interspersed with personal reunions.

Today he attends the exercises of conferring degrees and presides at the Alumni association meeting in the afternoon as its president.

WALSH NOT YET LOCATED

Report That He Was Found In Canada Denied by Government Official

Boston, June 29.—A denial of the report circulated to the effect that Martin J. Walsh, the faro dealer, for whom the government has offered a reward of $200, had been found in Canada, was issued by Assistant United States District Attotrney Garland.

The fact is," said Garland, "the government does not know where he is. If we knew Walsh would be under arrest by this time. The Canadian report originated here, and so far as I know is not founded on fact."

Another Quake In Italy

Rome, June 29.—A violent earthquake caused heavy damage on the east coast of Italy. Houses in several towns were shattered, but as far as known no one was killed.

Cries For Help Unheeded

Norwood, R. I., June 29.—His calls for help unanswered by a couple passing in a canoe, Albert Johnson, aged 40, of Cranston, was drowned in the Pawtucket river.

BISHOP M'VICKAR DEAD

Noted Episcopalian Was a Strong Advocate of Divorce Regulations

Beverly, Mass., June 29.—Right Rev. William N. McVickar, Episcopal bishop of Rhode Island, died at his summer home here last evening, after a lingering illness of some weeks.

Since he underwent an operation about a year ago his health had been failing. Three weeks ago he caught a severe cold, which developed into pneumonia.

He has been a summer resident of Beverly for years. His figure was a familiar one here. He was over six feet six inches tall.

Of late years McVickar has been prominent in the inter-church conferences on the question of marriage and divorce. He was one of the first to advocate the idea of assurance of physical fitness of candidates for marriage, as the first check to the evil of divorce. He has been a hard worker for uniform divorce regulations.

NO WHITE SLAVE BAND

But New York Jury Thinks Individual Slavery Is Increasing

New York, June 29.—The members of the special grand jury, headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., appeared before Judge O'Sullivan and were formally discharged.

The presentment of the grand jury declares that the jurors were unable to find the existence of any incorporated or otherwise organized band of white slavers, and also cleared the New York Independent Benevolent association, which was mentioned in connection with the existing conditions.

A sensational part of the presentment is the declaration of the jurors that their investigations led them to believe that individual white slavery is on the increase, and they recommend that additional legislation be enacted with the object of exterminating this form of vice.

BRUISES ON BODY OF YOUNG NEWMAN

Startling Testimony of Medical Examiner at Lyman Hearing

Boston, June 29.—Dr. George McGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk county, created a sensation at the hearing before the legislative committee investigating the Lyman school yesterday afternoon when he stated that at the autopsy held fifteen days after the death of John Newman, he found deep bruises on the body caused either by blows or by one or more falls.

"I believe that these marks were caused before death, within a period of fifteen hours before death. None of them, nor all of them together, was sufficient to cause unconsciousness," he said.

The contention of the parents of 14-year-old John Newman of Cambridge, whose death by suicidal hanging the further evidence of Dr. Magrath seems to establish, has been that the boy was beaten before he hanged himself, and that the suicide came as the result of ill treatment at the hands of some person, or persons unknown.

COUNT ZEPPELIN

German Airship Inventor and His Famous Craft

WILD CONTEST WITH STORM

Zeppelin's Latest Air Craft Is Reduced to a Wreck

HELPLESS BEFORE THE WIND

Thirty-Three Persons Aboard, Including Twenty Newspaper Men, When Cabin and Gas Compartments of Sky Liner Are Punctured by Landing Upon Tops of Pine Trees—All Escape Unharmed

Dusseldorf, Ger., June 29.—Count Zeppelin's passenger airship Deutschland, the highest developed of all the famous aeronaut's models, lies on top of the Teutoburgian forest, pierced with pine tree stems, a mass of deflated silk and twisted aluminum. The thirty-three persons aboard, after a wild contest with a storm, escaped uninjured, climbing down a rope ladder from the wreck on the pine tops.

Herr Colesmann, general manager of the new airship company; Chief Engineer Duerr of the Zeppelin company, and Captain Kannenberg, who personally had charge of the crew of ten, and twenty newspaper men, sailed from Dusseldorf for a three hours' excursion. The objective point was Dertmund, thirty-five miles from Dusseldorf, but a high wind prevailed and an effort was made to reach Munster, a garrison town, so that a landing might be made on the parade ground by the aid of the soldiers, as it was realized that it would require a large number of them to hold the vast contrivance of silk and metal against the wind.

It was dangerous to attempt a landing in an open field, because of the storm, inasmuch as the metal was likely to pound to pieces. In the high wind one of the motors refused to work, and the other two were not powerful enough to make any progress in the gale. The airship drifted, swaying in the violent gusts, and sometimes leaning to an angle of 40 degrees, and all the while the enginemen were at work repairing the disabled motor.

When this was done all four screws were driven at their full power, under which, in normal conditions, the airship was capable of attaining a speed of forty miles an hour. But the helsman was unable to keep his course, and the great craft was swung about at the mercy of the winds.

Colesmann did not dare to turn the ship around for fear of overturning and he decided to drift in the gale, which was now blowing at the rate of fifty miles an hour, toward Osnabruck, which is also a garrison station. If he missed that he would have to continue on to Senn.

Suddenly he percieved a whirlwind coming, and ascended to a height of nearly 4000 feet, to avoid the worst of it. With the whirlwind came a downpour of rain. After half an hour the Deutschland came down to permit of observation and it was seen that the Teutobergian forest lay below. The forward motor again stopped and Colesmann sent five of the correspondents to the aft gondola to ballast the vessel.

The Deutschland sank rapidly, having lost much gas in the high altitudes, and dragged along the top of the dense forest. A heavy branch of a tree broke through the floor of the cabin amidships, throwing two of the guests to the floor. Other branches ripped through the gas compartments, and the whole great structure settled down thirty or forty feet from the ground.

"It isn't the fault of the Zeppelin system," exclaimed Colesmann; "that is all right. It is our own fault, and our benzine ran out."

The airship, for which Colesmann's company had just paid $137,500, looks like a wreck.

Death of Pioneer Food Canner

Portland, Me., Jnue 29.—Daniel W. Hoegg, said to have been the oldest packer of canned goods in the United States, the only one left of the pioneers who introduced the process of canning fruits and vegetables into this country, and the first man to pack goods in the Dominion of Canada, died at his home here, aged 82.

HALF A CHANCE

By Frederic S. Isham,

Author of "The Strollers," "Under the Rose," "The Lady of the Mount," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS

A party of titled passengers on a ship bound for Australia visit a section "below decks" where a gang of convicts sentenced to deportation are confined. The ship, the Lord Nelson is wrecked. A convict, the "Frisco Pet," jumps overboard with Jocelyn Wray, a pretty little girl. The convict, after returning the girl to her friends is himself later cast away alone on a deserted island.

CHAPTER IV.

THE WHEELS OF JUSTICE.

LONDON in the spring! Sunshine, the Thames agleam with silver ripples, singing as it flows; red sails! Joyous London that has emerged from fogs and basks beneath blue skies! On such a day about 10 o'clock in the morning three persons whose appearance distinguished them from the ordinary passersby turned into a narrow thoroughfare not far from the Strand.

"Quite worth while going to hear John Steele conduct for his client, I assure you, Lord Ronsdale," observed one, a tall, military looking man, who walked with a slight limp and carried a cane. "He's a new man, but he's making his mark. When he asked to be admitted to the English bar he surprised even his examiners. His summing up in the Doughertie murder case was, I heard his lordship remark, one of the most masterly efforts he ever listened to. Just tore the circumstantial evidence to pieces and freed his man! Besides his profession at the bar he is an unusually gifted criminologist, takes a strong personal interest in the lowest riffraff, is writing a book, I understand—one of the kind that will throw a new light on the subject."

"Just what is a criminologist?" The speaker, a girl of about eighteen, turned as she lightly asked the question to glance over her shoulder toward several persons who followed them.

"One who seeks to apply to the criminal the methods of psychology, psychiatry and anthropology," he answered, with jesting impressiveness.

"When one is only a sort of country cousin," the girl waved a small, daintily gloved hand to the little group of friends who now approached and joined them. "Captain Forsythe is trying to persuade me it is a legitimate part of our slumming plan to take in murder trials, uncle," she said lightly, addressing the foremost of the newcomers, "just because it's a fad of his. Speaking of this acquaintance or friend of yours, Mr. Steele—you are something of a criminologist, too, are you not, Captain Forsythe?"

"Well, every man should have a hobby," returned that individual, "and, although I don't aspire to the long name you call me, I confess to a slight amateur interest."

"Slight!" she repeated. "Would you believe it, aunt"—to a portly lady among those who had approached—"he never misses a murder trial? I believe he likes to watch the poor fellows fighting for their lives, to study their faces, their expressions when they're being sentenced perhaps to one of those horrible convict ships!"

"Don't speak of them, my dear Jocelyn!" returned that worthy person, with a shudder. "When I think of the Lord Nelson and that awful night"—

"You were three days in an open boat before being sighted and picked up, I believe, Lady Wray?" observed Captain Forsythe.

"Every one behaved splendidly," interposed Sir Charles. "You," gazing contemplatively at the girl, "were but a child then, Jocelyn."

She did not answer. The beautiful face had abruptly changed. All laughter had gone from the clear blue eyes.

"She is thinking of the convict who saved her," observed Sir Charles in an explanatory tone to Captain Forsythe. "And the amazing part of it is the fellow looked like a brute, had the low, ignorant face of an ex-bruiser."

"You must not speak of him that way!" The girl's hands were clasped, the slender, shapely figure was very straight. Her beautiful blue eyes, full of varying lights, flashed, then became dimmed. A suspicion of mist blurred the long, sweeping lashes. "He had a big, noble spark in his soul, and I think of him many, many times," she repeated, the sweet, gay lips trembling sensitively. "Brave fellow! Brave fellow!"

"Pity he should have been drowned, though," Captain Forsythe went on. "He would, I am sure, have made a most interesting study in contrasts."

Here Ronsdale lifted his hat. "May happen back this way," he observed. "That is," looking at Jocelyn Wray, "if you don't object."

"I? Not at all. Of course it would bore you—a trial! You are so easily bored. Is it the club?"

"No, another engagement. Thank you so much for permission to return for you. Very kind. Hope you will find it amusing. Good morning!" And Lord Ronsdale vanished down the narrow way.

The others of the party entered the courtroom and were shown to the seats that Captain Forsythe had taken particular pains to reserve for them.

"That's John Steele cross examining now," Captain Forsythe whispered to the girl. And the witness—that's Dandy Joe, as he's called, one of the police spies, cheap race track man and so on, in the box. He came to the front in a murder trial quite celebrated in its day and one I always had my own little theory about. Not that it matters now," he added, with a sigh.

But the girl was listening to another voice, a clear voice, a quiet voice, a voice capable of the strongest varying accents. She looked at the speaker. He held himself with the assurance of one certain of his ground. His shoulders were straight and broad. He stood like an athlete, and when he moved it was impossible to be unconscious of a certain physical grace that came from well trained muscles. He carried his head high, as if from a habit of thought of looking up, not down, when he turned from the pages of the heavy tomes in his study. His face conveyed an impression of intelligence and intensity. His eyes, dark and deep, searched fully those they rested on.

He had reached a point in his cross examination where he had almost thoroughly discredited this witness for the prosecution when, turning toward a table to take up a paper, his glance, casually lifting, rested on the distinguished party in the rear of the room, or, rather, it rested on one of them. Against the dark background the girl's golden hair was well calculated to catch the wandering gaze. The flowers in her hat, the great bunch of violets in her dress added insistent alluring bits of color in the dim spot where she sat. Erect as a lily stem, she looked oddly out of place in that large, somber room. There, where the harsh requiem of bruised and broken lives unceasingly sounded, she seemed like some presence typical of spring, wafted thither by mistake. The man continued to regard her. Suddenly he started, and his eyes almost eagerly searched the lovely, proud face.

DISOBEYED HIS MOTHER

Lynn Bandit Asks Parent's Forgiveness In a Farewell Letter

Lynn, Mass., June 29.—Wasili Wwanowski, the captured bandit, believing that he will be shortly electrocuted for the killing of Thomas A. Landregan and Policeman Carroll, and assigning his downfall to disobeying his mother, has written a farewell letter to his mother, sisters and brothers.

He told his mother not to mourn for him, and that it would be the last time she would ever hear from him. He asked her to forgive him.

It is now believed that Andrei Epsom, who is in the Lynn hospital with a half-dozen bullet wounds in his shoulder, will recover.

PARR'S $100,000 REWARD

He Will Get $20,000 Now, but Must Wait For the Remainder

Washington, June 29.—Twenty thousand dollars will be paid July 1 to Richard A. Parr, the New York customs employe whose vigilance in detecting frauds in under-weiging sugar imports saved the government more than $2,000,000.

Parr's total reward is to be $100,000. For the remaining $80,000 Secretary McVeagh will ask congress to make the provision. The money to be paid on July 1 will come out of the moiety funds.

Saloons Open on Columbus Day

Boston, June 29.—At a meeting of the excise commissioners it was decided not to close the saloons of Boston on Oct. 12, Columbus day, which was made a legal holiday by the Massachusetts legislature recently.

Ask your doctor all about Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Entirely free from alcohol. A strong tonic and alterative. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic. It does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic. Ask your doctor all about this.

INFLUENCED BY "SPIRITS"

Wealthy Old Man Said to Have Parted With $40,000

ORDERED BY HIS DEAD WIFE

Grandson of Connecticut Man Brings Suit Against Medium, Who Is a Federal Employe at Washington, Charging Her With Exerting "Mediumistic Influences" on Octogenarian—She Retains a Lawer

Washington, June 29.—Fenton J. Hurd, a wealthy octogenarian of Greenwich, Conn., in a suit brought in his behalf, is said to have paid $40,000 to Mrs. Laura R. Cramer of Washington, through spirit messages that he believed came through her from his departed wife. Dr. Lee M. Hurd, also of Greenwich, Hurd's grandson, who is conservator of the aged man's estate, has instituted the suit.

It is claimed by Dr. Hurd that the octogenarian parted with the $40,000 at various times. On one occasion he is said to have given the medium $10,000 following the receipt of a message. Mrs. Cramer, who is in the employ of the bureau of rolls and library in the state department at Washington at a salary of $1200 a year, is charged in the complaint with exerting "mediumistic influences" on Hurd.

Through his attorneys, J. G. Pierce of New York, and W. D. McLean and R. A. Ford of Massachusetts, Dr. Hurd charges that after the death of his grandmother in 1891 his grandfather became imbued with the idea that communication between this and the spirit world was possible.

Mrs. Cramer could not be found at her desk in the state department nor at her apartments in the De Soto, which is in a fashionable section of the city.

She is reported to have retained a lawyer to make a general denial of the charges and to plan a vigorous defense. She is a native of Maryland, 54 years of age, and a widow. The name "F. J. Hurd" appears along with hers on the mail box at the De Soto and the octogenarian is said to have roomed with her during various periods in the last ten years.

CHARLTON'S CASE DELAYED

Now Believed That Murderer of His Wife Will Be Released

Jersey City, June 29.—The preliminary hearing of Porter Charlton on the charge of being a fugitive from justice, wanted in Italy, where he murdered his wife, was postponed until July 8 by Judge Blair. The postponement was taken on the request of Charlton's attorneys.

Charlton, wearing a despairing look, was brought into Judge Blair's court with a number of petty criminals. Following the granting of his lawyer's request, Charlton was remanded to jail. It is believed that before the hearing comes up again the question of his extradition will have been settled. Out of the present international muddle is growing a belief that he will not be extradited and that he will go scot free.

CONVICTED OF BRIBERY

Jury Returns Verdict of Guilty In Case of Lawrence Alderman

Salem, Mass., June 29.—A verdict of guilty against Samuel Kress of Lawrence on charges of bribery and attempt to bribe was returned by a superior criminal court jury here.

Kress was arrested recently with Mayor White of Lawrence and several other citizens of that city, all of the defendants being charged with bribing former Aldermen Legendre and Woekel of Lawrence in an attempt to have Chief Hamilton of the Lawrence fire department discharged.

BARR STILL WINNING

Westward Comes In First, With the Kaiser's Yacht a Tail-Ender

Kiel, Ger., June 29.—The American schooner Westward, owned by Alexander S. Cochran, and sailed by Captain Charles Barr, continues the winning of racing laurels.

She won the schooner race to Eckernforde Tuesday, defeating the Germania, Hamburg and Meteor. The emperor was aboard the Meteor, which finished last.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother.

If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers. That is why we are so successful.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking — none in outside heating.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME
Oil Cook-stove

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Money is not so easy in the bond market, and City Treasurer Curtis had to pay a discount of 4.24 per cent. on a temporary loan of $30,000 awarded this week to Bond & Goodwin. The temporary loans of 1910 now amount to $420,000, all of which is outstanding. The total authorized for 1910 was $500,000.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AVERTED.

An accident happened on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at the Granite street bridge ,this city at one o'clock this afternoon which came near being serious. The 12.40 P. M. train from Boston had left passengers at Wollaston and was under good headway at Granite street when the right hand cylinder on the engine broke, bending the driving rod, and nearly forced the large locomtive from the rails. The train was immediately brought to a standstill and the driving rods were removed. This took only a few minutes and the train was pushed to Braintree by the 12.45 train, due here at one o'clock.

—Three who were graduated from Harvard University in 1838, seventy-two years ago, are still living. Rev. J. I. T. Coolidge of Cambridge being the senior.

There is a large tract of land in the Dr. William Everett estate to be sold at auction Wednesday, July 6,and people residing in that neighborhood are wondering who will purchase and how it will be developed. It would be an ideal home for the Granite City club.

YOUNG MAN RUN OVER

Seriously Injured by Ice Wagon at Houghs Neck

Gaynor Sturgess, aged about 17 years, met with a painful accident Tuesday night which may result in a permanent injury to his right arm. The accident hapepned on Sea street near River road. There was an electric car passing at the time and in getting out of the way of the car he got in the way of Abel Brown's ice wagon. The boy was knocked down and the heavily loaded team passed over him. One of the wheels passed over the elbow of the boy's right arm and is said to have so badly crushed the bone that he may lose the use of his arm. In addition to this he was badly bruised about the chest. He was attended Tuesday night by Dr. Jones and this morning taken to the City Hospital.

THREE MILE CIRCUS PARADE.

When the great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus comes to Quincy, Tuesday, July 12, the people of this vicinity will be given an opportunity of witnessing, for the first time in their lives, a parade that is a real novelty and not a mere rehashing of all the old worn-out pageantry of the past. The management spent $1,000,000 in an entire new parade equipment. It was built last winter in the foreign workshops of the show on a scale of magnificence no other circus in America would have the nerve to undertake.

This parade is three miles long. It is a veritable world's exposition, made up of the people and the things that are wonderful from every land on the face of the earth. More wild animals are shown in it in open dens than are to be found in other menageries. Over 600 most beautiful horses are displayed. The zoological section is led by the biggest herd of elephants in America.

There is a children's section of superb fairyland scenes, in which the most elaborate and costly floats and chariots ever devised are used. There are caravans of camels, carrying richly draped howdahs in which Oriental court women sit in state; bands of fierce desert highwaymen; Arabian, Russian and American rough riders; famous English Derby Day sportsmen, and a section of Japanese cvalrymen. In fact the parade is a moving panorama of splendid novelty, as varied in its world-wide significance as a processional history of the world well could be.

Music is provided by a half dozen modern bands, barbarian orchestras, quaint chanters from strange corners of the earth, cathedral chimes, pipe organs, steam siren wagons, bugle, fife and drum corps and Oriental string and reed musicians. The various vehicles, the costumes and the trappings are the most elaborate ever used in an open air spectacle.

SPEED LIMITS.

There is now a speed limit for motor vehicles where the operator's views of the road trafic is obstructed. As amended Section 16 of the Act of 1910 reads:

"Sect. 16 Every person operating a motor vehicle on any way in this commonwealth shall run it at a rate of speed at no time greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to traffic and the use of the way and the safety of the public.

"It shall be prima facie evidence of a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper as aforesaid if a motor vehicle is operated on any way outside of the thickly settled or business part of a city or town at a rate of speed exceeding twenty miles per hour for the distance of a quarter of a mile.

"It shall be prima facie evidence of a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper as aforesaid if a motor vehicle is operated on any way inside the thickly settled or business part of a city or town at a rate of speed exceeding fifteen miles per hour for the distance of one eighth of a mile.

"If a motor vehicle is operated on any way at a rate of speed exceeding eight miles per hour where the operator's or chauffeur's view of the road traffic is obstructed either upon approaching an intersecting way, or in traversing a crossing or intersection of ways, or in going around a corner or a curve in a street or way."

—The Clan Na Gael will hold a field day on the Fourth of July at the Locust Street grounds, Boston. Some athletes with world records are entered.

BIG VOYAGE FOR SUBMARINE

From Quincy to the Bermudas And Return

The submarine Salmon is being stored with supplies at the Fore River preparatory to taking a trip unprecedented in the history of this class of boats.

The Salmon was built by the Electric Boat Co. at the Fore River yards, and was launched March 12, 1910. Her sponsor was Miss Eunice May Fitzgerald, daughter of Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, who with Mrs. Fitzgerald were present at the launching. During the past few weeks the Salmon has been at Provincetown undergoing her trials and she proved herself the fastest submarine afloat.

The trip planned for the Salmon is from Quincy to the Bermudas and return, a distance of something like 2,000 miles. This is by far the longest surface trip ever made by one of this class of boats, and it will be watched with unusual interest, not only by the naval men of this country, but by naval powers all over the world. During this trip she will be in command of Gregory C. Davison of the Electric Boat Co., a former officer of the United States navy.

It is expected that the Salmon will leave the Fore River next Tuesday. Officials of the Electric Boat Co. have perfect confidence in the seaworthiness of the Salmon, and her success on the contemplated trip means much to her builders. It has never been contemplated putting this class of war vessels to such a use and its success will open up a new field of usefulness for the submarine.

The Electric Boat Company has just been awarded the contract to build three more submarines for the United States government.

AUTOMATIC ENUNCIATOR TO SAVE HUMAN VOICE.

Chicago Invention Useful In War, Peace and Sport.

The first public demonstration of an "automatic enunciator" took place recently in Chicago. The invention is a development of telephone experiments. By the use of electro-magnetic action the voice of a speaker is carried along as many wires as desired and for any distance, then sent out through graphophone horns, so as to be audible in a large room.

At the demonstration Inventor L. M. Cole spoke in a tone that could not have been heard thirty feet away, and in a dozen rooms all over the building the reproducer emitted the tones clearly.

The enunciator can be attached to telephone circuits in large buildings, and in every room simultaneously the message will be given. These are some of the uses the promoters give:

Paging guests simultaneously in every public room of a hotel.
Giving information to department heads in wholesale houses from the main office.
Announcing trains from several horns in large station lobbies.
Sending commands to every officer on a battleship.
Announcing streets to passengers at every seat in street cars.
Aiding the audiences of theaters, operas and churches to hear all that is said and even carrying the sound to residences.
Notifying building employees of fire in the building.
Calling carriages and automobiles at theater entrances.
Delivering complete baseball and racing news to any number of halls.
Carrying the voice of a speaker to audiences at "overflow" meetings.

The results are gained by alterations to three telephone agencies—the transmitter, the receiver (or producer, as it is here called) and the circuit itself. The nature of these alterations the promoters refuse to give out until patents are perfected and manufacture started.

Firmness of Purpose.

Firmness of purpose is one of the most necessary sinews of character and one of the best instruments of success. Without it genius wastes its efforts in a maze of inconsistencies.

LARCENY IS CHARGED

Funds Raised to Pay Fine Are Blown In

Frank Swanson was arrested at his home on Cranch street at 2 o'clock this morning by Lieut. McKay, on a warrant charging him with the larceny of a watch and chain valued at $25 from Eddie D. Carson. The alleged larceny took place last May at the time the police raided the crap shooters in the rear of Hancock hall. While the men were engaged in their game it is alleged that Swanson took the watch from the coat pocket of Carson; that he later pawned the watch in Providence for $6.

As a result of the arrest of the young men at that time for crap shooting one John Wallace was fined $50 in court for participating in the game. According to the police, he had some money and his friends contributed enough more to bring the amount up to $45. This was given to two young men to take to court. One of these young men is said to have been Swanson. Instead of paying the fine the young men went on a pleasure excursion to Providence with the funds and did not return until this week. Meanwhile Wallace, unable to raise his fine and having lost the money raised for him, has been working out his fine at Dedham jail.

SPORTING NOTES.

Leo J. McMaster of 21 Franklin street is to be marshal of the fifth division in the big parade. All those desirous of serving on his mounted staff,who can procure horses and equipage should apply to the above address for further particulars.

The entries for the big meet are coming in thick and fast Chairman Gifford is very well satisfied. The list of officials will be published in the Daily Ledger tomorrow as will the names of the judges for the parade.

The medals submitted for prizes for the meet were of poor quality and the committee rejected them. An effort will be made to get a medal of better quality before the games take place.

The games between the Fore River Apprentices and Cranch, played last Saturday, will be protested. It is claimed the Cranch coachers assisted their base-runners around the lines at first and third which is at variance with the rule.

Fred Smith who has long been well known as a ball tosser, was married on Tuesday. Fred played in Quincy for a time last season and then went to Rockland. He has been tried out by Providence and Rochester, but the climate which he was forced to endure on the southern training trips forced him to quit.

Lincoln will play at Quincy on Saturday. The Lincolnians got 16 bingles last Saturday.

HAS MENAGERIE FOR TOYS.

Frogs, Pup, Turtle, Kittens and Chipmunks In Flat.

There probably is no boy in Greater New York who can boast of a stranger collection of playthings than that owned by the young son of a physician living on Park avenue. The boy has the entire second floor of his father's dwelling as a playroom. Although he has plenty of mechanical toys, the boy prefers to play with his menagerie. This consists of a colony of frogs, a rabbit, a bull pup, a turtle, two snow white kittens and six chipmunks. Through patient training the boy has succeeded in getting the bull pup, the kittens, the rabbit and the turtle to eat from one bowl at the same time.

JEFFRIES' WONDERFUL FEAT.

In Order to Tackle Johnson Big Fellow Made Great Sacrifice.

Sportsmen throughout the civilized world eagerly waited for over a year to ascertain whether James J. Jeffries, the retired heavyweight champion of the world, could come back to the ring and be the same great man. On March 7, 1909, Jeffries stripped in a New York gymnasium and began his long battle against nature. He was a big, fat, flabby fellow, who puffed and blowed after three short rounds with Sam Berger.

On April 3, 1909, after Jeffries had experimented with his condition he submitted himself to that great student of physical culture, Dr. Sargent of Harvard university. After the examination Jeffries explained the visit as follows: "I am going to follow out Dr. Sargent's advice. I visited the doctor at Harvard. He measured and examined me. I weighed only seven pounds more than I did when he saw me in 1903." Jeffries did not tell his weight, but it was reported to be about 251 pounds.

Since that date Jeffries has shown remarkable will power. For more than a year he worked systematically reducing his weight by light exercise. For three months he has been in vigorous training. All the sacrifices that he made, the days and weeks of self denial, were prompted by one ambition to win the world's title back for the white race.

Jeffries has thoroughly studied himself. When dug out of retirement by overzealous friends he would not place himself on record to fight Johnson until he had first tested his ability. He was eager to ascertain whether the spark of latent ability which he possessed could again be fanned into a flame. Rope skipping, shadow boxing and light exercises, with an occasional three round bout thrown in, evidently convinced the big boilermaker that he could again get in shape good enough to beat Johnson. He experimented with himself from March until August, 1909, the public paying him $2,000 per week as incidental training expenses. Then he came out publicly and announced that he was ready to sign articles of agreement to meet Johnson. Jeffries' great training feat will go down in history as the most herculean task ever attempted by a pugilist.

International Clay Bird Shoot.

An international clay bird shooting tournament will take place at the inshooting for the great prize of Vienna from July 10 to 30. The program consists of a shooting in series, a shooting for the great prize of Vienna and shooting for the world's championship. The shooting is in series (the series comprises twenty clay birds, to be shot at a distance of twelve meters, about fifteen yards).

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of late of Randolph in said County, deceased, intestate:

PETER J. McGRATH

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Lawrence A. McGrath of Randolph without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the thirteenth day of July, A. D. 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hearby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of June, A. D. 1910.

BABY KILLED ON RAILROAD

Heroic Effort of Gate Tender to Rescue Child

Elizabeth Florence, the 16 months daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy of South Braintree, was instantly killed Wednesday afternoon by a fast Cape Cod express in the rear of her home.

The mother was busily engaged in hanging out clothes, and her attention was momently detracted from the child, who crawled through the fence onto the tracks where she stood innocent of her impending danger.

Daniel Buckley, the crossing tender at the Plain street crossing, came from his shanty to flag the crossing for the fast approaching train. As he came from the shanty and looked up the track he saw a sight which almost caused his hair to stand on end, for standing in the middle of the track was a little child. With a yell he dashed up the track in a vain effort to save it.

The rumbling of the on-coming train grew louder and louder as Buckley run a race with death. The engineer saw the racing flagman and realizing something was wrong shut off power and applied the brakes, but the distance was too short, and the next instant it dashed by the frantic gateman and crushed out the little life.

As the train rushed by it almost struck the racing gateman who in that few minutes had lived what must have seemed an age. The baby was decapitated by the train, and the mother was prostrated when the train came to a stop in the rear of her home, and she learned that the life of her baby girl had been crushed out.

The body was viewed by Medical Examiner Frasier of Weymouth. Mr. Kennedy is employed in the bridge department of the railroad.

KENILEY BALLANTYNE

City Hall Interested in Wedding Of Official

When Jeremiah J. Keniley, the well known inspector of plumbing, again returns to his desk at City Hall, he will find it bedecked with flowers, and the little family in the basement of City Hall will give him a royal welcome. He is now in Washington on a brief wedding trip. The wedding took place Wednesday evening at the parochial residence of St. John's church, the bride being Miss Katherine Frances Ballantyne, a well known and popular So. Quincy young lady. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John J. Coan, pastor of the church.

The bride looked charming in a Copenhagen blue travelling suit with picture hat to match. She also wore a beautiful necklace set with diamonds a gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Frances Talbot, who wore a light brown messaline with hat to match. The groom was attended by Daniel H. Driscoll a nephew.

The groom's gift to the best man was a watch fob and charm, diamond pendant.

Upon their return from a wedding trip they will occupy their summer cottage on Manet avenue, Houghs Neck where they will be at home after August 1. Mr. and Mrs. Keniley were the recipients of many beautiful gifts of silver and cut glass.

TEST FOR SUBMARINES.

Six of the Quincy built submarine boats left the Boston navy yard on Wednesday for Provincetown, where they will go through a series of evolutions including diving and racing.

CAPSIZED IN RIVER

Two Unknown Men Rescued by Prompt Work

Two men, whose names could not be learned, had a narow escape from drowning Wednesday afternoon, and it was only by prompt work on the part of Officer Aevery and John Loferty and James Gibbs of the power station that they were saved.

The two men were cruising about the river near the Baker basin in a small boat. Suddenly in coming about something went wrong and the yacht was capsized. Unable to right the yacht or cling to it the men were floundering about in the water hardly able to swim owing to their clothing.

They shouted lustily for help, however. Their cries were heard by Officer Avery who was rowing in the river, and also by Messrs. Loferty and Gibbs at the power station who immediately put out in a boat to their rescue. They were none too soon as the men were about exhausted when aid reached them. They were hauled aboard the boats when one of them collapsed. On being taken ashore, however, he was soon revived. The other man was none the worse for his experience. Officer Avery tried to learn their names, but the two men refused to tell him, as they did not want their identity known.

MRS. HAYES DEAD.

Mrs. Nora Hayes, widow of John Hayes and mother of Rev. Patrick A. Hayes of Dover, Me., died Wednesday afternoon at her home 165 Phipps street, after a brief illness due to apoplexy. Mrs. Hayes was a highly respected woman and leaves a family of ten children. They are Rev. Patrick A. Hayes, John, Joseph and James Hayes, Mrs. John Irwin, Mrs. John J. Byron, Mrs. James Dunn, and Misses Margurite, Elizabeth and Katherine Hayes.

HARVARD WINS

And Is Confident of Taking Varsity Race

New London, June 30—Great crowds of Harvard and Yale men are present to witness the annual races between the two college teams scheduled for today.

The weather is piping hot and the river is as smooth as glass, showing hardly a ripple. It is an ideal day for the races, and some great sport is looked for.

ONE FOR HARVARD.

New London, June 30—The first of the three races, the Freshmen race was held at 11.45, and was won by Harvard by three boat lengths. Great enthusiasm is shown by the Harvard men at the winning of the first of the three races.

ALSO THE FOUR-OARED.

New London, June 30—The four oared race was held shortly after 11 o'clock and was won by Harvard by four boat lengths. It was a spirited race from start to finish. At the end of the first half of the race Yale was leading by one and one-half boat lengths, and Yale stock ran high. Harvard then got down to work and by a great spurt closed the gap between the two boats.

For a time the two boats ran along neck and neck and enthusiasm arose to a bursting point. Gradually Harvard begun to pull away and from that time on continued to widen the gap until at the finish Harvard had a lead of four lengths.

HARVARD CONFIDENT.

New London, June 30—All is now expectation for the great race of the day which is scheduled to be pulled off at 4.30. Harvard flushed with her victory of the morning race is confident of winning. On the other hand Yale will try its best to win and compensate in part for the loss of the morning races.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

The Daily Ledger office will be closed all day next Monday, the Fourth of July. The Ledger of Tuesday will report in detail the celebration of the Fourth, also the sports of Saturday and the events of Sunday.

Who has anything to say about June weather?

After all, the rare June poets knew what they were writing about.

Though the Ballinger inquiry has cost $15,000 it is worth many times that to the magazines.

Perhaps "Nat" Goodwin is merely seeking to ascertain if it ever is possible for the bridegroom to cut any figure at the wedding.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. has some good men on its standing committees for the coming year, and with enlarged facilities and a better financial situation it should do even better work for the boys and young men.

An unusually large number of Quincy pastors and former pastors are to spend the summer abroad. The list includes Rev. E. C. Butler, Rev. Carl G. Horst, Rev. James Todd, Rev. W. W. Dornan, Rev. Rufus B. Tobey and possibly others.

General orders for the Fourth of July parade might well be taken for a model by any city, or for the movement of militia. They are complete in all details, and a credit to the chief marshal who has encountered many difficulties.

Distinguished educator is alarmed because poor men are mortgaging their homes to get automobiles. And pretty soon they will be mortgaging their whiz wagons to get aeroplanes. These come high but they'll have to have them.

With two Quincy-born gentlemen in the list of seven most illustrious signers of the Declaration of Independence, Quincy will be pardoned if it glories in its historic past. President John Adams and Governor John Hancock were men of National renown and will long be remembered.

When it came to selecting a successor to Frederic W. Plummer, as principal of the Woodward Institute, there was no question whether it should be man or woman. The conduct of the school by Mr. Plummer was very satisfactory, and the standard is high.

That is a severe test which the government will require of the little submarine boat, the Salmon, but the Quincy builders have confidence that all expectation will be realized. If you are not interested today you may be next week and the days to follow as the progress of the Salmon is reported in the daily papers.

Competitive bids for coal for city departments of New Bedford were published on Tuesday, in the Standard of tha t city. Although about 3,500 tons of anthracite coal are wanted, the best bid was $6.75 for Locust mountain coal. The recent bids of J. F. Sheppard & Sons and William Cashman for White ash egg and Lehigh were $6 or less. The bids in New Bedford for George's Creek Cumberland were $4.75 and $5.50. In Quincy they were $3.90, $4.05 and $4.19. Yet New Bedford is on tide water and nearer to the mines than Quincy. Evidently a very low price was secured by the School department of Quincy. These prices also controvert the argument that the Brockton canal will decrease the price of coal in Quincy, as prices are higher at the other opening of the canal.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, which is to assemble in Providence this year, may fairly be regarded as the most important since the organization of the association; for it may be expected to formulate with approximate completeness the plans for the chain of inner ways along the Atlantic coast which the present Congress will be urged to accept as the Eastern equivalent for the vast scheme of navigation betterments that has been provided for in the central area. President Moore has selected Aug. 31 and Sept. 1,2 and 3 as the dates for the Providence gathering. At the Providence meeting it is likely that all the survey commissions will be prepared to submit reports. Surveys of various links in the proposed chain, extending from Boston to Key West, have been ordered, but reports from several of the commissions were not in readiness when the Rivers and Harbors Bill was under consideration. That was given as the reason why such lavish provision was made for Improving the Mississippi River system of waterways but practically no provision for the more important Eastern system of inner routes. The House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, it was said, preferred to reserve action until the entire scheme of connected inner ways, as advocated by the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, could be presented. At Providence, it is to be expected, there will be a full representation of the business and commercial interests from along the entire Atlantic coast. The great scheme which is being urged by the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association touches the welfare of every Eastern State and of every Atlantic port from Boston to Key West.—Baltimore Star.

That the boys of 1910 are as ready to die for their country as the boys of 1776 the World believes. One can also live for his country. To die of lockjaw from a pistol shot, or from having a barrel stave blown through ones lungs by a cannon cracker, is neither pleasant, profitable nor patriotic. "Our forefathers" celebrated the Fourth with gunpowder; but they did it in small communities, using arms of short range and squibs of trifling power compared with the diabolic inventions of today. And they did not neglect the reading of the Declaration, or patriotic orations and other similar observances. The nation-wide movement to restrict the mid-summer slaughter does not seek to destroy but to restore an "old-fashioned- Fourth."-New York World.

IN THE SAME BOX.

The city of Brockton has no money for the Fourth of July. Mayor Clifford says that he has conferred with the city treasurer as to the condition of the general fund. He was interested to know if something could not be done to appropriate money for a suitable celebration of the holiday. "He informed me that there is absolutely no money in the general fund," said the Mayor, "and therefore it is useless to call a meeting of the finance committee or hope to do anything this year."

WAS IT YOU—OR ME?

From memory's fleeting pages
I see a face tonight;
A wee small chap, in ragged jeans,
A portrait of delight.

A baseball park, with fences high,
A cheering throng inside—
Two teams arrayed in bitter fight,
And one—the small boy's pride.

He watched the game with bated breath,
And cheered for every play,
His eyes were glued to each man's form,
For he was there to stay.

He saw the plays and cheered the men,
As though it was immense;
He looked at every lightning move
Through a knot-hole in the fence.

He longed to get a closer view,
And thought of future days
When he would have the case to spare
To watch those glittering plays.

Did he enjoy the game? Well, yes,
His interest was intense,
He was the hottest baseball fan
That peeked in through the fence.

But years have changed the picture,
And changed his ways to see,
But tell me, friendly reader,
Was that boy you—or me?

MEETING MAY BE IMPORTANT

Taft and Roosevelt to Discuss Politics at Beverly

HUGHES MAY ALSO ATTEND

Exact Relations of President and Predecessor May Be Revealed—Chief Executive Intends to Be "His Own Man" and Will Not Humiliate Himself by Begging Support of Former White House Occupant

Washington, June 30.—With President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Hughes all within the environs of the city of Boston, public men who have lingered at the national capitol are on edge for some interesting political news within the next twenty-four hours.

The big question hereabouts is: "Will these three men have a conference, and will it have an important bearing on the future of the Republican party?"

There are special reasons for the curiosity that is excited over the proximity in which these distinguished men find themselves. In the first place no one here, at any rate no one who dares speak even in a whisper, knows just what the relations between President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt are at this moment.

It is known that Taft did not communicate with Roosevelt during the colonel's long stay in Africa. Neither did the colonel send any communications to the president. The day Roosevelt landed in New York the president did receive a letter that had been mailed in England. Though pressed on many occasions to give some intimation as to the spirit of this communication, the White House has steadfastly refused to do so.

Since his return, as the public knows, Roosevelt has been giving audience to a good many of the more prominent Republicans who are out after the present administration with a tomahawk. It is true that he has called into conference a few men who may be classed as supporters of the administration, but as Washington understands it his conferences have been largely with the enemies of the administration. It is violating no confidence to say that this fact has had a disquieting effect at the White House.

Ever since the talk began that the president and the former president and Governor Hughes would meet at Beverly, the White House has maintained silence with respect to the talk of the meeting. Frequenters of the executive offices became convinced two or three days ago that President Taft has made up his mind not to do anything or say anything in connection with this gossip about a meeting that would give the country any excuse for saying that he was seeking the favor of his predecessor.

Whatever may be said of the political campaign that resulted in making Taft president, and everybody knows that Roosevelt did make him president, Taft is now determined to be his own man. It was this decision that led him to refuse to go to New York on the occasion of Roosevelt's return, and it is this determination that is moving him to decline to take the initiative in bringing about a conference with Roosevelt at Beverly.

As persons here who are in positions to know understand the situation, the president would, of course, be glad to have the support of his predecessor, but he does not intend to humiliate himself by begging for it. While not much has been said about it, the president has been quite a bit chagrined over the stories that Roosevelt has been trying to persuade Hughes to reconsider his acceptance of the place in the supreme court and make a third campaign for governor of New York. Naturally the attitude of the president would be that if the colonel has been doing anything of this sort he is interfering in matters that do not call for interference from him.

It is plain that President Taft intends to be his own man. He does not intend to face about on the Pinchot business, or on anything else in order to gain the favor of his predecessor. Within the last day or two rumors have come to the national capital that Roosevelt intends to give the administration a hearty indorsement in his first political speech. On the other hand, the statesmen who have been to Oyster Bay seem to be pretty well convinced that the colonel is not going to support all the administration has done. It is this uncertainty, these conflicting reports, that have created such keen interest in a possible conference.

Drop In Retail Beef Prices

Chicago, June 30.—Retail beef prices have dropped, following a wholesale price reduction. Sirloin steak, which two days ago sold for 18½ cents per pound, can be had for 16½. Porterhouse, that sold for 22 cents, is quoted at 20.

TO SAVE $100,000 A YEAR

Government to Make Those Who Want Fresh Coin Pay For Transportation

Washington, June 30.—Department store managers and others desiring fresh silver coin may take notice from the treasury department that after June 30 such coin will be shipped only at the expense of the applicant. The government has paid for the transportation of fractional or minor coin ever since 1881. At that time the making of "shin plasters" was discontinued and congress appropriated $20,000 for transporting silver. The expense has increased to as high as $120,000 a year.

Two years ago the department ceased paying charges on standard silver dollars. The appropriation for the past year was $60,000, and this has been exceeded by about $35,000. Congress made no appropriation to pay express charges for the next fiscal year, hence the treasury department is sending formal notice as above stated. The government will save an average of $100,000 a year by the the discontinuance.

RICKARD IS "GREEN" AS FIGHT REFEREE

But He Feels Sure He Will Make Good at Reno

Reno, Nev., June 30.—Tex Rickard has no misgivings whatever regarding his ability to referee the big fight.

"Why, I haven't given the subject a single thought," he told a group of newspaper men here. "The job will be a snap. With seasoned fighters like Jeffries and Johnson to deal with, it will be the easiest thing in the world to take care of the referee's end. I have been assured by both men that they are entirely satisfied to have me in the ring and they will do everything they can to smooth my way."

There are many who declare that the appointment of Rickard was a mistake, owing to his admitted inexperience as an arbitor of contests. Even his critics, however, appear to be satisfied that when he enters the ring the promoter will endeavor to give each contestant a square deal.

FREIGHT RATES AFFECTED

Drastic Reduction Ordered In Decision on the "Spokane Case"

Washington, June 30.—Decisions were handed down by the interstate commerce commission of country-wide importance. They affect freight rates —both class and commodity—on all trans-continental lines operating between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Extensive reductions were ordered.

The decisions are in what is popularly known as the Spokane case and those of other interior cities, which were heard by the commission on its six weeks' trip to the Pacific coast. In every instance reductions in the existing rates complained of were made and in some instances they amounted to nearly 50 percent.

The commission found a remarkable rate situation existing on the Pacific coast, and even a more remarkable one in the inter-mountain territory.

AN EPOCHAL CASE

Panama Hat Importer Voluntarily Pays $100,000 For Undervaluations

New York, June 30.—While no names have been made public as yet, it is admitted that one importer has already confessed to defrauding the government out of more than $100,000 through undervaluation in importing Panama hats. His offense was unknown to the government previous to his confession. More are expected to follow his lead.

As a result of his confession the importer has cleared himself, but the information given by him, it is expected, will lead to sensational revelations regarding the hat importation business.

According to an official in the customs service the man who made the confession restored to the government the amount he swindled it out of through false declarations.

YOUNG GIRL STRANGLED

Rope Caught Around Her Neck When She Tried to Make a Swing

Milford, N. H., June 30.—Emily S. Joslyn, aged 11 years, met death by hanging in the loft of the Joslyn barn. Playmates discovered her body.

Dr. Wason stated the girl had been dead probably fifteen minutes when found. The indications were that she may have tried to make a swing and had stood upon a lounge in the loft and in swinging off the rope had become entangled around her neck and strangled her.

Boy Impaled on Fence

Malden, Mass., June 30.—While lying face downward on the limb of a cherry tree 13-year-old Francis Connors fell when the limb broke and he was impaled on a picket fence beneath. One of the pickets entered his stomach, and he died in a short time.

Notice of The Summer School

The Summer School will open its session on Tuesday morning, July 5, at the Women's Club House, Goffe street.

The school will be in charge of Mrs. John D. Mackay, chairman of the Education committee, assisted by the ladies of that committee.

The school term will be six weeks, beginning July 5th and closing August 13th.

Girls residing in Quincy between the ages of nine and seventeen are invited to attend this school free of charge.

The hours for lessons will be from nine o'clock until half past eleven in the morning.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Training by Miss Ruth Bass of Sargent's school of Gymnastics. All sorts of exercises for development of the body, games and dancing. Most of the work to be done out of doors.

Home Nursing by Miss Blanche M. Thayer, Superintendent of Quincy City Hospital. In this course girls will be taught to prepare the bed for sick persons, to give baths and change clothes; how to dress wounds and give first aids; how to restore fainting persons; what are the symptoms of the commonest contagious diseases; the importance of isolation; personal hygiene and other important information which will be of great assistance to them through life besides teaching them the things which make for the health of the community. A prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Current Events. There will be a course in current events and a prize will be given to the girl who does the best work in this course.

Spelling. Some time will be devoted to the old fashioned spelling-matches. The girl who spells correctly the largest number of words will receive a prize.

Vocational Work. The Education Committee hopes to be able to do some Vocational Work among these girls this summer. It will be their aim to find out what the girls who do not expect to go to High school are thinking of doing in the autumn and to be able to assist such girls in finding employment best suited to their capabilities.

Business Course. Some simple work among the girls instructing them about receipts, how to make out money orders, checks, the importance of signatures and ordinary business formalities, which women ought to know.

Household Art. Mrs. Stanley Bone will give a series of twelve lessons in Household Art. In this course it is expected that girls who cannot go to High School will be taught how to go into the kitchen and prepare wholesome plain meals and then leave the kitchen in perfect order. There will be a prize in this course for the girl who does the best work.

Music. Some time will be devoted to music, Probably the learning of familiar songs.

It is expected that there will be four or five first-class lectures for the girls. The topics will be: "How a Statue Grows" by Mrs. H. H. Kitson. "The Story of a Great Painting" by Miss Georgiana Lane. "How a Great Musical Composition is Created," by Mrs. Chandler Smith. "Poetry and Moral Lessons" by Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston (if possible.)

To the girl who gives back the best reproduction of these five lectures a prize will be given.

Swimming Lessons. These lessons will be given to girls who cannot swim upon days when the tide is high during the school hour. It may be possible to have these lessons in the afternoons.

Inspection of Gardens. There were started in this city one thousand home gardens. These gardens are to receive inspection. The inspectors are so systematizing their work that it can be divided and sub-divided. Any person interested in the garden work is invited to accompany inspectors on their rounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best specimens raised in the Home Gardens.

Swimming Class for Clerks. On Wednesday afternoons during the six weeks of the Summer School a teacher will be in readiness to teach the art of swimming to girls who have only that time for recreation. Those desiring to have these lessons will please give their names to Mrs. Souther at Wadsworth's store.

THE DIFFERENCE

between a poor laundry and a good laundry is that one is careful and the other is not. In every lot of laundry work, there is a certain amount of care and bother.

If you go to a poor laundry, the care and bother are yours. A good laundry takes this off your mind. Nothing is too much trouble for us, if it pleases our customers. That is why we are so successful.

BRIEFS

The Houghs Neck Ladies Associates are to hold a whist party tonight in Associates hall.

A regular meeting of the West Quincy Improvement Association will be held this evening at Dolan's hall.

The Sunday School of the Swedish Baptist church will go to Bethel beach at Houghs Neck for its annual outing on Saturday, July 9.

The Overseer of the Poor advertises today for bids for furnishing his department with coal. Will he find it necessary to go out of town?

The Washington street estate to be sold at auction tomorrow is large enough to build four apartment houses without removing the present house, as there is a large frontage on three streets.

The long desired branch library is to be opened tomorrow afternoon at West Quincy. Interested members of the Quincy Women's club are to contribute flowers and be present at the opening.

The street railway used the heaviest construction made for its new work at the junction of Coddington and Washington streets. The Company find it difficult to obtain men for such work.

Several Quincy young men are taking the Technology examinations this week including Roy Sidelinger, Alfred Hanson, Wendell Clark, Gordon Jameson, Richard Favorite, Stanley Churchill, Ralph Austin and others.

Commissioner Bainbridge advertises today for bids for furnishing the city with 200,000 paving blocks. The blocks will be used on the Hancock street job. Wonder if he will insist on Quincy granite?

The Sunday school of Christ church have an ideal day for their annual picnic at Glen Echo park. Three special cars left the corner of Hancock and School streets at 9 o'clock this morning with the picnickers on board.

The 25th anniversary of the Swedish Baptist church on Granite street will be observed from July 21 to 24 inclusive. It is expected that the first pastor, Rev. J. P. Westerberg, now of Youngstown, Ohio, will be present, also Rev. J. Bjork of Pittsburg, Penn., and others.

—Columbus Day, Oct. 12, the latest new state holiday, has been analyzed by the Fitchburg Sentinel and found to differ in many respects from other state holidays. First, the day is not added to the list which is covered by the revised laws. It therefore, does not come in the class where, if this day falls on Sunday, the following day is to be observed as a holiday. Second, it does not come in the list which requires public offices to be closed on that day; therefore all the state offices, the courts and their offices, and all city and town offices must be kept open that day. Third, this holiday does not come in the list of the days on which the liquor saloons must be closed.

JAPAN PREPARES TO TACKLE U. S.

British Naval Expert Predicts Fight Without Interference.

EUROPE WILL CALMLY WATCH

Alliance of Mikado and England, Expiring In 1915, Will Not Be Renewed, Asserts Gerard Fiennes—Philippines to Be Spoil of Yellow Nation Is His View of War's Outcome.

Discussion of Great Britain's naval policy is a thing that, to the American who hears the endless rounds of contesting argument, bids fair to "run on forever." Another English naval expert has discovered shadows in the Pacific cast by war clouds formed because of the relations between the United States and Japan, especially because of the American "open door" policy.

This latest contribution has appeared in the London Graphic, forming part of a series of articles which under the general title of "The Sovereignty of the Seas" have been embittering still further the "naval policy" wrangle. The author of this series is Gerard Fiennes, numbered among England's foremost naval experts and a man who is not particularly well liked at the admiralty because he insists on "speaking out in public."

British Alliance to Die.

Mr. Fiennes states that the Anglo-Japanese alliance cannot be renewed on its expiration in 1915 and that there are grave indications that this agreement may not conserve far eastern affairs on peace lines even before its existence is concluded. He argues, too, that Great Britain must give up its policy of regarding the empire in the light of the "hen and chickens" combination.

"Japan will," he asserts, "in the last analysis fight the United States very much for the reason that prompted Bismarck to fight France."

He admits that if Japan today ordered Germany out of Kiaochau the kaiser would have no alternative but to move out, adding, however, that in such an event the old European league would revive and Germany, France and Russia would overwhelm the mikado's people.

"But," contends this naval expert, "Europe is not going to lift a finger, I imagine, when war breaks out between Japan and the United States to save to the latter the islands of which it deprived Spain. Europe has a 'Monroe doctrine' of its own, and it includes the determination to leave the United States to stew in its own juice.

Japan Despises America.

"The Japanese are full of contempt for American brag and bounce, for the lack of national spirit or even of true nationality, which they discern in the Americans. They have a profound disbelief in the war worthiness of the American navy and an acute realization of the fact that the strategical situation is overwhelmingly in their favor.

"It is objected that the Japanese are too poor to fight. When will people recognize the fact which all history teaches—that it is the poor nations, not those which have grown rich and comfortable, which fight? The Prussia of Frederick the Great, the France of Napoleon, were poor.

"It ought to be so obvious as not to need saying that it is the nation which hopes to gain something, not the nation which is preoccupied in holding what it has gained, which is tempted to war. Japan is rich enough to afford war because, directly or indirectly, she will make war pay for itself."

LARGEST STEAMER PLANNED.

German Liner to Exceed All Previous Size Records.

The largest steamship in the world is soon to be built at Hamburg for a German line, and the plans were recently inspected by Emperor William.

The ship will have a length between perpendiculars of 876 feet and a breadth of 85½ feet. From keel to upper deck will measure 64 feet. She will have a speed of 22 knots and will be twice the tonnage of the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria.

The new giant liner if stood on end would top the Metropolitan tower in New York by 176 feet. If set down in the middle of Broadway between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-ninth street it would ocupy the length of almost three city blocks, and its breadth would crowd back the buildings on both sides. A quarter of a mile track could be laid out around its deck. It would be higher than the average five story building.

Diving Is Remunerative.

The free instruction given by the United States navy at its seamen gunners' school includes a course in diving. Many of the younger bluejackets become very proficient in this work. Besides his regular pay, the member a ship's crew, if a diver, receives an extra compensation of $1.20 per hour for the actual time he is employed under water.

Virginia Has Best Pipeclay.

The largest clay pipe factory in the world is in Appomattox county, Va. The clay found in that section is specially adapted to this use.

BURGLARS MAKE HAUL

Ransack Braintree House While Family is Away

When the family of Frederick J. Smith of 84 Hayward street, East Braintree, returned home Wednesday afternoon they were surprised to find that the house had been entered by burglars during their absence and was thoroughly ransacked. The members of the family were away all day from 8.30 in the morning returning about 5.30 in the afternoon.

They found that the burglars had forced a rear bulkhead and gone into the cellar. They had then forced the door leading to the upper floors and then made a systematic search. Several doors that had been locked were broken open and every drawer, and trunk was opened, and the contents strewn about the house. Some things the burglars did not want were destroyed in a malicious manner.

Solid silver to the value of $500, a gold watch valued at $100, another gold watch, pearl handle revolver and leather suit case were taken. They overlooked a small basket containing about $100 of silver. The basket was concealed under a sofa pillow on a couch.

MT. PLEASANT CAMP

Is Receiving Support of a Large Number

A well attended meeting in the interests of the fresh air camp for tuberculosis patients was held Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. N. S. Hunting. The outlook is encouraging for good collections were reported by the collectors who are making a house-to-house canvass to raise money for carrying on the camp. Nearly $200 has been received so far and more to come.

Donations have been received as follows: Bethany Circle $10 for sheets and pillow slips, Mrs. Harry L. Rice $15 for blankets and bath robes; Mrs. Otho A. Hayward, towels; Miss Catherine Shea $8 from two societies in which she is interested; also the Catholic club met one warm afternoon and made two dozen pillow slips, which were of unusual size and much needed.

Some of the present needs of the camp are bedspreads, staple groceries fresh or canned fruit.

The solicitors report they have been most kindly received in their rounds about the city and it is hoped every one will give the matter serious consideration as the camp needs generous support until such time as the city assumes charge.

TRIP OF FLOATING HOSPITAL.

The Boston Floating Hospital began its daily trips on Wednesday. The steamer has a crew of 150 including 20 physicians and 70 nurses. On Wednesday there were 16 children in the permament ward, 18 day patients with 18 mothers.

RECIPE FOR A QUIET FOURTH.

By TOMMY TUCKER.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

IT'S the Fourth of July, and
I simply can't keep
As quiet as when I'm in bed and asleep.
If I didn't do things to stir up a riot
They'd call in the doctor 'cause I was so quiet.

I don't see why folks should object to the noise
Of crackers and rockets shot off by the boys.

WHEN THE CANNONS AND CRACKERS GO "BOOM!"

Why, when they had battles there must have been more
Than we can turn out of the rattle and roar.

Besides, when the cannons and crackers go "boom"
There's one way to make it as still as the tomb—
Just stick in your fingers and stop up your ears.
It can't be a noise when there's nobody hears.

A PEACEFUL PATRIOT.

By ALLEN ARTHUR.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

I BELIEVE in the creed of the Scriptures—
The gospel o' good will an' peace.
That swords should be turned into plowshares
An' the warrin' o' nations should cease.
But when comes the Fourth with its mem'ries
O' victories grand, I opine
That's one day at least when I'm takin'
A little gunpowder in mine.

A LITTLE GUNPOWDER IN MINE.

To slaughter your brother is fearful.
My spirit revolts at the thought.
'Tis better to practice the lessons
That in the good gospel are taught.
But if I had 'a' been with those patriots
Whose names now in history shine
I feel that I, too, 'd have taken
A little gunpowder in mine.

I know we've the grandest old nation
That's set in the earth's diadem.
Our fathers secured it by fightin'
(I wish I'd 'a' been 'long with them).
I'm peaceful an' ain't no ambition
Among the world's warriors to shine.
But I'm ready to take, if its needful.
A little gunpowder in mine.

GREAT REGATTA TODAY

Yale Gets First Blood by Victory of Her Freshman Crew

New London, June 30.—Yale and Harvard meet in their annual struggle for rowing honors on the Thames today and New London is filled with its typical boat race crowd.

Yale won the freshman four-oared race last evening, and although this is considered a "scrub" event, and not scheduled with the regular contests of the regatta, the supporters of the Blue are greatly encouraged by the omen. The race was rowed over a mile course.

The Yale freshmen finished three-quarters of a length ahead. The unofficial time was 5:39 1-5. The Harvard crew got the jump at the start and led for three-quarters of the way, at times getting a lead of nearly two lengths. In the last quarter the New Haven youngsters came up with a beautiful spurt and won in a gruelling finish.

TWO SCHOONERS BURNED

Flames Spread From Icehouses, Which Are Also Destroyed

Richmond, Me., June 30.—Two four-masted schooners and the same number of icehouses, owned by the American Ice company, were destroyed by fire here. The loss on the icehouses is estimated at $60,000, while that on the schooners, the Henry L. Peckham and Young Brothers, is about $65,000.

As the icehouses were situated on the Kennebec river, near the tracks of the Maine Central railroad, it is believed that a spark from a passing locomotive ignited the structures.

TRY OUT MONEY LAUNDRY.

Uncle Sam's Bills Scrubbed by Machine at Washington.

Uncle Sam's money laundry is getting a tryout in the United States bureau of engraving and printing. Director J. D. Ralph is on the job watching with interest the renovator of dirty bills do its duty. The machine on trial is one invented by Frank B. Churchill.

The machine takes bills and spreads them on a screen. This screen is revolved rapidly through a solution of soap and water, which takes off the grime. The next disk takes them through a strong solution of a disinfectant, which removes the germs. A third disk removes the traces of the other two waters and sends the bill out on to a plat ready for the "plater." The "plater" is the same roller used to press new money. It is this machine that gives new money its crispness. After the washed out bills are run through the "plater" they are comparatively new, the ink colors having been brought out again and the dirt removed.

It is Mr. Ralph's idea that the life of a banknote will be extended about 60 per cent by the new method. The machine which he wants will cost between $800 and $1,000. It will save from $500,000 to $1,000,000 annually.

BRIEFS

The days have decreased two minutes in length.

High tide on the Fourth of July at 8.45 A. M. and 9.15 P. M.

The alarm from Box. 152 at 9.37 Wednesday evening was a false alarm.

Miss Ella Darling of Whitwell street sailed this week on the Calvin Austin for St. John, N. B. From there she will go to Nauwigewauk to spend two weeks' vacation at her home.

Several beautiful floral tributes were sent for the funeral of Miss Eva Smith on Wednesday. A large number of friends attended the services which were conducted by Rev. R. E. Armstrong. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Now it is beautiful mammoth rose bushes at the residence of N. B. Furnald on Washington street that are attracting attention. A large crimson rambler and a large prairie in close proximity are trying to outdo each other. There is a mass of bloom about twelve feet high and twelve feet broad.

HIGH SCHOOL IN PARADE.

At the request of Col. Henry L. Kincaide, chief marshal of the Fourth of July parade, Paul R. Blackmur, Jr., president of the class of 1911, Quincy High School, called a meeting of his class at Union Hall last night. At this meeting it was voted that every High school boy who could be reached should parade under the banner of the High schol, and that each individual would execute his own idea as to costume and feature, the only proviso being that all parade in a body.

Those present at the meeting elected a committee on arrangements and all will spread the news among the High school boys. A mass meeting of the High school boys will be held in Union hall Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

VICTORY IS MINE, CLAIMS PRESIDENT

Railroad Revision Measures, Creation of Commerce Court and Postal Savings Banks Among Laws Pointed to by Taft.

Credits Congressman Mann For Passage of Railway Bill --- Insurgents' Work Material Aid to Administration In Battles.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE chief measures passed by the session of congress just closed were the railroad bill, the postal savings bank bill, the land withdrawal bill, the reclamation bond bill, the campaign publicity bill and the statehood bill. What amounted to a tariff commission bill was also passed, for an appropriation was voted the tariff board on an understanding that it should investigate cost of production at home and abroad.

All of these measures were enacted on the recommendation of the president and constitute what are known as the Taft policies.

Probably never in the history of the country did a president so completely have his way so early in his administration. True, he had to abandon some of his program, including such items as federal license, anti-injunction and ship subsidy, but this abandonment was only temporary. Considering the driving power he displayed he should be able to force through those items and others during the short session. He will also probably attempt to obtain federal regulation of railroad stock and bond issues at some future session. He recommended it strongly this time, and his idea was ingrafted in the Wickersham draft of the railroad bill, but was stricken out in the senate. Later the conference committee gave him a commission to inquire into railway securities, and it will doubtless be on the report of this commission that he will renew his recommendation for federal regulation. The chief object of such a law would be to prevent the watering of stock.

A Bill With Teeth.

The new railroad law provides, among other things, for a commerce court, to which all appeals from the interstate commerce commission shall be made. It gives the commission power to initiate an inquiry although no formal complaint has been made. It confers on the commission the power to suspend for ten months a proposed advance in rates and to prohibit such advance permanently if found to be unreasonable and unjust. This provision went into effect at once in order that it might apply to the proposed increase in freight rates recently halted by the famous Taft-Wickersham injunction. The law places telegraphs, telephones, cables and wireless under the control of the commission, but provides for special rates, such as those given to the press. It contains a long and short haul provision forbidding a greater charge for a short haul than for a longer one over the same line.

It prevents the merger of competing roads or of the absorption by a railroad of a competing water line. It permits shippers to choose routes and to be represented by counsel in hearings. It forbids a railroad from lowering its rates to drive out water competition and afterward raising them except by permission of the interstate commerce commission. It provides for a commission to inquire into the issue of railroad securities and the watering of stocks.

It contains many other features of benefit to shippers, such as those to expedite hearings. Many of the provisions in the railroad law were placed there by the insurgents in the two houses. They called it "giving the bill teeth." Among the most notable of these additions are the long and short haul clause and the inclusion of telegraphs and telephones. The progressives also struck out the merger and traffic agreement sections.

Postal Depositories.

The postal savings bank law marks a new departure in American finance. It provides that the president and two members of his cabinet shall constitute a commission to establish postal depositories at money order postoffices throughout the country, that these officers shall receive deposits not exceeding $100 per month or $500 in all from one person, that 2 per cent interest shall be paid on these deposits, that 65 per cent of the postal funds shall be placed in nearby banks on proper security, 5 per cent shall constitute a reserve fund and 30 per cent may be invested in government bonds. In cases of extraordinary emergency, however, the president may invest all the funds in government bonds. Western senators protested against the bond buying feature of the act and against the security required from local banks on the claim that these provisions would operate to throw the postal funds into Wall street.

Statehood and Conservation.

The act admitting Arizona and New Mexico as separate states provides that the people of these territories shall proceed to the formation of constitutions, which shall go into effect when ratified by the voters and approved by congress and the president. There was some hitch as to voting qualifications in Arizona, but this was fixed by a broader suffrage than that now recognized in the territory. It is probable that the two new states will be in the Union by 1911, making forty-eight in all and using up all the territory in the United States available for statehood purposes. This, of course, is exclusive of Alaska and our island possessions. It is time to put two more stars on the flag.

Originally President Taft recommended nine conservation measures. Two of these passed. The land withdrawal act empowers the president to withdraw from entry temporarily any lands now in the possession of the United States, but provides that land containing metalliferous minerals shall be subject to entry under the mineral land law. The act was criticised by such conservationists as Gifford Pinchot because it failed to validate the withdrawals of President Roosevelt and by implication at least threw a doubt on their legality and because the provision as to the mineral land law and that concerning homestead entry left a loophole for the private acquirement of water power sites and other natural resources.

The other measure enacted, which was not strictly a conservation act, but was related thereto, was the reclamation bond bill. This was originally put at $30,000,000, but was cut to $20,000,000. A fight was made on the provision requiring army engineers to pass on irrigation projects which was thought to reflect on the reclamation service and possibly to mean the supplanting of Director Newell, who had testified against Secretary Ballinger. It was finally compromised by providing that the president must approve such projects, and it is presumed that he will use army engineers to investigate them. The purpose of the reclamation bond measure is to raise money to complete irrigation projects already undertaken by the government.

Campaign Fund Publicity.

The campaign publicity law which the president advocated, although it was not usually classed as one of the Taft policies, requires that candidates for congress shall file a statement of election receipts and expenditures after election. The Democrats made a fight to compel publication before election, and a provision to this effect was included in the house bill, but was afterward stricken out in the senate.

The president also succeeded in getting an appropriation of $250,000 for the tariff board with the avowed intention of having it investigate the cost of production at home and abroad and if the information obtained warranted it to use this as a basis for further tariff revision.

Of the Taft policies, federal license, ship subsidies, anti-injunction and several conservation measures were temporarily sidetracked with the president's consent. By a close vote in the senate the ship subsidy measure was made the unfinished business to be taken up in the short session. Other measures which are left over are the anti-option bill, prohibiting gambling in cotton futures, and the Appalachian forest reserve. Both of these measures passed the house, but were lost for lack of time in the senate.

A Chapter of Inquiries.

Congress undertook numerous investigations, the most important of which was the Ballinger case. The report on this, it is understood, will be given out before election. The high prices investigation by the Lodge committee brought forth a partial report, which exonerated the tariff and ascribed fifteen or twenty causes to the increased cost of living, among which were the larger production of gold, congestion in cities, abandonment of farms and food trusts. The investigation of the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois was left to a subcommittee, which will hold hearings during the recess. In the closing days of the session Senator Gore of Oklahoma made sweeping charges of attempted bribery in relation to Indian claims, and an inquiry was ordered by both houses.

One of the most notable developments of the session was known as the insurgent movement. It consisted of about thirty Republican members of the house and perhaps a dozen in the senate, although the numbers varied on different votes. By combining with the Democrats the insurgents were frequently able to command a majority and thus to control legislation and to modify the rules. In the house after a memorable fight they removed the speaker from the rules committee, which they enlarged and caused to be elected by the house itself. Their chief fight was against the Payne-Aldrich tariff and against what they termed Cannonism. It is generally agreed that their activity had much to do with the retirement of Aldrich and Hale in the senate and to have made Speaker Cannon's re-election impossible. Through their influence the pigeonholing of bills has to an extent been abrogated.

SENATOR GORE OF OKLAHOMA, WHOSE BRIBERY CHARGES STIRRED CONGRESS.

Reduced Appropriations.

One of the watchwords of the session was economy, and, while no vast saving has been made, the chairman of the ways and means committee stated at the close of the session that the aggregate of appropriations would show some reduction from the previous year and compared to the normal increase in appropriations due to the growth of the country would show material saving. He gave the credit for this to the president. In this connection Mr. Taft sent in a severe criticism of the rivers and harbors bill, usually known as the "pork barrel." While he signed the measure, he frankly threatened that if another such were ever sent to him he would veto it. He would overlook it this time, but don't do it again. Another attempt at economy which went wrong was the elimination of the pension agencies by the house. The senate restored the agents, and the two bodies twice disagreed on the item, but the house was finally forced to recede.

Despite the claim of Chairman Payne the actual figures show a slight increase in appropriations.

Everybody Happy.

Taken all in all, the session probably accomplished more work and made less noise than any of recent times. It is slyly hinted that the special elections in Masachusetts and New York threw the fear of God into the members and they decided it was high time to make good if they expected to get back. It is also just possible that the president's big stick had something to do with the result. However that may be, the miracle was accomplished, and the close of the session gave the country a gratifying example of what a congress can do when it buckles down to business. This was all the more a pleasant surprise for the reason that the first five months gave no promise of such an agreeable ending.

Congress accomplished little during these five months and gave no sign that it would ever mend its ways. Then came the landslides in Massachusetts and New York and some mighty straight talk from the White House, after which there were evidences of repentance and a desire to lead a better life.

The country is glad of all this and still gladder, perhaps, that it is over. That is one of the good things about congress—the relief that is felt when it quits.

CHIEF LEGISLATION PASSED BY CONGRESS.

Revision of the railroad laws, including the creation of a commerce court.

Admitting Arizona and New Mexico as separate states.

Authorizing the establishment of postal savings banks.

Giving the president unlimited authority to withdraw public lands for conservation purposes.

Authorizing the issue of $20,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness to complete reclamation projects.

Authorizing the entry of the surface of coal lands.

Creating a commission to consider economies in the administration of the federal government.

Providing a new tariff system for the Philippine Islands.

Legislation which ultimately is expected to give practical prohibition to the Hawaiian Islands.

Providing for publicity of campaign contributions.

Creating a bureau of mines.

Extending the activities of the tariff board and appropriating $250,000 for its use.

Looking to the suppression of traffic in "white slaves."

BOY EMULATES STEVE BRODIE

Is First to Jump From Brooklyn Bridge For a Prize

HIS FEAT IS UNQUESTIONED

Makes Dive of 135 Feet With Coat and Trousers Over Swimming Trunks and Without Removing Shoes—Says He Wasn't a Bit Scared Until He Jumped—Gets $250, Two Suits of Clothes, and Visions of Fame

New York, June 30.—A hatchet-faced, under-sized youth in ragged swimming trunks, with a skimp coat and an old pair of trousers thrown over them, dived successfully from the centre span of Brooklyn bridge to the East river, 135 feet below, for $250 in cash, two new suits of clothes and whatever fame the world may hold in store for a bridge jumper.

The late Steve Brodie acquired fame as a bridge jumper, and long ran a Bowery saloon on the strength of it, but many say it was never proved that Steve really jumped. Several would-be suicides have been fished out of the river unhurt, after jumping, but this boy is the first to jump with unquestioned witnesses as a part of a prearranged plan.

His first words when he was fished out of the river by the crew of a passing tug were: "Gee, but I hit hard."

The youth is Otto Eppers, 17 years old, the son of a lithographer. He weighs about 110 pounds and has been unofficially swimming champion of the East river ever since he got into the big boys' class.

Recently he heard that a Brooklyn merchant was willing to pay $250 out of his advertising appropriation to the first man who would jump from any one of the bridges over the East river.

Otto had jumped 104 feet from a bridge once before and the addition of a few more feet never gave him so much as a thought. "Sure, I'll do it," he said, and he did.

Otto meant to dive from the new Manhattan bridge, because he thought it was higher—the height in reality is the same for all the East river bridges—but the police were too watchful. He meant to shed his coat and trousers, but he didn't have time. He meant to take off his heavy boots, but the river did that for him.

He meant to dive in one long, sweeping arc, "but somehow," he told afterward, "I started to twist and then I couldn't stop." Passengers on the ferry boats said he spun like a pinwheel.

"I wasn't a bit scared until I jumped," he continued, "but I don't remember anything after I hit until I came up again." He was found floating on his back, half-stunned, and paddling feebly. "I could have swum to shore," he boasted, and in the next breath admitted "but I wasn't feeling very spry."

A rub down and two hours' rest in a hospital found Eppes fit to appear in police court, where he was quickly discharged for lack of evidence that he had attempted suicide. He hopes to become a shining star in some dime museum. In his coat pocket, when he was fished out, was a rough advance sketch of his plunge signed proudly, "That Bridge Jumper, O. Eppes."

Hyde Is Denied New Trial

Kansas City, June 30.—Judge Latshaw refused to grant Dr. B. C. Hyde's motion for a new trial. He was convicted for the murder of Colonel Swope and sentenced to life imprisonment.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Quincy People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions are dark, contain a sediment,

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache, and urinary disorders.

Quincy evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. F. Burke, 143 Quincy street, Quincy Mass., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills to be an excellent remedy for kidney trouble. I used them and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured at the Cox Drug Store and have my highest recommendation."

THINKS HE IS GETTING OLD

Time Beginning to Tell on Man Who Is 110 Years Old

HIS WIFE STILL WITH HIM

Became Citizen of United States When New Mexico Was Annexed, Having Been Born In That Territory Under Spanish Flag—His Wife, Whom He Married Ninety Years Ago, Is Still His Close Companion

Florence, Col., June 30.—Ninety years of wedded bliss, of happiness and enjoyment, here and there with a few clouds of sorrow and grief, is the record of Francisco Espor and his wife.

For them is claimed the marriage record of America, both in point of age and length of wedded life. They look upon that seventy year married couple as youngsters just out of their honeymoon stage.

At the home in Florence of a granddaughter, Mrs. Julia Montoya, the aged couple have lived many years. The granddaughter supplies many of the facts of the life of the old people. While the husband was strong on things that happened years ago, his memory could not recall events that occurred more recently. It was here that he relied upon his granddaughter's memory.

"Yes," the ninety-year-a-husband centenarian said, "I guess I'm getting old—too old, I tell my grandchildren—and if I didn't have Rafael," with an affectionate glance at his wife, "here with me I should be lost in the world as it is today.

"I was born in 1800. You see that makes me 110 years old, and Rafael there is three years younger than I am. No, I don't remember the name of the town where I was born. It was somewhere in what is now New Mexico. It has long been deserted and its name forgotten. I think I am the only person alive who lived in it. Yes, we thought it was something of a city in those days, but its gone now, like all the old friends of those days except Rafael."

In those days Espor was a Spanish citizen; later, when the territory was annexed to Mexico, his political status was changed. When the northern Mexican states were conquered and annexed to the United States Espor became a citizen of this country.

He remembers well the desert schooners that crossed the continent when gold was first discovered in California. A cloud of sorrowful remembrance passed over his wrinkled face as he told of the times when in the sandy wastes of the American desert he stumbled over the half devoured bodies of men and horses, the victims of Indians and killing heat.

He does not like to talk to strangers now, for, as he said, "My people are all gone; the things that interest you young folks are so entirely different from the things that we enjoyed in the days of the early part of the last century that I can't get used to liking them."

The old man is of French descent, though born in this country; his wife was born near Taos, N. M. They have one child, a "boy" of 85. There were ten children, but old age has claimed them all excepting this one. There are, however, thirty grandchildren, sixty great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

IS BACK IN POLITICS

Roosevelt Puts Shoulder to the Wheel In Behalf of Hughes

Boston, June 30.—Theodore Roosevelt leaped into the political arena yesterday afternoon by declaring that he would help Governor Hughes. He stated that he had sent an emphatic appeal to the New York Republican leaders demanding that the legislature back up the governor and pass the legislation he is seeking.

The former president's statement came entirely unexpectedly at the banquet of the Harvard alumni and had a startling effect on his hearers.

In making his declaration Roosevelt broke his silence much earlier than he had asserted he would on arrival back on American soil. Then he stated he would have nothing to say of a political nature for at least two months.

REFUSES TO RESIGN

Kansas Revenue Collector Wants to Know Reason For Request

Leavenworth, Kas., June 30.—James H. Simpson, collector of internal revenue, received a telegram from the treasury department at Washington, requesting his resignation.

Simpson wired back a refusal. He has addressed letters to the internal revenue commissioner, to the secretary of the treasury and the president, asking on what grounds his resignation is asked.

Many Lives Lost In Floods

Salyersville, Ky., June 30.—Six bodies were recovered from the Licking river, following a cloudburst along its headwaters. It is reported that many other lives have been lost. Twenty-six houses were washed away.

HALF A CHANCE

SYNOPSIS

A party of titled passengers on a ship bound for Australia visit a section "below decks" where a gang of convicts sentenced to deportation are confined. The ship, the Lord Nelson is wrecked. A convict, the "Frisco Pet," jumps overboard with Jocelyn Wray, a pretty little girl. The convict, after returning the girl to her friends is himself later cast away alone on a deserted island. Years have passed. Lord Ronsdale and other members of the party wrecked on the Lord Nelson, including Jocelyn Wray, go to the criminal courts in London to hear John Steele, a famous young lawyer, try a case.

(CHAPTER IV—Continued.)

His back was turned to the judge, who stirred nervously, but waited a fraction of a second before he spoke.

"If the cross examination is finished"— he began.

John Steele wheeled; his face changed; a smile of singular charm accompanied his answer.

"Your lordship will pardon me; the human mind has its aberrations. At the moment, by a curious psychological turn, a feature of another problem seized me. It was like playing two games of chess at once. Perhaps your honor has experienced the sensation."

His lordship beamed. "Quite so," he observed unctuously.

The business of the morning ran on, and John Steele at length concluded his cross examination. "I think, your lordship, the question of the reliability of this man as a witness in this or—any other case—fully established."

"Any other case?" said his lordship. "We are not trying any other case."

"Witness may go," said his lordship brusquely.

Dandy Joe, a good deal damaged in the world's estimation, stepped down. His erstwhile well curled mustache of brick dust hue seemed to droop as he slunk out of the box. He appeared subdued, almost frightened, quite unlike the jaunty little cockney that had stepped so blithely forth to give his testimony.

The witnesses all heard, John Steele, for the defense, spoke briefly, but his words were well chosen, his sentences of classic purity. As the girl listened it seemed to her not strange that Captain Forsythe, as well as others perhaps, should be drawn hither on occasions when this man appeared. Straight, direct logic characterized the speech from beginning to end. Only once did a suggestion of sentiment—curt pity for that gin besotted thing, the prisoner—obtrude itself; then it passed so quickly his lordship forgot to intervene, and the effect remained, a flash, illuminating, Rembrandt-like.

Time slipped by. The judge looked at his watch, bethought him of a big silver dish filled with amber hued specialty of the Ship and Turtle and adjourned court. His address interrupted by the exigencies of the moment, John Steele began mechanically to gather up his books. He absently separated them again. At the same time Sir Charles and his party walked toward the bench. They were met by his lordship and cordially greeted.

"A privilege, Sir Charles, to meet one we have heard of so often in the antipodes."

"Thank you. His lordship, Judge Beeson, m'dear, whose decisions"—

"Allow me to congratulate you, sir!" The enthusiastic voice was that of Captain Forsythe, addressing John Steele. "Your cross examination was masterly. Had you been in a certain other case years ago when the evidence of that very person on the stand today in the main convicted a man of murder I fancy the result then would have been different."

John Steele seemed not to hear. His eyes were turned toward the beautiful girl. She was standing quite close to him now. He could detect the fragrance of the violets she wore, a fresh sweet smell so welcome in that close, musty atmosphere.

"My niece, your lordship, Miss Wray."

Steele saw her bow and heard her speak to that august court personage. Then as the latter, after further brief talk, hurried away—

"Sir Charles, let me present to you Mr. Steele," said Captain Forsythe. "Lady Wray"—

"Happy to know you, sir," said the governor heartily.

"Miss Jocelyn Wray," added the military man, "who," with a laugh, "experienced some doubts about a visit of this kind being conducive to pleasure!"

John Steele took the small gloved hand she gave him. Her eyes were very bright.

"I enjoyed—I don't mean that—I am so glad I came," said the girl—"and heard you!" she added.

He thanked her in a low tone, looking at her hand as he dropped it. "You—you are making England your home?" His voice was singularly hesitating.

"Yes." She looked at him a little surprised. "At least for the present! But how"— she broke off. "I suppose, though, you could tell my accent. I've lived nearly all my life in Australia, and"—

Sir Charles, interrupting, reminded them of an appointment. The party turned. A slender figure inclined itself very slightly toward John Steele. A voice wished him good morning. The man stood with his hands on his books. It did not occur to him to accompany her to the door. Suddenly he looked over his shoulder. At the threshold she, too, had turned her head. An instant their glances met. The next she was gone.

NOTE OF WARNING SOUNDED IN MAINE

Republicans Expect to Have Hard Fight on Their Hands

Augusta, Me., June 30.—The Republicans of Maine nominated by acclamation Governor Bert M. Fernald of West Poland for a second term in the executive chair of the state. They also renominated Charles P. Hatch of Augusta for another term as state auditor and adopted a platform of principles which included a plank for a direct primary or other caucus law. The governor and state auditor are the only state officials elected by direct vote of the people.

A feature of the convention was the sounding of a warning note by Walter C. Emerson of Portland that a "red-hot, old-fashioned fight may be expected in the coming state campaign" and by Herbert M. Heath of Augusta, who said:

"You are going to have the greatest fight since 1880, when Harris M. Plaisted, father of the Democratic nominee for governor, was elected by the Democrats and Fusionists. You are going to meet a man who is worthy of your steel."

DIPLOMATIC CHANGES

To Be Brought About by Roosevelt's Criticism of Egyptian Affairs

London, June 30.—Ex-President Roosevelt's criticisms of Egyptian affairs are likely to bear fruit, according to The Daily Telegraph, which hears that Eldon Gorst, the British agent at Cairo, will become ambassador at Constantinople, from which city G. A. Lowther will go to St. Petersburg to replace A. Nicholson, who has just been appointed permanent under secretary of the foreign office.

This, says The Telegraph, should open the way for the appointment of Lord Kitchener as British agent at Cairo.

HEAVY SEIZURE OF WINE

Boston Surveyor Claims That Casks Were Not Properly Labelled

Boston, June 30.—A seizure of one case of liquor and 189 casks of wine was made by the customs inspectors yesterday at the White Star line docks under orders of the surveyor, who held that they had not been properly labelled.

Until recently liquors were permitted to be labelled on the wharf. The customs authorities, however, decided to withdraw this permission.

Ruef Is Still Fighting

San Francisco, June 30.—Abraham Ruef has filed an appeal from his conviction and sentence for bribing ex-Supervisor Furey to vote for a trolley franchise for the United Railways. Ruef, who was sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment, is out now on bail.

SENATOR DANIEL DEAD

His Life Ends With an Attack of Cerebral Hemorrhage

Lynchburg, Va., June 30.—John W. Daniel, United States senator from Virginia, died at 10:25 last night, his death being due to a recurrence of paralysis. The immediate cause of his death was cerebral hemorrhage.

Senator Daniel, the senior Democrat of the senate, always entered the senate chamber on crutches. He lost a leg in the Wilderness when serving in the Confederate army. He had been a member of the senate since 1887.

ONE MIDSHIPMAN WAS GOOD SWIMMER

But He Was Unable to Save Lives of Friends and Self

Annapolis, Md., June 30.—The bodies of Midshipmen S. M. Nason and G. E. Thomas and Mrs. Joseph Bowyer, who failed to return to the naval academy after going for a sail, were recovered near the place where the sailboat had been anchored. It is supposed that the party was bathing, Mrs. Bowyer being dressed in a bathing suit and a long cloak.

It is said that Mrs. Bowyer could swim but a few strokes. Nason was a poor swimmer, but Thomas could swim well. So it is presumed that the latter met his end trying to save the other two.

Nason was a native of Newport, R. I., while Thomas' home was at Union Point, Ga. Mrs. Bowyer's husband was Julius Bowyer, a son of the commandant of the academy, who died two years ago.

CHARGED WITH CRUELTY

Railroads Said to Have Allowed Animals to Suffer In Transit

Boston, June 30.—Charging two railroads with cruelty to animals, Assistant United States District Attorney Ferber filed suits against the New York Central Railway company for $3000 and against the Boston and Maine Railway company for $1000 following a complaint received from President Rowley of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The government alleges that in one case the Boston and Maine railroad kept nineteen cars of cattle in continuous transit from Buffalo to Somerville for thirty-nine hours without giving the animals food, drink or rest.

In the New York Central case, the government alleges that in several cases the railway company has carried calves from New York state to Brighton, keeping them in transit longer than the law allows.

EXCURSIONS CANCELLED

But Airship Service Will Be Resumed When Deutschland Is Repaired

Osnabrueck, Ger., June 30.—Count Zeppelin, disappointed but not discouraged, hurried here to superintend the salvage of his latest aerial model, the great airship Deutschland, which came to grief in less experienced hands.

The prospects for the early resumption of the passenger service here are not bright. The airship company announces that the accident will necessitate a suspension for several months of the advertised excursions, but also that it proposes to renew this service at the earliest possible date.

Old Judge Resigns

Worcester, Mass., June 30.—Judge Arthur A. Putnam, for the past thirty-eight years justice of the Second district court in southern Worcester county, sent in his resignation because of ill health.

Many Fail In Naval Exams

Washington, June 30.—Out of 280 candidates who took the mental examination this month for admission to the naval academy only 104 passed.

BURGLARS AT WOLLASTON.

It has been discovered that burglars have entered the residence of ex-Councilman James H. Broughton on Newport avenue. Mr. Broughton is spending the summer at Pemaquid Harbor, Me., and the house has been unoccupied. It was discovered Tuesday that the house had been entered probably the night or day before. Chief Burrell telephoned Mr. Broughton, who came to Quincy this morning. Accompanied by Chief Burrell the house was visited. Although there were evidences of parties having been there it is not thought much if anything of great value was taken. It was found that entrance had been effected by breaking a glass in one of the dining room windows and turning the catch.

STORIES OF THE DIAMOND.

Ira Thomas Tells of Duties of Backstop Position.

STUDY BATTER'S WEAKNESS.

First Class Receivers Invaluable to Pitchers and Infielders—Cool Head and Good Memory Needed if You Want to Succeed.

No. XIII.
By IRA THOMAS.
[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Would I advise any youngster to take up catching in preference to any other position on a ball team? Well, no—not unless the chap himself is wrapped up in the position and finds that he can play there better than any other place. Catching comes natural to some men, and unless a player feels that he is intended by nature to become a backstop he should not tackle the position or he will not rise above the ordinary.

Besides being the hardest worker on the team, his position is the most dangerous on the ball field. In order to be a successful pad and mask artist one must require a cool, clear head and an intimate knowledge of the game. He must know the strength and weakness of every batter; he must possess a good arm and a brain capable of outguessing the other chaps.

The knowledge of the batter's weakness gives the catcher a great advantage, for he can tip off to the pitcher just where and what to throw. He knows how many balls it is safe to waste in lying in wait for a runner to steal before trying for the man at the bat. He can often force the batter to go after bad balls by keeping the pitcher working the ball across the corners or just outside.

IRA THOMAS, STAR CATCHER OF PHILADELPHIA AMERICANS.

Of course this is not always possible, and it is the knowledge that lets him go just far enough that helps distinguish the stars from the mediocre backstops. Having the entire field before him, the catcher is in a position to tip off every play to the infield and generally signals for every defensive play made by his team. If he is really a great backstop he is of material assistance to his pitcher, for when the latter gets wabbly, as is frequently the case, a wise backstop can steady him and frequently pull out of a bad hole.

Youngsters just breaking into the game will do well to make a study of every man that goes to bat. Find out his weak points, study his attitude at the bat, and as every little incident comes up jot it down in your little book for the future.

Many times a catcher has been severely censured because some speedy fellow has stolen a base. To the onlooker the backstop is at fault. There are many times that the catcher is at fault, but now and again it's on the pitcher. It's up to a twirler to keep a base runner close to the base. If the pitcher allows too much of a start the best throw in the world cannot stop him. Catchers make bad throws occasionally, but they would make very few if the base runners were held close to the bases and the throws did not have to be made in a hurry.

Long Motorboat Race Planned.

The Pacific International Motorboat association announces that arrangements are practically completed for the first big race of this kind in the northwest. The boats will race from Seattle, Wash., to Ketchikan, southeastern Alaska, next August, and cups and cash prizes worth $7,000 will be offered. The race will be an annual event, like those between Philadelphia and Havana and New York and Bermuda.

McAleer Hot After Pitchers.

Manager McAleer of the Washington Americans has chased Scout Mike Kahoe into the bushes to dig up at once some promising young pitchers, as the Washington pitching department is showing up weak.

BASE BALL AND SPORTS

Important Game in the Old Colony League

The leaders in the Old Colony league will meet at Quincy on Saturday, and the losers will take a big drop in the summary. It is Quincy vs Lincolns, Deweys at Rockland, and Randolphs at Stoughton.

The Copelands of the Norfolk County League will play a double header in Hyde Park on Saturday. Cannavan and Desmond will alternate in right field and the box.

The High school boys are going to parade. They agreed to have "something funny" so look out.

There are a great number of people looking for horses to ride in the parade. So far there has been a general lack of success in digging them up. Any one who isn't going to use his horse that morning can help out by contributing its services.

The final arrangements of the parade committees will be made Friday night at Union hall.

The Ramblers of Wolaston will play in Wellfleet on the Fourth of July.

The Quincy team in the Old Colony league will play two games on the Fourth of July. In the morning on the Water street grounds with Stoughton, and in the afternon at Rockland.

The Makaria base ball team will make another attempt on Saturday to play the semi- professional Norwells at Norwell. The team and fans will leave Quincy by electris at 1 P. M. for East Weymouth where a four-horse tally-ho will be in waiting to take them over the road to Norwell.

Sixty-five horses are entered for the inter-club meet of the Old Colony and Brockton driving clubs at South Weymouth on the Fourth of July. There will be 17 races, four of which are scheduled as special. In Class A it will be a struggle between Altro L. and Willie John.

From 70 to 100 yachts are expected to participate in the annual cruise of the Boston Yacht club which starts from City Point on Saturday, July 9, at 2 P. M. The itinerary includes Marblehead, Isles of Shoals, Cape Porpoise, Portland, Winnegance bay, Boothbay harbor, and return.

PULLMANS USED IN SUBWAYS

London Underground Surpasses New York In Comfort.

New Yorkers may think their subway is up to date in every detail, but it isn't—that is, compared with London's underground. The latter has introduced the very latest in comfort. It is running on several of its trunk lines Pullman buffet cars.

A commuter who misses his breakfast can get it on the train. Later in the day passengers can have lunch, and after 4 o'clock they may have tea. Soon the Pullmans will be attached to the theater trains, and supper may be had on the way home.

The Pullman company has never been able to extract from Englishmen a fare equal to that familiar to Americans. The Pullman conductors on the trains to Brighton, fifty miles from London, collect only a shilling (25 cents) for the journey. The trains to Folkestone, seventy-nine miles from London, carry Pullmans, and the Pullman fare is only a shilling.

There are no Pullmans on the long distance trains to the north, to Glasgow and Edinburgh, but the railroad companies provide very comfortable sleepers, for which $1.25 is charged in addition to the fare. The passenger is provided with a compartment all to himself. There are no upper berths. The compartment contains a lavatory and an electric reading lamp. They aren't luxuriously upholstered in the well known Pullman form of high art, but their comfort and cleanliness are undeniable.

—The great benefit of life insurance is illustrated by the fact that the life insurance organizations in the United States and Canada distributed $532,500,000 last year of which $25,500,000 were distributed in Massachusets. It is the duty of every man who has others dependent on him, and who is not himself independent, to have his life insured.—Somerville Journal.

—Wherever young people realize the worth of elderly friends and fully appreciate them, there is not much need for worry as to their future. Every young person, to be happy, should have many young friends and companions; but to be successful he should have one close, elderly friend to whom to go for counsel.—The Wellspring.
